QUINCY DAILY LEDGER.

Vol. 16. No. 280. QUINCY, MASS., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1904. PRICE TWO CENTS.

The Glenwood Oak Stove for either Coal or Wood

The Glenwood Oak Stove with triangular revolving grate is acknowledged the most perfect working coal stove ever made. This grate keeps the fire absolutely free from clinkers so that the fire need not be let out the entire winter.

The Mica Covered Openings in the lower feed door show the fire and give a most cheerful and pleasing effect.

The Swing Top may be turned to one side, allowing the large flat top beneath to be used for heating water, or other purposes when desired.

The Wood Grate may be used alone, or resting on the coal grate, which is a great convenience for people using both fuels.

It burns with economy either coal or wood.

H. L. KINCAIDE & CO., QUINCY, MASS.

SAVE COAL.

INSURE AGAINST LOSS OF HEAT.

Have your Heating Boiler covered for protection against loss of heat. Do not burn coal and waste the products of combustion in heating the cellar.

Have your Boiler covered with Magnabestos, contains 40 per cent. Magnesia, 40 per cent. Asbestos, both of which are excellent non conductors of Heat. Will save fuel and keep the cellar cool.

Put on Boiler by experienced man, applied 1 inch thick. Approximate price for Labor and Material, $8.00 to $11.00, to size of boiler.

All kinds of sectional pipe covering for Steam and Water Pipes.

CONTEST IS ON.

For Presidency of the Next City Council.

William G. Gassett a Candidate.

Others May Also Enter Against President Nichols.

A contest for presidency of the next City Council is already reported. Walter F. Nichols of Ward Five has held the position but one year, and is a candidate for reelection, but one rival is already announced, and it is said that now that the ice is broken there may be others.

This week the candidacy of William G. Gassett of Ward Six was launched, and is said to be backed by Mayor Bryant and his friends, who are not hearty supporters of President Nichols.

Mr. Gassett like Mr. Nichols will enter, if elected, his sixth year of service, all the other members having served a less number of years. He is at present chairman of the Street Committee, and a member of the Finance Committee, and has served on most of the important committees of the City Council during his years of service.

COUNCILMAN BASS.

If there is any demand for a change some members think that the presidency should go to some other section of the city, as the predecessor of President Nichols was a Ward Six man, Charles Alden.

Two Ward One men are being urged therefore to enter the field, Lewis Bass, Jr., the chairman of the Finance Committee and George E. Adams, chairman of the Committee on Health, Poor and State and Military Aid.

COUNCILMAN ADAMS.

The chances are excellent for the election of all four of these men as Councilmen, so that the contest will come on securing twelve votes, a majority of the Council, necessary to be elected President.

The desirability for a change is not apparent. The opinion seems to be that President Nichols has been a good presiding officer in every respect, and is entitled to a reelection. He believes in clean politics and a business administration for the city.

THE EASTERN STAR.

Holds a Grand Fair and Serve a Turkey Supper.

The chapter of the Eastern Star held a grand fair in their lodge rooms in the Hotel Greenleaf building on Wednesday evening, which was largely attended.

A hot turkey supper was the great attraction, and the only trouble was that the accommodations were not adequate enough to accommodate the rush. The supply was abundant and well cooked, and included hot turkey and cranberry sauce, cold meats, hot mashed potato, celery, squash, celery salad, potato salad, pies in variety, cheese, rolls, apples, coffee, etc, etc.

It was an excellent place to hold a fair, and the tables were attractive. The following members were in charge.

Useful Table,—Mrs. W. J. Tilley, Mrs. Barnicoat and Mrs. Woodswell.

Fancy Table,—Mrs. E. H. Higgins, Mrs. C. D. White and Miss Helen Thomas.

Dolls Table,—Mrs. H. P. Furnald, Mrs. A. W. Fay, and Miss Elizabeth W. Furnald.

Candy,—Mrs. I. M. Holt and Miss Clara Call.

Grab,—Mrs. G. F. Gouthier.

Handkerchief table,— Mrs. Hoxie and Mrs. E. G. Coutts.

China,—Miss May Webb and Miss Alice Hultman.

Tea,—Miss Alice Deacon and Miss Gertrude Barnicoat.

Turkey Supper,—Mrs. Kribbs, Mrs. Dell, Mrs. J. Craig and Mrs. Spencer.

The chairman of Fair Committee was Mrs. Adelaide McGrath, and she was ably assisted by Mrs. H. P. Furnald, worthy matron of Quincy chapter order of Eastern Star, and others.

Brotherhood Course.

The entertainment in the Brotherhood course on Wednesday evening was a dramatic show with several characters, but only one actor, Mr. Elliott, the impersonator. It was the story of "The American Citizen" who because of heavy defalcation by his partner in New York was forced to accept the provisions of an obnoxious will of an Englishman, his uncle, which required him to marry an English woman, and become an English subject in order to inherit a fortune, which he had spurned.

There were many interesting scenes during the year which followed, and by a court decree he was finally ordered to refund the money, when he was glad to return to New York and become once more "An American Citizen." The story was very cleverly told, requiring about an hour and a half, but was very interesting from beginning to end.

In conclusion Mr. Elliot gave a short story, which also held close attention. It told of the over confidence of a gentleman who waited too long to pop the question, and when he did conclude to marry found someone else had won the prize. Mr. Elliott's face tells half the story, and it was probably the best impersonation ever given in Quincy.

The brotherhood has decided to give an extra entertainment at an early date.

NEW BILLS.

Wanted by Granite Cutters and Manufacturers.

Men Want Increase of Pay.

Manufacturers Ask for a General Revision.

In accordance with the existing agreement between the Granite Manufacturers' Association and Granite Cutters' Union, notice was given this morning by both Associations of changes desired in the bill of prices. The present bill which has been in force for several years expires March 1, 1905.

Under this bill the minimum wage is fixed at 33 cents per hour, or $2.64 per day of eight hours. The Granite Cutters' Union now ask for a minimum wage of 37 1-2 cents per hour, or $3 per day of eight hours. They also ask for a general increase of about ten per cent in the piece work bill. The cutters also renew their request for a clause in the agreement that will limit the number of apprentices to two for each gang of twelve men. Under the present bill there is no limit to the number of apprentices that may be employed.

The notice of the Manufacturers' Association asks for a general revision of the existing bill of prices and does not specify any particular item.

These two notices will be referred to a joint committee composed of nine members of each association, who will consider the matter but their finding must be ratified by both bodies.

As the present bill does not expire until March 1, 1905, it is probable that a peaceful understanding will be reached before that time, and that there will be no suspension of work.

Arrested in Pawn Shop.

A red headed man who gave his name as Brown, and his residence as Quincy, was arrested in Boston Tuesday by officers of Station 4 while pawning a a number of butcher knives. When questioned in court on Wednesday he said he got them of a foreigner on some avenue in Quincy. The man was sent to the reformatory.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Was at Work Out of Town Yesterday—Died in Evening.

Mr. Peter P. Gomez died suddenly at his home at No. 9 Edwards street on Wednesday evening. Mr. Gomez, who is employed out of town as a machine operator, arrived home from work about 5 o'clock. As he was walking home from the depot he was taken sick and grew rapidly worse by the time he reached his home. Dr. Garey was called but Mr. Gomez died in a few minutes. He was 58 years of age and heart disease is given as the cause of his death.

Mr. Gomez was born in Madiera, Portugal, in 1847, and has resided in Quincy 21 years. He has been prominently identified with the Universalist church. He was deeply interested in the church work and a member of the church choir, and had charge of many of the entertainments given at the church during the past few years. He leaves five sons and a daughter. His daughter being Mrs. James Dunn, Jr.

During the Civil war he served in the United States Navy from 1863 to 1870.

He was a member of Maple Lodge, 313, Knights and Ladies of Honor, and Nahanton tribe of Red Men of Braintree.

Funeral services will be held at the Universalist church on Friday at 2 P. M., and will be conducted by Rev. Merrill C. Ward, a former pastor of the church. Maple lodge will attend in a body and will perform its burial service.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

The people of San Francisco have honored themselves, and the memory of William McKinley, by erecting a monument to the beloved President at a cost of $34,000, all collected by popular subscription.

It was seventeen years ago today, December 1, that Quincy voted to petition the Legislature for a City Charter. Only 217 voted in the affirmative, and 101 in the negative. Opinions may differ as to the wisdom of the step but it was almost inevitable. It resulted, however, in increased expenditures, and the burden of taxation is greater.

It is said there will not be so much smoke at City Hall between this date and election. Some officials were surprised to learn that they lowered themselves in the estimation of people by their habitual smoking. As "X. Y. Z." said, smoking should be for leisure hours. Shall we infer that those who smoke all the time have little to do.

Acceptances for the peace conference at the Hague come tumbling into Washington so fast from the nations of the earth, that it begins to look as if a panic had overtaken the old world regarding the possibility of future wars. Perhaps America's preparedness for martial conflicts has something to do with it.

A general inquiry among ship owners reveals the fact that the passage of a free ship law, without any further encouragement to American shipping, will not increase the American merchant marine. The reason is that as soon as the ship owner gets beyond the American tariff wall he comes in competition with all the cheap labor of the world.

Never before has Hotel Greenleaf been more prosperous than at the present time. Mr. and Mrs. Abrams are evidently making a success of it and there are reasons for it. First, they set a good table with variety and abundance; then the house is always orderly and neat, and caters to the best people. Exterior improvements have already been noted. Many of the rooms have recently been repapered and painted and the hallways retinted. The Greenleaf owes much of its success to the fact that it trades with Quincy merchants.

Those arranging for entertainments which are held to make money should not request Daily Ledger reporters to forward advance notice for publication, because they know such readers will not appear without charge. Neither will tickets of admission pay for advance notices, but when the presence of reporters is desired, to write up an affair, tickets should invariably be sent to the editor Daily Ledger. When entertainments are regularly advertised or the printing is done at the Ledger office, complimentary readers will be printed. Often those who go to amateur job printers for work to save a few cents really lose dollars which a newspaper notice would bring in.

"The Duty of the Hour," the No-License paper issued annually by the Citizens No-License League, is out today. As usual there are forcible arguments and figures why Quincy is better off without licenses. The whole first page is devoted to opinions of gentlemen prominent in Quincy affairs—Mayor's and ex-Mayors, and candidates for Mayor, also our Representatives in the Legislature, merchants in the city, and granite manufacturers. Altogether they make a strong argument in favor of a "No" vote on the License question on Tuesday next.

Last year every ward and every precinct of the city gave a large "No" majority, a remarkable record, and the vote of the city was very emphatic: No, 2,734; Yes, 1,170; a majority of 1,564 against License. An encouraging feature last year, with the increased registration, is the fact that nine of the eleven precincts cast a smaller "Yes" vote than the preceding year.

ON A CASH BASIS

Mrs Chadwick Will Settle the Newton Claim In Full

SHE HAS OVER $1,000,000

Her Lawyer Says Many Claims Will Not Be Recognized In Legal Court--Woman on Verge of Nervous Collapse

New York, Dec. 1.—"Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick will settle the claim against her by Herbert B. Newton of Brookline, Mass., for $190,000 upon a cash basis and in full." This statement was made by George Ryall of the firm of Baggott & Ryall, counsel in New York for Newton.

"I have seen Mrs. Chadwick at her apartments at the Holland house," Ryall said, "and as a result of my talk with her I am able to say that the case will be settled in a few days satisfactorily to my client. The settlement will be upon a cash basis and our claim will be paid in full.

"Mrs. Chadwick has many powerful friends both in this city and in Cleveland who are interested in her case and our case will be settled out of court amicably. Of course I am interested only in the settlement of Mr. Newton's claims and I know nothing about any other claims against her. The hearing against her, set down for trial in Cleveland for today, will be adjourned by request, pending the arrangements now progressing here for settlement. I expect within the next 24 hours to have the terms of the settlement arranged so as to make a definite statement on the matter.

"Mrs. Chadwick is indignant at the published stories connecting her with another woman," continued Ryall, "and when the case has been settled she is very liable to bring suit against some people. She also denies the stories to the effect that several banks are involved in her case."

Mr. Ryall declined to discuss the alleged Carnegie endorsement of one of Mrs. Chadwick's notes, saying: "What is the use of talking of that now as the case is to be settled."

Edward W. Powers, of counsel for Mrs. Chadwick, said that many of the claims against Mrs. Chadwick will never be recognized in a legal court. "Just how many claims there are I do not know," said Powers.

"Will the claims aggregate $1,000,000?" was asked.

Mr. Powers paused for a considerable time before replying and then said: "Well, approximately, you can put it at that sum. For all I know there may be claims for $20,000,000 against her, but all legal claims will be met, as she is an honest woman."

"Has she enough money to meet the claims of $1,000,000?"

"Yes, more than enough," was the reply.

"How about the intimation that some people are trying to blackmail Mrs. Chadwick?" was asked.

"As far as I know, there is nothing in the blackmailing line, but there are some people who are presenting claims against Mrs. Chadwick who have no legal right to do so."

Mrs. Chadwick is seriously ill at the Holland house. Two maids and a nurse are in constant attendance and a physician is always within call. While the greatest secrecy is maintained at the hotel and her presence there is not admitted, it is said that Mrs. Chadwick is on the verge of a nervous breakdown as a result of the publicity which has followed the suit brought by Newton.

Signature on Paper Worthless

Oberlin, O., Dec. 1.—At a meeting of the directors of the failed Citizens' bank Director Randolph made the startling statement that the signature on the collateral notes for $500,000 and $250,000 on which Mrs. Chadwick was loaned money is not worth a dollar. He said he had seen the notes and they are not signed by Andrew Carnegie; that such a story is ridiculous. In his opinion, Randolph says, the signature does not add a dollar to the value of the paper.

Believe In Mrs Chadwick

Cleveland, Dec. 1.—While there are no sensational developments here in connection with the Chadwick case, the matter continues to be the all-absorbing topic of discussion. There are many bankers and business men in this city having had extensive dealings with Mrs. Chadwick, who express the belief that she will make good all the claims against her. It develops that Mrs. Chadwick has been most liberal in her gifts to charitable institutions, many of them having received large sums from her.

Newton Goes to New York

Boston, Dec. 1.—Henry D. Newton and his counsel, Percy W. Carver, left for New York last evening. It was given out that they had been summoned to a conference of counsels in New York at which it was hoped to adjust Newton's claims against Mrs. Chadwick.

Bulgaria to Buy War Material

THE TECH RIOT

Police at a Loss to Account For Injuries to Students

Boston, Dec. 1.—When, after a week's postponement by request of Lawyer Hill, the hearing on the Tech riot was reopened, nearly all the officers examined testified that they not only did not strike a student with their clubs, but did not even see a student struck. They were at a loss to account for the injuries of students.

A number of officers who were present at and engaged in the trouble gave their testimony. Among them was Sergeant Fitzgerald, whom several students identified as having been the officer that repeatedly clubbed students and rapped their knuckles with his club as they passed him in their flight down the steps.

Sergeant Fitzgerald brought with him the helmet which he claims is the one worn by him the night of the riot. The crown was pierced through and the visor torn off. He testified that he was roughly handled by the students. He was struck repeatedly with torches, and had difficulty in protecting himself.

He said: "I grabbed one of the students who struck me by the suspenders, and shoved my head close in onto his breast, so if the students struck at my head they would hit him and desist."

Admiral Davis' Commission

Washington, Dec. 1.—Rear Admiral Davis is to be offered the Dogger Bank commissionership. He completed 43 years' service in the navy two days ago, having been appointed to the naval academy from Massachusetts in 1861. For a number of years he was superintendent of the naval observatory at Washington. Admiral Davis speaks French fluently and this, with his knowledge of international and maritime law, commended him to Secretary Morton, on whose recommendation the selection was made. He is a brother-in-law of Senator Lodge.

Preusser's Sanity Established

Albany, Dec. 1.—That Richard E. Preusser of this city was sane when he killed Myles B. McDonnell of Boston was the declaration made by the special commission appointed to inquire into his sanity. Should Judge Gregory approve the report, Preusser must stand trial for murder in the first degree. The killing of McDonnell by Preusser has never been denied, but the plea of insanity was made immediately upon his indictment.

Long List of Hunting Casualties

Milwaukee, Dec. 1.—Sixteen deer hunters in Wisconsin and upper Michigan have met death and seven others have been wounded during the deer hunting sason, which ended last night. Even this list is exceeded by the list of dead and wounded due to accidents to hunters of small game, 26 having met death since Sept. 1, and 12 have been wounded.

Taft Has Panama Proposition

Panama, Dec. 1.—Secretary of War Taft, who is here for the purpose of effecting a settlement of the differences between Panama and the canal commission, has received the Panama proposition in writing. The negotiations are being conducted in secret, and no details as to their nature will be made public until an agreement is reached.

Vassals Must Furnish Dowry

Berlin, Dec. 1.—In accordance with ancient feudal usage requiring vassals to raise a dowry in occasion of marriages in the families of their rulers, the diet of Mecklenburg-Schwerein has voted to impose a tax of $17,500 for the marriage portion of the Duchess Cecelie, who is betrothed to the Crown Prince Frederick William.

Claims Against Sully Allowed

New York, Dec. 1.—The creditors of the D. J. Sully company, as well as the bankrupts, have withdrawn all objection to the claims filed against the company, and the creditors have agreed to accept a 25 percent dividend on the $3,000,000 of assets now in the hands of the receiver.

Mexicans Starving to Death

Mazatlan, Mex., Dec. 1.—Fearful conditions exist in the northern part of this state, where the number of deaths ranges from 25 to 40 percent a day, owing to starvation and malaria. In many instances the dead are not given burial, it is said, but are thrown into open ditches and canals. The authorities cannot cope with the situation.

Mrs. B. Murphy of Summer street has been seriously ill the past few days and this morning was removed to the City Hospital.

John L. Miller has resigned as president of the Granite Manufacturers' Association. The resignation, however, has not as yet been accepted by the association and probably will not be.

The postmaster of Atlantic has an eye "sharper than a serpent's tooth" and is a valuable servant of the U. S. government. A young woman purchased a few stamps in great haste one morning this week and in exchange for them laid out the change in pennies. In an instant the wily postmaster had dived in clean to the bottom of the pile and extracted one cent with a wee hole in the corner. Verily of such men are Sherlock Holmes heroes made.

—Italian journalists are scoffing at a catalogue prepared by the government. This catalogue was to contain specifications of the valuable art objects that it will not be permissible to sell to foreigners without the government's consent. The printed list gives, however, only 140 such art treasurers for all Italy!

Breach of Honor System

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 1.—A freshman has been expelled from Princeton university for violating the "honor system." At an examination he attempted to secure outside aid, which was noticed and reported to the student tribunal. Investigation was made in the undergraduate court and a request for his immediate expulsion was submitted to the faculty.

May Strain Relations

Vienna, Dec. 1.—German Home Secretary Wehner, having failed in the negotiation of an Austro-German commercial treaty, has left Vienna for Berlin. Not a single representative of Austria-Hungary bade him farewell. The situation arising out of the collapse of these negotiations is considered grave.

TRAIL OF A TRAMP

Town Fathers of Leicester Ask Police to Follow It Up

IDENTIFICATION OF RILEY

Three Men Pick Out Suspect From Line of Sixteen Men In Jail and Show That He Was In Leicester on Day of Crime

Leicester, Mass., Dec. 1.—Much sympathy is manifested here for Ovid Chapdelaine, the boy under arrest at Worcester, charged with the murder of Mrs. Emma R. Brigham. The selectmen believe that the state police should follow up the case of John Riley, the tramp who was detained at Boston on a charge of drunkenness, and subsequently identified as the man seen in the vicinity of the Brigham home on the afternoon of the murder.

Last night the selectmen addressed the following signed communication to the state police:

"The selectmen do not want to criticise or appear as advisors to men who have made the hunting of criminals their business. We agree with Chief Shaw that his statement printed in a Boston evening paper that if Chapdelaine did not commit the crime he knows who did, having been so near the scene. Still we are bound to ask and formally request that the clue of the man seen going south across the brook from the scene of the crime by Francis Musgrove and Harry Daw at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon be cleared up, if possible, with as much diligence as has been shown in the work done Tuesday. If this can be done, we feel that it would be a great relief to our friends and citizens of the town, and place the doing of the crime about where it belongs."

RILEY IDENTIFIED

Typical Tramp Was In Leicester on Day of the Murder

Boston, Dec. 1.—John Riley, the tramp, who was arrested at Brighton on suspicion in connection with the murder of Mrs. Brigham, has been positively identified by three persons as the man who had been seen in Leicester last Friday, the day upon which Mrs. Brigham was killed. The identification was made yesterday afternoon at the Charles street jail, to which Riley had been committed until a continued hearing of his case on the charge of drunkenness.

Those to visit the jail were George E. Marsh and Amos A. Gould, who declared that Riley is the man who entered the town clerk's office at Leicester and asked for money, and Albert W. Lombard, a bookkeeper in a Leicester mill, who asserts that Riley entered the building and begged for assistance. The three men went to the jail in company with Captain Proctor of the state police and all agreed that Riley was the man they had seen, picking him out of 16 men who were placed in line before the visitors. Riley, in a conversation with Gould, admitted that he had been in a town six miles from Worcester on the day Mrs. Brigham was killed. Leicester is that distance from Worcester.

The state police say that they have clearly established that Riley was a tramp who had been in Leicester on the day of the murder, but they do not attach any importance to this in connection with the murder itself, feeling quite certain that Riley knows nothing of the homicide.

Riley is 5 feet 8½ inches in height, weighs 193 pounds and is 45 years of age. He has dark hair and a black moustache. When arrested he had a three weeks' growth of beard. The police term him a typical tramp.

Shaw's Scant Comment

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 1.—Chief Shaw of the state police was notified at his home of the action of the Leicester selectmen. His only comment was to the effect that he was not interested in what the Leicester selectmen had to say further than to wonder what they knew about the work the state police have done in the case.

Crews Barely Escaped

St. Johns, Dec. 1.—Schooner Alma Cook, with a crew of seven men, was wrecked on Cape St. Marys. The crew escaped after being all night afloat in an open boat, which several times was almost swamped. The vessel is a total loss. The schooner Cardigan also was completely wrecked on Sacred Island. Her crew of three were destitute until they were rescued.

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE.

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is donig wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality; causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff hair must grow luxurjantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

POSTOFFICE BURGLARIES

Federal Officers at Boston Think They Have Two Culprits

Boston, Dec. 1.—Many postoffice robberies in New England are charged to James M. Blake, 28 years old, and William Gordon, 26, who were taken into custody by the federal authorities. Government detectives will try to prove that the arrested men are responsible also for postoffice burglaries in four other states.

The arrest of the men was brought about through an alleged selling by them of postage stamps which were taken from the postoffice at East Hollliston. It is alleged that these stamps were sold to a pawnbroker, with whom arrangements had been made for the disposal of many more. Postoffice robberies have recently occurred in seven towns in this state. The defendants were arraigned before Commissioner Fiske, and after they pleaded not guilty their cases were continued until Dec. 7, bail being fixed at $2000.

Temporary Release From Asylum

Boston, Dec. 1.—Mrs. Dagmar Baagoe, wife of a chemist of New York, who has been confined in a Worcester insane asylum at the alleged instigation of her husband, was given into the temporary custody of her mother and sister by Judge Braley after a hearing in the supreme court. A further hearing will be held to give Baagoe an opportunity to be heard. The woman's mother and sister alleged that Mrs. Baagoe is not, in fact, insane.

Could Not Check Flames

Great Barrington, Mass., Dec. 1.—A large barn and three outbuildings on the farm of F. F. Pearson were destroyed by fire last night and over 100 tons of hay and a large quantity of farming tools were burned. As in the case of the fire of Tuesday night, which destroyed the Hotel Barrington, the flames raged unchecked through the lack of local facilities for extinguishing them. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Politician In Hot Water

Boston, Dec. 1.—According to members of the board of election commissioners Marion W. Addison, Democratic-Citizen candidate for the board of aldermen, filed nomination papers containing "hundreds of signatures fraudulently and illegally signed," to quote the words of the commission. The commissioners will present their evidence to the district attorney and ask the latter to proceed against Addison.

Odd Case of Electrocution

Brockton, Mass., Dec. 1.—With one hand on his desk telephone, Harry B. Masters attempted with the other hand to turn on a common incandescent light over his head in his office last night and was instantly killed by electrocution. His clerk, Carl Herrill, was severely burned in dragging him away from the telephone. Masters was the southeastern Massachusetts agent for the Standard Oil company.

Prosperous Sardine Season

Eastport, Me., Dec. 1.—The Maine sardine season, which closed today by state law, was one of the most successful in many years, the total trade being about 1,500,000 cases. The best previous record was 1,400,000 cases. When the season opened in the spring the market was comparatively bare, so that this season's output went directly to the trade.

Grand Trunk's Ocean Terminal

Portland, Me., Dec. 1.—The winter season for the foreign steamships at the Grand Trunk railway docks begins today. There will be four lines, including a weekly service to Liverpool and to London, also a semi-monthly service to Glasgow and to Bristol. The outlook is for a far better season than was expected a few weeks ago.

Failed For $600,000

Boston, Dec. 1.—Benjamin F. Copeland, manager of the Boston offices of Jacob Berry & Co., bankers and brokers, who assigned last week, states that the liabilities are $600,000. The assets amount to $360,000. The firm had offices in a dozen American and Canadian cities.

Posse After Supposed Thieves

Fort Fairfield, Me., Dec. 1.—The store of D. S. Edwards was entered last night while the owner was at supper and $600 was taken. A posse was organized and started in pursuit of two strangers who were seen in town shortly before the robbery.

Unhappy Boy a Suicide

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 1.—Henry Labonte, 14 years old, of Holyoke, committed suicide by hanging in his room in the Hampden county truant school. It is said he was despondent because of the death of a brother.

Thought Acid Was a Gargle

Wallingford, Conn., Dec. 1.—Lulu Barry, 15 years old, died last night a few hours after taking a dose of carbolic acid, thinking it was a solution for a throat gargle.

Money For Sanitation

Havana, Dec. 1.—At a meeting of the cabinet last evening it was decided to set aside a credit of $10,000 for the erection of a hospital for infectious diseases at Santiago and also to draw temporarily upon other government funds for the disinfection of mines and for street cleaning at places where it is considered to be urgent.

Horses Brought High Bids

New York, Dec. 1.—During the Old Glory sale of horses which closed last night at Madison Square garden, 987 head were sold for $447,775. The only previous sale at which the total exceeded this amount was that of 1901, when 920 horses brought $499,355.

Fuel and Forage May Run Short

Mukden, Dec. 1.—Quiet generally prevails along the front. The most important problem now is the supply of fuel and forage, but a commission which has been formed is taking energetic steps to keep up the supply of both these necessaries.

Russians Sunk Own Gunboat

London, Dec. 1.—The Morning Post's correspondent at Shanghai telegraphs: A Russian torpedo boat destroyer, returning to Vladivostok from a scouting expedition, was sunk by the guns of the Russian forts in error.

More Worry For Russia

St. Petersburg, Dec. 1.—The statement that Russia is concentrating troops on the Afghan frontier is denied. Nevertheless, it is undoubtedly true that Russia is watching with some misgivings the British plans for the reorganization and increase of the Indian army as well as the dispatch of a deputation to Persia. Coming on the heels of the Thibetan expedition, these moves naturally create the suspicion that Great Britain is taking advantage of Russia's preoccupation in the far east to strengthen her position on the Indian frontier of Persia.

The Automobile Murder

Chicago, Dec. 1.—The coroner's inquest over the body of John W. Bate, the chauffeur who was murdered in his automobile two weeks ago, was held at Lemont and resulted simply in a verdict that Bate had been killed "by some person unknown." It was proven that no other person was seen in the automobile except Bate and his passenger, "Mr. Dove," and the conclusion was that the murder was the outcome of a quarrel over a question of fare.

Turns on Her Accusers

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Charged with wrongfully obtaining $550,000 of the estate of Jonathan Clark, Miss Caroline Patterson has filed a petition asking that her accusers, G. T. Clark and E. F. Bayley, executors named in the Clark will, be forced to pay her $6500 to be used in her defense. Miss Patterson claims she is entitled to $1500 a year as executor, but thus far has received nothing, while the other executors have each been paid $5000.

Nissen May Have Perished

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Peter Nissen is believed to have either smothered or frozen to death in his rolling balloon, "Fool Killer," in which he started for a trip across the lake on Tuesday. His only supply of air was that pumped into the "Fool Killer" before the craft was launched. Even if Nissen reached shore he would suffer severely from the cold, as there was a snowstorm blowing near the Michigan shore.

Premier to Have Special Guard

Budapest, Dec. 1.—In anticipation of trouble on the reopening of parliament on Dec. 9, Premier Tisza will appoint a parliamentary guard of 40 exceptionally stalwart men, recruited from various parts of the country gendarmerie, who will be brought here and placed at the disposition of the president of the chamber of deputies. The members of the opposition are highly incensed at these tactics.

C. Webster Newcomb of East Howard street is having his house reshingled.

Several from Quincy will attend the Home Market banquet in Boston this evening.

Mrs. Grant of Dorchester was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Capt. Smith, of Cleverly court, on Tuesday.

Friday, Nov. 11, was the lucky day to trade at the store of George W. Jones, and $67.36 will be refunded to cash purchasers on that date.

After a very pleasant visit with relatives and friends in Wollaston and vicinity, Mrs. C. Nelson Smith and little daughter left today for their home in New Rochelle, N. Y.

The old power plant of the street railway is being dismantled and the machinery distributed to the several stations of the company in Gloucester, Taunton and elsewhere.

It is understood that the Granite Manufacturers' Association is to give up its rooms in the Durgin & Merrill block and will lease the room in the Adams building recently occupied by the district court.

All Day Meeting.

An all day meeting of the Ladies' Alliance was held in the Unitarian vestry, Wollaston, Wednesday, Nov. 30.

Sewing for the coming fair was the program for the forenoon, and at 12.30 a box lunch with coffee was served. At three o'clock in the afternoon, Rev. Geo. F. Pratt of the Dix Street church, Dorchester, gave a very earnest and interesting talk upon "The new social ideal and the church."

Tea was served by Mrs. Edmund Taylor and Mrs. Lucy Arnold. The ladies were very happy to have Rev. Mr. Pratt with them again.

Ward for Six Thompson.

The residents of Ward Six will give a reception tomorrow evening to Hon. James Thompson, the Republican candidate for Mayor. There will be no speaking, but an informal gathering, where voters may become acquainted with Mr. Thompson. Although the ward gave a majority for Mr. McAnarney at the Republican caucus, it is said it will do the handsome thing for Mr. Thompson on election day.

In Quincy Tomorrow.

Miss Haley's story was simply told and although her argument at times was illuminated with many flashes of wit that brought smiles to the faces of her auditors, her talk in the main was earnest and forceful and so interesting that the full hour she occupied slipped away as if but fifteen minutes had passed.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

NAILS AND SPIKES.

A. B. C. Believes the Voters Should Get After City Council.

Editors Daily Ledger:

I was much interested in the clear and forcible way, and pert rendering, "Shall We Wait," of "X. Y. Z." who has hit a nail on the head—but there are more than one nail.

I have time and again seen typical cases like what he describes, under the head "Public Works." Again, how can Assessors gain knowledge as to the value of houses which from the street view, (taken from a glance as they ride through) tell of changes that may have taken place during the year, improvements added, etc. On the other hand, as they ride along, see that some one has put another door in the house and a partition through the center—same house, but not the same taxes.

Now we come to the finis of X. Y. Z.'s letter, "Burden of Taxation." He has struck home and heart, for many there are in Quincy, who have a small home and are striving with might and main to keep it from being eaten up by taxes.

Here is another nail and so important, that it could be used as a spike "The City Council." The hue and cry has always been, "The Mayor!" The Mayor is to blame. I say no! The City Council introduces and votes away the city's money. They are the ones to get after.

The Mayor's veto sometimes does not "cut any ice." Call a halt on the promiscuous expenditures of the taxpayers money, through the City Council, and then will our outstanding debts be paid, and our legitimate expenses provided for.

PETITION FILED.

For a Ship Canal from Fall River to Qnincy.

There will be filed with the secretary of the commonwealth of Massachusetts today a petition to the legislature for a charter for the Fore River and Fall River canal building right.

This petition has been circulated by Representative-Elect Portus B. Hancock and has been signed by men whose property interests aggregate many millions of dollars. Among the signers are the mayors of Brockton, Taunton and Fall River and many representative citizens.

The canal project is not new and the route which it is proposed for the company to follow is that surveyed for that purpose in 1902. The cost of making the survey was $10,441.74. The estimated cost of the canal was $57,618,358.

A copy of the petition and the signers appears in this issue.

Presentation.

Chester A. Goldsmith, a popular young clerk at the street railway power plant at Quincy Point, severed his connection with the company Wednesday, afer two years of faithful service. During his comparatively short stay he won the esteem of all with whom he came in contact.

At the close of working hours a delegation of the employes visited Mr. Goldsmith's office and Inspector J. O. Tyler, in a few chosen words in behalf of his associates presented him with a valuable dress suit case, containing a complete toilet and manicure set.

"Chet" was too much overcome to respond for a few moments, but finally "came to," and expressed his appreciation of their friendshp.

Mr. Goldsmith is to enter partnership with his father in the periodical business at Salem, and carries with him the best wishes of his host of Quincy friends.

The position vacated by him will be filled by L. F. Loring of Wollaston,

A Card.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

VETERAN SURPRISED

Receives a Well Filled Purse and a Gold Watch.

A number of the members of the G. A. R. Post 88 completely surprised their comrade, Past Commander A. W. Gardner, at his home 1538 Hancock street, Wednesday evening, to celebrate his 60th birthday.

Cards were enjoyed the early part of the evening. At nine-thirty all repaired to the dining room where clam chowder, coffee, cake, fruit, etc., were served.

Past Commander Francis P. Loud, in behalf of the comrades present, in a few very happy remarks, presented Mr. Gardner with an envelope containing a sum of money. Mr. Gardner, although completely surprised, responded with thanks.

After the collation a social time was enjoyed in singing of the old war songs. Before the impromptu call of his comrades, Mrs. Gardner had presented her husband with a handsome gold watch and chain. He was also kindly remembered by neighbors and friends.

At eleven o'clock the party broke up, wishing Mr. Gardner many happy returns of the day.

BOARD SELECTED.

Which Will Arbitrate on the Granite Trouble.

The differences between the firm of Thomas & Miller and the granite cutters employed by the firm, which at one time threatened to result in a general lockout of all the granite cutters in the city, is to be settled by arbitration.

A board of arbitration has been selected which will meet Friday evening, at which both interested parties will present their case.

Under the articles of agreement between the Manufacturers' Association and Cutters Union the board of arbitration has twenty-one days in which to make its ruling, which is final.

Two Ward Rallies.

Rallies and smoke talks were plentiful in Quincy Wednesday night. One was held at Keating's hall in the interest of Peter Hynes and James Fihely, who are reported to have joined forces. There was singing and fancy dancing and some attempt at oratory. Refreshments were served. Candidate Fallon was present a part of the evening.

A labor rally in the interest of Candidate Fallon was held in Malnati hall, the speakers being Mr. Fallon and labor agitators from out of town.

☞Remember the prize speaking contest by the boys in Faxon hall, December 5. First and second prizes, will be ten and five dollar gold pieces. Third prize, a beautiful, combination pocket knife. Soprano and violin solos. A good time is expected.

DOUBT IS REMOVED

Russia Will Be Represented at the Hague Conference

REPLY TO OUR INVITATION

Heartily Accepts Its Principle, but Withholds Formal Acceptance Until War Is Ended--Washington Is Well Pleased

Washington, Dec. 1.—Russia is unwilling to join the powers in a second peace conference at The Hague until her war with Japan is ended.

The Russian reply to Secretary Hay's circular note to the powers, inviting them, in the name of the president, to re-assemble in conference at The Hague "to complete the postponed work of the first conference," was delivered verbally to Secretary Hay by Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador. The ambassador was requested by his government to say that Russia heartily accepted in principle the invitation to a second conference at The Hague and gladly associated herself with the American government in its effort to complete the mission of the first great assembly convened under the leadership of the Russian emperor, but that, while the Russian government very sincerely cherished these views, it did not consider the moment opportune for the convening of such a conference, and it therefore must withhold its formal acceptance of the invitation until the war in the far east was at an end.

Secretary Hay and Count Cassini were in conference for nearly an hour. Secretary Hay thanked the ambassador for the cordiality with which the declaration of Russia's adherence in principle to the proposition had been conveyed to the American government, and assured him he would forthwith transmit the reply to the president.

Although different in form, the Russian reply does not differ in effect from that of Great Britain, France and the other European powers, practically all of which already have answered the invitation. While Russia is the first power specifically to suggest a postponement until the close of the war, all the powers, in expressing their approval of the proposition, reserved for future pour parlers the time when the conference should be held.

It can be stated that this government is well pleased with the reception its note has received. The powers signatory to The Hague convention have been officially committed to a second conference at some future time. In his note, Secretary Hay purposely omitted suggesting a date for the assembling of the conference, realizing that certain powers might hesitate to take up for final definition such complicated questions as the rights of neutrals at a time when a great war was in progress. So far as the Russian government is concerned, it is stated that it is naturally averse to discussion of the many important questions which come before the conference at a time when its attention is devoted to a foreign war.

In diplomatic circles the news of Russia's conditional reply caused some surprise. The caution which characterized even the consideration of the invitation at St. Petersburg made several ambassadors here doubtful about the favorable reception of the American note. This doubt has been removed, however, by the friendly terms in which the reply was couched.

For the present it is probable that the American government will rest on its oars. When the far eastern war enters on its final stage this government will be prepared to follow up its invitation. In the meantime, should Russia's attitude change, she will find the American government ready to lead the powers immediately to The Hague for their second conference.

Consolation Prize For Cockrell

Washington Dec. 1.—When it became evident that the election in Missouri would result in the retirement from the senate of Mr. Cockrell, the president let it be understood that he would offer to him a high federal appointment. At a conference yesterday afternoon the president informed Cockrell that he would appoint him as a member either of the isthmian canal commission or of the interstate commerce commission, as the senator might elect. Senator Cockrell has the matter under consideration.

Leaves Army "Without Honor"

Washington, Dec. 1.—Acting Secretary of War Oliver has directed the discharge, "without honor," of Private John T. Smith, hospital corps, stationed at Fort Mott, N. J., who is said to have married a negress "of bad character, whose previous marriage has not been terminated by the death of her husband or by any form of legal separation."

Iron Beam Dropped Into Crowd

New York, Dec. 1.—One man was killed and several were injured by an iron beam which fell from the roof of the Park building into the midst of a throng of people passing through Nassau street. The foreman in charge of the iron work on the building and the foreman of masonry were arrested.

Ibsen's End Probably Near

Copenhagen, Dec. 1.—The illness of Henrik Ibsen has assumed the form of a dangerous paralysis, and he is unable to speak, read or write.

COMMAND THE HARBOR

Tokio Reports Successes of Japanese at Port Arthur

London, Nov. 30.—According to a Tokio dispatch to The Standard, there is an unofficial rumor that the Japanese hauled large calibre guns to the top of 203 metre hill, from where their fire has a sweep of the whole harbor. This report doubtless goes beyond the facts, but various dispatches indicate the progress the Japanese are making in the reduction of Port Arthur.

Japanese here explain the great importance of the capture of 203 metre hill, which, besides giving command of the harbor, will serve as a wide breach made by the wedge the Japanese had previously driven in between the Etse group and the Russians' last retreat in the ravines of Laotie mountain. They declare that retreat to Laotie will be effectually cut off, and that it is not unlikely that Laotie will be simultaneously attacked in the final assault.

Japs Lost Many Men

Mukden, Nov. 30.—The activity of the Japanese against General Rennenkampff's front continued Nov. 28, culminating before noon in one of the severest fights in recent weeks. The Japanese retired only about 600 yards, but after the fight the Russians collected 230 Japanese corpses. The Russians also captured a large quantity of rifles, entrenching tools and Red Cross stores. Night sorties continue.

St Petersburg Is Worried

St. Petersburg, Nov. 30.—Foreign reports of the fighting at Port Arthur are accepted here very seriously. If the Japanese have taken 203 metre hill, as reported, and are commanding the whole harbor, it is believed that the situation is critical.

Students' Riot In Paris

Paris, Nov. 30.—There was a violent student demonstration yesterday in connection with the alleged insults to the memory of Joan of Arc, made recently at the Lycee Condocet by a professor of history. A crowd of 300 students made bonfires of copies of Socialist newspapers, engaged in a demonstration before the Louvre and charged a detachment of police. A lively scuffle followed, during which a dozen arrests were made.

Struggling With Union Question

Pittsburg, Nov. 30.—The members of the committees appointed by the churches of this country which hold the Presbyterian faith are here to consider the question of the union of the several branches. Two plans have been suggested for such a union—one calling for a federation of the churches, and another providing for organized union. The committee will be in session several days.

Pope of Conciliatory Disposition

Rome, Nov. 30.—There is much comment here upon the fact that Mgr. Maffi, archbishop of Pisa, who was received last week by King Victor Emmanuel, has been called to Rome and had a long conference with Pope Pius X. This incident is regarded as another indication of the adoption by the pope of a policy of conciliation between church and state.

"Plugging" Is Not Forgery

Denver, Dec. 1.—On the ground that the law does not make the alteration of figures on a railroad ticket a crime, Judge Mullins took from the jury the case of A. L. Hatch and F. E. Sissons, on trial for the alleged forging of railroad tickets, and set the defendants at liberty. The defendants had changed and plugged numbers and dates in tickets, but did not forge signatures.

Prepared For Emergencies

Buenos Ayres, Dec. 1.—In view of the fact that a general strike is about to be inaugurated, President Quinta had long conferences with his advisors. An official statement was given out that the police are fully prepared to prevent any interruption of necessary public services and to protect purveyors of foodstuffs and those who are willing to work.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Friday, Dec. 2.
Sun rises—6:55; sets—4:12.
Moon rises—1:26 a. m.
High water—7:30 a. m.; 8 p. m.

The weather will be fair and colder in New England.

NEWS IN BRIEF

POLICE CHIEF'S OPINION

Thinks Chapdelaine Knows Who Killed Mrs Brigham

Leicester, Mass., Dec. 2.—Although continuing their efforts with unabated energy, the state and local police were unable to unearth a single new clew yesterday in connection with the murder of Mrs. Emma R. Brigham.

Ovide Chapdelaine, the boy suspected of having committed the crime, is still in jail awaiting a hearing, but his friends are leaving no stone unturned to prove his innocence. In this connection Chief Shaw of the state police said last night: "God knows I do not want to prove the lad guilty if he is not guilty. As the case stands now, however, I am content that if he did not commit the murder he knows who did."

Robbers In Minnesota Bank

Duluth, Minn., Dec. 2.—President Goetz of the state bank at Barnum, who lived but a short distance from the bank building, was aroused by the sound of a muffled explosion. Going to the bank he found a man on guard outside the building, while two others were at work on the safe. He gave an alarm and, with a crowd of villagers, surrounded the bank, from which, however, the robbers succeeded in escaping. Sheriff McKennon and a posse are in pursuit of the robbers.

Victim of the "Fool Killer"

Stevensville, Mich., Dec. 2.—Peter Nissen, who started across Lake Michigan in his balloon boat called the "Fool Killer No. 3," was found dead on the beach 2½ miles west of here. His boat lay about 20 rods down the beach and was considerably damaged. Nissen's hands and face were frozen and the features reflect his suffering. Nissen evidently had not been dead long when the body was found, as rigor mortis had not set in.

Court Decides Against Closed Shop

New York, Dec. 2.—That the "closed shop" is illegal was decided by the justices of the appellate division of the supreme court, sitting in Brooklyn. A contract entered into between the firm of Morris Cohn & Sons and a local union of the United Garment Workers of America, whereby the firm was prohibited from employing labor not belonging to the local, was declared by the court to be contrary to public policy.

Strenuous Times For Premier

Budapest, Dec. 2.—Premier Tisza met with a hostile reception on the part of the supporters of the opposition while attending a meeting of Liberal electors at Gyoer. Sympathizers with the minister's opponents thronged about his carriage, jeered, hooted and threw rocks at him. They were eventually dispersed by the police. Tisza's supporters then rallied around him and the premier received an ovation.

Fushimi Welcomed to Gotham

New York, Dec. 2.—Prince Fushimi of Japan was the guest of honor at a meeting of the New York Chamber of Commerce and was formally welcomed to the city by the president of the chamber in a brief address. The prince expressed his pleasure at the reception accorded him and was then presented with the Chamber of Commerce medal.

Democrats Charge Fraud

Denver, Dec. 2.—Judge Mullins has issued an order summoning a grand jury to investigate alleged election frauds in this county. Democratic leaders charge that money was wrongfully used by corporations to elect certain candidates at the recent election and that voters were coerced by their employes.

Hat Found Frozen In Ice

Winchendon, Mass., Dec. 2.—Ivers Johnson, 24, has been missing since Sunday afternoon. His hat was found frozen into the ice of the mill pond last evening, and indications are that the ice had been broken near the spot and had frozen over again. He is believed to have met death by drowning.

Killed by Unknown Assassin

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 2.—John Plummer, a prominent and influential farmer, was sitting on the front porch of his residence, playing a violin, when the crack of a gun was heard and Plummer fell to the floor dead. There is no clue to the murderer.

Fencing Tournament at Hartford

Hartford, Dec. 2.—The first international fencing tournament ever held in Connecticut took place here last night and some of the best fencers of this and other countries participated. The tournament was won by Lieutenant DeZoldy of New York.

National Bank Circulation

Washington, Dec. 2.—The monthly statement of national bank circulation shows that at the close of business Nov. 30, 1904, the total circulation was $460,679,075, an increase for the year of $39,572,096, and for the month of $3,397,575.

To Bring Civil Code Up to Date

Paris, Dec. 2.—Minister of Justice Valle has appointed a commission to revise the civil code. This will be the first comprehensive revision of the code since Napoleon promulgated it in 1804.

Train Struck Hurry Up Wagon

Chicago, Dec. 2.—The patrol wagon of the stockyards police station was run down last night by a train. Three men were injured and one of them, Louis Reinhardt, the driver, will probably die.

Not Far Away.

Clara Miller, the Swedish domestic who was reported as missing, has been found. The girl disappeared Nov. 19, and as nothing had been heard from her, and no trace of her could be found, it was feared that something had happened to her. It appears, however, that the worry of her friends was unnecessary.

The girl has been employed since she left Mrs. Nelson's with a family at Quincy Neck. Why she had not communicated with her friends is not known. The family for whom she worked saw the account of girl being missed in the Ledger, and Thursday night took her to the house of Chief Hayden, whom she assured she was alive and well.

Miss Haley's Lecture.

Prof. J. S. Roeseler says of Miss Haley, who will lecture tonight at the Quincy High school:

"I thought it the best thing I had ever heard at a State Teachers' convention. I liked it very much. She showed her whole spirit in it, and her delivery was so excellent and natural, that I wished she could have had an evening's time in which to speak instead of the short time that could be given during a regular session. I think there was a good deal we can profit by in what she said, and it will lead to a study of local conditions—a more systematic study into conditions by teachers, and by others, too."

☞Don't wait until January to have your billheads printed but call at the Ledger Office, where you are sure to get good work, prompt service and right prices.

☞Remember the prize speaking contest by the boys in Faxon hall, December 5. First and second prizes, will be ten and five dollar gold pieces. Third prize, a beautiful, combination pocket knife. Soprano and violin solos. A good time is expected.

☞Eyeglasses fitted scientifically. No guess work.—Williams.

GAS EXPLODED

Doing Considerable Damage at West Quincy.

Two in the Store Were Hurt.

Fire Alarm Sounded But There Was Little Fire.

The alarm from Box 446 at 5.15 Thursday night called the department to a building on Miller street owned by John Casey. The street floor of the building was occupied by the owner as a grocery. The upper floor contained two tenements, one of which was occupied by the owner.

The fire was caused by an explosion of acetylene gas, with which the building is lighted. Just what caused the explosion is not known. It is said, however, that the clerk, Andrew McLaughton, was in the act of lighting one of the burners.

The explosion was terrific. The large plate glass windows in the front of the building were blown out, and smashed into a thousand pieces. The rear of the store was also pushed out and the ceiling forced upward.

Articles on the shelves were scattered all over the store and many of the glass bottles were smashed, so that the interior of the store was a wreck, and looked as though struck by a cyclone. In the tenements above lamps were upset and glass was smashed.

The families over the store were thoroughly frightened by the explosion especially when articles began to dance around, and pieces of plastering dropped to the floor. Grabbing their children in their arms the women rushed out of doors, thinking that the building was about to collapse.

Later an examination was made of the gas machine, and it was found to be all right. The impression is that there must have been a leak in the pipe somewhere, but as there is no odor to acetylene gas it was not discovered until a match was lighted.

Mr. McLaughton and Miss Mary McCue, the bookkeeper, who were in the store at the time, had a narrow escape from serious injury.

Both were cut on the head and hands by flying glass. Miss McCue was in the office which adjoined the large ice chest, and but for this ice chest which broke the force of the explosion she would have met with serious injury. Their injuries were attended to by Dr. Ash.

The loss by fire was small but the total damage will be fully $1000.

MILTON.

The fire department was called out at 12.20 Wednesday morning by an alarm from Box 41. The fire proved to be in a large barn of Andrew Hobson on Brook road. It had made great headway before discovered, and when the department arrived it was a roaring mass of flames. The building which contained a quantity of hay was badly gutted. It is thought the fire was caused by an incendiary.

COST BUT LITTLE.

Several Candidates Did Not Expend Cent for Nomination.

Although the time has expired for making returns, by candidates seeking nomination at the caucuses, of expenses incurred by them, but 21 of the 70 have made returns.

Walter F. Nichols reports he contributed $5 to the Ward Five Republican Committee. Alfred O. Diack contributed $5 and Frank Tinney $2 to the Ward Three Republican Committee.

The following say they contributed nothing: Walter E. Piper, Wendell H. Hull, William F. Sidelinger, Clinton Jones, Newman A. Savage, Andrew Stewart, James M. Flaherty, James M. Walker, George E. Adams, Frederick H. Smith, William P. Barry, Galen V. Bowditch, Jeremiah Curtin, Jr., Theodore H. Hermanson, Eugene R. Stone, Nathaniel S. Hunting, Jacob Peterson and Charles H. Burgess.

At the Banquet.

Among those from Quincy at the Home Market club banquet were Theophilus King, Charles A. Howland, Representative R. R. Freeman, Joseph L. Whiton, Clarence Burgin, ex-Mayor R. A. Sears, City Solicitor P. R. Blackmur, Dr. E. E. Davis, W. J. Battison, Charles F. Pettengill, Frank F. Prescott, George Pfaffmann, Charles H. Johnson, F. A. Skinner, William A. Field, William G. Webb and others. Several of these were guests of Hon. John Shaw, one of the directors of the club.

HON. JOHN SHAW.

Mr. Shaw also entertained several boys from Thompson's island, of which the Herald says: one of the most interesting features of the Home Market Club dinner was the attendance of 17 boys from the Thompson's island farm school accompanied by the superintendent. The youths came by special invitation of the Hon. John Shaw of the executive committee of the club, and who has long taken a personal interest in the 100 boys attending the school.

Mr. Shaw gave the boys a luncheon at an Avon street restaurant late in the afternoon, and looked after their comfort at the evening functions. The boys showed considerable pride in the opportunity extended to them for meeting Vice-President-elect Fairbanks and the large number of other distinguished guests who were present at the dinner.

Recital.

The recital at the Quincy Mansion school, Wednesday evening, given by Miss Grace Warner, pianist, and Miss Harriet Warner, soprano, of Roxbury, was largely attended. The piano solos by Miss Warner, were very much enjoyed. Although not a professional, she showed herself to be an artist of rare ability and very great promise. All of her selections were well received and her rendering of the Hungarian Rhapsody by Liszt, won the prolonged applause of a delighted audience.

Mr. Bertram C. Henry, musical instructor in the Mansion school, and with whom Miss Warner is studying, introduced each number by a short account of the composer and an explanation of the theme, which added much to the enjoyment of the selections.

Miss Harriet Warner contributed several soprano solos, which were kindly received by her audience, particularly a group of songs by Nevin.

Mosher—Yule.

There was a pretty afternoon wedding on Thursday at the Yule House at Quincy Point when the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher B. Yule, Miss Alice M. was united in marriage to Mr. Lloyd L. Mosher of Weymouth. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. E. Gardner, rector of Christ church in the presence of many friends. A wedding supper followed. Mr. and Mrs. Mosher left for Maine on their wedding trip and on their return will reside on Front street, Weymouth.

Drift of Opinion

☞ The workers continue to pour money into Fall River. This is an illustration of generosity and the stand-together quality as well. But what a lot of money it will require to keep the wolf from the door after the real winter bitterness has set in! The Fall River workers are to be pitied as well as admired for the stand they are making.—Brockton Enterprise.

☞ Texas now has two Republican members of the legislature—a gain of one hundred per cent. over that of the last session. If it can only be kept up at the elections of the future, the Republicans will make a pretty good show in Texas by and by. For the present, however, the Texas legislature consists of 158 Democrats, two Republicans, and one Populist.—New Bedford Standard.

☞ Many people when away from home find it difficult to sleep well in a strange bed, and arise in the morning with a sense of having passed a decidedly unsatisfactory night. Vice President Knowlton of the Raymond & Whitcomb company, who ought to know, says the trouble is all in the pillow. It's the pillow first, last and always. He has slept in many lands and under all imaginable conditions, and years ago came to the conclusion that with one's own pillow at hand it mattered little about the bed. On an extended tour he always takes his pillow with him, stowing it carefully at the bottom of the trunk for future reference. "If I could start life over again," he says, "I would learn to sleep without a pillow (the only proper way,) but the art must be acquired during childhood. The next best thing is your own pillow wherever possible. Try it and be convinced."—Philadelphia Record.

Spain Tied Up by Snow

Madrid, Dec. 2.—The heaviest snow-storm experienced in Spain in many years, lasting nearly 30 hours, has compelled a partial cessation of business. In Madrid street traffic has been stopped, the theatres are closed, the markets are without supplies and 20,000 workmen are out of employment. The authorities are taking all possible measures of relief.

Marshal Shot From Ambush

Trenton, La., Dec. 2.—Deputy United States Marshal Hope was shot and instantly killed near his home by an unknown man who fired from behind a tree. Several months ago Pope, it is said, was warned to leave the parish under penalty of death for alleged activity in prosecuting peonage cases.

General Tieup at Buenos Ayres

Buenos Ayres, Dec. 2.—The general strike has developed no serious features. All the leading retail stores are closed and labor on the docks is suspended. Troops and policemen are stationed at all the important centres. The railway and street car services are running without interruption.

Davis Gets Instructions

Washington, Dec. 2.—Rear Admiral Davis, who will represent the American government on the Dogger Bank court of inquiry, called at the state department to confer with Secretary Hay about his mission. Admiral Davis will leave for Paris in time to attend the opening session of the court.

Trouble Brewing In Venezuela

Washington, Dec. 2.—Reports reach the state department of a very unsettled state of affairs in Venezuela. Many citizens have been put in prison for alleged political offenses, public opinion is inflamed and serious apprehension for their safety prevails among the foreign element.

COUNTRY'S TRADE

Wealth Greatly Increased by Our Foreign Trade

RECORD HAS NO PARALLEL

Fairbanks Says It Is Due to Policy of Republican Party, Which Can Be Trusted to Revise Tariff Schedules

Boston, Dec. 2.—Before an audience of more than 3000 people, Vice President-elect Fairbanks defined the attitude of the Republican administration on the tariff question at the annual banquet of the Home Market club last night. Among the other guests were Governor Bates of Massachusetts, former Secretary of the Navy Long, W. H. Montague of Toronto, a privy councilor of the Dominion of Canada; Governor-elect McLane of New Hampshire and Governor-elect Roberts of Connecticut. Mr. Fairbanks said in part:

"The development of our domestic market since the beginning of Mr. Lincoln's first administration until now has been so stupendous as to defy accurate computation. No one can adequately comprehend its vast magnitude. We have seen the value of all manufactures in the United States increase from less than $2,000,000,000 to more than $13,000,000,000 in the period of 30 years preceding the last national census. We have observed our total manufactures rise until it is but little less than the manufactures of the United Kingdom, Germany and France combined. We have witnessed the transfer of industries from foreign countries to our own shores; we have noted the immigration of countless thousands from foreign industrial centres to industries erected in our own country.

"The expansion of our foreign commerce under Republican policies and Republican administration is conclusive evidence of the fact that Republican policies are not restrictive so far as our foreign trade is concerned. In 1860 our exports of manufactured products to other countries amounted to only $102,000,000, while last year they reached the enormous sum of $452,000,000.

"We have been rapidly increasing our wealth through our foreign commerce. The balance of trade is greatly in our favor, and if we but adhere to the policies and uphold the administrations which have so splendidly served us in the past the golden currents from all the ports of the earth will continue to flow hither in a large if not increasing degree. Our foreign trade balance constitutes a record without a parallel in our own history or in the history of any country of which we have knowledge.

"We look forward with confidence and satisfaction to the early completion of the isthmian canal, which will increase in a large measure the commerce of the United States.

"While the tariff question is an old one, it is of continual and vital interest. It must not be overthrown or surrendered either by ignorance or by prejudice; it must be maintained by education, by intelligent discussion.

"The tariff issue was sharply presented in the platforms of the Republican and Democratic parties in the recent campaign. The Republican party stood squarely by its protective policy, while the Democratic party denounced protection as a 'robbery.'

"The Republican party has revised tariff schedules in the past, when revision was essential, and it will not hesitate in the future to subject them to careful scrutiny and alteration so that our protective system may be just in its operation. Whenever change of schedules is essential in the public interest, the alteration will be made; it will be made advisedly, it will be made with full knowledge, not in response to mere sentiment, but agreeably to sound economic necessity. Any other policy is obviously unwise and disturbing in its tendency.

"The Republican party adheres to the doctrine of commercial reciprocity, that reciprocity which tends to expand our commerce and to develop American industry in the interest of American labor and American capital.

"A great responsibility rests upon the Republican party. It is not overawed by it, yet fully realizes its significance. It has always had the courage and wisdom to meet the responsibility laid upon it by the American people. We realize that all of the great problems of government have not been solved; that there are many awaiting us in the future which will tax our patriotism and our capacity to govern. The Republican party faces the future with a full appreciation of all of this, and with a high resolve to meet present and future responsibility with the sole purpose to advance to the utmost degree the welfare, the honor and the glory of our countrymen and our common country.

"The result of the recent national election needs no interpreter. It plainly signifies that the people have unabated faith in the great principles for which the Republican party has wrought so well. The power committed to us is to be used with prudence. We are to continue to adhere to and uphold the great policies which have so well served us in the past. They are not to be undermined or subverted; they are to be upheld and maintained with wisdom and resolution.

BARELY ESCAPED ALIVE

Experience of Crew of Gloucester Boat Which Was Wrecked

Boston, Dec. 2.—Among the passengers on the steamer Halifax, which arrived here from Halifax, were Captain Murray and five members of the crew of the Gloucester fishing schooner Golden Hope, which was wrecked Nov. 24, two days after leaving the Bay of Islands for Gloucester.

After filling her holds with 1200 barrels of salted herring, the schooner sailed for Gloucester on Nov. 21. Early the following morning the schooner began leaking, having strained considerably in the rough weather encountered the previous night.

The pump was manned and the schooner was kept on her course. In spite of the efforts of the crew the leak gained on the pump. Steadily the vessel settled, until, on Nov. 22, the decks were nearly awash. The vessel had been headed toward the shore, but was still many miles away from land.

It was then a question of but a few minutes when she must go down and the men gathered together a few of their belongings and took to the dories. They had hardly cleared the vessel's side when she plunged forward and sank like a plummet. The crew were then 35 miles from Wood island, the nearest point of land, and the boats were headed in that direction. For 30 hours the men struggled against the terrible sea and the gale. It was with the greatest difficulty that the boats were kept from being swamped.

Wednesday night, Nov. 23, hungry and nearly exhausted, the men reached land. The men suffered severely from the bitter cold. They left for their homes in Gloucester last night.

Railroad Company Exonerated

Augusta, Me., Dec. 2.—The railroad commissioners' decision on the Maine Central railroad wreck in Lewiston on Sept. 26, when five people lost their lives, attaches the blame largely to Thomas L. Breckinridge, a yardman, who left the switch open, as they believe. Fred M. Crockett, who was in charge of the shifting train, is also held partly to blame for violating a rule of the railroad which stipulates that he should have known the condition of the switch. No blame is attached to the railroad company.

JAPS LOST 15,000

Desperate Fight to Gain Possession of 203-Metre Hill

CRISIS AT PORT ARTHUR

If Japanese Succeed In Planting Their Guns the Russian Fleet Is Doomed--Russian Garrison Must Be Greatly Weakened

London, Dec. 2.—The correspondent at Chefoo of The Daily Telegraph says that the attack on 203-Metre hill resulted in heavy losses to the first division of the Japanese stormers, and that simultaneously stormers of the ninth and 11th divisions advanced and menaced the Rihlung and Kekwan forts. It is stated, the correspondent adds, that within 24 hours the Japanese casualties have totaled 15,000, and it is asserted that the attacks have been planned to continue until Dec. 10, when, it is hoped, the capture of Port Arthur will be completed.

If the Japanese can hold the summit of 203-Metre hill and mount their heavy guns upon it, the Russian fleet in the harbor is doomed to destruction either at its anchorage by the guns of General Nogi's forces, or by the guns of Admiral Togo's ships, and a long stride has been made in the reduction of Port Arthur.

Metre hill is not one of the "inner" defenses nor even in the main line of defenses, but rather a supplementary fort, one of three in the Metre range, a mile or more west of the Etseshan and Nutseshan group in the main line. It must not be too hastily assumed, therefore, that General Nogi will be able to plant his guns on the top of the hill.

Before this the Japanese have secured positions on this very hill, but have been unable to hold them because of the enfilading fire of the other forts. In the middle of September such progress had been made with the sap advance that a general assault was determined upon. In this engagement the Japanese lost about 3000 men.

Without doubt the Russians will exert all their energies to making the captured hill untenable as an artillery platform. They probably will succeed for some time in their efforts, but the power of the garrison must be growing weaker day by day, while, if indications are true, the Japanese have strengthened their besieging army both from Japan and from Oyama's armies fronting Kuropatkin on the Shakhe.

The sailing of the Baltic fleet has rendered the taking of Port Arthur, or at least the destruction of the ships there, absolutely necessary. Hence tremendous sacrifices were not shunned in attempting to reach this end. Should the Japanese, however, get their guns into position there the Russian fleet must stay and be riddled or go out of the harbor and be riddled by Togo's guns. The latter course is the one likely to be pursued, for it might be possible for the ships, notwithstanding their condition, to inflict considerable loss on the Japanese fleet.

For the first time Tokio admits that the magnificent defense of Port Arthur had seriously hindered its campaign in Manchuria.

A Russo-Japanese Alliance

London, Dec. 2.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at St. Petersburg claims to have unimpeachable evidence that Russia is reckoning on the necessity of making a lasting peace with Japan by means of an offensive and defensive alliance, which is recognized as an indispensable condition for the success of Russia's eastern policy.

Russians In Moorish Waters

Tangier, Dec. 2.—Several warships anchored in the bay late last night. They are supposed to be a portion of the Russian second Pacific squadron.

Felton Pleads Not Guilty

New York, Dec. 2.—Stewart A. Felton, who fatally wounded Guy Roche, a gambler, and who was indicted for murder in the first degree, was arraigned before Judge Foster. He pleaded not guilty and was remanded to the Tombs. District Attorney Jerome says that if it is shown that Felton acted in self-defense, he will ask for a dismissal of the indictment.

Depositors Withdrew $400,000

Buffalo, Dec. 2.—A fight for the controlling interest in the German-American bank resulted in a run on that institution estimated at $400,000. The withdrawals were made by large depositors, so that the run did not cause any perceptible excitement. Superintendent of Banks Kilburn says that the bank, in his opinion, is absolutely sound and safe.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

is for babies and children who are thin and pale when they ought to be fat and ruddy; for men and women who are weak and delicate when they ought to be strong and hearty—for all who are not getting proper nourishment from their food.

Poor blood, thin body, open the door for disease. Scott's Emulsion bars the way. Makes the blood richer, produces healthy flesh and above all provides nourishment.

Avoid these so-called wines, cordials and extracts of cod liver oil that are prepared for the taste only, contain none of the value of cod liver oil and which contain a large percentage of alcohol.

Scott's Emulsion has been the reliable cod liver oil preparation for over a quarter of a century.

Carried Burglars' Tools

Boston, Dec. 2.—Edward Conlin and Frank Nelson, who were captured in a roundup of alleged criminals and who were convicted on a charge of having in their possession burglars' tools, were sentenced to serve not more than five or less than four years in state prison.

Mill Worker Killed

Hardwick, Mass., Dec. 2.—His glove catching in a mill saw, Edward Columbe, aged 21, was dragged onto the saw, his left arm was nearly cut off and he received other horrible wounds from which he died in an hour. Columbe was a marker in the mill.

To Strengthen Insanity Claim

Goshen, Conn., Dec. 2.—As a possible aid to the defense in the trial of Sherman Beaman, who is charged with the murder of his wife, the brains of his father, Samuel Beaman, who recently committed suicide, have been removed from the body for examination. It is believed that if it can be shown that the elder Beaman was mentally unsound, the effort of the defense to show that Sherman Beaman is also a victim of insanity will be strengthened.

Sample Jewelry Goes Astray

Boston, Dec. 2.—The Boston police are searching for two cases of sample jewelry valued at $10,000 which are missing from the South Terminal station. The cases had been left in the baggage room by a traveling salesman for a Boston jewelry house, and when he went to call for them he discovered that his baggage checks were missing. Investigation showed that someone had called and secured the baggage.

Heroic Attempt at Rescue

Deep River, Conn., Dec. 2.—Michael Landers, 10 years old, was playing on the ice on a pond here and broke through and sank immediately. Ernest Ferguson was able to reach the spot where young Landers went down. He dropped in the icy water and, sinking to the bottom of the pond, pulled young Landers up and brought him to shore, but could not revive him.

Assaulted Non-Union Men

Boston, Dec. 2.—Hugh Nathan, Edward Barnicorn and William J. Moran, the union teamsters who pleaded guilty to indictments charging them with committing assaults upon non-union teamsters, appeared before Judge Holmes for sentence. Nathan got two years, Barnicorn 18 months and Moran six months, all in the house of correction.

Strayed Away While Hunting

Colebrook, N. H., Dec. 2.—Half a hundred men searched the woods in the vicinity of Kelsea Notch all day for some trace of Cushman H. Parsons, aged 27, who strayed from a companion while hunting deer, but the man has not been found. It is feared he has met with some accident or has been overcome by cold and exposure.

Strike of Longshoremen

Boston, Dec. 2.—Because three of their number were discharged, 160 longshoremen employed on the docks of the Merchants and Miners' Transportation company, where the steamer Ontario was loading for Baltimore, struck last night. An offer of the agent of the company for a settlement was rejected by the men.

Guilty of Murdering Woman

Lancaster, N. H., Dec. 2.—John D. Green pleaded guilty in the superior criminal court to the charge of murder in the second degree of Mrs. Mary Lockhart at West Milan and received a 30-year sentence in state prison. Green testified that Mrs. Lockhart exercised an uncontrolable influence over him.

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

A GRAND SUCCESS

St Louis Fair Has Fulfilled All Expectations

SHOW FORMALLY CLOSED

Farewell Addresses Followed by Presentation of Silver Service to President Francis -- Onslaughts on Some Exhibits

St. Louis, Dec. 2.—The Louisiana Purchase exposition has ended. The stupendous and magnificent exposition whose tendrils of interest have extended into every portion of the civilized world and even into aboriginal recesses has run its course and now passes into history as probably having comprised the most representative collection of the resources, industries, art, peoples and customs of the world ever assembled.

From the inception of a project to hold an exposition to fittingly commemorate the 100th anniversary of the purchase of the Louisiana territory, until the portals were thrown open and the world was invited to enter and enjoy the completed exhibition of the world's life, occupied a period of seven years.

The duration of the exposition has been seven months, and during that time nothing has occurred to throw a dampening effect on the interest or to detract from the exposition in any way. The best order has been maintained throughout; there have been a few fires, but all were of small moment with the exception of the destruction of the house of Hoo Hoo and the partial destruction of the Missouri building recently. The former was immediately rebuilt. No loss of life has occurred during the exposition from accidents. St. Louis has proffered her most gracious hospitality to the world and it has been accepted.

Throngs of visitors who poured in to attend the exposition have departed amazed and gratified. The opinion has been exprssed at all times, on all sides without reserve, that the Louisiana Purchase exposition has been a success. Congratulatory messages were received in large numbers from all parts of the country and from abroad, conveying felicitations upon the success of the exposition.

The man probably most prominently known in connection with the World's Fair is President Francis, former secretary of the interior and former governor of Missouri, and it was deemed fitting that the final day should be designated as Francis day in his honor.

"This exposition has been the work of my life," said President Francis. "It has consumed my entire time for the past four years, but every hour has been an hour of pleasure to me. I have exhausted my stock of adjectives in trying to describe this fair. It is as difficult to do it justice as it is to paint the lily."

The closing exercises were held at the base of the Louisiana Purchase monument in the Plaza of St. Louis, where were held seven months ago the exercises that formally opened the gates to the world.

On the opening day the vast assemblage was buoyant in spirit and filled with a unanimous desire to give expression to good feelings; yesterday depression prevailed generally because of the conclusion at hand, and it was rather a mournful assemblage that formed a solid phalanx around the tall monument and listened to the farewell addresses.

At the conclusion of President Francis' speech Festus J. Wade, a member of the board of directors, presented to Mr. Francis a beautiful silver service as a token of esteem from the exposition management. A similar gift was presented to Treasurer Thompson. As Mr. Thompson was detained at his home by illness, President Francis responded for him.

Promptly at 4 o'clock all the great exhibit palaces were closed and visitors were excluded. In the palace of agriculture onslaughts were made on some of the exhibits, where the settings were composed of straw and fragile material, and for a time general demolition was threatened, but prompt action in effecting a general ejectment put a stop to the threatened turmoil.

As the night drew on throngs concentrated in the main avenues to view for the last time the magnificent electric illumination. One solid stream of humanity swept through the Pike from end to end. The spirit of revelry was there. Never since the opening had more enlivenment been shown at night on the grounds.

Steadily the white electric bulbs silhouetted the exhibit palaces against the night, periodically the illumination of the Terrace of States surmounting Festival hill changed from white to red, then to green, and then back to white. Over on Agricultural knoll the great floral clock clicked off the minutes of the departing pageant. And in the night rang out the tones of the massive bell as the midnight hour was tolled by the great clock.

Instantly a hush seemed to pervade the entire grounds. The glowing electric bulbs slowly began dimming, the pulsations of the great engines that drove the cascades gradually died down. The light faded steadily, diminishing until but a faint glow was perceptible. Suddenly there was darkness, and the Louisiana Purchase exposition had passed into the chronicles of history.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Rev. Leon H. Austin has charge of the meeting at Bethany church this evening.

Mr. Frank A. Mazzen of New York, is among the guests at The Greenleaf.

Mrs. W. W. Penniman of Elm place has returned from a brief visit at her son's home in Brockton.

There will be a meeting in Keating's hall, this evening, in the interests of Democratic candidates for the Council.

The senior class of Woodward Institute have presented Mr. Fiske, the janitor, who is about to leave, as a token of their esteem, a watch fob.

Anselm Kantala, who was injured in a quarry accident at Milton, Jan. 23, 1904, has recovered a verdict of $1,000 against the Mt. Pleasant Quarry Co.

The communication of Wollaston lodge of Masons next week promises to be an unusually busy one with the M. M. degree, election of officers and an installation.

A special meeting of the Quincy Day Nursery Association will be held at the home of Mrs. George H. Hitchcock of Foster street, on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The last lecture in the course at the West Quincy Methodist church will be given next Tuesday evening by Rev. G. M. Curl, whose subject will be:—"Load aim and fire."

The "S. S. S.'s" will hold a candy sale at the home of Mrs. Melcher, 54 Bigelow street, Saturday, December 10, from 2 to 5 P. M., for the benefit of the City Hospital.

The Quincy basket ball team was defeated at Hancock hall Thursday evening by the Columbia A. C. team 14 to 6. The Quincy second team was also defeated by the Milton second team 18 to 2.

Rev. E. N. Hardy will lead the meeting at the Washington Street Congregational church this evening. His subject will be: "Is the church losing her hold on men?" The lecture will be illustrated by charts.

Mr. Donald Harold of Pueblo, Colorado, who is interested in the monumental business is stopping at hotel Greenleaf. His friends among the granite men and in the hotel are giving him a cordial welcome.

Ex-Alderman H. B. Masters of Brockton, who was electrocuted in his office Wednesday evening while using a telephone was quite well known in Quincy. He was a frequent visitors to this city and all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance speak of him in the highest terms.

Successful Whist Party.

The whist party, given in aid of the organ fund of the Unitarian church, by Mrs. Henry L. Kincaide, at her home on Whitney road proved a very delightful affair. There were about forty ladies present. A short time was spent in sociability and then the ladies indulged in whist for an hour and a half, after which a dainty lunch was served. The dining-room was prettily decorated with crimson carnations and asparagus vine. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. John D. Mackay and Mrs. J. A. Barbour. Mrs. Jas. L. Edwards, poured chocolate and Miss Barbour furnished music during the time of the lunch. Mrs. Kincaide is to be congratulated upon the affair, for it was a success both socially and financially.

AT WARD SIX.

Candidate Fallon and Others Make Addresses.

A rally in the interest of Candidate Fallon was held Thursday evening at Music Hall, Atlantic. B. A. McLane, a candidate for the council, presided, and the speakers were Candidate Fallon William T. Shea, A. E. Fryer, James H. Elcock, Dr. John H. Ash and George H. Wilson.

Mr. Fallon said that there were better men in jail than in City Hall. He criticised the method of collecting taxes and other departments. He also referred to the purchase of the water works, saying that the city had purchased a lot of stove pipe and fish ponds. A. E. Fryer spoke of the unfairness of taxation. The other speakers urged the election of Mr. Fallon and the whole Democratic ticket.

PRESENTATIONS.

Play a Prominent Part at Rebekah Meeting.

Thursday night was a red letter one for George L. Gill Rebekah lodge, No. 146. About 130 members and guests were present, including: Grand Instructor William M. Webber of Boston; S. D. D. Clara M. Folger and suite of Brockton; P. S. D. Grace W. Mitchell of East Weymouth; P. S. D. Mabel G. Chamberlin of Whitman: besides visitors from South Braintree, East Weymouth, Dorchester, Maine, Newport News, Va., and other places.

Work was performed on four candidates in an exemplary manner.

Under the head of good of the order, the lodge was presented by F. W. Flowers, in behalf of M. Lizzie Furnald, the organizer and institutor of the lodge seven years ago, with an elegant Bible. It was a complete surprise to the members, but they were not slow in showing their appreciation of Miss Furnald's gift. She has always had the welfare of the lodge at heart and this was only one more instance of her thoughtfulness.

Remarks from visitors followed, after which Mrs. E. Frank Mitchell, in behalf of the degree team, in a few well chosen words, presented F. W. Flowers, with a fine silk umbrella, in appreciation of services rendered by him the past year.

At the close of the exercises a collation was served.

Dime Social.

Th d ime social Wednesday evening, held in the vestry of Memorial church, Atlantic, was successful both as an entertainment and financially. Everyone present had earned his or her dollar in an interesting way, the greater number indulging in making and selling candy. This fund, with some already laid by, will go toward a new piano for the vestry. Chocolate and crackers were served during the evening and games were introduced after the numerous experiences of money-getting had been read. The fund at present is about $80.

Trip Around the World.

The next meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian club will be held Tuesday, Dec. 6, at 6.30 P. M. Mr. Wm. H. Bain, formerly of Wollaston, who has just returned from a two years' trip around the world will tell some of his interesting experiences.

Employers Becoming Weary of Running "Closed" Shops

PARRY TALKS OF UNIONS

Says It Has Received Great Check Through Protection of Non-Union Men From "Sluggers"--As to Individual Liberty

New York, Nov. 30.—The second annual convention of the Citizens' Industrial Association of America opened at Hotel Astor. D. M. Parry, in his annual address as president, reviewed the progress of the employers' movement during the last two years and predicted for it a steady, permanent growth. He said in part:

"If trades unionism should become dominant in this country I have not the least doubt that our industries would languish and our streets would be filled with idle men. No other results could possibly come from a system that would base the reward of labor not on merit, but on the power of organization to dictate terms, a system that would restrict output, discourage enterprise and permit the inuolent and efficient to set the pace for industry.

"Can present-day unionism become dominant in this country? It is my belief that if you would like to see organized labor obtain a controlling power in industrial and public affairs all that you need to do is to fold your hands and let the unions work their will. Under the do-nothing policy of the employers, up until a few years ago, the growth of unionism was magical. Finally, with several millions of workers back of them and flushed with victory because of success in a number of strikes, the leaders assumed a dictatorial attitude towards congress and local authorities. At that time it seemed as though public opinion was ready to sanction any demands that the strike bosses chose to make, and but scant hearing was given to the employers' side of any controversy, no matter how diplomatically expressed.

"I believe that this was a critical time in the history of our country and had the employers not abandoned the let-alone policy we should today be facing a very different condition of affairs from that now confronting us. But, fortunately for the welfare for every man, woman and child in this country, there sprang up a movement, which was practically spontaneous among the employers, for the formation of local associations, while such great national organizations as the National Association of Manufacturers began to grapple with the problem with energy and determination.

"What happened? There is little need for me to rehearse the story. Strike after strike was ordered only to be lost by the unions, and a great check was given to trades union aggression from Maine to California. Shop after shop has been opened to the non-union man, and protection has been given him against the sluggers in most of our industrial centers. I believe that fully 1000 manufacturing establishments have, in the last year, abandoned the closed shop and thrown their doors open to workmen without regard to their membership or nonmembership in a union.

"The effect of the open shop movement has been particularly beneficial. In some factories the output per man has been increased from 25 to 50 percent.

Mr. Parry declared that the labor question was not merely a controversy between employers and employes, but rather a question whether individual liberty was to be maintained. He quoted from labor authorities to show that the unions denied that there was any such thing as the inalienable right to work.

Mr. Parry declared that the courts have with practical unanimity held that the closed shop cannot be maintained by means of contracts between employers and unions, for the reason that such contracts are illegal and void in that they tend to produce a monopoly and are unconstitutional and against public policy.

"The question" he said, "then arises whether the closed shop can be maintained in the absence of contracts by the method of the unions refusing to work with non-union men. I do not believe that the unions can force the closed shop upon industry by merely following the policy of refusing to work. But granting for argument's sake that that they may be able to do this, then I want to say that where an organization quits work to compel the discharge of men simply on the grounds that these men are not members of the organization, then those composing the organization are guilty of an act of persecution which can not be justified on moral grounds, no matter how much they may be acting within their legal rights. The men of an organization that commit such an act should fully understand that they are striking a blow at individual freedom, the most precious heritage of the common people, and are thereby inviting their own undoing.

"The unions must also remember that while they have the right to quit work the employer has the right to employ whom he pleases, and this right of the employer is not to be taken from him no more than is the right to quit work to be taken from the employe. Another thing, the more the unions go on strike merely to force the discharge of non-union men, the more the employers must co-operate in the defense of the rights of independent labor and their own right to employ whom they please."

NOT ANY HOT DAYS.

November Uniformly Cool—Every Day Below 60.

The extremes of noon temperature in Quincy during November were 56 on the 4th and 29 on the 17th. Last year in November the extremes were 72 and 23, and for nine years the extremes for November have been 75 and 23. It will be noticed that there was lower temperature on our warmest day this year than any of the nine years, in fact the month was unusually cool as will be seen by the summary. Two years ago in November Quincy had 21 days with temperature above 50; this year only 6.

TO SETTLE IN CASH

Speedy Adjustment of Newton Claim Against Mrs Chadwick

New York, Dec. 2.—George Ryall, local counsel for Herbert D. Newton, states that the settlement agreed upon with Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick is for the payment in cash of Newton's entire claim. The payment, he says, is to be made either this week or early next week. "No securities have been given for this payment," he added, "but we are sure it will be made."

In reference to the statement by Edmund W. Powers, counsel for Mrs. Chadwick, that of the amount claimed by Newton $65,000 represented notes given for bonuses, Ryall said: "Mr. Powers is mistaken in his figures. The notes he refers to do not represent bonuses. The settlement is upon our full claim of $190,800."

It is stated that Mrs. Chadwick will probably leave New York today. Her destination is not known.

Poor People Robbed by "Banker"

New York, Dec. 2.—Oscar Adler, 28 years old, who did a banking business under the firm name of Novak & Co., was arrested last night as he was making preparations to leave for Europe. For three days he has been in hiding at a hotel in Brooklyn. When the police broke in the door of his room he attempted suicide by cutting his throat. He confessed that he had misappropriated about $15,000 entrusted to him by poor working men and women in Manhattan. Adler told the police that he had lost the money he took from his depositors in speculation.

CITY ELECTION

Tuesday, Dec. 6, 1904.

POLLS OPEN 6 A. M. to 4 P. M

Vote for the Republican Candidate

For Mayor JAMES THOMPSON

TO THE VOTERS:

At the municipal caucuses held on November 15, the choice of the Republican party as their nominee for Mayor fell upon me.

I wish to thank the citizens for the high honor conferred upon me, and pledge to them my best efforts to promote the welfare of our city if the preliminary step then taken is made final at the election on Tuesday, December 6.

Preceding the caucuses I stated, concisely, the grounds by which, in part, I should be guided if nominated and elected: My position is the same now as then, and it is not out of place at this time to restate them, viz:—

"A strict compliance with the provisions of the City Charter, and a maintenance of the personal responsibility of the several Administrative Officers and Boards, according to the provisions of that document.

"A reduction of the City Debt and all City Expenses.

"The strictest economy in expending every appropriation made by the City Council, so that for every dollar spent the city shall receive an equivalent return.

"Merit and capability to be the chief essentials in the appointment to office.

"Courteous and fair treatment to all our citizens.

"A divorcement of pernicious election methods from the business conduct of public affairs, and a change for the public good in those officers who have neglected their duties to become active politicians.

"The enforcement of all laws without discrimination or favor."

In entering the field I do so with no promises or pledges of any kind to any person to hamper my individual action to promote the public welfare.

I have every reason to believe the above views have received the endorsement of our citizens—and where, in public opinion, changes for the best interests of the community in city officers are required, these will be made without fear or favor in the event of my election to the office of Mayor.

I solicit, and trust I shall receive the same hearty support at the coming election as was accorded me at the caucuses.

Yours respectfully,

JAMES THOMPSON.

It was with many expressions of pleasure that the Smart Set whist club got its members together Thursday evening for the first regular meeting of the season at the home of Miss Gertrude Warren of Botolph street. Five of the former members have resigned and new members were enrolled; Miss Ethel Vogler, Miss Marion Vogler, Miss Florence Buckston, Miss Nancy Woy and Miss Emma King. Owing to the illness of Miss Corinna Wilde, Miss Jessie Warren substituted. The favors were red "horns of plenty," suggesting the coming of the festive season this month, and during the evening a table of sweets and punch stood within range of every one's reach. Prizes were won by Miss Nancy Woy and Miss Gertrude Warren; Miss Jessie Warren and Miss Addie Mae Ruggles. Ices and cake were served after the game. A short business meeting was held regulating the order of coming together. Miss Maud Gray will entertain the club second, on Dec. 15. After a jolly "sing" the members departed for their several homes in high spirits.

The Quincy teachers, who availed themselves of the privilege of hearing the talk given by Mr. Plummer, principal of the Woodward Institute on "Moths and Butterflies," and the opportunity of seeing his very fine collection of specimens, felt amply repaid for so doing.

The Midnight Song of the Elevated.

Oh! for the train of the midnight air!
Give me the roar of a whirlwind there!
Give me the curves with a shivering fright!
Joyfully dangerous—flying delight!

Oh! for the shriek of the terrified rail—
Moaning and groaning its agonized tale!
Frigh fully into the night we dive
Ghastly pursued—for the rail is alive."

See how the headlight
Gleams thro' the midnight—
Horribly red!

Over the wall
Of the shuddering rail
Bloodily shed!

Then for the clash of the desperate gong,
When the wearied train is hurried along,
Flying and crying in startled distress,
Pursued and entreating it whirls on afresh!

Oh! for the crash of a wreck in the air!
Oh! the disaster and horror up there!
Clashing and crashing in frenzied despair!
Shrieking and screeching in agonized prayer!

Down to the pavement terribly falling,
Down thro' the darkness in carnage appalling!
Ah! the salvation,
In such desolation—
Of death!

Out from the midnight!—
Thro' the new twilight,
Past the infernal
To the eternal—
All in a breath!

Oh! for the train of the midnight gale!
Give me the gleam of the panting rail;
Hark to the chant of the furious gong!
See the swift terror come flying along
As if to destruction it surely were fated—
This is the song of the night elevated!

EDS.—The above poem taken from the Boston Post of Nov. 12 was written by a recent graduate of the Woodward Institute, a well-known young lady of this city.

—"Can you tell me what sort of weather we may expect next month?" wrote a subscriber to the editor of a paper; and the editor replied as follows: "It is my belief that the weather next month will be very much like your subscription." The inquirer wondered for an hour what the editor was driving at, when he happened to think of the word "unsettled." He sent in the required amount next day. —Sharon Advocate.

MINSTRELS

And Dramatics a Great Success

At the Unitarian Chapel.

Original Jokes and Many Local Hits.

A fine show was given last evening in the chapel of First church by the Sunday school. Every seat was taken at an early hour, and many are enjoying it a second time at the performance given this afternoon for the children.

Promptly at eight o'clock the curtain rose on a one-act farce entitled "The Obstinate Family." It was capitally done; the make-ups and acting were particularly good. The cast was:

Mr. Harwood, Harford's father-in-law, Mr. Schumacher
Mrs. Harwood, Harford's mother-in-law, Miss Waldron
Henry Harford, Mr. Keyes
Jessy Harford, his wife, Miss Rodgers
James, Harford's servant, Mr. Carr
Lucy, a servant, Miss Smith

During intermission Miss Florence Steele, at the piano, played several selections, and the audience patronized the home-made candy table, presided over by Miss Prescott and her Sunday school class.

There were great anticipations of the much talked of "marvellous minstrel show," and the stage was eagerly watched as the curtain rose on the second part of the entertainment. Only the interlocutor, the tambos and bones were blacked up, and they wore high colored and fantastic costumes. The boys in the chorus wore the conventional black and the girls white with red kerchiefs and belts.

Mr. Sydney Hardwick was the interlocutor.

The tambos were Miss Abigail Waldron and Clark Saville, and the bones Miss Edna Smith and Mr. Robert Hardwick. In the chorus were:

Girls—Stella Barker, Janet Carr, Alice Claflin, Muriel Clapp, Nana Fisher, Avah Gilson, Marion Howe, Mildred Huston, Olive Huston, Edith Lovejoy, Mabel Lovejoy, Miriam Marsh, Ella Packard, Mollie Rodgers, Muriel Rogers, Lela Smith, Grace Spear, Harriet Spooner, Florence Steele, Irma Tilton, Harriet Waldron, Carlena Walker.

Boys—Gordon Adams, Sidney Carr, Harry Drake, Lorenzo Gilson, Harry Holton, William Howe, Brooks Keyes, Hutcheon Mitchell, Frank Patch, Morton Smith, Avard Sproul, Houghton Schumacher, Brewster Walker, Ralph Winslow.

At the piano Miss Minnie Packard accompanied with good expression.

The following program was rendered:

Opening Chorus—"Teasing."
End Song—"Lindy," Mr. Clark Saville
Song,—"Tessie," Miss Muriel Clapp
Duet,—"Shadows on the Hearth," Messrs. Harry Drake and Frank Patch
Buck and Wing Dance, Mr. Bobby Hardwick
Accompanied on the African Harp by Mr. Sydney Hardwick.
Song,—"Sylvie," Mr. Keyes

The solos were interspersed with jokes and pointed questions and answers by the interlocutor, tambos and bones, which were new and original, causing much laughter. The proposed city scales in City Square were rapped, and it was suggested after they were located to change the name to Fish Square, on account of the scales. The church organ also came in for its usual joke.

The first soloist on the program was donated a cabbage, melon and etc., at the close of his song, as a slight token of the appreciation of the audience. Miss Clapp made a hit in her song "Tessie," and had to repeat it. She looked charmingly and sang sweetly. Messrs. Drake and Patch also had to respond with another verse of their song "Shadows on the Hearth."

The buck and wing dance by Bobby Hardwick was a special feature, and he was accompanied on the African harp by Mr. Sydney Hardwick. A mischievous little darky brought on the implements necessary, for the proper doing of the turn, which consisted of a chair, a music rack and lastly the immense case containing the African harp. After much straining the musician succeeded in lifting the harp from the case. It proved to be a little ordinary harmonica. The dance was well done and a repetition given. The The last solo was by Mr. Keyes, and it also received hearty applause, to which he responded with another verse. The chorus came in well on the refrains and were strong and in good voice.

For a grand finale, a burlesque on the balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet was given by Miss Smith as Romeo, and Miss Waldron as Juliet. The balcony, rope ladder, moon, and all the accessories were there. It brought down the house. Poor Billy Shakespear would have held up his hands in horror at the actors' interpretations—so dramatic—so touching.

A little verse which did not escape notice on the program read:

Mary had a great big hat
With feathers whi e as snow.
But Mary takes that hat right off
When she comes to our show.

The whole entertainment was carried out entirely by the young people of the Sunday school, ably directed by Mr. Emery L. Crane, and assisted by the teachers. It was universally conceded that the older members of the parish will have to look to their laurels in future, as the young people are close rivals as entertainers.

It was hoped to raise by the entertainment a hundred dollars or more for the Sunday school, and judging by the crowded house last evening and also this afternoon, and the sale of over thirteen dollars worth of home-made candy, this sum should be realized even though the price of tickets was very moderate.

SIGNAL VICTORY.

Miss Haley Tells of the Teachers' Struggle in Chicago.

Miss Margaret A. Haley presiden of the Chicago Teachers' Federation, gave a lecture at the High School hall last evening on the work which the Federation has accomplished.

Miss Haley has risen rapidly to national prominence for her wonderfully successful fight against the tax dodging corporations of Chicago, the result of which was to add to the taxable prop- $238,000,000, which had been permitted to go untaxed.

Her lecture was a pleasant gossipy talk of incidents connected with the struggle, all of which she saw and in which she bore the principal part. It seems like a paraphrase of the story of David and Goliath in which the shepherd lad with a few small pebbles overcame the mailed giant.

Miss Haley with an association of teachers nursing a grievance—positive of the justice and righteousness of their cause, and possessing "a splendid equipment of ignorance" of ways and means, succeeded in gaining a single victory over the trusts and corporations who were aided by two car loads of the ablest corporation lawyers of Chicago.

That a Quincy audience should listen with interest two hours to the stirring tales of which she had personal knowledge is strong enough evidence of Miss Haley's extraodinary qualifications for the platform.

Rev. W. B. Barr, will give a stereopticon No-License talk at the Washington Street Congregational church this evening. Everyone residing in Ward Two is cordially invited to be present, as a most interesting talk is promised.

Tomorrow is "No-License Rally Day."

MILLINERY VAGARIES.

A Substitute For the Bandeau—Buttons That Are Fashionable.

An important innovation in winter millinery is a substitute for the bandeau which is worn underneath the brim of the fashionable hat. It is either placed at the back, at one side or around the entire crown, according to the shape treated and the style of the wearer. Now instead of the bandeau a few persons in the flight of fashion are wearing a kind of little lace cap consisting of a center of about three inches across of net or some soft material, with a rather thick quilling or ruching around the edge. The tiny construction is pinned on the hair, and over this the hat is tilted at a becoming angle.

Over a pretty and youthful face a dainty little lace cap or colored ruching coquettishly placed adds a certain charm to the wearer.

Buttons of velvet and cloth are included in the list of smart trimmings, and others with velvet centers and leather rims.

A charming demitoilet gown in white taffeta has a double row of small coral buttons decorating the waistcoat, two larger specimens being repeated on the basque at the back.

The charming hat in the cut is of pale blue beaver, with a band of darker velvet inserted, with embroidery encircling the double crown. Two shaded blue tips droop over the crown at the back, and a third falls over the hair under the brim.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

—Maine's porcupine law has proved expensive, and disappointment to everybody but the porcupine killers. The legislature enacted that 25 cents should be paid for every porcupine killed, with an appropriation of $500 for paying the expense thereof. Evidently no census of the porcupines had ever been taken, for the mighty hunters of Maine turned to and slaughtered in one year 60,000 of the little beasts, though there is an intimation that some of them were imported from New Brunswick. Sixty thousand at 25 cents each would figure $15,000, or $14,500 more than the sum set apart for the payment.—Milford Gazette.

ODELL FOR BLACK

Ex-Governor Slated to Succeed Depew In the Senate

THE RESULT OF A TRADE

Black's Strength at Saratoga Contributed Largely to Higgins' Nomination, For Which He Was to Get Senatorship

Washington, Dec. 3.—"The Republican party of New York state wants to have ex-Governor Black made its next United States senator and there is no doubt in my mind that he will be elected to that position at the coming session of the legislature," said Representative Littauer, who is recognized as one of Governor Odell's chief lieutenants and close personal friends, after a conference at the White House. Littauer further said:

"The president gave me very positive assurances that he is taking no hand in the New York senatorial situation, and will not do so. We have felt all the time that this would be his policy, but are gratified to have it definitely announced. Odell and his friends will control the legislature of New York and the people of the state desire that this should be the case. Whatever Odell wants in the matter of senatorial succession would naturally have great weight with the members of the legislature. He is the recognized leader of the party."

Mr. Littauer declared that six years ago Senator Platt and Odell determined upon the election of Depew as senator and the legislature agreed with their views. There will be no objection to a similar method of selection today. It is also understood that the postmaster of Washington, John A. Merritt of New York, will soon be reappointed. He has made a respectable postmaster and is the friend of Platt. This decision is interpreted in political circles here as an indication that the New York city postoffice fight has been ended, as the two matters had somewhat hinged on each other.

The decision of the New York leaders to make Black their candidate to succeed Depew is believed to result from a trade made at the Saratoga convention last summer. In the rivalry between Platt backing Woodruff on one side, and Odell on the other, Black controlled enough delegates to make himself a strong factor, and it was commonly believed at the time that these were not thrown for Higgins until it had been assured that Black would have the Odell support for the United States senatorship.

Littauer's announcement is regarded as the most significant declaration of the plans of the Odell organization which has yet been made, since it may be taken as reflecting the purposes of the governor-chairman.

Confirmation by Odell

New York, Dec. 3.—Governor Odell was asked last night if former Governor Black could be considered as a receptive candidate for the United States senatorship to succeed Senator Depew. "Yes," said the governor, "I think it can be said that Mr. Black is receptive."

Race Narrowed Down to Two

Indianapolis, Dec. 3.—Congressman Landis and Harry S. New, vice chairman of the national Republican committee, last night withdrew their names from the contest for the seat of Senator Fairbanks, vice president-elect. The only remaining candidates are Congressmen Hemenway and Crumpacker.

McClellan Suits Tammany

New York, Dec. 3.—The declaration is made by C. F. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall, that Mayor McClellan will be renominated for another term.

Business Overtaxes Railways

New York, Dec. 3.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that holiday goods are moving freely, and in staple lines there is more activity, even the products that are between seasons finding a fair market. Packing and shipping departments are increasing forces, and traffic congestion at several points indicates that the growth of business has overtaxed railway facilities.

Ferryboat Passengers In Panic

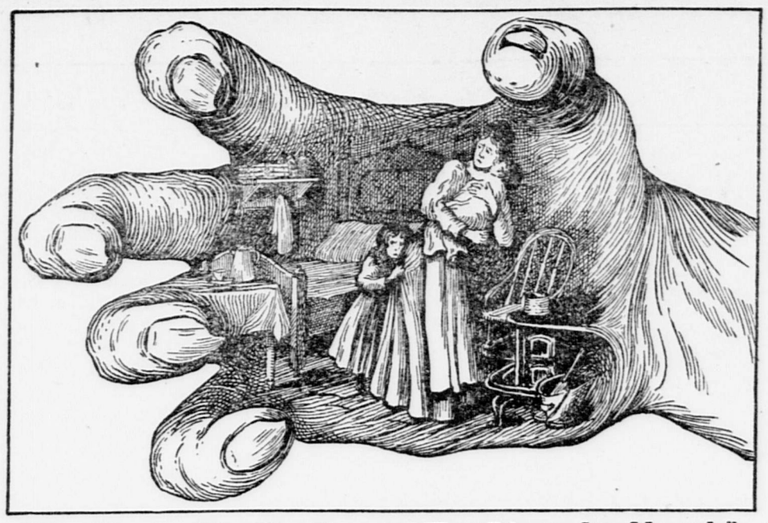
New York Dec. 3.—Eight hundred passengers on the ferryboat Paunpeck of the Hoboken ferry were thrown into a panic last night and seven were injured when the boat was struck and somewhat damaged in mid-stream by a Hudson river steamer, the name of which has not yet been learned. The Paunpeck was able to proceed to her dock in Hoboken.

In Need of War Funds

St. Petersburg, Dec. 3.—A commission consisting of about 100 representatives of the ministry of finance from various parts of the empire is sitting here, considering the question of extraordinary taxation, which is necessary to defray the expenses of the war. Many projects are being discussed, but no conclusions have been reached.

Villagers Starved to Death

Irkutsk, Dec. 3.—The inhabitants of two villages in the Gishilinsk district have died of starvation. Famine prevails throughout the district, owing to the scarcity of fish. Two steamers loaded with provisions have arrived, but too late to save great numbers of people.



The Liquor Traffic Forced To "Show Its Hand."

The lips of the mother are cold with grief, and her children shiver and shrink,
For the man who once could let it alone is the pitiful slave to drink.

THE MOTHER'S APPEAL.

MOTHER.

O, Mr. Saloonman, I beg you don't sell
The stuff to my son that may send him to hell;
Remember how dear to my heart he must be,
And let him to-night return sober to me.

SALOON-KEEPER.

They licensed me, madam, to sell him the stuff,—
The fool ought to know when he's had enough.
You can't expect me to refuse all who come;
My business it is to sell drinkers their rum.

MOTHER.

O, Mr. Saloonman, I beg you to think
How much it may mean if you sell him the drink.
His soul's in peril, don't wreck it for gain;
Don't make it another young life you have slain.

SALOON-KEEPER.

Go yonder, and talk to the men who have said
I may sell—to the voters who stand at the head
Of the church where you pray; don't be whining away
In this place they have licensed—go yonder, I say.

MOTHER.

O, Mr. Saloonman, they say you may sell;
But whose is the sin if you send him to hell?
He buys at your bar what must bring him to shame;
For all that may follow God holds you to blame.

SALOON-KEEPER.

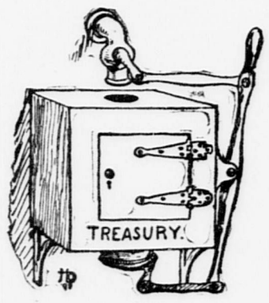
No, madam, the sin's not mine at the first;
For it shall I be the only one cursed?
The men who permit me to sell are the ones
To settle with God if I ruin your sons.

VOTE NO

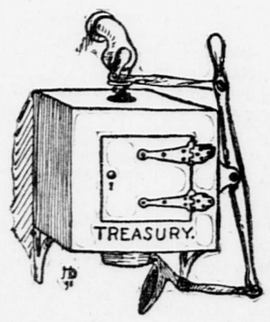
On the License Question

At the City Election on Tuesday.

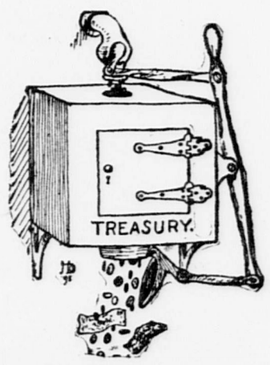
DON'T LOSE YOUR MONEY BY LICENSE.



Here stands the strong box,
Fast with bolts and with locks,
Containing the tax you have paid;
The faucet above
May be worked with a shove
By the handle so plainly displayed.



Thus dimes may flow in,
All tainted with sin,
When the voters for license implore;
But you've already seen
How the fatal machine
Also opens a valve 'neath the floor.



So it always is found,
The wide world around,
Whatever the ticket or times,—
When you vote in the rum
There's a reckoning to come,—
You lose dollars by taking in dimes.

The lesson to learn
You can plainly discern,
Is to vote as your reason would show;
Then hustle your men,
And cheer us again,
With a hearty and numerous NO!

PACKING GIFTS.

How Christmas Presents May Be Wrapped Up Attractively.

Even the most long wished for or the most charming gift is robbed of some of the joyous Christmas spirit if it is sent carelessly wrapped or is done up like an ordinary everyday parcel, and even the most simple gift receives an added grace if it is put up attractively and is accompanied by a bright, pleasant greeting.

The Christmas gifts may be given a festal appearance at a very small outlay of time and money by wrapping them in scarlet or white paper and tying them with scarlet ribbon, fastening a sprig of holly in the bows, says a writer in What to Do. The effect will be so cheery and Christmas-like that manila paper and twine will never be thought of again.

Little boxes, such as jewelers' boxes, wrap up in white paper; candy or similar shaped boxes in two papers, the inner one white, the outer one scarlet. Gather the ends up on top, clip into points and frill out. Wrap books in scarlet paper, pin cushions or other fancy work in white, bundles in scarlet or white and scarlet, tying at the ends with ribbon. Umbrellas and canes wind with strips of white and scarlet paper, transforming them into time honored candy canes.

In doing up china sets for the bureau or desk, or oatmeal or tete-a-tetes, wrap the pieces in scarlet paper, gather up on top and tie. Then clip into poinsettia blooms. Wrap the tray or plate in green paper and tie the blossoms on with ribbon. Cards the size of a visiting card may be bought as cheap as a penny apiece. More expensive cards may of course be purchased if one's purse holds out. A very pretty card has a border of holly in colors, with a blank space to write or letter the Christmas wish upon. This may be the usual greeting or a quotation. Any of the following lines are pleasant wishes to send with a gift:

Yule logs of love burn in the heart
With rosy warmth and cheer,
And Care—well, may she come at most Like Christmas, once a year.

A happy Christmas to you.
May it bring you all fair things
With the sweetest remembrance
That about its coming clings.

Sunbeams bless thy Christmas day—
Gladness with thee dwell for aye.

A better gift you may have, but not with better heart.

Our true intent is all for your delight.

How to Illuminate the Tree.

The illumination of the tree is an important problem, for by the indiscreet use of candles many a joyous Christmas has been turned into one of mourning. Tiny Japanese lanterns are much safer than unshielded candles, and they give a prettier effect. The small square lanterns with colored mica sides are also safe, for they have a sponge in the bottom that may be saturated with kerosene. When the wick is lighted it burns brightly and lasts longer than ordinary wax candles.

How to Make a Novel Pincushion.

Men are often glad of a pincushion to hang up in their rooms, provided only that is it not too feminine in appearance. A very novel pincushion can be made of a pipe case, which should be new and fresh looking and which it is often possible to obtain for nothing from a brother or a friend. Make a cushion exactly to fit the hollow which held the pipe or a little larger, as it must be well pushed into the case, the hollow being covered beforehand with glue. The cushion should be stuffed with sawdust or anything soft and covered with some pretty velveteen or silk, the color being carefully chosen to match or contrast with the case. A pale brown or fawn color looks well as a rule. Of course the pipe case will be double, being open, and one side can, if desired, be left as it is or utilized as a cushion for needles. A ribbon bow of color to match must be added at the top to hang it up by.

How to Prepare Turkey Salad.

For the supper table Christmas night chicken or turkey salad in a cranberry mold is delicious. Make the cranberry jelly and mold in a ring. Turn out very carefully just before serving and fill the center with the salad. Turkey salad, by the way, is as good as, if not better, than chicken salad when mixed with plenty of celery and a few walnut meats.

How to Make Imitation Snowballs.

A Christmas tree decoration that is easily and inexpensively made at home is snowballs. A coil of fine picture wire, a box of diamond powder and a bundle of cotton batting (not sheet wadding) are the materials needed. The wire is cut in various short lengths, a wad of the cotton thrust upon it, patted into shape to look like a ball, and the powder dusted over it from a perforated toilet powder box. The other end of the wire is bent over to form a fastening, and the ball is ready for the tree. It is effective to have the balls vary in size from that of a small apple to a large orange.

How to Roast Lamb With Chestnuts.

Season the meat with salt and pepper and roast. Dish on a hot plate, garnish with parsley, pimolas and French chestnuts boiled until tender. Shell and blanch the nuts and brown in the gravy from the lamb. This is a very decorative dish for one so plain as roast lamb.

How to Serve the Christmas Pudding.

Turn the last pudding out on a heated platter and in the top stick a sprig of holly. Dip one-half dozen lumps of sugar in alcohol and place round the base of the pudding. Touch a lighted match to each lump, carry quickly to the table and place before the hostess.

Raising Christmas Funds

I WAS going home to spend Christmas. As I had no children—indeed, was not married—holidays, especially Christmas, bored me. I wished the season were over and the new year begun. The train pulled out of the station, and I took up a newspaper.

Suddenly my paper was crushed back on my face, a pair of small arms were thrown around my neck and the round face of a boy about four years old was thrust within an inch of my nose. By what right he assumed to treat a perfect stranger in this demonstrative fashion I could not conceive.

"You little scamp, what do you mean?"

"I'm goin' home to spend Christmas."

At that moment the conductor came along for tickets and told me that the boy had been put in his charge. He was to meet his father at St. Louis.

The little imp unclasped his hands as suddenly as he had clasped them and made a dash for the door. I dashed after him, reviling the parent who would put a child his age in the care of a conductor, and dragged him back. This I did a dozen times during the day. When not trying to get on the platform he was trying to sell an old knife (no blades) to the passengers to raise Christmas money. At first they put him away, some of them impatiently, others gently, but he was so persistent and got up such remarkable financial schemes that at last every one in the car was laughing at him.

There was something in this irresponsible naturalness that won my heart. At nightfall, since there was no one to pay any attention to him, I called the porter, fed him and told him to make up the child's berth, which happened to be directly opposite my own. Then the boy got sleepy, and I told him the sandman was coming around to weight his lids, and if he didn't keep awake till he was undressed he wouldn't see the old fellow. I wished to keep him awake till the porter could undress him. Nevertheless he fell asleep in my arms, and as the porter was busy I concluded to undress him myself.

"Wake up!" I said, shaking him.

He opened his eyes. "Has the sandman been around?" was his first question.

"I should think so; long ago. It's bedtime."

It was a hard hunt I had all over his little body for buttons, but I found them. His shoe laces were in a knot, but I untied them and put him to bed in his undergarments. Giving me a hug like a bear cub he fell back on the pillow and was asleep before I could cover him up.

Before turning in myself I took a look at him to assure myself he was all right. Drawing the curtains, the lamplight fell on his face. What a picture of innocence! Where was he going? He didn't know. Who took care of him? He didn't care. Perhaps the parent who had sent for him was at that moment anxious about him and regretted letting him come in such a way. I had a dread that he would wake up in the middle of the night with colic. But if his parent worried, if I worried, there was one who was not in the least troubled about him. It was himself.

In the night I dreamed that I was being garroted. I awoke and found myself tightly clasped around the neck. I put my hand up to discover what was choking me and felt a tiny arm with a hand on it no bigger than my watch and five soft little fingers. A stream of lamplight came in where the curtains hung loose. It revealed the boy sound asleep. How he got there I didn't know, and I doubt if he knew himself.

The next morning he resumed his negotiations with the passengers to raise Christmas money, but the most impudent thing he did was to ask me if he had not lent me 3 cents the night before. This to me, who had spent money for him and had taken such care of him!

I felt a touch on my shoulder and turned my head. A gentleman in the seat behind me, with a benevolent face and a twinkle in his eye, was looking at me.

"One can admire even impudence," he said, "if it amounts to genius. This boy is certainly a genius of effrontery. He ought to be encouraged. What do you say to a collection for him for Christmas?"

By way of reply I dropped a silver dollar in my hat and gave it to the speaker, who duplicated the coin and sent the hat through the car, the passengers passing it from hand to hand. When it came back it contained $6.50. I let the child handle it, then took care of it for him till his arrival at his destination. When we stopped at a station on the outskirts of St. Louis a man boarded the car and, coming up to the boy, took him in his arms and kissed him. But the one who can become familiar on short acquaintance is not likely to permit familiarities in others. The child planted his fist right between the eyes of his captor.

The man explained to us that he was the boy's father and his child had been away long enough to forget him.

I took the father's address and during the day (Christmas) went to the house. I found very nice people in impoverished circumstances. Their boy had taken home with him the wherewithal to buy a Christmas dinner.

QUEER CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Small Particles of Radium Presented by London Women.

There is this to be said of the latest fad of London society women—the giving of small particles of radium as Christmas presents—that none of the recipients can complain of having received a cheap gift. To give radium in this way costs from $10 to $50, the outfit necessary therefor consisting of a "spinthariscope" and a speck of the new metal hardly big enough to be seen with the naked eye.

Sir William Crookes, the English scientist, invented the spinthariscope, which is a kind of microscope through which small quantities of the precious stuff can be examined to better advantage. The spinthariscope sold by a London chemist who has the radium monopoly is about the size of a finger ring case and has an opening for the eye something like that in a child's kaleidoscope. By taking the apparatus into a darkened room and squinting through the eyehole one can see flashes of constantly varying light shooting in all directions, like miniature fireworks.

The idea of making Christmas gifts of radium has proved uncommonly infectious, and the run on the chemist's stock necessitated hasty communication with the firms in Bavaria and Austria who supply most of the radium that reaches England.—Washington Post.

Christmas Hints.

A simple and tasteful homemade picture frame may be constructed from common gas pipe cut into suitable length and tied together at the corners with shoe strings. A neat paperweight may be made by wrapping half a brick in paper such as butchers use and tying it with red tape. A dainty towel rack may be fabricated from a baseball bat and two cigar boxes. Shellac the boxes and sandpaper the bat. An ordinary cobblestone hand painted with lampblack and household ammonia makes an excellent door weight. A novel pipe rack for fastidious smokers may be made from a small strip of one inch plank. Bore holes in it for the stems of the pipes to pass through. A dried muskmelon shell makes an attractive tobacco jar.

Christmas Superstitions.

There are many Christmas superstitions long held as articles of faith that are to be recalled—how that oxen kneel in their stalls at midnight on Christmas eve in adoration of the Nativity and for one hour have the power of speech; for that one hour, too, the lost spirits have rest. Judas sleeps, Herod ceases to clank his chains, the daughter of Herodias may pause in the dance in which she is condemned to spin forever, and Pilate's ghost ceases its wanderings on Mount Pilatus. It was believed, too, that the sound of church bells could be heard wherever a church had stood, though no trace remain, and that on that pregnant night one sleeping in a manger would see his future in a vision.—Country Life In America.

Bringing In the Yule Log.

The Yule log is a remnant of the Juul, when the Scandinavians used to kindle huge fires in honor of their god Thor. In some parts of old England bringing in the Yule log was the principal ceremony of Christmas eve. Part of the log was carefully preserved to light the Yule log of the succeeding year. It was believed that a piece of the log in the house was a security against fire, and if a squinting person entered the room while it was burning all sorts of ill luck would come to the family.

Old Ideas About Christmas.

Even as late as 1753 there was some doubt as to the exact date of Christmas, the old count bringing it to the 5th of January, the new count giving us the 25th of December, which is "the day we celebrate." In Devonshire, England, it is believed that if the sun shines at noon on Christmas day a plentiful apple crop may be looked for in the following year.—National Illustrated Magazine.

The Sheriff's Christmas Dinner.

Deacon Johnson gib a dinner
At he cabin Christmas day;
Ax de preacher, all de deacons—
Nary deacon stay away!

An' hit sholy did look scrumptious
When dey got de table sot—
Chickin, possum meat an' turkey,
All so brown an' smokin' hot!

Den de preacher ax de blessin',
An' des bar'ly hab got dun
When de sheriff bus' de do' in,
An' Br'er Johnson tuck an' run!

Den de sheriff lick he mustache,
An' he says ter ole Sis Lou,
"Well, Ah see Ah've missed de deacon,
But Ah think de dinner 'll do!"

The Colonel Did Not Propose to Be Outdone

"IT is very amusing to me," said a gentleman recently, "the way people act when they are asked to subscribe to any fund of any kind. The way to catch them is to tell them that somebody else whom they know very well and who is about equally well off has given a large sum—that is, of course, if the person soliciting does not mind acting the role of Ananias, if the cause is a good one, as for charity or something of the kind. If Mr. Moneybags has given $50 toward the fund it must be magnified into $100 in order to make Mr. Closefist give the same amount. If Mr. Moneybags has given $50 originally, it should be brought to his attention that Mr. Closefist has just doubled the amount, and the chances are Mr. Moneybags will also give $50 extra. Competition is not only the life of trade, but of the subscription business," continued the gentleman. "It is only by working both ends against the middle that the successful end is reached.

"This reminds me of something which happened during the war. Two regiments were stationed on opposite sides of the river. A chaplain went to work on the men composing the regiment stationed on the north side of the river with good success. A number of the men were converted, and he left that regiment and went to continue his missionary work in the regiment on the south side of the river. After laboring some time, a longer time than he had done with the other regiment, he found that he would not be so successful. Only about a dozen men were baptized from the last regiment. The chaplain had a talk with the colonel and mentioned the fact that so few of the men had been baptized.

"'How many men did you say were baptized in the other regiment?' the colonel asked the chaplain sharply.

"'Twenty-four,' was the reply from the chaplain.

"The colonel turned quickly around to his orderly with the quick command: 'Detail thirty-five men at once to be baptized immediately by the chaplain. I don't propose to let any one horse regiment get ahead of us in any way. We've got a reputation to sustain.'

"It is needless to say the order was carried out, and by the baptizing of the additional thirty-five men just about double the number were christened as were in the other regiment."—Washington Star.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

James Thompson, the Republican candidate for Mayor, has adopted a platform which should command the hearty support of all voters who desire that the city of Quincy should be well governed.

It must be admitted that there is a strong demand for changes in some of the heads of the departments at City Hall. Mr. Thompson has not criticised any, and says he has made no promises to retain any, but assures the voters that he favors a "change for the public good in those officers who have neglected their duties to become active politicians."

This was his stand before the caucuses, and he considers that the caucuses endorsed his platform so that "where, in public opinion, changes for the best interest of the community in city officers are required these will be made without fear or favor."

With these assurances Quincy could not ask for a better occupant of the executive chair than James Thompson; long a respected citizen, an upright business man, a gentleman with experience in city and state affairs, and in every way able and worthy.

Some good timber is also to be found this year in the new Republican candidates for the City Council, and we look for an improvement in the legislative branch of our city government.

Drift of Opinion

People who desire to lead a simple life should go to the python for instruction. One of those huge snakes was recently shipped to Lawton, Oklahoma, and word was sent to the shipper, asking what the snake should feed on. Reply came that the python was fed last July, and would not require anything more till next July. This astonished the inquirer, and made the one-meal a-day cranks look silly.—Lynn Item.

☞ The insanity experts in New Hampshire have examined a prisoner held on charge of murder of an aged woman and have decided that the fellow shows signs of moral degeneracy, whereupon the proper sentence of law is suspended and the prisoner is hustled to an insane asylum. If that is to be the test of responsibility to the law, the whole category of criminals will be sent to the insane asylums instead of to the jails and prisons for it doesn't require an expert's diagnosis to discover signs of moral degeneracy in any of them.—Haverhill Gazette.

WORTHY TRIBUTE.

Paid to the Late Peter P. Gomez.

Services at Universalist Church.

Knights and Ladies of Honor and Red Men Assist.

The funeral of Peter P. Gomez was held yesterday afternoon from the Universalist church, the church in which he took a deep interest and for whose welfare he worked so diligently. There was a large attendance of church people at the services. In addition, Maple lodge, Knights and Ladies of Honor was present in a body, also a delegation from Nahanton tribe of Red Men, and shopmates at the factory where he was employed.

The body encased in a black covered casket rested in front of the desk, and on it was the regalia of the two orders with which he was affiliated while all around was a wealth of beautiful flowers.

Rev. C. H. Emmons, pastor of the church, conducted the services and the eulogy was given by Rev. Merrill C. Ward, former pastor of the church.

Rev. Mr. Ward said in part, that while gathered in sorrow, we are attracted by the work and love of this good and sincere life. The tributes we give him are not the mere words of an hour, but a tribute that can only be paid with our lives. You have a deeper and more lasting duty than this. Let the family feel your sympathy. Let them see your faces and feel your words of comfort in the days which are to follow. It is for us to search more deeply and find the hidden springs of comfort that arise out of things that are not material.

The thoughts in which we find comfort is the memory in our minds of him. The scenes of life in which he has played some important part in our lives. In memory's picture you will see him as in life doing his duty faithfully in this church in a hundred simple ways. His face was ever the same; ever generous, kindly and considerate. Priceless are these pictures in the mind's gallery. You have the impressions his life and character have made upon your own. We feel his sterling worth and sincere character.

As you saw him once you saw him for all time. He despised sham. He has set an example for us all. His life was one worth emulating for ourselves. For his life among us we shall find it a little harder to do wrong; a little easier to do right. God grant the message of his life may be a comfort to you all today.

During the services Mr. John Greene sang two solos, "Face to Face" and "Passing out of the Shadow."

The officers of Maple lodge then formed about the casket and performed their burial service, after which an opportunity was afforded for a last look at the face of their friend.

The remains were taken to Braintree where they were met by Nahanton tribe of Red Men and escorted to the Pond cemetery where the burial services of the Red Men were performed.

The bearers at the services were Chas. Crane and Thomas C. Hewson, representing Maple lodge, and F. A. Adams, Charles Bridgham, James Vining, N. B. Furnald and A. G. Stroms representing the Red Men.

The floral tributes included:

Pillow, from family.

Wreath, from Walter V. Loud.

Broken wreath, from Universalist Society.

Triangle, from Maple Lodge, 313.

Spray white pinks, from Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hunt.

White chrysanthemums, from Mr. and Mrs. A. Clarence Loud.

Mounted anchor, from employes of Whitcomb & Paine, Holbrook.

Crescent, from Improved order of Red Men, Nahanton tribe of Braintree.

A GLAD HAND

Extended to Candidate Thompson in Ward Six.

James Thompson, the Republican candidate for Mayor was present at Music hall, Atlantic, last evening, as the guest of the ward committee. Although the fact that Mr. Thompson was to be present was not generally known a good number of citizens gathered at the hall to meet him.

Mr. Thompson arrived in the ward late in the afternoon and was entertained with prominent Atlantic residents at an informal lunch by Roger H. Wilde. He arrived at Music hall about 8.30, and found the ward committee hard at work in one of the side rooms planning to get out a large vote next Tuesday. After being greeted by the gentlemen of the committee, he was escorted to the hall, where the gentlemen present were given an opportunity to shake hands with their candidate. Mr. Thompson was presented by Councilman Gassett, ex-Councilman Hill and others of the ward committee.

It was not intended that there should be any speaking, but after cigars had been passed there seemed to be a desire on the part of those present to have Mr. Thompson address them, which he did in an informal manner.

Mr. Thompson said that he was pleased to be present. Quincy was growing fast and the changes about the city were many. He spoke briefly of the sewer and water, for which the city was taxed a large amount; yet they were of great benefit.

He also referred to the schools, the fire, the police and the highway departments, for which the city was taxed a large amount. They were, however, a part of the housekeeping expenses of the city, and said the benefits received by all from these were great.

The sewer and water was something that had been special during the past few years. They had entered largely into the taxes, but while heavy it gave a large advantageous return to the city in public health.

Daniel McGrath, chairman of the ward committee also spoke briefly. He recounted the excellent record of of Mr. Thompson, and told of his kindly feeling toward the working men and the high regard in which he was held by them.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

Councilman Bass Favors Reelection of President Nichols.

Councilman Bass Jr., the chairman of the Finance Committee of the City Council was surprised to learn that his name was mentioned in connection with the Presidency of the next City Council.

He desires the Daily Ledger to say that, if elected, he will not be a candidate for the office of President. Further, President Nichols of the present City Council, has served faithfully as presiding officer this year, and is entitled to a reelection.

Councilman Bass is of the opinion that there will be no contest for the Presidency of the City Council of 1905.

PRIMITIVE BOOKS.

How They Were Made by the Ancient Battaks of Sumatra.

A near approach to the form of a modern book was made by an obscure people called the Battaks, who in olden days inhabited the island of Sumatra. They invented, or adopted from some unknown source, a form of book consisting of a long strip of bark five or six inches wide and closely resembling a piece of Egyptian papyrus.

They seem to have taken a distinct step forward in the bookmaking art, for instead of rolling their strips of bark in Egyptian fashion they folded them into accordion plaits, so that they took exactly the form of modern books with uncut leaves.

Wooden covers were then put on either side, and the whole was sometimes bound together with a piece of snakeskin. Had the Battak scribe gone one step further by cutting the leaves and writing on both sides the result would have been an exact prototype of a modern book.

The Hindoos used a palm leaf two or three inches wide, cut in sections and dried. Each section may be compared with the leaf of a book, and they were piled up in sequence or perforated and strung together like a venetian blind.

The Woman's Guild of Christ church advertises their annual fair which is to be held in the Parish house next week Tuesday and Wednesday. They are to make a specialty of Christmas gifts.

The young people of First church Sunday school are to give a matinee at half-past two today of the dramatics and minstrel show which they gave in the chapel last evening to a crowded house.

Owing to the first Tuesday in the month being election day the regular meeting of the Quincy Day Nursery association will be postponed to Dec. 13th and held as usual in the council chamber at City Hall.

Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, hold a sewing bee and box luncheon party all day Monday, December fifth, at the birthplace of President John Adams. All ladies interested in the chapter and their work are invited to attend.

At the matinee whist held at Mrs. B. Porterfield's on Thursday afternoon, nine tables were in play, the winners being: Mrs. Phelan, Mrs. J. A. Silva, Mrs. D. McLennan, Mrs. W. P. Gardner, Mrs. A. Wilscher, Mrs. Donahue, Miss Mildred Rogers, Mrs. C. Hobart and Mrs. McKenzie.

One can realize what a great blessing the Day Nursery has become to mothers who are obliged to go out each day, for their little ones are kept warm and comfortable and carefully looked after, relieving the mothers of many anxious hours. The number of children cared for is constantly increasing.

The Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters will meet with Mrs. George H. York, 22 Phillips street, Wollaston, on Monday evening, December 5. The circle will also hold a cake and candy sale on December 9, from 4 to 8 o'clock, at Mrs. E. W. Bowker's, 313 Highland avenue, for the benefit of the poor at Christmas time.

—President Roosevelt's offer to Senate Cockrell, of Missouri, of a choice between a place on the Panama canal commission and a place as civil service commissioner is certainly generous, considering that Senator Cockrell is an old-line Democrat. The senator's coming retirement from the senate, however, is generally regretted, and the President's proffer is in line with the principles of civil service reform, which does not consider partisanship, when a man is fit for office.—Somerville Journal.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, in buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

BRAINTREE.

John Barbour has gone west on a business trip.

On Tuesday evening, Rev. Matthew McDonnell was agreeably surprised by his relatives, who took possession of his home, and after a most enjoyable evening, left with him a large sum of money, as a souvenir of their invasion.

Continued cheering news comes to us from John W. Cuff. His return to his home is promised the early part of next week.

Miss Minnie Holmes, of this town but late of Franklin, died on Tuesday of tuberculosis after an illness of twenty months. She was an estimable young woman and her early death is mourned by a large number of friends.

A public Novena (nine days prayer) is being held at St. Francis' church as a fitting closing to the jubilee in honor of the Immaculate Conception, whose feast will be celebrated on Wednesday of next week.

The Ladies' Cemetery Improvement Association of Weymouth and East Braintree held a successful fair Wednesday evening in Lincoln hall, Weymouth. Mr. D. G. Doane had charge of the entertainment and presented the farce entitled "Brother Bill and Me," with a good cast:

The afternoon of Dec. 6, at 3 o'clock, the Philergians will meet at Pythian hall. A lecture on Robert Burns will be given by Miss Sarah A. Hamlin of Dean academy, Franklin, illustrated by music. Each club member has the privilege of inviting two guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morrison of Quincy spent Sunday with their aunt, Mrs. P. E. Moore.

The town hall has been thoroughly equipped with the Underwriter's fire extinguishers as required by the laws of the state.

Last Saturday afternoon little Miss Esther Cone celebrated her eleventh birthday by giving a party at her home on Tremont street, to which she invited fifteen of her playmates. They had a delightful time playing games and at three o'clock dainty refreshments were served. Miss Esther was the recipient of many gifts in memory of the occasion.

Mrs. Harry K. Perkins has returned to her home in Bridgewater after making an extended visit to her parents Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Borden of Franklin street.

The funeral service of Mr. George Wales who died Thursday morning will be held at the home, Cleveland avenue, this afternoon at 2.30 and the interment will be in Blue Hill cemetery.

Mr. W. L. Gage's dog had a narrow escape at the River street crossing Thursday morning. He was struck by the cow catcher of an inward train and thrown about thirty feet.

All Souls monthly social last evening in Cochato hall opened with a Dutch supper and was a great success. The committee, Mrs. W. A. Norton, Mrs. W. J. Harrison, Mrs. G. E. Williams, Mrs. Edith Morrison, Mrs. W. S. Lefavour and Miss Bertha Thayer were quaintly dressed with Dutch cap and handkerchief. The sale table of Christmas articles was well patronized and dancing enjoyed.

Mrs. George W. Stevens and Mrs. Marion C. Gillette attended the annual state convention of the King's daughters and sons held in the Methodist church, Temple street, Boston, Tuesday and Wednesday, November 29 and 30. They were privileged to witness a consecrations service conducted by Mrs. Margaret Bottome of New York, president of the international order. Special appeals were made for the Pond Home which is the especial county works of the King's daughters and sons of Norfolk county.

Editor E. S. Grover of the "Shoe and Leather Reporter" 183 Essex street, Boston, now living in Roslindale, has bought a lot of land at the corner of Academy and Tremont streets, and will erect at once a modern house of seven rooms for his family residence. Mr. J. E. Barter of Roslindale is the builder.

Mrs. M. A. Leger of Lynn, commences revival services at the Baptist church next Sunday morning at 10.30 o'clock. She will preach each evening at 7.30 and give Bible readings at 2.30 P. M. every day except Saturday. There will be special musical attractions every evening. A silver collection requested from everyone on Sundays.

Miss Abbie Sullivan of West Quincy who is employed in the office of the D. B. Closson factory, was the lucky winner of the clock offered by W. A. Torrey for correctly guessing the number of quinine pills in a bottle.

Mrs. E. S. Mathewson, Mrs. E. F. Connes and Miss E. A. Bates attended on Monday evening, a "D. A. R." meeting at Brockton, at which Hon. Curtis Guild, Jr., Rev. Allan Hudson and R. O. Harris, Esq. were the speakers.

A large delegation from the Rebekah lodge of this town visited a sister lodge in Quincy Thursday evening.

Antietam Auxiliary, No. 16, held their annual inspection Monday evening in G. A. R. hall. Mrs. Estelle Richards, vice national president of the S. of V. A., was the inspector. Friends were present from the Quincy auxiliary, Post 87, G. A. R. and Antietam Camp 32. Remarks were made by visiting comrades and brothers. The Peek sisters furnished a pleasing entertainment after which chocolate, cake, fancy crackers and fruit were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Pierson are entertaining Mr. Pierson's mother for a while.

Blue Hill Lodge No. 208 will nominate officers for next year, at a meeting to be held in G. A. R. hall, Wednesday evening.

We are glad to see Mr. T. L. Blake and Herbert Borden who have been receiving treatment at the Massachusetts General hospital in our midst again and it is hoped these gentlemen will be speedily and completely restored to health.

Rev. A. E. Legg closes his pastorate at the South M. E. church this month, with many regrets, and will go to Providence, R. I., to become the pastor of a large congregation. St Pauls church is to be congratulated in being able to secure the valuable services of Mr. Legg. He has built up the South M. E. church doubling the congregation at Sunday morning services. His devoted wife is one of the most active pastors' wives in the Methodist denomination.

MANY FRIENDS.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Cowe Surprised.

Presented a Rich Sideboard.

Necessary to Adjourn to Doble's Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Cowe, of 106 Intervale street, South Quincy, were on Thursday evening surprised by a large party of their friends calling on them and presenting them with a large and elegantly designed, mirror-mounted sideboard finished in dark oak.

Mr. and Mrs. Cowe were entirely unaware of the projected move of their friends and were spending the evening in their usual way with their children. About half-past seven they were alarmed by a muffled commotion about the dwelling. A tap at the door and a shuffling of moving feet soon indicated the cause. The house was quickly filled by a happy jostling crowd of people, who soon made known their errand.

After the handsome piece of furniture had been carried in and set up in the dining room, ex-Councilman John C. Murray, who acted as spokesman for the party, in an admirable speech, presented the sideboard to the much surprised head of the house, who were not then allowed to say a word concerning the matter, but were requested to get ready and adjourn to Doble's hall, where a party of over two hundred were in waiting to celebrate the occasion.

The program of the evening was started by Mr. Murray presenting the guests of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Cowe. Mr. Cowe, in behalf of himself and wife, thanked those assembled for the magnificient expression of friendship accorded to them, and expressed the hope that the occasion would be one of joy to all present and also memorable as an abiding link in an everlengthening chain of friendships.

An excellent program of vocal and instrumental music for dancing was then commenced.

Chief among those who furnished music for dancing and accompaniment to the singers, were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Mr. Ed. Marnock, Mrs. Duncan Grassick, Mr. George Gordon and Lizzie Marnock. The vocal talent were Mr. John C. Murray, Mr. Harry S. Nicol, Mr. Alex Kemp, Mr. William Pratt, Mr. R. Prout, Mr. James McLeod and Miss L. Marnock, who gave unqualified satisfaction as singers. Mr. Pete Williams and Mr. D. Prout in their "celebrated, double-action cake walk," fairly electrified the house and were accorded storms of applause.

In the early part of the evening Mr. James Thompson, candidate for Mayor, was ushered into the hall by ex-Councilman Alfred O. Diack who introduced the distinguished visitor. Mr. Thompson who was urgently called on to speak, expressed himself as highly pleased with so warm a reception. He said, however, that he had no intention of inflicting upon the party anything in the shape of a speech, as he was simply a caller who was picked up by his friend Mr. Diack, as he was on his way out from another part of the building. He wished all a happy evening and after shaking hands with several of his friends departed.

The dancing was commenced with a grand march led by Mr. and Mrs. Cowe. Mr. and Mrs. John C. Murray were directors. The dancing was spirited, and with the exception of intervals in which refreshments were served, was continued till 3 o'clock in the morning.

Among those present were:

Ex-Councilman John C. Murray and wife.

John Robbie and wife.

Ex-Councilman Alfred O. Diack and wife.

Duncan Grassick and wife.

Scrofula

It is commonly inherited.

Few are entirely free from it.

Pale, weak, puny children are afflicted with it in nine cases out of ten, and many adults suffer from it.

Common indications are bunches in the neck, abscesses, cutaneous eruptions, inflamed eyelids, sore ears, rickets, catarrh, wasting, and general debility.

A promenade, with bagpipe music by Mr. A. Ellis, was one of the features of the evening.

An exchange says that the smoke nuisance on New York, New Haven & Hartford passenger trains is to be abolished by the substitution of anthracite for bituminous coal. President Mellen is quoted as saying that "The New Haven will undoubtedly use much anthracite coal in the future in its passenger service." The change from soft to hard coal promises to add more to the comfort of passengers than any improvement in car construction or furnishing which can be suggested.—Sharon Advocate.

UNEXPECTED TURN

Bankruptcy Proceeding Brought Against Mrs Chadwick

RECEIVER IS APPOINTED

Rumors of Woman's Contemplated Departure For Europe Denied by Her Counsel--Newton's Prospect Is Dimmed

New York, Dec. 3.—The interest in the affairs of Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick of Cleveland took a new turn late yesterday when a dispatch from Cleveland announced that bankruptcy proceedings had been brought against her there by Jacques Krakauer, a New York merchant, with an establishment on Fifth avenue.

Krakuer, in an interview last night, said that Mrs. Chadwick had been a customer in his establishment for some time, but that he had not instructed his Cleveland attorneys to take action against her. He said: "I simply followed my usual business custom of having my Cleveland attorneys look after my interests."

Mrs. Chadwick's movements yesterday were the subject of much interest and when she left the Holland house, where she has been living, and went to the Central Trust Company building in Wall street her appearance attracted crowds of people. The result of her visit in Wall street was not announced, but it is known she called on a firm of lawyers there.

There was a story in circulation that Mrs. Chadwick contemplated leaving for Europe today. Relative to this Philip Carpenter, one of her counsel, said that his client would not leave for Europe today, and he added: "In fact, she will not leave this country until every dollar of her indebtedness has been paid." Carpenter also made the statement that Mrs. Chadwick is "a very wealthy woman" and "amply able to care for all the claims against her."

Mrs. Chadwick was in consultation yesterday afternoon with the firm of Butler, Notman, Joline & Mynderse, lawyers. It was stated last night that this firm has been Mrs. Chadwick's counsel in this city for a number of years and one of her lawyers said that the fact that the firm has done business for a prominent millionaire, whose name has appeared in connection with notes in this case, was simply a coincidence.

Receiver For Chadwick Property

Cleveland, Dec. 3.—Nathan Loeser has been appointed receiver for all the property of every kind and description belonging to Mrs. Chadwick. The plaintiffs' petition declare "that within four months preceding the filing of this petition, while insolvent, Mrs. Chadwick paid to D. Wheaton & Son of Cleveland $700, with intent to prefer Wheaton over other creditors." The Wheatons are meat dealers.

The adjudication under bankruptcy law of Mrs. Chadwick's affairs will mean their full closing up. It will force a settlement and a complete estoppal of further operations by Mrs. Chadwick and involve a complete investigation, exposure and final distribution of her property among the various creditors.

The petition filed against Mrs. Chadwick in behalf of Jacques Krakuer of New York and others in Cleveland for involuntary bankruptcy makes the claim that Mrs. Chadwick committed ar act of bankruptcy indicating insolvency four months ago by transferring to the Savings Deposit and Bank Trust company of Elyria a chattel mortgage upon her personal property at her home in Cleveland. Under the bankruptcy law any money paid out upon a debt within six months previous to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy is considered to mean that the bankrupt prefers them to other creditors. The law also allows the receiver to collect from such creditors any moneys or valuables received and distribute them among other creditors, all being treated alike, receiving the same percentage of the assets found according to the amount of their claims.

Unwelcome News For Newton

Boston, Dec. 3.—The appointment of a receiver at Cleveland for the property of Mrs. Chadwick took the local attorneys for Herbert D. Newton, who is suing Mrs. Chadwick for the recovery of a loan of $190,800, by surprise, and resulted in a hasty departure of Percy W. Carver for New York at midnight last night. At the Back Bay station Carver said to a press representative: "We anticipated insolvency proceedings against Mrs. Chadwick, but the appointment of a receiver came as a surprise. Asked whether the proceedings instituted would not virtually dismiss any prospect Newton had of the settlement, Carver replied: "'Fight to the limit and never say die until you are dead' is our motto."

Brighter Days For Zionists

St. Petersburg, Dec. 3.—Minister of the Interior Mirsky, in receiving a deputation of Zionists, informed them that he sympathized with the movement they represented and would withdraw the governmental opposition hitherto existing against it in Russia.

Senate Friendly to Estervez

Havana, Dec. 3.—The senate, in secret session, discussed the resignation of Vice President Estevez, and voted to visit Estevez and urge him to reconsider his action.

A TWO-HEADED BABY

In Best of Health and Perfectly Normal In Other Respects

Somerville, Mass., Dec. 3.—A female child with two heads, which was recently born in East Somerville, has occasioned considerable wonderment among the medical fraternity about Boston. The child is 12 weeks old. The physician who had charge of the case said:

"It is unprecedented in the annals of medical science. The child had two separate necks, each supporting a head, one facing to the front and the other to the rear. The latter is not well formed, and the features are irregular and imperfect, there being no eyes. The baby is in the best of health and perfectly normal in every other respect. The mother is a young woman of 20. The child weighed 14 pounds at birth."

Investigating Woman's Death

Franklin, N. H., Dec. 3.—Mrs. Lucy Adams, aged 55, who was found in an unconscious condition, with a badly bruised face, in a tenement in the Sargent block here, is dead. The authorities are holding Bert Wescott, for whom Mrs. Adams was housekeeper, pending an investigation. The local authorities consider it possible that Mrs. Adams may have died from pneumonia, as she had been sick, but they decided to hold Wescott, pending an investigation.

To Answer Larceny Charge

Boston, Dec. 3.—After completing a year's imprisonment in the house of correction for larceny Harry B. Christhilfe was arrested for the Washington authorities as he stepped ashore from the penal institution's steamer. The charge is grand larceny from the National Electric company, by whom he was formerly employed. Accompanied by a Washington officer, Christhilfe left for the capital last evening.

Schooner Given Up For Lost

Rockland, Me., Dec. 3.—The four-masted schooner Quinnebaug, now about 20 days out from Savannah, has been given up as lost by Rockland people. With Captain Vellerting were his wife, her sister and his brother-in-law, who made a pleasure trip with him. The Quinnebaug was due in New York about Nov. 10.

Dropped Dead at Dance

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 3.—While directing a dance given here last night for the benefit of the cotton mill strikers, Denis Leary, 28 years old, dropped dead. Leary was standing on a platform calling off the figures in the dance, when he suddenly threw up his hands and fell dead.

Say They Did No Clubbing

Boston, Dec. 3.—At the student riot hearing yesterday seven police officers were examined. All of them testified to being assaulted by the students, but they denied that they had clubbed any students and declared they had not seen any student clubbed by a policeman.

To Distribute Provision Checks

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 3.—The Textile council voted to distribute 15,000 provision checks, valued at $1 each, and to keep the relief station open next week. The necessary funds to cover the distribution will be taken from the union treasury.

Mysterious Tragedy at New York

New York, Dec. 3.—Fashionably attired and wearing expensive jewels, the body of a girl, 19 years old, was found last night in a room in a hotel here. Tied about the girl's neck was one end of a towel, while the other end was tied to the bedpost. The body was found in a half kneeling position, as though she had been strangled or had forcibly strangled herself by straining on the towel. She went to the hotel with a man, who has since disappeared and whose identity has not yet been discovered.

Bank Has Ample Funds

Buffalo, Dec. 3.—The action of the president and directors of the German-American bank of Buffalo in promptly making public details of the dissension among its stockholders and officers which started a run on the bank had the effect of reassuring the public and yesterday the bank had $800,000 in currency on hand to meet any demand that might be made and there is $2,500,000 in the bank's vaults today.

Mrs Stevens Remains President

Philadelphia, Dec. 3.—Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens of Portland, Me., was re-elected president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Mrs. Harriet W. Brand of Indianapolis was elected treasurer and Mrs. Elizabeth P. Anderson of North Dakota was elected assistant recording secretary. The other officers were re-elected.

Baltic Fleet Reported

Island of Perim, Dec. 3.—Twenty Russian warships passed Perim last evening in the following order: Two cruisers, a battleship, five volunteer transports, seven torpedo boat destroyers, four colliers, a battleship and a French steamer. They proceeded in the direction of Jibutil, French Somaliland.

For a Much-Needed Purpose

Havana, Dec. 3.—The special committee having the subject in charge has submitted to the house of representatives a bill appropriating $190,000 for the sanitation of Santiago, Cienfuegos, Cardenas and Matanzas.

Robbers Blew Up Bank

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 3.—The bank of Liberty, Randolph county, was blown up by dynamite and robbed. It is understood that $3000 was secured by the thieves, who fled toward Greensboro with a posse in pursuit.

ABUSED PRIVILEGES

Foreign Merchants Hurt Christian Doctrine In the Orient

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 3.—John W. Foster, secretary of state during the administration of President Harrison, and for many years a diplomat in various foreign countries, delivered an address last night at Harvard university on the subject "What shall America do in the Orient?"

Mr. Foster based his remarks on observations made by him in the far east. Referring to the work of missionaries in the Orient, he said that the triumph of Christianity will be greater during the next few years than it has ever been before, and that the further the missionaries penetrate into the east the larger will be the opportunities for work among the Orientals.

The fact that the introduction of Christianity into China has met with serious opposition, Mr. Foster continued, has not been due to the missionaries themselves, but rather to high-handed operations and frequently abused privileges by foreign merchants and others. The speaker said the proof of the good work of the missionaries was shown by the conversion of hundreds of thousands of Chinese from heathenism to Christianity. Mr. Foster also said the Christian faith was rapidly spreading in Japan, where, he said, many high officials have embraced the faith.

Death of Actress Gilbert

Chicago, Dec. 3.—Mrs. George H. Gilbert, the oldest actress on the American stage, died in her rooms at the Sherman House, an hour and a half after she had suffered a stroke of cerebral apoplexy. The apoplectic stroke came while Mrs. Gilbert was alone with her maid. The attack was due directly to the shock of a cold water bath. Mrs. Gilbert's Chicago engagement in "Granny" began last Monday, and until yesterday the venerable actress had appeared to be in her usual health. Mrs. Gilbert was born at Rochdale, Eng., Oct. 21, 1821. Her family name was Hartley. The child early dreamed of a great stage career.

Long and Expensive Job

New Orleans, Dec. 3.—Assistant Secretary of the Navy Darling arrived here from San Francisco last night en route to Washington and met the congressional committee just returned from Panama. The members of the congressional committee were astonished at the progress and possibilities of the canal at Panama, but believe that its construction will take more time and money than at first anticipated. Most of them seemed to favor a sea level canal.

Large Circulation of Gold

Washington, Dec. 3.—The director of the mint, in his annual report, snows that the output of the coinage mints at Philadelphia, San Francisco and New Orleans, which were in operation throughout the fiscal year, was the largest on record. It estimates the gold stock in use as money in the United States on Dec. 31, 1903, at $1,300,000,000, of which $859,000,000 was in the treasury and national banks.

Bribery In Land Fraud Case

Portland, Ore., Dec. 3.—J. W. Keidecke, a witness in the land fraud trials, related how he was induced to countenance crime by the acceptance of a bribe, which, he said, was paid to him by S. A. D. Puter, one of the defendants in the case. "Puter told me," said Keidecke, "that I could not get into trouble because he knew Congressman Hermann and Senator Fulton and that there was no danger."

Carnegie Dines Old Partners

New York, Dec. 3.—Andrew Carnegie gave his third annual dinner last night, at his home in Fifth avenue, to the men who were his partners in the manufacture of steel before the formation of the United States Steel corporation. The dinner was informal and there were no set speeches. Forty guests were present.

Investigation In Order

Omaha, Dec. 3.—The United States grand jury has made an extended report on the condition of affairs on the Winnebago Indian reservation, reciting a deplorable state of affairs, brought about by the unlawful sale of liquor to the Indians and their utter disregard of any marriage ceremony.

Capture of Supposed Burglars

St. John, Dec. 3.—Alex and Ansley Baker, who hail from Fort Fairfield, Me., were arrested at Grand Falls by Deputy Sheriff Densmore of Maine on suspicion of having burglarized a store at Fort Fairfield. The prisoners declare they are innocent and will fight extradition.

ADVERTISE IN THE QUINCY LEDGER.

A QUESTION OF TIME

Russia Prepared to Hear of Fall of Port Arthur

STOESSEL'S DOGGED FIGHT

Likely to Hold Out to the "Last Man and Last Cartridge"--Ships Will Be Sunk to Prevent Falling Into Japanese Hands

St. Petersburg, Dec. 3.—With the confirmation of the news that the Japanese have occupied 203-Metre hill and the report that the Russians unsuccessfully attempted its recapture, officials at the war office are beginning to prepare themselves for the inevitable.

Golden hill and Liaoti hill are higher and dominate 203-Metre hill, but the officials say that if the Japanese succeed in mounting heavy guns upon the latter it probably will be only a question of days or weeks before the fortress falls. Still, there is not the slightest idea among General Stoessel's friends that he will surrender, even if he should be ordered to do so.

It is hinted that it is possible that if the fall of the fortress is shown to be inevitable, the czar may direct its surrender in order to prevent the unnecessary sacrifice of the remnant of its brave defenders; but it is believed by those who know Stoessel best that he will literally make good his threat to hold out to the last man and the last cartridge in Port Arthur.

The ships in the harbor, it can now be stated on high authority, are in no condition to attempt to break through the investing squadron. The guns of the warships were long ago landed, and the marines and sailors have been participating in the land defense. Some of the ships also have been injured by shells. If the fortress falls, it is understood they will be taken outside and sunk in deep water in order to prevent the possibility of their ever being of service to the enemy.

The question of the advisability of reinforcing Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's squadron with the Black sea fleet is again being agitated by some of the papers, notably The Novoe Vremya, which points out that with the addition of the Black sea vessels Rojestvensky will have a superiority which will ensure victory over Admiral Togo's fleet.

The Novoe Vremya calls attention to the fact that Japan was not one of the signatories of the treaty closing the Dardanelles, and asserts that if Japan had the power she might force an entrance into the Black sea and engage the Russian fleet. Conversely the paper continues, that with the consent of the porte there is nothing in the treaty to prevent the exit of the Black sea fleet to fight some power which is in no wise involved in the treaty.

It is argued that Great Britain is the only power which might attempt to make trouble over the juncture of the two fleets. The project was warmly advocated by some officers of the admiralty before the war, but it never was sanctioned, and the admiralty does not admit that the subject has been revived. Neither does the foreign office admit that any pressure is being exercised to secure the consent of the porte for the passage of the Dardanelles by the Black sea fleet.

If Black Sea Fleet Sails

London, Dec. 3.—The possibility of Russia trying to send her Black sea fleet to the far east strongly engages the attention of England in view of the complications which would result if such an attempt were made. It is contended in some quarters that Great Britain could not suffer a violation of the treaties regulating navigation of the Dardanelles without violating the spirit of the Anglo-Japanese treaty.

The Morning Post, in a scornful editorial article, declares that the British cabinet, which yielded to Russia on several points in the far east, like the Malacca and Knight Commander cases, and which had allowed the Dogger Bank affair to be referred to arbitration rather than go to war, will not be likely to interfere to prevent the exit of the Black sea fleet.

No Big Battle Expected

Mukden, Dec. 3.—The exodus of correspondents and military attaches continues. Lieutenant Schuyler and Captain Reichmann of the United States army and Colonel Waters of the British army have left. Only six foreign correspondents remain and some of these contemplate going home. Opinion is divided, however, as to the prospects of another big battle being fought before spring. Fighting continues on both flanks of the Russian army, General Rennenkampff's command being heavily engaged. There is also brisk artillery firing on the Russian right and centre.

Japan's Complaint to Spain

Madrid, Dec. 3.—Japan has made official complaint to Spain regarding the attitude of the Spanish government in permitting vessels of the Russian second Pacific squadron to coal and victual at Vigo. It is stated that Spain's reply explained the situation and took up the position that Spain observed the strictest neutrality. The Japanese minister says he has not received further instructions since forwarding the reply to Tokio.

CASE OF MRS BAAGOE

Fight to Free Her From Insane Asylum Is Not Yet Settled

Boston, Dec. 3.—After a long conference which followed an all-day hearing on the petition for a writ of habeas corpus, asked for by Mrs. Emma Christensen and her daughter of Brooklyn, to obtain the release of Mrs. Baagoe, Mrs. Christensen's daughter, from a sanitarium at Worcester, Judge Braley decided that for the present Mrs. Baagoe should remain in Worcester under the care of Superintendent Bemis of the sanitarium.

The case was then continued until Dec. 30, upon which date a report will be made a result of the study of Mrs. Baagoe by alienists in the meantime, and Mrs. Baagoe will, if possible, appear before the court at that time.

Judge Braley said he found that Mrs. Baagoe had acted always from the best of motives, that Dr. Bemis was competent, that Mrs. Baagoe was well cared for, that Mrs. Christensen desired what was best for her daughter and that the decision of the court was for the purpose of finding out what was best.

Mrs. Baagoe is the wife of a New York chemist. For the past four years she has been confined in a Worcester sanitarium. During the hearing a number of alienists testified that Mrs Baagoe was and probably still is insane.

To Protect Retail Tradesmen

Berlin, Dec. 3.—The reichstag adopted a resolution asking the government to introduce a bill for the protection of the middle commercial classes against great accumulations of capital in the retail trade, a further extension of the law against unfair competition and the regulation of closing out sales, so as to prevent bogus advertisements, and also seeking a remedy against the hardships caused by sales on the instalment plan.

Miss Lynch Was Murdered

New York, Dec. 3.—At the inquest into the death of Margaret Lynch, the Brooklyn woman whose body was found near the Greenfield cemetery, at Hempstead, the announcement was made that Dr. J. H. Denton, who performed the autopsy, has decided that Miss Lynch was murdered. Coroner Wallace has postponed the inquest indefinitely, because, he says, an important witness is at present touring Europe.

Weight Overcame Science

New York, Dec. 3.—H. H. Egeberg of Denmark defeated John Piening of New York by two falls out of three in a wrestling bout, Graceo-Roman style, here last night. Three thousand persons saw the contest. The Dane had the advantage of the local man so far as height and weight went, being five inches taller and 30 pounds heavier. He was Piening's inferior, however, in the science of wrestling.

Army Dogs Prove Useful

Berlin, Dec. 3.—Germany's experiments in using dogs in the suppression of the Southwest African rebellion have proved highly successful. The dogs do excellent service in preventing night surprises of the men on guard duty by Hereros and dogs are also successfully used in tracking fleeing natives and in finding wounded men in the bush and on the battlefield.

Negro Tells of Murder

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 3.—Jake Bradford, a negro, and Mrs. J. C. Plummer have been arrested for the murder of J. G. Plummer, who was shot and killed while sitting on his porch. Bradford says that Mrs. Plummer offered him money to kill Plummer, but that he refused to do it; that she fired the fatal shot, handed him the gun and he took it away.

Roosevelt and Fairbanks Meet

Washington, Dec. 3.—Senator and Mrs. Fairbanks called at the White House last evening, where they received a cordial welcome. It was the first meeting of the president-elect and vice president-elect since the election. Senator Fairbanks stated that he had nothing to say yet about the date of his resignation from the senate.

To Absorb the Canada Atlantic

Ottawa, Dec. 3.—Legislation will be asked at the coming session of parliament to empower the Grand Trunk to make the Canada Atlantic a part of its system. The road will be operated by the Grand Trunk beginning Jan. 1, but it cannot become a part of the Grand Trunk system until legislation is obtained.

Driven Out of Telluride

Telluride, Col., Dec. 3.—Eight union miners who had returned to this city since the strike was called off were placed aboard an out-going train last evening by acting City Marshal Geyer and deputies who had arrested them and ordered to stay away from this district.

Three Men Killed In Wreck

Columbus, Ind., Dec. 3.—While running 50 miles an hour, a passenger train ran into a construction train near here, instantly killing three trainmen, fatally injuring at least one other and inflicting slight injuries upon a score of passengers.

Mrs Noble Held For Murder

New York, Dec. 3.—Mrs. Josephine L. Noble was held for the grand jury in the Long Island City police court, on the charge of murder in the second degree, for the shooting of her husband, Payton Noble, a clerk in the court.

WELLMAN'S DIPLOMACY

Newspaper Writer's Part In Settling Coal Strike of 1902.

GREAT TACT AND FINESSE USED.

C. Arthur Williams Tells How the Washington Correspondent Conducted Negotiations Between John Mitchell and J. P. Morgan—Wellman Suggested Cortelyou as Republican Campaign Manager, He Says.

The part that Walter Wellman, the well known newspaper correspondent, played in the settlement of the anthracite coal strike of 1902 is all the more remarkable as indicating the various fields of activity in which Washington correspondents sometimes operate, says C. Arthur Williams in the December Success Magazine. In the early days of the strike George W. Perkins, one of J. Pierpont Morgan's partners, was discussing it with H. H. Kohlsaat, the former owner of the paper Mr. Wellman represents in Washington. Mr. Perkins expressed the opinion that headway could be made toward an adjustment of the trouble if some tactful, reliable man could be secured to conduct negotiations between John Mitchell, the head of the striking miners, and the interests represented by Mr. Morgan. Mr. Kohlsaat suggested Mr. Wellman, and that gentleman on being approached by Mr. Perkins consented to perform the service. He accordingly went to Wilkesbarre and spent some time with Mr. Mitchell, whose personal friend he was and is.

Without particularizing it may be said that after many conferences with the strike leader and other interested persons Mr. Wellman went to New York with the outline of a plan of settlement to which Mr. Mitchell had given his complete sanction. Consultations with members of the Morgan firm followed, and various phases of the matter were discussed with the labor leader over the long distance telephone. Then one day Mr. Mitchell telephoned to Mr. Wellman at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York the exact language of his proposal, which the latter jotted down on a piece of paper. The matter had to be typewritten before its formal and final presentation to the other side. Mr. Wellman did not care to trust the document to the hotel stenographer, and a way out of the difficulty was found when he met A. Maurice Low, another Washington correspondent, in the lobby.

The two men went to a writing room, a typewriting machine was secured, and the proposed plan of settlement was written out by Mr. Low at Mr. Wellman's dictation. It was then presented by Mr. Wellman to Mr. Perkins, and the latter laid it before the operators. Its main feature was a proposal that all the questions involved in the strike should be submitted to a single arbitrator, whose decision should be final. He was to have the right to appoint a number of conferees and to go with them into the merits of the case as thoroughly as he pleased, but his judgment was to be supreme in the end, and both sides were to abide by it. When it is stated that the arbitrator thus suggested was none other than J. Pierpont Morgan himself it is not easy to understand why the whole plan was utterly rejected by the capitalists. But it was. All negotiations were declared at an end, and the history of their progress and failure is here published for the first time.

Then President Roosevelt interested himself in the matter, and again Mr. Wellman's services were enlisted. He made frequent journeys between Wilkesbarre and New York and Washington, and his diplomatic work undoubtedly helped to bring about the agreement by which the differences between capital and labor were eventually referred to the commission whose findings resulted in an amicable adjustment. During the last days of the trouble Mr. Wellman was called on by some of the individual operators to conduct negotiations between them and Mr. Mitchell with reference to certain details of interest to both parties. Thus at different times during the strike this Washington correspondent acted in a confidential capacity for J. P. Morgan & Co., for John Mitchell, for the president and for the individual operators. He was obliged of course to use great tact and finesse, as information frequently came to him from one of these sources which could not be divulged to any of the others without jeopardizing the whole plan of settlement.

All the time it should be understood Mr. Wellman continued to act in his journalistic capacity, sending to his paper daily dispatches telling of the progress of the peace negotiations without in any way violating any of the numerous confidences placed in him. So far as the outside world knew he was merely performing the duties of a correspondent, and this fact made his task much easier, as it enabled him to act without subjecting himself to the espionage of other newspaper men, who, of course, would have found much news in his connection with the matter. One day he brought together George W. Perkins, John Mitchell and the late Marcus A. Hanna in his room at the Waldorf-Astoria, and not one of the several reporters and correspondents, who were watching those men as only reporters and correspondents can watch, knew of the meeting or of the important matters that were discussed.

It was Mr. Wellman, too, who first suggested to President Roosevelt that George B. Cortelyou was the man above all others to manage the Republican campaign as chairman of the national committee.

THE POWER OF STEAM.

Many May See But It Takes Genius to Realize.

When James Watt saw the steam causing the kettle lid to jump up and down he said "There must be power in that steam that it can lift such a weight."

There was.

Millions prior to him had seen the same phenomenon and regarded it as an unexplained mystery.

Recent scientific research has put its finger on the "cause" of Dandruff, Falling Hair, and consequent Baldness, and has unearthed a tiny germ which eats the life from the roots of human hair.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys this germ and consequently restores the hair to its natural state.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Walter Chute and family have recently moved from East Weymouth to Wollaston.

Peter T. Fallon and others will address a meeting in Malnati's hall this evening.

H. H. Schultz has moved into the house on Chestnut street recently vacated by Mrs. J. H. Gilbert.

The directors of the Quincy Charitable society will meet with Mrs. E. W. H. Bass, 1065 Hancock street, on Tuesday afternoon next.

At the bazaar to be held at Bethany chapel, Nov. 14 and 15 nine different nations will be represented. Ladies in costume will be in attendance at the booths. Many novelties will be introduced.

The Weymouth Transcript says that "Superintendent Low has had his attention diverted from water and street work this week in looking after the welfare of a little daughter which came to his home on Monday." Mr. Low formerly lived in Quincy.

Evangelistic meetings will begin Monday evening at the United Presbyterian, church by Rev. John A. Shaw and wife of New York city, assisting the pastor, and continuing each evening at 7.30 o'clock. Rev. and Mrs. Shaw are fine singers, and a good interest is expected. The public is invited to any and all these meetings.

Besides caring for children the Quincy Day Nursery also helps the mothers find suitable work, and can recommend them to any desiring competent help. Mrs. Thomas A. Addison of 603 Washington street, Quincy Point, president of the Day Nursery is much interested to give any one information about the Nursery as is also the matron at the Nursery.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church at Wollaston held their monthly business and social meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sedgwick on Thursday evening of this week. After the business meeting a novel entertainment was provided entitled, "Nuts to Crack," afterwards refreshments consisting of various kinds of nuts was served. Forty members of the League were present.

George Wales.

Thursday morning of this week another representative of one of Braintree's most ancient families passed quietly away. George Wales was the son of Nathaniel and Sally (Wild) Wales. He was born and always lived in the house in which he died—moving with the house when its location was changed from the old ancestral farm on Elm street, now owned by his son, George O. Wales, to where it now stands at the junction of Cleveland avenue and Middle street. I remember him when a young man as one of nature's athletes. As foreman of the farm of the late Hon. B. V. French, he planned and executed great improvements which made it the pride of the town and of Norfolk county. His hands guided the ploughs which took the prizes at the cattle fairs, and before the advent of the mowing machine his strong arms swung the scythe in advance of the army of mowers who swarmed to the great farm from "Down East" and "Up Country."

At twenty-one, without a dollar to pay down, he bought the old home place agreeing to pay the interest and one hundred dollars a year on the principal. His salary as foreman was $300 per year. But by rigid economy and overtime labor at home he met every payment.

He made a comfortable home, reared a family and lived to the age of 85 years. Few of our modern boys would care to emulate his example.

As soon as he could see his way out from under that early mortgage he married Isabella Moulton, who with three children survive him.

He had been a great sufferer for many years but bore all with heroic fortitude.

This long, faithful, earnest life deserves more than this hurried notice, but thus goes the world. Its veterans sink beneath the surface and the oncoming wave of humanity sweeps unheeding on,—'tis well. 'Tis God's and nature's way and why should we mourn?

NEW WARSHIPS

Recommended by the Board of Construction.

There should be new work for the Quincy shipyard if the program of the government is carried out. A Washington dispatch to the Globe says with the exception of six torpedo boats, the board of construction has approved the recommendations of the general board for new ships to be authorized by congress at its next session.

The program as amended provides for three battleships, five scout cruisers, six torpedo boat destroyers, two squadron colliers, a gunboat of the Helena class, two river gunboats not exceeding 70 feet in length and a steam launch for use in Chinese rivers.

The construction board believed that torpedo boats are not as badly needed as are torpedo boat destroyers at this time.

Secretary Morton has before him the reports of the two boards and from them will make up his recommendations to congress for new ships. His recommendations will go to congress in a special letter to the senate and house.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Della Fox, the erstwhile comic opera soubrette, who is said to be in as good voice as at any period of her singing career, is to be the headliner of a remarkable vaudeville show at Keith's the week of Dec. 5. The surrounding show includes Rose Stahl, who will be seen in "The Chorus Lady," a comedy of the stage, supported by an excellent company; George W. Day, one of the best known and cleverest blackface comedians in the business; Harding and Ah Sid, in a funny acrobatic comedy specialty; Callahan and Mack, in their delightful Irish comedy sketch, "The Old Neighborhood," and the St. Onge Brothers, in an exhibition of comedy and trick bicycle riding. There will be many good features and an entire new list of motion pictures in the biograph.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The first Boston production of "The Cavalier" is the attraction at the Castle Square Theatre next week. This play is the stage version of George W. Cable's novel of the same, made by Messrs. Kester and Middleton for Julia Marlowe and played by this actress a few seasons ago. The play follows the story of Mr. Cable's novel very closely and tells of the experiences of Charlotte Durand, a handsome Southern girl during the Civil War in a series of well contrived scenes with a succession of realistic incidents. Some artistic interiors in the Colonial style will be shown from original designs in this production, the Louisburg Quartette and a chorus of colored singers will contribute the songs of the South during the period and the company of infantry introduced will be drilled by an officer of the regular army.

CHICKERING HALL.

Great interest is being shown in the appearances of Miss Margaret Wycherly and her well chosen company in the plays of William Butler Yeats at Chickering Hall, Boston. The first week "The Land of Heart's Desire," "The Hour Glass" and "Cathleen Ni Hoolihan" were the plays presented and the audience on the opening night might be called the most representative of the social and literary life of Boston and Cambridge seen at a dramatic performance in Boston in recent years. For this week the bill was somewhat changed, "The Pot of Broth" being substituted for "The Land of Heart's Desire," and the other two plays remaining the same. "The Pot of Broth" is written in a light comedy vien and lends a pleasing contrast to the more sombre "Cathleen Ni Hoolihan" and "The Hour Glass." There are performances every evening at 8.15 and a matinee on Saturday only, beginning at 3 o'clock.

COLUMBIA MUSIC HALL.

Another Weber-Field skit, "Hurly-Burly," is the current offering at this house, and it is a thoroughly enjoyable entertainment. In the main, the same company that inaugurated the series of plays at this house, some six weeks ago, with "Whoop-Dee-Doo," has returned. With the added experience gained while touring and equipped with new costumes, scenery and appurtenances it was not only in a position to, but did give a delightful performance. In "Hurly-Burly," which is a sequel to popular "Pousse Cafe," given here last week, the scene is changed to England, in Sir Abe Stringer's villa at Bilgewater on the Thames. McCann is now his sorrowing father-in-law; Lord Chumpley a retired Klondike millionaire, and Bierheister and Weinschoppen are there in all their glory with Cleopatra, a living mummy.

TODAY'S COURT.

William Curtis was arraigned for drunkenness and for overdriving a horse at Cohasset. He was fined $3 on the first compiaint and $15 upon the second.

A Disappointment.

"How is your son doing at college?"

"Well," answered the solicitous father, "he does very well in philosophy and the dead languages, but he is a mighty poor football player."—Washington Star.

Home Remedies.

"When my wife gets a cold, I can cure it in a day."

"What do you give her?"

"Nothing. I simply say that if she is well by night I will take her to the theater."

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER.

Vol. 16. No. 283 QUINCY, MASS., MONDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1904. PRICE TWO CENTS.

STANDS ON HIS RECORD.

Candidate Fallon Tells of Measures He Has Favored.

Also Has Plans for the Improvement of Quincy and to Benefit Business Men.

To the Citizens of Quincy:

As your candidate for Mayor of this city, I desire to present to you the following statement for your consideration.

I have served in your City Council in 1891-92-93 and 1902, and the House of Representatives in 1903-1904, and at all times have taken an active part in public affairs, and matters of interest to our city. I assure you that if elected on Tuesday, Dec. 6, I will render the same standard of service as has heretofore characterized my efforts in behalf of our citizens. Analysis of the City Records and House Journal will establish the above facts.

I have taken particular interest on all questions pertaining to the benefit of labor, and claim the creditable distinction of being the first dealer to recognize the nine-hour bill, and sign the teamsters' schedule.

I have tried to secure for our citizens a lower rate of fare to all Quincy stations on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, and personally appeared before the Railroad Commissioners, and was favorably received and assured that in the near future a cheaper fare would be granted.

My House record for 1903 and 1904, I hereby submit for your inspection.

I voted in 1903 in favor of the following:

1. The eight-hour bill for public employes.
2. To establish two cents a mile the maximum rate of fare on railroads.
3. To allow cities and towns to establish their own lighting plants.
4. To prevent the adulteration of liquors.
5. For bill relative to employment of labor in time of industrial distress.
6. To allow peaceful communication with applicants for positions during strikes, lockouts, etc.
7. For amendment of Mr. MacCartney of Rockland, substitution of bill relative to purchase of gas and electric plants by cities and towns.
8. For bill to regulate the hours of labor of nurses in public hospitals and asylums.
9. For resolve to provide for amending the Constitution to give voters the right to propose laws or constitutional amendments and to approve or reject the same at the polls.
10. For resolve to provide amendment to the Constitution authorizing cities and towns to purchase and sell fuel.
11. For bill to regulate hours of labor for members of Fire Department.

And the following appropriations for the City:

12. The appropiation of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000.00) for dredging Fore River was secured chiefly through my efforts.
13. Also for the bill appropriating seventy-five hundred dollars ($7500) for yacht basin at Wollaston, and for all other measures pertaining to the interests of Quincy.

In 1904 I voted in favor of the following:

To appoint a special committee to investigate conditions under which telephone service is rendered within the Commonwealth; to ascertain the reasonable cost of furnishing such service to the public, and to report whether the charges now demanded are excessive and above what would secure a fair rate of return to the companies now furnishing the service.

Bill to extend to veterans of the Spanish war exemptions applicable under the civil service laws to the Veterans of the Civil war.

Resolved to provide for an amendment of the constitution, requiring submission to the voters of the Commonwealth in certain cases of specific amendments to the constitution.

Bill to authorize certain military companies to parade with firearms.

On passage over veto of the Governor, bill relative to the hours of labor of women and minors employed in the manufacture of textile goods.

Bill to provide for evening sessions of certain courts for the purpose of naturalization (over the veto of the Governor).

On passage over Governor's veto, bill to provide for the payment of bounties to certain veterans.

Bill relative to claims for personal injuries against railroads and street railway corporations.

In conclusion, I wish to say, if elected, I will give the city a good economical administration, and feel that my experience of twenty-seven years, in conjunction with my service in your council and the House of Representatives has fitted me to conduct the affairs of our city.

In my letter soliciting your support previous to my second election to the General Court, I promised to continue to work for your boulevard. The result is that today the work is well along.

ROUSING MEETINGS

Voters Taking an Unusual Interest in License Question.

Never Such a Large Audience at Quincy Music Hall as on Sunday Evening.

The Various Ward Meetings Also Well Attended ---A Full Vote Urged and Expected.

All the candidates for Mayor were heard from on the license question at the Sunday evening meeting of the No-License League. It was an unusually large meeting said by many to have been the largest gathering ever assembled in the hall. Every seat both in the auditorium and gallery was occupied and 200 to 300 stood.

Over the platform in large letters were these words—"This is not the cause of faction, nor of party, nor of any individual, but the cause of mankind." On the walls were posters with pictures of boys and girls and the reading "Please protect us by voting No-License." Large and small flags were used in decorating.

Considerable literature was also distributed including striking illustrations, blotters, Quincy's vote of the past, etc.

Dr. C. T. Sherman, president of the league, called the meeting to order and spoke briefly, urging a full "No" vote.

Theophilus King, Esq., was introduced as chairman of the meeting, and as usual he put considerable vigor into it. He related his personal experiences. He confessed to being 60 years old, and said he had for 60 years been free from liquor. He had seen the evil of liquor when a youth in a country town, and later when a young man in a big city. He never saw a young man addicted to drink build himself up, but he had seen many fall. He maintained that no man of soul, mind or decency can vote "Yes," and thereby make it easy to to get drunk in Quincy.

Rev. W. E. Gardner, the next speaker, took for his text a part of the recent communication of "X. Y. Z." in the Daily Ledger—"We want men, men, men." He said there were today more real men in Quincy because we have had No-License so long. No power works so for the degradation of man as drink. Quincy is in the front rank and we want it to stay there. We value men too highly to have them dragged down by saloons on our streets. Let us roll up as high a "No" majority as possible. Then follow up the vote with attractive surroundings for our voters. There is need of places of amusement to take the place of the saloons.

James Thompson, one of the candidates for Mayor, was then introduced, and warmly greeted. He appreciated it an honor to be present, particularly as he was a candidate for a high office. He said emphatically, I believe in No-License; I vote No-License. I believe the authorities should enforce the laws relative to the sale of liquor without fear or favor, and if I am elected I promise the laws will be enforced without restrictions.

During a selection by the City Band, a collection was taken to help defray the expenses of the No-License campaign.

Peter T. Fallon, also a candidate for Mayor, was next introduced, and was vociforously greeted. He particularly advised young men under thirty years of age to keep away from bar rooms, and to keep the dangerous cup from their lips. Older men ought to know better than to drink. I have seen many of my old friends fall by the wayside. I will do all I can, if elected, to prevent the sale of liquor in Quincy and to enforce the liquor laws.

Hon. William B. Rice, the next speaker, said whatever our individual opinions, there was no difference of opinion as regards our duty to our homes on the license question to be submitted to the voters on Tuesday. He queried if any one wanted a saloon next door, or near anyone else; or whether Quincy wanted fifty saloons. It must be admitted that people are influenced by environment. Saloons and slums go together; the latter always follow the former. License for a few years would handicap our young men and women seeking employment. See that Quincy is kept clean. This meeting should also act on the suggestions of Rev. Mr. Gardner, who advocated places of amusement.

Chairman King read a letter from G. B. Bates, also a candidate for Mayor, who urged a big No vote. We should always vote No and never compromise with saloon keepers, he said.

Levi H. Turner, the next speaker, said he was heartily and wholly in favor of No License, and always voted No. He advocated woman's sufferage claiming that the conditions were wrong when half the adults of Quincy who were vitally interested were not allowed to vote on this question. (Applause.) He predicted he would live to see the time when they would vote.

I was born in Maine, and I am proud to say I am a State of Maine prohibitionist. I believe in prohibition. The vote on the license question annually, however, illustrates the desirability of the referendum. If we cannot have prohibition in the State he was pleased that Quincy could have it.

In closing, Chairman King urged an emphatic No vote in Quincy on Tuesday.

The City Band then played "America," the audience rising and uniting in singing. The meeting was only a little over an hour long.

Large Swedish Meeting.

There was a very large attendance Sunday afternoon at the No-License rally at the Swedish Congregational church. There was singing by the Swedish Baptist and Congregational church choirs, and music by the Swedish Lutheran orchestra. The addresses, which were in the Swedish language, were by Rev. John A. Bernhard, Rev. S. L. Carlander, Rev. H. E. Whyman, Rev. Alfred E. Lindberg and Rev. John Bjork.

At Ward Two.

There was a good attendance Saturday night at the No-License meeting at the Washington Street Congregational church. Arthur W. Newcomb presided and there was singing by the congregation, Miss Sara M. Kelley presiding at the organ. The meeting opened with devotional exercises led by Rev. W. B. Barr after which Mr. Barr gave an interesting talk on temperance illustrated with the stereopticon.

In Ward Three.

There was a good attendence at the No-License meeting in Dobles hall Sunday afternoon, and the audiance was full of enthusiasm. Alfred Bishop presided and the meeting opened with a piano solo by Edward Hayden, and prayer by George Forsyth. The meeting lasted about an hour and closed with the singing of America by the audiance.

The speeches, which were all brief, were by Alexander Falconer, John G. Roberts, John L. Miller, Henry McGrath, John C. Murray, George Forsyth, John Richards, Robert Allen.

CITY ELECTION

Tuesday, Dec. 6, 1904.

POLLS OPEN 6 A. M. to 4 P. M.

Vote for the Republican Candidate

For Mayor JAMES THOMPSON

TO THE VOTERS:

At the municipal caucuses held on November 15, the choice of the Republican party as their nominee for Mayor fell upon me.

I wish to thank the citizens for the high honor conferred upon me, and pledge to them my best efforts to promote the welfare of our city if the preliminary step then taken is made final at the election on Tuesday, December 6.

Preceding the caucuses I stated, concisely, the grounds by which, in part, I should be guided if nominated and elected: My position is the same now as then, and it is not out of place at this time to restate them, viz:—

"A strict compliance with the provisions of the City Charter, and a maintenance of the personal responsibility of the several Administrative Officers and Boards, according to the provisions of that document.

"A reduction of the City Debt and all City Expenses.

"The strictest economy in expending every appropriation made by the City Council, so that for every dollar spent the city shall receive an equivalent return.

"Merit and capability to be the chief essentials in the appointment to office.

"Courteous and fair treatment to all our citizens.

"A divorcement of pernicious election methods from the business conduct of public affairs, and a change for the public good in those officers who have neglected their duties to become active politicians.

"The enforcement of all laws without discrimination or favor."

In entering the field I do so with no promises or pledges of any kind to any person to hamper my individual action to promote the public welfare.

I have every reason to believe the above views have received the endorsement of our citizens—and where, in public opinion, changes for the best interests of the community in city officers are required, these will be made without fear or favor in the event of my election to the office of Mayor.

I solicit, and trust I shall receive the same hearty support at the coming election as was accorded me at the caucuses.

Yours respectfully,

JAMES THOMPSON.

FASHION'S FANCIES.

New Styles In Hats—The Corday Toque—Smart Velvet Blouses.

Charlotte Corday hats are a fashionable fad. They are exceedingly becoming to the right kind of model with their full plaited, undulating brims of soft silk or chiffon. The Tam-like crowns are usually of velvet tied about with a twist of ribbon finishing in a long, full bow in front.

Perhaps the newest Corday is a toque shape, the brim banded with velvet edged top and bottom with a narrow plaiting of silk. This trimming is a modish way of bringing a last season's toque up to date if the owner can stand the rather bizarre adornment.

A light felt tricorne may do duty beautifully for a theater hat if turned up with stiff roses or camellias.

Velvet blouses are very dressy and becoming to wear with fine face cloth skirts and are newer and more becoming than silk. The latest fancy is to trim them with straps of cloth. To be smart the blouse and skirt must match in color.

The simple blouse in the cut is fashioned from crepe de chine or soft silk. Corded shirrings form the deep, round yoke and make a pretty finish for the sleeve at the elbow, where a high, tight cuff fastens with small bullet buttons. Over the yoke is an emplecement of stitched material fastened down the yoke depth with buttons. The collar is a high double turnover.

THE CANAL ZONE

Taft Clears Up Differences With Republic of Panama

TARIFF TO BE REDUCED

Customs Receipts at Ports Established by United States Go to Panama, Who Agrees to Reduce Rates of Postage and Establish a Gold Standard

Panama, Dec. 5.—The differences between the United States and Panama, which made necessary the visit of Secretary of War Taft to the isthmus, have been settled by the issuance of an executive order signed by Secretary Taft for President Roosevelt and assented to in a letter by President Amador of Panama.

The order provides that no trade for the canal zone or the republic of Panama can enter the ports established by the United States at either end of the canal, supplies for the construction of the canal and articles in transit being excepted. This turns the customs receipts of these ports over to the government of Panama.

Panama agrees to reduce her tariff from 15 percent ad valorem to 10 percent. This reduction applies to all goods except wines, liquors, alcohol and opium. Panama also agrees to reduce her consular fees and port charges to 60 percent of the rates at present charged.

Absolute free trade is to apply between the canal zone and the republic of Panama. Vessels entering the canal ports are granted free entry to the ports of Colon and Panama and vessels entering the latter ports are extended the same privileges in the canal ports.

Complete jurisdiction is granted the United States in the harbors of Colon and Panama as to sanitation and quarantine regulations.

Panama reduces her rate of postage to 2 cents and is to furnish all stamps in the republic and in the canal zone. The zone authorities are to purchase stamps from Panama at 40 percent of their face value.

The order of Secretary Taft is to be ineffective unless Panama shall put into effect the gold standard, according to the currency agreement of June 20, 1904. It also makes a stipulation regarding citizenship rights of Panamans in the canal zone, and provision is also made in the order for maintenance by the United States of important highways, partly in and partly out of the canal zone, and also the building of a hospital. The order is made effective Dec. 12, 1904.

Secretary Taft received the following letter, signed by President Amador and Secretary of Foreign Affairs Guardia:

"As the embodiment of the conclusions reached by our respective governments after the full and satisfactory conferences which have been had between you, myself and advisors, I have the pleasure to express the concurrence of the republic in the executive order of the secretary of war, made by the direction of the President of the United States under date of Dec. 3, 1904. Aside from the wisdom and justice evidenced by this happy solution of the differences between the United States and the reublic of Panama, permit me to express, in behalf of the republic and of myself and advisors, our gratitude for your gracious visit to Panama and your patient, judicial and statesmanlike considerations of the subjects involved."

$15,000,000 Worth For $386,000

St. Louis, Dec. 5.—It is stated that a contract for the sale of the 11 big exhibit palaces, with other World's Fair structures, that cost $15,000,000, will be signed this week with a Chicago wrecking company for $386,000. Everything except the rolling stock of the Intra-mural railway and the state, foreign and Pike buildings are included in the deal. The work of demolition will begin at once.

Mother and Son Asphyxiated

Philadelphia, Dec. 5.—Mrs. Ida Slaysman, a widow, and her 11-year-old son, Harry, were asphyxiated by illuminating gas in their room in a lodging house. The son was found clasped in his mother's arms. It is believed that a gas jet in the room was accidentally turned on while either Mrs. Slaysman or the son was turning off the gas.

Double Shooting at Christening

New York, Dec. 5.—While bidding good night to guests at a christening last night, Pasquale Carravo was shot and instantly killed, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Josephine Mesrelo, was mortally wounded at their home. The husband of the wounded woman, his daughter and two other Italians were arrested.

Suicide of an Author

New York, Dec. 5.—John H. Wagner, author of "Mr. Wix of Wickham" and a special writer for a local newspaper, was found dead in his room in a hotel here with a bullet in his brain. No cause for the suicide is known. Wagner was an Australian, 39 years old.

Thirty-Five Jumped to Safety

Denison, Tex., Dec. 5.—Three persons were burned to death in a fire that destroyed a rooming house here. Thirty-five guests escaped from the building by jumping from second-story windows.

ROBBED HIS EMPLOYER

Trusted Clerk In Jewelry Store Pawned Stolen Watches

Boston, Dec. 5.—It is announced at police headquarters that as a result of a search through the pawnshops in the endeavor to locate some of the jewels contained in a sample case recently stolen from a jewelry salesman, police detectives discovered a number of watches and the subsequent investigation led to the arrest on a charge of larceny of a trusted clerk in a Lowell jewelry store.

The proprietor of the pawnshop said the watches had been sold to him by a man who called himself Harry Brown of Salem. The trade mark on the watches indicated that they belonged to George H. Wood, a Lowell jeweler, and, at the request of the police, Wood came to Boston, examined the watches and identified them as his property. When Wood heard the pawnbroker's description of the man who sold the watches he said that his clerk, Ira Kent, answered the description.

Two police inspectors accompanied Wood back to his store in Lowell. They talked with Kent and later arrested him. The police say that Kent admitted taking the watches, one at a time, and selling them in Boston. The stolen property was valued at $340.

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 5.—Ira B. Kent was arrested here for larceny of watches from his employer, George H. Wood, a jeweler. Kent, who is a watch repairer, admitted his crime and said he had been stealing watches and selling them since July.

District Attorney Drops Dead

Salem, Mass., Dec. 5.—Henry P. Moulton, United States district attorney for the Massachusetts district, dropped dead at his home here early this morning. Death is supposed to have resulted from heart failure. Mr. Moulton appeared in his usual health last evening, but was taken ill about midnight. He was moving about in his room when he was stricken. Moulton was 60 years old and a native of Beverly. In 1872 he served in the Massachusetts house of representatives. In 1901 he was appointed United States district attorney, succeeding Boyd B. Jones. He leaves a widow and four children.

Skater Spied Dead Body

Lincoln, R. I., Dec. 5.—The body of Albert Holbrook, the wealthy manufacturer of Providence, who mysteriously disappeared from his home on Nov. 7 last, was found Sunday afternoon by Bertram Jenks, 14 years old, who, while skating on Stump Hill pond, saw the body of a man floating in the water under the ice. It was fully clothed except for the hat, the contents of the pockets were found intact and there was nothing to indicate foul play.

Charged With Manslaughter

Lewiston, Me., Dec. 5.—Conductor Crockett and Brakeman Breckenridge, arrested as a result of the finding of the state board of railroad commissioners which fixed upon them a large portion of the blame for the Maine Central passenger train wreck at Lewiston Sept. 26, by which five people died, were arraigned on a manslaughter charge, pleaded not guilty, waived a hearing and were each held in $1000 bonds to appear before the grand jury in January.

Longshoremen's Strike Continues

Boston, Dec. 5.—No progress has been made toward a settlement of the strike of 160 longshoremen at the docks of the Merchants and Miners' Transportation company. The Trans-Atlantic Stemaship Wharf Clerks' assembly, affiliated with the Knights of Labor, voted not to handle any freight billed to European ports and arriving here by the Merchants and Miners' line.

Perhaps Killed During Quarrel

Franklin, N. H., Dec. 5.—As a result of an autopsy on the body of Mrs. Lucy Adams, Medical Examiner Conn will continue his investigations further and will hold an inquest. Bert Wescott is detained as a witness. The police are working on the theory that Mrs. Adams was killed during a quarrel and that her home was fired in an attempt to cover up the result of the fight.

Boarders Left In a Hurry

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 5.—Several people narrowly escaped death by suffocation, following a fire which broke out in J. N. Carter's furniture store. Two buildings were gutted, furniture, shoe and jewelry stores being burned out. The occupants of an adjacent boarding house were awakened in time to save their lives, but lost all personal belongings.

Destruction of Paper Mill

Holyoke, Mass., Dec. 5.—The plant of the Japanese tissue mill at South Hadley was burned, causing a loss of $25,000, and throwing about 100 people out of employment. The owners announce that they will rebuild immediately. The fire started from an unknown cause in the engine room.

Church 275 Years Old

Salem, Mass., Dec. 5.—Traditional psalms, hymns and texts marked the 275th anniversary of the First Unitarian church in Salem. During the two services which were held, the psalms, hymns and texts were those which have been used at anniversaries during the past 175 years.

Used Razor on His Throat

Providence, Dec. 5.—Penniless, and despondent because of illness, Richard Delabrand, aged 55, committed suicide last night in a lodging house where he had secured shelter. He drew a razor across his throat, severing the windpipe and jugular vein.

MENDUM RETURNS

Had Been Fugitive From Portsmouth For Over a Year

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGED

Tells Why He Disappeared and Recounts His Wanderings, Which Have Taken Him Completely Around the World

Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 5.—William A. Mendum, a resident of Winchester, Mass., and the trustee of the estate of his father, the late Charles J. Mendum of this city, has surrendered himself to the Rockingham county authorities to answer to an indictment charging him with the embezzlement of funds amounting to between $21,000 and $25,000 from his father's estate. Mendum had been a fugitive for more than a year, although the indictment against him was not returned until last April.

Mendum was the trustee and a co-executor of the estate of his father. Two sisters, Mrs. William K. Shea of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Sarah M. Locke of Rosemont, Pa., were, like him, beneficiaries under the father's will. The sisters finally brought action for an accounting of Mendum's trusteeship, and soon afterwards he disappeared.

On Friday he arrived in New York from England and immediately proceeded to Boston. He visited his counsel in Boston on Saturday and at their suggestion he communicated by telephone with his attorneys in this city. As a result he left Boston Saturday afternoon for Greenland, a few miles from this city. He spent the night in Greenland and yesterday he came to this city. Accompanied by one of his counsel here, he called upon County Solicitor Kelley and surrendered himself. Deputy Sheriff Collis was notified of Mendum's presence in the city and he was soon transferred from Kelley's house to the Rockingham county jail.

Mendum announced that he gave himself up to the authorities because he could have no peace of mind so long as he was a fugitive with the fear of arrest hanging over him and that he decided to return and stand trial. He says that the last time he was in this city was on Nov. 4, 1903. He went to Boston and a few days later drew a check for $5000 on the National Mechanics and Traders' bank of Portsmouth. He said he had some notes to pay and, finding that he could not pay them, he left Boston for Montreal.

From Montreal he went to San Francisco and then to the Hawaiian islands. After remaining a short time in Hawaii he proceeded further eastward, visiting Hong Kong and Ceylon. From thence he went to Monte Carlo and then made an extended tour of Europe. He returned to America in July and spent some time in New York. Later he went to Boston and stayed for a few days. During the month of August he was at Narragansett Pier, where, he says, he made no effort to keep out of sight. He was around the hotel corridors in the evenings and during the daytime he was either in the surf, at the polo field or on the golf links.

After a month at Narragansett he made a trip to St. Louis by way of Niagara Falls. He spent several days at the exposition and then returned to New York, where he took a steamer for England. Soon after reaching London, he said, he began to think seriously of what he had done and the idea of ending his life possessed his mind. He said that he attempted suicide, but was prevented by acquaintances from killing himself. He then decided to return to this city and give himself up to the authorities.

During his absence Mendum has altered but little. The only noticeable change in him is the absence of his beard. He was dressed in the height of fashion and appeared to be in the best of health.

Highwayman Had Easy Job

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 5.—"Your money or your life," said a tall, dark man to Peter Carr, a mill employe, as he was walking along Colonial avenue during the night. Carr, thinking it was a joke, said: "Take my life then," and was promptly knocked senseless and robbed of $86. The highwayman escaped.

Mother and Children Cremated

Pittsburg, Dec. 5.—Mrs. Rock Perry and two of her children were burned to death last evening in a fire thought to have been caused by a spark from a stove setting fire to a carpet which Mrs. Perry was cleaning with gasoline. Her husband and two other children barely escaped with their lives.

From Dance to Death

New York, Dec. 5.—While dancing a Highland fling on a table in the gallery of a dance hall in the Bronx, John J. Reynolds missed his footing and fell to the main floor below, which was crowded with dancers. He died of a fractured skull.

Crowds View Kruger's Body

Cape Town, Dec. 5.—The body of the late former president of the Transvaal republic, Paul Kruger, is lying in state in the Huguenot Memorial building, where it is daily visited by great crowds.

Miles Will Be on Douglas' Staff

Brockton, Mass., Dec. 5.—Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles has accepted an appointment as adjutant general on the staff of Governor-elect Douglas.

SUFFERED FEARFULLY

Japanese Took 203-Metre Hill Under Greatest Difficulties

Tokio, Dec. 5.—The story of the fighting around 203-Metre hill, which is published in the Japanese papers, describes the terrible losses involved in the storming of the resolute position from dawn of Nov. 28 till 11 o'clock in the forenoon of that day.

A Russian counter attack began at dawn on Nov. 29 and was so furiously pushed that the Japanese were compelled to retire from both sides of the hill into the valley. The attack was renewed the morning of Nov. 30 "when all the Japanese reserves came up" from the southwestern corner; but these assailants only advanced 30 metres by 5 o'clock, so stubborn was the resistance, and the Japanese suffered severe losses.

Then, being reinforced, the Japanese maintained the struggle with terrible earnestness. Furious charges were repeatedly made and the Russians were compelled gradually to retire.

The southwestern summit of the hill was not occupied until 7 o'clock in the evening and the northwest summit not until 8 o'clock. During the night six Russian counter attacks were repulsed.

Infringement of Neutrality

London, Dec. 5.—The Morning Post's correspondent at Shanghai telegraphs: "Russia practically is converting Shanghai into a depot for her military and naval stores. A local German butcher has received a Russian order for several millions pounds of meat. Large quantities of coal are held here on Russian account. The infringement of Shanghai's neutrality is arousing great indignation.

Carried Coal to Russians

Cardiff, Dec. 5.—The captain of the German collier Captain W. Menzel has been forbidden by the government to ship another cargo of coal from here on proof that a former cargo taken by the ship had been discharged to vessels of the Russian second Pacific squadron.

Monument to Scout Bridger

Kansas City, Dec. 5.—The bones of James Bridger, famous scout and discoverer of Great Salt lake, were brought from an obscure grave on a farm 10 miles south of this city for final burial in a local cemetery today. A granite monument will soon be unveiled by Mrs. Mary Leightle, Bridger's grand-daughter. The expense is being borne by General Dodge, who, as engineer of the Union Pacific railway, was indebted to Bridger for the discovery of a pass through the Rocky mountains through which the railway was built.

From a Military Standpoint

Boston, Dec. 5.—Colonel C. K. Darling, United States marshal, gave to the board of police the military idea of the situation on the night of the Tech clubbing cases, in connection with the hearing by the board as to the alleged brutality connected with it. In Darling's view, regardless of all that occurred on the Rogers steps, the police were in duty bound to control the situation as they found it. He inferred that if his own Sixth regiment had been sent up there they would have cleared that street, at the point of the bayonet.

Immigration Standard Raised

Washington, Dec. 5.—Immigration to the United States decreased materially during the last fiscal year, and it is a notable fact that the moral, intellectual and physical qualifications of the immigrants admitted to this country during the past year are higher than ever heretofore have been chronicled. These are two salient features of the annual report of Frank P. Sargent, commissioner general of immigration.

Woman Started a Panic

New York, Dec. 5.—Panic seized an audience in the Gotham theatre during a performance yesterday afternoon, when smoke from a bonfire outside blew into a window and a woman ran towards an exit shouting fire. Although men and women struggled down the aisles with children held high in their arms, and almost the entire audience left the theatre, no one was in any way injured.

Seventeen Horses Perished

Ivoryton, Conn., Dec. 5.—Seventeen valuable dray horses were burned to death in a fire which totally destroyed the livery stables of Blake & Burdick last night. The loss is about $10,000 and the cause of the fire unknown. Four buildings were destroyed.

Disbelievers In the Canteen

Philadelphia, Dec. 5.—The National Woman's Christian Temperance Union closed its annual convention after reaffirming its faith in the beneficence of the anti-canteen law and pledging itself to defend the measure against all efforts to have it repealed.

NEWS IN BRIEF

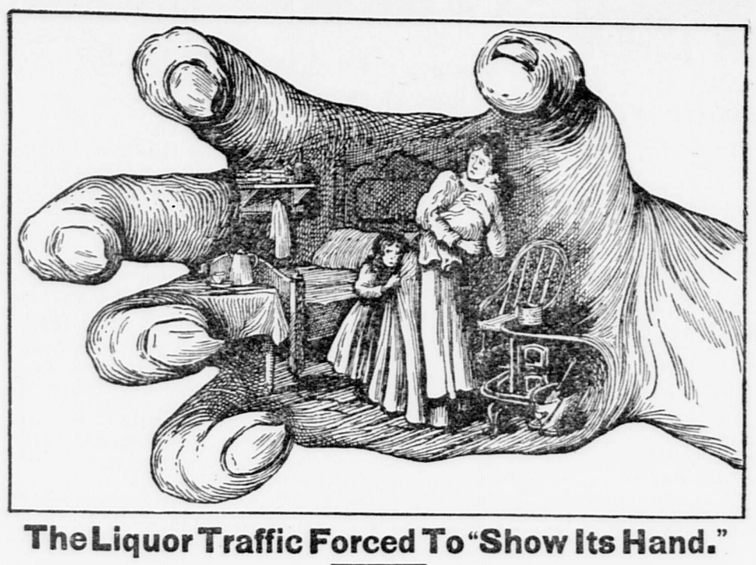
A fire that is supposed to have had its origin in a defective heating apparatus in the cellar partially destroyed a store at Rumford Falls, Me., occupied by Charles Israelson, clothing dealer, and several tenements.

Colonel Tobias Gibson died at Lexington, Ky., aged 66 years. He was on the staff of his brother, General Gibson of Louisiana, in the Civil war.

Alfred James, for years president of the Northwestern National Insurance company, died at Milwaukee, aged 78.

Herman C. Dyer, a laborer, was struck and instantly killed by a train while walking along the tracks at Rochester, N. H.

Archbishop Farley of New York has been appointed by Pope Pius X. to the dignity of assistant to the pontifical throne.



The Liquor Traffic Forced To "Show Its Hand."

The lips of the mother are cold with grief, and her children shiver and shrink,
For the man who once could let it alone is the pitiful slave to drink.

THE MOTHER'S APPEAL.

MOTHER.

O, Mr. Saloonman, I beg you don't sell
The stuff to my son that may send him to hell;
Remember how dear to my heart he must be,
And let him to-night return sober to me.

SALOON-KEEPER.

They licensed me, madam, to sell him the stuff,—
The fool ought to know when he's had enough.
You can't expect me to refuse all who come;
My business it is to sell drinkers their rum.

MOTHER.

O, Mr. Saloonman, I beg you to think
How much it may mean if you sell him the drink.
His soul's in peril, don't wreck it for gain;
Don't make it another young life you have slain.

SALOON-KEEPER.

Go yonder, and talk to the men who have said
I may sell—to the voters who stand at the head
Of the church where you pray; don't be whining away
In this place they have licensed—go yonder, I say.

MOTHER.

O, Mr. Saloonman, they say you may sell;
But whose is the sin if you send him to hell?
He buys at your bar what must bring him to shame;
For all that may follow God holds you to blame.

SALOON-KEEPER.

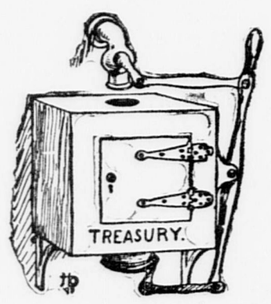
No, madam, the sin's not mine at the first;
For it shall I be the only one cursed?
The men who permit me to sell are the ones
To settle with God if I ruin your sons.

VOTE NO

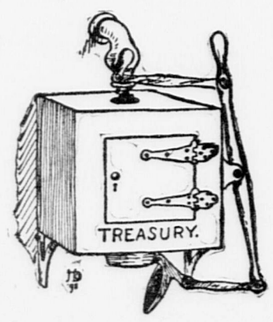
On the License Question

At the City Election on Tuesday.

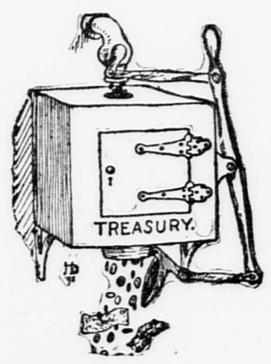
DON'T LOSE YOUR MONEY BY LICENSE.



Here stands the strong box,
Fast with bolts and with locks,
Containing the tax you have paid;
The faucet above
May be worked with a shove
By the handle so plainly displayed.



Thus dimes may flow in,
All tainted with sin,
When the voters for license implore;
But you've already seen
How the fatal machine
Also opens a valve 'neath the floor.



So it always is found,
The wide world around,
Whatever the ticket or times,—
When you vote in the rum
There's a reckoning to come,—
You lose dollars by taking in dimes.

The lesson to learn
You can plainly discern,
Is to vote as your reason would show;
Then hustle your men,
And cheer us again,
With a hearty and numerous NO!

THE CHRIST CHILD'S CRADLE

Part of It Preserved as a Holy Relic In Rome.

La sainte creche—the holy cradle—or the portion of it which is preserved, is in fact only a part of the grating that was placed across the stable trough in Bethlehem to hold the fodder for the animals that fed there. It became the cradle of the infant Saviour when he was laid within the rough trough by his mother and came in time to be regarded as one of the most sacred things on earth. This broken piece of the grating was taken from Bethlehem at the time of the Mussulman invasion in the year 642 and was carried to Rome, where Pope Theodosius took charge of it as one of the most precious of relics.

Whether or not the grating now shown is the true relic, it is certainly extremely old and is interesting for that reason and because of associations that have gathered about it since it became one of the mementos cherished in the Imperial City. It is one of the greatest treasures of the ancient Church of Santa Maria Maggiore.

It consists of five worn bars. These are of wood, worm eaten and gray, that looks as though it might be oak powdered with flour. The bars average about a yard in length, and the entire grating is suspended in a crystal case by silver ribbons.

This case is supported on carved gold and silver feet, and its full length is a meter, its height half a meter. It is surmounted by a beautiful enameled statue of the infant Jesus.

During the year this magnificent reliquary is inclosed in a golden case and disposed on one of the altars of the church. At Christmas time it is exposed to view, and the festival of the nativity terminates with an imposing procession in which the relic is carried, the solemn occasion being presided over by a cardinal.—New York Tribune.

Christmas Cards.

The first Christmas card ever published was issued in 1846 by a Londoner named Joseph Crandall. Crandall was indebted for his idea to Sir Henry Cole and employed the famous artist J. C. Horsley to make the design. It was lithographed by Jobbins of Warwick court and colored by hand. About 1,000 cards were sold. Such was the small beginning of what has grown to be a gigantic industry. Every Christmas after 1846 cards of some sort were put upon the market, but it was not until 1862 that they came into general favor. Then Goodall & Son of London began to publish cards inscribed simply with the words "A Merry Christmas" and "A Happy New Year" and in illuminated form, and the following year robins, holly branches, embossed figures and landscapes were added. With the succeeding years the popularity of the holiday cards increased, and the cards grew more elaborate until they have attained their present gorgeousness.

The Teacher's Present.

The old schoolmaster was deeply affected. His scholars, noticing the dilapidated appearance of his chair, had presented him with a new one for Christmas. "My dear boys," said the kindly old man, with tears in his eyes, "I can never hope to tell you how you have made me feel by this token of your love for me. All I can do is to thank you for the sacrifices you have made of your little purses for the sake of my comfort. If you have found me severe at times I trust you realize that it has always been for your own good." As the old schoolmaster prepared to sit down in his new chair he unconsciously ran his hand over the seat in search of bent pins.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Christmas In Canada.

Far away in Canada the Christmas is very like our own. The turkey, well stuffed with savory herbs, occupies the place of honor on the dining table, only there are hot pumpkin pies, prepared and served with a great deal of cream to keep it company. It is the Christ Child himself who is supposed to come down the wide chimneys to bring toys to good little children who are really asleep, not shamming. The gifts are generally wrapped up with huge packets of maple candy, and "doughnut dolls" are as usual as gingerbread figures used to be in old English fairs.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Four Facts About Christmas.

Spanish children have no Father Christmas. They think it is the three wise men of the east who bring them their gifts.

It is said to be unlucky to leave Christmas decorations up after Twelfth Night.

There is an island called Christmas island in the Pacific ocean, so called because Captain Cook discovered it on Christmas day, 1777.

Plum pudding was originally plum porridge and eaten for breakfast, not for dinner.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Taking Time by the Forelock.

Magazine Editor—It is time to arrange for our Christmas stories.

Assistant—I have seen to that.

"Are the authors at work?"

"Yes; they clubbed together, hired a room in an icehouse, and I send the office boy round twice a day to jingle sleighbells under the window."

Gay Yuletide.

All hail the genial time of year
When every heart is kind,
When far and near there is good cheer,
And care is left behind.

Old feuds forgot, old hates aside,
Now hearty clasps of hand,
While far and wide at Christmastide
Love reigns throughout the land.

Forgive, forget, a truce to pride;
Healed are all friendship's rifts,
At gay Yuletide on every side
We're "worked" for Christmas gifts.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Credit is especially due to Delcevare King for the very successful No-License meetings which have been held in Quincy during this campaign. Much of the work has devolved upon him, but he gathered around him a large band of young men and young women, who were willing workers, and deemed it a pleasure to assist. Thanks are also due the speakers. Such meetings as those held on Saturday and Sunday are sure to keep Quincy in the No-License column for another year. There is one reason which may result in an increased "Yes" vote; therefore it is important to get out the full "No."

We trust the voters will give the Luce Act a fair trial. No objections have been raised against its workings at the caucuses this year, except that it entails a lot of extra work upon the City Clerk. The registration of the voters is one of the best features of the bill and we believe it will be appreciated more and more in the years to come. Vote NO on the question of revoking and continue the Luce Act another year.

There is no reason why a city which gave Roosevelt 2,453 votes and Parker 1340 at the recent Presidential election should not elect James Thompson, the Republican candidate, at the Municipal election tomorrow, by a plurality of upwards of 500.

There is no reason why a single Republican should bolt the ticket this year. Mr. Thompson is a good Republican; he stands well with labor; and his sterling qualities invite support, not only of all Republicans, but of Democrats as well.

As Mayor, James Thompson would be an honor to Quincy, and there would be a great improvement in the city government. He would give us a business administration, without politics, and depend on faithful services alone for future honors.

Drift of Opinion

☞ A year ago the voters of New Bedford accepted the provisions of the Luce caucus law, so-called. One trial has been made, and now about eighty citizens have asked and secured the submission to the people at next week's election of the question whether that acceptance shall be revoked. That the law is a stupendous success, we have no reason to assert; but it seems to us that the municipal habit of vacillation is quite as bad as the individual habit of vacillation. Perhaps the citizens voted to accept the law without much thought. Nevertheless, it has had but one trial, and one trial is not sufficient. Scarcely any innovation in any line works well the first time, and a uniform policy of rejection for a first disappointment would deprive us of many good things. But beyond that the habit of voting for something one year and then voting against it the next, and both times with a minimum of thought, is an almighty poor habit. Men who whiffle about in that way are not apt to be successes; no more are communities. —New Bedford Standard.

Card Players Raided.

Chief Hayden, Inspector McKay with Officers, Burrell, Goodhue, Cahill and Stewart raided a house near Brackett's wharf Sunday afternoon, and seized two cases of beer; a gallon of whiskey; 101 empty beer bottles and ten empty jugs. When the officers arrived they found a game of cards in progress and they placed the following under arrest for gaming on the Lords day: Antonio Angelo, James Galinta, Antonio Regio, Victor Ramola, and Antonio Lenza. John Dessino the alleged proprietor was placed under arrest for keeping a liquor nuisance.

AN HONEST MAN.

James Thompson Best Qualified for office of Mayor.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Another year has passed and the citizens of Quincy are again called upon to select a man as Mayor of this city. Under all circumstances the man best qualified should be elected. I arrived in the old historical town of Quincy twenty years ago, coming here from a foreign land, and become a naturalized citizen in 1891. Though not actively engaged in politics I have taken notice of what has been going on, and I have found that officers in the different departments under the Mayor have used not only their personal influence but also that of their office for their own selfish interest, and have disregarded the interest of the citizens at large, or in other words have become despotic rulers instead of being the servants of the people.

I refer to no man in particular, but we all know this has been the condition for the last few years, and the only ones that can stop this condition are the citizens who have the welfare of the city at heart. What would you think of a servant that would sacrifice your interest in favor of his own? You would have him removed. If this is true in individual cases it is also true when it refers to municipal government.

We have before us at the present time, as a candidate for Mayor of this city, a man whom I have known for the last 19 years, and during that time I have found him to be a gentleman of honor in the highest degree, as well as a man eminently qualified in business affairs, and this man is James Thompson of Ward Three, the Republican candidate for Mayor.

If elected, I have reasons to believe that Mr. Thompson will so conduct affairs of the city that it will be to the satisfaction of all concerned. That this statement is correct I think every fair-minded man will admit, and if this is true why should he not be elected? Personal spite or any other dishonorable influences should not be used to defeat him.

To the Scandinavian people I will say I know you are not educated in political trickery and for that and other reasons you are, with the exception of a very few, honest in your political affiliation, and for that reason I know you will vote for the man best qualified. I do not ask you to vote for Mr. Thompson simply because he is a Republican, but for the reason that he is an honest man. The most of you know me, and you also know that I have never advised or in any other way proposed anything that was dishonorable.

When I ask you to vote for Mr. Thompson, I want you to thoroughly understand that it is for no other reason than what I have already stated. I will further say, that Mr. Thompson has never asked me to write or in any other way use my influence in favor of his election. He has never, as far as I know, done me a cent's worth of favor, and as far as I now know I shall never ask him for one. I am under no obligation politically to any man. I have only one vote that I can absolutely control, and that is my own, and that will be cast for James Thompson tomorrow. Oscar F. Frisk.

The Luce Act.

The Luce law was the principal subject of discussion Friday evening at the Provincial Club. Daniel McLennan of the Board of Registrars, gave an instructive talk on the workings of the act, and the evils it was supposed to correct. Dr. R. McLennan will give a talk at the next meeting, to be followed by other public men, on popular subjects.

A Costly Vote.

In Ward Two, precinct two, there is one registered female voter. As one is a fraction of fifty it means that the City Clerk is obliged to furnish sixty ballots for her use which will be sent to the polling place. In addition to this a second set of sixty ballots is held in reserve at City Hall in case the first lot goes astray in transit to the polling place. This is one of the beauties of the election law.

Peculiar To Itself

In what it is and what it does—containing the best blood-purifying, alterative and tonic substances and effecting the most radical and permanent cures of all humors and all eruptions, relieving weak, tired, languid feelings, and building up the whole system—is true only of

Hood's Sarsaparilla

No other medicine acts like it; no other medicine has done so much real, substantial good, no other medicine has restored health and strength at so little cost.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

CITY BREVITIES.

The slate roof of City Hall is being repaired.

Clan McGregor will initiate several candidates Dec. 12.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Cady Loud of Wibird street last week.

The Wollaston Unitarian club will not meet on election night but on December 13.

Mrs. Samuel Oxford has been confined to her home on River street the past week, by sickness.

It is getting to be an off Sunday when the police do not raid some one for violating the liquor laws.

Miss Mabel Ripley of Cross street, is the guest of Mrs. A. J. Shackley, at Barre, Vt., for a few weeks.

There will be a church family social and supper at the Wollaston Congregational church on Thursday evening.

The committee of members of Hodenosaunee tribe of Red Men will hold a whist party in I. O. O. F. hall, Wollaston on Thursday evening.

The Wollaston Auxiliary of the Woman's Board of Missions will hold its monthly meeting Tuesday with Mrs. A. A. Lincoln, Grand View avenue.

Lieut. F. B. Upham of the Navy department has been ordered to Quincy for duty as inspector of ordinance at Fore River Shipbuilding Company.

The Citizens No-License League have had a particularly energetic campaign this year, and their work should be rewarded by a particularly big "No" vote.

The reading club of the Wollaston Congregational church invites the women of the congregation to hear Rev. Dr. Ashmore talk on "China" at the home of Mrs. A. A. Lincoln, Grand View avenue.

Timothy Reed, treasurer of Quincy Hospital, has received the following note and remittance: "We, the committee, Mary Faxon, Grace Miller, Sybil Marsh, Chester Bennett and Richard Crane, in behalf of the First church Sunday school, send five dollars to the Hospital that we may have a little part in the good work."

Clubwomen all over the State will sympathize with Mrs. Mary Russell Charpion in the loss of her only daughter, Mrs. Boynton, whose funeral took place at 2 Binney street, Boston, on Sunday. The service was conducted by Rev. Marshall Cotter. Music was rendered by the Webber quartette. There was a large attendance and many magnificent floral tributes. Women's organizations were largely represented.

STANDS ON HIS RECORD.

I believe the freight handling facilities of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad are in a condition to receive immediate attention. I have presented plans to the directors of the railroad for the abolishing of the freight yard at South Quincy and to rid the residents of Ward Three of the disturbance now caused by continued switching, etc.

My plan is to locate this freight yard on the West Quincy branch near the old sand pit, which will greatly enhance the value of the property in the locality of the Quincy Adams station.

These plans are for a modern equipped freight yard which, if adopted, will be of immense advantage to our granite industry.

I have always taken special interest in this, my native city. In my early days, at the old town meetings, then in our city government, and today in her most progressive period.

I most respectfully solicit the support of her citizens tomorrow, Dec. 6, 1904.

I take this opportunity to thank my fellow citizens for their generous support in the past, and it is my purpose to continue worthy of their confidence.

Yours truly,

PETER T. FALLON.

Y. M. C. A. "GYM."

Will Be Open for Classes Next Week.

The Y. M. C. A. building is being rushed very rapidly now. Heating, plumbing, and lighting are all being installed, and all by Quincy contractors.

The order for gymnasium apparatus, lockers and bowling alleys were placed with the Narragansett Machine Co. of Providence, some weeks ago, the goods will be set up before Dec. 20.

It is confidently expected now that the gymnasium, bath and locker rooms will be ready for use on that date.

Physical Director Bugbee arrived today and will be ready for class work as soon as the gymnasum is ready.

The main building cannot be ready for use for two months or more.

A large amount of work will be accomplished with the facilities at hand, which including the educational classes will touch a large number of men and boys. Class schedule and other details will be published in a short time.

The full membership fee which admits to all privileges is $8.00 per year. Boys from 12 to 14, $3.50, boys from 14 to 18, who are students $5.00.

Join now before the rush begins. Tickets will be dated January 1. The General Secretary or some of the officials will be at the hall where the educational classes are held, 1355 Hancock street every evening except Saturdays from 7 to 8 o'clock.

DULL WEEK IS PROMISED

May Be Objection In House to Administering Oath to Heflin--Senate Adjourns In Respect to Memories of Hoar and Quay

Washington, Dec. 5.—Little in the way of legislative business is expected the first week of the session of congress. Today was devoted to calling the roll and swearing in the new members who have been elected to fill vacancies. The usual committee was appointed to inform the president the house is in session and the resolution notifying the senate that a quorum of the house is ready for business was passed. The president's message will be read tomorrow, but it is not expected that any other business will be transacted.

There are a number of minor matters of legislation which may be considered Wednesday and on Thursday, as no special order has been made for consideration of any general measure. Friday is pension day and there will be more than 1000 private pension bills ready for the house to consider. Early adjournments each day are expected during the first week, in order to give time to shape the session's business.

An intimation has been given that objection may be interposed against administering the oath of office to J. T. Heflin, who has been elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Representative Thompson from the Fifth Alabama district, on account of certain language Heflin is alleged to have used regarding the President of the United States. In case objection should be made there no doubt would be spirited party debate, which would occupy considerable time.

The first act of the senate after convening today was one of respect to the memory of two distinguished senators whose deaths have occurred since the adjournment of congress. Senator Penrose, immediately after the senate was called to order, announced Senator Quay's demise, and then gave way to Senator Lodge to perform a like service in the case of Senator Hoar. Adjournment for the day followed at once and postponed receipt of the president's annual message until Tuesday.

That document will be received early tomorrow and very little, if any, further business beyond its reading and the induction into office of Messrs. Knox of Pennsylvania and Crane of Massachusetts will be undertaken for that day. For the remainder of the week exceedingly brief sessions are expected. On Thursday an adjournment will be taken until the following Monday.

It will be exceptional if there should be any routine business, but the week will not be lost, as the time will be devoted to preparation for the remainder of the session, so that the postponement of active effort will really effectuate the expedition of legislation later in the session.

It is expected that the Republican steering committee will give attention to the order of business early in the session with a view to securing general legislation before the appropriation bills begin to arrive from the house of representatives. Attention will be given to filling committee vacancies caused by the deaths of Senators Hanna, Hoar and Quay, but the disposition seems to be opposed to doing more in that direction at present than to assign to Senator Platt of Connecticut the chairmanship of the committee on the judiciary, which place will go to him by virtue of seniority.

Today was characterized as usual by the attendance of a large number of spectators and a liberal display of flowers on the desks of senators.

To Fight Disfranchisement

Columbus, O., Dec. 5.—General Keifer, former speaker of the national house of representatives, who has been again elected to congress, has issued a statement in which he announces that his mission is to secure legislation to prevent the disfranchisement of voters in the south. General Keifer has made an exhaustive study of the subject.

Hemenway Will Succeed Fairbanks

Indianapolis, Dec. 5.—By the withdrawal of Representative Landis and Harry S. New from the contest for the seat in the United States senate now occupied by Vice President-elect Fairbanks, Representative Hemenway is practically conceded the election, which will be held by the legislature early in January.

A White House Conference

Washington, Dec. 5.—Senator Fairbanks was at the White House last night for some time in conference with the president. Senators Aldrich and Depew also called during the evening, the latter to pay his respects to the president.

Prince Spent Quiet Sunday

Boston, Dec. 5.—Fatigued by the sightseeing tours and the social functions in his honor, Prince Fushimi of Japan spent the entire day Sunday in his apartments at the Hotel Somerset. No callers were received during the day. Last night the prince entertained a few Boston friends at a dinner in the private dining room connected with his apartments. The affair was entirely informal.

CHADWICK CASE ARRESTS

President and Cashier of Bank Are Taken Into Custody

Cleveland, Dec. 5.—As the result of the extended conference between the United States district attorney, the bank examiners who have been looking into the affairs of the failed Citizens' National bank of Oberlin, and their counsel, President Beckwith and Cashier Spear of that bank were placed under arrest late last night by United States Marshal Chandler at their homes in Oberlin. Several deputies accompanied Chandler.

The arrests of Beckwith and Spear are the first that have been made in the Chadwick case. The Citizens' National bank, with which they are connected, is creditor to the extent of $240,000 from Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick. The bank is capitalized at but $50,000. Since the disclosure of the bank's dealings with Mrs. Chadwick, the president, Cashier and directors have held conferences and meetings frequently. Beckwith has been in a state bordering on physical collapse for nearly a week and for the past three or four days has been confined to his bed. He has given no intimation as to why such great sums of money have been loaned from the bank to Mrs. Chadwick. The warrants on which Beckwith and Spear were arrested charge them with violation of the federal banking laws.

Ten Thousand In Diaz Parade

Mexico City, Dec. 5.—Through streets whose edifices were lavishly adorned with flowers and whose balconies were hung in the old Spanish fashion with lace and tapestries as well as modern bunting, passed a great procession in honor of the inauguration of President Diaz. Some 10,000 persons took part in the great parade Sunday, largely a civic and military pageant. Hundreds of thousands looked on. There were many American tourists in the city and the Stars and Stripes floated conspicuously.

Many Foreigners In Bike Race

New York, Dec. 5.—Amid a roar of applause from nearly 20,000 spectators in Madison Square garden, the contestants in the 12th international six-day bicycle race responded to the crack of the starter's pistol at 12:05 this morning. The foreign contingent this year is the largest that has ever started in the race and it was the general opinion of the experts who witnessed the start that the native champions will have a hard time in holding their own.

Result of Autopsy Kept Secret

Rochester, N. H., Dec. 5.—Because the body of Herman C. Dyer of Milton, N. H., which was found on the tracks of the Boston and Maine railroad Saturday evening, showed little of the usual mutilation attending a railroad fatality, the police arrested Richard Farrell of Lowell, Mass., by occupation a musician, on suspicion of being concerned in Dyer's death. An autopsy was held, the result of which the authorities would not disclose.

Says Mrs Chadwick Will Settle

New York, Dec. 5.—George Ryall, attorney for Herbert B. Newton, said last night that no change had occurred in the Chadwick case. "The attachment proceedings and the bankruptcy proceedings are not bothering us any," he said. "No definite time has been fixed for the payment of Newton's claims, but we are not in the least disturbed. Our claims and the others will be paid. We are thoroughly satisfied with the situation."

Fatal Result of "Rough Fooling"

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 5.—Albert G. Petrue, 19 years old, of Dracut, died at a hospital here last night, and George Scully, aged 20, is under arrest on a charge of assault with intent to kill. A scuffle between Petrue and Scully occurred in a Dracut saloon, Petrue being struck, it is alleged, in the abdomen with a hammer. In an antemortem statement, Petrue said the affair was the result of rough fooling.

Baptism of Crown Prince

Rome, Dec. 5.—The infant crown prince of Italy was baptized at the Quirinal Sunday. The weather was showery, but this did not prevent a great crowd gathering at the palace to witness the passage of the carriages with their distinguished occupants. The ballroom of the Quirinal, which had been transformed into a chapel, was beautifully decorated.

Old Man Probably Drowned

Bangor, Me., Dec. 5.—Eugene P. Fairbanks of this city, 65 years old, is thought to have been drowned in South Twin lake. He was alone at a camp at the head of the lake. On Saturday he was to have met his son at Norcross. Not being there, an investigation was made and his coat and canoe paddle were found frozen in the ice near the camp.

Negroes' Excuse For Murder

Thomson, Ga., Dec. 5.—Guy Reid and John Btuler, negroes, have confessed the murder of R. G. Story, a planter, whose body was found in a swamp. They said they killed him because he would not let them leave the cotton field to attend a funeral. Lynching is feared.

Hudson Closed to Navigation

Albany, Dec. 5.—Battling ice nearly all the way between here and Catskill, the New York night boats C. W. Morse and City of Troy made their last trips down the river last evening, thereby marking the official close of navigation.

ECHOES FROM THE WAR

How a Nude Japanese Hero Routed a Russian Force.

LARKING ON THE FIRING LINE.

Death Has No Terror For Muscovites In the Trenches—Horrors of the Slaughter at Battle of Liaoyang Depicted In Letters From Russian Soldiers—Music In the Trenches.

A copy of the Kinkodo Magazine, printed in English, but edited by Japanese, has been received at Terre Haute, Ind., from Tokyo by friends of a man in the American navy. Among the articles is the story of "The Naked Hero," who has received the special attention of the emperor and is talked about in all Japan. The article says that Lance Corporal Ohashi gained the sobriquet by which he is known throughout the army, "The Naked Hero," in the battle of Chiutiencheng on May 1. The story is told as follows, says the Cincinnati Enquirer:

"Our readers will remember that in this battle our troops had to cross several streams in order to reach the enemy's position on the other side of the Yalu. During the engagement the main body of the Imperial guards arrived on the left bank of the Aiho and found that they must cross the stream to attack the enemy, who were strongly posted on the right bank. There was no bridge, and Lance Corporal Ohashi, Seventh company, Third regiment, Imperial guards, was selected for the honorable but dangerous task of wading the river to test its depth. Divesting himself of his uniform and taking with him only a short sword, he jumped into the river, which he succeeded in crossing safely, despite the hail of bullets showered upon him.

"When he had thus demonstrated the fordablity of the stream he was followed by the whole regiment, and the enthusiasm was so great that Ohashi never paused to resume his uniform, which his comrades brought, but naked as he was, headed the charging columns. The sight of the naked warrior was enough to strike fear to the hearts of the Russians, who fled before him. One man concealed himself behind a bush and took deliberate aim at him with a musket. But our hero saw the musket and quick as thought, seizing the weapon, killed its owner with one blow from the stock. The enemy's outposts having been carried, the column advanced some 1,000 meters to where the enemy's artillery was posted at the top of a steep hill. Ohashi, still too busy to resume his garments, was again in the forefront of the charge, personally killing two men and making one prisoner, and it was remarked with wonder that, although he had been a target and in the thickest of the fight, he did not receive a scratch. The emperor was much delighted when he heard of the exploits of Ohashi and examined with much interest the musket with which Ohashi killed his enemies."

I suppose it is because of the tremendous restrictions put upon them that the special correspondents in this Russo-Japanese war have given us so few of those little glimpses into the individual realities of war that make one feel akin with the soldiers fighting and dying for the two countries, says a writer in M. A. P. But now and then one does come across some of these glimpses. Here is one such tidbit. The scene is described in a letter written by Captain Bliznetsky, a Russian officer:

"Many of our men out of bravado gamble, jump for coppers and cut similar capers while under fire. However, I think the severest test of coolness is writing letters while shells are exploding around. I have tried to do it myself, but produced queer scrawls.

"Yesterday I witnessed this scene: The Japanese were pouring in a tremendous fire, and four or five shells had burst quite close. In the trench where I lay down four soldiers were colloguing together over the love letters which the only literate one in the lot was writing for the others. 'Say something flowery—something about the heart and the needle true to the pole,' said one. A storm of bullets whistled past. 'You wouldn't like those about the heart,' said the letter writer.

"'And tell Pulcheria I've got 70 rubles since the war began and killed twenty Japs,' continued the amorous Ivan. 'Draw it mild; I'll say ten,' retorted the letter writer. Here a shell burst, and the concussion tore the letter out of the learned man's hand.

"'Can you give us some paper, your honor?' I tore the back from a letter, and the amorist continued his work. 'Begin: Pulcheria, these are my repects, and I love you'— But here another soldier, impatient, snatched the paper and said: 'Write for me: Ekaterina Rodionoff, village of Semionova, government of Kharkov. My beloved Ekaterina, the bullets are whistling past, but that only makes me think of you. I have been wounded twice, and Colonel Friedericks says I am the bravest man in the army. Think of that and yet I love you'—

"A bullet pinged and went through the hero's coat sleeve. A minute later the letter writer fell dead."

What the battle of Liaoyang in the Russo-Japanese war meant to many corps may be judged from the following letter from a private in General Zarubeyeff's division, says the London News:

"It was left to our men to keep off the Japs, under their General Oku. They made six attacks upon us in two days. The slaughter was awful. In the Third battalion were five men (here follow names) from Andreyevo, and all are dead. Toporsky had his head taken clean off by a shell, and the shell, without bursting, went on clean through his brother Luka. I myself saw Yakovleff bayoneted by a Jap, who stuck in his bayonet to the hilt and then gave a yell that made my blood run cold. Kuznetsoff, also from Andreyevo, was killed by a bullet which went into his mouth and stuck in the back of his neck. The Jap shrapnel and machine guns killed every man within ten yeards of me, and for a quarter of an hour I was the only man standing in that part of the works. I nearly fainted, and every time I saw the flash of a gun I said to myself, 'Thank God, I'm dead at last!'"

Describing the same great battle, a private named Bulgakoff says:

"Whenever he had a moment's rest old Yevgenii took out his reed and played a tune. The bullets kept hissing around him and around us, too, but as long as he played tunes we felt happy. When we had orders to fire, down would go Yevgenii's reed into the trench, there would follow a volley, and up the reed would go for another tune. Each man shouted for his favorite song, and it was 'Yevgenii, play us "The German Peddler's Cat;"' 'Yevgenii, play us "Ludmila and the Stars,"' and so on. Finally Y. got so excited and proud that he shouted, 'Listen, boys; here is a tune of my own; it's called "The Yellow Yaposha."' We never heard it, for at the first note a bullet went through his shoulder, and all the music he could squeeze out was a groan."

HAGUE PEACE PALACE.

Details of Plans For Andrew Carnegie's Gift to the World.

Final decision has at last been reached concerning the Carnegie peace palace at The Hague, says the New York Tribune. The announcement was made the other day that the Dutch government had purchased a plot of land situated at the eastern end of The Hague, behind the Botanical gardens, to be given to the Carnegie committee. Following that it was officially announced that the future palace of arbitration would be built on the plan of the Brussels Palace of Justice, of which it will be an exact copy on a smaller scale.

The estimated cost of the peace palace is $1,640,000, or about one-fifth the amount expended on the Brussels Palace of Justice. Mr. Carnegie's original offer on April 22, 1903, was $1,500,000. Doubtless he will supply the rest. The general appearance of the palace now about to be erected will be that of a capitol. The style of the building will be classical, or Greco-Roman, as it is called here.

The edifice will consist of a main building, flanked at each end by a forepart and with a spacious central portico as the principal entrance. A double row of columns will rise to the right and left of this portico and behind them a large monumental staircase leading to the principal audience room, where the court of arbitration will hold its sittings. This audience chamber is to cover 12,000 square feet, being 270 feet long by 120 feet wide, with enormous pilasters of white marble. Beyond this main chamber will be the principal committee room, modeled after the court of assizes of the Brussels palace, with facings of variegated marbles. At each end of this committee room will be subcommittee rooms.

Above, on the second floor, will be two spacious rooms, one reserved for the president and the other for the secretary of the permanent court of arbitration. The first of these rooms is to be ornamented with marbles of various colors. The second will have pillars of pink stucco, with pedestals of gilded bronze.

The dome which will surmount the palace and will, it is expected, give a majestic aspect to the structure will be supported by two superposed galleries, the lower being square shaped, the other round, flanked by enormous bronze statues of Clemency, Justice, Law and Strength.

Entire Costumes of Calfskin.

Envious of the baby lamb's popularity the young calf has appeared in the world of fashion and with success, says the New York Press. Muffs, stoles and cuffs of the sleek brown and white piebald calfskin are the latest things. Many persons say the skin is not pretty, but what has that to do with its being fashionable? But calfskin was commonplace beside the complete suit of black undressed kid worn by Mrs. John Markle of New York, daughter of Mrs. J. Hood Wright, when she recently sailed for Genoa. The skirt was of walking length and the coat half tight and of knee length, with strapped seams and large kid buttons. For steamer wear nothing could be better, and for shopping, golfing, and, above all, for the automobile, these suits of kid are admirable. Mrs. Austin Corbin wore a muff, stole and hat of calfskin in modish brown and white one day recently. But it may prove that the sleek "bossy" will appeal more to women who can afford to humor every whim than to the lover of beautiful warm furs.

Mules Versus Automobiles.

A Missouri paper says, "Our advice to Missouri is, Don't buy automobiles; buy mules." This blast of wisdom is based upon a prediction of government authorities that next year picked mules will be worth $230 and draft mules will be in demand at $200 each, says the Kansas City Journal. The mule has become a social and economic necessity. As one enthusiastic writer puts it: "The mule is fittest; hence it is bound to survive. Long after the last human being has been kicked off the face of the earth by the tentative, prehensile flipper of a Missouri mule the stanch animal will roam and bray through the hills and continue to command the top of the market."

Saint Nicholas The Good

AT this season of the year it is easy to guess who it is that holds the first place in the hearts of the children of America. Today dear old Santa Claus may be out of sight, but he is undoubtedly not out of mind. He is probably receiving hundreds of letters daily—via the fireplace or through the register routes—telling of the fond hopes that are fixed upon some especial toy, and in the meantime, as if to bring the thought of this genial old saint ever freshly to us, on the streets and in the shops we can see men dressed like Santa Claus.

In the midst of all this holiday turmoil how many children ever stop to ask who Santa Claus really is, or who he was, for he died centuries ago? I know that some little girls and boys are longing to say now:

"Oh, we're too old for that sort of thing. We know there is no such person as Santa Claus. Our presents are given us by our fathers and mothers. We know all about it."

So far as the presents are concerned, perhaps they are right, but when they push dear old Santa Claus out of the way as a myth they are quite wrong, for Santa Claus was once as much alive as any little girl or boy who reads this.

St. Nicholas lived about the year 300 A. D., and he was a bishop of the early Christian church in Asia Minor. The name Santa Claus is merely a different form of his real name, just as Carl and Carlos are varying forms of the name Charles, and Maria and Marie are of Mary.

During his holy and useful life St. Nicholas was very good to all the little children he met, giving them presents and making them happy in every possible way. He is, therefore, to be remembered at this season because it is especially the children's feast day, and his memory should be kept more green in our hearts than the greenest leaves of the mistletoe that decorate our homes.

One story told of St. Nicholas relates how he found three lovely maidens who were very unhappy because there was no one to take care of them, and they were so poor they feared they might starve to death. The good old saint, hearing of their grief, went and tapped softly on the window of their home. When it was opened he threw three purses filled with gold into the window and hid before the girls could see who it was that sent this unexpected gift.

The next night he did not go, but the night following he tapped softly again and threw three more purses into the window. He waited a like time and then threw them a third present, but did not hide quickly enough, for they saw who it was—the kind old bishop who loved children so tenderly. Of course, they were very grateful for helping them out of their trouble this way. Some people think that the custom of giving presents originated from this old legend.

In Germany they keep the feast of St. Nicholas on Dec. 6. At this time some one dresses in the traditional costume worn by Santa Claus, gives presents to the children who have been good and sorrowfully says "I have nothing for you" to the naughty ones. —Philadelphia Ledger.

A Confession That Failed.

"So you concluded to dispel the Santa Claus myth from the mind of your youngest son?"

"Yes," said the thoughtful citizen. "You see, I thought that it would be better to hurt his feelings than to countenance deception in any form."

"And were his feelings hurt?"

"Not at all. He looked at me pityingly and said he guessed I had been one of the bad boys to whom Santa Claus did not pay any attention."—Washington Star.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Tomorrow the "duty of the hour" is to vote "No!"

A large number enjoyed the fine skating on Eaton's pond off Adams street on Sunday.

Manet lodge, Royal Arcanum, will elect officers at their meeting in Doble's hall this evening.

Merrymount lodge, K. of H., will exemplify the degree upon several candidates Friday evening.

Miss Mabel Read entertained a party of friends from Cambridge Sunday afternoon and evening.

The Pine Tree State Association will meet in G. A. R. hall, Tuesday evening, and officers will be elected.

Henry T. Brown, Jr., has moved with his family from Quincy avenue to the W. M. French house on Washington street.

W. W. Mitchell, who has been in New York all summer, has returned to Quincy.

The City Clerk is busy today getting the ballots and election paraphernalia ready for tomorrow's election.

The Quincy foot ball team defeated the Lawrence team, association rules, at Lawrence on Saturday by a score of 2 to 0.

The children of the public schools are wearing No-License buttons and are proud of them. They have a great influence.

Fallon rallies were held at Wilson hall, French hall and at Malnati hall Saturday evening. Candidate Fallon spoke at each.

The capacity of the patrol wagon was none too large to convey the prisoners from the station to the court room this morning.

Maple Lodge K. and L. of H. will elect officers for the ensuing year at its regular meeting in Wilson's hall on Wednesday evening.

Owing to the excessive amount of political mail matter accumulated at the postoffice, the carriers were obliged to make a delivery on Sunday.

The regular monthly meeting of the Social and Benevolent of the Wollaston Baptist church will be held in the chapel Wednesday afternoon at three.

There will be an entertainment after the regular business meeting of Carpenters' and Joiners' Union, this evening. Officers will also be elected.

The St. Marys defeated the Lakesides at basket ball Saturday night by a score of 17 to 5, and the St. Mary Juniors, defeated the Everetts by a score of 54 to 9.

The monthly social and business meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E. will be held at the home of Miss Eliza Miner, 19 Old Colony avenue, on Thursday evening at eight.

In another column will be found the names of the soloists who will appear in the cantata of Ruth, Wednesday evening, at Bethany church. The cantata has been in preparation for several weeks and promises to be a treat.

There is good skating on Butler's pond and also on the meadow in the rear of the street railway car barn on Hancock street. There was a crowd of young people on both ponds Sunday, also on the Canal near Pond street, and elsewhere.

A LONG SESSION

Predicted for the City Council This Evening.

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held this evening and from the amount of business that is to come up a long session is anticipated. There will be two public hearings. One on the petition of the street railway for a double track over the Atlantic bridge, and one on the petition of John Cashman to cross Furnace avenue with a private railway.

A number of opinions will be received from the City Solicitor, two concerning orders from the Metropolitan Park commission for taking of land for the boulevard will be received.

The joint Committee on Ordinances and Finance will report on the amendment to the Ordinance relating to salaries of trustees of the Woodward fund.

The Committee on Streets will report on orders granting the Telephone company permission to attach wires to poles of other companies and on location for poles for the Electric Light Co. They will also report on the order laying out Broadway, and the order relative to poles on Goffe street, and on the orders relating to Cottage avenue, Freeman, North, Paine, Hunt, Bromfield, Charles and Coe streets, and Upland road.

The Ordinance Committee will report on the order relating to sidewalk assessments.

In the calendar is the order for $1000 for assessors' plans.

TODAY'S COURT.

Geo. Lynch, Alex Cameron and Alex. McLeod were arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Cases continued until next Monday.

Frank Marim, Walter F. Pratt and Nicholas Sprunk were fined $3 each for drunkenness at Quincy.

James Galinta, Antonio Angelo, Antonio Regio, Victor Ramela and Antonio Lenza were fined $3 each for playing cards upon the Lords day at Quincy.

John Dissino was arraigned for keeping a liquor nuisance at Quincy. Case continued until Friday.

Dennis E. Kiley was arraigned for assault on Florence M. Kiley at Weymouth, and sentenced to three months in the house of Correction.

Elzard Bourk, John Wright and Washington Muller were fined $10 each for disturbing the peace at Weymouth.

BOSTON MUSIC HALL.

At Boston Music hall the program of all star vaudeville for the week beginning December 5 is one which is bound to prove exceedingly attractive to every patron of the higher class varieties. The sensational novelty of the season will be found in Paul Conchas, who comes heralded as positively the world's greatest athlete, juggler and equilibrist; an athlete who out-Sandows Sandow, a juggler who balances a complete and bona fide gun carriage on his forehead, an equilibrist who has the laws of gravity at his mercy. This extraordinary engagement is for one week only, and will mark the American debute of an artist who is morally certain to create a furore in this country. The playlet of the week,—and Boston Music Hall is rapidly acquiring a reputation for the pure quality of its offerings in this line,—will be presented by Olive May and John W. Albaugh, Jr., two more well known players who have been snatched from the legitimate to grace modern vaudeville.

A Card.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50-cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

☞Don't wait until January to have your billheads printed but call at the Ledger Office, where you are sure to get good work, prompt service and right prices.

☞Remember the prize speaking contest by the boys in Faxon hall, December 5. First and second prizes, will be ten and five dollar gold pieces. Third prize, a beautiful, combination pocket knife. Soprano and violin solos. A good time is expected.

A LINGERING COUGH

The cough that holds on in spite of all remedies needs energetic and above all thorough treatment. A mere cough mixture won't do. Root out the cold that causes the cough.

How? Scott's Emulsion.
Why Scott's Emulsion?

Because it stops the irritation, soothes the tissues and heals the affected membranes.

When? Right away. Scott's Emulsion begins to help with the first dose.

People who have used Scott's Emulsion will not be satisfied with any of the numerous substitutes that are offered in the form of wines, extracts, cordials, etc. When life and health are at stake it is unwise to experiment with unknown and untried preparations.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

Alexander Clark and Rev. N. J. Sproul.

The speakers not only urged all present to vote against license on Tuesday, but also to get their neighbors to vote "No," and in this way not only would the majority for No-License be increased, but the silent vote would also be diminished.

At Ward Four.

The West Quincy No-License rally was held Sunday evening at St. Mary's hall. It was very largely attended. Thomas Shortle, president of the St. Mary's C. T. A. society, presided, and the addresses were by Rev. A. F. Roche of St. Mary's church and Rev. John Flemming of Dedham. Between the addresses there was a piano solo by John Mahan and recitations by Miss Gertrude A. Boyd.

At Ward Five.

The No-License meeting in Wollaston was held Sunday evening at the Congregational church. The church was well filled and the audience was a responsive one. That Wollaston will give a large majority for No-License there can be no doubt. Rev. Edmund D. Webber presided, and opened the meeting with the reading of the scriptures and prayer.

The addresses which were brief were by Rev. Edward A. Chase, Rev. W. J. Heath and Rev. Frank W. Pratt. During the exercises there was a special musical program by the men's chorus.

At Norfolk Downs.

There was a large attendance at the No-License meeting at the Park and Downs church. The devotional services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Megathlin. Rev. W. B. Barr spoke on the horrors of the saloon and intemperance, illustrating his talk with the stereopticon. Delecevare King spoke a few words in regardto the temperance cause, and the lack of money for carrying it on, and a collection was taken. The music consisted of hymns by the congregation.

At Ward Six.

Music hall, Atlantic, was packed to its very doors Sunday evening at the No-License meeting. Not only was every seat taken, but all the standing room as well. L. E. Crosscup presided and brief addresses were made by Rev. J. P. Cuffe, Rev. J. G. Miller and Rev. M. E. Wright. After the addresses there was a stereopticon talk by Rev. W. B. Barr of the United Presbyterian church, South Quincy.

Whist Party.

The Nonquit Social Club held a very successful whist party at their rooms on Whitwell street Thursday evening. Prizes were awarded to Miss Hilda Nelson and Mr. D. Calderhead. Consolation prizes to Miss Louise Dunn and Mr. J. McGunigal. Graphophone selections, under direction of Mr. William I. Johnson, were enjoyed during the evening. Refreshments were served at the close of whist. Twenty members from the Copeland Club attended and helped to make the evening a pleasant one.

CARD OF THANKS.

The family of the late Peter P. Gomez desire at this time to extend hearty thanks in appreciation of the prompt and friendly service rendered in the hour of their sudden bereavement. The flowers, the kindly words, and many other kindnesses are all appreciated.

VOTE SMALLER.

But is Nearly Up to the Presidential.

Some of the Precincts Ahead.

Messrs. Thompson and Fallon Both Sanguine.

The indications at 1 o'clock were that the total vote of the city would be smaller than at the Presidential election, but some precincts were ahead, so that the total will not be much smaller.

Some are predicting the election of James Thompson as Mayor by 500 to 1000 plurality, but on the other hand Peter T. Fallon, the Democratic candidate, and his close friends are confident of victory. However, it seems only a question of the size of the plurality which Mr. Thompson will receive. Probably it will not be less than 200. It is more likely to be over 400.

Ward One.

The regular election officers are on duty in each precinct today, and the vote at one o'clock was nearly up to the total at the Presidential election.

Precinct one maintained a slight lead over precinct two all the morning but at one o'clock the totals were 324 and 315, a difference of only nine and at 2 o'clock precinct two was leading.

This ward will give a big plurality for Thompson for Mayor.

The vote by hours in each precinct is compared with the vote at the Presidential election:

	Precinct 1.		Precinct 2.
	Nov.	Dec.	Nov.	Dec.
7 o'clock,	68	50	51	48
8 o'clock,	119	116	117	102
9 o'clock,	188	167	181	151
10 o'clock,	227	197	228	186
11 o'clock,	260	239	266	233
12 o'clock,	282	271	298	259
1 o'clock,	322	324	339	315
2 o'clock,	360	351	374	355

Ward Two.

There seems to be more interest in the Quincy Point ward for Councilmen than for Mayor. There is a determined effort being made to land Peter Hynes in the City Council, and his friends are working hard to that end.

There are two or three carriages in use for Mr. Hynes and they made frequent trips between the polling place and the Fore River District.

As a whole the ward is behind the recent Presidential election. In Precinct one at 11.30 170 votes had been cast against 162 at 10.40 a month ago.

In precinct two the vote at 10.40 was 218 against 246 at 11 o'clock at the other election. This precinct is therefore holding its own.

As to how the ward will go on the Mayoralty, the question seems to be how much majority will Thompson get.

Ward Three.

South Quincy, the home ward of Candidate Thompson, should get out a good vote. The total vote of the ward, however, at 10.30 was a little behind the State election. At that hour the total vote was 396 against 432 at 10.15 last November.

In precinct one, Mr. Thompson's own precinct, and also the Democratic precinct, the vote at 10.30 was 208, against 247 fifteen minutes earlier at the November election.

In precinct two, the Republican precinct, the vote is practically the same as at the State election. At 10.30 the vote of this precinct was 188 against 185 at 10.15 last November.

Mr. Fallon has claimed this ward, but no one about the polls thinks for a minute that he will carry it, but that it will go strong for Thompson.

In precinct one, W. J. Sullivan, manager for G. V. Bowditch, says that Galen is a sure winner for the City Council.

Ward Four.

The total vote of the West Quincy ward at 10 o'clock was 401 against 408 a half hour earlier at the State election. This is Mr. Fallon's own ward and will doubtless give him a majority, as it is a strong Democratic ward.

Precinct one, known as the Democratic precinct, had cast 177 votes at 10 o'clock against 183 at 9.30 at the recent election.

This is the precinct which was expected to give Mr. Fallon a heavy vote, but at this hour the vote is not coming up to expectations.

In precinct two the vote at 10 o'clock was 224 against 225 at 9.30 at the state election. Although this is the Republican precinct it would not be surprising if this precinct gave Mr. Thompson a small plurality.

The ward as a whole has been claimed for Mr. Fallon by from 500 to 600, but few believe that he will get anywhere near that figure.

The only change in election officers is in precinct two where James A. White, deputy clerk, is officiating.

Ward Five

The Wollaston ward is polling a good vote today although it is considerable behind what it was at the recent State election. There seemed to be no concerted effort to get out the voters this morning, as there should have been. This ward cast 781 votes at the recent election but the election today will be nearly two hundred behind. The indications at 1 o'clock were that about 625 votes would be cast which was about the same as at the Municipal election last year.

At 1 o'clock 585 votes had been cast against 700 for the same hour at the November election. One female only had voted.

The new ballot box in this ward had another kickup this morning and a second box had to be provided. The new box is the same that got out of order at the State election. It was sent back to the manufacturers and was returned this week with the manufacturer's assurance that it was all right. It was put to work this morning and registered only ten votes correctly.

Then it stopped, and not only did it refuse to register any more, but it chewed up the ballots that were put into it. Word was telephoned to City Hall and a new box was soon substituted.

The ward will give a handsome plurality for Thompson.

Ward Six.

The Atlantic Ward is running a little behind the November election. This is not surprising, however, as the November election was a Presidential one and a phenomenal vote was cast. The total vote of the ward at 12.30 was 435 against 476 for the same hour at the November election.

In precinct one 230 votes had been cast or 18 less than the November election. In precinct two, 205 votes had been cast, or 23 less than the November election.

It is generally admitted that the ward will give a good plurality for Thompson.

Presidential Vote.

The number of voters on the lists this December is 5,278 against 4,986 last year, an increase of 292 during the year. The total vote at the last Municipal election was 4,227, and at the recent Presidential election 4,465.

The vote by precincts is given below, and is compared with the number of voters on the lists each year:

	Voters 1904.	Voters 1903.	Nov. Vote.
Ward One, Pre. 1,	468	441	401
Ward One, Pre. 2,	532	487	416
Ward Two, Pre. 1,	335	304	235

HEAVY DAMAGES SOUGHT

Suits Brought by Victims of Melrose Dynamite Explosion

Boston, Dec. 6.—Several suits to recover damages on account of the dynamite explosion in Melrose, when nine persons were killed and many injured, were entered yesterday afternoon. They are brought against the Boston and Northern Street Railway company and the city of Melrose. May E. Conway sues both defendants for $60,000 each, and John F. Conway sues both for $15,000 each. James D. Patten sues each defendant for $50,000.

It is alleged that the Boston and Northern Street Railway company is liable because of its failure to employ and properly control efficient servants in the conduct of its business and in failing to maintain its way in a safe condition, free from obstructions.

Against the city it is alleged that the corporation permitted the dynamite to be transported carelessly and negligently left it to lie on a public thoroughfare.

—Since the natural gas was discovered at Dighton that town has been the mecca for hundreds. Two companies have secured leases on about all the available land in Dighton, Berkley and Somerset, and should oil be discovered they will lose no time in sinking wells all through those villages.—Mansfield News.

SERIOUS FIRE.

In a Large Boarding House at Midnight.

Rescues Were Made Through Windows.

The Loss Estimated at $2,500 or More.

The alarm from Box 74 at 12.40 this morning was for a stubborn fire in a large boarding house on Madison street owned by Robert Johnson and occupied by Clara M. White. It was formerly the Kittredge house but has been moved and enlarged. Just how the fire started is not known, but it is thought to have originated near the kitchen stove, the fire was discovered by Officers Lyons and Curtin who turned in the alarm.

At that time it was burning briskly and had spread so rapidly that the occupants had barely time to escape in their night garments. But for the prompt work of the officers lives would have been lost. As it was, the officers took some of the women out through the windows.

When the fire department arrived the flames were coming through the roof and the fire then seemed to be in the upper part of the house.

Well directed streams of water soon had a telling effect on the flames and conquered them, but not before the house had been badly gutted.

Chief Williams estimates the loss on the building at $2000, and the contents at $500.

During the progress of the fire Mrs. Angus McDonnell furnished the firemen with coffee and sandwiches for which they feel very grateful, and for which they wish to extend their thanks.

The snow plough for the Squantum line arrived Sunday. It was taken off the track at Barry's corner and dragged by eight horses along Squantum street and down Newbury avenue when it was again put on the track and taken down to the Atlantic station where it is waiting for future use.

BEQUEST TO CITY.

Charles E. French Thoughtful of Ancestors Buried Here.

The City of Quincy is a beneficiary in the will of Charles E French, the retired drug merchant, who recently died on Commonwealth avenue Boston. He leaves the City of Quincy, $3000, in trust, for care of old burial ground in City Square, where remains of his ancestor, the Rev. John Hancock, repose.

A similar bequest is made to the town of Braintree, $3,000 in trust for care of burial ground where remains of his French ancestors repose.

The public bequests of Mr. French amount to the munificent sum of $200,000, of which $98,000 goes to the city of Boston, to promote good scholarship in the public schools and take care of colonial burying grounds, Old State House and oldest and largest trees on Common.

The Massachusetts General Hospital will benefit $10,000, and smaller sums will go to 32 charitable, benevolent, historical and worthy institutions.

Snow Ploughs Out.

The first real snow storm of the season came Monday evening. While only two or three inches of snow fell, not enough to make sleighing, the street railway had its snow ploughs out early, and the Street department also used ploughs for the first time.

The storm ceased before 11 P. M., and this morning there were paths to sweep or shovel and sidewalks to clear.

The temperatnre remains near the freezing point so that the walking is not as bad as it would have been with a thaw.

Drift of Opinion

☞While republicans are resting and thinking, it won't hurt them a bit to think, thoughfully, of the time when they won't have Theodore Roosevelt's personal popularity as a campaign asset. They can meditate with profit on the remark Judge Taft has made about that. "It is no unheard-of thing, he has told them, "to have a majority (almost) as large and sweeping as this followed by a defeat equally emphatic at the next presidential election." In other words, the republican party cannot afford to be foolish because it is prosperous.—Hartford Courant.

☞ An Iowa preacher is out with a new crusade against the card-playing fad which will strike the thinking man or woman as the most sensible charge which has as yet been made against the card-playing mania. He declares that cards are destroying the art of conversation, that society is not satisfied today to meet and spend time in intelligent enlightening conversation, but that host or hostess must provide something to play, and he might have added, something to play for in order to keep her guests from finding the time dull. "We are becoming" said he, "the poorest conversationalists in the world and society people are unable as a rule to sustain what may properly be cause of the defect or the result of the defect may be a question for argument, but the westerner's criticism is well-placed.—Haverhill Gazette.

☞Properly used, the term tariff revision carries no menace of radical reconstruction of the tariff system, or of extensive re-arrangement of tariff rates. It means only the judicious pruning which the skilled gardner applies to his plants and vines for their better growth and richer bearing, rather than any disturbing use of a sub-soil plough. A proper revision would mean simply a readjustment of certain items along the lines of Mr. McKinley's enunciation made shortly before his death, and not an upheaval along the lines of the Wilson tariff of 1894. Good business, sound judgment, wise policy require a consideration of specific items with a view to their adjustment to new conditions, and their regulation, for the general welfare of the country. Such consideration the tariff will receive; and wisely pursued it will furnish no cause for alarm, but much ground for encouragement and satisfaction.—New York Sun.

CARNEGIE'S NAME

Signed to Notes In Mrs Chadwick's Possession

CONFESSION BY BECKWITH

He and Cashier of Bank of Which He Was President Endorsed Notes Aggregating $1,250,000--Woman Took Solemn Oath That They Would Not Be Used For Purpose of Raising Money

Cleveland, Dec. 6.—Numerous new points have developed in connection with the affairs of Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick and the closed Citizens' National bank of Oberlin. President Beckwith and Cashier Spear of the latter institution were brought here from Oberlin and arraigned before Commissioner Starek. Both pleaded not guilty and waived a preliminary hearing. Commisioner Starek fixed the bail at $10,000 in each case and bound the two men over to the grand jury, which meets in February next. Both men secured bail.

That the Oberlin bank, or President Beckwith, really possessed notes for $250,000 and $500,000 respectively, with the name of Andrew Carnegie signed thereto, is now known as a definite fact. Whether these notes are forgeries is yet to be shown. This is stated on authority of United States District Attorney Sullivan and a prominent banker of Cleveland.

Receiver Loeser has filed his bond, thus making him the legal custodian of all property owned by Mrs. Chadwick. The approval of Loeser's bond ties up absolutely all of Mrs. Chadwick's property and not a dollar of her debts can be paid out of the proceeds of her estate. All creditors, it is said, must share alike. This is supposed to apply to the Newton claim, if there is an attempt to pay it out of any money that may be due to the estate.

Emil Chadwick, son of Mrs. Chadwick, arrived here from New York and at once went to his mother's home. The young man was deeply depressed. He refused to talk for publication.

Seated in the office of the district attorney in this city, President Beckwith of the failed Citizens' National bank of Oberlin made a confession regarding the bank's transactions with Mrs. Chadwick The aged banker spoke in broken sentences and tears were streaming from his eyes. His acquaintance with Mrs. Chadwick began three years ago. The attorneys for Herbert D. Newton of Brookline, Mass., have stated that their client loaned Mrs. Chadwick money only after a note signed "Andrew Carnegie" had been endorsed by the president and cashier of a national bank. The men who endorsed the note were President Beckwith and Cashier Spear of the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin.

Referring to this money, Beckwith continued his story of the bank's transactions with Mrs. Chadwick as follows: "Yes, we endorsed the note in addition to one other note for $500,000, but never for the purpose for which they were used."

"Do you mean to say that there are two $500,000 notes in addition to the note for $250,000?" Mr. Beckwith was asked.

"Yes, notes aggregating $1,250,000."

"It has not been generally understood that there were two notes for $500,000," was suggested.

"I know it, I know it, but the notes exist just the same," said Beckwith. "One of them is in the hands of the receiver and the other ought to be in the hands of Mrs. Chadwick. If she has disposed of it she has done something which she swore she would not do. So please make it plain that a solemn oath was taken that the notes which bear our endorsement were never to be used by Mrs. Chadwick for the purpose of raising money and she knew it.

"Did we have the slightest suspicion that the notes carrying the name of Andrew Carnegie were not genuine? In Heaven's name how could we have had suspicion? Mrs. Chadwick swore to both of us and one or more witnesses that she personally saw Carnegie sign his name to the notes she placed before us.

"Just now I can see back to the first time I came to know Mrs. Chadwick in a business way. It was something over a year ago that I learned that W. S. Fay and Henry Wurst of Elyria had had some dealings with Mrs. Chadwick. They were known as shrewd business men. I began to inquire, for I wanted to exert every effort to turn an honest dollar. I guess Mrs. Chadwick was greatly interested the moment she learned that inquiries for business had been made by me. At any rate she came to Oberlin and it was there the thing began. I began looking for legitimate business. A second interview and I made a small loan. It was promptly met. In addition we secured considerable splendid business, all transacted in a business way. From there on the story leads into a maze. It leads down to a time when I went down to New York. In my pocket I carried one of the notes signed with the name of Carnegie. When I started I had in mind an attempt to raise money on the paper to put funds in the bank. When I got to New York my heart failed me, for something told me that all was not right. I came back home without making any attempt to raise money on the note.

"Mrs. Chadwick had secured big loans from many other bankers. She had met these obligations. Would she not meet obligations to my bank? We prayed that she would and we thought she would.

"But now I guess the jig is up and Mrs. Chadwick has reached the end of her rope. I swore to my absolute faith in this woman. Yes, I swore to it and I do not deny it. But that was the thing for me to do as long as there was an atom of hope. Let me tell you that not one tenth part has been told. I have information which I am going to give. When I get my thoughts together I will make a statement in which I will conceal nothing and in which all parties will be treated alike."

Secret Service Men Called In

New York, Dec. 6.—Mrs. Cassie L Chadwick is at the Holland house. At the hotel are at least three officers of the United States secret service and they have been particularly alert for the past 24 hours. A man closely connected with the case says that there is a strong possibility that an arrest will be made in New York within a short time and that it will be of a person closely connected with the now famous case.

Nan Patterson's Second Trial

New York, Dec. 6.—The second trial of Nan Patterson, accused of the murder of "Caesar" Young six months ago, commenced yesterday and when adjournment was taken for the day three jurors had been chosen. The first trial was suddenly terminated by the illness of a juror, when the jury was dismissed and a new panel ordered. Miss Patterson's manner was very vivacious and the nervousness noticed during the progress of the first trial has entirely disappeared.

All Caused by a Spark

New York, Dec. 6.—Ten persons were injured and $250,000 worth of property destroyed as the result of a spark leaping from a gasoline machine on which a chauffeur was working in an automobile garage here. Two score automobiles were destroyed or badly damaged and so rapid was the progress of the fire that men working in the second story of the building were forced to leap from the windows. Five of the injured are in hospitals.

Great Land Suit Ended

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 6.—A suit pending in the United States court for over 10 years past was ended by Judge Locke when a decree was entered in the case of Theodore Dalcour et al vs. the United States. The suit was for 3,100,000 acres of land known as the Forbes purchase. The claim of complainants was based on an old Spanish grant, and the decree entered is in their favor and establishing their patent as valid.

Elusive Doctor In Custody

New York, Dec. 6.—After successfully escaping from the police of Bremen and Cherbourg, eluding the immigration authorities at this port and later getting his freedom after being arrested at Bluefields, W. Va., Dr. Franz Papp of Budapest is now in the custody of the immigration officials on Ellis Island. Papp is wanted in Budapest on the alleged charge of having stolen $23,000 worth of jewels.

Cut In High Salaries

Chicago, Dec. 6.—The plan of the Illinois Steel company to equalize wages at its South Chicago plant has gone into effect. Men who formerly received $5, $6 and 8 a day are now getting but $3, $4 and $5, and there is much dissatisfaction among them. On the other hand, the poorly paid men have gone to work at $1.85, $2 and $2.15 rates, instead of $1.40, $1.50 and $1.80.

Value of Turbines Questioned

Glasgow, Dec. 6.—The trials of the Allan line steamer Victorian, the largest turbine vessel yet built, have been so disappointing as to raise serious doubts among the Clyde shipbuilders as to the value of turbines in the case of large ships. All the efforts made to get the Victorian near contract speed were futile.

A World's Fair Complaint

St. Louis, Dec. 6.—In a letter to President Pangborn of the United Exhibitors' associations, President Carter of the national World's Fair commission declares that "most grave and serious charges of corruption in connection with the awarding of certain premiums" have been filed with the national commission.

Lost With All on Board

New York, Dec. 6.—A report from Rockland, Me., that the four-masted schooner Quinnebaug, from Savannah for New York, has probably been lost at sea, with all on board, is confirmed. The Quinebaug left Savannah early in November with a cargo of tiling and nothing has been heard of her since.

Nearly 16,000,000 at World's Fair

St. Louis, Dec. 6.—The official figures for the attendance at the World's Fair are made public. The total attendance was 18,741,073, and that of the closing day, Dec. 1, 203,101.

Zemstvo Memorial Endorsed

Moscow, Dec. 6.—At a banquet here, which was attended by 450 lawyers and doctors, resolutions were adopted on the line of the recent zemstvo memorial.

CITY BREVITIES.

Election day.

Have all voted who wish.

The Brownie whist club will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home Mrs. Kate A. Hayden, Brewers Corner.

Rev. J. H. Whitaker, who recently settled in Manchester, has resigned and sails for England within a few days to enter upon a course of work at Oxford. This is in pursuance of a plan long cherished. Mr. Whitaker feeling that a preacher's vocation is less congenial to him than educational work.

At the Saturday evening whist party in Doble's Hall fifteen tables were in play, the highest score being fifty-two. The souvenirs were carried off by Mrs. Esson, Mr. Gleason, Mr. W. Prout, Mrs. Pratt, Mrs. Cottrell, Mr. Craig, Miss Nicol, Mr. Marshall, Mrs. J. Wood and Mr. A. McDonald.

Thoughtful of Children.

A welcome addition to the funds of the Hospital came last week in the form of a check for $75, from the Little Women's club. This club is made up of six young ladies of Wollaston and the money was earned, not solicited. A request came with the gift that it be used, if practicable, for the benefit of child patients. This example is worthy of imitation.

Express Safe Robbed

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 6.—A Wells-Fargo express car was entered somewhere between Needles and Daggett, and Express Messenger Roberts was shot and probably fatally wounded. The way safe was rifled, but the main safe, said to contain $200,000 in pension money, was not robbed, so far as known. Officers of the express company say the robber only secured about $400.

Decrease In Birth Rate

Berlin, Dec. 6.—Official statistics covering 26 years show a steady and noticeable decrease in the birth rate in the large cities in Germany, in spite of the fact that the marriage rate is higher than in cities of less than 100,000 inhabitants and in the country. Berlin, which passed the 2,000,000 mark in December, presents the heaviest decrease in the birth rate.

Russian Prince In Jail

St. Petersburg, Dec. 6.—Prince Mestchersky, editor of The Grashdain, was convicted of libelling M. Stakvitch, a member of the Moscow zemstvo, in charging the latter with having written for a foreign revolutionary paper. The prince was sentenced to two weeks in jail.

Trackless Trolley a Success

Berlin, Dec. 6.—The first trackless trolley street railway has begun operations in Berlin and is apparently a success. The vehicles resemble electric omnibuses, but derive their power from an overhead trolley. They have a speed of 10 miles an hour.

Twenty-Four Murders by Greeks

Salonica, Dec. 6.—A Greek band murdered 24 Bulgarians in the village of Altos on Sunday. An order has been issued for the mobilization of 16 battalions of troops.

Russian Troops For Afghan Frontier

London, Dec. 6.—The Standard asserts that an entire Russian army division, which has been stationed in the Caucasus, has been ordered to the Afghan frontier.

HAIR NATURALLY ABUNDANT.

When It Is Free of Dandruff, It Grows Luxuriantly.

Hair preparations and dandruff cures, as a rule, are sticky or irritating affairs that do no earthly good. Hair, when not diseased, grows naturally, luxuriantly. Dandruff is the cause of nine-tenths of all hair trouble, and dandruff is caused by a germ. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ; and, so far, the only hair preparation that will positively destroy the germ is Newbro's Herpicide—absolutely harmless, free from grease, sediment, dye matter or dangerous drugs. It allays itching instantly; makes hair glossy and soft as silk. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

aid when there is trouble. When you have a bad, a "dark brown" taste, when you have a sick headache or a sallow skin—they are messages from the "seat of war" demanding attention, and there are disagreeable times if you don't pay attention. You know what it means to get bilious, and how nasty these occasional attacks are, but how serious when chronic! The simplest cure is the easiest and that's by using

Beecham's Pills

They are small and tasteless—easy to take, but they roll right to the right spot and limber things up so that you "feel like a colt" before you realize the work has begun.

You can eat what you want and do what you want if you will keep Beecham's Pills handy. You will be surprised at your vivacity and vigor. If you will take Beecham's Pills occasionally your system will always be helped.

Trap Set by Russians Proved Disastrous to Japanese

FIFTEEN HUNDRED DEAD

Operations Around Lone Tree Hill Appear to Be In Favor of Russians For the Moment--Attack on Port Arthur Continues

Mukden, Dec. 6.—There is a persistent rumor that the force of Japanese, sent to turn General Rennenkampff's flank has been repulsed with great loss. The story is not yet officially confirmed, but details are given with great circumstantiality.

It is stated that Rennenkampff, who knew the movement was maturing, awaited the Japanese at the mouth of one of the captured passes, and that the Japanese turning force threw themselves unsuspectingly into the ambuscade, where, after the fight, the Russians collected 500 Japanese corpses. It is added that there are 1000 more Japanese corpses which it has been impossible to collect owing to the fire of the Japanese. This does not include the Japanese loss in wounded. The Russian loss, according to their account, was only 30 or 40 men.

The night of Dec. 2 the Japanese began a heavy artillery fire on Poutiloff (Lone Tree) hill, paving the way for an infantry attack. The Russian artillery answered vigorously for several hours and then slackened. The Japanese, imagining the Russian fire had been silenced, flung themselves in masses against the trenches, where they were allowed to come within close range, and then were met with withering volleys and a counter charge with the bayonet. The Japanese fled having sustained enormous losses.

A Cossack expedition which was sent the night of Dec. 2 to capture a Japanese battery on the Russian right flank was only partially successful. The Cossacks wiped out the Japanese sentries, killed the gunners and got possession of the battery, but were unable to remove the guns, owing to the rapid arrival of Japanese reinforcements.

An attack by Japanese on Poutiloff hill on Dec. 3 was probably due in part to a wish to distract attention from sapper operations on a neighboring hill near the village of Shakhe; but these operations were discovered and repulsed and the Japanese fled.

Port Arthur Fight Continues

London, Dec. 6.—A dispatch from Chefoo to The Daily Telegraph says: Heavy firing continues at Port Arthur. The Japanese are making most determined and persistent efforts to capture the northern forts.

Tokio, Dec. 6.—It is reported that the Japanese bombardment against the fleet at Port Arthur is proceeding to the satisfaction of the attacking forces. In the evening of Dec. 4 two or three Russian ships were fired and burned in a half hour. Their names and the extent of the damage done are not known. It is generally believed that the Russian fleet must either make an early sortie or suffer irreparable damage.

Germany Watching Our Navy.

Berlin, Dec. 6.—The naval budget includes an item specifically covering the cost of sending officers to the United States to study methods of building and arming warships and other matters that may be applied to the betterment of the German navy. American plans are much preferred over those of Great Britain in naval circles here.

Gorgeous Mission to Abyssinia

Berlin, Dec. 6.—Emperor William has decided to send a plenipotentiary to negotiate a commercial treaty with King Menelik and to bear presents to the Abyssinian monarch. Twelve men to attend the officer have been selected. Besides fancy light uniforms the soldiers will take their gorgeous parade uniforms, with cuirasses and lances.

Favors Continuance of Strike

Denver, Dec. 6.—The executive board of the Western Federation of Miners is in session in this city. "The issues involved in the Cripple Creek strike," says President Moyer, "remain unsettled. Personally I see no reason why the strike should be called off."

Subpoenas For Smoot Witnesses

Salt Lake City, Dec. 6.—Subpoenas for witnesses wanted by the United States sub-commission which is investigating the Reed Smoot case have been received by United States Marshal Heywood and he and his deputies have started out to serve them.

Missionary's Family Poisoned

Bombay, Dec. 6.—The wife and children of Dr. Benjamin, an American Episcopal missionary at Lahore, have been poisoned with arsenic. A native Christian schoolmaster who was recently reprimanded by Dr. Benjamin is charged with the crime.

To Be Easier on Jews

Kieff, Russia, Dec. 6.—Governor General Kleigls has issued instructions to the police to cease nocturnal visits to hotels and lodging houses in search of jews who have no right to live in Kieff.

Run Proved Too Heavy For the German Bank of Buffalo

Buffalo, Dec. 6.—The German bank of Buffalo was closed by State Superintendent of Banking Kilburn because of a run which begun with the opening of the bank's doors and continued to grow in volume as the day advanced. This excitement had the result of sending nervous depositors hurrying to the German-American bank on the opposite side of Main street, and within a few minutes the counting room was thronged with men and women and the run which began last week was renewed.

Soon after the announcement was made that the German bank had closed, the Buffalo Clearing House association issued a statement to the effect that they would meet all demands upon the German-American bank. It was also announced that President Emory and two of the directors of the German-American had resigned and that their places had been taken by three of Buffalo's wealthiest men. These announcements had a reassuring effect and several large deposits which had been withdrawn were again placed in the bank. Small depositors, however, continued to draw out their money.

Superintendent Kilburn is of the opinion that the German bank will not resume business.

A Case of Snub

Halifax, Dec. 6.—A mild sensation was caused in this city by the announcement that Mayor Crosby and the eight aldermen had decided to take no part in the official reception of Earl Grey, the new governor general of Canada, who is expected to reach Halifax on Friday. This action was taken because the city council had been ignored in the official program made to meet Grey and considered that undue prominence had been accorded to the imperial army and militia authorities.

Little Change at Fall River.

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 6.—Contrary to general expectations, no concerted attempt was made yesterday by the cotton manufacturers to break the strike by importing a large number of workmen from outside points. There is no marked change in the situation. All the mills opened their gates, and the rate of gain was about the same as on previous days since the mills were reopened. At some places extra hands went in, while at others there was practically no increase.

Where United States Is "Lame"

London, Dec. 6.—At the dinner of the Authors' club last night, Sir Arthur C. Doyle, who presided, referred to the laxity of the law and its administration in the United States and said that that great nation had outgrown its legal strength with appalling results. While Great Britain in the Boer war lost 22,000 lives, the United States lost in the same three years 32,000 lives through murder or homicide.

NATION'S AFFAIRS

A General Survey In President Roosevelt's Message

OUTLINE OF MAIN TOPICS

Labor Question, Industrial Conditions and Great Corporations Receive Attention -- Recommends Continuing Policy of Upbuilding the Navy--Filipinos Not Yet Fit For Independence

Washington, Dec. 6.—The main features of President Roosevelt's message, which was transmitted to congress today, follow:

The enlargement of scope of the functions of the national government required by our development as a nation involves, of course, increase of expense, and the period of prosperity through which the country is passing justifies expenditures for permanent improvements far greater than would be wise in hard times, but abundant revenues and a large surplus always invite extravagance, and constant care should be taken to guard against unnecessary increase of the ordinary expenses of government.

The relations of capital and labor, and especially of organized capital and organized labor, to each other and to the public at large come second in importance only to the intimate questions of family life. As long as the states retain the primary control of the police power the circumstances must be altogether extreme which require interference by the federal authorities.

Wageworkers have an entire right to organize and by all peaceful and honorable means to endeavor to persuade their fellows to join with them in organizations. They have a legal right, which, according to circumstances, may or may not be a moral right, to refuse to work in company with men who decline to join their organizations. They have under no circumstances the right to commit violences upon those who refuse to support their organizations or who side with those with whom they are at odds, for mob rule is intolerable in any form.

There is no objection to employes of the government forming or belonging to unions, but the government can neither discriminate for nor discriminate against non-union men who are in its employment or who seek to be employed under it.

When we come to deal with the great corporations the need for the government to act directly is for greater than in the case of labor, because great corporations can become such only by engaging in interstate commerce, and interstate commerce is peculiarly the field of the general government. Great corporations are necessary, but should be managed with due regard to the interest of the public as a whole. Where this can be done under the present laws it must be done. Where these laws come short others should be enacted to supplement them.

Above all else we must strive to keep the highways of commerce open to all on equal terms, and to do this it is necessary to put a complete stop to all rebates. Whether the shipper or the railroad is to blame makes no difference.

Veterans of the Civil war have a claim upon the nation such as no other body of our citizens possess. The pension bureau has never in its history been managed in a more satisfactory manner than is now the case.

The attention of the congress should be especially given to the currency question and that the standing committees on the matter in the two houses charged with the duty take up the matter of our currency and see whether it is not possible to secure an agreement in the business world for bettering the system. Every silver dollar should be made by law redeemable in gold at the option of the holder.

I especially commend the encouragement of our merchant marine by appropriate legislation.

On the tariff I shall communicate with you later.

There is no danger of having too many immigrants of the right kind, but the citizenship of this country should not be debased.

[The president discusses the progress of the territories of Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico, with recommendations for changes in the present system of government of the first named. He desires to see a delegate from Alaska in congress.]

The strong arm of the government in enforcing respect for its just rights in international matters is the navy of the United States. I most earnestly recommend that there be no halt in the work of upbuilding the American navy. Our voice is now potent for peace and is so potent because we are not afraid of war. But our protestations upon behalf of peace would neither receive nor deserve the slightest attention if we were impotent to make them good.

In the Philippine islands there has been during the past year a continuation of the steady progress which has obtained ever since our troops definitely got the upper hand of the insurgents. The Philippine people at present are utterly incapable of existing in independence at all or of building up a civilization of their own. I most earnestly hope that in the end they will be able to stand, if not entirely alone, yet in some such relation to the United States as Cuba now stands.

Mrs. F. A. Perkins is quite ill at her home on Cherry avenue.

The steel for the new bridge at Atlantic arrived Sunday morning.

Dr. W. J. McCauseland has moved from 108 to 109 Franklin street.

Mr. Brown and family have moved from Edison to Whitwell street.

Newsboys wanted tonight at the Daily Ledger office and by news agents.

Arthur Parker has resigned his position with the Fore River Shipbuilding Company.

Coleman Bros., the contractors, have finished their work on the Metropolitan boulevard at Atlantic.

Mr. Smith and family of Old Colony street have removed to the Cleverly house on Madison street.

Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, will elect officers for the ensuing year at their meeting this evening.

An addition has been built on to the rear of Walter Peter's store, corner of Chubbuck and Washington streets.

Atlantic was up and awake early this morning and the polls were busy places. Ward Six kept up her end of hustling.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith of Penn street, South Quincy, have removed to Maine, where Mr. Smith will engage in the granite business.

The Atlantic male quartette will soon be writing its name in the "Halls of Fame," for already it is in demand at all local functions. It has a rare combination of genius and energy.

Owing to the cold weather Monday only about fifteen ladies gathered in the parlor of the birthplace of President John Adams for the December meeting of Adams chapter which took the form of a sewing bee in the morning, with box lunch at noon and short business meeting in the afternoon. It was a very pleasant meeting and considerable sewing was accomplished. The ladies found braiding rags for rugs not so easy as it looked to be but are not discouraged and intend to cover the floors of the house.

Confessed to Murder

Boston, Dec. 6.—Acting on information sent from New York, the police arrested a young Italian at the Back Bay station for a double murder committed in New York. The prisoner is Marcellino Sando, 17 years old. He shot and killed Pasquale Guardie, and also fatally wounded the latter's mother-in-law at a christening. The prisoner admitted committing the murder, saying that he was employed as a bootblack at the new Astor house and that the man whom he killed had circulated stories to the effect that Sando had stolen from the hotel and that he shot in revenge.

WITHOUT COST.

City to Manage the Woodward Fund.

City Council Holds a Long Session.

Mayor Wants a City Auditor to Give All His Time.

The City Council took an advanced stand at its meeting Monday evening relative to the payment of salaries to city officials from the Woodward school fund. After hearing and debate it was decided to so amend the ordinance that no salaries shall be paid from the fund. Instead the city will increase the salaries of its officers who have heretofore benefitted from the fund.

Councilmen Hadlock, Holmes, Johnson, Spargo and Thompson were the absentees.

JURORS DRAWN.

The Mayor assisted by City Clerk Keith and Councilman Stone drew the following jurors: Fred L. White, William L. Chase, Walter H. Andrews, Ralph W. Hobbs and Perley R. Runnels.

INCREASE FOR AUDITOR.

The Mayor recommended that the ordinance relative to City Auditor be amended so as to provide that the Auditor shall give his whole time to the office and that the salary be increased to $1000 per year.

WILLARD SCHOOLYARD.

The School Committee requested the city to provide more land for playground for the Willard school. To Committee on Public Buildings.

APPROPRIATION FOR POOR.

The Overseer of the Poor sent a communication stating his appropriation of $8,000 would not be sufficient for the balance of the year. To Finance Committee.

STATE AID.

The City Clerk sent a communication stating that the appropriation for State and Military aid was not sufficient for the balance of the year, and requested an additional appropriation of $491. To Finance Committee.

A VETO.

The Mayor returned without his approval the order granting Elmer W. Baker permission to keep his dance hall open later than 11 o'clock. Laid on table.

GOFFE STREET.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the residents of Goffe street commending the Commissioner for good work done on Goffe street.

LEGAL OPINIONS.

The City Solicitor rendered his opinion on a number of matters that had been referred to him. These were laid in the table.

On the matter of public scales he stated that the location in City Square might be held as a menace to travel and cause a defect in the highway.

On the matter of granting junk licenses to residents or citizens of Quincy only, he advised against its passage as it would discriminate in trade.

On the matter of salaries for officials for care of Woodward fund, his opinion was that the payment of such salaries was perfectly legal. That the $600 paid is not unreasonable.

On the ordinance relative to soliciting subscriptions or offering articles for sale without permit of Chief of Police, his opinion was it may be permissable to grant permits and perfectly proper to charge a nominal fee of $1, but should advise against enactment of such an ordinance.

On the matter of definition of a citizen the opinion was not read, but placed on file.

DOUBLE TRACKS.

A public hearing was given on the petition of the Old Colony street railway for a location for another track over the new bridge at Atlantic.

W. G. A. Pattee appeared for the company.

James F. Burke and Mayor Bryant opposed. The Mayor hoped that no more locations would be granted until company lives up to its agreement. He hoped Council would give petitioners leave to withdraw.

Hearing closed.

Upon motion of Councilman Bass the petitioners were given leave to withdraw.

A public hearing was also given on the petition of John Cashman to cross Furnace avenue with a railroad at grade. Mr. Cashman was the only one to speak.

An order concurring with the Metropolitan Park Commission in taking of land for the boulevard was passed.

An order was offered concurring with the Metropolitan Park Commission on taking of land of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., Annie W. Grant and C. V. Anderson near Hancock street. Referred.

PETITIONS.

Councilman Stone offered a petition for the extention of Glencoe place to Elm street. To Committee on Streets.

Several petitions for minor licenses were received and referred.

A petition was received to accept Eustis street. To Committee on Streets.

A petition was received to fill up a part of the canal at foot of Spear street, leaving only a water way. To Committee on Sewers and Drains.

WOODWARD SALARIES.

The joint Committee on Ordinance and Finance reported an order relative to the management of the Woodward fund, amending the ordinance so that the treasurer should receive $400, clerk $50 auditor $50.

Councilman Nickerson offered an amendment making the treasurers salary $200 and cutting out the salary of auditor and clerk. Laid on the table.

The Council then went into committee of the whole with Councilman Whiton as chairman, and C. A. Spear as clerk.

Rev. Frank W. Pratt, of the board of trustees, said the ministers have felt that the city should pay no salary to its officers from the fund. We think this because this is Quincy money and Quincy accepted it as a gift. It is part of the duty of the officials to manage this fund. It is not the custom of cities to charge for the care of bequests. He believed it was given the city for the benefit of the city. It saves the city $5000 each year. The citizens ought to recognize the benefit and the officials are only looking after the city's business.

In reply to questions Rev. Mr. Pratt said the will decided that the ministers should act as the governing board of the school. It was not the same as public schools but an entirely independent board. Mr. Parlin is a part of the educational work. The precedent of having the City Treasurer as treasurer is pretty well established.

Walter S. Pinkham called attention to the fact that the City Treasurer is paid $1,200 a yearby the city while the Woodward fund pays him $400. Ask him if he gives one-fourth of his time to the Woodward fund. The same is true of the Clerk and Auditor. Do not hold up the example of picking at this fund to pay current expenses of the city. Do not misappropriate the fund.

Rev. C. P. Mills spoke on the line of sentiment. You have it in your hands to set a standard of trusteeship that is high. It was the intent of the will to have as much as possible of that fund go to educational purposes, and it should not be diverted.

Mayor Bryant told of the condition of affairs when he took office and his request to the Council to pass an ordinance so that the City Treasurer, City Clerk and City Auditor should receive nothing from the Woodward fund. He believed the city should pay its officials for this work and not resort to the fund to help out.

The committee then arose.

Councilman Hardwick offered an amendment to the ordinance which cut out all of the salaries and provided that none should be paid.

Amendment accepted and ordered to a second reading.

VARIOUS REPORTS.

The Committee on Streets reported no legislation necessary on the matter of pole on North street.

The same committee reported leave to withdraw on the petitions to accept Broadway and for a light on Glendale road.

The same committee reported reference to the next council on the following petitions:

Accepting Cottage avenue.
Accepting Freeman street.
Accepting North Main street.
Accepting Bromfield street.
Accepting Hunt street.
Accepting Charles street.
Accepting Coe street.
Accepting Upland road.

The same committee reported order granting the Telephone company permission to attach wires to poles on Sea street. Order took second reading.

The same committee reported on order for a public hearing Dec. 19 on petition of Electric Light Co. for location of poles on Marlboro street.

The Committee on Licenses reported on a number of petitions for minor licenses.

The Committee on Ordinances reported on the order relative to sidewalk assessment.

SALARY ADJUSTMENT.

Councilman Nickerson offered an amendment to the salary ordinance so as to increase salary of City Treasurer from $1,200 to $1,600, and the salary of the City Clerk from $1,200 to $1,400, the totals being the same as the aggregates have been with Woodward salaries added. To joint committee on Finance and Ordinances.

Councilman Hughes offered an order for the Committee on Elections to meet election night.

GRADE CROSSING.

Councilman Loud offered an order granting William Cashman permission to cross Furnace avenue with a private railroad at grade. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Loud offered an order placing the following conditions on above grant. Motive power to be steam, speed not to exceed three miles an hour and a flagman to precede train. To Committee on Streets.

Adjourned at 10.58, to meet Monday, Dec. 12.

PRIZE SPEAKING

In the Interests of Cause of No-License.

Prizes Donated by H. H. Faxon.

Faxon Hall Crowded and a Great Success.

Faxon hall was filled to overflowing Monday evening at the prize speaking for No-License by ten grammar school boys, prizes being offered by Henry H. Faxon, Esq. Theophilus King presided and found it no easy task to keep some of the boys in the audience quiet. At one time after the speaking, before prizes were awarded, when it became a little too noisy, he said—"Boys, if you want to let off for one minute, go it." The privilege was promptly seized, and at the end of the minute it was even more difficult to curb the boys.

All the boys who entered the prize speaking contest made a splendid exhibition. As Chairman King said in awarding the prizes, the work was so perfectly done, so well memorized, so earnest and so faithful that he was proud of the work being done in the Quincy public schools. The greatest prize, he said, was a temperate life and clean living, which everyone can possess. You, boys, have done splendidly, and you will never regret your efforts this evening.

The speakers and their selections follow, the three prize winners being put first, the others being in no particular order:

"On which side?" spoken by Harry Edwin Glover, who was awarded first prize of $10 in gold.

"Let every Catholic vote No-License" by Rev. F. A. Cunningham, spoken by Joseph Garrity, who was awarded second prize of $5 in gold,

"Appeal for temperance" by H. W. Grady, spoken by Eliot Coolidge Johnson, who was awarded third prize of a Faxon knife, valued at $5.

A box of Lowney's best chocolates was awarded to each of the following:

"King Alcohol" by W. M. Prime, spoken by Robert Allen Lesher.

"Does it pay?" spoken by Stanley C. Sherman.

"The bootblack's story" spoken by Kenneth Bradley Blake.

"Arguments against the saloon" by John D. Long, spoken by Ernest Taylor.

"The Bar" spoken by Forrest E. Hayden.

"Other evils follow in its train" by Rev. Edwin N. Hardy, spoken by Ralph Hodges Marden.

"Keep the saloon out" by W. F. Hoehn, spoken by Simon Corliss Berry.

The judges were all non-residents viz: Rev. Alfred Noon, Secretary Massachusetts Total Abstinence Society; Miss Jessie Forsyth, Supt. International Juvenile Templars; and Frank. P. Dyer, G. W. P. of the Sons of Temperance. Their decisions gave good satisfaction,

All the selections spoken were good arguments in favor of No-License in Quincy, and against the saloons, and should make "No" votes on election day.

Interspersed were musical numbers which were received with favor. Miss Minnie Packard gave two piano selections, "Il Trovatore" and "The Gondolier," displaying great skill. Miss Florence R. Emery sang a very pleasing group of songs, including "The spring has come," "The ould plaid shawl" and "Four-leaf clover." Later, with violin obligato by Dr. Robert B. Porter, she sang "Sing me to sleep." Dr. Porter also gave "Berceuse" as a violin solo, to the delight of the audience. The accompanist of the evening was Miss Helen Sibley.

Near the close of the program Chairman King presented Henry H. Faxon to the audience, saying Quincy was fortunate in having a gentleman whose mind, body and pocketbook had for so many years been open to advance temperance. He was the happiest man tonight.

Mr. Faxon complimented the boys, and related some of his experiences in getting temperate men to work for him, especially in South Boston and Chelsea. He said he never r gretted the stand he took many years ago for temperance. He knew of the misery which came with liquor, and he knew that with temperance came the saving of money.

Thanks were voted to the ladies in charge of the prize speaking; to Miss Packard, Miss Emery, Miss Sibley, Dr. Porter, and the judges.

Seven of the contestants, including two of the prize winners, were instructed by Mrs. Isabelle Davis, the popular reader. The boys were Robert Lesher, Stanley Sherman, Ernest Taylor, Ralph Marden, Simon Berry, Eliot Johnson and Harry Glover, who, in appreciation of the good offices of Mrs. Davis, presented her in the afternoon a beautiful bouquet and accompanied it with this gem.

You have helped every boy for hours,
That all might speak for the right;
And we send you our thanks and some flowers,
If you'll accept them tonight,
And each boy would try if it were in his power,
To have all your life as bright as a flower.

Pair of Alleged Firebugs

Boston, Dec. 6.—Calman Elfman, proprietor of a Salem street drug store, and David Rosen, his clerk, were arrested after a fire in Elfman's store had been extinguished by the firemen. Both men are charged with causing the blaze. At the time the fire was discovered a man was seen leaving the building by a rear window.

Ancient Organization Meets

Dedham, Mass., Dec. 6.—The organization known as The Society in Dedham for the Apprehension of Horse Thieves found itself in excellent condition at its 94th annual meeting last night, with a well-filled treasury, a large membership and plenty of fast riders. No thieves were chased or apprehended during the year.

Republican Campaign Expenses

Boston, Dec. 6.—The Republican state committee filed with the secretary of state a complete list of all expenses incurred and contributions received during the recent campaign. The list shows an aggregate of 90 contributions, these offerings aggregating $37,715. The Republican national committee donated $29,500.

Farrell Charged With Murder

Rochester, N. H., Dec. 6.—After pleading not guilty to the charge of murder in connection with the death of Herman C. Dyer of Milton, Richard Farrell was remanded without bail to a further hearing on Dec. 10. When Dyer's body was found it was supposed that he had been struck by a train.

Investigating Thayer Tragedy

Franklin, N. H., Dec. 6.—An inquest has begun on the death of Mrs. Lizzie Thayer, whose bruised body was taken from a burning tenement here. Sixteen witnesses were examined, but there are others yet to be heard. Burt Wescott is held as a witness to await the result of the inquest.

Many Years an Engineer

Ridgefield, Conn., Dec. 6.—Smith Gilbert, an engineer on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, died at his home here. He was the first engineer on the Ridgefield branch and had been running trains there continuously since the branch was built in 1868.

Took Arsenic While Despondent

Providence, Dec. 6.—A German who gave the name of Denault, aged 20, who came to this city from Manchester, N. H., is dying at Olneyville, as a result of swallowing an ounce of arsenic. He drank the poison while despondent.

Snow Did No Damage

Boston, Dec. 6.—The advance of the southern storm was heralded in New England with the gradual shifting of the wind to the north and snow. The storm was not at all severe and transportation companies did not suffer.

Republicans Carry Portland

Portland, Me., Dec. 6.—James P. Baxter (Rep.) was elected mayor of this city over Nathaniel Clifford (Dem.) by 1027 majority. The Republicans elected their full ward ticket in seven of the nine wards.

PLURALITY 1064.

James Thompson, Republican, Receives 2582 Votes to 1518 for Fallon, Democrat.

Big Increase in the No-License Majority.

Gain for "No," Loss for "Yes."

The Vote Close on the Caucus Act, But it was Not Revoked and Will Continue in Force.

Tuesday's election was the most remarkable municipal contest ever held in Quincy. Remarkable in the total vote cast; remarkable in the size of the vote given to the successful candidate for Mayor, James Thompson; remarkable in the plurality he received; remarkable in increase of the No-License majority.

It was a landslide and Peter T. Fallon, the Democratic candidate for Mayor was buried almost out of sight, and those who vote "Yes" on the License question are annually becoming less and less, although there has been a big increase in registered voters.

The vote of the city for Mayor was:

THOMPSON, R.,	2582
FALLON, D.,	1518
BATES, S.,	189
Blanks,	67

Candidate Thompson carried five of the six wards, and eight of the eleven

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Congratulations to Hon. James Thompson!

Congratulations to the voters of Quincy upon their choice for Mayor!

A plurality rising 1000 is indeed new for a Mayoralty candidate in Quincy.

Mr. Thompson's vote was over 400 in excess of any vote ever given to any Mayor of the city, while Mr. Fallon's vote was the smallest given to the leader of the minority party for ten years, if we except the year 1901 when Mr. Bryant ran as an independent.

Mr. Thompson's total is also in excess of the handsome vote which Quincy gave President Roosevelt last month, and Quincy never gave any Presidential candidate a larger vote. It was also about 300 in excess of the phenomenal vote given recently to William L. Douglas for Governor.

It was a grand victory, not alone for Mr. Thompson and the Republicans, but for the welfare of Quincy, and marks a new era for Municipal government in our city. It was an uprising of the people who demanded "a divorcement of pernicious election methods," and an overthrow of the City Hall ring.

The grand vote given James Thompson should strengthen him to fill the executive chair fearlessly in accordance with his platform and for the benefit of the whole city. He will not find it necessary to cater to any clique or ring, but to recognize merit, and demand a business-like conduct of city affairs in all departments.

The vote on the "License question" is another source of gratification to all law abiding citizens. Quincy's record under local option has been a grand one, but seems to improve yearly, and the longer it is continued the easier it will be to make it permanent.

The vote against revoking the acceptance of the Luce Act is also a vote for the continuance of an act which has proved very satisfactory, and which is worthy of a longer trial.

13 CITY ELECTIONS

Republicans Generally Successful In Massachusetts

SETBACK FOR LUCE LAW

Five Cities Vote For Repeal of Joint Caucus Act--But One Change on Liquor Question, Fitchburg Going "Wet" Side

Boston, Dec. 7.—The Republicans were generally successful in the first of the Massachusetts municipal elections held in 13 of the 33 cities. Party lines, however, were not drawn in several of the cities, candidates running on independent and citizens' tickets or nomination papers.

Of the nine chief magistrates who were up for re-election, five were successful and four were defeated. In one city, Fitchburg, there was a change of sentiment on the liquor question, and next year the city will be "wet."

After a year's trial, the Luce joint caucus act was repealed in five of the cities—Brockton, Haverhill, New Bedford, Springfield and Taunton—while in Marlboro a second attempt to have it adopted failed. Quincy, however, voted to continue it.

As a rule the vote fell below that cast at the state election. The mayors elected in the 13 cities were as follows:

Brockton—E. H. Keith (Rep).*
Fitchburg—H. C. Sawyer (Cit).*
Gloucester—G. E. MacDonald (Nom. papers).
Haverhill—R. L. Wood (Rep).*
Lawrence—C. F. Lynch (Dem).*
Marlboro—Henry Parsons (Rep).
New Bedford—C. S. Ashley (Ashley party)*
Northampton—T. M. Connor (Dem).*
Pittsfield—A. H. Bagg (Rep).
Quincy—James Thompson (Rep).
Springfield—F. W. Dickinson (Rep).
Taunton—J. H. Eldridge (Ind. Rep).
Waltham—J. L. Hardy (Rep).
*—re-elected; —this year's mayor defeated.

The vote on the license question was as follows:

	1904. Yes.	1904. No.	1903. Yes.	1903. No.
Brockton	4023	4924	4013	4424

BAY STATE'S INTERESTS

Coming Governor Has a Consultation With His Advisers

Boston, Dec. 7.—A conference was held here between Governor-elect Douglas and Democratic party leaders of the state to consider various questions that confront the new administration. The conference had before it the platform of the last Democratic state convention and discussed in an informal manner the advisability of the governor's treating the issues there promulgated in his message to the legislature. Mr. Douglas' suggestion for the appointment of a special commission to consider a revision of the tariff was also taken up.

The matter of labor legislation received considerable attention, and the fact that two overtime bills have already been filed with the secretary of state was brought to the notice of the conference.

The present system of administration of the police departments of Boston and Fall River was discussed, but no definite conclusion was reached whether or not the governor should recommend the passage of a law providing for a single-headed commission and the establishment of an excise board for the granting of liquor licenses under local authority in those cities.

It was given out after the meeting that the policy of the new administration will be particularly friendly toward labor measures.

The matter of the Boston police commission was discussed specifically and it is understood that Douglas made known his disposition to be guided by the wishes of the citizens of Boston, as expressed through Mayor Collins, in the appointment of a member of the police board to succeed Commissioner Curtis, whose term will soon expire.

Testing Vaccination Law

Washington, Dec. 7.—Argument was heard in the supreme court of the United States in the case of Jacobson vs. the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The issue involved is the validity of the vaccination law of the state.

Trouble Did Not Materialize

Thomson, Ga., Dec. 7.—The jury in the case of John Butler and Guy Reid, negroes, charged with the murder of Rad G. Story, rendered a verdict of guilty, and the men were sentenced to be hanged. There was no trouble here.

Contends For Burton's Guilt

Washington, Dec. 7.—The supplemental brief of the government in the case of Senator Burton of Kansas has been filed in the supreme court of the United States. It contends strongly for the guilt of the defendant.

Theatre Exits Were Closed

Norfolk, Dec. 7.—A serious panic occurred at the Norfolk auditorium during a matinee at which "Cinderella" was being presented and a score of persons were badly injured by being trampled upon, but no one was killed. A slight blaze starting from an electric light wire caused some person to turn in a fire alarm and at the same time a man in the gallery shouted "fire." In a moment people tried to reach the exits. These were found closed, which added to the excitement. The blaze was quickly extinguished.

London Opinion of Message

London, Dec. 7.—"We may see in this message the words of Police Constable Roosevelt of the international police," says The Daily Chronicle, the sentence concentrating the aspect of the message of the President of the United States which most forcibly presents itself to that journal. On the whole the press of London regards the message as a statesmanlike and highly courageous document.

Collision High In Air

New York, Dec. 7.—The brakes of a work car loaded with iron on a trolley road between Jersey City and Hoboken failed to work on a steep grade on a trestle 160 feet above the street level in Hoboken and the heavy car crashed into a car loaded with passengers, injuring six persons, but none of them fatally.

Broker Chandler Goes Free

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Judge McEwen instructed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty against Frank R. Chandler, the bankrupt mortgage broker, who was indicted for the embezzlement of money from people who made investments through his mortgage bank.

Warner Wants to Be Senator

Kansas City, Dec. 7.—Major William Warner of this city announces his candidacy for the office of United States senator to succeed Senator Cockrell. Warner's friends here will begin active work at once to advance his candidacy.

No Marriage For Divorced Persons

New York, Dec. 7.—The clergy of Trinity church in this city announce that under no circumstances will divorced persons be married by any of the clergy of that Episcopal parish, nor in any of its churches.

Rich Mine Owner Murdered

Dallas, Dec. 7.—The body of Charles F. Goldstein, a wealthy mine owner of Dawson City, Alaska, formerly of Dallas, was found here in the Santa Fe freight yards. The head was badly crushed. It is surmised that Goldstein was killed by a blow from a blunt instrument, robbery being probably the motive.

Hotels and Bankruptcy

Cincinnati, Dec. 7.—The provisions of the national bankruptcy law do not apply to the hotel business, according to a decision filed here in the United States court of appeals. The case was brought to declare the United States Hotel company of Cleveland bankrupt.

Venezuelan Outbreak Coming

Washington, Dec. 7.—The frequent reports regarding the dissatisfaction in Venezuela are unofficially confirmed from several sources. The state department, although so far without official information, will not be surprised to hear of another outbreak.

Fire to Hide Murder

Schoharie, N. Y., Dec. 7.—The home of George Briggs was burned and a search of the ruins revealed the body of the owner, horribly mutilated. It is believed that Briggs was murdered by thieves, who burned the house to cover the deed.

THINK FORTRESS IS SAFE

Russians Say That Japanese Cannot Hold 203-Metre Hill

St. Petersburg, Dec. 7.—Although the war office and the admiralty are still without direct news from Port Arthur, confidence in the ability of the fortress to hold out continues to be expressed. The reports from Tokio of the shelling of the battleships and of heavy losses by the Russians in an ineffective attempt to recapture 203-Metre hill are considered to be misleading.

According to an officer of the general staff, the warships would be able to seek shelter from the fire from 203-Metre hill by anchoring behind the Tiger's Tail peninsula. Reports that the Russians are clearing the mine fields outside the harbor are regarded as the best indication that the squadron is preparing to move out to this anchorage, where it will be secure under the protection of the shore batteries.

An artillery officer who knows Port Arthur expresses the belief that the Japanese will be unable to hold the summit of 203-Metre hill on account of the fire of the Antse and Etse forts, which are less than two miles distant. This officer declares that it will be impossible for the Japanese to mount guns at the top of 203-Metre hill until the ammunition of the Antse and Etse forts is exhausted.

The Tokio estimate that the Russians lost 3000 men in the attempt to recapture 203-Metre hill is declared to be absurd. It is pointed out that such a loss would imply the virtual crippling of the resistance, yet the reports from Tokio admit that General Stoessel continues to make counter attacks.

Catarrh
Invites Consumption

It weakens the delicate lung tissues, deranges the digestive organs, and breaks down the general health.

It often causes headache and dizziness, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, and affects the voice.

Being a constitutional disease it requires a constitutional remedy.

NO CONFERENCE

Federal Officers and Carnegie Did Not Meet as Expected

MRS CHADWICK VERY SICK

Removes to Another Hotel and Is Followed by Secret Service Men--All Parties Concerned In the Case Making Strenuous Efforts Toward Settlement

New York, Dec. 7.—The expected did not happen last night and all predictions relative to the Chadwick case proved at fault when, at a late hour, it was announced that no conference between federal officers and Andrew Carnegie had been held at the latter's home.

This turn was surprising, for Carnegie had announced in the course of the day that he would be glad to receive a federal officer, and it was supposed that F. F. Oldham, representing the comptroller of the currency, would meet him last night and that the matter of the notes alleged to have been given Ira Reynolds of Cleveland, and said to bear the name of Andrew Carnegie, would be discussed.

As unexpected as the news that no conference was held was the departure of Mrs. Chadwick from the Holland house, where she has resided, for the New Amsterdam hotel. It was about 10 p. m. when Mrs. Chadwick, with her son and maid, left the Holland house and took a cab. In leaving the hotel Mrs. Chadwick walked slowly and her actions indicated that she has not fully recovered from her recent indisposition. As soon as Mrs. Chadwick's cab left the hotel secret service men took other vehicles and drove after her.

At the New Amsterdam hotel she was helped into the women's reception room, where she fainted. After some five minutes the woman was able to walk again and, clinging to her son, she went to the elevator and was shown to a suite of three rooms. She did not register, nor did her son nor the maid. The hotel managers declined to give any information as to how long the rooms were engaged for.

The son and maid carried Mrs. Chadwick's baggage. The son returned to the reception room after the baggage after he had taken his mother to her room and the secret service men held him in conversation for some minutes and then let him go. He went back to his mother. The detectives refused to say what they had asked.

Strenuous efforts on the part of all concerned are being made to settle the case. This was made manifest immediately after the arrival of Frank Lyons, receiver of the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin; Judge Oldham, representing the comptroller of the currency; Mr. Squire, who represents Ira Reynolds of the Wade Park Banking company, and Director Whitney of the defunct Citizens' bank. Throughout the day many conferences were held, but these came to an end when Judge Oldham went to Washington late in the day.

The representatives of the various interests appear hopeful of a settlement though no one will give any inkling of how this will be accomplished.

Mrs. Chadwick's son went to the public telephone in the hotel late last night and called up Dr. Albertus A. Moore. He asked the physician to hurry at once to his mother, who, he said, was very ill. Dr. Moore said later: "Mrs. Chadwick is suffering from nervous prostration, the result of her removal from the Holland house to this hotel and being followed by secret service men and reporters."

One of the hotel clerks said the son had told him his mother was in a critical condition from nervousness. The coach used by Mrs. Chadwick, her son and the maid, was driven to Gramercy park after leaving the party.

County Attorney Suspects Forgery

Cleveland, Dec. 7.—Prosecuting Attorney Stroup of Lorain county, in which Oberlin is situated, says that if Mrs. Chadwick is taken into custody in New York by the United States officers, he will swear out warrants charging her with uttering forged papers in Oberlin. Interest in Oberlin centers in what inducements were made to President Beckwith by Mrs. Chadwick that he should loan the woman such large sums of money. Large bonuses were often offered by Mrs. Chadwick to obtain the money she needed. President Beckwith is inaccessible and Mrs. Beckwith keeps guard at the door.

County Prosecutor Keller says that he will ask Andrew Carnegie to say whether the notes to which his name has been signed were made out in Cayahoga county or not. If they were and they are said to be forgeries, Prosecutor Keeler says he will begin action against Mrs. Chadwick on the charge of forgery.

Arbitration Plan Accepted

New York, Dec. 7.—Members of the Tile Layers' union, one of the unions affected by the building trades lockout, which has crippled the building industry of this city during the past six months, have returned to work under the arbitration plan. Representatives of the Building Trades Employers' association predict that the unions still out will soon accept the arbitration plan also.

NURSING MOTHERS

"A richer milk than milk" is good food for nursing mothers. Scott's Emulsion is the rich cream of cod liver oil, and contains ten times as much cream as milk does.

The nursing mother must eat with the purpose of producing good, nourishing milk for her baby. A little Scott's Emulsion is often a very wise addition to her daily diet. If through nervousness or weakness her milk is a failure, Scott's Emulsion will help make it a success.

The baby gets the benefit, too, when the mother takes Scott's Emulsion. The same remedy brings new strength and nourishment to both.

Accident Resulted Disastrously

Pawtucket, R. I., Dec. 7.—While lighting a lamp at her home last night Mrs. George Morrison accidentally set fire to her wrapper. She rushed out into the snow, but did not succeed in saving herself from serious burns, which will cause death. The house caught fire and another tenant, William H. Wilcox, found a 10-days-old baby nearly suffocated by smoke. A 2-year-old boy was also rescued.

Result of Davis Inquest

Franklin, N. H., Dec. 7.—After a two days' session Medical Referee Carr, who has been holding an inquest on the death of Mrs. Fannie A. Davis, whose body was taken from a burning tenement here, returned a verdict of death from natural causes. Bert Wescott, who has been held as a witness in the case, was released.

Providence Woman Held Up

Providence, Dec. 7.—Mrs. John L. Cranshaw was held up and robbed on Arlington avenue early last evening. The scene of the robbery was but a stone's throw from her house. The thief, after almost choking her, snatched a handbag from her and disappeared.

Shoe Factory Burned

Medway, Mass., Dec. 7.—The factory of the Madden & Curtis Shoe company was destroyed by fire, with a loss estimated at $35,000. The factory employed 50 hands, and was the largest one in the town.

Morton's Just Conclusion

Washington, Dec. 7.—Merit, and not political influence or official prestige, should alone determine assignments to duty in the navy, is the opinion of Secretary Morton, who has addressed a letter to Superintendent Brownson of the naval academy expressing his emphatic disapproval of efforts to influence the department in the assignment of midshipmen from the class soon to be graduated to certain ships.

Crooked Druggists Snared

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Out of 139 decoy prescriptions sent out by the state board of pharmacy to Chicago druggists to be filled, 23 contained no trace of the drug called for; 66 were 80 per cent impure; 10 were 20 percent impure, and only 31 were pure. As a result the board will prosecute 100 druggists for selling impure drugs.

GREAT BANK GAVE WAY

Four Slate Quarrymen Killed and Others Narrowly Escape

Poultney, Vt., Dec. 7.—Three laborers were killed at the Griffith & Nathaniel slate quarry at South Poultney by the sudden caving in of a high overhanging bank. A fourth laborer was caught by the falling earth, and died after having been dug out. Six men saved themselves by quickly springing to the side of the quarry and clambering up to the surface. The entombed men are 150 feet below the surface of the quarry and their bodies have not been excavated.

The 10 men went into the quarry at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. High over their heads rose the bank, the greater portion of it being of gravel and loam. They had been at work about half an hour when suddenly pieces of earth began to fall. Those nearest the opposite side of the pit sprang for the rocky side, and seven of them reached it just as the falling earth caught their less fortunate companions. In a moment's time a mass of loose earth many feet in depth had spread itself over the bottom of the pit, and the advancing wave caught and overwhelmed one of the fleeing men, who was fatally injured, while the others were buried to their waists.

Strike Situation Further Complicated

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 7.—The only development in the local strike situation is at the Bourne mills, in Tiverton, where 20 loomfixers struck. The Bourne mills were involved in a strike last spring against changes in the operation of looms, and again in the general strike which followed the posting of the reduction notices. The Bourne mills had been making steady progress in attempting to break the last strike, and the mills are somewhat crippled because of the loomfixers' strike and because 25 children were ordered out of the plant by the Rhode Island state inspection. The striking loomfixers are not union men.

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowed-up cuticle of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Herpicide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundancy.

Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market to-day.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Dr. Marshall is selling his household goods at private sale.

An adjourned inquest on the Fore River accident was held before Judge Avery this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Costello of Havana, Cuba, are receiving congratulations on the birth at Braintree, Dec. 5, of a son and heir.

A grand musical treat is in store this evening at Bethany church when the Cantata of Ruth will be presented under the auspices of Unity Circle of King's Daughters. The soloisits include Mrs. Harriet R. Morgan, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Miss Sara Bell Huff, Mr. Charles Delmont and Mr. E. E. Bullock. The conductor will be Arthur M. Raymond, with W. Porter Pratt as organist and Mrs. Hunt as pianist.

Miss Sara Belle Huff, who is to sing the part of Naomi in the cantata of Ruth tonight at Bethany church, is quite well known in Quincy both as a soloist and teacher. George Henschal, London, says of her, "Miss Huff's true contralto voice is one of the voices destined to become well known in the oratorio field within a few years," and the Transcript after her recital in Boston last year, said, "Only superlatives can really do justice to Miss Huff's marvellous voice, sweet, deep, strong, at times almost a bass, changing at will to lighter tones and tripping melody."

ALLIANCE FAIR.

Successful Sale Held in Vestry of Wollaston Unitarian Church.

The fair held under the auspices of the Wollaston Ladies' Alliance was successfully opened in the Unitarian vestry Tuesday afternoon and evening.

The different booths were prettily and appropriately trimmed with pine boughs, and decorations to represent newly fallen snow.

At the fancy table were Mrs. Bryant, Mrs. Sprague, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Brigham, Mrs. Waterhouse, Mrs. Rowe and Mrs. Curtis.

Linen table,—Mrs. E. S. Taylor, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Stevens.

Useful table,—Mrs. Weston and Mrs. Merrill.

Candy table,—Mrs. Bird, Miss Hall and Miss Foster.

Mystery table,—Mrs. Colyer, Mrs. Delano and Mrs. Crane.

The Dennison House girls with Mrs. Gurney as chairman, sold toys, games, dolls and books.

Miss Almira Simmons sold attractive calendars, gotten up by the Young People's Religious Union.

Mrs. George K. Boyce in picturesque costume told fortunes.

Supper was served from half past five to eight o'clock, consisting of creamed oysters, chicken salad, beans and brown bread, rolls and coffee. Ice cream and cake were on sale through the evening.

An orchestra under the direction of Mr. Ray F. Weston of Wollaston furnished the entertainment for the evening.

The committee in charge of the supper were: Mrs. Simmons, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Page, Mrs. Cummings, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Hatch and Mrs. Hunt.

Not Guilty of Larceny.

The continued cases of Patrick and Lillian White, for larceny from Mrs. White's mother, Mrs. Truesdale, came up in the district court this morning when the case was dismissed. This was the case where the girl after eloping with White, and being married by a justice of the peace at Brockton, returned to her home during her mother's absence and carried away certain articles, such as sofa pillows, etc. The daughter's defense was that the goods belonged to her. The matter was referred to the probation officer, who found that the goods belonged to the girl, having been given her by her sister. Upon hearing the report the court dismissed the case.

precincts. The ward pluralities were as follows:

	Thompson.	Fallon.

Ward Three,	197	—
Ward Four,	--	205
Ward Five,	498	—
Ward Six,	173	—
In the City,	1064	—

Wards One, Three, Five and Six certainly gave Mr. Thompson a very flattering vote.

The vote on the License question in the city was:

NO,	2938
Blanks,	324

This is a majority of 1844 and eclipses the phenomenal majority of 1,564 last year. Every ward and every precinct of the city gave a good majority against license. The total "No" vote was the largest on record, and the "Yes" vote is the smallest since 1894 when Quincy had a much smaller voting list.

The Citizens No-License League furnishes us with the following analysis of yesterday's vote on the License Question:

Ward	Precinct	Yes	No	No Majority	Silent	Straways	Compared with 1903. Yes	No	No Majority.

The vote on revoking the Luce Act was:

NO,	1653
YES,	1574
BLANKS,	1129

By a majority of 79 the city has therefore voted to continue the joint caucus act, which several cities decided to revoke.

The City Council of 1905 will be composed of 19 Republicans and 4 Democrats, a gain of one Democrat. Last year the three Democrats came from Ward Four. This year one Democrat was defeated in Ward Four, but one was elected in Ward Two, and another in Ward Six. There will be 11 new Councilmen next year.

The Republicans elected all their candidates at large for the City Council by flattering pluralities, but the vote of none of them this year equalled the vote for the successful candidate for Mayor. Councilman Bass was again high man.

For Ward Councilmen, Messrs Adams Stewart and Burgess had a cinch in Ward One.

In Ward Two the large amount of work for Mr. Hynes placed him first, the other two elected being Messrs. Stone and Sidelinger. The other Republican, Mr. Peterson, was defeated by 14 votes.

It was easy for the Republicans in Ward Three, Messrs. Piper, Spargo and Savage each having over 100 to spare.

In Ward Four Mr. Flaherty led, and Mr. Barry, one of the Republicans, was second. Councilman Hughes the third man, led Mr. Curtin 24 votes.

The Republican candidates in Ward Five really had no opposition. Messrs. Polk, Nichols and Chamberlin were elected in the order named.

In Ward Six there was a split. It was close between the one Democrat and the three Republicans. Mr. McLane, the Democrat was high man and his colleagues will be Messrs. Gearwar and Sawyer. The Republican defeated was Mr. Beal.

There will be no change in the School Committee. Dr. Hunting was handsomely reelected at-large, and F. H. Smith and John L. Miller from wards.

The revised vote, with the totals for all candidates, is given at the bottom of the first page.

Interviews.

A representative of the Daily Ledger found Mayor-elect Thompson at his office in City Hall this morning attending to his duties as Principal Assessor, as unconcerned as though there had not been a decisive election. In reply to a question as to the election Mr. Thompson said he felt very highly flattered by the almost staggering vote. He said, however, that he did not wholly ascribe it to himself in a personal sense. He believed that the people had certain objects in view in voting as they did, and that they recorded themselves in what, according to their best judgment, would best bring about the purpose they had in view.

He wished to thank the citizens of Quincy for their hearty and almost unanimous support of his candidacy, and he wished to promise them his best efforts in carrying into effect an economy of public affairs that would meet with their approval.

The Total Vote.

The total vote of the city was 4,355 against 4,465 at the recent Presidential election, only 110 less, showing remarkable interest in a municipal election. Some precincts even cast a larger vote than at the Presidential election, viz: Precinct 2 of Ward One, Precinct 1 of Ward Two and both precincts of Ward Four.

The vote of Tuesday is compared below with the November vote, and another column gives the number of voters in each precinct:

	Voters 1904.	Dec. Vote.	Nov. Vote
Ward One, Pre. 1,	468	398	401
Ward One, Prec. 2,	532	422	416
Ward Two, Pre. 1,	335	278	235
Ward Two, Pre. 2,	442	365	371
Ward Three, Pre. 1,	546	468	471
Ward Three, Prec. 2,	441	379	389
Ward Four, Pre. 1,	452	408	397
Ward Four, Pre. 2,	490	441	419
Ward Five,	902	666	781
Ward Six, Pre. 1,	360	279	298
Ward Six, Pre. 2,	310	251	267
	5,278	4,355	4,465

The Returns.

It is seldom, if ever, that the returns for an election have been received more promptly than they were Tuesday.

It was but a few minutes past 4 o'clock when the wardens in both precincts in Ward One announced the head of the ticket. They showed that Thompson had carried the ward by over 300 votes. This was immediately taken to indicate the general result, and that the final returns would show a landslide, or as one voter expressed it a landscape.

Candidate Thompson was in the Assessors office at this time, and when the result of Ward One was communicated to him he expressed himself as surprised as well as very much gratified at the plurality.

Following close upon this ward came telephone messages giving the result of the head of the ticket in other precincts throughout the city. All of these pointed to a sweeping victory.

When result of Ward Five was telephoned showing that the ward had given Mayor Thompson a plurality of 500 everybody was satisfied, and the small crowd that had gathered to receive returns left the hall.

At 5 o'clock practically all precincts had been heard from except precinct one of Ward Three. Messengers were sent there, but nothing could be learned. The official returns had all been received at 7.15 with the exception of this precinct. What is the matter, were the words of inquiry heard everywhere, but no answer was forth coming. The officers at this precinct certainly deserve to be awarded the medal for being the slowest in the city. Precinct one of Ward Four had nearly as many votes yet their official returns were received at 5 o'clock. Four hours and a half later Precinct one, Ward Three, reported.

Things were very quiet about City Hall after 6 o'clock, and the absence of the usual noisy and somewhat liquor befoddled crowd was a welcome change. Mr. Fallon telephoned City Hall once during the evening, and asked how bad it was. When informed that 1000 was about the figure, he hung up his receiver and nothing more was heard from him.

Ex-Mayor Sears and a few other gentlemen called at the City Clerk's office later in the evening, and they were highly entertained by Candidate Bowditch on the principles of Democracy and an arraigument of the Republican party in general. It was the same speech that he delivered at a Ward Three rally a few nights before. He said he did not seek the nomination and his campaign had been run on his sterling worth and character.

The first official returns were received as the fire alarm struck the 5 o'clock test signal. These came from Ward Four, Precinct one. Precinct two of Ward One followed ten minutes later. Other precincts arrived every few minutes until 6.30, when all had been received with the exception of Precinct one of Ward Two and Precinct one of Ward Three.

The missing precinct of Ward Two arrived at 7.15, but it was not until 9.35 that the officer came in with the Ward Three precinct and dropped them like a hot cake on the table in the City Clerks office.

The following table will show how the official returns were received:

Ward Four, precinct one,	5.00
Ward One, precinct two,	5.10
Ward Six, precinct two,	5.20
Ward Two, precinct two,	5.22
Ward Three, precinct two,	5.30
Ward One, precinct one,	5.48
Ward Six, precinct one,	5.55
Ward Five,	6.25
Ward Four, precinct two,	6.30
Ward Two, precinct one,	7.15
Ward Three, precinct one,	9.35

Daily Ledger Extras.

There was a brisk demand election night for Election Extras and the Daily Ledger was complimented on its prompt service. What was done will be more fully realized when the time of arrival of returns at City Hall is noted.

At 5.35 Extra No. 1 was printed and announced that Thompson had won; that most of the wards of the city were for him. The Mayoralty votes in ten of the eleven precincts were given, and the complete vote of one precinct for all candiates.

The returns came in so fast between 5.30 and 6.30 that Extra No 2 at the latter hour contained the complete vote of eight precincts out of eleven for all candidates.

Extra No. 3 followed at 7.55, and had the complete vote of the city with the exception of Precinct 1 of Ward Three.

The figures for this precinct reached he Daily Ledger office before 9 o'clock, but at that time there was no further demand for papers, and there was no fourth edition.

From 5.30 until 9 P. M. the Daily Ledger presses were running almost constantly at full speed and over 2,500 papers were printed and sold.

It cannot be expected that all figures will be absolutely correct in extra editions which are printed at such strenuous times. Only one mistake of moment has been noted, viz. on the ballots used the name of Candidate Fihely preceded the name of Candidate Hynes for Ward Councilman. In the Ledger list the names were transposed so that one man got the vote of the other. Mr. Hynes and not Mr. Fihely was elected, and vote was a very flattering one.

The revised vote for all candidates is printed today with the totals added.

A REQUEST.

The Citizens No-License League has been told a number of times during the campaign that a great deal of liquor was being illegally sold in our city. No specific instance, however, has been mentioned.

It is of vital importance to us all that such illegal selling, if any, should be stopped, and the League is desirous of vigorously co-operating with the authorities to that end.

Therefore all citizens are asked if they know or suspect any such illegal liquor selling to at once write the League. All communications will be kept absolutely confidential. Simply address your letter—Citizens No-License League, Quincy, Mass.

At Headquarters.

It was a happy crowd of citizens that gathered at Republican headquarters early election night to get the returns. As fast as received they were posted on a large blackboard. It was soon seen that Mr. Thompson had won and most everybody was happy.

As evening drew on Councilmen-elect from the different wards began to arrive and there was a general handshaking all around, and the air was full of words of congratulations.

A little later Mr. Thompson appeared. He was received with a burst of applause which was the signal for another general shaking of hands.

A box of cigars was passed and in a few minutes the air was full of smoke. Mr. Thompson was showered with congratulations, and spoke briefly thanking the gentlemen for their hearty support.

Scattering Votes.

The proper question to ask today is, were you one of the 1064? Most everybody was one of the 2582.

Before the smoke of Tuesday's battle had begun to clear away the slate makers were getting busy, and by the time the final returns were in they had it all fixed. Mayor Thompson, however, will make his own slate.

All was dark at the Democratic headquarters, and some wag had added the word "nit" to the card on the door which bore the name of Mr. Fallon.

The Fore River men have at last succeeded in electing a candidate to the City Council.

Arthur C. Beale who was defeated by a few votes for Councilman from Ward Six will probably not ask for a recount

The Democrats who voted at the recent Republican caucus will have to vote the same ticket at next year's caucuses, unless they are wise enough to get their party preference changed before next June.

It will go down in history as the quietest Municipal election ever held, and as one of the cleanest.

Again has it been demonstrated that the free use of rum and beer will not elect a man Mayor of Quincy.

The L. A. S. will hold their whist party in G. A. R. hall Wednesday evening, December 14, instead of December 7.

ACTIVE CAMPAIGN

To be Continued by the No-License League.

Want the Assistance of All.

Propose to Prosecute All Liquor Sellers.

The request of the Citizens' No-License League for information regarding liquor selling published in the Daily Ledger of Wednesday did not escape notice.

Much has been said during the past few days about the large amount of liquor used during the municipal campaign, and the increasing number of drunks seen upon the streets. These has served to stimulate a little new life into the Citizen No-License League, which has determined to make warfare upon violators of the liquor law.

The league, with the aid of the police and all-law abiding citizens, are determined to bring before the courts and punish all offenders.

There is no question but there are places in Quincy where liquor is sold. There is also no question but what there are law-abiding citizens who know of these places, but for fear of being brought into the matter they have kept the knowledge to themselves.

It is however to these people that the No-License League look to for aid. They ask publicly that all citizens who know or suspect that any persons are engaged in the liquor traffic to report the matter to them. The League promises to treat such information as confidential, and with the aid of the police to thoroughly investigate all reports thus received.

The carrying out of this scheme will have good results. It will greatly aid in the enforcement of the liquor laws, which have almost been a farce of late, and at the same time secure law and order.

A COUNTRY STORE.

Feature Well Carried Out by Men at Wollaston Fair.

The men had charge of the fair at the Wollaston Unitarian church, Wednesday evening, and the vestry was arranged like a county store. Shortly after six o'clock a supper was served by waiters dressed as farmers, and during the evening clerks in the same costume sold canned goods, breakfast foods, and other things, of all sorts and kinds.

For entertainment a short play was given, the scene laid in a county post office. Here were assembled several farmers who sang, told stories and read aloud people's postal cards which contained an abundance of hits on different ones present. Mrs. Mary Hasting Slade, as a country maid, rendered several solos beautifully.

The evening was in charge of Frank P. Waterhouse who was assisted by Messrs. Fay, Brigham and Walker. The supper was served by Dr. Jordon, W. O. Parker, F. A. Page and George Weston. Fred Robbins, as head waiter, was assisted by Messrs. Ernest Arnold, Jack Simmons, Bert Armstrong, Raymond Parlin, Raymond Jordon and Louis Weston.

In the entertainment were Misses Grace Bishop, Mabel Longhead, Leona Robbins, Susie Page, Bula Loud, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Slade, Herbert Gurney, Mr. Ravinia, Mr. Brokaw, Mr. Allen and Charles Baker.

Divorce Wanted.

Mrs. Eben B. Glover, of Dorchester, has commenced proceedings for divorce from her husband, who was a former resident of Quincy, and has figured in another divorce case.

Mrs. Glover No 2 is reported to be wealthy and to be well known socially, especially in Washington where she lived before the death of her first husband, W. H. Butler, the banker.

One of the Boston dailies published an illustrated story of the case on Tuesday.

TODAY'S COURT.

Thomas W. Wallace was arraigned for non-support of his wife and child at Quincy. Case continued until January 18.

The high tides prevent people from taking the short cut across the meadow from South to Washington street.

SUCCESSFUL FAIR.

Ladies of First Presbyterian Society Will Net Large Sum.

The ladies of the First Presbyterian church are holding a very successful fair in the lecture room of their church, corner of Water and Quincy streets. During the past two nights the attendance has taxed the capacity of their large room to the utmost. The booths consisting of a grocery counter, kitchen, fancy-work, home-made, child's furnishing, and children's, were well supplied with all manner of useful and pretty articles which were readily disposed of at good prices. The ice cream table has done a rushing business both nights. The candy booth is in the centre of the room and is very beautifully decorated. It is laden, too, with many toothsome dainties.

During the activities of Wednesday evening Mr. Henry H. Faxon came into the hall and endeared himself to the children by passing out checks to each and all the little ones. This kept the tables busy for a time redeeming them. He also distributed checks of a larger denomination to the young ladies. Before leaving, Mr. Faxon made a characteristic speech, in which he gave much good advice to the men young and old with reference to their duties as citizens and coming voters.

The grocery table has led all others in the amount of its sales; there being in the neighborhood of $200 worth sold at this table alone. The fair will net the ladies very nearly $700.

Seaman—Baker.

An interesting wedding took place Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Anna M. Seaman, 105 Elmwood avenue, Wollaston, her daughter Winnifred Elizabeth, being united in marriage to Mr. Clifton Howard Baker. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank Wright Pratt of the Wollaston Unitarian church. The couple were unattended. The bride was gowned in white Swiss and carried a bouquet of Brides roses. Only the immediate families of the contracting parties were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker, after a brief trip, will reside at 105 Elmwood avenue and will be at home to their friends after March the first.

CANTATA OF RUTH.

Finely Presented at the Bethany Church.

Admirable Work by Local Chorus.

Prominent Singers Take the Solo Parts.

That Quincy contains good amateur musical talent, capable of interpreting intelligently cantatas of the best grade of music, was demonstrated Wednesday evening in Bethany church by a large chorus of Quincy young women and men.

The chorus was conducted by Mr. Arthur M. Raymond, who showed his ability in a masterly manner. The first number, Longfellow's "Village Blacksmith," for mixed chorus with piano, organ and anvil accompaniment, music by Charles F. Noyes, was very well sung and every part could be clearly heard and followed.

Mr. Edward E. Bullock, the popular tenor, sang "The Wondering Knight," by Eldredge, which received an encore, and he gave "Come to me, sweetheart." He sang in his usual good style and was in good voice.

Mr. Charles Delmont's solo, "The Bedouin love song," also received an encore, to which he resonded by singing "Mavourneen." Mr. Delmont has a fine big resonant bass voice. He is director of music at the Columbus Avenue Unversalist church, Boston, and among the foremost bass soloist of city.

Gaul's Cantata "Ruth," while not as interesting in all its parts as some of Gaul's other compositions, was made as interesting as hard work, conscientious singing and good tone production could make it. All the choruses were finely sung and the solo work was excellent. Mrs. Morgan in the part of Ruth did beautiful work, Mrs. Hunting in the short part of Orpah, sang with feeling and in good voice. Miss Huff sang superbly in the part of Naomi, though evidently suffering from a cold. Mr. Delmont in the part of Boaz sang the air "Go not from hence," especially well.

Although in the moderate passages all the parts could be heard and although all the parts did their work admirably, the chorus would have been better balanced had it been able to produce just twice the volume of tenor and bass. This seems to be a usual weakness in our Quincy choruses.

Special mention should be made of the splendid work done by both the accompanists, Mr. W. Porter Pratt at the organ and Mrs. Jennie Hocking Hunt at the piano, which, by the way, was a fine toned instrument. The major part of the accompaning fell to Mrs. Hunt and she accomplished it in a perfect manner, technically, and with a fine sense of sympathy.

On the whole, the Unity Circle of King's Daughters is to be congratulated upon the success of their ability to secure the aid of such a musical organization, and it is to be hoped that this chorus of which we may justly be proud, may become a permanent institution in our midst.

Those to take part in the chorus were:

Sopranos,—Mrs. N. S. Hunting Mrs. E. C. Page, Miss Grace Isaac, Miss Lora M. Hunt, Mrs. F. J. Moore, Mrs. H. Hill, Miss Ella Ripley, Miss Olive Grant Miss Gertrude Burkett, Miss Ada Cox, Mrs. F. E. Drake, Mrs. E. Bent, Miss Grace Doble, Mrs. G. P. Eaton, Miss Louise Mardigo, Miss Bessie C. Ross, Mrs. John McKnight, Mrs. S. Wood Mrs. Arthur W. Ryder, Mrs. George Taylor Mrs. Lutie Lane, Miss Gertrude Wrisley.

Altos,—Miss Mary Gardner, Mrs. Ernest Fitts, Mrs. Wilson Marsh, Mrs. E. E. Rice, Miss Rachael McClellan, Miss Lillian Taber, Mrs. Francis Abele, Miss Mary Fletcher, Mrs. G. Atkinson, Mrs. Austin Sutherland, Mrs. F. J. Leonard, Mrs. Frank Merrill, Mrs. Alice Sampson and Miss Mattie Holton.

Tenors,—Dr. Ernest Bent, E. E. Bullock, Wendell Luce, William Wigmore, Frank Pollock, Eugene Murphy, Fred L. Badger and William T. Isaac.

Basses,—Dr. C. T. Sherman, T. B. Pollard, W. M. Adrian, Albert L. Hayden, George Bent, Frank Manuel, Lewis S. Sidelinger and E. E. Bishop.

All the ladies of the chorus were gowned in white and the effect was charming. They occupied places on a large new platform erected in front of the regular platform on which the tenors and basses were located. The piano was also on the platform.

Members of the King's Daughters acted as ushers and they were also gowned in white, viz: Mrs. Charles F. Harper, Mrs. E. W. Sheppard, Mrs. Percival Sears, Mrs. George Badger, Mrs. Charles Sampson and Miss Ruth Drake.

Mrs. Abbot L. Melcher was chairman of the special committee of Unity Circle which arranged for the concert and is entitled to much credit. She was assisted at the door by Miss Alice Hatch, Mr. W. G. Shaw and Mrs. A. G. Coffin.

Hight—Hall.

At Atlantic on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Aroline J. Hall, 54 Walker street, was solemnized a pretty wedding, the happy pair being Miss Susie May Hall and Mr. George W. Hight, Jr., all of Atlantic.

Simplicity marked all the arrangements, only the immediate families and a few friends being present at the ceremony, which was performed at four o'clock by Rev. J. G. Miller of the Memorial church. The bride wore her traveling suit and carried a large bouquet of bride roses. She was attended by two little flower girls, Miss Florence Willey of Atlantic and Miss Louise O'Brien of Abington. They wore white muslin dresses and their bouquets were daybreak pinks.

Mr. Thomas Ramseyer of Jamaica Plain was best man. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Charles A. Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Hight will receive their friends after February first at 54 Walker street, Atlantic.

Revival Meetings.

The revival meetings in progress at the United Fresbyterian Church, under the direction of the pastor, assisted by Rev. John A. Shaw and wife of New York city, are full of interest and power. A deep impression was made Tuesday, many being moved to tears.

Rev. Mr. Shaw preached an eloquent sermon from Acts 8:14. The points emphasied were the sealing, annointing and filling of the Holy Ghost. Several expressed themselves as desirous of a greater infillling of the spirit. The music is a feature of the meetings, both Mr. and Mrs. Shaw being fine singers. The public is invited to these meetings.

Immaculate Conception.

The feast of the Immaculate Conception, and the fiftieth anniversary of the promulgation of the doctrine of the Immaculate Conception, is being observed at the Catholic churches in Quincy today. At St. John's church there were masses at 5, 7 and 9 o'clock this morning. This evening at 7.30 there will be solemn high vespers and a reception of the different sodalities of the church.

—The opinion entertained by some people that all the progressive farmers in America are to be found in the great, wide West, is easily shown to be erroneous. The fact that the New England Telephone Company within ten months mades 6000 contracts for farm telephones, is in itself an indication of the enterprise of Eastern agriculturists.

—In spite of all the denials, it seems to be true that Governor-elect Douglas has offered General Miles a place on his staff as adjutant-general and that he has accepted.

Considerable local news in type for the Daily Ledger yesterday was crowded out by election news and appears in this issue.

I wish to extend my congratulations to the Mayor-elect upon his magnificent victory. The voters of Quincy have decided with no uncertain sound that he should be honored with the cares of the city's affairs in 1905.

But I will be found as usual at my place of business, OPPOSITE THE QUINCY DEPOT, attending strictly to my PLUMBING AND HEATING BUSINESS.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

The people of Panama evidently do not feel as angry towards Uncle Sam as might be, even if he does own a zone which cuts their young republic into halves. Any irritation they may have experienced comes from not understanding and comprehending the Yankee methods of doing things. But daylight is breaking. Upon receipt of the news of President Roosevelt's election, Gov. Melendez of Colon ordered 21 guns fired.

The Wollaston Park Scientific club, numbering among its members about twelve boys, is an excellent example for some of the young men of the neighboring wards. The club meets once a week, has its regular officers and dues, and delves into bird lore, questions of the day and educational literary works. Papers are read, and the boys take a modest sum from the treasury every now and then for a trip or a theatre party. The club has been organized for about two years.

A story comes from New York city that a man named Van Ness, who inherited a fortune of $8,000,000, and was a member of a number of swell clubs, including the Union and the Union League, was recently sent to an institution on Blackwell's Island for the rest of the winter, because he had no overcoat and was found begging in the street. He claimed to have lost his fortune speculating in Wall street. It is difficult for an ordinary every day man to understand why a man with eight millions of dollars should wish to speculate at all. The human being who is not content with that sum of money deserves to work in the sugar beet fields for one dollar a day.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Nowhere does character come out more unmistakably than in the daily task, it matters not how trivial it may seem, and from no other source does there come so genuine satisfaction as from the consciousness of work well and thoroughly done. It matters not whether it is the painting of a picture, the preperation of a law case, the keeping of a set of books, the making of a pair of shoes or the cooking of a dinner. Whoever does it it in the best way with love for his work and honest devotion to it, will get the best results and find his reward in it.—Cincinnati Inquirer.

News Creates Deep Depression at St Petersburg, Where It Is Realized That Hope of Port Arthur Sortie Is Destroyed

St. Petersburg, Dec. 8.—Foreign telegrams received here stating that the Japanese have succeeded in mounting heavy guns on 203-Metre hill are regarded as seriously significant and have created a deep depression at the war office.

If the reports of the sinking of the Russian warships in the harbor of Port Arthur are confirmed, it destroys the last hope of sortie and when the end comes nothing remains but to sink those remaining in deep water to prevent them falling into the hands of the enemy.

The importance of 203-Metre hill to the garrison is evidenced by General Stoessel's desperate efforts to recapture it.

Fleet Bombarded Daily

London, Dec. 8.—The commander of the Japanese naval guns in front of Port Arthur, telegraphing on Dec. 6, says:

"An observation taken from 203-Metre hill shows that the turret ship Poltava is sunk, and that the battleship Retvizan is listing heavily to port. Observations taken Dec. 6 covered the results of the bombardment of Dec. 5. Are now taking observations from a hill near Shuishiying.

"Since Dec. 2 we have daily bombarded the enemy's fleet lying south of Paiyu mountain. From that point only the masts and funnel tops of the battleships Pobieda, Retvizan or the cruiser Pallada could be seen, but it is impossible to count the number of our shells taking effect. On other ships explosions resulting from our shells could be seen, but owing to their positions behind hills it was difficult exactly to identify them."

The Poltava was an armored turret ship of 10,960 tons displacement, launched in St. Petersburg in 1894. Her cost of construction was nearly $6,000,000.

A report from Tientsin states that the Japanese shell fire at Port Arthur also sank the Russian battleship Peresviet, but no further news concerning the fortress has reached London.

The Daily Telegraph's correspondent in front of Port Artnur, cabling under date of Dec. 7, says that the Russians ceased their attempts to recapture 203-Metre hill on Dec. 6. In an uncompleted account of the fighting that preceded the capture of the hill the same correspondent applauds the magnificent defense the Russians made and the clever handling of the defensive forces against the repeated Japanese feints and enveloping movements en masse.

Germany Not to Blame

London, Dec. 8.—The German embassy in London authorizes the statement that it had nothing whatever to do with the sales of coal at Cardiff. It admits that the German consul, who is a merchant at Cardiff, may possibly have sold coal, but what he may have done in his private business capacity was no concern of the German government.

Guns Can Sink Supply Ships

Berlin, Dec. 9.—According to a dispatch from Tokio to The Lokal Anzeiger, the placing of heavy cannon on 203-Metre hill will enable the Japanese to fire on and sink junks and other craft bringing supplies for Port Arthur from Chefoo.

Canfield Admits His Guilt

New York, Dec. 8.—Richard A. Canfield pleaded guilty before Judge Cowing to an indictment charging him with keeping a gambling house and was discharged upon the payment of $1000 fine. His manager, David Bucklin, entered a similar plea and was fined the same amount. The recommendation for this action was made by District Attorney Jerome, who has spent many thousands of dollars in the fight against Canfield, which is thus brought to a close.

Austria After Turkey

Vienna, Dec. 8.—It is stated that the government is about to send a squadron to Turkish waters to support the demand the Austrian ambassador presented to the porte for the dismissal and punishment within three days of the officials responsible for the forcible detention of Austrian mails at Scutari recently.

Canal Zone Not United States

Washington, Dec. 8.—That aliens arriving in this country from the American zone on the Isthmus of Panama are subjected to the restrictions of the immigration laws, precisely as if they should come from any foreign port, is the decision of the immigration authorities.

Want to Be Americans

Havana, Dec. 8.—The Americans on the Isle of Pines, who now comprise the bulk of the population and own two-thirds of the land, profess renewed confidence that the United States senate will not ratify the treaty ceding

PRIMER WAS DEFECTIVE

Unlooked-For Discharge of Ten-Inch Gun at Fort Wetherell

Newport, R. I., Dec. 8.—The premature discharge of a big 10-inch gun at Fort Wetherell, one of the defensive works of Narragansett bay, demolished the gun carriage and platform and hurled to the ground the entire gun detachment, including Lieutenant Colonel Willard of the engineers and Lieutenant Rawlston of the coast artillery. These two officers had their eyes and ears affected and Rawlston sustained severe cuts on the face, but none of the soldiers were injured except for a few bruises caused by the violence of their falls.

It is thought that a defective primer was the cause of the unlooked-for discharge. The gun had been loaded with a 570-pound shell under the direction of the two officers. The breech had been closed, but the recoiling gear had not been placed in position. Without the slightest warning, the gun was discharged, and the recoil lifted the piece from its carriage and threw it back on its trunions, wrecking them as well as the platform. The shell passed through the top of the parapet, wrecking it, and then continued on out to sea

Douglas' Chief of Staff

Boston, Dec. 8.—Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, who has accepted the position as chief of staff of Governor Douglas, is to have a conference with Douglas today. The war department will comply with the request of Douglas that Miles be detailed for service in Massachusetts and the general will be ordered to report to the governor as soon as the latter has been inaugurated.

Mangled by Circular Saw

Providence, Dec. 8.—Joseph Paine, 25 years old, while operating a circular saw at Georgiaville, reached forward to pick up a piece of wood when the saw caught Paine back of the right ear, cutting down through his throat and into his chest, through the breast bone. He lived about two hours after the accident. Paine leaves a wife and two children.

Bold Robber Got Away

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 8.—A masked man confronted Walter Chamberlain in his drug store last night and at the point of a revolver demanded money. Chamberlain yelled for the police and dashed back into a rear room and thence into the street. By the time the police arrived the man had departed, taking only a few cigars.

Had Money Enough to Live Better

Providence, Dec. 8.—Thomas C. Durfee, more than 80 years old, a real estate agent, was found dead in a squalid attic room at 5 Tower street. Among the effects found in the room were two bank books showing a combined balance of more than $11,000 in two local banks and $400 in cash.

Made Despondent by Sickness

Newburyport, Mass., Dec. 8.—Edward R. Minard, aged 49, committed suicide last night at his home here by shooting. A note was left explaining that he was despondent on account of continued illness. Minard was a foreman in a shoe factory here. He leaves a widow and son.

Police May Have Holdup Man

Providence, Dec. 8.—Through the arrest of two men who are alleged to have attempted to rob a store on the east side of this city the police believe they have the man who assaulted and robbed Mrs. Fannie H. Cranshaw on the street near her home Tuesday night.

Firemen's Work Appreciated

Boston, Dec. 8.—The Boston and Maine Railroad company has forwarded a check for $1000 to the firemen's relief fund in recognition of the "splendid and heroic work of the fire department members" at the fire on the Hoosac Tunnel docks recently.

Violated Postal Laws

Portland, Me., Dec. 8.—Philip Wagner of Pittsfield, Me., pleaded nolo contendere to a charge of violating the postal laws and was sentenced to one year in the state prison and fined $1000 in the United States district court.

Handwriting Experts to Testify

Boston, Dec. 8.—Six handwriting experts have been allowed the defense in the case of Charles L. Tucker, awaiting trial for the alleged murder of Mabel Page of Weston, last March.

Woman Murdered and Robbed

Bradford, Pa., Dec. 8.—Mrs. Anna Barrackman was found dead here last evening in a small cottage in which she had lived. Her nude body, badly decomposed, was found in a pool of blood. Eleven wounds, inflicted presumably with an icepick, had crushed the skull, six of the wounds penetrating the brain. There is no clue to the identity of the murderer. A large number of valuable jewels have disappeared. She was a widow and lived alone.

Suit Against Union Officers

Trinidad, Col., Dec. 8.—Suit has been filed in the district court by the Victor Fuel company against the United Mine Workers of America, John Mitchell and 11 other officers of the organization for $491,000 damages, alleged to have been sustained by the company during the strike of coal miners.

Liberals Remain In Control

Halifax, Dec. 8.—In the Prince Edward Island elections the Liberal government was returned. Standing of parties so far indicate the election of 17 Liberals and 13 Conservatives.

Nineteen Seamen Drowned

Tripoli, Dec. 8.—A boat from the Turkish corvette Mansure, manned by 40 seamen, has sunk in the roadstead. [illegible] of the crew were drowned

CITY BREVITIES.

New moon.

The sun now rises after seven.

Winter begins Dec. 22—Old Farmer's Almanac.

Probate court for Norfolk county will be held in Quincy next Wednesday.

The winter pool and billiard tournaments of the Granite City club will commence this week.

The public schools will close Wednesday, Dec. 21, for the Christmas holidays, not to reopen until January.

Snow which fell Monday evening still remains on the ground and on the housetops, very little having melted.

The Hospital Trustees desire to acknowledge the receipt of a contribution of ten dollars from Post 88, G. A. R.

The parties that assembled Tuesday night in various places, to celebrate a Democratic victory, dispersed without celebrating.

Inauguration day of the new city government will come early in January this year—Monday, the 2d—only three weeks from Monday.

The main sewer that is being built on Copeland street will only be complete as far as Furnace avenue. Work will then be suspended until next spring.

The contractor for the West Quincy section of the boulevard has commenced filling for the sub-surface from Crescent street across private land toward Cross street.

The old elm tree which has stood for so many years near the corner of Johnson Bros. market on the old Dr. French estate has been cut down to make room for improvements.

The usual election night false fire alarm from West Quincy did not sound Tuesday night. Everybody was so astounded by the Republican majority that they forgot to pull the alarm.

The rooms in the Adams building to be occupied by the Granite Manufacturers' Association are much more convenient and better lighted than their present rooms, besides being larger.

Joseph Costello, better known as "Joe," of Cuba, who with his wife is the guests of her parents at Braintree, is having a busy time answering questions and receiving congratulations. It seems that on Monday evening a little boy, ten pounds in weight, demanded admission to the Costello household and was cordially welcomed. Of course Joe is wearing the smile that won't come off. It is the first boy added to the circle, and naturally there never was anybody like him. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Costello, and to the Drinkwaters.

Pine Tree Association.

At a meeting of the Pine Tree State Association held in G. A. R. hall Tuesday evening, officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

President,—Mrs. Sadie G. Mitchell.
Vice president, — Mrs. Mabel G. Yeaton.
Secretary and treasurer,—Samuel D. Thompson.
Executive committee, — George A. Wardwell, Mrs. N. A. Savage and Mrs. D. B. Snow.

A definite program for the winter will at once be arranged by the officers, and an attempt will be made to increase the number belonging to the association. Any native of Maine is eligible for membership, and all who may be interested are requested to confer with the secretary.

A CLIMAX IN CHADWICK CASE

Woman Placed Under Arrest In Hotel at New York

ACTION BROUGHT IN OHIO

Warrant Charges Violation of Federal Laws Relating to Conspiracy by Aiding and Abetting Embezzlement of Oberlin Bank Funds--Officials Suspect Mrs Chadwick Is the Once Convicted Forger, Mme Devere

New York, Dec. 8.—The climax in the affairs of Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick came last night when she was placed under arrest in her apartments at the Hotel Breslin, charged with aiding and abetting a bank officer in embezzling $12,500. The arrest was made after a lengthy conference between United States Commissioner Shields, Assistant United States District Attorney Baldwin, Secret Service Agent Flynn and United States Marshal Henkel. Commissioner Shields issued the warrant, which charges a violation of the United States federal laws, relating to conspiracy.

MRS. CASSIE CHADWICK.

Marshal Henkel, who, with his deputies and Secret Service Agent Flynn grouped in the door of Mrs. Chadwick's apartments, had entered without knocking, found her in bed. He said:

"Madam, I have an unpleasant duty to perform. I am obliged to serve a warrant for your arrest, issued by United States Commissioner Shields at the instance of the federal authorities of Ohio."

"I am very nervous and ill," replied Mrs. Chadwick. "What shall I do? I certainly am unable to get up."

"In that case," said the marshal, "I shall be obliged to remain here and keep you under surveillance. You will realize that unpleasant as this is for both of us, you are a prisoner and I have no right to leave you here alone. I will do everything I can to relieve you of annoyance, however."

The secret service men engaged a room adjoining Mrs. Chadwick's suite and established themselves there for the night, while one of the marshal's men was posted in Mrs. Chadwick's bedroom, one outside her door and another in the corridor. Marshal Henkel said he would remain in direct supervision of things all night.

George Ryall, a lawyer representing Mr. Newton of Boston, one of Mrs. Chadwick's creditors, called to see her soon after the arrest. He whispered with her for a moment and then left the room.

Soon after the arrest, and before it was known whether Mrs. Chadwick would be taken from the hotel at once or not, the hotel management sent to Mrs. Chadwick a bill for the rooms up to yesterday. She paid it and the bill was returned to her receipted.

By permission of the marshal Mrs. Chadwick telephoned to her physician, Dr. Moore, to come to her at once. He arrived a few moments later. The physician said that, although he had advised her several days ago to go to a sanitarium, she would be able to appear before Commissioner Shields.

B. J. Whitney, who is a director of the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin, O., called and asked to see the prisoner, but permission was denied him.

Andrew Squire, who came here from Cleveland with Iri Reynolds, secretary of the Wade Park Banking company, had a half hour's conversation with Mrs. Chadwick. At the conclusion of the conference Squire said: "The arrest of Mrs. Chadwick does not in any way affect the holding we have of her securities, and it does not change the legal proceedings necessary in the further evolution of the case."

Mr. Squire further said that he did not know the present whereabouts of Reynolds, who is said to have in his possession the $5,000,000 in securities belonging to Mrs. Chadwick.

The deputy marshal and secret service men who were in Mrs. Chadwick's room said that the name of Andrew Carnegie was mentioned several times and that the sound of the name each time caused Mrs. Chadwick to smile. The officers added that, though nervous, Mrs. Chadwick does not appear as ill as has been reported.

The complaint on which the warrant for arrest was issued is headed "Cassie L. Chadwick impleaded with C. T. Beckwith and A. B. Spear." The complaint was made by United States Assistant District Attorney Baldwin and recited that on or about Au. 26, 1903, in Oberlin, O., C. T. Beckwith and A. B. Spear, respectively the president and the cashier of the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin, "did unlawfully, knowingly, feloniously and wilfully misapply a portion of money, funds and credits of the Citizens' National bank, with the intent on their part to injure and defraud the banking association and its shareholders and directors; that is to say, the sum of $12,500, by wilfully cashing and paying this amount from the funds of this bank, a certain check heretofore drawn on the said banking association;

"That the same Cassie L. Chadwick, by whom this check was drawn, did not have on deposit with this bank the amount of money named or any sum whatever to pay this check, as Beckwith and Spear well knew."

MME DEVERE, FORGER

Federal Officials Think That She Is Now Mrs Chadwick

Cleveland, Dec. 8.—In order to make as strong a case as possible against Mrs. Chadwick the federal officials will subpoena as soon as service is possible a number of witnesses who have known Mrs. Chadwick for 20 years. The witnesses will attempt to prove that Mrs. Chadwick and Mme. Devere are the same person. Among those for whom summonses have been issued are H. W. Kitchen, a banker of Cleveland; Charles Brosie, superintendent of the Pacific Express company at Chicago, who was employed by that company in Toledo when Mme. Devere was tried for forgery in 1890, and a Toledo banker whose name is not given out. Warden Gould of the Ohio penitentiary will be expected to furnish guards who were in the employ of the state at the time of Mme. Devere's imprisonment. They will be called to testify for the government in the matter of identity.

The authorities intimate that the two alleged Carnegie notes which figure in the Oberlin bank transactions with Mrs. Chadwick are destined to play a very vital part in the contention that forgery has been committed and that someone must suffer for this crime in connection with the Chadwick woman's operations.

It is explained in connection with the arrest of Mrs. Chadwick that the federal authorities have the absolute power to compel the presence of anyone whom they may desire as a witness before the grand jury. This means that Andrew Carnegie will be summoned before the court as a witness as well as some of the most prominent attorneys and bankers in the country.

Move by Chadwick Receiver

Cleveland, Dec. 8.—Application was made late yesterday in the United States district court for the summonsing of Cassie L. Chadwick, Iri Reynolds and Emil Hoover, son of Mrs. Chadwick, for purposes of examination in bankruptcy proceedings. The petition was filed by Nathaniel Loeser, receiver for the Chadwick estate. The petition recites that, although reasonable effort has been made, the receiver has thus far been unable to secure possession of the property of Mrs. Chadwick.

Newton Sure of His Money

Boston, Dec. 8.—Herbert D. Newton manifested no surprise when informed of the arrest of Mrs. Chadwick. He expressed confidence that his claim would be satisfied. In response to a question, he said: "I still expect to get my money and feel as certain of it as though the cash was now in my hands."

Would Not Be Interviewed

Boston, Dec. 8.—Percy W. Carver, senior counsel for Mr. Newton, arrived from New York last night. He went at once to his home in Newton Center, where he gave instructions to the telephone operators that he was not to be called by telephone during the night.

Consumer Will Foot the Bill

Chicago, Dec. 8.—It was positively stated before the interstate commerce commission that, if in order to secure the common law liability service in shipping freight, 20 percent additional cost is required of shippers, the price of groceries will rise and the burden of the increased freight rate will fall on the consumer.

Slocum Indictments Sustained

New York, Dec. 8.—Judge Thomas of the criminal branch of the United States circuit court has sustained the indictments found against Inspector Fleming and former Inspector Lundberg in connection with the Slocum disaster and has dismissed the demurrers interposed in their behalf.

Witnesses Hard to Locate

Salt Lake, Dec. 8.—United States Marshal Heywood has succeeded thus far in serving only eight of the 33 subpoenas wanted by the senate subcommittee investigating the Reed Smoot case. Five witnesses, including three apostles, are believed to be outside the United States.

Patterson Jury Almost Completed

New York, Dec. 8.—Eleven jurors had been sworn in at the trial of Nan Patterson at the close of yesterday's session of the criminal branch of the supreme court. Instructions were issued by Justice Davis that no women shall be admitted to the courtroom during the trial.

Vermont Legislature Decides That Mrs Rogers Should Hang

Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 8.—Unless Governor Bell decides to exercise his right to pardon or commute to life imprisonment the sentence of death passed upon Mrs. Rogers for the murder of her husband in August, 1902, the woman will meet her death on the gallows the first Friday in February, 1905.

The action of the house of representatives in refusing to pass to a third reading a bill which had for its object Mrs. Rogers' confinement in prison for life, instead of an infliction of the death penalty, leaves it entirely with Governor Bell to decide whether the woman shall be hanged. Governor Bell has in the past refused and now refuses to intimate whether he will act in the matter.

Charged With Grand Larceny

Buffalo, Dec. 8.—Warrants were issued on application of E. M. Block, a pawnbroker of this city, for the arrest of President Emory, Cashier Werner and Assistant Cashier Luedeke of the suspended German bank on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree. Block charges that a New York draft he bought at the German bank 10 or 15 minutes before it suspended on Monday, giving a check therefor, has been returned, the bank upon which it was drawn having no funds. He says he has since learned that the German bank withdrew all its funds from the New York bank on Saturday last. Emory, Werner and Luedeke appeared later before Judge Murphy and were held for a hearing.

Parker In Court of Appeals

Albany, Dec. 8.—One of the most interesting episodes in the history of the court of appeals took place when former Chief Judge Parker appeared for the first time in more than 19 years to argue a case before that court, from whose presiding judgeship he resigned last summer to accept the Democratic nomination for the presidency. Never before, so far as records show, has a former chief judge argued before the court.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

A little more snow.

"How are the mighty Fallen!"

C. Arthur Sampson is seriously ill at his home on Washington street.

The indications this morning were that there would be more snow before night.

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore will address the pupils of the Quincy Mansion school tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Leon H. Austin is now well on the road to recovery. She is able to see a few of her friends each day.

The School Committee ask for proposals for coal. Because of the small appropriation for schools for 1904 it was impossible to contract in the summer for a winter's supply.

There will be a vesper service at the Washington Street Congregational church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. There will be special music by the choir under the direction of T. B. Pollard.

Mrs. Griffin.

Mrs. Sarah Griffin, widow of George W. Griffin, whose death occurred on Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Calvin Fletcher, 73 Garfield street, was born at St. Johns, N. B., in 1827.

She came to Wollaston when thirty years of age, and assisted in the depot for sixteen years. She sold the first railroad ticket in the old and new station.

She was also for a long time a faithful servant in the family of Josiah Quincy, and was married from the farm March 20, 1861, by the Rev. Mr. Barrows. She was blessed with five children, but only two, a son, and daughter, and four grandchildren, survive her.

For the past fifteen years she has made her home with her daughter, when not attending to the sick in her capacity as nurse, and will be greatly missed in the home, as well as by her many friends and acquaintances, for she was one who endeared herself to all with whom she became associated.

She was a charter member of the first Baptist church in Wollaston, and after services at the house Thursday, will be buried from the church at Wollaston.

Sudden Death.

Mr. James Bisson, a well known resident of South Quincy, died at his home, No. 274 Water street, early this morning, aged 67 years. Mr. Bisson was a stone worker by trade, but had not followed it of late. His health had been good up to Sunday when he sustained a shock which resulted in his death. He leaves a widow, five daughters and three sons, two sons being engaged in the carriage business.

Mr. Faxon Happy.

Henry H. Faxon is one of those who are overjoyed at the election of Mr. Thompson as Mayor, and he looks for the correction of many existing evils under Mr. Thompson's administration. The defeat of Mr. Fallon, he says, is a just repudiation of the use of intoxicating liquors in a municipal campaign. The use of liquor to influence voters he not only characterizes as demoralizing to the community at large, but also a curse of the worst kind. Although Mr. Faxon says that he is not as spry as he was a few years ago, he knows what is going on, and disgusting is a mild way to express his opinion as to the manner in which the campaign of Mr. Fallon was conducted.

Measure Proposing Reduction of Representation

IS INTRODUCED BY PLATT

Senators Hold Varied Views Regarding Its Expediency--Doubt as to Action During Present Session--Platt Explains Plan

Washington, Dec. 8.—Mr. Platt of New York created something of a stir in the senate by introducing a bill providing for a reduction of the congressional representation of the southern states on the ground that many of the citizens of those states are deprived of their right to vote.

Republican senators take varying views of this Platt move. Those who oppose opening the subject call attention to the absence of any reference to it in the president's message, and the fact that although the Chicago platform recommended an investigation, Mr. Roosevelt, in neither of his formal acceptances of the nomination, spoke of it. Of course, nothing will be done at this session. The Republicans also agree on another point: They say that the party should reach a conclusion, definite and final, to act, or not to act. If anything is done, it must be by a concerted move. If nothing is to be done, the agitation can be dropped none too quickly. Haphazard attempts, by Platt in the senate and Crumpacker in the house, are inadvisable, from the point of view of politics.

Conferences will be held before long to see if such a conclusion cannot be reached. If the Republicans are ever to move in this matter, the Fifty-Ninth congress will be their time. They realize this, but probably will not move.

Mr. Platt made the following statement regarding the bill:

"This bill is framed upon the lowest limitation possible and treats as excluded from the suffrage only the male negro citizen over 21 years of age, classed by the 12th census as illiterates, under the 1900 census tables published since the apportionment act of Jan. 16, 1901.

"The aggregates actually excluded from the suffrage in each of the states mentioned are in truth larger than those used as the basis for this act. If all negro votables (i. e. male citizens over 21) regardless of illiteracy should be deemed to be excluded, the reduction in representation figured from the same tables would be nearly twice as great as stated in this bill.

"It requires no evidence beyond the notorious historical fact, for congress to adjudge what cannot be denied, that the class of negro illiterates, to the extent stated, is practically excluded from the suffrage in the states mentioned in the bill, no matter what may be nominal provisions of their respective constitutions or election laws. The bill, therefore, presents the smallest reduction practicable and is very conservative.

"How much further, meritoriously considered, the reduction should extend, can readily be arrived at by more specifically regarding the actual facts of total excluelon in respect to each state. In treating fractions of representation, the benefit has been given in favor of the representation according to the size of the fractions. The 'apportionment' remains as fixed in 1901 and the 'reduction' is to cease when the facts shall warrant it.

"The bill has been prepared under the direction of the committee on national affairs of the Republican club of the city of New York, the club having, at its first meeting after the presidential election, unanimously voted to request congress to take immediate action, pursuant to the representation plank in the national Republican platform."

The bill provides for the reduction of representation in the house of representatives as follows: Alabama, from 9 to 7; Arkansas, 7 to 6; Florida, 3 to 2; Georgia, 11 to 8; Louisiana, 7 to 5; Mississippi, 8 to 6; North Carolina, 10 to 8; South Carolina, 7 to 5; Tennessee, 10 to 9; Texas, 16 to 15; Virginia, 10 to 8.

Senate's Order of Business

Washington, Dec. 8.—The steering committee of the senate has framed the order of business for the senate until the holiday recess. Four matters will receive attention. They are the Philippine bill, on which the senate has agreed to vote Dec. 16, statehood legislation, the nomination of W. D. Crum to be collector of the port of Charleston, and the question of filling vacancies on senate committees.

A Good Roads Appropriation

Washington, Dec. 8.—The committee on agriculture and forestry has reported favorably the bill known as "the Latimer good roads bill." It carries an appropriation of $24,000,000 for road building in the states. Under the provisions of the bill the states are to do the work of construction and pay one-half of the cost, the national government paying the other half.

Cabinet Officers Confirmed

Washington, Dec. 8.—The senate confirmed the following nominations: Paul Morton, secretary of the navy; William H. Moody, attorney general; Robert J. Wynne, postmaster general; Victor H. Metcalf, secretary of commerce and labor.

FRILLS AND FRIPPERIES.

Ombre Effects Popular For Millinery. New Embroideries For Blouses.

One of the newest ideas both for gowns and millinery is to use rich colors in shaded effects. In some of the season's tones these are very effective, a new green being especially attractive.

Ombre velvet is made into the most charming blouses either in green, violet or rose shading from dark to pale.

YELLOW SILK TEA GOWN.

A lace yoke and front empiecement with cuffs make the necessary light relief.

In hat ribbons the ombre effects are much in evidence in some of the schemes, different colors even being introduced.

A chiffon frock is delightful if it shades from palest pink to deep red at the hem. There is an infinite capacity for the expression of artistic and poetical ideas by means of these shaded effects.

Embroidery is playing such an important part in the world of dress that women who cannot afford to buy the expensive and elaborate embroideries so fashionable just now are making every effort to excel in the art of needlework. Silk embroideries and ribbon work decorate the fronts of muslin blouses, and Arabian work is very smart as a trimming worked in soft silks and gold threads on collars and revers for coats and blouses.

The tea gown illustrated is a stunning affair of yellow silk made with a deep gathered ruffle of white silk muslin strapped with cream lace. This lace forms a square trimming about the low Dutch neck, and on the sleeves there is an insertion of the same. The embroidered straps are of red linen, and the girdle is of yellow velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

German Army Officer In Disgrace

Berlin, Dec. 7.—Army circles are greatly excited over the condemnation of Major Zimmermann by court martial and his sentence to seven months in prison for falsehood. Zimmermann's company several times received imperial prizes for marksmanship. It was recently discovered that Zimmermann had falsified the score sheets.

Nan Patterson Expects Acquittal

New York, Dec. 7.—Within the last half hour before adjournment yesterday the sixth and seventh jurors for the trial of Nan Patterson took their places in the jury box. Six of the seven men chosen are well past middle age. Miss Patterson showed every sign of satisfaction and assured her father of her confidence in an early acquittal.

Bank Books Show Shortage

Macon, Ga., Dec. 7.—Maro W. Potter, who is cashier of the banks at Davisboro, Glenwood and Helena, has mysteriously disappeared, and his books are said to show a shortage. A feature of the defalcation is that all of the alleged discrepancies seems to have occurred within 90 days before being discovered.

Powers Granted a New Trial

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 7.—Caleb Powers, former secretary of state, has been granted a new trial by the Kentucky appellate court. Powers was charged with complicity in the murder of Governor Goebel and given a life sentence. The second trial resulted in a conviction and sentence of death.

Investigating "Prize" Concern

Chicago, Dec. 7.—The postal authorities have begun an investigation of the methods employed by the Chicago Silver company. The company, it is said, offered various "prizes" to persons who paid what was called a "merely nominal" sum of money for packing and shipping.

Going Around the World

St. Louis, Dec. 7.—President Francis of the Louisiana Purchase exposition is to make a tour of the world to repay the visits of foreign dignitaries and to express the gratitude of St. Louis and the national government for the liberality of foreign nations and exhibitors.

Appointment Declined

Washington, Dec. 7.—Major William Warner of Kansas City, district attorney for the western district of Missouri, was offered the office of commissioner of pensions and declined the proffer. The place will be made vacant by the retirement of Eugene Ware.

WITH ONE BULLET

Man Claims He Accidentally Shot Wife and Daughter

LATTER'S WOUND FATAL

Claim That Bullet Passed Through Wife's Neck Before Inflicting Mortal Injury to Daughter Is Refuted

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 7.—John Wainwright, 50 years old, shot his wife and Mrs. Frank S. Lindley, his daughter, in the parlor of his house at 981 Southbridge street. He says the shooting was accidental, but the police ignore his plea and he is locked up on the charge of murder. The daughter died from the effect of the shooting 30 minutes afterward, without gaining consciousness. His wife is in the city hospital, with a serious wound through the back of her neck. The bullet entered the right side of the neck and came out on the other side.

Wainwright says that he went into the parlor and, flourishing an old revolver which he had been cleaning, exclaimed: "Here's the way I would do if there was a burglar in the house." He says the revolver went off accidentally and that one shot injured both women.

He ran out of the house and to a store conducted by his daughter, Clara E. Wainwright, 20 feet from the house, and gave the revolver to his daughter when she demanded it. She turned the revolver over to the police.

It was found that the revolver is an old style Smith & Wesson single-action revolver. In the cylinder the police found one loaded bullet and the other chambers empty. An examination by Chief of Police Stone showed that two chambers of the revolver had contained cartridges, but that they had been removed. A search of the premises about the scene of the murder failed to reveal the discharged cartridges.

Medical Examiner Baker performed an autopsy on the body of Mrs. Lindley last night and found that the bullet had entered just below the right eye and lodged in the cranial cavity at the back of the head. The face was filled with powder. Asked if the woman could have been struck by a bullet which had passed through the neck of Mrs. Wainwright, Baker said: "It would have been impossible."

In a statement to Inspector O'Day at the city hospital, Mrs. Wainwright said that the shooting must have been an accident. She absolutely refused to make any statement that would reflect on her husband's action.

Miss Clara Wainwright notified the police of an accident at the house and a police ambulance in charge of Dr. Doten and officer Hutchinson was sent out. When Doten reached the house he found the two women lying in pools of blood in the parlor and Wainwright standing beside a stove at one side of the room, apparently unconcerned. Dr. Doten asked what had happened and Wainwright replied that he was showing what he would do if a burglar was in the house. He was placed under arrest and taken with the two women in the ambulance. Mrs. Lindley died in the ambulance just as it was leaving the scene of the tragedy.

Chief of Police Stone and Inspector O'Day questioned all connected with the family, but could get no evidence that would show the cause of the shooting. Mrs. Lindley left her husband a month ago and returned to her father's home. Her husband broke down and cried when he reached the scene and was told that his wife had been shot. He said he knew nothing of the trouble at the house, as he had not been in his wife's home since he was married nine years ago.

New Hampshire's New Collector

Washington, Dec. 7.—Edgar O. Crossman of New Hampshire, nominated for internal revenue collector in New Hampshire, is a practising physician at Lisbon and has been in the legislature, where he was a conspicuous leader of the Gallinger forces and very friendly to Senator Burnham. Dr. Crossman is an effective speaker and has rendered the party notable service in this particular. The office to which he is appointed is understood to be a lucrative one.

Plan to Settle With Veterans

Havana, Dec. 7.—Leading members of the Cuban congress are now advocating the winding up of veterans' claims by the payment of 75 percent thereof. It is estimated that the money required for such a settlement could be provided by an additional loan of $12,000,000, together with the accumulation of the government's surplus. President Palma favors the plan.

Convictions In Land Fraud Case

Portland, Ore., Dec. 7.—The jury in the land fraud case which has been occupying the attention of Judge Bellinger's court for over two weeks, after 45 minutes' deliberation, brought in a verdict of guilty against all the defendants, with the exception of Miss Marie Ware. No recommendations as to punishment were made.

Case of Plague at London

London, Dec. 7.—A member of the crew of the steamship Weybridge, at London, from the River Platte, was taken with a suspicious illness and bacteriological examination proves that he has the plague. All precautions have been taken.

A REQUEST.

The Citizens No-License League has been told a number of times during the campaign that a great deal of liquor was being illegally sold in our city. No specific instance, however, has been mentioned.

It is of vital importance to us all that such illegal selling, if any, should be stopped, and the League is desirous of vigorously co-operating with the authorities to that end.

Therefore all citizens are asked if they know or suspect any such illegal liquor selling to at once write the League. All communications will be kept absolutely confidential. Simply address your letter—Citizens No-License League, Quincy, Mass.

IN CONGRESS

Senators Knox and Crane Formally Inducted Into Office

Washington, Dec. 7.—The senate was in session for more than two hours yesterday, and, in addition to listening to the reading of the president's message, received a preliminary report from the merchant marine commission, witnessed the induction of Senators Knox and Crane into office, and in executive session referred the presidential nominations to the proper committees.

The reading of the commissions of the two new senators attracted more attention than is usual in such cases, on account of their prominence, and senators generally did not fail to note the peculiar wording of Governor Pennypacker's communication, in which he conferred the office upon Mr. Knox, empowering him to hold it with all its emoluments and privileges until the next meeting of the legislature of the state, "if he shall so long behave himself well."

After listening to the reading of the president's annual message to congress, the house adjourned until today. During the first 10 minutes of the session two minor routine matters were disposed of, but no other business was transacted.

Triple Murder and Suicide

Rochester, Ind., Dec. 7.—Gilbert Burns, aged 50, last night shot and instantly killed his wife and baby and Joseph Gripe, at whose home his wife was employed, and afterwards walked to the home of his sister, where he blew off the top of his own head. Mrs. Braman, who also lived at the home of Gripe, was struck by scattering shots from the charges that killed the other members of the household. She will probably recover.

Dispute Over Peace Palace Site

The Hague, Dec. 7.—The states general yesterday discussed the bill providing a site for the Carnegie palace of peace. Considerable differences of opinion wre displayed, some members, while applauding the donor's generosity, maintaining that the sum Carnegie had given would suffice to purchase a site as well as to build the palace. No agreement was reached as to whether the site the government had selected was the best.

FLURRY IN STOCKS

Expected Storm Bursts on th New York Exchange

BIG SHRINKAGE ENSUES

Market Value of Amalgamated Copper Decreases Over $30,000,000, While That of United States Drops $80,000,000

New York, Dec. 9.—Amid scenes of uncontrolled excitement and frenzied haste to sell securities, the New York Stock Exchange yesterday witnessed the most sensational decline in prices that it has known since the historic Northern Pacific panic of May 9, 1901.

Warned by the signs of the coming storm, made visible Wednesday in the preponderance of orders to sell over those to buy, the traders were early on the floor of the exchange. When the gong sounded for the opening of business there came from the struggling groups of brokers on the crowded floor a roar of human voices so loud that it startled and thrilled all who heard it. At first it seemed that all were sellers and that none were left to buy.

As the shrieking men surged around the trading posts, the "impending important developments" in this stock, "the possible increase of dividend" on another, the "coming agreement with its principal rival" of a third, or whatever were the bull arguments on which advances were based, were all forgotten and brokers sought only to get rid of the stocks they held. The scene was observed by a throng of visitors in the gallery.

First to give way in the hurly-burly was Amalgamated Copper, against which a campaign by a newspaper advertisement has recently been conducted. Dropping sometimes a point at a time it fell until it sold at 58½, a decline of 10 points since Wednesday night's close and 22 points from the highest of Tuesday. The 22 point recession represented a decrease in the market value of the company's total capital stock of more than $30,000,000.

Next to Amalgamated Copper, the leader in the excitement was United States Steel corporation stock, the common falling to 23¼, and the preferred to 84, over night declines of 6 1-8 points and 7 3-8 points respectively, and declines of 9 1-4 points for the common and 10 7-8 points for the preferred from Tuesday's highest. The shrinkage in quoted values from Tuesday represented over $45,000,000 on the common and $36,000,000 on the preferred, an aggregate on the company's capital stock of more than $80,000,000.

Other sensational declines were 5 1-4 in Union Pacific, 4 1-8 in Southern Pacific, 6 3-8 in American Sugar, 5½ in American Tobacco pfd, 7 3-4 in Brooklyn Rapid Transit, 7 7-8 in St. Paul 11 3-4 in Colorado Fuel, 11 in Michigan Central, 5½ in Missouri Pacific, and 9 1-4 in Tennessee Coal and Iron.

Values throughout the entire list were cut down with great rapidity, weakly margined accounts were wiped out and for nearly two hours demoralization was complete. During this period the transactions amounted to about 900,000 shares.

The frightened throwing over stocks almost without regard to p was finally checked, and there lowed a period of irregularity. J y buying orders appeared, quotations started upward and many of the active stocks regained considerable of their losses. The tone of the trading remained feverish, but the rally was well held and the close was, comparative speaking, severely quiet. The total sales of all stocks yesterday were 2,905,400 shares.

Many causes for the day's selling were suggested, but the general opinion seemed to be that the bull market had brought in many buyers on small margins and when the sings of an impending break were seen these holders were forced to sell out their speculative purchases at whatever prices were obtainable.

Brokerage Firm Fails

New York, Dec. 9.—Following the sensational fluctuations on the New York stock market, Munroe & Munroe, a concern which has done a brokerage business and acted as the fiscal agents for the Montreal & Boston Consolidated Mining and Smelting company, and the Marconi Wireless company, announced that it was unable to meet its obligations. A committee has been appointed to examine the books of the firm.

IN LECTURE FIELD.

Miss Tinker Occupies the Pulpit of Her Father.

Miss Katherine M. Tinker, recently on the faculty of the Woodward Institute, who resigned to enter the lecture field, is evidently meeting with great success. The Evening Journal of Lewiston, Me., in its issue of Dec. 2, had a column report of her lecture on "William Morris" with the following introductory:

The address of Katherine Tinker from the High street Congregational church pulpit in Auburn, Thursday evening, was significant not only for the coincidences which it carried, but also for the contents of the address itself.

Miss Tinker stood in the pulpit, celebrated by more than one great preacher, the pulpit in which her father for about 10 years, won deserved fame for his ability as a poet-preacher and for nobility of character. The daughter inherits no little of her father's poesy. She delivered her lecture in a delightful conversational method which federated with her creative gift, we predict will win her no little fame among those who know what literature is and who know what literature is when it talks about literature.

Miss Tinker's literary style is delightful. Her appreciation of the values of literature and of mind is unusually mature and her poetic temperament enable her to clothe her story in diction which itself is more than good rhetoric in being excellent literature. Miss Tinker's voice is musical in the best sense and her magnetic personality carries depth of interest which reminded many of her hearers at the Auburn meeting, of the peculiar quality of her own father's personality.

We forecast that the group of lectures which she has already prepared, will be in large demand among educators and women's clubs as well as in other circles as she becomes better known and as the quality of her work is more thoroughly appreciated. She already has four lectures in her repertoire: A lecture on early English literature; a lecture on Stephen Phillips, the dramatist; a lecture on Stevenson, the novelist and essayist; and the lecture on William Morris, as delivered Thursday evening.

A little insight into the ideals of the pre-Raphaelite school, a glimpse of its great exponent, William Morris, from the time of his youthful studies, friendships and travels, to his mature achievements in architecture, bookmaking, literature and other arts and crafts, an introduction to his sociological beliefs and a fascinating interpretation of some of his poems,—this was the substance of Miss Tinker's address, given for the benefit of the Social Settlement

PROMPT ARREST.

Bold Robbery at the Store of Jacob Peterson.

Frank H. Sproul was arrested Thursday at Dorchester by Inspector Bradley, upon a warrant charging him with the larceny of $75 from Jacob Peterson. The arrest was made by the assistance of a Boston officer in a pool room on Dorchester avenue, where $47 of the money was recovered.

Sproul was arraigned in court and was sentenced to six months in the house of correction.

Sproul was at one time employed by Peterson who runs a general store on Washington street. In this way he learned the run of the store and was familiar with the surroundings.

Some weeks ago Sproul left Peterson's employ and has since been employed by an Industrial Insurance Company.

Wednesday he visited Peterson's store and asked permission to use the telephone. While thus engaged it is alleged that Sproul opened the safe door and carried away the cash box and its contents consisting of about $75. The loss was discovered shortly afterward, and reported to the police. Inspector Bradley was assigned to the case and the arrest of Sproul followed.

Battleship Castings.

A New Haven dispatch reports that a 90,000 pound ingot intended for the shafting of the battleship Vermont building at Quincy, Mass., was cast there on Tuesday, at the National Steel Foundry Company. The ingot is 50 inches in diameter and 13 feet long. To cast it the product of two 25-ton furnaces was required, and it took 35 minutes for the molten liquid to flow into the moulds.

Twelve other ingots of similar size are to be turned out by this company to form sections of the shafting of the battleships New Hampshire and Rhode CRACK SHOTS.

Quincy Police to Shoot for Prizes.

Offered by Mayor Bryant.

First Prize Will Be Fifteen Dollars in Cash.

Within a few days the members of the Quincy Police force are to demonstrate their skill as marksmen. As an incentive Mayor Bryant has offered three prizes, namely—$15, $10 and $5.

Some months ago Mayor Bryant ordered an inspection of the equipment of the permanent policemen. This inspection brought out that the officers owned their own equipment and that no two carried revolvers of the same calibre and make. A trial of their skill as marksmen developed the fact that some of them could hardly hit a barn door at ten paces.

Mayor Bryant immediately gave orders to have all the patrolmen furnished with new revolvers, and a few weeks later each officer had placed in his hands a Colt repeater of the latest pattern. The Mayor also announced at that time that he would offer prizes for the best shot. Since that time the patrolmen have put in more or less practice with the result that all of the members of the department are now fairly good shots.

CHIEF HAYDEN.

Thursday night Mayor Bryant informed Chief Hayden that he would award prizes of $15, $10 and $5 to the three officers who should make the best scores.

Chief Hayden says that the shooting match will take place some afternoon next week and that each officer will fire eighteen shots.

TODAY'S COURT.

Albert S. Hibbard was fined $3 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Frank H. Sproul was sent to the house of correction for six months for larceny from Jacob Peterson at Quincy.

John Beaton was arraigned for assault on William H. Carter at Weymouth. He was fined $5 and put under bonds to keep the peace.

John Dissino was arraigned for violation of the liquor law at Quincy. Case continued until next Friday for judgment.

TEACHER MISSING.

Miss Lilla Keene Thought Have Drowned Herself.

The police have a strange disappearance case to unravel regarding Miss Lilla Seavey Keene, a Massachusetts school teacher, says a dispatch to the Herald from Bath, Me. Miss Keene left the home of relatives Thursday afternoon and has not been seen since. Miss Keene has been teaching at Milton Academy in Milton, Mass., but close confinement to her work and her physical condition ended in a nervous trouble. A short time ago she came to this city to stop with her aunt, Mrs. Charles E. Palmer, for a rest. Thursday afternoon she left the Palmer home between 4 and 5 o'clock to go to the home of friends, where Mrs. Palmer's daughter Mildred was calling, to walk home with her. When Miss Palmer returned without her friend the police were notified.

The only clew they obtained up to midnight are a few small tracks on the barytes mill wharf. They are small, and are supposed to be those of a woman. They are far apart, as if the person might have been running, and are headed for the water, but do not show any signs of return. A thorough search of this location is being made tonight.

Miss Keene was born in Waldoboro, Me., and completed her education at the Bath high school in 1899, and has since been teaching in Massachusetts, principally at Jamaica Plain and at Milton Academy. When last seen she wore a navy blue suit. She is of slight build, 24 years of age and attractive. She has a mother, Mrs. Mary Keene, in Boston.

PUBLIC BUILDING.

Congressman McNary Before Committee at Washington Today.

The House committee on public buildings and grounds will hold its first meeting today, says a Washington despatch to the Herald, when it is expected a decision will be reached as to whether or not an omnibus public buildings bill will be reported this session.

Representative McNary will be on hand to present the claims of Quincy for a public building. He will ask for approximately $125,000, which, he says, will construct an adequate building. The government already owns a site in Quincy, so that expense will not be necessary.

School Attendance.

The average daily attendance at the Quincy public schools for the four weeks ending Dec. 2, according to the report of Supt. Parlin, was 5274, of whom 605 were at the High school. The John Hancock led in percentage; the Gridley Bryant had the fewest tardinesses, and the Willard the smallest number of dismissals.

Double Bereavement.

In their double bereavement this week Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fletcher have the sympathy of many friends. The death of Mrs. Fletcher's mother on Tuesday was followed this morning by the death of Mr. Fletcher's father, Mr. James B. Fletcher. The latter has been in poor health for some time. He was a stone cutter by trade, and in his 68th year. He leaves a widow, two sons and two daughters. Funeral services will be held from his late residence on Garfield street on Monday.

Not As Cold As in 1902.

Two years ago today, Dec. 9, 1902, was the coldest day Quincy has experienced for twenty years. At sunrise the mercury registered from 6 to 16 below; at noon it stood at 2 above, and 4 was the maximum for the 24 hours. Only one other day that month, however, was the noon temperature below 20

THE JEALOUS SISTERS;

Or, The Hypnotizers of Paris.

The principal feature of this wonderful story translated from the French is the hypnotic power of a villian who sows discord between two loving sisters and makes them both infatuated with the same man, a handsome officer in the French army. The opening scene is the terrible conflagration at the Paris Charity Bazar of May 4, 1897, when hundreds of the most celebrated and beautiful women in the society of the capital were burned to death.

SOFTNESS OF SEALSKIN.

Is Rivaled by Human Hair Where Dandruff is Eradicated.

Sealskin is admired the world over for its softness and glossiness; and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at its root. Newbro's Herpicide is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff there is no falling hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Scouring the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the dandruff germ. Thousands of women owe their beautiful suits of hair to Newbro's Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Mrs Chadwick Occupies a Cell In New York Tombs

GIVES PRESS INTERVIEW

Denies Relationship to Mrs York, but Will Make No Statement About "Mme Devere Business" at This Time

New York, Dec. 9.—Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick occupies one of the scantily furnished cells in the Tombs. After a fruitless search all day for bail, her attorneys gave up the fight last night and Philip Carpenter, her chief counsel, after a final effort to secure the $15,000 necessary for her release, stood in the corridor of the Federal building at 9 o'clock when Marshal Henkel threw open the doors of his office and led the woman out on her way to prison.

Mrs. Chadwick was wan, tired and almost fainting. She made her way across the hall to the elevator, leaning heavily on the marshal's arm and on that of her son, Emil. Behind them came her nurse, Freda Swenson, and Deputy Marshal Kennedy. The party passed through a double row of curious people to a carriage which was in waiting on the Broadway side.

They were driven directly to the Tombs. Arriving there, Mrs. Chadwick was half carried up the steps and into the building. Warden Flynn met the party and after the usual preliminaries had been attended to the woman asked permission to have her nurse remain with her. This was denied, the warden saying that she should have no privileges not allowed other prisoners.

Mrs. Chadwick gave a handbag and a few trinkets to the nurse and whispered some instructions to her son. Marshall Henkel formally turned his prisoner over to the warden and she was taken to the matron's room. She asked to say good night to her son and the lad eagerly rushed to his mother and embraced her. Then she was led away to the inner office where her pedigree was taken and she was assigned to a cell. The son and nurse entered a carriage and were driven to a hotel.

While lying on a couch in the United States marshal's office awaiting a bondsman, Mrs. Chadwick, for the first time since her name has been before the public, consented to talk for publication and gave a press reprepresentative a statement in which she denied relationship to Mrs. York of San Francisco, who gave out an interview yesterday telling of the earlier life of Mrs. Chadwick.

In justice to her son, Mrs. Chadwick said she would make no statement about "this Mme. Devere business" at the present time, but promised that later "Mme. Devere's whereabouts and everything else in connection with this case will be shown."

Mrs. Chadwick also told of the Wade Park and Oberlin bank matters. Referring to the failure of the latter institution, she said: "I would not like to live a minute if I did not think I could pay these poor people back."

When asked concerning Andrew Carnegie's connection with her financial affairs, she declined absolutely to talk.

Yesterday was without doubt one of the most momentous days in Mrs. Chadwick's history. It commenced with her early departure from her hotel for the federal building and ended with her incarceration in the Tombs. In the interval she had been arraigned before Commissioner Shields and held in $15,000 bail, which she was unable to furnish. All day long lawyers representing her interests had sought in every quarter for some one owning real estate in Manhattan who would sign her bond and the marshal had, out of sympathy for the woman, kept her in the office hours after she should have been removed. The endeavors of the lawyers were unsuccessful, rendering her imprisonment necessary.

To add to her cup of woe, it was learned that a charge of forgery would very likely be made against her in Ohio, based on the Carnegie notes and other papers given as securities for loans.

Notes Uttered In Cleveland

Cleveland, Dec. 9.—Prosecutor Keeler of this county announces that testimony has been brought before the grand jury to the effect that the alleged Carnegie notes were uttered in Cleveland. On this information Prosecutor Stroup of Lorain county has decided to drop the case as far as the Carnegie notes are concerned and the matter is now brought directly to Keeler's attention.

While the Lorain county grand jury has abandoned investigation regarding the Carnegie notes, they will continue their investigations along other lines into which the notes enter.

Another Andrew Carnegie

Binghamton, N. Y., Dec. 9.—Judge Downs of this city said last night: "I was informed today, on what I believe to be good authority, that the notes passed by Mrs. Chadwick and purporting to be signed by Andrew Carnegie were genuine, and were signed by an Andrew Carnegie, but not the steel magnate, but by a relative of his by that name. That will be the line of defense under any forgery charge that may be brought. I cannot give the name of my informant, but he is a prominent man, who, I am sure, knows."

NDW DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Melvin Adams Will Fill Vacancy Caused by Moulton's Death

Washington, Dec. 9.—The president has decided to appoint Melvin O. Adams as district attorney for the district of Massachusetts, to succeed Henry P. Moulton, deceased. Mr. Adams was endorsed by the two senators from Massachusetts and also had the approval of Attorney General Moody.

Melvin O. Adams is a native of Ashburnham, Mass. He was born in 1850. He entered Dartmouth college in 1867 and was graduated in 1871. After teaching school for a brief period he entered the Boston university law school, from which he was graduated in 1875, and was admitted to the bar the same year. For 10 years he was connected with the Suffolk county district attorney's office. Since 1891 he has been president of the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn railroad. Adams is prominently identified with the Republican party.

Hints of Municipal Corruption

Chicago, Dec. 9.—"My charge of bribery in connection with the passage of the Ravenswood Elevated railway ordinance is only a beginning of what I have to reveal. I will follow the charge up with revelations which will startle the public." This statement was made by Alderman Butler, who declared he was offered money for his vote on the ordinance and hinted that wholesale corruption had been used to secure passage.

Vice President Robbed Bank

Zanesville, O., Dec. 9.—H. O. Barber, vice president of the failed Commercial bank of Cambridge, was found guilty last night of the charge of having embezzled $85. Six other indictments of embezzlement, aggregating in amount $30,000, were also found against Barber. The receivers of the Commercial bank found a shortage of $100,000. Pressly Patterson, cashier of the bank, has been absent from the city since last June.

CITY BREVITIES.

The City Council Committee on Finance met Thursday evening.

There will be at least two more meetings of the present City Council and possibly three or four.

The entertainment by the children in costume will be a pleasing feature of the bazaar of the nations.

It was on Dec. 8, 1888, sixteen years ago, that Hon. William B. Rice presented the City Hospital to Quincy.

Mrs. George H. Jacques of this city was awarded a blue ribbon at the dog show at Brockton this week for Yorkshire terriers.

The "Bazaar of the Nations," booths representing nine different nations will be attended by ladies in national costume.

A sweet time is promised tomorrow afternoon at the candy sale of the "S. S. S.'s," to be held at the residence of Mrs. A. L. Melcher, at No. 54 Bigelow street.

It is understood that one of the first acts of Mr. Thompson after his inauguration as Mayor will be to abolish the board of Sewer Commissioners and place that department under the charge of the Commissioner of Public Works. Perhaps Engineer Branch may be the new Commissioner.

Prof. Jacob of Wollaston held an entertainment of Hypnotism at Music hall, Atlantic, Wednesday evening before a large audience. At noon a man was put to sleep in the window of Mr. Geekie's barber shop where he remained until evening when he was brought to the hall and awakened before the audience. The many tricks performed amused the audience. The exhibition was a great success.

Wholesale Ballot Repeating

Denver, Dec. 9.—Reports made to the supreme court by handwriting experts who examined the ballots found in the box from precinct 6 of ward 5 indicate repeating for both the Democratic and Republican ticket at the late election. Of the 317 ballots found in the box, 60 with the Democratic heading had been written by 18 persons, and 22 Republican ballots had been written by 10 individuals.

Difficult Task Completed

Washington, Dec. 9.—A final settlement of the Alaskan boundary line has been reached. There was a small section of this boundary which was not determined by the Alaskan boundary commission at its meeting in London for the reason that it never had been surveyed. Messrs. Tittman and King were appointed a special commission to complete this work, which has been done.

In Congress

Washington, Dec. 9.—The annual fight on the civil service commission was begun in the house yesterday during consideration of the legislation appropriation bill. But little progress was made on the bill.

The senate held only a short session and adjourned until Monday. An attempt to secure consideration of the pure food bill was defeated.

Bank Officers In Court

Buffalo, Dec. 9.—President Emory of the German bank, Cashier Werner and Assistant Cashier Luedeke pleaded not guilty to the charge of grand larceny, preferred by E. M. Block. The case has been adjourned until Tuesday in order to ascertain whether there was a balance in the New York bank at the time the Block draft was drawn.

To Relieve Irish Distress

London, Dec. 9.—John E. Redmond has called a meeting of the Irish parliamentary party for Jan. 15 in Dublin to discuss the distress in the west of Ireland and consider means to "force the government to provide for the immediate necessities of the case and put the land act in operation in Connaught and other poor districts."

How is it with you?

There's Nothing in Illness — There's Satisfaction in Health

You have noticed the sallow skin of your neighbor,—the dullness, the yellow whites of another's eyes, but if you feel as you look this morning, you need a little help yourself. Flatulence, Headache, a bad taste in the mouth are bad enough, but they are precursers of worse to come. If you have any of them, or if you are bilious or constipated, you need a gentle, effective, harmless corrective; that is, you need Beecham's Pills.

Constipation is the common foe of modern human life. From it spring full half the ills of humanity. Beecham's Pills cure CONSTIPATION; they keep the Stomach, the Liver, the Kidneys and the Bowels up to the mark.

Beecham's Pills

cure the present minor sicknesses and prevent the more serious troubles which will come if you don't right the wrong. All over the world their merits are known. A remedy so good for so many should be good for you. Folks are pretty much alike the world over. Beecham's Pills have a way of restoring vigor to worn and wearied organs; they work for health, for clear brains, strong muscles, sound nerves.

Women, at certain times, should take especial care that Liver, Kidneys and Bowels are working properly and satisfactorily. Else will follow depression, sick headache, nervousness,—a train of almost unbearable troubles. When so simple a remedy as Beecham's Pills will do so much good, their use should become a good habit. They have saved the lives of many women who have followed the directions with every box.

Destruction of Muscovite Sea Power In the Far East

CREWS HAD ALL LANDED

Steamers and Transports Will Next Be Shelled--Objective at Port Arthur Attained by Japanese After Ten Months

London, Dec. 9.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent before Port Arthur telegraphs that all of the Russian battleships and cruisers, together with the gunboats Giliak and Fusademeck, have been sunk or destroyed and that only the torpedo boat destroyers remain intact.

According to special dispatches from Tokio, giving unofficial reports, the crews of all the Russian war vessels in the harbor of Port Arthur were landed, and apparently no effort was made to move the vessels. The Japanese will now turn their attention to the torpedo boat destroyers and when these have been destroyed the guns will be directed against steamers and transports in the harbor.

Mail advices to Japan describing the capture of 203-Metre hill state that the Japanese drenched the timber work of the trenches with kerosene and started a furious fire, which was fanned by a strong gale. The Japanese advance was very slow. They were obliged to make roads with bags of earth. It was a sudden decision to make a night attack that brought victory to the Japanese. Nothing is yet officially known as to the extent of the Japanese casualties.

After 10 months of strenuous endeavor Japan has finally attained her first objective at Port Arthur—the destruction of the Russian "fleet in being" cooped up there. This apparently was made possible by her capture of 203-Metre hill, which gave her either a position for the mounting of heavy guns with a direct fire on the harbor, or a point for observation from which to direct the fire of her artillery; the dispatches do not make clear which.

It is not yet clear that the Japanese have mounted their heavy guns on 203-Metre hill. If they can place and maintain there a battery of their 11-inch mortars, the resistance of the garrison, however long maintained, can hardly hope for re-enforcement from without. Japanese guns in that position would command every ship trying to enter the harbor, and would make blockade-running nearly valueless to the Russians. It may be that the siege will finally succeed through some such command of the harbor entrance.

Americans Were Slow

St. Petersburg, Dec. 9.—Through the failure of the Americans interested in the cargo of the German steamer Arabia, confiscated by the Vladivostok prize court, to lodge an appeal, their cases not only went by default before the admiralty appeal court, but the United States government lost an opportunity to obtain a decision on the question of railway material which might have formed a basis for a renewal by the United States of diplomatic representations regarding such articles as conditional contraband.

FALLS ON SUNDAY

Even Clergyman Voted to Hang Mrs Rogers on Feb 5

Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 9.—In the midst of the impassioned debate over the fate of Mary Rogers in the state house, when the tragic event to come on Feb. 5 next was pictured, no one remembered that the day set for the woman's fate falls on Sunday. Even a clergyman, a member of the legislature, declared in favor of hanging Mrs. Rogers on Feb. 5. What effect it would have had if the members had been told that Feb. 5 fell on Sunday cannot be told now. But unless there is some error, the date of the woman's death will take place on a Sunday morning.

The original papers in the case are not on file, but never has any date but Feb. 5 been mentioned and the report of the case so gave the date.

A host of legal and moral complications will arise from this discovery. There are some lawyers who say the sentence cannot be carried out, others that the day of the week makes no difference. There is no question but what Mrs. Rogers will have to be hanged on the day set, or not at all.

The words "that fatal day, Feb. 5," were uttered at least a dozen times in the debate; but no one mentioned the day of the week.

A Victim of Overwork

Bath, Me., Dec. 9.—Miss Lillian S. Keene, aged 24, a teacher in the Milton academy at Milton, Mass., who was visiting her uncle, Charles E. Palmer, in this city, left the house yesterday afternoon and has not returned to it. Footprints of a woman's shoe leading toward the edge of one of the wharves were found last night by the police, and as the young woman was very much depressed from overwork, it is feared that she threw herself into the Kennebec river.

Killed Wife and Policeman

Dedham, Mass., Dec. 9.—Henry F. Boles was indicted for the murder of his wife, Mary M. Boles, and Joseph McMurray, a police officer, at Brookline on Oct. 17, by the Norfolk grand jury. Boles, it is alleged, shot his wife at their home in Brookline, while intoxicated, and when McMurray attempted to enter the room where the man had locked himself in, Boles fired through the door, fatally wounding the patrolman.

Died In Freight Car

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 9.—John Oakes, 45 years old, thought to have come here from Worcester, was found dead in a freight car last evening in front of the Tremont and Suffolk mills. A sum of money and three pay envelopes were found in his pockets. The man had partly disrobed, taking off shoes, stockings, coat and vest. An autopsy will be made. Identification was made by letters in Oakes' pockets.

Brothers Drowned While Skating

Rochester, N. H., Dec. 9.—Two brothers, Charles and Carl Chisholm, aged 12 and 14 years respectively, were drowned while skating on Salmon Falls river and Andrew Redlow, aged 14, was saved from the same fate by Edward Tibbetts. The fright to which Redlow was subjected and the shock of his immersion in the cold water were too much for the boy's system and his condition is critical.

Slashed Throat With Razor

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 9.—Lying in bed, with his throat slashed from ear to ear, John E. Mellody, 20 years old, was found this morning by his father at the Mellody home. Young Mellody, who was a shoemaker by trade, had been in ill-health and out of employment for some time past and was despondent. He died shortly after his father reached the room. Mellody used a razor to cut his throat.

Letter Thief Gets a Year

Boston, Dec. 9.—In the United States circuit court, Jeremiah Maher was sentenced to serve a year in jail for stealing a letter. He was arrested last spring and bailed in $800. Maher disappeared and was not found until a few weeks ago, when he was arrested in Connecticut.

Tug Lost Three Barges

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec. 9.—Tug Robert Robinson put in here and reported the loss of three barges which went adrift off Shippan Point during the night. Two tugs have gone in search of the barges, all of which were coal laden.

First of the Season

Gloucester, Mass., Dec. 9.—Schooner Goldenrod of this port has arrived from the Bay of Islands, N. F., with a cargo of 1000 barrels of fresh and 150 barrels of pickled herring. This is the first cargo of frozen herring to arrive this year.

Charged With Robbery

Waterville, Me., Dec. 9.—Charles C. Chalmers was arrested last night on the charge of being implicated in a robbery at Madison. It is alleged that he has confessed. Paul Lambert, also charged with the robbery, is in jail.

Failure of Boston Stock Broker

Boston, Dec. 9.—Harold L. Bowker, doing business as a stock broker in this city as H. L. Bowker & Co., has filed a petition in bankruptcy, placing his liabilities at $6990, with assets of $200. There are 15 creditors.

Lumberman Killed by a Fall

Jay, Vt., Dec. 9.—H. G. Banister, aged 55, a wealthy lumberman of this town, fell through a scuttle in his barn, struck on his head and died five hours later. His skull was fractured.

Mercury's Great Drop

Newport, Vt., Dec. 9.—Intense cold prevails here, the thermometer registering 17 degrees below zero.

CHANGES IN ORDER

What Investigators Found In Vermont Penal Institutions

Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 9.—That the continuance in office of the directors of the state penal institutions and the superintendent of the state prison is detrimental to the best interests of the state is the opinion expressed in a report submitted to the legislature by a special committee of that body.

This committee was appointed to probe into the affairs of the house of correction, the state prison, the industrial school, and the insane asylum. At the two latter institutions the committee had little time for extensive investigation, but in their report a more business-like administration in each institution is recommended.

At the state prison, however, the committee found that Superintendent Oakes, in addition to applying to and receiving from the directors an increase in salary, appointed his wife housekeeper and her name was put on the payroll. The committee reports that Mrs. Oakes was at the time of her appointment, and has been since, an invalid and confined to her bed almost entirely. The report also accuses Oakes of using at his summer camp provisions which were the property of the state and which, when purchased, were supposed to be for use at the prison.

At the house of correction, the report of the committee says, lax business methods prevailed at the expense of the state. Superintendent Morgan is charged with turning the marble department over to a subordinate, absolutely accepting as final this subordinate's reports as to expenses, etc. In this manner, it is charged, debts were contracted which would have been made unnecessary had the administration been conducted on a business basis.

The three directors of the state penal institutions are charged by the legislative committee with neglecting their duties.

Family of Four Killed

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 9.—B. B. Hughes, aged 42 years, his wife, Eva, about the same age, and two daughters, Emily and Hattie, 19 and 15 years old, respectively, constituting an entire family, were found dead in their home at Trenton, and nothing remains to explain the mystery of the tragedy. Hughes was a merchant and farmer and was on good terms with the white and colored people of the community. Conditions surrounding the crime point to Hughes as the murderer of his entire family and to a subsequent suicide.

Canadian's Stormy Passage

Boston, Dec. 9.—Steamship Canadian, from Liverpool, was warped into her berth last night, 60 hours late, owing to the tempestuous weather encountered on the passage. She sailed Nov. 26, and from the very outset was buffeted by fierce gales and tremendous seas. At times she made no perceptible headway, although her engines were running at full speed. No damage was sustained, although the big liner pitched and rolled like a huge cask.

Enough Flags at Home

St. Louis, Dec. 9.—The flag presented to the Lanao Moros by the Philippine World's fair board has been returned with the message: "We have plenty of these flags in our own country." The various Philippine tribes that had been on exhibition here have started home, and before going each was given a large United States flag. With the exception of that presented to the Lanao Moros, the flags were accepted

Second Patterson Trial Is On

New York, Dec. 9.—The last jurors necessary to complete the panel in the trial of Nan Patterson for the murder of Caesar Young were chosen yesterday afternoon and Assistant District Attorney Rand at once began his opening statement, practically repeating the charges he made at the opening of the former trial, which was brought to a sudden end by the illness of Juror Dressler.

Consular Berth For Roche

Washington, Dec. 9.—The president sent to the senate the nomination of James J. Roche of Massachusetts to be consul at Genoa. Roche is the editor of The Pilot, a Roman Catholic weekly published in Boston. During the recent campaign The Pilot, which has a strong Irish Catholic clientele, enthusiastically supported President Roosevelt.

Government Request Granted

Washington, Dec. 9.—The hearing by the supreme court of the United States in the case of Swift vs. the United States, popularly known as the "Beef trust" case, has passed to an unfixed date at the request of the government.

Survived but One Day

Belgrade, Dec. 9.—The cabinet, formed Wednesday under the presidency of General Gruics, resigned yesterday, a conference having developed doubts of its ability to command a majority of the national assembly.

NEWS IN BRIEF

A report of election receipts and expenses of the Republican club of Massachusetts at the November campaign, filed at Boston, shows that the total contributions were $6800.

LEAGUE BOWLING.

Quincys Pull Up on the Leaders Whom They Defeat.

Two weeks ago the Quincys were at the foot of the Old Colony bowling league, but today they are near the top, being tied for second place, and the Braintrees only two points ahead.

At Braintree Thursday evening the Quincys won all three games; none of them very close. They led in the first game by 25 pins, in the second by 9, and in the third by 38. Westland of the Quincys was high man on every string.

AT QUINCY POINT.

The Weymouths bowled at Quincy Point and in a roll-off won two out of three. The local team started in with one of the best strings ever rolled on the alleys, a total of 445 and led the visitors 34 points. The next was almost as good, but both teams bowled 433. On the roll-off Weymouth won. Quincy Point weakened on the third and it went easily to the visitors. Lyons of the home team was high man on singles, while Peleran of Weymouth led on totals.

What It Costs

... AND ...

What It Pays

are two values of newspaper advertising that the merchant has to consider. But the most important thing is

WHAT IT PAYS.

The merchant can get space in papers of small circulation and little influence for a little less money than the same size space would cost in the DAILY LEDGER and the QUINCY PATRIOT.

DOES IT PAY

to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to LEDGER and PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in a cheaper paper?

A REQUEST.

The Citizens No-License League has been told a number of times during the campaign that a great deal of liquor was being illegally sold in our city. No specific instance, however, has been mentioned.

It is of vital importance to us all that such illegal selling, if any, should be stopped, and the League is desirous of vigorously co-operating with the authorities to that end.

Therefore all citizens are asked if they know or suspect any such illegal liquor selling to at once write the League. All communications will be kept absolutely confidential. Simply address your letter—Citizens No-License League, Quincy, Mass.

WIRELESS TALK SCHOOL

Instruction of Telegraphy Class at Brooklyn Navy Yard.

MASTERING "ART OF SPARKING."

Method of Turning Out Operators to Send Government Messages—Good Positions For Young Men In the Navy—Only Electricians, However, Are Employed.

For six hours every day a class of twenty-five young sailor men in the navy yard at Brooklyn delve with book and key into the mysteries of wireless telegraphy, says the New York Post. They report for study from stations the country wide and from warships all over the seas. When their course is finished they are sent wherever there is a government wireless plant in want of an operator, and here they serve out their enlistments either shooting government messages through the atmosphere or alert to catch stray sound currents looking for a receiver. This means that messages will be taken from vessels other than warships and transmitted for them at commercial rates to their proper destinations. It also means that the government is going to keep other wireless plants from getting anywhere near its stations.

The government system of wireless communication is going to be a big one, and the demand for operators is larger than the supply. Already sparks can be transmitted from Maine to Panama, which places the navy yard at Brooklyn in close communication with all the stations up and down the coast. Soon the Pacific coast line will be harnessed, and then the government will have a chain connecting United States forts and naval stations from Vancouver to New Brunswick.

The wireless school in the navy yard is close by the steel sides of the unfinished battleship Connecticut and in the shadow of the immense traveling crane. Straight into the air overhead sticks the big white pole with its streamers of steel. This indicates the wireless station, and under it six hours at a stretch the trim figures in blue "plug" away at the "art of sparking." That's what the sailor lads call it. Some in steel helmets are busy at "receiving," others are at the key "sending," and the rest are taking apart and putting together the electrical and mechanical appliances that make the battery and apparatus.

The spark from a wireless plant sounds like the cry of a gigantic locust in summer time, only it is not so long and drawn out. It comes sharp and distinct like the click of a telegraph instrument. Add this racket to the rat-a-tat-tat of the workmen's hammers aboard the Connecticut, the hum of the traveling crane and the continual hiss of escaping steam, and one has the atmosphere of the navy's wireless school. Occasionally the band of a warship breaks loose in honor of somebody's coming aboard, small but important tugs are incessantly whistling hoarsely, and the noise of the shops close by never ceases.

It would seem as if the sailor man could make little progress in a school of such surroundings, but he does. Moreover, he finishes his course in thirty days and is ready to be put on a station by that time. It must be remembered that he comes to the school an electrician. Only this class of sailor man can apply for the instruction. When he enlists he passes an examination and is rated as an electrician—that is, he gets $30 a month pay, where the landsman, which is the lowest class of recruits, gets only $16. If the electrician is steady and shows a desire for work he is shoved ahead, and each higher grade brings more pay. A "chief electrician" gets as high as $75. All wages, of course, include food, clothing and transportation.

Such wages bring a better class of recruits into the navy than it ever had before, and the men one sees around the school in the yard are a bright, clean looking lot of men whose general makeup is above that of many of the best trades schools in the country. They are sent to all parts of the world and are the government's workmen and operators aboard all manner of craft. Their work is congenial; they are well kept and receive fair pay. It is not to be wondered at, therefore, that few of them leave the navy after they once get in. They are instructed by graduates of the United States Naval academy and have every opportunity for advancement in their work to the end that if they do leave the government's service their papers find them good employment immediately.

The United States navy was the last to take up wireless telegraphy, and, although much progress has been made with the new system of communication, we are, it is said, still far behind the other powers in both construction and operation.

Cravats of Wood Pulp.

A syndicate of English capitalists is engaged in an endeavor to promote a market in the United States for the silks made chiefly from wood pulp, says the New York Press. This product is principally obtained in South America, Paraguay furnishing a large supply. The vegetable silk has its origin in trees and is readily adaptable to native looms. The woven threads are supercalendered, which process presents a silky finish resembling mercerized goods. For several years past this glossy material has been sold in piece lengths to the upholstery trade, by which it is utilized for filling purposes. The selling test of artificial silk for cravats is anxiously awaited by New York manufacturers.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Although eighty-five years old, Mrs. Sarah McLaughlin of Lynn, Mass., does a good day's work binding shoes.

Mrs. Russell, widow of Henry Grinnell Russell of Providence, R. I., is the richest woman in New England. She has $20,000,000 and no children.

Mrs. Johanna Wood, the mother of twelve children, was elected constable at Hugo, Colo., by the votes of both parties. No man would run against her.

Miss Minnie Robinson of Detroit, Mich., a graduate of the Michigan university, has won national honors as a student of botany. She is professor of the latter at Vassar.

Princess Eleonora Massalska died of hunger in Vienna the other day. Her father, having lost his fortune, committed suicide some years ago, and she endeavored to make a living by giving lessons.

Another fashionable London woman who has recently gone into business is Mrs. Charles Forester, who has set up a dressmaking establishment, where she designs and makes smart picture gowns, which are said to have a great sale.

Miss Ruby Cooke, daughter of Lady Cooke of Easthorpe, England, is believed to own one of the finest collections of dogs in the world, including Mighty Atom, which weighs just two and a half pounds. Another of her fads is photographing.

Influenced by the example set by Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel during her recent visit at Philadelphia, the society women of that place have developed a fad for rifle shooting. Mrs. Drexel imported the idea from England, where it bears the stamp of royal approval.

CURRENT COMMENT.

The great arguments in favor of machine voting are that it saves an immense amount of expense in preparing the ballots, of time in counting them, while it makes a false count or stuffing of the returns impossible.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The autocratic system of Russia is entirely out of harmony with the political opinions of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, but it is much easier to indicate its defects than it is to show in what way it can be safely reformed.—Boston Herald.

WRITERS AND SCULPTORS.

Mrs. Craigie, better known as "John Oliver Hobbes," is said to be the best talker among women in London.

Longworth Powers, the sculptor, son of the late Hiram Powers, the famous American sculptor, has just died in Florence, Italy.

Henry Merwin Shrady has been intrusted with the modeling of the Grant memorial to be erected in Washington at a cost of $250,000. Shrady's father was the physician who attended General Grant in his last illness.

Gabriele d'Annunzio, the famous Italian poet and novelist, has a craze for idols. In his villa at Settignano, near Florence, he has a large room full of these "divinities," mostly Indian, Chinese and Japanese. He pays any fair sum for a good specimen of his favorite gods.

CURIOUS CULLINGS.

Among the advertisements in a recent number of a Munich journal was this: "Wanted—A secondhand grave."

Prince Knyatulla of Afghanistan recently lost a sword belt which was found in the possession of two of his servants. They were blown from the mouth of a cannon.

Over the grave of a horse in a private garden near Westminster abbey is a stone engraved with this quotation from the Psalms: "Thou, Lord, shalt save both man and beast."

Twenty thousand dollars to establish a home for drunkards' wives was one of the bequests of James Callanan, a philanthropic but eccentric millionaire who died in Des Moines, Ia., lately.

TEARS.

Life is too short to grieve. Besides, tears make wrinkles.

We spend our days in weeping and wailing for things that attained turn to ashes.

Man is a tearless animal because, failing in one amusement, he has so many others.

Woman is given to tears because she has only one amusement, the care of her home and husband, and it is so seldom amusing.

Tears in a sweetheart are charming; in a wife they bore. This is because a sweetheart has nothing to cry about and a wife has everything.—New York Times.

DROPS OF WATER.

The Thames flows at the rate of two miles an hour.

The quantity of water discharged into the sea by all the rivers of the world is about thirty-six cubic miles in a day.

The Kongo is one of the widest waterways in the globe if not the finest. It is twenty-five miles across in parts, so that vessels may pass one another and yet be out of sight.

A COONSKIN FARE.

It Would Have Paid the Traveler to Let the Change Go.

Many years ago, as the story runs, when coonskins were worth six bits apiece in Arkansas and a regular fee of two bits was assessed for ferrying a horseman across the St. Francis river, there came along a traveler whose entire capital consisted of but a single pelt, and the ferryman hadn't a cent of change in his pocket.

The traveler was bound to cross, but refused to pay three times as much as the man who passed before him or the one who was to come next. The ferryman would not wet an oar unless payment for his services was assured. Here was ample foundation for an argument, and presumably the opportunity was not neglected. But a satisfactory arrangement was finally reached, the traveler getting value received for his coonskin by being wafted thrice across the stream. This of course would leave him on the right side, and neither party to the trade would have cause for complaint. Such was the generous spirit of accommodation which obtained in these earlier days, such—but hold on a bit.

On the second trip the ferryman chanced to inspect the coonskin closely and found that it was by no means up to the recognized standard. Maybe it had been killed too early in the season or was not properly stretched. Anyway, he decided that four bits was all it was worth, and the traveler frankly admitted the soundness of his judgment, acknowledged that he had received its value in the double ferriage and forthwith started on his fifty mile ride up the river to the nearest point where it was fordable.—Field and Stream.

A LONG LOST CITY.

Tanagra, the Site of the Modern Town of Gremada, In Greece.

Gremada is the name of the modern city in Boeotia, Greece, which occupies the site of the ancient city of Tanagra. The old town was a rich and luxurious place, greatly renowned for the cockfights that were given there. It had the honor of being the birthplace of Corinna, the great poetess of the fifth century before Christ, and perpetuated her memory by a majestic tomb, on which she was represented five times crowned in remembrance of the five victories which she had gained in the lyrical contests with Pindar. Despite this comparative celebrity it appeared destined to the eternal sleep of forgetfulness when after more than twenty-two centuries of silence chance drew to it the attention of archaeologists.

In 1870 the inhabitants of the neighboring villages while digging in their fields exposed to view some tombs which the French have assigned to the nineteenth century before the Christian era. The discovery of these first sepulchers was the cause of excavations, during which a quantity of other tombs were discovered, all situated along the roads which led from the walls of Tanagra in the direction of Thebes, Chalcis, Harnia and Platae.

Among this mass of tombs belonging to several centuries the most interest attaches to those of the fourth century before the Christian era on account of their contents. It was in these particularly that the statuettes known today under the name of "Tanagra figurines" were for the most part discovered.

He Lost His Dignity.

A pompous individual from the east, says a Texas newspaper, happened to be traveling in western Texas and stopping at a hotel, when trouble started among some cowboys, who prepared to conduct the argument with revolvers.

"Stranger," said a Texan to the pompous man, "it would be a good idee fur you to lay down on the floor till this dispute is settled."

"It does not comport with the dignity of a Boston gentleman of my professions," said the pompous gentleman, "to wallow in the dirt on the floor."

"You may be right, stranger," answered the Texan as he prepared to recline, "but my opinion is that you had better lose yer dignity fur the time bein' than to have the daylights let into your system by a 44." He lost his dignity.

A Curious Legend.

Easby abbey, the ruins of which lie close to the river Swale, a short distance from Richmond, in Yorkshire, England, is the home of a curious legend, says Photography. One of the main walls of the building is cracked and toppling, but has not yet fallen to the ground. Nor do the natives expect it to do so, at least not until it receives the impulse which it is said to await. For a tradition relates that the wall, when it does fall, will bury in its ruins a newly married couple, and as the tale is well known the chance of a honeymooning pair resting beneath its shade is remote.

She Gloated.

A Fort Fairfield (Me.) woman was awakened at 3 one morning by a furious ring of the telephone in her house. Feeling from the wildness of the ring that somebody's house must be on fire or that somebody was bleeding to death, she scampered downstairs and nervously seized the receiver, only to hear a shrill soprano voice shriek: "Got your washin' done yet? Had mine out half an hour ago."

Quite the Contrary.

Woman of the House—You're not one of these labor agitators, are you? Goodman Gonrong (with his mouth full of pie)—No, ma'am. I'm a rest agitator.—Exchange.

Some one asks whether success is most due to luck, pluck or brains. The answer is easy—all three.

Neponset River Improvement.

A Washington dispatch to the Globe reports that Capt. Henry W. Hunt and Park Commissioner Charles E. Stratton of Boston are in the city in the interests of the projected Dorchester-bay and Neponset-river improvements. They appeared before the committee on rivers and harbors and urged the committee to recommend a suitable appropriation for that work. One of the claims is that it would develop the land on both sides of the Neponset river, in Quincy as well as Boston.

CITY PLUMS.

Who Will Get the Appointments?

Mayor-Elect Thompson Says Nothing.

But, Nevertheless, There Are Many Rumors and Many Candidates.

Although the present heads of departments have until Feb. 1 to serve, there is much speculation as to whose heads will have to fall into the basket at that time, and as to who will draw the salaries of these offices next year.

Mayor-elect Thompson, who will have the sole appointing power, has wisely kept his own counsel. It is probable, however, that long before this he has been pestered with unsought advice, and that he has had many applications from would be office holders.

Just who Mayor Thompson will retain and who he will decapitate is a mere matter of speculation. It is the general belief, however, that no clean sweep is anticipated. Mr. Thompson made no anti-election promises and he therefore can wield a free lance.

It is quite generally understood however, that there are to be changes. Current report says that the departments that will have new chiefs are: Commissioner of Public Works, Tax Collector, Chief of Police, Overseer of the Poor, and City Solicitor.

The Commissioner of Public Works is of course the largest plum, but it is an office that an ordinary person cannot successfully fill. It requires a man of ability. That Mr. Knowlton, the present official has the necessary ability there is no question. There is a feeling, however, that Mr. Knowlton has been too active politically, and that there are reforms needed. Up to the present time two names have been mentioned for this office, namely, City Engineer Hamilton Flood and Engineer Ernest W. Branch of the Sewer department.

With the turning over of the Sewer department to the Commissioners deparment Engineer Branch will probably loose a job that is now paying him $6 per day, and he certainly would not be unwilling to secure a position that paid equally as large a salary. City Engineer Flood also would not hesitate to accept an office that pays so good a salary. Whether either will come up to the standard required by Mayor Thompson remains to be seen.

For Tax Collector two names are mentioned, C. H. Johnson and A. L. Baker. Mr. Johnson was an enthusiastic supporter of Mr. Thompson and can probably have the office if he wants it. But as there is a possibility that the office may be only for one year Mr. Johnson may hesitate. However, his appointment of three years as Assessor will expire in February, 1906, at the same time as an appointment as Tax Collector.

Mr. Baker is an ex-Collector, and many say the best Collector that Quincy ever had. Certainly no Collector has a better record for collections. When he retired from office the so-called "back taxes" aggregated but a small sum. His friends will make the most of this record in advocating his appointment.

That there is to be a change in Overseer of the Poor seems to be a recognized fact. The ordinance relating to this office provides that the Overseer shall give his whole time to the office. That the present official has not done this is a well known fact, and is known to none better than Mr. Thompson. There has also been considerable criticism of late in regard to the way the financial end of the office has been run.

The only name mentioned for the office are George H. Field, and W. W. Mitchell. As Mr. Field is a deputy sheriff he could not give his whole time to the office and probably would not accept it. That Mr. Mitchell would be a right man in the right place anyone who knows him will admit. He is a man of pleasing personality and one who would not be overbearing to the unfortunates who apply to him for aid, but would deal with them all as a gentleman should. He is also one who would devote his whole time to the office as the ordinance requires.

There has thus far been but one name mentioned for Chief of Police in case Chief Hayden is not reappointed, that is Frank A. Burrell, a member of the permanent force. The general belief is that Mr. Burrell would make an efficient chief should the mantle fall upon his shoulders. He would not necessarily be obliged to lose his standing as a patrolman as a special officer could be employed while he was in office.

There is one gentleman said to be gunning for the salary that goes with the office of City Solicitor, namely, William R. Thomas, but few seem to think that he will receive the coverted appointment. There have been rumors that John W. McAnarney or Jeremiah J. McAnarney would be selected for the office, while other rumors have placed the appointment in the hands of Walter S. Pinkham, Esq., an ex-Councilman, and in every way worthy.

City Clerk Keith and City Treasurer Fay, it is generally believed, will retain their present offices. Both are very efficient officials and no word of criticism has been uttered of them, or of the manner in which they have conducted their departments.

Some would like to see a new Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, but people generally think better service could not be secured than Chief Williams is giving the city. They note an improvement of late in the permanent force, and less liquor in the fire stations.

It is possible that Mayor Thompson will have the appointment of an entire new board of Assessors this year. The Mayor elect is at present chairman of the board, and will retire; the term of William B. Glover of Ward Six expires, and Charles H. Johnson may resign.

Of the administrative boards but little has been heard, other than that there would be a change in the personel of the Board of Health.

If City Engineer Flood should happen to step into Commissioner Knowlton's shoes it would not be suprising if Ezekiel Sargent, the Chief in the Engineers department, became the City Engineer.

Thus is briefly outlined the stories that one hears on the street corners, but as has already been mentioned Mr. Thompson personally has let drop no word of what he intends to do, and is wisely keeping his own counsel, and letting others do the talking.

THE UNITY CLUB.

American Historians the Subect Last Evening.

The regular meeting of the Unity Club was held in the Wollaston Unitarian vestry, Friday evening, December 9. The attendance was rather below the average, and it was the sentiment of those present that the absent members had missed a great treat.

As has been announced the subject for the evening was American Historians under the direction of Mr. F. W. Plummer of the Woodward institute.

In the absence of President Crocker, Rev. Mr. Pratt presided. After the records of the last meeting had been read by the secretary, Miss Mary Thomas, Mr. Pratt introduced Mr. Plummer who took charge of the evening's program.

The first speaker was Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, who gave a very interesting talk upon the life and works of William Hickling Prescott, the historian.

Mr. C. F. Harper of the High school, read a very entertaining paper upon Francis Parkman, another of our great historians.

Mr. Frank E. Parlin had for his subject John Fiske. He told in a very interesting way something of the life of this truly great man, and gave a brief resume of his most important works.

Each speaker was so thoroughly enthusiastic over his subject, that those listening were impressed with the desire to read and study more of the writings of these great historians.

The music for the evening consisted of a duet by Mrs. Crocker and Mr. Moulton, also a solo by Mrs. Crocker, accompanied by Mrs. Moulton.

A. O H. Officers.

At a largely attended meeting of Division 18, A. O. H., held in French's hall last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President,—Michael T. Walsh.
Vice President, Joseph D. Griffin.
Recording Secretary, — Thomas F. Carey.
Financial Secretary—William J. McDonnell.
Treasurer,—Timothy J. Carey.
Sergeant at Arms,—James Dohertp.
Sentinel,—Henry Corbett.

What It Costs
... AND ...
What It Pays

are two values of newspaper advertising that the merchant has to consider. But the most important thing is

WHAT IT PAYS.

The merchant can get space in papers of small circulation and little influence for a little less money than the same size space would cost in the DAILY LEDGER and the QUINCY PATRIOT.

DOES IT PAY

to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to LEDGER and PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in a cheaper paper?

STAYS IN GOTHAM

Mrs Chadwick Decided Not to Waive Examination

SO ADVISED BY ALBAUGH

Spends a Day In the Tombs In Receiving Visitors and Says She Feels Well Enough to Sleep When Night Comes

New York, Dec. 10.—After a day of disagreement with her counsel as to whether she should waive examination and go to Cleveland, Mrs. Chadwick finally consented to remain another night in the Tombs, but expressed the hope that she might leave there today.

Mrs. Chadwick had made up her mind to ignore the advice of her local counsel, Messrs. Carpenter and Powers, and go to Cleveland to stand trial there, when, late in the afternoon, she received a telegram from her Cleveland counsel, Judge Albaugh, asking her not to return to Cleveland just yet. This telegram caused her to remain over night.

Lawyer Carpenter then notified Marshal Henkel of her intention and the marshal and United States Commissioner Shields announced that they would not remain at their offices after the usual closing hour on her account, as they did Thursday night.

Lawyers Carpenter and Powers had a conference after leaving Mrs. Chadwick. In regard to what would be done today Carpenter was non-committal. "I do not care to say whether we have given up the question of securing bail or not," said Carpenter. "We could have obtained bail today were it not for the notoriety attached to the case."

Mr. Carpenter declined to discuss alleged Carnegie notes, or to say positively whether Mrs. Chadwick would waive examination or not. Neither would he say anything about the report that the alleged securities of Mrs. Chadwick had been examined and found to be worthless.

Mrs. Chadwick spent the greater part of the time from 7 o'clock in the morning until 4 in the afternoon in the corridor in front of her cell. Here she talked with her lawyers and others who called to see her, including her son, Emil, and her nurse, Freda. Most of her visitors remained with her as long as the prison rules would permit.

Mrs. Chadwick was led to her cell to the Tombs prison by an attendant about 4 o'clock. To the matron Mrs. Chadwick said: "I am glad I am not going to Cleveland tonight. I am tired enough to sleep well, I think, even behind these awful bars. It has been an extremely trying day and I am thankful that it is over. I do not care to go through many more such ordeals."

In her cell Mrs. Chadwick ate a hearty supper. She had chopped beef, sprinkled with grated onion, coffee and oranges. The matron said Mrs. Chadwick showed a marked improvement over her condition in the morning. After eating, Mrs. Chadwick lay on her cot and said it was the first peaceful moment she had had since her troubles in New York began.

Prosecution In Massachusetts

Boston, Dec. 10.—Criminal proceedings will probably be instituted against Mrs. Chadwick in this state if the securities held by Iri Reynolds should prove to be worthless. Under the Massachusetts law Mrs. Chadwick could be prosecuted for larceny, obtaining money under false pretences being classified under that term. It was in this city that Newton advanced the money for which he is now suing. It was also here that Reynolds' certificate regarding Mrs. Chadwick's collateral was presented as well as a note bearing the signature "Andrew Carnegie." All of the actual business between Newton and Mrs. Chadwick was conducted in this state.

Ohio Has Jurisdiction

Cleveland, Dec. 10.—After hearing two witnesses in the Chadwick case, the grand jury adjourned yesterday afternoon until Monday morning. The witnesses were L. T. Whitney, a director, and A. B. Spear, cashier of the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin. At the end of the hearing, Prosecutor Keeler said the testimony gave him jurisdiction in the alleged forgery case because the notes were negotiated in this county. The hearing was brief because of the non-arrival of witnesses, the most important of which was C. T. Beckwith, president of the Citizens' National bank, who was unable to be present because of ill-health.

President Roosevelt Criticized

Washington, Dec. 10.—At the final session of the National Civil Service Reform league, President Roosevelt was severely criticised for the exemptions in the service through executive order made by him during the past three years. Nelson S. Spencer made a direct attack on the course pursued by the president, which was loudly applauded by many of the civil service reformers present.

Millionaire Accidentally Shot

Raleigh, Dec. 10.—Mortimer Brooks of New York, while hunting near Pittsboro, was crossing a ditch when his gun struck an obstruction and went off, both barrels entering his left side, probably fatally wounding him. Brooks is a millionaire who visits this section on hunting expeditions.

THE INSANITY PLEA

It May Result in Saving Mrs Rogers From the Gallows

Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 10.—In the house of representatives yesterday afternoon a resolution was passed providing for the appointment of a committee of three to examine the mental and physical condition of Mrs. Mary A. Rogers, under sentence of death for the murder of her husband. The committee will report the result of their examination to Governor Bell.

The bill was sent to the senate after it had been passed in the house. In the upper branch of the legislature, after considerable discussion last until midnight, the bill was killed.

The legislature, adjourned last night and Mrs. Rogers' case, so far as that body is concerned, is ended. There remains now but one step between Mrs. Rogers and the gallows, and that is the power of a stay of sentence, which Governor Bell can exercise if he wishes.

Receivers' Modest Charges

New York, Dec. 10.—That the charges for services rendered by Receivers Taft and Miller and others who have engaged in untangling the affairs of the bankrupt firm of D. J. Sully & Co. are excessive is the opinion of Special Commissioner Coxe, who was appointed to take testimony on the report and accounts of the receivers. The receivers ask for an allowance of $25,000 for their services and Boothy and Baldwin ask for $30,000 for their services as attorneys for the receivers.

Looking For Canal Laborers

Kingston, Ja., Dec. 10.—War Secretary Taft arrived here on the cruiser Columbia and discussed with Governor Swettenham the question of employing Jamaican laborers on the Panama canal. Three thousand laborers are wanted at once. It is understood that Taft guaranteed that the American government would bear the cost of the reparation of Jamaicans laboring on the canal should the necessity to repatriate arise. The other matters discussed were amicably arranged.

Presented Check For Half a Million

New York, Dec. 10.—Edward A. Barnes, a traveling freight agent whose home is in this city, was arrested after he had presented a check for $500,000 at the Citizens' Central bank. The check was drawn payable to himself and was signed "J. B. Pope." The cashier of the bank caused the arrest, but refused to make a complaint because no one of the name of J. B. Pope had an account at the bank. Barnes was sent to Bellevue hospital to be examined as to his sanity.

Flaherty Will Be Chairman

Boston, Dec. 10.—All opposition to his candidacy having been withdrawn, John J. Flaherty of Gloucester, chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic state committee, will probably be elected to the full chairmanship at the annual meeting in January. William A. Gaston of this city, who was the leader of the faction opposed to Flaherty, has consented to the election of Flaherty as chairman.

Explosion Came Unexpectedly

Lockport, N. S., Dec. 10.—Mark Day and Henry McFadden were instantly killed and Ernest Blades probably fatally injured by the premature explosion of a charge of dynamite while at work on railway construction here. The three men were 70 feet distant when the blast went off, but huge pieces of rock and frozen earth struck them.

Longshoremen's Strike Endorsed

Boston, Dec. 10.—Boston Longshoremen's Trades council, comprising all the deep water longshoremen's organizations of the city, with a membership of 2600, last night determined not to handle any cargo from the Merchants and Miners' Steamship company during the present strike of the longshoremen on that line.

College Won't Refuse Gifts

New York, Dec. 10.—"I am always ready to receive Christmas gifts," said President Harper of the Chicago university, when questioned regarding the rumor that he had come to New York to accept a Christmas gift for the university from John D. Rockefeller. "I may say I would be willing to accept a Christmas gift in July."

Investigation Won't Come Off

Washington, Dec. 10.—The house judiciary committee adopted, with a recommendation that it lie on the table, the resolution of Representative Baker (N. Y.), alleging a combination of steel concerns and calling on the attorney general for information as to what steps he has taken looking to prosecutions.

Motive For Murder Established

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 10.—It has developed that when mysteriously murdered in this city Charles Goldstein had in his possession deeds to mining properties which were valued at about $150,000. The deeds are missing. Mr. Goldstein carried them on his person and would not place them in a safety vault.

Confidence In Business World

New York, Dec. 10.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that Wall street's severe reaction was not due to any setback in the commercial world, all measures of legitimate trade showing wholesome progress. Confidence in the future is unshaken.

AN INEFFICIENT FLEET.

Admiral Tchuchin's Report on Russia's Black Sea Ships.

The latest proof of demoralization and utter inefficiency of the Russian navy is contained in a sensational report drawn up by Admiral Tchuchin, commanding the Black sea fleet, with reference to the recent naval maneuvers held under his supervision. The report has caused a painful sensation in official circles at St. Petersburg, says the correspondent of the London Express.

The admiral's verdict pronounced on his own fleet is crushing. He found that Russian naval officers were entirely without love for their profession or interest in their work. Incompetence prevailed throughout the fleet. When maneuvering, ships were unable to maintain their positions. The most appalling muddles occurred.

Sometimes, when the ships of the fleet were supposed to be in close formation, several would be found to be missing altogether, and cruisers had to be detached to search for them. The signals from the flagship were either not understood or purposely disobeyed.

Many officers, says the admiral, were found to be devoid of knowledge of the naval regulations. Admiral Tchuchin mentions several cases in point. The extraordinary lack of discipline was illustrated one night during the maneuvers by the remarkable behavior of torpedo boat No. 273. The fleet was steaming in company when the torpedo boat suddenly turned and disappeared. The wrathful admiral dispatched a cruiser to look for the missing torpedo boat, and after a long search she was found in the harbor of Yalta. The lieutenant in command and his brother officers as well declared simply that they preferred spending the night in port rather than on the open sea.

Two other torpedo boats left the fleet without the admiral's permission and were also found at Yalta. They were tired of executing evolutions at night, and the commanders expressed surprise and indignation when they learned in a somewhat forcible manner that the admiral was distinctly annoyed.

On the fifth day of the maneuvers Admiral Tchuchin signaled to the fleet to perform certain evolutions at a speed not to exceed ten knots. Most of the battleships were unable to keep up even this speed and could not be handled with sufficient dexterity to participate in fleet drill, which proved to be an utter fiasco.

The admiral concludes his report by saying that "if the Black sea fleet ever has the misfortune to face the enemy it will be completely wiped out."

A RAJAH HIS BENEFACTOR.

American Doctor Asked to Enter Native Potentate's Service In India.

Dr. C. A. Fowler of Kittanning, Pa., recently returned from St. Louis mystified still, but covered with presents. He has also promised to remove to India within a year to become private physician to Rajah Tipe Sahib, a dignitary of whose existence Dr. Fowler was in complete ignorance until some days ago when he was confronted with the rajah's courier in St. Louis, says the New York Times.

Eleven years ago, while in Chicago attending the World's fair, Dr. Fowler was instrumental in saving the foot of a young foreigner who had been trampled on by a camel. The lad, who appeared to be a Hindoo, pressed on the physician a medal and took in exchange the physician's card.

Some weeks ago Dr. Fowler received a copy of a western paper in which appeared an advertisement asking him to call at the Indian embassy at St. Louis, bringing with him a medal which had been given him for services at Chicago in 1893 by a young native of India. The doctor hunted up his medal and hurried to St. Louis.

There he received presents from the Rajah Tipe Sahib, who it seems was the lad whose foot he had saved at Chicago. The Hindoo dignitary hoped that the American doctor would accept his poor presents and would come to India to live as his private physician. The presents are worth about $10,000. Dr. Fowler will go to India April 1.

Plague of Rats In Berlin.

The extraordinary number of rats which have shown themselves lately in the Berlin suburb of Grunewald has proved such a nuisance to the inhabitants that the municipal authorities are offering 10 pfennigs for every rat's tail delivered, says the London Standard. In this connection it is interesting to note that the vigorous action of the Danish Society For the Extermination of Rats in Copenhagen is considered by Prussian medical authorities of such importance for the prevention of the spread of infectious diseases that the establishment of an international league for the extermination of rats is under consideration.

Dictations Over Wires.

A Cleveland man has started a business which promises to be a great success. He has hired an office, a large number of expert stenographers and a number of telephones. Business men call up by telephone, dictate their letters over the wire to a stenographer, and the letters are later sent back by messenger boys to be signed.

Cable Across Sahara.

After much deliberation the French government has decided to span the great Sahara from south Algeria to the west coast with an electric cable. The line, which is from In-Salah, via Tidekalt and Tageneut, to Timbuktu, will be about 620 miles in length and will cost $300,000. The work is to be completed in about a year.

MAY SUCCEED COCKRELL.

Thomas K. Niedringhaus of St. Louis, Who Aspires to Seat In Senate.

Thomas K. Niedringhaus of St. Louis, who is said to be slated to succeed Francis Marion Cockrell in the United States senate, is a successful business man and in the recent campaign was chairman of the Republican state committee of Missouri. It is said that he conducted the Republican canvass in that state without any financial assistance from the Republican national committee, and much credit is given to him by Republicans because of the majority the state gave Mr. Roosevelt.

As the election of a Republican legislature means the retirement of Mr. Cockrell, who is a Democrat and who has served the state for nearly thirty years in the senate chamber at Washington, the friends of Mr. Niedringhaus are urging that he is entitled to the honor of an election to Mr. Cockrell's seat.

A JAPANESE CARICATURE.

Queer Drawing by Kuneyoshi, Who Was a Famous Artist.

The Japanese have their cartoonists as well as western nations. Just as Japanese art differs from the art of Europe and America, so the work of Japanese caricaturists varies from the productions of similar artists in the United States and Europe.

The queer drawing reproduced herewith is intended as a caricature and is the work of a famous Japanese caricaturist named Kuneyoshi, who lived in the early part of the nineteenth century. He was counted one of the foremost artists of his class in Japan. The drawing is composed of many human bodies, drawn so as to resemble distantly a human head and hand, and represents a Japanese student.

ELECTRICITY VS. STEAM.

Successful Tests Made of Electric Locomotives For Use In New York.

Much interest has been taken in the plans of the New York Central railroad to substitute electric for steam locomotives in the terminal service of the road. The electrically driven engines will begin their work of drawing trains at a point a short distance out of New York, and one advantage that will accrue from the arrangement will be the abolition of the dangerous smoke and steam nuisance in the tunnel by which trains reach the Grand Central depot.

Tests of the new electric locomotives built for the railroad company at Schenectady, N. Y., were recently made and proved successful in every respect. The most exciting part of the programme was a race between an electric locomotive and three steam engines, in which the former easily won.

ATTITUDE OF SHAW

It Will Result In His Withdrawal From the Cabinet

WANTS TO BE PRESIDENT

Would Be Candidate of "Stand Patters" and Ship Subsidy Men --Does Not Sympathize With Administration on Civil Service

Washington, Dec. 10.—The office of secretary of the treasury in the next cabinet is doubtless the hardest nut which President Roosevelt has to crack. Announcement was early made that Secretary Hay would serve through the next administration. The decision of Moody to remain in the cabinet has also been officially promulgated. The friends of Shaw, particularly the Iowans, are asking why he has not been similarly honored. It is generally believed that he would consent to stay in the cabinet if strongly urged, in spite of his long announced intention to retire on March 4 next.

Secretary Shaw, while recognized as having conducted efficiently an office of tremendous importance, is himself a candidate for the Republican nomination in 1908. Mr. Roosevelt himself, not a candidate for another term, desires the coming years to be an era of reform in the various branches of the departmental service, and he might be embarrassed by the outcropping of a good-sized presidential lightning rod at so important a place in his executive structure. Particularly is this true, since Shaw has little sympathy with two of the ideas with which Roosevelt is closely identified—a liberalizing of the tariff and civil service reform.

The extremist sort of a protectionist, Shaw cannot brook the notion of any concession of the administration to the tariff revision sentiment. This subject with Shaw is a local issue. His great fight in Iowa has been with Governor Cummins and other adherents of the "Iowa idea," which is steadily demanding attention there.

Mr. Shaw has fought this theory with all the oratory and energy at his command, and now to have the administration of which he is a part give it any aid or comfort is intolerable to him. Hence his activities in devising the new drawback regulations, alluded to recently in these dispatches, which will be issued in a few days. Shaw's great object is to do something which will lessen the need of touching the tariff, and as secretary of the treasury his power and influence in such directions, now and in the future, would be very great. He will be the presidential candidate, if at all, of the "stand-patters" and the ship subsidy men. It is obvious that such an influence in the cabinet might not harmonize with the general purposes of the Roosevelt administration, and hence the hesitation over the disposal of this place.

It is also known that Shaw does not wholly sympathize with the attitude of Roosevelt and other members of his cabinet regarding civil service reform. Shaw likes to have the government made a channel for giving help to worthy and impecunious Republicans wherever it can be done. The strict civil service reform element believe that the best charity is to save the everyday taxpayer from the expense of having the government service made an elemosynary institution.

What to do for Iowa complicates the president's problem. He intends to displace Minister Conger of that state, who is now at Pekin, in the belief that, while Conger has made a reasonably good minister, Rockhill would make a much better one for the peculiar tasks of that post. The Iowa senators are strong backers of Conger. The president's great argument with them would naturally be that he had two Iowa men in the cabinet, provided he were to retain them.

A somewhat spirited controversy has also arisen over Secretary Wilson, on the part of many of the academic scientists of the country, who allege that in certain lines he is lending the influence of the United States government to theories which are untenable and likely to get the service into disrepute. Many of these scientists would like to see a new secretary of agriculture, but the farmers are doubtless with Wilson.

The department has grown enormously during his two terms of office, through greatly increased appropriations, and this, with the largest corps of scientists assembled in the world, is constantly making discoveries of a value which cannot be estimated. The glory of these successful things accrues to Wilson. He is besides a vigorous stump speaker, and knows how to shape the work of the department so as to make it highly popular. Doubtless the delay in reaching a decision in the secretaryship of the treasury arises from the need of considering it as a part of this general Iowa situation.

No New Evidence

New York, Dec. 10.—The testimony of the half dozen witnesses who were yesterday examined at the trial of Nan Patterson for the murder of Caesar Young was substantially the same as that given by the same witnesses at the mis-trial.

New Governor General Arrives

Halifax, Dec. 10.—Steamer Parisian, with Earl Grey, Canada's new governor general, aboard, arrived here this morning.

"NO BILL" REPORTED

Two Men Held In Melrose Dynamite Case Are Exonerated

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 10.—The Middlesex grand jury reported "no bill" against Percy C. Hawkins and Roy Fenton, both of Melrose, who were charged with manslaughter by criminal negligence, in connection with the explosion of dynamite at Melrose on Sept. 21, by which nine people were killed and many injured.

Fenton was the driver of the express wagon on which the dynamite was loaded and Hawkins was the superintendent of the company who had charge of the loading in Boston. Fenton was arrested the day after the explosion on the charge of manslaughter and his case was continued several weeks to await the report of Judge Sweetser on the inquest. In his report both men were charged with criminal negligence and on the next day Hawkins was arrested in Boston, and in the Malden court was held for the grand jury with Fenton, whose case was also called.

Wholesale Arrest of Suspects

Baltimore, Dec. 10.—The entire police and detective force of the city, reinforced by private detectives and policemen from the various counties of the state, are busy trying to identify the 25 prisoners who are suspected of being implicated in recent bank robberies in this and neighboring states. The local authorities believe that they have run down a gang which has made Baltimore its headquarters, and think that every one of its members is "wanted" in this or another city.

McVicker Will Fight Zeigler Claim

Chicago, Dec. 10.—Dr. L. G. H. E. Zeigler, who was physician to the late Harriet G. McVicker, who died in Pasadena, Cal., last summer, has filed a claim in the probate court against the McVicker estate for $126,650. The claim is certain to meet with resistance at the hands of Horace McVicker, stepson of the deceased woman. The principal item in the claim is for $100,000 which Zeigler says is due him by the terms of a written contract executed by Mrs. McVicker in 1899.

Testimony Not Credited

Chicago, Dec. 10.—I. N. Perry, the former bank president who was accused of setting fire to the American Locomotive works' plant to obtain the insurance, was discharged after a long hearing. The principal witnesses against Perry were his former employes. Justice Foster said: "The evidence shows that they had been conspiring against him and his business for months. The testimony of witnesses like these cannot be given credence."

Second Attempt at Suicide

New York, Dec. 10.—Unsuccessful in his attempt to kill himself by taking laudanum last Wednesday morning, James Smith of New Haven swallowed a second portion of poison yesterday afternoon. He is now in a hospital and the doctors despair of reviving him. A letter, apparently written by a young woman, was found in Smith's pocket. The writer informed him that she could not meet him as arranged and asked him to cease his visits to her.

Suspected of Forgery

Meriden, Dec. 10.—Francis H. Belcher, who is suspected of being a partner of Burton L. Ingalls, the alleged check forger recently bound over to the superior court in Hartford, pleaded not guilty in the city court, but after a trial was bound over to the superior court on the charges of forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses. He was fined $25 and costs on the charge of defrauding a hotel keeper.

Again In the Toils

New York, Dec. 10.—Although it was supposed that he had been killed in a train wreck several months ago, Grover L. Collins, an alleged "green goods man," was arrested in this city last evening. He was arrested last February at Linden, N. J., and placed under $2500 bail, which he forfeited. He was arrested in Canada last summer, but escaped from jail.

A Cure For Spotted Fever

Hartford, Dec. 10.—A solution of the method of treating spotted fever cases, which, should it prove to be successful, will be a great aid to the medical profession, is announced by Dr. Arthur J. Wood, bacteriologist of the Hartford board of health. Dr. Wolff believes that the anti-toxin of spotted fever is found in the diphtheria germ.

Glidden's Great Auto Tour

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 10.—Charles J. Glidden of Boston, who is on a tour of the world in an automobile, is a passenger on the steamer Moana, for Honolulu, the Fiji islands, New Zealand, Tasmania and Australia. Thence he will go to Japan and return to Europe via Singapore.

A Retrenchment Sentiment

Washington, Dec. 10.—The house passed the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill practically as it came from committee. Throughout the session the policy of retrenchment held full sway and all attempts to increase salaries failed.

WAGNER'S EARLY DAYS

Influences That Led Author of "The Simple Life" to Write.

RICH IN THE LOVE FOR NATURE.

Parisian Author Tells How He Worshiped the Moon and Found a Key to the New Life—Says There Is True Simplicity In the United States—Its Value to Children.

Before an audience that occupied every bit of room in St. Paul's church at Atlantic City Thanksgiving morning Rev. Charles Wagner of Paris, author of "The Simple Life," for the first time since he has been in the United States told his hearers of his early life and training and how he came to write the book, says the New York Tribune. John Wanamaker of Philadelphia had charge of the Thanksgiving day services, and he introduced Mr. Wagner.

In the course of his address Mr. Wagner said:

"...s I look toward my childhood days I look toward a time that was full of riches and joy—yes, even though I was a poor son of a village pastor—but I was a king in those days, for my being craved the beauties of nature, and I had them all about me. I was rich in the love for nature. My father said to me, 'Boy, go, look and listen.' I was free.

"Ah, soon I was among the flowers, the birds and the fishes, and, as I had a religious heart, the whole universe was to me a great sanctuary. I even worshiped the moon. The entire glory of the stars and the moon shedding their bright light from above filled me with a great feeling of reverence, and one night when I was alone in the open air, with the bright moon above me, I sank down on the ground and worshiped the moon.

"My father, I am sure to this day, saw me from behind the curtains, but he did not correct me. He let me alone, for he knew that the father who spoke to the lad by the stars and the moon would soon, or when he was able to understand the great teachings, speak to him in the higher, truer language. My father made me rich in my youth, and I shall always be a boy, looking at the glory and beauty in the stars and the moon, and I would not give up all of this for all the wealth of the world.

"If you have children, let them be children. Don't make them kneel down in houses built by men, but let them go out in the open in God's church, where love and religion come from. In these days it's not the big chest and the fine face or figure that make the man. It's the character. When I was a young man I lived among fighters for religion. They fought not with the open heart, but with the closed fist—a regular boxing religion.

"It was not long before I decided to preach, to start out and tell others what had been taught me. But I was a lone preacher for a time. I was the preacher in the wilderness, and then my congregations grew larger and larger, and finally some one told me that others who were not within the sound of my voice should hear the doctrine of the 'simple life,' and I started to write books. When these books became friends of the people of other countries I cried aloud, looking toward the heavens above, 'Oh, my dear father, if you can but hear the sound of your son's voice today as he gives you thanks!'

"Oh, if you within sound of my voice have children, teach them the simple life. What I have seen of this country I find that beneath its greatness and goodness there is the true simplicity. The other day your president of the United States welcomed me and took me by the hand. Though he is at the head of the greatest people in the world, and though he is one of the most intelligent men I have ever met, with a strong will and force of character, I found him so broad and tender with the love of his family and the people of this country that I understood at once his powerful and grand simplicity. It is his aim at all times to be true to self and character.

"If your children are taught simplicity they will never be swindled with exterior vanity, but will understand the higher simplicity in after years and become the greatest men and women in the country. Teach your boys to look toward the Man on the Cross, whose sweet simplicity we all so well understand. Fill your hearts with love—love for the flowers, the birds, the busy bees, the trees and the beauties of nature, in every one of which God speaks to us who so little heed this teaching.

"When the 'simple life' is understood in America and simplicity has been grasped in its true sense, then will the nation continue to grow even greater and better."

Canned Gown of an Actress.

Mme. Rejane, the noted French actress, who arrived in New York recently from France, brought with her a novel idea that may appeal to society women who spend fortunes for gowns, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. Rejane has one gown that she carries about with her sealed up like a can of tomatoes. She carries the garment in a leaden cask. The gown is a wad of silver cloth and is of such texture that if exposed to salt sea air it would blacken. Mme. Rejane before leaving France had a thick lead lining made for one of her trunks. The silver cloth gown was placed in this, and then the lining was soldered up just like canned goods. That was to keep the air out and preserve the silver shimmer of the gown.

CHURCH DECORATIONS.

How the Best Effects Can Be Secured With Christmas Greens.

Palms and other potted plants are usually used in the Christmas decoration of the church, but a much finer effect can be secured by grouping these at points away from the altar and decorating that with vines or evergreens, says a writer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. If holly is procurable it can be massed about the altar and arranged along the chancel rail in a carelessly artistic way and be made much more effective than any potted plants, as the latter always have a more or less formal air about them in spite of all efforts to avoid it. If you have tall palms place them in the background.

If both holly and evergreens and flowering plants are used do not combine them, but keep the flowers to one side. The two do not harmonize. One "kills" the other, to make use of the term which artists use to express inharmonious combinations of colors. In this case it is not so much a clash of color as it is of individuality. Holly berries and leaves require nothing in the shape of flowers to bring out their beauty, but show to the best advantage by themselves or when used with evergreens. In wreathing the chancel rails fasten the sprays to a rope or cord with fine wire or string, and do not attempt any regularity in size or shape of festoons when you come to put the wreathing in place. Aim to produce an unstudied effect.

A charming effect is produced by sprinkling the leaves of holly or evergreen with mucilage and sifting powdered mica over. This will glisten in the evening like frost. If the supply of holly berries is limited crystallized grasses can be worked in effectively. There are varieties of shrubs growing in swampy places which bear scarlet fruit for the holly. If holly leaves are not procurable go to the florist or some person having a private greenhouse or conservatory and borrow an old plant of English ivy. Throw the vines over the altar, letting the ends of the branches trail on the floor at sides and front.

Among the dark green foliage, which should be washed before using to bring out its glossy beauty, fasten the berries gathered in the swamp, and use grasses among them if you choose. Some of the berries can be dipped in mucilage and dusted with mica and combined with the scarlet clusters. The frosty white and glowing scarlet harmonize well and contrast strongly and heighten the effect of each other.

The delicate mosses that are found in pine forests can be made effective in church decorations provided they are properly prepared. Wound on cord or wire in such a way that the lengths are not too thick and heavy, there is nothing more suitable for festoon effects.

How to Arrange the Christmas Menu.

It is possible to preserve all or most of the Christmas traditions without serving a prostrating menu. Avoid having too many things to eat with the turkey or the roast pig. Certain vegetables belong to each, but there is no use in having them all. Have only one heavy dessert, plum pudding or mince pie, with the ice cream. Have a light salad course and a light soup, leaving room for the substantials without danger of indigestion.

How to Give a Novel Dance.

Some merry girls gave an entertainment last Christmas which was unique. The invitations were for "a Christmas dance," and all were asked to come in costumes representing fruits and vegetables. The rooms were decorated as for a barn dance, the mantels and corners banked with celery, cranberries, holly and bunches of yellow maize made from crape paper. When the guests arrived the rooms looked like an animated kitchen garden, says the Ladies' Home Journal. One girl was lovely in pale green cheesecloth abundantly trimmed with celery leaves. Another was a veritable Ceres in corn color and masses of wheat and poppies. The men wore enormous boutonnieres of celery tops, carrots and parsley. Their grotesque appearance seemed to inspire a certain humorous contagion to their spirits, and the affair was universally conceded to have been a great success.

How to Make Plum Pudding Sauce.

A sauce without brandy is made as follows: One tablespoonful of cornstarch, one tablespoonful of butter, one pint of boiling water, one egg, one-half cup of sugar. Put cornstarch, egg and sugar in a bowl and mix them well. Pour over them the boiling water and stir over the fire until thick. Add any flavoring.

How to Play "Snapdragon."

"Snapdragon" is a Christmas game handed down from time immemorial. A broad, shallow bowl has a quantity of raisins in the bottom, and over these alcohol or brandy is poured and ignited. The dish is then passed, everybody in turn trying to take a raisin from the flames. It requires rapidity of movement and a certain amount of courage to perform this feat, the entire company meanwhile singing the antient song:

Here he comes with flowing bowl;
Don't he mean to take his toll?
Snip! Snap! Dragon!
Take care you do not take too much,
Be you greedy in your clutch.
Snip! Snap! Dragon!

How to Make Mutton Tallow.

For family use buy the fat nearest the kidneys, cut it up in inch squares, put it in the oven in a spider or baking tin and let it cook till the clear fat separates from the scraps. Then strain it off into a dish to cool. Beef tallow is made the same way and is a sure remedy for ingrowing nails.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

There is man in Iowa who is credited with having added $30,000,000 to the wealth of that state during the past year—Prof. Holden, of the Iowa Agricultural College. He traveled thousands of miles all over the state, lecturing to farmers and showing them how to increase their corn crop from 27 bushels to the acre to 40 bushels. And the harvest justifies his claim. The farmers listened to him gladly, and have added 100,000,000 bushels to the customary yield of the state. All this was done by selecting the best seed, and following scientific methods of tillage.

At last the Pension roll of the United States exceeds one million of persons, the number now being 1,000,781. It is thought the maximum has been reached There has been a corresponding increase in the payments, but it is given out that the expenses of running the bureau are to be curtailed, and that in the near future some five hundred clerks may be dispensed with. Many of them are receiving larger salaries than they could earn if left to their own resources, and reductions are proposed. This has already taken place in the fees of examining surgeons. As speaker Cannon says, one way to make both ends meet is to practice economy. Other people have to do this, and Government employes are not exempt from the common lot of humanity.

The Pond Home.

The Massachusetts State convention of King's Daughters met in Boston, Nov. 29th and 30th, with 215 delegates present. The State Secretary, Mrs. E. Trask Hill, ably presided and the presence of Mrs. Margaret Botiome and Miss Libby from the central council added much to the occasion. Many different lines of work were presented, among others Norfolk County's special work of supporting a Home for its worthy, aged poor. And it was suggested that Mrs. Hill be made a life member of the corporation by the circles raising $100, which sum would be added to the endowment fund for the Home. Any wishing to contribute toward that fund please send to Mrs. Mary E. Mason, Hyde Park, Mass.

Mrs. Wilson's Book.

A new publication from the press of Henry Holt & Co., New York, the many Quincy friends of Rev. D. M. Wilson and his gifted wife, its author, will be glad to greet at this holiday season. "Pedagogues and Parents" is full from cover to cover of its 300 pages of wisdom to teachers and mothers. And not the least of the book's attractions is the very dainty package in which all this wisdom is served—drab binding, with cherubs peeping with head and toes above and below huge manuscript volumes. Wilson Marsh is in receipt of a limited supply of the books.

ADVISE FOR MAYOR.

Some Suggestions That Are Not So Bad Either.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The new Mayor will doubtless have, during the next few weeks, plenty of gratuitous advice as to public matters, for there isn't a man among us, but feels quite competent to assume the duties of Mayor at a moment's notice. Each candidate for the office this year has made a strong political wire of City Hall officials or assistants, and either by insinuation or plain unvarnished statement, the municipal waste-basket has repeatedly been filled with promised heads. The bottom layer being Commissioner Knowlton's and Tax Collector Cleaves' and so on to the lesser lights running over the top.

There is an old Irish saying with a good deal of pith to it which reads "It is better to deal with the devil you know than the devil you don't know." When changes seem necessary, this is a good thing to remember. An old man like myself, satisfied to take his pipe and glass (of lemonade) outside City Hall, and pretty near through with giving advice, is still too interested to quite keep silence, yet not satisfied to let his candle go out, without one more freshening of the wick, and taking the pen in hand.

I have been lying low and watching out for a good while, and am convinced there is one office in City Hall that belongs by nature and experience to a woman, and that is the office of Overseer of the Poor. I will venture to predict that a good third would be saved out of the annual appropriation each year if handled by a woman of experience. In visiting the poor, the housekeeping instinct, the (birthright of every woman,) would immediately find out the absolute needs, as well as the wilful waste in each house visited. She would learn how many hangers on in each family were asking assistance and act accordingly.

Her woman's wit and nose would know in five seconds just which board to lift up in the kitchen floor where the "draps" are kept which cheer and inebriate. Her perception of the power of small things in connection with the city's charity would strike off the official brand put on every family helped.

There would be no more suffering in Quincy by hard worked women and little children, whose dead father had paid his tax and polled his honest vote during life as a faithful laboring citizen. No more suffering by that man's widow and children because they could not have the help their due from the city without having the fact published in large letters by the wagon at their door, and being taunted and sneered at by ignorant and heartless neighbors, old and young.

Our foreigners bring their class distinctions with them across the water, and a little hut of their own over here, and a hundred dollars in the bank, makes them as lords and ladies to those less fortunate, and prosperity affects these newcomers among us, as alas, some of America's older residents, making them

"Haugh'ty, being great Purse proud, being rich."

Everything in this world goes by comparison. The city that leaves food and fuel with its needy families, has no right to publicly pauperize these families.

I repeat, an able woman could fill the office of Overseeer of the Poor with economy and discrimination and without dishonor to the people assisted, whose troubles are often temporary, and should not be unnecessarily perpetuated.

While my candle holds out to burn, let me say also, if I were to be Mayor of Quincy next year, I would watch carefully that my name should not go down to posterity as the Mayor who permitted hay-scales to be placed in the public square, where stands a stone fountain of unusual grace and beauty, under the shadow of a church and town hall and business block, modeled after some of the finest buildings in Europe.

When Quincy gets over being penny wise and pound foolish, and is less a village and more a city, it will cease to have its hobble-de-hay corners, and makeshift-buildings. I shall not probably live to see it, but the old Hancock House and its brood will disappear in time, and a block be built worthy of the name of the citizen who now owns the property, and to whom Quincy owes so much.

I do not expect to see it, but Quincy will some day have a railroad station far different from the whittled-out-Jap-a-lac, hodge-podge, architectural conglomeration now standing — standing because nobody dared squeal when pinched.

One thing more—if I were Mayor this winter in Quincy, I would recognize the fact that boys and snow and sleds and hills make a combination conquered only by a wise surrender. I would choose a place in every ward, put a blue-coat on guard who was a boy once himself, tell the youngsters to slide while they can, and the boy who collides with the lamp-post, or another boy better be ashamed of himself. Boys who can steer, sail a boat, swim, tackle, and drive a horse, have the stuff to make a Mayor. John Smith.

Postmaster Hammond is in Washington in the interest of the proposed federal building for Quincy.

Officer James W. Murray has returned from Maine where he was called by the fatal illness of his mother.

Do not fail to visit Madam Bertha Mabella, the palmist, at the Bazar of the Nations. She is skilled in her art.

The King's daughters acknowledge the receipt of a dollar toward their Christmas fund, from the W. P. S. A's of Wollaston.

All who saw "Sunbonnets" will want to be sure not to miss seeing, "The Blossom Bouquet," on Monday evening It is full of mirth and merriment and will ensure a good time to all.

Storm signals were displayed this morning and the predictions are for a snow storm. It seems rather cold for snow although a light fall commenced about 11 o'clock this morning.

At Odd Fellows' hall, Wollaston, Thursday night, the Red Men held another of their enjoyable whist parties—the first of a series of three to be given in December. Souvenirs were given to: Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. Mary Thomas, Mrs. George Craig, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. L. W. Taylor, and Miss Bessie Smith; B. B. Taylor, Murray McLeod, Edwin Henry, George Esson, J. G. Roberts and E. H. Sears.

Miss E. B. Collins has just met with a sad bereavement in the death of her brother Capt. J. W. Collins, Fish and Game Commissioner of Boston, who passed away on Friday at his home in Brighton of plura pneumonia. Capt. Collins was formerly of W. S. Fish Commission at Washington, D. C. The burial will be at Gloucester on Monday. Miss Collins' millinery store will be closed during the services.

Revival Meetings.

The revival meeting at the United Presbyterian church under the direction of the pastor assisted by the Rev. Shaw was very solemn and impressive last night resulting in seven accepting Christ as a Saviour.

The singing of "Wash me and I shall be whiter than snow," was very inspiring. The solo by Mrs. Shaw was greatly appreciated.

Rev. Shaws text of the "Rich Man and Lazarus" was well handled and produced a powerful effect.

Forty remained for the after meeting. Meetings will continued next week.

Miss Abigail Thayer.

At the Old Ladies' Home, Common street, Boston, Sunday Dec. 4, Miss Abigail Thayer passed away in her one hundredth year.

Miss Thayer's father was Eliphaz Thayer, a revolutionary soldier, and her mother was Deliverance Thayer, the marriage being a union of two Thayer families. Miss Thayer was the youngest of ten children. She was born in Braintree, on Liberty street, or "Long lane" as it was then known, and the house is still standing. Her father at one time was a deacon in the Union church of Weymouth and Braintree. She joined the church in 1828.

This church was destroyed by fire in 1897, and from some of the wood saved at the time a frame has been made for the certificate of Miss Thayer showing her to be a "daughter of the revolution." The certificate now hangs in the home in which she was an inmate. She also possessed a gold pin showing her to be an honorary member of the Massachusetts society D. R.

The funeral service was held at the "Home" Dec. 6, at 10 A. M. Interment in the family lot in Weymouth, Mass.

AN ACTIVE CHURCH.

First Presbyterian Society Raised $2,400 for Improvements.

A most successful bazaar was held at the First Presbyterian church on the afternoons and evenings of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The work was taken up on a large scale and surpassed anything ever held before by this church. Although undertaken and conducted by the Ladies' Aid Society, the other organizations, members and friends of the church each took an active interest in the work. The lecture room was most beautifully and tastefully decorated, and the different tables; ice cream, grocery, childrens, fancy work, home made cake and preserves, children's garments, kitchen articles, and the candy counter, arranged in an artistic and attractive manner; were all well equiped with willing and busy attendants.

On both Tuesday and Wednesday evenings the ladies served supper. The staunch friend of the churches, Mr. Henry H. Faxon visited the bazaar on Wednesday evening and delighted all by his usual generosity. Great encouragement was given to all who had participated when it was found that the proceeds netted seven hundred and fifty dollars.

Altogether this church has had a very active and progressive year. Since the coming of Mr. Sproul many new lines of work have been taken up and the presence and activity of the goodly number of young people in all departments of the church promises well for the future.

Since March first there have been one hundred and thirty new members received into the church. The Christian Endeavor society which has greatly increased in attendance and membership recently purchased a piano. The Ladies' Aid society have recarpeted and placed a handsome new pulpit set in the church. The membership of the Sunday school and Bible classes has grown to three hundred and fifty, and the attendance at church is from two hundred and fifty to two hundred and seventy. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Sproul, some ten months ago organized a children's prayer meeting, and the half hour spent in Bible study under his able direction is both profitable to and enjoyed by the children who usually number from fifty to one hundred.

A short time ago the congregation voted to remodel and build to the manse which is being successfully carried on at a cost of $3,400, and the new building will be ready for occupancy by January 1.

Altogether the congregation in the past six months have raised $2,400 for improvements over and above paying regular expenses.

Great credit is due the paster, Rev. Mr. Sproul, and the congregation is showing their appreciation of his persistent and untiring efforts by their increased attendance and activity. Both congregation and pastor are to be congratulated.

—Henry L. Kincaide & Co. have one of the most attractive stores in the county. It is full from top to bottom with just the things suitable for Christmas gifts and it is well for purchasers not to delay until the cream of the collection has been sold. What is more acceptable than a fine piece of furniture?

OUR POST OFFICE NEEDS.

Congressman McNary and Postmaster Hammond Urge Them at Washington.

POSTMASTER HAMMOND.

Congressman McNary, true to his promise, is making a determined effort to get an appropriation for a federal building in Quincy.

A dispatch from Washington says that Congressman McNary appeared before the Congressional committee on Public buildings yesterday with a detailed statement in regard to a public building for post office purposes in Quincy. Postmaster Hammond was also present and was presented to the members of the committee by Mr. McNary.

Both gentlemen spoke at length upon the vast increase in business at the Quincy office during the past few years and urged the claims of this city for a public building. Their report with the petition of Quincy citizens, which was filed with the committee, is reported to have made a favorable impression on the committee, many of whom assured them that the bill should have their support.

The committee has decided to report a small omnibus building bill—about $8,000,000 or $10,000,000. The dispatch states, however, that it will be difficult to keep the total down to the latter sum.

Yesterday morning Congressman McNary also had a conference with Postmaster General Wynne and Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, relative to the appointment of an additional carrier at the Quincy postoffice, and to the consolidation of the Braintree offices with the Quincy postoffice under free delivery.

These matters have been promised a speedy consideration, at the postoffice department, and in all probability will be brought to a successful issue at an early date.

The Provincial Club.

Dr. R. MacLennan of South Quincy delivered a lecture before the Provincial Club, Friday evening at Doble's hall on the subject of "Diseases." He divided diseases into two classes, the organic diseases and contagious diseases, showing by interesting illustrations the difference between the two kinds, and explaining the action of some of the remedies used. John McKnight, John D. Mackay, Frank Tinney, M. A. Cambell and others also spoke. After next week the meetings of the club will be held bi-weekly.

An opportunity for the public to learn what "Christian Science really is," will be offered next Tuesday evening, Dec. 13, when Bliss Knapp of Boston, a member of the Christian Science board of lectureship, will speak at the Town Hall, Braintree. It will be a free lecture, and a general invitation is extended to the public of Quincy as well as Braintree.

The Christmas Dinner.

In spite of the fact that the word dyspepsia means literally bad cook, it will not be fair for many to lay the blame on the cook if they begin the Christmas Dinner with little appetite and end it with distress or nausea. It may not be fair for any to do that—let us hope so for the sake of the cook! The disease dyspepsia indicates a bad stomach, that is a weak stomach, rather than a bad cook, and for a weak stomach there is nothing else equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It gives the stomach vigor and tone, cures dyspepsia, creates appetite, and makes eating the pleasure it should be.

A GENTLE REPULSE.

The Easy Way Lincoln Once Got Rid of an Office Seeker.

"There was an ignorant man," said a senator, "who once applied to Lincoln for the post of doorkeeper to the house. This man had no right to ask Lincoln for anything. It was necessary to repulse him. But Lincoln repulsed him gently and whimsically without hurting his feelings in this way:

"'So you want to be doorkeeper to the house, eh?'

"'Yes, Mr. President.'

"'Well, have you ever been a doorkeeper? Have you ever had any experience of doorkeeping?'

"'Well, no—no actual experience, sir.'

"'Any theoretical experience? Any instructions in the duties and ethics of doorkeeping?'

"'Umh—no.'

"'Have you ever attended lectures on doorkeeping?'

"'No, sir.'

"'Have you read any text book on the subject?'

"'No.'

"'Have you conversed with any one who has read such a book?'

"'No, sir. I'm afraid not, sir.'

"'Well, then, my friend, don't you see that you haven't a single qualification for this important post?' said Lincoln in a reproachful tone.

"'Yes, I do,' said the applicant, and he took leave humbly, almost gratefully."—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE EARTH'S MOTION.

Why We Do Not Feel the World's Rapid Flight Through Space.

We have no direct sensation of the earth's motion because of its absolute smoothness and freedom from all jar or vibration, and, as everything—land, sea and air—is carried along at the same rate as ourselves, there is nothing to afford us any evidence that we are moving at all until we make reference to something altogether detached from the earth—as sun, moon or stars—and even then, until reasoning and mathematical calculation are brought to bear, it is these bodies and not ourselves which seem to move.

Gliding in a boat down a smooth river it is often impossible to perceive that we are moving except by reference to objects on the banks, and even then it is difficult to resist the impression that they are in motion while we are at rest.

The mere detail of speed does not affect the question, and, although the earth is rushing trough space at the rate of eighteen miles a second, the motion, infinitely smoother than that of a boat on placid water, is absolutely imperceptible.

TO GET THE "SACK."

Its Equivalent In Olden Times Was to Get the "Canvas."

Canvas, called by Chaucer canevas, is a closely woven heavy cloth of hemp or flax, used for any purpose for which strength and durability are required, such as sailcloth or fabrics used for oil paintings, tapestry or embroidery. Its name is derived from the Latin cannabis, hemp, the material from which it is manufactured.

"To give one the canvas," or "to receive the canvas," was the old phrase equivalent to the modern "to give one the sack," or "to get the sack," in allusion to the canvas tool bags carried by mechanics of that day.

In such a phrase as "to canvass the neighborhood," the word canvass, in which the "s" is doubled, comes from the French canabasser, to sift as through canvas, and literally means to sift the neighborhood, to solicit votes or interest, by separating supporters from opponents.

Our Misnamed Quail.

America's typical game bird, the quail, is not named correctly at all, according to the government ornithologist. He says that the real quail is the quail of the Bible and that this is a bird belonging exclusively to the old world. The true quail does not occur in America at all. In many parts of this country the American bird is known as partridge, but the American partridge is really the ruffed grouse, and the true partridge again is another old world bird and not American. He thinks that the name given to it in many localities, "bobwhite," is as good as any. The name comes from the cry of the bird, which is something like "bobwhite, bobwhite, bobwhite."

Forests of Europe.

The percentage of the wooded areas of European countries as compared with their total areas is as follows: Finland, 51.2; Sweden, 49.3; Russia, 40.4; Austria, 32.6; Luxemburg, 29.1; Hungary, 27.7; Germany, 26.1; Servia, 24.9; Turkey, 23.4; Norway, 22; Roumania and Switzerland, 21.4 each; Bulgaria, 20.8. The other European countries have less than 20 per cent of woodland.

MODES FOR WEE FOLKS.

Brown a Favorite Color For Girls. Boys Will Wear Green.

The latest fashion in millinery for wee girls is the large white felt or colored beaver hat trimmed with clusters of velvet or silk roses. These roses match the color of the little silk pelisse or coat. This particular trimming fashion possesses a definite advantage, the roses being much easier to match than the headgear itself, while a single hat can be made by a change of flowers to do duty with two or three toilets.

Brown is much worn by the nursery folk, and smart little long, loose coats of onion color have shoulder capes of white cloth elaborately braided with black. The deep turned back cuffs are carried out in the same manner. The coat is lined with a soft white peau de sole or taffeta silk.

Little boys' brown hats are frequently trimmed with wide tartan ribbon. Leather is very much used on the small boy's costume, and a Russian blouse suit of hunter's green piped with tan suede is one of the season's favorite designs.

The little frock illustrated is for a girl of twelve years. It is carried out in a rather good sized checked material of a pale clear tan color. The skirt is very original, made up in alternate panels of box plaits with a contrasting one fashioned from a flounce of side plaits bordered and banded with stitched cloth. The waist is laid in three deep plaits running from neck to shoulder and blouses over a brown kid belt fastened with a dull gold buckle. Bullet buttons of gold fasten the waist up the center and meet a tiny chemisette and turned back collar of stitched brown cloth.

The sleeves have a deep cuff of the check and a small divided turned back one of brown cloth. The neckband is of folded white mull.

HORRORS OF WAR

Hunger Plays an Important Part at Port Arthur

JAPAN GAINS MAIN POINT

Will Have Opportunity to Cease Desperate Assaults Because of Destruction of Russian Vessels --Togo Confident That He Can Destroy Baltic Fleet

Tokio, Dec. 10.—The scenes of horror following the fighting of the past two weeks baffle description. Dead bodies have been piled in heaps in many places, and the dead have not only been left unburied, but the wounded have in many cases been left to die among the corpses.

The Japanese can now settle down and let hunger do the fighting for them. With the destruction of the Russian vessels in the harbor the main point in the campaign against the fortress has been gained.

The great danger was that the fleet would be saved until the Baltic fleet arrived, when Togo would have to fight two fleets, one behind him and one in front. To get at the Port Arthur fleet the Japanese have been ready to sacrifice thousands of men and now they can settle down and starve out the garrison.

It is known that food is so short even now that starvation stares the defenders in the face. Sickness and disease are also rife, and under these circumstances there will be no need of any more desperate assaults on the forts. Admiral Togo can now calmly await the arrival of the Baltic fleet, confident that he can easily destroy it.

Considerable astonishment is expressed here over the fact that the Russians in no way resisted the disabling of the Port Arthur fleet. In certain quarters the opinion is entertained that the Russians opened the seacocks of the vessels so as to lessen their exposure to the Japanese fire.

The recent cessation of mine clearing was taken as evidence that the fleet did not intend to make a sortie. There was no sign of life on the Russian ships during the bombardment, and from this fact it is concluded that the bluejackets took refuge on land or that they are engaged in the land defenses.

With the Russian second Pacific squadron approaching, those in Tokio cannot comprehend the failure of the Russians to die hard and to inflict all possible damage on the Japanese fleet, even at the cost of weakening the effective garrison.

Russian Admiralty Hears the News

St. Petersburg, Dec. 10.—Reports of the destruction of the remainder of the Port Arthur squadron are in the hands of the admiralty, where they are considered as sounding the knell of the Port Arthur fleet. The only regret expressed is that they did not go out for a final fight or sink in deep water, where they would be beyond hope of salvage.

Will Not Interfere In War

London, Dec. 10.—In response to the appeal of the International Arbitration and Peace association, Foreign Minister Lansdowne repeats that the government is not aware of any circumstances that would justify them in modifying their previous decision not to interfere in the Russo-Japanese war.

Czar's Present to Britishers

London, Dec. 10.—In recognition of the assistance rendered by the British cruiser Talbot to the crews of the Russian cruiser Variag and gunboat Korietz after the battle of Chemulpo, the czar has presented a silver bowl and ladle to the ward room officers of the Talbot and $2500 to the Prince of Wales, as president of the royal naval fund.

Back Sea Fleet Laid Up

London, Dec. 10.—It is learned in official quarters that an investigation induced by the renewed suggestions of sending out the Russian Black sea fleet showed that most of the ships of that squadron are dismantled and laid up.

Italian Riot Over Religion

Florence, Dec. 10.—Socialists and anarchists made a demonstration here against the festivities occurring in connection with the celebration of the jubilee of the Immeculate Conception. The rioters attacked and attempted to destroy several shrines and votive offerings. A procession of seminarists happening to pass while the demonstration was in progress, was brutally attacked.

Old Fortune Teller Dead

Glens Falls, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Mrs. Amelia VanAiken, one of the quaint characters of the Lake George region, who for 30 years had told fortunes in her little cabin near Kattskill Bay, where she lived, surrounded by only her cats and dogs, is dead. Her cabin was a mecca for tourists and summer sojourners.

Probably Went Down at Sea

Boston, Dec. 10.—Schooner William Churchill, which sailed from here Nov. 7 for Wilmington, N. C., has not yet arrived at her destination, and it is feared that the vessel has been lost. The Churchill is now about three weeks overdue. Captain Jossen had a crew of eight men.

A SCORE INJURED

Engine Struck Trolley Car on a Boston and Maine Crossing

Portland, Me., Dec. 10.—An electric car was wrecked shortly before midnight last night at the Boston and Maine crossing at Woodfords. The car was filled with young people returning from a dance, and about a score were painfully hurt.

The motorman had stopped before reaching the crossing, according to regulations, and no train being in sight, the trip was resumed. Hidden around a curve, however, was an approaching shifting engine and a caboose, and they reached the crossing just as the trolley was fairly on the tracks. The impact was severe, the electric car being thrown quite a distance into the street and demolished.

It is remarkable that at least several of the passengers were not killed outright. All the injured are expected to recover. The locomotive and caboose were derailed, but none of the train crew was hurt.

Deliberately Slid Off Wharf

Bath, Me., Dec. 10.—That Miss Lilla S. Keene of Milton, Mass., who disappeared Thursday afternoon, was responsible for her own death seems to be confirmed by a sailmaker whose loft is on the wharf on which were found prints of a woman's shoes leading to the edge. The sailmaker saw a young woman walk down the wharf at dusk and look along the edge, apparently for a boat. Then she sat down and slid off the wharf as if going into a boat. He thought nothing more of the matter until his attention was called to the reports that Miss Keene was missing.

Miss Spencer's Death Accidental

Providence, Dec. 10.—William A. McGonagle, who was arrested by the police by order of Medical Examiner Pogran, on suspicion of assaulting Miss Elizabeth Spencer and causing the injuries which resulted in her death, was released from custody by order of Coroner Lincoln last night. The police are inclined to believe that the woman sustained her injuries by falling in the street and thus bringing about a cerebral hemorrhage, which was the immediate cause of death.

Probably Fatally Burned

Pittsfield, Mass., Dec. 10.—Rollin A. Cooke, 70 years of age, one of the best known men in western Massachusetts, was burned so badly at his home in this city last night that it is believed he will not survive the day. Mr. Cooke was reading in his room when a lamp exploded, igniting his clothing. He made desperate efforts to extinguish the flames which enveloped his body, but did not succeed until he had been so badly burned that his recovery is very doubtful.

May Have Jewelry Thieves

Boston, Dec. 10.—William A. Shea, James Cahill, Charles Leonard and his brother, William Leonard, were arrested last night in a Dover street lodging house on suspicion of being implicated in the larceny of sample cases containing $10,000 worth of jewelry at the South Terminal station on Nov. 22. The police announced that a small quantity of jewelry had been found on the men, but it has not yet been identified by the owner of the stolen sample cases.

Heavy Verdict Against Railway

Providence, Dec. 10.—Mrs. Julia A. Vester, in her suit against a local street railway company for injuries received while riding in a trolley car, sued for $50,000 and was given $21,000. Mrs. Vester claims she was about to alight from the car when another car crashed into it, knocking her against a seat and throwing her forcibly to the car floor. She claims to have been seriously injured internally.

Charged With Shoplifting

Boston, Dec. 10.—Sarah Stearns, 53 years old, of Portland, Me., was arrested in a department store at the instance of a store detective, who claimed she had followed the woman through three department stores and had seen her steal small goods in all of them. The woman had a lot of inexpensive goods on her person when she was searched prior to being locked up.

Miraculous Escape From Death

North Grosvenordale, Conn., Dec. 10.—Caught by his clothing in a big shaft in a cotton mill, Charles Gagnon, 23 years old, was whirled through the air circuitously for several moments. When the machinery of the mill was stopped Gagnon was found to be unconscious, but aside from a broken rib he was not hurt. It is estimated that he made 100 revolutions.

Smothered In Crushed Stone

Boston, Dec. 10.—While at work on a stone crusher at the Paul Gore ledge in the Jamaica Plain district, Patrick Burns, a laborer, slipped, fell into the crusher and was killed. A peculiar circumstance was that the man was not mangled in the machinery, but his death was the result of being smothered by the fragments of crushed stone.

Yale Beats Princeton Debaters

New Haven, Dec. 10.—Yale's debaters last night won the 12th annual Yale-Princeton inter-collegiate debate, the question being: "Resolved, That it should be the policy of the United States not to hold territory premanently unless with the purpose that it shall ultimately enjoy statehood." Yale upheld the affirmative.

Ex-Policeman Shoots Himself

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 10.—William McCloughrey, until recently a police officer on the local force, shot and killed himself at his home here. Whether the shooting was accidental or intentional is yet undetermined by Medical Examiner Meigs.

CHRISTMAS GAMES.

How to Amuse the Children During the Holidays.

Christmas day games for the children are as necessary as a plum pudding, and the following will please them and are welcome to many grown-ups, says the Chicago Tribune:

Santa Claus Pack.—All form in line and march to a lively strain on the piano to the next room, where a table holds the contents of Santa Claus' pack. They look at every object on the table and then march back. The company now divides in half, one-half leaving the room, the table and its contents having been covered. Those remaining choose some object which they remember seeing; the piano begins to play again and the others return. The leader gives to the returning party a word which rhymes with the object chosen. Thus, if it was a ball, he might mention the word "hall." The returning party now proceed to guess what object has been chosen, and they express their guess by acting in pantomime. They do not all suggest the object in the same way, but each according to his individual fancy, but they must all agree upon the object they will guess. If wrong they go out for another trial and so on until guessed, when the other half of the company goes out, and they remain and select the object for the others to guess.

Hiding the Mistletoe.—All form in line, single file, and march about the room or several rooms until the music stops. They then proceed to hunt the mistletoe, which the leader carried in his hand and concealed somewhere during the march. The finder must effect return to the starting point without being touched by the leader.

Santa Claus' Sleigh.—Six girls are harnessed to a little sleigh or sled, and the white ribbon reins are held by a seventh. The sled is filled with small parcels in colored papers containing Christmas crackers or any trifles as favors. The party goes round the room several times, dispensing the favors to the young men, who proceed to select partners and dance until a signal from the leader calls all to march around the room and back to their places.

Snowball.—A large white ball of tissue paper is suspended well out of the way of bric-a-brac. The young girls take turns at shooting at this ball with a small rubber ball. When hit with sufficient force it breaks and out falls a shower of smaller white balls, perhaps popcorn balls, which are gathered and presented as favors for the next march or dance. As there should be only about half as many balls as there are couples dancing, this will cause a scramble among the small boys who gather them up and who, for fair dealing, should be kept behind a certain line until the ball receives the shot that bursts it.

How to Make a Friendship Calendar.

The friendship pad calendar is especially nice to give elderly people or the "shut in" on Christmas. Either fifty-two or 365 squares of bristol board 2½ by 3½ inches distributed to friends of the intended recipient to write a message signed with that friend's name and date are taken to the printer, who puts the consecutive dates on in red ink and gums the slips into a pad, which can then be mounted on a decorated board or put into a leather case to stand on the table.

How to Roast a Small Pig.

If you are going to have a small pig for your Christmas dinner here is a splendid way to roast it. Of course your butcher will prepare the pig, so far as cleaning is concerned. When the pig reaches you wipe him inside and out with a damp cloth. Make a stuffing of a cupful of breadcrumbs, a half chopped onion, two heaping tablespoonfuls of melted butter, a scant tablespoonful of sage, a little grated nutmeg, a saltspoonful of salt and two well beaten eggs. Stuff the pig with this, sewing him up, then bend his front legs backward under him and his hind legs forward, also under him, and tie them with stout twine close to the body. Dredge with flour, put into the dripping pan, pour a cupful of water over and around the pig, rub with butter and roast, basting frequently for about two hours or longer if the pig be a good sized one.

How to Make Christmas Squares.

To four well beaten eggs add four ounces of sugar and beat for twenty minutes. Mix three ounces of seedless raisins with five ounces slightly browned flour, and add gradually the eggs and sugar. Pour into a flat, square tin, lined with buttered paper, and bake a quarter of an hour in a hot oven. Take from the oven and cut into squares while still hot.

How to Thaw Frozen Greens.

It often happens that Christmas greens are frozen in transit. In such cases put them at once into a very cool, dark cellar where they can thaw out very gradually. The temperature should not be allowed to exceed 45 degrees F. Frozen holly is very little damaged if intelligently treated, but a single night in a warm express car may cause it to turn black. Mistletoe and wild smilax are much more susceptible to frost injury. The California holly is not a member of the holly but of the rose family. It is not hardy in New England, but is worth cultivating in all parts of the south.

How to Clean Worsted Slippers.

To clean worsted slippers or shoes such as are worn by invalids, in the bedroom, on the steamer and as a protection over dainty satin or kid evening slippers remove the soles and bows and immerse the slippers in gasoline. Shake out thoroughly on taking from the jar and put in the air to dry.

THE AMERICAN REVIEW OF REVIEWS MONTHLY

The more Magazines there are, the more Indispensable is The Review of Reviews

"Indispensable," "The one magazine I feel I must take," "The world under a field-glass," "An education in public affairs and current literature,"— these are some of the phrases one hears from noted people who read the Review of Reviews. The more magazines there are, the more necessary is the Review of Reviews, because it brings together the best that is in all the most important monthlies of the world. Such is the function of periodical literature that nowadays people say that the only way to keep up with it is to read the Review of Reviews. Entirely over and above this condensing section, it has more original matter and illustrations than most magazines of the most timely and important articles printed in any monthly.

Probably the most useful section of all is Dr. Albert Shaw's illustrated "Progress of the World," where public events and issues are authoritatively and fully explained in every issue. Many a subscriber writes, "This department alone is worth more than the price of the magazine." The unique cartoon department, depicting current history in caricature, is another favorite. The Review of Reviews covers five continents, and yet is American, first and foremost.

Men in public life, the members of Congress, professional men, and the great captains of industry who must keep "up with the times," intelligent men and women all over America, have decided that it is "indispensable."

A Christmas Deal

By FREDERIC TREAT.

It was Christmas eve at the Eyrie, the country seat of the Martins, set on a pinnacle in the hills. The place had been opened for the holidays, and the family, with a number of guests, formed a delightful "house party." Tonight general merrymaking was in order. In the hall before the great open fireplace, in which logs were blazing, sat Edith Martin with Ralph Arnold, a recent arrival from the west who had been devoted to her since they had first met, a week before.

"You are not in harmony with the occasion," he said to her. "Instead of a happy Christmas look on your face there is a troubled one."

She drew back for a moment as if withholding a confidence, then suddenly let it all out.

"I must tell you," she said, "but you are not to breathe a word to any one. He is coming by the train that arrives at 11:40 and will be here at 12. He must go back to the city early tomorrow on important business, and"—here she lowered her voice to a whisper—"I am to accept him before this gay night is over."

"Who is he?"

"John Trotter, dealer in foreign laces, a thorough business man and rich. Papa has lost a great deal of money by the shrinkage in stocks, and Mr. Trotter is going to help him ever so much to enable him to hold what he has till the market rises again."

"And the bonus is your hand?"

"That's very near the truth."

"The contract is to be signed at 12 midnight?"

"I have promised that if Mr. Trotter will come up this evening I will give him my answer."

"It will be yes?"

"It must be yes."

"That is, if he arrives."

"If he doesn't I shall have to nerve myself anew on another occasion."

"How much money is he to loan your father?"

"Papa said it was something like half a million."

"I think they might have left you to spend this Christmas happily. How miserable it is to be poor! If I were rich I might save you this sacrifice, and"— He paused reflectively.

"You wouldn't charge any bonus," She was looking very steadily at the leaping flames.

"Oh, the bonus! It wouldn't be any kindness to you to take you out of the frying pan and put you into the fire."

"I'd rather burn on a gridiron than sizzle in a pan."

The young man sat toying with his watch chain. Had the girl looked at him she would have seen that the expression on his face was not in keeping with the unemotional tones of his voice.

"If he fails to arrive on time and it is possible for you to jump into the fire, will you do so?"

"There is no fire to jump into."

There was another pause. The logs were crackling; the fire was sending a genial warmth and light through the paneled hall. From the rooms adjoining came shouts of laughter as some one was caught and kissed under the mistletoe.

"I am a promoter," said Arnold presently. "It is my business to secure funds for carrying out enterprises. Suppose I could get this loan for your father?"

They were speaking very deliberately—so deliberately that one might have thought they were two people of business making a bargain.

"At the same interest he will pay Mr. Trotter?" she asked.

"How much is that?"

"Now I think of it, I heard papa say 4 per cent."

"That would be satisfactory."

Miss Martin may have been considering the matter of interest. At any rate, it was some time before she reached the next step.

"The bonus?" she asked under her breath.

"That would depend upon whether you would rather 'burn' than 'fry,' or, rather, whether you prefer neither to burn nor fry."

"It would not be fair to withhold the bonus. Nevertheless if it were a burden instead of a blessing"—

He did not help her out. Instead he took out his watch and noted the hour. It was five minutes to 12.

"It is understood and agreed," he said, "that if the party of the first part doesn't show up when the clock strikes 12 the party of the second part shall consider herself released from signing the contract and will make the same arrangement with the party of the third part—that in lieu of the sum of half a million dollars at 4 per cent interest"—

"The bonus?" She was losing her business equanimity, tapping her foot on the lion skin beneath it. There remained only a few minutes to 12, and the party of the first part might walk in at any moment.

"The bonus shall be optional."

"With whom?"

"The party of the second part."

"But the party of the third part?"

"Will only accept it entire. The heart must go with the hand."

"It's a bargain," she said, extending her hand, which he grasped. At the same moment the clock at the other end of the hall began to strike the hour. It was an old fashioned timekeeper with enormous weights and wheezed out its arithmetic strokes with provoking slowness. The pair sat motionless, their clasped hands concealed under a fold of the lady's dress, their eyes turned upon the front door. Each stroke brought them nearer to a consummation of their bargain. At the fourth there was a tinkle of the electric doorbell. At the eighth a servant passed the couple on his way to open the front door. Arnold put out his foot, and the man went sprawling on the floor. At the eleventh stroke the servant was on his feet and rubbing his shins. At the twelfth he proceeded on his way. There was a pressure between the two concealed hands. In another moment the door opened and Mr. Trotter entered.

But what entered with him? Christmas morning. Twenty such mornings had come in the lifetime of Edith Martin, but none that brought her such relief and at the same time such happiness as this one. Instead of being obliged to sacrifice herself to save her father she had accepted a man whom the first moment she saw him she knew to be the man she could love.

Ralph Arnold was indeed a promoter and had made a fortune in organizing gold mines. The day after Christmas he telegraphed his acceptance of an offer he had had for his principal mine and loaned the proceeds to Mr. Martin, who in six months regained all he had lost. Mrs. Ralph Arnold on last Christmas eve, sitting before a blazing fire beside her eldest daughter, now sixteen, told her the story of her Christmas deal.

Christmas Service In Stable.

At Santa Cruz, Cal., there is an old Spanish church in which the people worship only on Christmas eve. Externally it looks like a stable and has no chandelier. The floor and walls are of stone, and on the eastern side there is a manger, looking through the bars of which one sees the scenes of the Nativity, with the towers of castles and palaces in the distance. In the foreground the Virgin sits by the manger, holding the infant Saviour, with St. Joseph leaning over her and the wise men offering sheep, oxen and various precious gifts. Outside this exterior stable there are figures of men carrying sheep and calves on their shoulders, hastening to the sacred scene. In this chapel worshipers remain all night on their knees. This manger side of the church is against the east wall, high upon which is the only window in the edifice, so that the first rays of the morning sun irradiate the scenes of the Nativity. The rays lend a roseate glow, and as soon as this reaches the worshipers they leave the church, light cigarettes and begin their festivities.

A Christmas Game.

A Yuletide version of the donkey party is played thus: On a sheet sketch or paste a design of a Christmas tree. Have each branch of the tree terminate in a circle containing a number, using the numbers from one to ten or one to twenty-five, according to the size of the tree. Each person playing is blindfolded in turn and is given a rosette with which he must "decorate the tree." Each person aims to pin his or her rosette on or near to the highest number of the tree. Each competitor has three trials, the three numbers to which he pins nearest being written down to his credit by the hostess, who keeps tally. The one whose three numbers added together gives the largest sum total wins the first prize.

The Day of Hope.

The day of the Nativity is the day of hope—the day of hope to the struggling conscience of man; to the human nature which is uplifted in Christ and made partaker of God; to the families of men who believe that sacred human love is not given to perish with the earth, but in Christ is destined to some eternal purpose; to all who labor and pray for the coming of a kingdom where God shall reign in men, and men shall live in peace and good will, where

JAPAN'S PARLIAMENT.

Businesslike Methods of House of Representatives.

ITS WORK RAPIDLY TRANSACTED.

Government Bills of Greatest Importance Brought Forward, Debated and Passed or Rejected In Less Than a Week—Only Parliament Which Keeps Full Verbatim Report of Its Proceedings.

Modern Japan in founding her institutions has had the advantage of being able to use as models the best throughout the civilized world, says the Portland Oregonian. Those who have seen the parliament at Tokyo at work say that it is the most businesslike institution in the world, and there is little talk in proportion to the work accomplished.

The work goes forward very rapidly. Even a government bill of the greatest importance is brought forward, debated and passed or rejected in less than a week. Speechmaking on the part of the members is discouraged. Four or five new acts of all sorts are an average week's work. This is because it is a rule that when the government or a private member wishes to introduce a new bill it is not allowed to be presented to the house at the outset. It must first be submitted to a committee, which in private makes a thorough examination of it and digests all the arguments for and against it which are likely to be used in the contest. Then the committee sends the bill along to the house with a lengthy report upon it, and in nine cases out of ten the parliament is guided by the report upon it and decides upon the measure with very little discussion.

Though they are elected by constituencies in just the same manner as in the United States, each member is paid at the rate of more than $80 a week for his services. The actual salary paid them is $1,000 a session, but a session lasts only twelve weeks. There are 376 members in the house, and when a man is elected he gets a number for the purpose of identification and is usually referred to by it, no matter where he may be. This number is painted in big figures on a hinged flap, which is attached to his desk in the parliament chamber. When he is seated he raises the flap on its hinge as a sign that he is ready for work for the day. When he leaves the sitting he lays the number flat again. The flap also serves another purpose. During a debate, when the member wishes to show his approval or disapproval of what is being said or to attract attention to his claim to be allowed to speak, he rattles this flap and by long practice has become so skillful that he can make more noise this way than any other. When he wishes to make a speech he further emphasizes his desire by shouting out his number, and if the president wishes to recognize him he repeats the number.

In the center of the chamber is a high tribune, and when a member wishes to speak he takes his stand there in view of the whole house. The president sits just behind him and rings a bell whenever there is any breach of order. The chamber is semicircular in form, and the members sit together at little groups of desks, three or four together, all around.

Every word spoken in the house of representatives in Tokyo from the day of its opening has been taken down and carefully preserved. This is the only parliament in the world which has a complete verbatim report of all its proceedings. Shortly before its establishment a party of students invented a system of shorthand which was capable of grappling with the difficulties of the Japanese language, and after practice they found they could keep pace with the fastest speaker. When the new parliament was formed some of these stenographers were engaged, with the result that the parliament records are complete.

SOCIETY GIRL AS HOUSEMAID

Member of Philadelphia's Exclusive Circles Tries Novel Venture.

Miss Marion Honeyman Wood, a member of Philadelphia's most exclusive circles, a former hospital nurse and actress, is at present engaged in a new venture, says the New York Times. She has donned the costume of a housemaid and is serving in that capacity for wages at the house of her cousin, Miss Louise Wood, an artist, at 1721 Rittenhouse street, Philadelphia.

She has held this place for over five weeks, and the matter has been kept secret from most of her friends. While serving as a trained nurse in the Pennsylvania hospital she learned to cook, and this work is included in her duties at the Rittenhouse street home. She wears the usual black, tight fitting costume, with a small apron and cap of white. On every afternoon, except Thursday, she acts as hall maid and takes the cards of callers at the door. She says she likes the work, and, although the pay is not so good as that received by actresses, she intends to continue at it until she can go on the stage.

Japanese Beans.

The statement, oft repeated, that a Japanese will fight for twenty-four hours on a ration of two or three beans and a sip of tea is at last explained, says the New York Press. The Japanese is not the common horticultural bean with which our gardens are acquainted, but a vegetable often a yard in length and large enough to fill a quart measure. A single bean makes a meal for a hungry plowman.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Mrs. Florence W. Loring of Willow street is recovering from an acute attack of gastritis.

Several Quincy divorces cases are on the docket for the present term of court at Dedham.

On Tuesday at 2.30 o'clock the W. C. T. Union will be held with Mrs. Higgins, Lincoln avenue, Wollaston.

This has been a week of church fairs with more to follow next week; all desirous of sharing in the Christmas trade.

Sunday school superintendents and pastors are requested to forward their Christmas programs to the Daily Ledger office.

Our readers should not fail to read all the advertisements carefully from now on for there are many suggestions for Christmas.

The Manet club is to hold a social in the Parish house on Tuesday evening the thirteenth; the third in its course of entertainments.

A pop concert is announced for the second entertainment in the First Church Social club course. It is to be held on Friday evening December the sixteenth at Faxon hall.

Rev. George R. Hazard of St. Mark's church, Southborough, will preach at St. Chrysostom's church Sunday. The subject of Rev. F. W. Pratt's sermon Sunday morning will be, "Poor, yet making many rich."

There will be a supper at the Quincy Point church next Wednesday evening, to be followed by a talk on the World's Fair held at St. Louis, by Frank F. Prescott, the city editor of the Daily Ledger.

The Gleaners' Circle of King's Daughters will meet with Mrs. Whitman, Grand View avenue, Monday Dec. 12th at half past two o'clock. A full attendance is desired to consider the question of permanently disbanding.

—George W. Jones' cash proposition seems to catch the buyers and he is doing a constantly increasing business. His Christmas trade should be a record breaker.

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM.

Is the Only Possible Way of Having An Effective Cure.

If you see a woman or a man with luxuriant glossy hair, you may be sure neither has dandruff to amount to anything. In nearly every case where women and men have thin brittle hair, they owe it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that "claim" to cure dandruff, but not one but Newbro's Herpicide tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ burrowing into the scalp, and that permanent cure of dandruff and its consequent falling and baldness, can only be had by killing the germ; and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ but Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit. Mich.

BRAINTREE.

About two weeks ago Constable John Kelley, who draws the jurymen of Braintree, pulled out the name of Rev. C. F. Hill Crathern, to serve during the civil term. Probably Mr. Kelley thinks the best men for the jury are ministers for Monday he fished out another choice bit of paper bearing the name Rev. Frank H. Palmer for criminal term.

The afternoon of Dec. 6th the Philergians met in Pythian hall, which was well filled with club members and guests. The president in the chair. A lecture on Robert Burns was interestingly given by Miss Sara A. Hamlin of Dean academy, Franklin, with the songs of Burns charmingly rendered by Mrs. Myrtie Smith of Medfield, who was accompanied by Mrs. Otis B. Oakman. "Bonnie Doone," "Green Grow the Bushes," "Flow Gently Sweet Afton," and "My Love is like a Red, Red Rose," will long remain a pleasant recollection of this interesting meeting.

Sunday, Dec. 4th, Mrs. Eliza B. Ludden was tendered a surprise party at the home of her daughter, Mrs. B. J. Loring, on Front street, East Braintree, in honor of her eightieth birthday. Mrs. Ludden has been a resident of Braintree for many years and has a large circle of acquaintances in the town.

The church fair under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society which opened Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock continuing thoroughout the day and evening, proved to be a great success both socially and financially. The weather favored a good attendance and all were pleased with the appearance of the chapel, which under the hands of the ladies became a veritable garden of pink peach blossoms with lanterns and other decorations, the Japanese effect being exceedingly pretty.

Under the will of the late Charles E. French of Boston the Braintree First Parish Cemetery association receives three thousand dollars the income to be used in caring for and beautifying the grounds. The will also provides for the erection of a monument to Benjamin V. French, an uncle of the deceased, who is associated in the minds of some with the many fine trees which for years have adorned the old cemetery.

Wednesday of this week, morning, afternoon and evening the chapel of the First Congregational church was thronged with people, all interested in making the annual fair a success. The vestry was profusely decorated with Japanese cherry blossoms. These with the Japanese tea gardens in the gallery made a very pleasing appearance.

A pleasant surprise party was tended to Miss M. DeYoung at her home on School street, Braintree, Thursday evening. Refreshments were served and everybody had a most enjoyable time.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hathaway of Central avenue, attended the dedication exercises of the new Odd Fellows' hall at Plymouth last Tuesday evening.

The South Congregational missionary meeting will be held with Mrs. A. S. Pennock Thursday afternoon at three o'clock. Mrs. Sprague and Mrs. Pennock are the committee in charge. Subject "Russia."

Next Sunday evening the last of the Stoddard illustrated lectures will be in the South Congregational church by the pastor, Rev. C. F. H. Crathern. The topic is, "Florence, the city of the Medici."

Prof. Otis B. Oakman secured the twentieth prize in the Herald proverb contest, a $62.45 tennis outfit, and May F. Harmon secured the eighty-ninth prize, a $5 check.

Amana Rebekah lodge of South Braintree passed a pleasant evening at their regular meeting last Thursday evening. The lodge served a supper at six o'clock after which the usual work was done. There is a wish that the members would respond heartily to these social features.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. William Thayer, who have been making plans to settle in Allerton, will be glad to know that they have decided to remain at the Hampton house.

Word has been received from Bert Tenney, who is spending the winter in Aiken, South Carolina, for his health, that he is very pleasantly situated and is gaining in weight.

The Pine Tree club will hold its regular monthly meeting with Mr. and Mrs. George Moody of Fountain street, next Wednesday evening.

The ladies of the social circle connected with the South Congregational church were entertained last Wednesday evening by Mrs. W. A. Torrey, Mrs. J. H. Schraut and Mrs. Addie L. Day.

The King's Daughters held their annual meeting at the home of Miss Nellie Potter, Tremont street. The following officers for the year 1905 were chosen: President, Mrs. Eugene Dyer; Vice-President, Miss Nellie Potter; Secretary, Mrs. M. C. Gillette; Treasurer, Mrs. W. A. Torrey.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Rigby of Dorchester, nee Mabel Arnold, are receiving congratulattons. A son was born to them Friday, Dec. 2.

Mrs. William Jordan is ill with bronchial pneumonia.

The annual collection for the Christmas festival of the Sunday school will be taken at the Union church next Sunday, Dec. 11th.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Baker gave a whist party for the benefit of the calendar fund of All Souls' church, at their home on Liberty street, Monday evening. Thirty tickets were sold for the occasion and a very pleasant evening enjoyed. Punch, fancy crackers and fruit were served at intermission.

The social club of the Union church held an entertainment and sale last evening. There was a good attendance. The cantata "The Villiage Blacksmith" and the farce "Aunt Susan Jones" were given.

The Jonas Perkins School association was entertained Wednesday evening at the home of J. G. Spear of Hayward street. The first of the evening was occupied by the reading of Shakespeare's play "The Taming of the Shrew." At the close of the reading the company were invited to the dining room where a dainty lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. C. O. Miller, Dec. 21, when the reading will be resumed.

Mrs. M. A. Leger of Lynn who is conducting evangelistic services at the Baptist church is meeting with good success. Her Bible readings at 2.30 P. M. are very helpful to all who attend, and her evening preaching is stimulating and inspiring. Souls are enquiring the way.

—Call on our druggist, Edward J. Murphy, in the Greenleaf block and get a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide. It is said to be the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. He is selling lots of it and it gives a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair. The women think it is the nicest thing they ever used.

—People are beginning to flock to the H. L. Kincaide & Co. annex for their Christmas shopping. They have a large assortment of toys, games, dolls, pictures and books, besides useful household articles.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

COLUMBIA MUSIC HALL.

Keen, bright satire that truly ridicules current events or people without vicious taint is always enjoyable, but when such forms the basis of a play, is cleverly presented by competent actors in congenial surroundings and, best of all, has a setting of sparkling music, it becomes delightful. Such might be a general resume of the characteristics of "The Japskys," the attraction at Columbia Music Hall. The author, Louis de Lange, calls it a Russo-Jap skit. It is really a pot-pourri of incidents, or happenings, to German refugees from Russia, escaped to the Japanese embassy in Korea. And involved are officials and natives of all three countries in a ludicrous melange. Preceding the musical portion there is much over an hour of some of the best specialty acts in the varieties. Prominent are the Webb Family of five men and women, athletes of surely unique character. Their balancing work is wonderful.

BOSTON MUSIC HALL.

Quite the event of vaudeville annals, at least as far as Boston is concerned, will be the appearance of Miss Isabel Irving, the well known actress, at Boston Music Hall the week of Dec 12. It will be an event for several reasons; because Miss Irving, who has in her career been identified with the Rosina Vokes Company, with Augustin Daly's stock company, with the Lyceum stock company, and more recently, featured by James K. Hackett in his production of "The Crisis,"-- is making her first Boston appearance in vaudeville; because "Six Persons," the one act play in which she is to appear, is the work of Isreal Zangwill, who wrote "The Children of the Ghetto," "Merely Mary Ann," and "The Serio-Comic Governess;" and because this same playlet stands for the most artistic, the most charming, and the most completly entertaining tid-bit ever set before a representative vaudeville audience.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

The great dramatic event of the decade is undoubtedly Charles Frohman's organization and presentation of the Sothern-Marlowe combination in a Shakespearean repertoire, now appearing for the first time in Boston at the Hollis street Theatre where thronged houses have ruled the past two weeks, and praise and plaudits are heard upon every hand for the incomparable work of the co-stars, E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlow and their companion players. Beginning Monday, Dec 12, Shakespeare's "Hamlet" will be presented for six nights and Saturday matinee. The world's greatest actors have vied with one another for fame in this, the greatest tragedy ever written, and Mr. Sothern has sought and found place with the coterie that is recognized as meeting the critical demands of Hamlet, while with Julia Marlowe as Ophelia, a revelation is surely in store, as she possesses every attribute for the portrayal of the loving, beautiful, fair and unfortunate Ophelia. A special matinee will be given Wednesday, Dec. 14, and Shakespeare's comedy "Much Ado About Nothing" will be presented for the benefit principally of out of town patrons.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Paul Spadoni, the Herculean juggling marvel who created such a sensation at Hammerstein's roof Garden, New York, last summer, is to be the special attraction at Keith's Boston Theatre the week of Dec. 12. He is said to be the "greatest ever in that line of work. The surrounding show includes such famous entertainers as Digby Bell, the famous comic opera star; Bob Cole and Redmond Johnson, colored singers and musicians; Harry Gilfoil, who will give his artistic impersonations of "Baron Sands" with specialties; the Mowats, a quintet of juvenile club jugglers who are claimed to be the greatest in the world. This is only a part of what is said to be one of the best vaudeville bills offered this season.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

In accordance with the purpose of varying the production of modern plays with the presentation of the standard dramatic works of the past the new management of the Castle Square Theatre announce for production next week Sir Edward Bulwer Lytton's play in five acts "Richelieu; or The Conspiracy." Howell Hansel is to make his first appearance in the title part in the coming Castle Square production and Lillian Kemble will be seen for the first time in her career as Julie de Mortnar. "Richelieu" is announced for a single week only and the usual distribution of bonbons will be made at the Monday matinee.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, in buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.
Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

—F. A. Skinner is one of the busiest men in the city taking photographs of father, mother, baby and grandparents, ready for Christmas gifts. What could be more acceptable?

☞Eyeglasses fitted scientifically. No guess work.—Williams.

I wish to extend my congratulations to the Mayor-elect upon his magnificent victory. The voters of Quincy have decided with no uncertain sound that he should be honored with the cares of the city's affairs in 1905.

But I will be found as usual at my place of business, OPPOSITE THE QUINCY DEPOT, attending strictly to my PLUMBING AND HEATING BUSINESS.

SEAMEN'S MISTAKE

FOUR OF THEM DROWNED

Five Others Had Fearful Fight For Existence, While Eleven Left Behind Navigated Vessel to a Haven of Refuge

Highland Light, Mass., Dec. 12.—Four members of the crew of the Boston fishing schooner Fish Hawk lost their lives in a hasty effort to leave their vessel, which had struck and was pounding heavily on Peaked Hill bars at the north end of Cape Cod. Five others, including Captain Bly, who followed their unfortunate companions over the side, had a severe six-hour tussle against a freezing sea and gale in a small dory, but managed to reach Provincetown harbor.

Yet the death and the suffering would have been avoided had they all stayed by their vessel, which made a miraculous escape from one of Cape Cod's most deadly traps, within a few minutes, and four hours later was safely anchored in Provincetown harbor.

The lost seamen were Thomas Kennedy, John Woodworth, John Drew and Joseph Kehoe, all of Boston and vicinity.

The Fish Hawk left Boston with a crew of 20 men. She was fishing off Cape Cod when the weather became threatening and the wind worked around into the northeast. Captain Bly decided to run into Provincetown, but before he reached the end of the cape the wind had increased to a stiff gale, accompanied by thick snow. The vessel was plunging along when she suddenly fetched up on the outside of the dreaded Peaked Hill bars. The Fish Hawk struck about 7:30 o'clock Saturday night, and Captain Bly, believing that there was but little hope of saving his vessel, burned his signal torch to notify the lifesavers and then ordered his crew into the boats.

Four of the seamen jumped into a dory, which was almost immediately after capsized in the surf. Four others and Captain Bly himself left the vessel a few minutes later and saw their unfortunate companions struggling helplessly in the surf and endeavored to reach them, but failed.

Before the rest of the crew could follow their skipper the wind and sea had driven the Fish Hawk over the bar and into deeper and somewhat smoother water. As soon as those on board found that their vessel was afloat again, they trimmed in the sheets and worked her along behind the shoal and gradually out into deep water again. Four hours later the Fish Hawk was safely anchored in Provincetown harbor.

In the meantime Captain Bly and his four men were having a fearful fight for existence against the wind and sea. It was bitterly cold and the spray froze as it struck. Several times the little craft was nearly swamped in the tumbling seas, but she was each time bailed out and the hardy fishermen continued on their 18-mile row around Race Point, Wood End and Long Point into Provincetown harbor, where they found the Fish Hawk safely anchored.

Had Terrible Experience

Norfolk, Dec. 12.—Schooner Montana, Baltimore for Charleston, stranded at midnight Saturday at Pea Island life saving station, 50 miles north of Cape Hatteras, during a heavy northerly gale and is a total loss. The captain and five of her crew, after remaining in the rigging until 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, were rescued by life saving crews in the breeches buoy. One man was frozen to death in the rigging and another is nearly dead from exposure and exhaustion.

Floating About the Bay

Boston, Dec. 12.—The abandoned schooner John T. Williams, which was in collision with the fishing schooner Metamora, is believed to be floating in Massachusetts bay and a dangerous obstruction to navigation. When abandoned the decks were just awash. Captain Gatchell of the Williams reports that in addition to losing one man in the wreck, two others were severely injured by being struck by falling wreckage.

Steamers Encountered Storms

New York, Dec. 12.—Ocean liners bring reports of heavy seas and long-continued stormy weather. There were eight steamers in the storm-bound fleet just arrived and delayed on board of them were 521 cabin passengers and 4934 steerage passangers. On the steamer Balgravia were 1200 men who left Russia to escape military duty.

A. L. Baker Writes From Mexico Concerning Election.

The thoughts of Mr. A. L. Baker turned toward Quincy on election day and he writes to a friend—"I find myself longing to have a hand in it." He adds:

"In Monterey the trees are still in foliage, roses in bloom, and fruits and summer vegetables in abundance.

"It is a typical tropical climate here with no snow or frosts. The mountain scenery all round the city is sublime, rising four to six thousand feet above the city.

"The mountains are well stocked with iron, lead, gold and silver ore, and mining forms the leading industry of this part of Mexico."

The letter which was postmarked "Monterey, Dec. 6, 11 A. M." reached Quincy at 10 A.M. Saturday, an incredibly short time—less than four days or 95 hours.

Christmas Presents.

Walter M. Hatch & Co., 43 and 45 Summer street, Boston, would call particular attention to their unusual offerings this year for Christmas. They can serve you better than ever before for they have recently bought some six thousand pieces of A. A. Vantine & Co.'s samples, no two alike, which they are offering at about half price, and in addition to these, other importations of their own from China and Japan, of cloissenes, satsuma, ivory carvings, embroidered pocket books and card cases, which, in connection with their unusually full line of useful and artistic things in China, such as cups and saucers, bouillon bowls, salad and chocolate sets, biscuit jars, Chinese Medallion, Asiatic blue, and other thoroughly Asiatic things, make a wonderfully satisfactory line to select from.

Their store is only a few minutes' walk from the South station and our readers will do well to drop in and examine their beautiful and immense stock first; as we know they will be pleased to see you, and will give you good bargains.

NOT EASY TO FILL.

Business Men Unable to Agree

On Commissioner of Public Works

Sought to Help Out Mayor-Elect Thompson.

It is reported that a meeting of business men was held Saturday night in an office not many miles from City Square. The conference was to decide who they would endorse for Commissioner of Public Works. Several names were mentioned, but it is said that the gentlemen present were unable to agree upon any one of them.

All recognized that the position of Commissioner of Public Works is one which everybody cannot fill. That the duties of the office are many and varied. That a Commissioner not only has the care of the streets and road building, but of the Water department, the erection and repair of public buildings, and next year is to have charge of the Sewer department. That the street lighting and also the street watering come under his department. The duties of the Commissioner of Public Works are set forth in the City Charter as follows:

1. A commissioner of public works, who shall have cognizance, direction and control:—

a. Of the performance of all contracts entered into by the city with any water company, of the observance by every water company having pipes within the city, of all the laws of the Commonwealth and ordinances of the city, and of all structures, machinery, pipes, and other property owned or leased by the city, connected with the supply and distribution of water;

b. Of the construction, alteration, repair, care and lighting of streets, ways and sidewalks.

c. Of the construction, alteration repair and care of public buildings; except that the care of all school buildings shall remain under the control of the school committee, and the care of the Thomas Crane Public Library under the control of the board of trustees of said library;

d. Of the construction, alteration, repair and care of public sewers and drains;

e. Of the digging, construction and care of wells for the city;

f. Of the construction, alteration, repair, care and maintenance of public bridges.

Only once in the history of the city has it been deemed advisable to go out of town for a man to fill the office of Commissioner of Public Works. This was in the first year under Mayor Adams when he sought out Charles F. Knowlton, then connected with the State Highway Commission.

There are only four offices which may be filled from non-residents, and the Commissionership is one. Section 42 of the City Charter reads in part:

"No person shall be eligible for election or appointment to any office established by this act, unless at the time of such election or appointment he shall have been a citizen of the United States for at least one year, nor to any such office except the offices of Commissioner of Public Works, Superintendent of Schools, Chief of Police and Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, unless at the time of such election or appointment he shall have been a resident of the city for at least one year."

There is always a prejudice against the selection of an official from out of town, and it should not be necessary in a city which has over 5000 voters who are eligible.

City Council Business.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held tonight.

The Committee on Elections will report the result of the recent Municipal election.

The joint committee on Sewers and Health will report on the matter relative to filling a part of the canal.

In the calendar are the orders relative to granting permission to the Telephone company to attach wires to poles on Sea street, the order for $1,000 for Assessor's plans, the order amending the ordinance relative to salaries of the trustees of the Woodward Fund, and the tax title order of J. W. Gillis.

The Committee on Finance have several orders before them from which reports may be expected.

AN AIRSHIP BUBBLE.

Balloon Found in Illinois Thought to Have Come from Blue Hill.

In the Star of Mattoon, Ill., we find the following dispatch.

Sigel, Ill., Dec. 6.—Barney Nuxall, a farmer living two miles south of here was a much amazed man this afternoon when he spied a queer, balloon-shaped apparition come slowly floating over his place. He was still more surprised when it began to descend and finally collapsed in the road near his home.

He ran to the aerial visitor and found that it was a small airship, of splendid workmanship. Inside of the car attached to the balloon he discovered an envelope containing a letter which stated that the airship had been sailed from Blue Hill observatory, Readville, Mass., Dec. 1, 1904. The finder was directed to convey the airship to the nearest express station, have it consigned to the observatory and he would receive a reward for his trouble.

Mr. Nuxall loaded the airship in his wagon and hauled it to this place. It was placed in charge of Mr. McCormick the American express agent, who forwarded it to Readville.

The airship attracted lots of attention by reason of its unique design and costly material. The balloon, of silk covered rubber, was nearly 15 feet high and seven feet in diameter. The car attached looked like a bird cage and the propellers and motors inside were of finest brass and resembled the machinery of a clock. The airship must have cost over $1,000. It was too small to support the weight of a man and was evidently a miniature machine used for making aerial tests.

It is believed that the airship was started from the Blue Hill observatory to see how far it would sail with a given amount of gas and how it would bear the flight. Automatic registers on the inside heightens this impression and it is believed from the guages the aeronauts conducting the experiments expect to gain valuable knowledge.

From all indications the airship was unharmed by its flight of nearly 1,000 miles.

Fastened to the interior of the car in brass letters was the inscription "274, Dec. 1, 1904."

Inquiry at the Blue Hill observatory today by a Daily Ledger representative revealed the fact that the airship arrived safely on Saturday. The observer is sorry to spoil a good story, but he tells the Ledger that it was a balloon and not an airship, and that the start was made from the World's Fair grounds at St. Louis and not from the Blue Hill observatory. The date was Dec. 1, but the distance was 200 to 300 miles instead of 1,000 miles.

For several days in September and also during the latter part of November one of these balloons was sent up daily by the Blue Hill observer from the World's Fair grounds. Some attained an altitude of ten miles, and one was found in Kentucky, over 300 miles distant.

The experiments were very successful and a record of the temperature was obtained. It was the last balloon sent up on Dec. 1 that reached Sigel, and the World's Fair closing the day before, orders were given to the finder to forward it to Readville, Mass.

The balloon was not as costly as the Illinois paper reported, the whole outfit being valued at $60. The reward was promptly forwarded as agreed.

KEEP YOUR HEAD UNCOVERED.

The Constant Wearing of a Hat Propogates Dandruff Germs.

There are many men who wear their hats practically all the time when awake, and are blessed with a heavy shock of hair; yet if the scalps of these same men once became infested with dandruff germs, the parasites would multiply all the quicker for lack of air. Baldness would ensue as the final result. Newbro's Herpicide kills these germs and stimulates unhealthy hair to abundant growth. Herpicide is a pleasant hair dressing as well as a dandruff cure and contains not an atom of injurious substance. Sold by leading druggists. GOOD AFTERNOON.

There is little danger of the timber supply of the new world being exhausted, even if it should fail in the United States. There are immense timber tracts across the great lakes in Canada. In the districts of Thunder bay and Rainy river there are 200,000,000 cords of spruce and pulp wood. And a belt of woodland 3,000 miles long exists in Canada between the Atlantic and Alaska. A revised tariff will give this country all the wood it needs.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn" and "Tom Sawyer" have been removed from the Des Moines city library. The reason given is that they tend to make boys venturesome and unruly. If we remember correctly, this was the library which refused to admit Jacob Riis's life of Theodore Roosevelt because it was a political document. Evidently Des Moines is a town that has opinions.—New Bedford Standard.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Inspired by the national vote of 600,000 for Debs at the last election, the New York section of the Social Democratic party has laid plans for establishing a school of Socialism.

Senator Newlands of Nevada announces the engagement of his youngest daughter, Frances, to Lieutenant Von Bredow of the German army.

Rev. John W. Chadwick, aged 65, one of the oldest clergymen in point of service in the Unitarian church and widely known as a writer as well as a pastor, died of heart disease at his home in Brooklyn.

Fire destroyed the American house at Lovell, Me., and a house adjoining the hotel. The fire started in the hotel from some unknown cause.

An express train left the rails at West Lynn, Mass. No one was injured, although the passengers received a severe shaking up through the sudden stopping of the train.

Joseph Buckminster, a dry goods merchant of New Bedford, Mass., is dead, aged 83. At the time of his death he was an alderman. He had been a representative in the legislature.

The Roby building at Rochester, N. Y., was destroyed by fire, causing a loss of about $400,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

A CHADWICK CLAIM

Woman Said She Was Carnegie's Illegitimate Child

REYNOLDS BELIEVED HER

His Eyes Opened When He Found Securities Were Worthless--Ohio Authorities Determined to Hold the Woman

Cleveland, Dec. 12.—Secretary Iri Reynolds of the Wade Park bank declares that his implicit belief in the statements made to him by Mrs. Chadwick, in which she declared herself to be the daughter of Andrew Carnegie, was the impelling cause of his financial dealing with her.

"She told me," said Reynolds, "that she was the illegitimate daughter of Andrew Carnegie, and I believed her. I never doubted her story until on the occasion of my last visit to New York, when Mr. Squire came to me and declared that all the securities she had given me, as the notes of Andrew Carnegie, were worthless. It was only then that I doubted her. Before that I had refused to say anything about her or her affairs because I deemed it my duty to protect her in the story of her birth as she had given it to me. I never once doubted her until I was shown that the securities she gave me were worthless.

"After that, of course, I could not believe her any more. When she told me the story of being the daughter of Andrew Carnegie, her husband, Dr. Chadwick, was present, and he believed the story as I did.

"Just to show the methods of Mrs. Chadwick, I will tell of what she offered to do for me about one year ago. She came to me in my office here, and said that she was grateful for all I had done for her, and that she wished me to accept a present from her. She then offered me $100,000, in four notes of $25,000 each. The notes were drawn by her, and she declared that they were as good as gold. They may have been, for I know that her notes for similar amounts had been negotiated in banks in this city and had been taken up at maturity.

"Of course, as an officer of the bank, I could not accept such a present and remain in the institution. I was compelled either to resign or decline the present of the notes, and I declined the notes."

Both the federal and state authorities have united in the determination to keep Mrs. Chadwick behind prison bars until she is brought before either the federal grand jury or the grand jury of this county to answer to the charges against her. The determination emphatically to resist Mrs. Chadwick's release on a bail bond was reported after a conference between United States Attorney Sullivan and County Prosecutor Keeler.

According to the most accurate estimate of the estate of Mrs. Chadwick that is possible before the receiver has investigated her assets, and reported on his findings to the court, her creditors as a whole will receive about 1½ mills on the dollar. What lends additional interest to this showing, from the creditors' standpoint, is that one man, Reynolds, will receive the whole of the assets visible at the present time. There may be funds in reserve somewhere, as there may be additional creditors who have not yet announced that Mrs. Chadwick is indebted to them, but it is not expected by bankers and attorneys of this city, who have the greatest knowledge of her affairs, that any more large loans will be developed.

A feature of recent developments in the financial transactions of Mrs. Chadwick is the disclosure that she had in her possession directly and indirectly alleged securities to the amount of nearly $14,000,000. These all bear the name of Andrew Carnegie.

Not Anxious to Secure Bail

New York, Dec. 12.—From present indications it is extremely unlikely that any attempt will be made to obtain bail for Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick, who has been in the Tombs since last Thursday night on a charge of aiding and abetting bank officials in the embezzlement of $12,500. She was held under $15,000 bail. If she were released on bail, the government could demand 24 hours in which to examine her surety. Meanwhile the government attorneys could telegraph the Cleveland authorities and before the 24 hours had expired could have additional charges sent here, so that it would be necessary to procure new bail. This procedure could be carried out as long as the government officials thought they had charges.

For several days it has been rumored that Dr. Chadwick was either in Paris, Berlin or Brussels, but an investigation in those places failed to reveal his presence, although many letters are awaiting the physician at the Hotel Metropole, Brussels, where he is a regular patron.

Chadwick Not In Brussels

Brussels, Dec. 12.—Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick, husband of Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick, is not at any of the large hotels here and the foreigners' bureau has no knowledge of his whereabouts. Dr. Chadwick on four occasions during the past two years stopped at the Hotel Metropole here under his own name. He was always accompanied by his wife.

FLEET SILENCED

Russian Ships at Port Arthur Can Do No Effective Work

Tokio, Dec. 12.—The battering by the Japanese of the Port Arthur fleet continues and there is little ground for expecting that it ever again will engage the Japanese. The battleship Sevastopol continues at anchor outside, but possibly returns to the harbor at night and anchors inside the outer boom, which protects her from torpedo boats. The recent heavy weather has given added protection to the vessel.

Naval experts are discarding the theory that the Russians themselves sank any of the ships, and the fact that the vessels first showed lists while in exposed positions and the efforts made to save the Sevastopol are regarded as conclusive evidence against the theory of their being sunk by the Russians. A majority of the sunken warships lie headed northward. They received the bulk of the fire across their port sides and the fact that at least two of them showed lists to starboard gives rise to the theory of Japanese shells exploding inside the ships and against the starboard armor, curving the armor outward and causing leaks.

In order to end the future availability of the Russian warships the Japanese continue to drop shells into the sunken hulks. The whereabouts of the torpedo boat destroyers continues doubtful, but it is thought they are sheltering outside the harbor. The weather prevents a good observation being made, but the Japanese are sending a searching fire into nooks which are not observable from 203-Metre hill and other heights.

Japs Lost 13,000 Men

London, Dec. 12.—The Daily Telegraph's Tientsin correspondent learns from official Japanese sources that the Japanese casualties at Port Arthur the latter part of October were 3000 killed and 10,000 wounded. The losses in more recent attacks, the correspondent adds, were much heavier.

Russian Cruiser Homeward Bound

Brest, Dec. 12.—A Russian cruiser has been sighted passing Ushant, going in a northwesterly direction. It is supposed that the vessel is returning to Russia.

Aged Woman a Stowaway

New York, Dec. 12.—A woman stowaway was discovered on steamer La Lorraine, which has just arrived here. The woman, Marie J. Caroff of Bretagne, is 65 years old and decrepit. She boarded La Lorraine at Havre and was not discovered until the steamship was a day out. Owing to her age and infirmities, she was fed and cared for by the officers of the ship. She wanted to get here to reach her nephew, who lives near Scranton, Pa. She is held at Ellis Island.

Good Grounds For Protest

London, Dec. 12.—Captain Mills of the American line steamer Philadelphia has entered a protest against reckless target practice. He says that as he approached Plymouth harbor with nearly 1000 souls aboard, their safety was endangered by a gunboat firing, which was persisted in even after the gunboat was apprised of the liner's approach. Captain Mills was obliged to twice stop and go full speed astern to avoid disaster.

Labor's Extraordinary Demand

New York, Dec. 12.—The Central Federated union has decided to ask President Roosevelt to compel the owners of the steamer St. Louis, due here from Southampton later in the month, to pay tariff on the new material used in making repairs on the steamer on the other side of the Atlantic. The cost of the repairs is said to have been more than $500,000.

Alleged Bank Robbers Caught

Peoria, Ills., Dec. 12.—With $1880 in currency in their pockets, the two men accused of robbing the Peoria National bank on Saturday were captured at Toulon last evening. The men were arrested in a livery stable, as they were in the act of driving away. A search revealed five large revolvers and all of the money in their pockets.

Murder In New York Saloon

New York, Dec. 12.—While attempting to prevent several men from maltreating a patron of the saloon in which he was a bartender, Thomas Buchanan was shot and killed there. Peter J. O'Brien, a liquor dealer, was arrested and arraigned on a homicide charge. He was released in $1000 bail.

Turkey Gets a Hint

London, Dec. 12.—A dispatch from Constantinople to The Standard says the Russian and Austrian ambassadors have presented a note to the porte recounting recent Macedonian outrages and adjuring the government to maintain order with an impartial hand.

All Humors

Are impure matters which the skin, liver, kidneys and other organs can not take care of without help, there is such an accumulation of them.

They litter the whole system.

CITY BREVITIES.

Three weeks from today will be inauguration day.

Probate court for Norfolk county will be held in Quincy Wednesday morning.

All the tenements in the new six-tenement house at No. 20 Nelson street are occupied.

The family of Seth W. Fiske have moved to Auburndale, where Mr. Fiske is now employed.

The Coddington schoolhouse is getting ancient. It was dedicated Dec. 12, 1855, just 49 years ago.

W. R. Lofgren has nearly completed the new house for Patrick Byrnes at No. 14 Liberty street.

The boys have scraped the snow from the ice in the rear of the street railway car barn and there is some good skating.

The ice men report that they have from seven to eight inches of ice on their ponds. If the weather continues to hold cold they will soon commence cutting.

The heavy snow storm scheduled for this section Saturday night struck a derailing switch and went out to sea. Heres hoping that they will all go the same way.

Milton High and the Mechanics Art High of Boston had a close game of basket ball at the Milton Town hall on Saturday afternoon, the visitors winning by the score of 19 to 18.

No temperature thus far this month above 40. Quincy invariably has 50 degree temperature in December, and in three years out of the last eight has had temperature above 60.

Bee Keeping.

In its last crop report for the year, recently issued, the Mass. State Board of Agriculture includes an article on "Bee Keeping: how to meet its difficulties and dangers," by Mr. Burton N. Significant Outbreak In the Streets of St Petersburg

RED FLAG FOR A SIGNAL

Workmen and Students Start Demonstration Which Taxes Supreme Efforts of Police and Military to Suppress

St. Petersburg, Dec. 12.—A popular anti-government demonstration, the participants in which included large numbers of students of both sexes, began at mid-day Sunday in the Nevsky prospect and lasted about two hours. Hundreds of police and mounted gendarmes, who were hidden in the courtyards of the public buildings, emerged suddenly and charged the crowd at full gallop, driving the demonstrators in headlong confusion and screaming with terror, upon the sidewalks and into adjacent streets. This led to serious encounters, 50 persons being more or less severely injured. Large numbers were arrested.

Not since the riots of 1901 has the Russian capital lived through such a day of excitement as yesterday. The authorities got wind of the big anti-government demonstration planned for yesterday by the Social-Democratic labor party to demand an immediate end of the war and the convocation of a national assembly, and leading every paper yesterday morning, in black-face type, was an explicit warning to the people to desist from congregating in the Nevski prospect, near the Kazan cathedral. At the same time extensive preparations were made to quell any disturbance.

The newspapers' warnings, however, by giving notice to those not apprised of the prospect of a demonstration, defeated the very object for which they were designed, attracting seemingly the whole population of this vast city to the broad thoroughfare; and long before the hour fixed, despite the pleading of the police, who literally lined the sidewalks, the throngs on the pavements were so dense that movement was almost impossible, while the snow-covered boulevard was black with a tangled mass of sleighs filled mostly with the curious. In throngs on the sidewalk were practically the whole student body of the capital, including many young women, who have always been prominent in Russia in liberal revolutionary movements, and also thousands of workmen belonging to the Social Labor party, which had planned the demonstration.

Toward 1 o'clock the workmen and students seemed to swarm toward the corner of the Hotel Europe, opposite the Kazan cathedral. The police tried in vain to keep back the human tide. Then, when there was not a single mounted policeman in sight, on the stroke of 1, from the heart of the thickly wedged crowd a blood-red flag, like a jet of name, suddenly shot up. It was the signal. Other flags appeared in other parts of the crowd, waving frantically overhead and were greeted with a hoarse roar "Down with autocracy."

The students surged into the streets, singing the "Marseillaise," while innocent spectators, seeking to extricate themselves, crowded into doorways and hugged walls. Dismounted police made a single attempt to force their way into the crowd to wrest the flags from the demonstrators, but the students and workmen, armed with sticks, stood close and beat back their assailants.

Then, like a flash, from behind the Kazan cathedral came wheeling a squadron of gendarmerie. The doors of adjoining courtyards were thrown back and battalions of police came out. A double squadron charged the flank of the demonstrators with drawn sabres. Five other squadrons circled the mob, cutting through the fringe of spectators, who gladly scurried to cover. The main wedge of the demonstrators stood fast only a moment or two. There was a sharp rattle of cudgels and sables. The women especially were fierce in their resistance. Many were struck and trampled, and blood streamed from their faces.

While the mob stood, those within managed to throw hundreds of revolutionary proclamations over the heads of their fellows. The police urged their horses fiercely into the crowd, driving those who resisted into the courtyards, the Hotel Europe and the church. The intense excitement lasted about 10 minutes, after which mounted squads of the gendarmerie patrolled the streets and the policemen devoted themselves to keeping the crowd moving.

Considering the sharp fight the rioters had made, the police acted humanely with the crowd, avoiding brutality and roughness in keeping the throng moving. In the meantime those confined in the courtyards who were recognized as agitators were arrested, but others were allowed to go home, the wounded first having their injuries dressed. There were probably a hundred broken heads and several were severely wounded, though none fatally, so far as is ascertainable. So far there have been over 100 arrests.

The ferment continued all day and far into the night, but only one or two other abortive attempts were made at demonstrations, the police being in such force that they had no difficulty in seizing the ringleaders and no resistance being made in any case.

HOW TO GAIN FLESH

The life of food is the fat within it—the more fat the more real benefit from the food; that is why cod liver oil is a powerful builder of flesh.

Scott's Emulsion of pure cod liver oil solves the problem of how to take cod liver oil. That is one reason why doctors have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion for all wasting diseases, coughs, colds and bronchitis for almost thirty years.

One of the inducements offered in order to substitute something else for Scott's Emulsion is the matter of cost. You save a few cents at the expense of your health. Scott's Emulsion costs more because it does more and does it better than the substitutes.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

Last night the students of the Polytechnique and other institutes held meetings, at which fiery speeches were made in favor of reform and the convocation of a national assembly.

The greatest distress is expressed by conservative liberals over the day's events, all declaring that just when the fate of the zemstvo program was in the balance such a fruitless outbreak will be sure to put the strongest weapon in the hand of the bureaucratic reactionaries.

Russian Recruiting Riot

London, Dec. 12.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that in a recruiting riot at Batoum on Saturday, several persons were killed or wounded.

Battle With a Maniac

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 12.—Clad only in his underclothing, and a raving maniac from typhoid fever, James Delatto, 32 years old, with an axe held several policemen at bay for over two hours in a church here. Before being captured he jumped on top of the big pipe organ and policemen were compelled to climb into it from overhead to capture him. In the capture three policemen were seriously cut with the axe and Delatto was shot through the head, but will recover. The organ was damaged to the extent of $1500 and other damage was caused in the church by the axe.

In Memory of Old Plainsman

Kansas City, Dec. 12.—A monument over the grave of James Bridger, the famous guide and explorer who discovered Great Salt Lake and Yellowstone park, and who opened the overland trail, was dedicated in Mount Washington cemetery Sunday. It was erected by General Dodge of New York, who located the Union Pacific railroad and who followed the route advised by Bridger. The monument is a massive block of rough hewn gray granite, with the head of the scout in a bas-relief and a chronicle of his most noteworthy achievements.

Doctor Charged With Murder

New Ulm, Minn., Dec. 12.—Dr. G. Koch, a dentist, is under arrest, charged with the murder of Dr. L. C. Gebhardt, another dentist, who was killed in his office. Koch fought desperately when the sheriff attempted to take an imprint of his finger tips for the purpose of comparing it with the marks of bloody fingers found in the murdered man's office. The imprint, however, was at last secured.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

BULLET IN HIS LUNG

Lumber Contractor Wounded In a Boundary Line Dispute

Alfred, Me., Dec. 12.—Deputy Sheriff Rowe was notified of a probably fatal shooting affray at Lebanon and, going to that place, arrested John Goodwin, who he brought here and locked up in the county jail on the charge of assault. Wesley Fall, a lumber contractor, was the victim of the shooting, which, it is alleged, followed a dispute over a boundary line in Lebanon. Fall received a bullet wound through the right lung and another less serious injury to the right shoulder.

According to Deputy Rowe Fall purchased a tract of land from Goodwin's father, Newell Goodwin. With a gang of men, Fall began hauling lumber from a portion of land which John Goodwin claimed had not been included in the sale. Young Goodwin appeared on the scene and protested against the work, which Fall instructed his men to continue. It is alleged that Goodwin then drew a revolver and shot Fall. Goodwin made no effort to escape and was found at his father's home.

Water Famine Threatened

Burlington, Vt., Dec. 12.—Reports from towns throughout Vermont indicate a scarcity of water that is causing much inconvenience to farmers and mill owners and which threatens, unless rain falls soon, to develop into a serious water famine. All the rivers in the state are very low and in the manufacturing towns mills are forced to run on short time. Wells and water supplies are dry in the farming districts and farmers are drawing water considerable distances to supply their household needs and cattle.

Lodgers Had to Hustle

Brockton, Mass., Dec. 12.—Fire in a building at the corner of Centre and Montello streets did damage to the amount of $30,000 and drove into the frigid night air 30 persons who had been sleeping on one of the upper floors used as a lodging house. These people were immediately provided for in a nearby lodging house. The fire was caused by an over-heated furnace.

Fatal Fight Over a Trifle

Boston, Dec. 12.—During a quarrel over the ownership of a handkerchief, Frederick Weisburg, 18 years old, is alleged to have assaulted his brother with a frying pan and kettle. William's skull was fractured and he will die. The alleged assailant fled, and has not been apprehended. The brothers lived together in a Dover street lodging house.

Chief Stockholder Buys Railway

Templeton, Mass., Dec. 12.—The Templeton street railway, which has been in the hands of a receiver, was sold by a deputy sheriff to William E. Barrett of Boston for $112,000 to satisfy an execution in his favor. The road is in operation between Gardner and Athol. Barrett, who is the principal stockholder, was the only bidder at the sale.

To Aid Distressed Brethren

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 12.—At a meeting of the state board of the Ancient Order of Hibernians it was voted to ask for a contribution from the 250 lodges in Massachusetts to pay the assessments of the Fall River members who are affected by the strike, any surplus to go to needy families here. The board hopes to raise $2500.

Timely Capture by Students

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 12.—An alleged sneak thief, who gave his name as James, was captured by Harvard students in one of the college dormitories after a struggle and held until the arrival of police officers. A quantity of stick pins and razors were found upon the prisoner and in every pocket were pawn tickets.

Hub's Great Junior Population

Boston, Dec. 12.—According to the latest school census, there are in this city 100,367 children of 14 years of age and under. Of this number 75,376 are in the public schools and 8901 not attending any school. Of the whole number of children 91,466 are in the public and private schools, or 91,132 percent of the total.

Child Killed by Brother

Stonington, Conn., Dec. 12.—John Fritz, 7 years old, was accidentally shot and killed by his brother Albert, aged 12, as the boys were on their way to hunt ducks. The elder brother says he stumbled and that his gun was discharged, killing John almost instantly.

Policeman's Sudden Death

Boston, Dec. 12.—Jeremiah J. Lehan, a night patrolman attached to the Jamaica Plain station, was found dead in a doorway on his route. Lehan had recently been ill with pneumonia. The officer's death was caused by heart failure, induced by exposure.

Probably Fatally Burned

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec. 12.—Mrs. John Dietrich, while cooking last night over a gasolene stove, was terribly burned and doubtless will die. The stove was defective, flames shooting out and catching her clothing and also that of her baby.

Steamer Wrecked on Rocks

Colombo, Ceylon, Dec. 12.—The British steamer Secundra, for New York with a cargo of citronella oil and rice, was totally wrecked on the rocks while leaving Galle, 66 miles from Colombo. Seven of her crew were drowned.

Hungarian Premier Assaulted

Vienna, Dec. 12.—A Budapest dispatch says that Premier Tisza, who was going to a political meeting, was attacked by a hostile crowd and that his carriage windows were stoned and broken.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

The residence of Percy Holman of South street is being repainted.

Mrs. Emma S. Leavitt is confined to her home on Willard street, quite ill.

The Dutch wind mill will be a pleasing novelty at the Bazaar of the Nations.

The monthly meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian club will be held tomorrow evening.

The firm of Blanchard & Lawson, the Quincy Sporting Goods Co., has been dissolved. Mr. Lawson will continue the business.

Mrs. White of Hanover is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. L. C. Hewson of Newcomb place.

Mrs. Beatrice Porterfield will give a matinee whist at her home on Granite street on Thursday afternoon.

The Brownie whist club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. M. A. H. Crane, Washington street, on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Brooks Adams of this city and Justice and Mrs. Oliver Wendell Holmes were guests of President and Mrs. Roosevelt at dinner Dec. 8.

Division 18, A. O. H., of this city was a guest Sunday of Division 32 of South Boston, when the four degrees were conferred on about thirty candidates.

The names of Mr. and Mrs. William Hart, who sent a spray of roses for the funeral of Mrs. Sarah Griffin, were inadvertently omitted in the Saturday Ledger.

Quite a decided change in the temperature today from what it was Sunday. At noon Sunday it was but 14 above zero. Today, however, at the same hour it was 30.

The religious table at the annual bazaar of the Young Ladies' Charitable Association at the Bijou theatre in Boston this week will be in charge of Mrs. Robert J. Teasdale of West Quincy.

At Draper hall, Dorchester, on Saturday evening the Quincy basket ball team was defeated by the Dorchester A. A. 34 to 2. The Dorchester second team also won from the Quincy second team 15 to 9.

News has been received from Oberlin, Kansas, from John Melville. He is much pleased with his surroundings and is at present making his home with Albert Crane Newcomb, formerly of this city.

The funeral of Mr. James Bisson was held Sunday afternoon from his late residence at 74 Water street. The services, which were attended by many of his friends, were conducted by Rev. William E. Gardner of Christ church. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

At the Saturday evening whist party in Doble's hall, eleven tables were in play, the highest score being 55. The souvenirs were carried off by Mrs. Peters, Mrs. Hall, Mr. Craig, Mrs. Esson, Mr. George Esson, Mrs. William Prout, Mr. Gray, Mr. Norris, Mrs. Newcombe and Mr. Prout.

A Worcester paper reports that E. Warren Hayden, formerly of this city, who has been general supervisor for the Cutting Co. of Worcester during two years of work at South Barre, has finished the contracts there, and, with the workmen and tools has left town and taken a contract at Littleton. Mr. Hayden's family expect to remain in Barre during the winter.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

City Council this evening.

Nathaniel Moody of Silver street is visiting friends in Everett.

Postmaster Hammond is expected home from Washington today.

Miss Blair has accepted a position as clerk at Chapin's news store.

There is a free demonstration this week at the store of L. M. Pratt & Son.

Mayor-elect Thompson is getting material ready for his inaugural address.

George E. Adams officiated as clerk at the district court this morning, Mr. Churchill being absent.

Annual meeting and election of officers of the Quincy Reform club at Faxon hall, this evening.

Granite lodge, O. S. S. G., will install officers at their meeting Wednesday evening and refreshments will be served.

The whist party of the Young Men's Club, at Quincy Point, which was announced for Wednesday evening, has been changed to Tuesday evening.

Mr. P. C. Call of Boston will address the Bethany Brotherhood tomorrow evening on "The light and shadows of city life." He comes in the place of Police Commissioner Emmons who has cancelled all his engagements.

The many patrons of the Post Office store at Quincy Point are sorry to learn that Charles Bosworth, one of the obliging clerks, has left the store to enter upon new duties. It is hoped that the best of success will follow him.

The special committee of the City Council on better train service between Quincy and Boston held a meeting Saturday evening. But little was accomplished, however. About all that was done was to instruct Councilman Stone to write to railroad officials asking them to appoint a time for conference.

SEWER SYSTEM

Construction Completed but Assessments to be Made.

The Sewer Commissioners have informed Mayor Bryant that they will be ready to turn that department over to the Commissioner of Public Works early in February. The work of construction will be completed this month but it will take some weeks to get out the assessments and clean up the office work.

New Music.

Three new pieces of music for the piano, just published by Louis H. Ross & Co. of 558 Washington street, Boston, are "The Arcade" a two-step by C. D. Blake, author of "Clayton's Grand March" and the other two by Kate Kyro, entitled "Bubbles" a schottisch-intermezzo, and Water Melon Breezes," an African characteristic march and two-step. All three are bound to become popular as they are melodious and catchy and not difficult of execution.

Miseries of the Red Sea.

In the waters of the Red sea the cessation of the engines on a steamer for an hour means extreme physical suffering for passengers. For a day it would involve absolute torture. The wind which prevails every day is a hot, asphyxiating blast, and its continuous directions are from north and south toward the center. As a result every passing vessel is subjected to two days of almost intolerable heat, followed by two days of comparative comfort, but instances have been known of crowded liners being compelled when traveling with the wind to turn round and steam back for an hour or so in order to give the passengers even a brief respite from the sufferings induced by the dull, dead, unbearable atmosphere. —London Tit-Bits.

Defiance.

A little boy in Deering, Me., was brought before his father recently and accused of killing a chicken. "Who told you about it?" asked the boy. "The hen did," said the father. Nothing more was said that day, but the next morning the hen was found dead, and the boy, being accused of killing it, admitted it, saying in defense, "Yes, I did kill the hen, and I'll kill every hen that tells on me."

Justified.

City Editor—Why do you say he ran into the police station "puffing and blowing?" "Puffing" and "blowing" are synonymous. Reporter—Not at all. There's a vast difference—for instance, between puffing a man up and blowing him up.—Philadelphia Ledger.

His Matches.

"You told me this horse had won half a dozen matches against some of the best horses in the country. He can't trot a mile in six minutes to save him."

"It was in plowing matches that he took the prizes, sir."

A look of intelligence in a man is what regularity of features is in women; it is a style of beauty to which the most vain may aspire.—La Bruyere.

☞ Main Spring while you wait. Watch cleaned $1.—Williams.

BILL OF PRICES.

Granite Manufacturers and the Union Have Appointed Committees.

Committees have been appointed, both by the Granite Manufacturers' Association and the Granite Cutters' Union, to consider the changes desired by both organizations in the bill of prices which expires next March.

The committees have not met as yet but will in a few days. It is the general wish of the organizations as well as business men and citizens at large, that a peaceful understanding may be reached and that there will be no labor trouble in Quincy in 1905.

The last agreement between the two associations ran for three years. The new agreement should run fully as long if not longer.

The Fastest Battleship.

A London cable to the Herald says the remarkable efficiency of the battleship King Edward VII. is not generally known. All that has been divulged about its recent horse power trials was that they were satisfactory, which was understood to mean that the contract speed of 18.5 knots had been fulfilled. As a matter of fact, the battleship achieved a more notable performance. For more than five hours she maintained 19.9 knots an hour, while at one period of the run the log registered 25 knots. The mean average of eight hours was 19.5 knots. The King Edward VII. is therefore a full knot faster than contract speed. The admiralty consider they now possess probably the fastest battleship in the world.

The King Edward VII. is of 16,000 tons displacement, and carries an armament nearly as heavy as that to be given the 16,000-ton battleships building for the American navy, of the Connecticut and Louisiana type.

Vespers at Quincy Point.

The vesper service at the Point church was largely attended Sunday afternoon. The musical program made the service most impressive and was as follows:

Organ prelude.
The Strain Upraise, Choir
Responsive Reading, Pastor
Ninety and Nine, by Edw Campion
Sung by Mrs. Moore.
Old Testament Selection, Pastor
Rejoice, the Heart Trio and Choir
New Testament Selection, Pastor
The Penitent, by Beardsley Van de Water
Sung by Albert Hayden.

Prayer, benediction and postlude.

At Boston Reception.

Members of the John Adams chapter of this city attended on Saturday an informal reception given the Junior Sons and Daughters of the Revolution, at the headquarters of the Daughters of the Revolution, Colonial Building, Boston. The guests of honor was Mrs Adeline F. Fitz, president of the National Society Junior Sons and Daughters and state regent D. R. The hostesses were Mrs. Henry Weston, Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. Alice M. Granger and Miss Anna Whiting.

Fish Hawk a Quincy Boat.

The schooner Fish Hawk reported lost on Sunday on Peaked Hill bars near Provincetown, but afterwards floated, was built in Quincy by Hanley in 1902. She is 86.2 ft. long, 24.4 breadth, and has a gross tonnage of 91. She carried a crew of 18. Four lost their lives in attempting to reach land in a in a dory.

A Protection.

Mayor Bryant's offer of money prizes to Quincy policemen, who make the best records at official shoots, properly advertised among the "yeggs" and professional burglars, is valid insurance for property owners and householders. —Record.

Position Waits For Warner

Washington, Dec. 12.—President Roosevelt has informed several members of congress that he will not consider the appointment of any other man to the office of commissioner of pensions until he has received a final answer from Major Warner of Missouri, to whom a proffer of the position has been made.

The Denver Election Frauds

Denver, Dec. 12.—Four election officials of precinct 6, ward 5, have been sentenced to jail, having been found guilty of permitting fraudulent practices at the recent election. The extreme sentence was nine months' imprisonment and $500 fine and costs.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Trimmings For Costumes—The New Muff—A Novelty In Velvet.

Very lovely evening gowns are made of black chiffon adorned with medallions of lace, which are further beautified with silver sequins. A pretty fancy is to outline the medallions with beads or paillettes, these latter laid on one over the other in a continuous circle.

Tucks in a variety of different widths from the minutest "pin tucks" are very much used on the gowns of today. The wide religieuse tuck is to be seen on a number of taffeta frocks, and in cases where the taffeta is changeable the tucks are cut on the cross and applied separately. This cutting gives them a different coloring from the rest of the dress, and the effect is very striking.

Some of the newest muffs are almost in the shape of a tea cozy, being very large and soft and opened underneath, where the fur is lined with chiffon or satin. The muff itself is hidden behind bows of soft colored ribbon.

A novelty among the smartest silk velvets is an embossed satin spot about the size of a pea, which is of a darker shade than the groundwork. In some cases it is of quite a different color from the velvet and is outlined with a narrow rim of white.

The chic dancing dress pictured is of blue chiffon taffeta. About the skirt is a plaited ruffle, finished at the bottom with wide satin ribbon. Heading the ruffle is a band formed of tucked silk edged with black lace insertion. The banded effect is further emphasized by two graduated pieces of lace applied above the band. The baby waist is gathered in to a girdle and is strapped with lace and blue ribbon. A novel effect is gained by shirring the taffeta over the shoulders and a few inches down each side of the front. The sleeves are shirred and banded with the black lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Jackson was fined $3 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Loring Bigelow was arraigned upon two complaints, one for evading fare on a street car at Quincy, and the second for disorderly conduct on a street car. The first case was dismissed and the second continued until Dec. 16.

—Henry L. Kincaide & Co. have one of the most attractive stores in the county. It is full from top to bottom with just the things suitable for Christmas gifts and it is well for purchasers not to delay until the cream of the collection has been sold. What is more acceptable than a fine piece of furniture?

—Europe has an excess of females; every other continent, so far as known, has an excess of males.

DAINTY PAPER GIFTS.

They Are Inexpensive and Acceptable—Pretty Lamp Shade.

At this season of the year the making of Christmas presents takes up much of every woman's time and thought. To the perplexed individual here is a suggestion. Nothing is less expensive than paper, and out of it may be fashioned many dainty gifts. Lamp shades are always acceptable and are easily made in spite of the apparent difficulty. Dainty paper flowers for use on handkerchief cases, glove boxes, candy boxes and the like help to make inexpensive presents very charming. The ease with which they may be made is as astonishing as the perfection to which they may be brought after a little practice.

Every conceivable color is represented in flower papers, but the beginner

needs few. A quire of white paper, a quire each of three shades of yellow, a quire each of rose pink and coral pink, one of olive green, a pound of stem wire and a gross of rose leaves will be a sufficient outfit. If lamp shades are to be made, a dark red gives a fine effect when placed over a light. Aside from the paper, one needs a couple of spools of coarse linen thread, a pot of white paste, a little cotton batting, a dull knife and a small cushion nearly filled with bran. This last is to curl chrysanthemums on.

Later on a few rose centers, some calyxes and culots for the carnations and rubber tubing for covering rose stems may be indulged in. One can even find thorns ready to glue along the stems. Pond lilies have special stamens and pistils, and popples have a natural seed cup and made pistils.

One thing may be mentioned as being a great addition to any scheme of decoration, and that is to purchase a good sized bunch of maidenhair fern and dip it into a kettle of hot water where an ounce of beeswax has been melted, lifting it out slowly. This coats it and preserves it indefinitely. A spray of this with any kind of flower adds greatly to its delicate beauty.

To make a lamp or candle shade dry green colored leaves and ferns between blotting paper, pressing heavily. Take a plain candle shade, trace its shape on butter paper, allowing turnings, and cut out roughly. Arrange the leaves prettily within the pencil lines, stick with transparent gum, place a plain piece of paper on the top and press till dry. Cut out and join carefully. Edge with green or white fringe.

HANDY SEWING SCREEN.

How a Christmas Gift For Mother May Be Made.

The handy sewing screen shown in the accompanying illustration is one that would bring delight to mother, whose sewing materials always have a way of becoming misplaced through lack of a safe place for them. This little screen will be easily made at home by any one handy with hammer and nails or by a carpenter. It is painted to imitate cherry, oak or any wood desired, and the cretonne is cut out and fitted and tacked to the frame with small brass headed tacks. One side is made with divisions for holding various materials for mending. Above this is a narrow ledge or shelf where the spools of silk or cotton, needlebook, thimble case, etc., are to be kept. Small brass hooks are placed in the top of the frame for holding scissors, emery bag, etc. A hanging shelf is arranged on the other side, and above this are smaller pockets.

A New Tablecloth.

The latest in homemade Christmas gifts is the "autograph" tablecloth, and this is nothing more or less than the autographs of one's dearest friends written by them in pencil on a fine linen afternoon teacloth and embroidered in outline with different colored silks, the monotony of the autographs being varied by an occasional spray of flowers.

This device is a quaint record of one's friends and at present exceedingly fashionable. Some people go in for the autographs of celebrities of the drama or literature, but this fad occasions a good deal of trouble, as the autographs of celebrities are more or less difficult to obtain.

Whisk Holders.

Ordinary butchers' cuffs can be converted into attractive hair receivers or whisk holders, which are useful Christmas presents. To make the former cut a piece of cardboard to fit the bottom. Then make a ruffle of silk in a shade to harmonize with the color of the room. Sew around the top and bottom with a strap of the silk tucked on either side for a hanging. A large bow arranged in the center of a receiver adds to its attractiveness. The whisk holders are made in a similar manner, omitting the cardboard.

THE DATE SET

For Opening New Y. M. C. A. Building

Gymnasium Will Be Ready Dec. 20.

Main Building Will Require Several Weeks Longer.

Next week Tuesday is set for entering the new Y. M. C. A. building. Some record breaking work is being done by all the contractors in finishing the gymnasium, dressing room and baths so this part of the equipment may be used at the earliest moment.

Though the main building cannot be completed for two months yet, several departments of work can and will be pushed in the gymnasium end of the building.

The building is so arranged that the public can enter by the east side entrance, passing through the physical director's office, which will be used as the main office temporarily.

The running track gallery is sufficiently wide, well lighted and heated to allow portions of it to be used for social purposes and a reading room.

Current magazines and daily papers will be on file and a piano placed in a convenient position for use in Sunday meetings and gymnasium classes.

Physical Director Bugbee has his class schedule arranged and will announce it the last of this week. It provides classes in gymnastics for business men, young men, students, working boys and juniors.

It will take a few days to get things in running order, but the first of the New Year should see everything going smoothly.

There are classes and prices for all. Annual membership fees are payable in advance and date from the first of each month. All who join now will have their tickets dated January, 1905. A full year is assured whenever the membership begins.

The regular or limited fee will be $2.00; the gymnasium or full, $8.00; intermediates (students' class,) $5.00. Boys under 14 years and over 12, $3.50.

The very best kind of a Christmas or New Year's gift would be a year's membership in the Association. It lasts the year round and will be a continual source of benefit and pleasure.

The thing to do is to join now. Application blanks can be found at 1355 Hancock street, where the educational classes are in operation every evening, or at W. G. Shaw's store, and at the building after Monday.

Noah Curtis Dead.

Noah Curtis, a native of this city, died at his residence in Boston on Sunday after a long illness. He was born in November 1839, and was the son of the late Benjamin and Emeline Spear Curtis, who resided on School street, at the corner of Gay street.

For over 100 years the boot and shoe business which he conducted has been established. Until a few years ago his manufactory was on Granite street in what is now known as the Aluminum building, the late E. W. H. Bass being superintendent. The offices of the company are on High street, Boston.

At one time Mr. and Mrs. Curtis resided at the corner of Hancock and Greenleaf streets, but some years ago moved to Boston, and their home was at 24 Concord square. Mr. Curtis leaves a widow and one son.

Benjamin F. Curtis, formerly Principal Assessor of Quincy, is a brother.

The burial will be at Mt. Wollaston cemetery at Quincy.

Funeral of Mr. Fletcher.

The funeral of the late James B. Fletcher was held Monday afternoon from his late residence at 77 Garfield street. The services were conducted by Rev. N. J. Sproul of the Water Street Presbyterian church. Musical selections were rendered by a quartet. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston.

Verdict for Quarryman.

Before Judge Aiken in the Suffolk Superior court on Monday William Corcoran of Quincy recovered a verdict of $250 against the Quincy Granite Quarries Company for personal injuries received while in its employ.

☞Eyeglasses fitted scientifically. No guess work.—Williams.

THE ALLIANCE.

Christmas Was the Theme of the Meeting This Week.

There was an overflow of the meeting of the Alliance of First church on Monday afternoon. The parlor not being large enough to accommodate the two hundred attending, the chapel was used.

Mrs. George G. Saville, the president, presided at the business meeting at the close of which she introduced Mrs. E. C. Butler who had the afternoon's program in charge.

It was appropriate to the Christmas season. After a few remarks by Mrs. Butler, the exercises began with the reading of the Nativity from St. Luke and from Milton's ode, by Rev. E. C. Butler.

"It came upon the midnight clear," was beautifully sung by Mrs. Henry Tirrell, Mrs. Horace F. Spear, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann and Mrs. Wilson Marsh.

Rev. Frank Wright Pratt of the Wollaston Unitarian church read a Christmas poem by Josephine Daskam Bacon, followed by the carol "O little town of Bethlehem," feelingly sung by Miss Florence R. Emery.

The reading of a Christmas hymn by Rev. Mr. Meyer of Natick preceded a Christmas song by Mrs. John D. Buckingham.

The interest of the afternoon centered in Rev. John Snyder of Wellesley Hills. No one can read a Christmas carol with quite as much feeling as he. Last year at the Christmas meeting of the Alliance his listeners laughed and wept with him as he read Dickens' "Christmas Carol." This year he read that beautiful little story "The Birds' Christmas Carol," by Kate Douglas Wiggins. The musical part of the story was sung by Mrs. Ellsworth E. Morgan. It gave much pleasure to the listeners.

Although "The Birds' Christmas Carol," is a child's story it is one that is read and re-read many times by older people without loss of interest, and as read by Mr. Snyder was beautiful.

A social half hour followed; hot chocolate and cake being served by members of the Alliance, bringing to an end the most delightful afternoon of the season.

☞Call at J. A. Johnson's, 401 Hancock street, Norfolk Downs, for your Christmas presents. He has a fine stock of Christmas goods which he is selling low. Just drop in and examine and you will be surprised to find how cheap he is selling. Good pocket knives very low.

SALARY INCREASES.

Several Amendments to Ordinances Proposed by the City Council.

A Day Off for the Permanent Firemen is Also Passed Under Suspension of Rules.

Amendments to City Ordinances increasing the current expenses of the city were numerous at Monday evening's meeting of the City Council, and caused more or less discussion. All were advanced a stage, however, without curtailment.

Councilmen Gassett, Hadlock, Holmes Loud, McFarland, Nickerson and Reardon were the absentees.

COMMUNICATION.

The Mayor sent a communication relative to soldiers aid now paid a Mr. Beal of Randolph. To Committee on Finance and State Aid.

The Mayor sent in the appointment of the following special constables for duty only at the yards of the Fore River Co.: Andrew Olsen, Charles H. Tower, William E. Andrews and Albert A. Hayden. Confirmed.

The Mayor asked for a transfer of $100 from enforcement of liquor law to special police and miscellaneous police. To Finance Committee.

The Board of Health asked for a transfer from the appropriation for miscellaneous account to garbage account. To Finance Committee.

The Mayor sent a communication asking that the Council pass an order authorizing the City Solicitor to confer with the Railroad Commissioners and officials of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Laid on the table.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Sewers and Health reported reference to the next Council on the order relative to filling in the canal.

The Committee on Finance reported on order refunding B. J. Langhorn $18.77, one-half cost of edgestones on Quincy street.

The Committee on Finance reported on order refunding Edith W. Whiton $15, one-half cost of sidewalk on Whitney road.

The Committee on Finance reported a substitute order relative to the city scales. The substitute located on Granite street near the freight depot. Adopted. The order which appropriates $600 was passed to be ordained.

The Committee on Finance reported an order appropriating $525 from unexpended balances and receipts for State and military aid.

The ordergranting the Telephone company permission to attach wires to poles on Sea street was passed.

The Committee on Elections reported the result of the Municipal election of Dec. 6.

RAILROAD SERVICE.

Councilman Bass offered an order, as outlined by the Mayor, authorizing the City Solicitor to confer with the Railroad Commissioners and officials of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. with a view of better service, and that he have full power to settle all differences.

Councilman Stone did not like the idea of shutting out the special committee until it had a chance to get together and turn their material over to the City Solicitor. Nothing had been done until after this committee was appointed.

City Solicitor Blackmar said that the matter had not been idle but that much had been accomplished by the executive department. There were many questions now aside from more trains. He had no intention of stepping on the toes of the committee, but would endeavor to incorporate their wishes.

Councilman Stone—We have a great deal of information but we do not want to do anything to prevent the City getting an improvement of service.

Mayor Bryant—Under this order the City Solicitor is empowered to do certain things. The committee can refer their recommendations to him. We have got to have some one to say what we want when we go before the commissioners. The committee can confer with the Solicitor between now and Thursday, the date of the hearing.

The order was adopted.

Councilman Bass offered an order transferring $68.23 from advertising and printing for City Clerk of 1903, to the same appropriation for 1904. Adopted.

Councilman Bass offered an order transferring $245.50 received from tuition of school children to school appropriation. Adopted.

SALARY INCREASES.

The communication relative to the salary of City Auditor was taken from the table and an offered changing the the salary from $600 to $1000. To joint Committee on Finance and Ordinance.

Councilman Stewart offered an order increasing the salary of the Registrars of Voters from $150 to $200 per year. To joint committee on Finance and Ordinances.

Councilman Bass offered an order refunding tax of $12.45 to J. W. Gillis. To Ordinance Committee.

DAY OFF FOR FIREMEN.

Upon motion of Councilman Piper the order relative to giving permanent firemen one day off in eight was taken from the table. The order took its second reading.

Councilman Piper moved suspension of rules.

Councilman Hardwick opposed passage. Council did not have facts in mind sufficiently to vote intelligently.

Councilman Whiton favored. The men should have privilege of going to their homes at least once a week. If we can afford to raise salaries we can afford to give men one day off.

Councilman Thompson—This simply legalizes what the Chief Engineer is doing now.

Councilman Stone favored motion.

Rules suspended by a vote of 14 in favor and one against, Councilman Hardwick alone voting nay.

Councilman Hughes moved to amend by making it read one day off in every ten. He later withdrew his motion and the order was passed.

MORE FIREMEN.

The order increasing the number of men in the Fire Department was taken from the table. This order added three permanent men to the department, one to be stationed at Houghs Neck and two unattached.

Councilman Bass said this could be acted on next year, and it was desirable to have it come in with the budget.

Councilman Gearwar hoped order would pass.

Considerable discussion followed during which the Councilmen became somewhat mixed owing to the fact that one unattached man was now carried on the pay roll, although not provided for in the ordinances.

Councilman Whiton proposed an

GOOD AFTERNOON.

The Quincy Young Men's Association will have one of the best Christmas presents. The new building will be ready for occupation next week. It should be a joyful Christmas, and we believe it will be.

With so many amendments to city salaries as proposed, the City Council should stop and consider if it is wise to make so many increases in one year. It should be remembered that the amount is limited by law which the city may expend for current expenses.

Archbishop Ryan, in his Thanksgiving sermon in Philadelphia, said: "This great, glorious, and brave country has for its Chief Executive a fearless young chieftain who does his duty without fear or favor to both Church and State. More we do not ask and more we could not expect." So say we all of us!

There is an 80-year old long-range forecaster of the weather in Middle Haddam, Conn., who predicts that the coming winter will be of very great severity, a season never to be forgotten. He says there is to be a great fall of snow. The old gentleman should be pensioned or else the weather bureau should get out an injunction.

The city has received from water rates for the eleven months of 1904 the handsome sum of $96,200.54. The expenditures have been: Maintenance account $9,360.01; maturing water debt, $31,500.00; interest on water debt, $27,260.00; Metropolitan water assessment, $34,084.24; a total of $102,204.25. It looks as if the water department would soon be self supporting.

Drift of Opinion.

☞The question of the proper ventilation of the street cars is to be determined by the Supreme Court. The Boston and Northern Railway operates in 47 different cities and towns, and rather than adopt the regulations made by the Board of Health in Chelsea, which might not fit other towns, a friendly action is brought in order that a judicial decree by competent authority shall determine the questions at issue. It was a good way to settle a troublesome question.—Lynn Item.

☞The panic that struck the stock market last week had no terrors for men and women who had invested in stocks. There was absolutely no change in value of the securities they had purchased, and in a week's time they will represent as many dollars in apparent value as they did previous to this disturbance. The only people who had occasion to get nervous were those who had invested their money in a chance on stocks in which they offered themselves as the football of the big fellows on the street and simply wagered their money on the outcome of the game. — Haverhill Gazette.

☞We have much to say about the superstitions of the ancients, and ridicule Greeks and Romans who heeded omens such as were seen in the flight of birds, the behavior of animals, and the entrails of sacrifices. But all these ancient superstitions remain rudimentary forms, like the survival of organs which have lost their use. We try now to give a rational account of the omens derived from the behavior of birds, beasts and plants. People are never tired of predicting what the next season is to be. Somebody writes and prints some vague account of observations of the behavior of woodchucks, the flight of wild birds, the moss on trees, the thickness of corn husks and other protective coverings. Now nobody makes any careful series of observations, and would discover nothing to the purpose if he did; but his account is eagerly read and believed by thousands of so-called intelligent people. They like to think of some occult influence pervading nature, in still and animated life, through which the future is forecast and provided for while as yet it is not.—Christian Register.

Chadwick Averse to Discussing His Wife's Troubles

INTERVIEWED IN PARIS

Daily Learns New Features About the Case Which He Never Knew Before--Not Acquainted With Carnegie

Paris, Dec. 13.—Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick of Cleveland, whose wife, Cassie L. Chadwick, is held a prisoner in New York, charged with frauds of a financial nature, has been staying here quietly for some time, occupying quarters in a hotel in the centre of Paris, but, owing to the notoriety of his wife's affairs, he has observed the greatest seclusion. Dr. Chadwick was interviewed and consented to talk regarding the troubles of his wife, but requested that the name of the hotel at which he is stopping be not disclosed, owing to the mortification it would occasion him.

Dr. Chadwick is somewhat beyond middle age, of slender build, and his face is very pale, giving him the appearance of an invalid, which he explains is the result of a recent serious attack of Roman fever, from which he is slowly recovering. He has not the appearance of a person accustomed to affluent surroundings. He has a keen visage and alert and rather nervous manners. He frequently reiterates his desire to avoid attracting attention, mainly on account of his daughter, a prepossessing girl of 19, by his former wife, and who is accompanying him.

A press correspondent talked for an hour with Dr. Chadwick, going over the most important features of Mrs. Chadwick's affairs. His answers were given slowly and with evidence of great caution. "It is most unpleasant to me," Dr. Chadwick said, "to be interviewed under the present circumstances. It was an extreme shock to me when I saw the newspaper reports concerning the case. I learn every day new features about the affair which I never knew before. I do not think it desirable to enter into details until I return to America, as there have been so many mis-statements that I do not know just what are the facts and what is fiction. There is no truth in the report that Mrs. Chadwick settled a large sum on me. Do I look like a man of millions?"

Dr. Chadwick called attention to his appearance as he uttered this remark, saying: "Anyone would be able to see that I am not a man who had received millions from his wife."

Asked concerning reports that Mrs. Chadwick is in reality Lydia DeVere, he answered: "The first time that I ever heard the name of Mme. DeVere in this connection was when I saw it recently in the newspapers. He declined to discuss further the circumstances of his marriage, saying it was a matter of public record and purely personal.

Questioned upon the financial aspects of his wife's affairs, Dr. Chadwick replied: "The financial matters in the case do not affect me in the slightest. They speak of bonds being found. I would like to know what these bonds and papers look like."

The doctor was shown a publication stating that the alleged securities embraced those of several millions of dollars signed or endorsed with the name Andrew Carnegie. "I do not know Andrew Carnegie personally," replied Dr. Chadwick.

"Does your wife know Mr. Carnegie?" the doctor was asked.

"I would rather not discuss Andrew Carnegie," said the doctor.

A number of questions of similar purport concerning individual financial transactions failed to elicit a specific response. Dr. Chadwick continued: "I would not like to harm anybody. I am very sorry to hear that Mr. Reynolds, secretary of the Park bank of Cleveland, an old and trusted friend, is in trouble. I have the profoundest respect for him and his family. I have met Mr. Beckwith of the Citizens' bank of Oberlin only twice, or perhaps three times. From what I saw of him I have the greatest respect for him and believe him to be an honest man.

"Concerning my relations with Mrs. Chadwick, I will explain them on my return to the United States. As to any real estate which she asserts she may have, that is a matter of public record, and her personal means I will not talk about. Naturally I am taking a great interest in the case, but I have not seen any lawyers relative to my status. Although I have not yet taken any definite steps concerning sailing, I intend leaving Paris for the United States in a week or 10 days."

Being asked whether he was in communication with his wife, Dr. Chadwick refused to reply.

VARDAMAN'S OATH

Mississippi Will Never Share Sovereignty With the Negro

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 13.—Governor Vardaman made the opening speech at the Cotton and Corn Carnival and after welcoming the visitors, branched off into politics. In touching on the attitude that southern representatives should assume in their fight against the reduction of southern representation, the governor said:

"And instead of going to the congress of the United States and saying that there is no distinction made in Mississippi because of color or previous condition of servitude, tell the truth and say this:

"'We tried for many years to live in Mississippi and share sovereignty and dominion with the negro and we saw our institutions crumbling, we saw the public funds squandered, we saw the civilization that our forefathers had fought for passing away; and the law of self-preservation being the first law we observed it; we rose in the majesty and highest type of Angro-Saxon manhood and took the reins of government out of the hands of the carpetbagger and negro, and, so help us God, from now on, we will never share any sovereignty or dominion with him again.'"

The governor's remarks have created a sensation.

Think They Have Safe Blowers

Baltimore, Dec. 13.—A man who gave his name as Edward Morgan, 24 years old, and his wife, Maud, about 22 years of age, were arrested here in connection with the bank robberies in Laplata and Mount Airy. The police authorities are of the opinion that Morgan was the leader in both the bank robberies above referred to. Including Mrs. Morgan, there are in all 25 persons in custody here on charges of being implicated in bank and post-office robberies in seven states. The authorities expect to prove that they have captured a gang of safe-blowers, notorious in all parts of the country.

Imprudent Indeed

London, Dec. 13.—Admiral Seymour has opened an inquiry at Devonport in the matter of the protest filed by Captain Mills of the American line steamer Philadelphia, in which it was asserted that the lives of the 1000 passengers on board the steamer had been endangered as she was approaching port by reckless gunnery practice from a British gunboat. It was admitted that some shells struck the water nearer the Philadelphia than was prudent.

Busy Day In the House

Washington, Dec. 13.—The house transacted quite a large amount of miscellaneous business yesterday, starting with pension bills and considering the Hill finance bill later in the day. A number of bills of local character were passed. The bill transferring the forest reserves from the department of the interior to the agricultural department, which has been pending in congress for several years, was passed.

Religious Parade Ends In Riot

Madrid, Dec. 13.—The feast of the Virgin was marked by a riotous scene at Valencia. A procession of 6000 women bearing tapers to the cathedral came in conflict with a Republican demonstration and a general fight ensued. The gendarmes were unable to disperse the combatants by charging, and fired several rounds from their carbines into the mob. Many persons, including women, were wounded.

Thinks Statesmen Underpaid

Washington, Dec. 13.—Senator Stewart has introduced a bill to fix presidential and congressional salaries. It proposes to raise the salary of the president to $200,000 a year; the vice president and speaker of the house of representatives to $20,000 each, and each senator, representative and delegate to $10,000. It is provided that the bill shall take effect March 4, 1909.

Many Wrecks Off Newfoundland

St. Johns, Dec. 13.—The worst gale in 15 years swept this island last night. Bank Fanny and schooners Hibernia, Tidal Wave and Harold Parks were driven ashore and totally wrecked. Many other vessels were damaged. A number of ships, including four steamers and several sailing craft, have been delayed by the storm.

Bicyclists Get Prize Money

New York, Dec. 13.—Prize money due the 14 riders who stayed to the end of the six-day race which closed Saturday night was paid yesterday. In addition to the purses, each rider received a bonus of $50 a day, as did the riders who were forced to drop out of the contest because of injuries or exhaustion.

Amateur Actors In Danger

Norwich, N. Y., Dec. 13.—Fire in the Academy of Music building last night did damage estimated at $25,000. The fire started from an unknown cause. Sixty girls who were on the stage rehearsing for an entertainment to be given at a church fair narrowly escaped from the burning theatre.

Panama Mission Completed

The class is looking forward to the fun with great anticipation.

The Church Mouse.

It is generally supposed to be a fact that a church mouse ought to be lean and hungry, but the one that capered about Memorial church floor Sunday morning during the service was fat and playful and withal an object of great trepidation to the women. During Sunday school, the children, fearless on account of large numbers, kept the tiny creature in a state of unrest until, its fear getting the better of its prudence it was cornered and captured by little Miss Doris Cummings.

Copper Shares Suffer Another Tremendous Slump

AN ATTACK UPON LAWSON

President of the Greene Consolidated, Which Lost Over $7,000,000 In One Day, Calls Boston Broker Harsh Names

Boston, Dec. 13.—The Boston stock market was demoralized practically all day yesterday and closed in an unsettled condition. Weakness in the copper shares was pronounced in sympathy with a heavy slump in Amalgamated and Greene Consolidated. Sensational attacks upon Amalgamated copper, made in display advertisements by a well known Boston operator, induced many small holders of Amalgamated, especially in New England, to sell their stock, and under a flood of offerings in Wall street the price steadily declined.

Colonel W. C. Greene, president of the Greene Consolidated Copper company declares in a half-page advertisement published in today's Post, that he will come from New York today, call on Thomas W. Lawson at his office, and "denounce him as a liar, a fakir and a charlatan."

Greene's company suffered a loss of over $7,000,000 in the tremendous slump in the stock market yesterday which followed Lawson's renewed onslaught on Amalgamated Copper and the Standard Oil "system." While Amalgamated kept dropping steadily from 69½ to 61 3-4 Greene Consolidated began to tumble and in a short time dropped from 34 1-8 to 24.

Greene accuses Lawson of breaking the market by false statements and misrepresentations, and entirely for his own selfish ends. He says Lawson is robbing the innocent public of millions.

In the meantime investors and speculators are worrying as to what may happen in the market today. With dozens of stocks breaking from 3 to 10 points yesterday, and closing at the lowest, and with brokers calling for additional margins, it is feared that there will be a flood of selling orders which will carry stocks to a still lower level today.

Lawson has issued another statement, in which he says that what he has done up to the present is only "preliminary skirmishing." An attempt was made to reach Lawson last evening to ask him how he would receive Greene, but he declined to be seen.

The Slump In New York

New York, Dec. 13.—Beginning with heavy declines in Amalgamated Copper, yesterday's stock market was weak throughout the entire session, the occasional rallies failing to hold prices for more than a few minutes at a time. Brokers seemed to have nothing but selling orders, they said, and they did not look beyond that fact, the recent reckless speculation and the campaign by newspaper advertisement against a copper stock to find reasons for the drop in prices. The market closed weak, with prices generally at the lowest. More than 2,000,000 shares of stocks changed hands during the day.

The violence of the opening declines was so great and so pronounced that many brokers and traders on the floor were overwhelmed with surprise and for a little while were quite nonplussed. Any market support that may have existed was without the slightest effect.

One of the most sensational breaks was in Greene Consolidated copper on the curb. It had been selling around 84 early in the day, and had declined only nominally. In the afternoon the stock broke nearly 10 points to 22. Ten points in Greene copper is the full par value of $10.

Inaugural Parade Plans

Washington, Dec. 13.—President Roosevelt's guard of honor in the inaugural parade on March 4 will be a squadron of about 50 picked men from his old regiment of Rough Riders—the First United States volunteer cavalry. It is the wish of the president that no other members of the Rough Riders than those selected by Colonel Brodie take part in the parade.

Objected to Mills' Confirmation

Washington, Dec. 13.—In the executive session of the senate, which was devoted entirely to the confirmation of presidential nominations, Senator Blackburn criticised the appointment of General Mills as brigadier general, saying that this officer had not performed service warranting his promotion over so many deserving officers. Mills was confirmed.

Police Ready For Business

St. Petersburg, Dec. 13.—A slight student affair took place at the palace bridge yesterday afternoon. The students were crossing in a body and the police, thinking they contemplated a renewal of Sunday's demonstration, first sought to interfere, but when convinced to the contrary they allowed the students to proceed.

SKELETON IN COURT

Introduced to Try and Prove Guilt of Nan Patterson

New York, Dec. 13.—A headless human skeleton, dorsal vertebrae and ribs played an important part in the trial of Nan Patterson for the murder of "Caesar" Young, yesterday. The exhibits were made use of in the examination of Dr. Philip O'Hanlon, the coroner's physician, who performed the autopsy on Young's body. Miss Patterson's counsel protested at the use of the skeleton, asserting that it did not compare correctly with the structure of the dead man's body, but his objections were overruled.

The skeleton was used to decide the course of the bullet after it entered Young's body. The prosecution contended that it had gone straight to the spine, thus proving that Young did not kill himself.

Assuming that Young, with the pistol in his right hand, had crossed it over to his chest and shot into his left side, the prosecution contended that the bullet would have travelled to the left. The fact that it flew straight inwards to the spine they allege as conclusive that the wound was not self-inflicted. Dr. O'Hanlon was positive that the bullet had taken a straight course to the right.

Lawyer Levy, for the defense, tried to gain an admission that the muscular covering of the ribs at the point of entrance of the bullet may have deflected its course, but O'Hanlon declared that there had been no deflection until the bullet struck the spine.

Shelling Port Arthur Town

London, Dec. 13.—With all its heavy ships except the battleship Sevestopol "completely destroyed," as the Japanese commander at Port Arthur reports, Russia's first Pacific fleet may be considered eliminated from the present issues of the war. The destruction of the town itself will operate indirectly to weaken the resistance of the garrison by disposing of supplies and repair materials, which cannot be housed within the forts to any great extent. The bombardment must later be directed against the forts, but the best preparation for that is the destruction of food and water supplies on which the garrison must be depending.

Testimony In Smoot Case

Washington, Dec. 13.—Three witnesses were heard yesterday in the case of Senator Smoot before the senate committee on privileges and elections, the committee resuming its investigation after a long recess. Rev. J. M. Buckley told of a Mormon meeting he attended in Salt Lake last summer, in which President Smith declared that he would not give up his plural wives. Most of the testimony related to the Mormon inside policy, but did not connect Smoot with any of the alleged violations of state or national statutes.

Peculiar Feature of Wreck

Springfield, O., Dec. 13.—A special train with a party of Pennsylvania railroad officials on a tour of inspection collided last evening with a freight train on a siding and seven men were injured. It is not believed that any fatalities will result. The members of the party on the special train were out for the express purpose of inspecting signals and switches.

NEWS IN BRIEF

SHOT FOR FIFTH TIME

Maine Youth Has Become a Receptacle For Bullets

Oakland, Me., Dec. 13.—Arthur Sawtelle, for the fifth time in his life of 20 years, was accidentally shot yesterday afternoon. He was visiting a cousin, William Fisher, and was engaged in cleaning revolvers when his companion, according to the story that is told of the affair, picked up one that he had just laid down and playfully pointed it at him, pulling the trigger without thinking it might be loaded.

It was loaded, and the bullet entered Sawtelle's head just back of the left temple and has not been removed. His condition, while serious, is not considered necessarily fatal. He has lost an arm by the accidental discharge of a shotgun, and has been shot in the side, in the leg and twice in the head by revolvers.

Small Blizzard In Connecticut

New Haven, Dec. 13.—Transportation companies, both trolley and steam, are the principal sufferers from a storm that has covered the state with snow for a depth of eight inches. Reports from all over the state reveal a distressing condition as far as trolley service is concerned. The wind caused huge drifts to be made in the outskirts of the cities, stalling hundreds of cars throughout the state. Little damage is reported thus far to telephone and telegraph wires.

Driven From Home by Fire

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 13.—Four families, including 18 children, were driven hastily from their lodgings over Dennis F. Reardon's grocery store into the storm-swept street last night by a fire which in less than half an hour gutted the entire building, as well as an adjoining barn. The fire burned so rapidly that four horses in the barn were burned to death. The loss on the store and tenement is estimated at $12,000.

Missing Man Found Drowned

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 13.—The body of Albert A. Hatch, aged 69, member of a firm of building contractors, was taken from the sea near Red Rock late yesterday. Hatch disappeared from his office yesterday morning and a search was instituted. The death certificate gave cause of death as probable suicide by drowning.

Forgery Charge Against Him

Sanford, Me., Dec. 13.—Sheriff Fogg reached here last evening with Edgar F. Gentleman of Porter, who was arrested in Boston on Saturday. Gentleman, who was wanted to answer to an indictment for forgery, was apprehended by Boston police and held for Maine officers. He waived extradition proceedings.

Woman Burned to Death

Portland, Me., Dec. 13.—Mrs. Mary King, aged 58, was so severely burned while attending her kitchen fire last night that she died a short time later. Her clothing was ignited and her body was quickly enveloped in flames. She leaves a husband and four children.

Girls' Assailant Insane

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 13.—Marshall Bean, who is alleged to have attacked several girls in Lowell a few months ago, throwing one from a bridge into the river, was declared insane in the superior court here and sentenced to the Bridgewater insane asylum.

Alleged Robber In Custody

Boston, Dec. 13.—Charles H. Moore, a man who has no home but is known to the police under three different names, was arrested here last night, charged with breaking and entering a dwelling house in Dracut and the larceny of jewelry valued at $200.

Russian View of the Message

St. Petersburg, Dec. 13.—The newspapers here are just beginning to make belated comments on President Roosevelt's message to congress. The Novoe Vremya says that the president's idea that the United States is doing its share in keeping the peace "works on the old theory of preparing for war. His countrymen will find it very expensive, just as Europe has, but possibly it is the only way."

Big Order For Locomotives

Chicago, Dec. 13.—The Harriman lines have just placed orders for the construction of 100 locomotives for distribution among the Southern Pacific, the Union Pacific, the Oregon Short line and the Oregon Railroad and Navigation company. The order will necessitate the expenditure of between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 and is one of the largest of the kind ever recorded.

Dowie Settles With Creditors

Chicago, Dec. 14.—Zion City has paid the final instalment on the big debt which a year ago involved it in sensational bankruptcy proceedings and threatened to wreck the gigantic enterprise established by John A. Dowie. Checks have been sent out in payment of the final 40 percent, approximately $140,000 of the original indebtedness of more than $400,000.

Fraud and Bankruptcy

Washington, Dec. 13.—That no debt created by fraud may be discharged by proceedings in bankruptcy was decided in a case which has been pending in the state of New York for some time and concerned a transaction involving about $350,000.

Rockhill to Succeed Conger

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

There was enough snow this morning to shovel.

The street railway had its big ploughs out all night.

It is election day today in Boston and other cities.

A car load of steel arrived Sunday for the new bridge at Atlantic.

The W. C. T. U. of Wollaston meets with Mrs. Higgins, Lincoln avenue, today at 2.30 P. M.

The stone sheds throughout the city will shut down the Saturday before Christmas until New Years.

A high iron fence with a large sliding gate has been erected in front of Thomas & Miller's office on Liberty street.

The cruisers Des Moines, Olympia and Cleveland arrived at the Barbadoes from their European trip on Saturday, Dec. 10.

The interior of D. E. Wadsworth & Co.'s store is decorated with large branches of holly and looks very attractive.

At the meeting of the Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's church, Wednesday, the first "open table" of the year will be held.

Mrs. Bertram Henry of Beach street Wollaston, has returned from an extended visit with friends and relatives in Missouri.

The new book of Rev. E. N. Hardy on "The Church and Educated Men," will be on sale at the picture booth at the Bazaar of Nations.

The snow on the ground has not housed up the automobiles. By putting heavy rope around the tires they are able to make good progress.

It is understood that Judge Avery has been requested to act as arbitrator in the matter in dispute between Thomas & Miller and their granite cutters.

Friday afternoon, at half-past three o'clock, there will be a meeting of the Loyal Temperance Legion, in the vestry of the Methodist church, Wollaston.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society connected with the Wollaston Congregational church will meet with Mrs. Nickerson Wednesday afternoon at the usual hour.

There has been excellent skating on the Sailors' Home pond, at Bryant's and the quarry at Norfolk Downs. The Neponset playground was flooded Saturday and has been very fair.

The "path-man" was about in Atlantic at an early hour so that even those who went in Boston on the first train suffered no inconvenience from last night's fall of snow.

Something should be done to keep the teamsters from crossing the Atlantic playground. Since the snow has fallen they all drive directly across, it being a shorter route than going around.

Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary who was captured and held for ransom by brigands in the mountains of Macedonia, will speak at the Park and Downs church Thursday even[illegible] Fisher Hall, [illegible]rd of November, [illegible]ir friends, [illegible] December the fourteenth, at the Quincy homestead, Wollaston.

Walter Blake of Billings street, owing to an excellent business opportunity offered to him in Chicago, will leave Atlantic in about two weeks for an indefinite stay. Mrs. Blake will remain in Atlantic and join her husband in Chicago later.

The ladies of the Quincy Point church have a well established reputation for excellent suppers, and one of these will be served tomorrow night. It will cost nothing extra to hear the talk on the World's Fair by a Quincy gentleman who visited the exposition at St. Louis with special privileges.

The many friends of Mrs. Frank Emery (Annie Briggs) are deeply sympathetic on account of her prolonged stay in the hospital. Mrs. Emery is so full of energy and life that this long illness is especially trying to her. It is hoped that she will soon be able to be moved to her home in Dorchester where she will no doubt recover more quickly.

INSTALLATION

Of St Marys C T A Society.

Henry H. Faxon a Guest.

Also the Rev. Ambrose F. Roche and Others.

The newly elected officers of St. Mary's C. T. A. Society were installed Monday evening. There was a large attendance and the evening proved to be one of the important events in the history of the society.

The officers were installed by Edward Mulready of Rockland, president of the Arch Diocesan Union, assisted by O. T. O'Leary, secretary of the Union. After the work of installation interesting remarks were made by Mr. Mulready and Mr. O'Leary, Henry H. Faxon, Rev. A. F. Roche and the newly installed officers.

Mr. Faxon paid a glowing tribute to Rev. Fr. Roche, to whose good work he attributed the increased vote for no-license at the recent municipal election. He was at a loss to know why Hingham should have let such a good man get away from them. While he complimented the good work of Fr. Roche and expressed himself as pleased at West Quincy's vote on the license question, he was not entirely satisfied.

Rev. Fr. Roche in responding stood up for West Quincy, which he said was not as bad as some had pictured it.

Besides installing its officers the society elected the following gentlemen to honorary membership: James A. White, Robert J. Teasdale, William H. Teasdale and John A. McGowan.

After the business of the evening an adjournment was made to the lower hall, where a banquet was served by Girard.

At the banquet table there were songs by Richard Callahan, George W. Barry, Frank Mullen and Fred McDonald, and recitations by Stephen Connors and Thomas Connors.

The officers installed are:

President,—Thomas Shortle, Jr.
Vice President,—John J. King.
Treasurer,—Thomas V. Keating.
Financial Secretary,—Martin A. King.
Recording Secretary,—William R. Burke.
Corresponding Secretary,—James J. Ryan.
Trustees,—Thomas Shortle, Jr., Lewis A. Pendis, William Duane, John J. Dugan and Thomas Shortle.
Directors,—Martin King, Charles Keating, Joseph McGowan.

CITY COUNCIL.

amendment which in effect would strike out that part of the order relative to a permanent man at Houghs Neck and would add two permanent unattached men to the department. This would provide for the appointment of one new man and make the present unattached man permanent.

The Mayor was surprised that the pay roll carried 16 men when there were but 15 provided in the ordinances. It seemed to him this extra man should be charged to some other appropriation.

City Auditor Sidelinger stated the pay of this extra man was provided for in the item for salaries. He is not a permanent man but as the city provided the money in this item recommended by the Mayor that is where he belongs.

Councilman Whiton's amendment was adopted and the order referred to the joint Committee on Finance and Fire Department.

The order for $1000 for Assessors' plans took its second reading.

WOODWARD SALARIES.

The order relative to salaries for the trustees of the Woodward fund came up for a second reading.

Councilman Whiton offered an amendment making the salary of the treasurer, $400; clerk, $75; and auditor $50.

Councilman Hardwick thought this most reckless and extravagant. He was surprised the order was introduced when there was another order to raise the salaries of these officers.

Councilman Whiton—What do you mean by reckless extravagance?

Councilman Hardwick—Did we not vote to increase the salary of the auditor tonight.

Councilman Whiton—No we did not. No vote was taken on that order.

Councilman Adams opposed the substitue order. No money should be taken from the fund by the city. There has been an order introduced so that the treasurer and clerk shall be paid by the city. But for this fund it would cost the city more than $6,000 to provide a building for these extra pupils. The proportion of the work done by these officers for the fund is very small. No charge is made in other places for the care of such funds. The will says nothing about trustees. The supreme court may have interpreted it a trust but morally it is a gift.

Councilman Whiton—This whole thing is terribly far fetched. What right has the city to tax this property. Do you know of a $300,000 trust fund that is carried for $500. It is little enough. The fund can take care of itself. We all know the city needs are increasing. A man may live in Weymouth and send children there while a man who lives in Quincy may not. It is legal and ought to be paid. He hoped Council would consider the City before the Woodward fund.

Councilman Langelier opposed. The question is whether you consider it right to pay city salaries out of this fund. If anything else was given to the city we would be supposed to take care of it. Officers should not be paid from the fund.

Councilman Bass—The Managers should be consistent. At the present time they employ a superintendent who is supposed to give his whole time to public schools. What they require of us they should also do.

The substitute order failed to pass.

Those voting in the affirmative were Councilmen Piper, Hughes, Whiton, Gearwar and Bass.

The order then took its second reading.

Adjourned at 9.59 to meet Monday, Dec. 19.

If our readers are looking for rich and nice presents to give their friends they cannot do better than call at C. F. Pettengill's. He has an unusually large stock of nice silver ware, which he warrants; and if you purchase you will be sure of giving your friends presents that they will appreciate.

TWO INDICTMENTS

Mrs Chadwick's Troubles Are Rapidly Accumulating

CHARGED WITH FORGERY

Iri Reynolds Tells of Dealings With the Woman and Again Says She Posed as Illegitimate Daughter of Andrew Carnegie

Cleveland, Dec. 13.—Trouble for Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick increased at a rapid rate yesterday. She was twice county and her old-time friend, Iri Reynolds, took the stand in court and made olds, took the stand in court and made evident his intention to shield and protect her no longer.

The aged secretary of the Wade Park bank presented a pathetic picture as he answered question after question, which brought out his own implicit faith in the woman whose financial transactions have well nigh ruined him in fortune and caused him such infinite trouble. He gave evidence, too, that he still believed his trust was justified.

Only one query he attempted to evade. This was when he was asked how much of his personal estate had passed into the possession of Mrs. Chadwick. His eyes filled, and he requested that he be excused from answering. The question was not pushed.

The formal indictments voted against Mrs. Chadwick are based, one, upon the Carnegie note for $250,000, which was made payable at the office of Andrew Carnegie in New York city, and the other upon the Carnegie note for $500,000, which was payable at the National Bank of Commerce in New York. Under each indictment are two counts, one charging forgery, the other uttering of forged paper.

The examination of Iri Reynolds before Referee Remington in the bankruptcy court failed to disclose any asset that might be secured by Receiver Loeser, appointed by the federal court, but brought from Mr. Reynolds, in reply to questions, the statement: "She told me she was the illegitimate daughter of Andrew Carnegie."

Later, Mr. Reynolds, in detailing his transactions with Mrs. Chadwick, said: "In all my transactions with Mrs. Chadwick, I believed from what she told me that Andrew Carnegie was backing her and all her indebtedness would be paid." He then added: "And I have not had anything yet to make me doubt it."

Mr. Reynolds was asked if he knew of Mrs. Chadwick ever having any diamonds and he replied that he had seen diamonds that had been pledged in New York and were inventoried at $98,000. He had also seen them at the house. They were contained in several trays in a box. He did not know, however, where they were now. The witness appeared anxious to help the officials in every way, and volunteered much information.

United States District Attorney Sullivan declared last night that he would not insist upon the personal attendance of Carnegie at the session of the federal grand jury. "If Carnegie is not able to come," said Sullivan, "all that will be necessary for him to do is to submit a statement to the district attorney to the effect that his health will not permit him to travel."

Will Give Up the Fight

New York, Dec. 13.—Mrs. Chadwick is overwhelmed by the developments of her case in Cleveland and the statement is made by one close to her that she will probably give up the fight here and return to Cleveland in the custody of United States officers. She did not anticipate the double indictment which was found against her by the Cuyahoga county grand jury, after the failure of the Lorain county grand jury to find probable cause of action. Mrs. Chadwick is of the opinion that if she must face these charges, she will be far better off in her home city of Cleveland than in New York. It is known that her counsel have strongly advised against this course of procedure, but Mrs. Chadwick insists that she be given free rein.

Friend Preserves Silence

Pittsburg, Dec. 13.—In view of the fact that reports from Cleveland assert that Mrs. Chadwick secured a $500,000 loan in Pittsburg, and that the local press has connected James W. Friend's name with the matter, an interview was sought with Friend for the purpose of obtaining a statement from him. Friend could not be seen personally, but his secretary, speaking for him, said:

"Mr. Friend has read the newspaper stories connecting his name with that of Mrs. Chadwick and desires me to say that he will not discuss the matter in any phase. He does not wish to be quoted on the subject at this time."

James W. Friend is vice president of the Pressed Steel Car company, senior partner in Friend, Hoffstott & Co., owners of the Clinton Iron works, and prominently connected with numerous other business concerns of this city.

Says He Has Not Misapplied Funds

Oberlin, O., Dec. 13.—President Beckwith of the Citizens' National bank has determined to make a vigorous fight against the charges of misapplication of the bank's funds. "I have not misapplied the funds," he declared, "and I will fight the thing to a finish."

CLEANLY WOMAN.

Erroneously Thinks by Scouring Her Scalp That She Cures Dandruff.

Cleanly woman has an erroneous idea that by scouring the scalp, which removes the dandruff scales, she is curing the dandruff. She may wash her scalp every day, and yet have dandruff her life long, accompanied by falling hair, too. The only way in the world to cure dandruff is to kill the dandruff germ, and there is no hair preparation that will do that but Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide by killing the dandruff germ, leaves the hair free to grow as healthy Nature intended. Destroy the cause you remove the effect. Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Emerson Night.

The Young People's Religious Union of Wollaston met in the Unitarian vestry Sunday evening. Miss Almira Simmons, president of the union presided, and after the usual opening service and the reading of the records, by the secretary, Miss Helen Barnes, Miss Mollie Brown was presented as the leader of the evening's program. The subject was Emerson. Miss Brown read a paper giving a short sketch of Mr Emerson's life, more particularly of his youth and early manhood. Miss Dorothy Fay read "The Concord Hymn." Rev. Mr. Pratt told in an impressive way of Mr. Emerson as a preacher, and Miss Annie Pinkham read an instructive paper upon his work as an author.

Verdict for Passenger.

In the Suffolk Superior court on Monday a verdict of $1,500 for the plaintiff was returned by a jury in the second session before Judge Pierce, in the case of George Nichols vs. the Old Colony street railway company. He alleged he was thrown from the running board of a car by a conductor in Quincy, Sept. 20, 1902.

TODAY'S COURT.

Joseph Rose was fined $5 for violation of the Metropoliton Park rules.

James McKenna was fined $3 for drunkenness at Weymouth

Up to 10 A. M. today the trains were all from five to ten minutes late on account of the snow.

IN NINETEEN CITIES

Bay State Citizens Choose Municipal Officers For 1905

ELEVEN ARE REPUBLICAN

Woburn and Newburyport Turn From No License to License--Five Cities Vote For Repeal of Luce Joint Caucus Law

Boston, Dec. 14.—The balance of the Massachusetts cities, with the exception of North Adams, held their annual election Tuesday. Eleven showed Republican mayors, three Democratic mayors, while the successful candidates in three more ran on nonpartisan tickets. Boston and Newton did not elect mayors, the present incumbents holding over until next year.

Seven candidates for mayor were re-elected, while two, those in Chicopee and Fall River, were defeated.

The Democrats were successful in Boston in electing their candidate for street commissioner, Salem D. Charles, by a majority of about 20,000 over Guy W. Emerson, Republican candidate. The street commissionership was the only office on which there was a general vote. The city went for license by the usual large majority.

Returns from 140 out of 194 voting precincts indicate Democratic gains in the common council. On the basis of returns received it is believed that the Democrats have elected 57 and the Republicans 18 councilmen. The present council is composed of 51 Democrats and 24 Republicans.

On the basis of returns received, it is believed that all the Democratic candidates for school committee were elected. This will make the next school board almost unanimously Democratic, there being one Republican and 23 Democrats.

As in the election last week, the Luce joint caucus act met with little favor, Chicopee, Everett, Holyoke, Lynn and Worcester voting to repeal it.

Following is the result of the mayoralty contests:

Beverly—J. A. Wallis, (Non. Par).
Cambridge—A. J. Daly, (Non. Par).*
Chelsea—E. A. Willard, (Rep).*
Chicopee—A. E. Taylor, (Rep).
Everett—H. H. Newton, (Rep).
Fall River—J. T. Coughlin, (Dem).
Holyoke—N. P. Avery, (Rep).
Lowell—J. B. Casey, (Dem.)
Lynn—H. W. Eastham, (Rep).*

IN FOREIGN LANDS.

Interesting Talk Before the Wollaston Unitarian Club.

The speaker at Wollaston Unitarian Club Tuesday evening was William H. Bain, who has recently returned from a twenty-two months trip through foreign lands. A roast beef supper was served at 6.30 after which Hon. E. H. Sprague, the president, introduced Mr. Bain.

The speaker took his hearers with him through several foreign countries, dwelling at length upon Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands and New Zealand. He vividly described the people of these countries, their characteristics, method of living and the beautiful scenery with which they abounded. The talk was a thoroughly enjoyable one and at its conclusion the speaker was given a vote of thanks.

PROSPERITY FOR ALL.

And we having had a prosperous business the past year, do hereby PROMISE all of our REGULAR CUSTOMERS that during the month of January, we will sell them our Goods at COST.

This is no cut-price sale, or stamp giving scheme, just simply giving them a cash reduction on all bill of goods bought of us in the next thirty days. We think this is a good, clean, wholesome way to show our appreciation of your trade, past and future.

We have never encouraged stamp or premium business, relying wholly on the quality of our goods to satisfy our trade. And our splendid business the past year shows our good judgment on that question. And now we are prepared to do business with our Regular Customers at Cost. THEY CAN HAVE THE PROFIT OF OUR BUSINESS FOR THE NEXT THIRTY DAYS.

Yours for Quality,

JOHNSON BROS.

The Cost Per Capita of the No-License Campaign.

The Citizens No-License League, in publishing their customary statement of the receipts and expenses of the recent campaign, desire to thank heartily all those—and there were many—who have given of their time and thought, as well as all those who have given financial aid.

Much thanks is also due to our newspapers, the Ledger, the Patriot, the Advertiser and the Leader for their staunch support and for their contribution of a goodly amount of advertising space.

Somewhat more money than usual has been spent, though the total amount is less than a cent and a half for each of our inhabitants. The accounts just balance as there was something of a deficit which one or two have made up.

Lights and Shadows.

Mr. C. E. Call, the superintendent of of the Rescue building on Dover street, Boston, gave an interesting talk on "The lights and shadows of city life" before the Bethany Brotherhood on Tuesday evening. He related the personal experiences which had arisen during his connection with the rescue work, and showed that much was being accomplished. Yet there is much to be done. It was a talk that should have been heard by a larger audience.

Congratulations to Bro. Vittum of the Beverly Times for the success of his fearless efforts for good government in his city. His ringing editorial for CandidateWallis on the eve of election resulted in his triumphal election as mayor by a majority of 720 votes. The "Big Four" combination of the aldermen was also broken. Beverly should have a larger board of aldermen; then it would not be so easy for a combination. With a board of only seven it is easy for four to rule. Combinations are the curse of legislative bodies and result in bad government and extravagance.

Mrs Chadwick Starts For Cleveland Under Close Guard

A TALK WITH REPORTERS

Tells How She Hoodwinked Them Before Her Arrest and Promises to Give the Whole History of Financial Dealings

New York, Dec. 14.—Mrs. Chadwick started for Cleveland at 8 o'clock last night. Before leaving she made a statement in which she declared she would pay all her obligations, and that her sole purpose in going was to face her creditors. She said that she could have obtained bail here if she had wished to and that one of the most prominent men in the country had offered to go on her bond.

Mrs. Chadwick left here in custody of United States Marshal Henkel and Deputy Marshals Kumb and Kelker. Marshal Henkel said that he would leave the train at Poughkeepsie, but that the other marshals would go on to Cleveland with the prisoner.

Before leaving the United States marshal's office for the station, Mrs. Chadwick consented to an interview with a number of newspaper men. Mrs. Chadwick was reclining on a couch and seemed particularly alert. She was the absolute mistress of herself and either smiled as she made her statements or gave way to an expression of bitterness. She was gowned as she had been when arrested.

"Many statements that have appeared about me are absolutely false," she began. "I am physically and mentally broken down. I am not in any condition to make a statement.

"I am going home for the sole purpose of facing my creditors and whatever charges they have made against me. I am going home voluntarily and not because I could not obtain bail. Since my arrest I have had offers of bail from many prominent persons.

"I am not going to answer any questions," said Mrs. Chadwick firmly, when one of the reporters asked her to disclose the identity of the person who had made the offer. "The way my son and maid have been harassed by you young men has been extremely embarrassing.

"I shall not give bail when I get to Cleveland. I have the best motive in the world for not doing so. The history of this case from beginning to end will soon be published in a certain newspaper. I promised to give out my story, and it may take months to get it out. It may be, however, that it will be published tomorrow, next week, or in a month. But certainly not until all my obligations are settled and paid.

"I have not tried to flee from anyone—not even from the newspaper men," she continued with a smile. "When all you young men thought that I was sick at the Holland house, I walked right by you and went to the Fifth Avenue hotel and, after attending to some business there, took a cab back to the Holland house and went to bed.

"I left the Holland house one night and went out walking between two of the most prominent men in New York city. I had dinner with them at Sherry's and came back and you didn't see me.

"On the night that it was reported that I had committed suicide I left the Holland house at 8:30 o'clock and went to the home of one of the most prominent men in New York and stayed there until 11:30.

"Will you say anything about your relations with Mr. Carnegie?" was asked.

"I am not here to be questioned," she replied. "I have nothing to say about Mr. Carnegie and nothing to say about anyone else. I want to say emphatically that I have not been forced to go back to Cleveland. I delayed my return home because I thought it was best to wait and see what the grand jury would do. If the grand jury had indicted me 50 times, I would have gone back just the same. For the past week I have been wanting to go back.

"I was ready to go back a week ago last Saturday," declared Mrs. Chadwick; "I had all my things packed, but they wanted me to go down to Wall street." Mrs. Chadwick would not say who "they" meant. "The result was that I didn't get off."

At the Tombs Warden Flynn permitted Marshal Henkel's carriage to be driven into the courtyard in order that the prisoner might avoid the battery of cameras. The party drove to the federal building and the woman was taken to the marshal's office, where she almost collapsed. Commissioner Shields cancelled the commitment and formaly delivered her over to the federal authorities. She was then taken before Judge Adams, who signed an order for her removal to Cleveland. Mrs. Chadwick was hysterical when she returned to the marshal's office. After her meeting with the reporters, Mrs. Chadwick waited in the marshal's office until time to leave for the Grand Central station.

Mrs Chadwick Closely Guarded

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Dec. 14.—Extraordinary precautions were taken by Marshal Henkel before he left Mrs. Chadwick in the hands of his deputy marshals. All her baggage was over- [illegible] a bag carried by her maid, as well as a pair of scissors. The windows of her stateroom were fastened down by wedges. "I have reasons for taking these precautions," were Henkel's last words. He would not discuss the precautions further. Mrs. Chadwick was not left alone after taking the train.

Investigating the $5,000,000 Note

Cleveland, Dec. 14.—The county grand jury resumed its investigation of the affairs of Mrs. Chadwick yesterday, but returned no indictment against her. Prosecutor Keeler announced, however, that the appearance of Iri Reynolds before the jury to give evidence of the woman's transactions had materially strengthened the case against her. It is understood that an indictment relating to the uttering and forging of the $5,000,000 note on deposit in the Wade Park bank, which was the principal matter considered by the investigating body yesterday, has been drafted. Whether or not it will be returned Keeler refuses to say.

Receiver Refused Admittance

Cleveland, Dec. 14.—Receiver Loeser, who was appointed to take charge of the estate of Mrs. Chadwick, attempted last night to take possession of Mrs. Chadwick's home on Euclid avenue. The property has been in charge of a custodian for the Elyria bank of Elyria, O. He refused to admit Loeser. The receiver reported the result of his mission to Marshal Chandler, who says that he will force open the doors of the Chadwick house, should such a proceeding be necessary.

Pastor Jolly Won't Talk

Pittsburg, Dec. 14.—Rev. A. H. Jolly, who united Mrs. Chadwick in marriage with his cousin, Dr. Chadwick, admits that he is in possession of several important secrets in connection with the famous case, but will not talk for publication. He made a plea for fair play for Mrs. Chadwick and said she was a grossly wronged woman.

Advice of Carnegie's Doctor

New York, Dec. 14.—Andrew Carnegie's private physician, Dr. Garmany, announces that he has forbidden Carnegie to journey to Cleveland unless he consents to menace seriously his health. Carnegie will remain in this city until Jan. 1, after which Garmany has advised him to spend the winter in Florida.

HOT-HEADED HUNS

Members of the Opposition Wreck the Lower House

Budapest, Dec. 14.—Hoping to attract the sympathy of the populace, the members of the opposition in the house of deputies met at their club and, headed by Count Apponyi, former Premier Banffy, Francis Kossuth, Count Zichy and other leaders, marched in procession in a drizzling rain to the parliament building.

At the entrance they found the police commissioner, who requested them to enter singly. He was roughly thrust aside and maltreated, while the procession, dripping wet and with muddy boots, swarmed into the chamber over the gorgeous carpeting and advanced to the guards of the president's tribune, consisting of 40 men, with a roar of execration and ordered them to quit the chamber. Acting on instructions the guards remained mute, but immovable, which so incensed the opposition deputies that they boxed the ears and spat in the faces of the guards, who conducted themselves with the greatest passivity and forbearance until compelled to act in self-defense. In the riot which followed the interior of the house was wrecked. Seven of the guards were injured in the scrimmage before they fled from the chamber.

Having piled the debris in the middle of the chamber, the rioters crowned their work of destruction by erecting a model of a gallows from broken benches, from which an effigy of Premier Tisza was hanged, the deputies standing around amidst the wreckage, smoking cigarets or pipes.

AS A GRAND JURY

House Reaches Conclusion In Case of Judge Swayne

VOTES FOR IMPEACHMENT

Intense Interest In Discussion of Charges of "High Crimes and Misdemeanors" -- Senate Will Now Handle the Matter

Washington, Dec. 14.—Sitting as a grand jury, the house of representatives, with almost a full membership and after more than five hours' discussion, to the exclusion of all other business, adopted a resolution providing for the impeachment of Judge Charles Swayne of the northern district of Florida, for "high crimes and misdemeanors."

The case against the respondent was clearly set out by Mr. Palmer (Penn.), chairman of the sub-committee of the judiciary committee, which heard the evidence in the case. He carefully dissected the evidence bearing on each of the specifications and said that if it were found that Swayne had done well he should be vindicated, but if he had done ill he should be sent to trial, "where his excuses and apologies may or may not receive consideration."

He was followed by Messrs. Clayton (Ala.), Powers (Mass.), Henry (Tex.) and Lamar (Fla.), each of whom in most vigorous terms advocated impeachment. Messrs. Gillett (Cal.) and Littlefield (Me.) opposed their colleagues on all the specifications except the one as to the account rendered to the government by Swayne for traveling expenses.

Throughout the session intense interest was shown by members. Following the adoption of the impeachment resolution, provision was made for the appointment of five members to notify the senate of the impeachment and for a committee of seven to present the case to the senate.

The proceedings were the first of their kind since the impeachment in 1876 of General Belknap, who was secretary of war in President Grant's cabinet.

Brady's Confirmation Opposed

Washington, Dec. 14.—Confirmation of John G. Brady, renominated for the office of governor of Alaska, was objected to in the senate on behalf of Senator Penrose. Protests against Brady have been prepared by representatives of commercial interests in Alaska and by many residents of the territory. There are no charges against him other than that he is not the choice of the people of Alaska. The nomination was ordered recommitted.

Popularity of "Jefferson Bible"

Washington, Dec. 14.—Judged by the demand upon senators and representatives, "the Jefferson Bible" has proved to be one of the most popular books ever published by the government. The present edition of 10,000 copies has been practically exhausted and its distribution seems merely to have whetted the appetites of the reading public. Senators and members are flooded with requests for the book, with which they are unable to comply.

Mutilation as a Penalty

Washingon, Dec. 14.—Five witnesses were examined yesterday by the senate committee on privileges and elections in the investigation of protests against Senator Reed Smoot retaining his seat in the senate. The first witness described the obligations taken by persons who pass through the endowment house and declared that everyone agrees to submit mutilation of the person if he or she reveals what takes place during the ceremony.

In Interest of Pure Food

Washington, Dec. 14.—The chemistry division of the department of agriculture has issued a circular directing that hereafter all canned goods artificially colored or dyed must be so marked. Manufactured food products in which glucose has been used instead of sugar must also bear upon the label a statement to that effect.

Victory For Revolutionists

Buenos Ayres, Dec. 14.—A treaty of peace between the government of Paraguay and the revolutionists was signed last night on board the Argentine warship La Plata by President Ezcurra and General Ferreira. The treaty marks the complete triumph of the revolution and is based upon the resignation of Ezcurra and the election of Senor Gauna, a supporter of the revolution, to the presidency.

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average bald-headed man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness. Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, innocculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Herpicide.

"Destroy the cause—you remove the effect."

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

GRIP CONVALESCENCE

There's nothing better than Scott's Emulsion after the grip. When the fever is gone the body is left weak and exhausted; the nervous system is completely run down and vitality is low.

Two things to do: give strength to the whole body and new force to the nerves. Scott's Emulsion will do it; contains just what the worn-out system needs.

Rich blood, healthy flesh, resistive force, more and better nourishment are what Scott's Emulsion supplies to the convalescent.

Scott's Emulsion is the original and has been the standard emulsion of cod liver oil for nearly thirty years. Why buy the new, untried, cheap emulsions or so called wines, cordials and extracts of cod liver oil, when you can buy what is sure to help you?

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

Nan Patterson Stands Up Before Pawnbroker In Court

New York, Dec. 14.—A dramatic situation developed yesterday in the criminal branch of the supreme court when Nan Patterson, on trial before Justice Davis for the murder of Caesar Young, stood up in the courtroom and faced Pawnbroker Hyman Stern, the witness who sold the revolver with which Young was killed. Stern was unable to identify the prisoner as the woman who accompanied the man to whom he sold the revolver. He was not certain whether this man had a smooth face or wore a moustache. He was not asked to identify the photograph of J. Morgan Smith.

Police Captain Sweeney was recalled and identified the photograph. He said that he saw Smith on June 8 last and gave him a grand jury subpoena. Objection was made to the introduction as evidence of a copy of the subpoena served by the witness and the jury was excused while Justice Davis listened to argument of counsel.

Mr. Rand informed the court that the theory of the prosecution is that Smith and his wife were co-conspirators against Young, although they had not planned to kill him. The prosecutor further said that he was prepared to prove that Smith and his wife, with the active connivance of the defendant's father, and also with the connivance of the defendant's lawyers, had fled to parts unknown. "When I say the defendant's counsel," continued Rand, "I do not mean you, Mr. Levy."

Justice Davis reserved decision on the question raised.

Bribery Charges Concern Ministers

Halifax, Dec. 14.—A sensation in political circles here was created by the institution of legal proceedings against W. S. Fielding, finance minister in the federal cabinet; Frederick Borden, minister of militia and defense, and four other leading Liberal members of parliament in Nova Scotia. Petitions were filed in the supreme court asking that the parliamentary seats of all six be declared vacant on the grounds of alleged bribery committed by agents in their behalf in the general elections of Nov. 3.

Russian Political Agitation

St. Petersburg, Dec. 14.—The disturbed and agitated state of public opinion over the internal political situation is becoming more and more pronounced. It is contended that there are great men enough in Russia to originate a new system, giving the people a share in the government without slavishly copying western models.

Earl Grey Reaches Ottawa

Ottawa, Dec. 14.—Earl Grey, Canada's new governor general, and party, received a hearty welcome on reaching here from Halifax. The mayor and aldermen of Ottawa presented Earl Grey with an address of welcome.

Warning to Fishing Fleets

Penang, Straits Settlements, Dec. 14.—The British steamer Pegu, which has just arrived here, reports that she passed a four-funnelled, grey-painted warship 150 miles from Penang, steaming rapidly westward, showing no flag. The authorities of Panang have warned the fishing fleets to display lights and so avoid a possible repetition of the North sea incident.

Evidence of Russian "Loyalty"

Bremerhaven, Dec. 14.—The westward movement of Russian emigrants through Germany, a large proportion of whom are escaping from military service, is so great that the North German Lloyd Steamship company will dispatch two steamers, carrying over 4000 steerage passengers, within 14 days, in addition to the regular steamer service.

GREENE DIDN'T APPEAR

Failed to Make Promised Call on Lawson at His Office

Boston, Dec. 14.—In a half-page advertisement published in The Post and some other papers yesterday, Colonel Greene of New York, president of the Greene Consolidated Copper company, declared he was coming to Boston yesterday to call on Thomas W. Lawson at his office and denounce him to his face as a "liar, a fakir and charlatan."

As Greene is known as a crack shot, his announced call on Lawson was believed by some to mean "coffee and pistols for two" when the pair came together.

In an interview late in the afternoon, Lawson declared that he was waiting in his office all day, that he was ready for pistols or any other weapon that Greene might choose to bring along. Furthermore, he said, he defied the "whole Standard Oil crowd," and that whenever they came to call on him, individually or collectively, he would be "prepared" to receive them.

Grangers Are Flourishing

Greenfield, Mass., Dec. 14.—At the State Grange convention the various reports submitted showed the association to be in a most flourishing condition. There are now 175 granges in the state, with a membership of 18,250. The association owns property valued at more than $100,000. The state treasurer has on hand $7722. It was reported that a gratifying increase in the grange insurance business had been made during the year, the amount now being $517,252.

Postmaster an Alleged Embezzler

Bangor, Me., Dec. 14.—Albert H. Gilman, for the past seven years postmaster at Veazie, was arrested yesterday afternoon, charged with embezzlement of money order funds to the amount of about $1500. Gilman, the police say, made a full confession and said that his shortage covered about a year of making false entries and returns. He was brought before Commissioner Hamlin and committed to jail in default of $2000 bonds.

Woman Waylaid by Thug

Boston, Dec. 14.—Mrs. Edward B. Stevenson was knocked down, beaten and robbed on West Newton street last night. Her unknown assailant, as soon as he had knocked the woman insensible, deliberately took time to open her handbag, take out her purse containing $35, rummage through the other things in the bag, draw the string together again and run away, leaving her lying senseless against the building where she had fallen.

A Stroke of Bad Luck

New Haven, Dec. 14.—The new armory, erected at a cost of $15,000 by troop A, C. N. G., was totally destroyed by fire last night just as the finishing touches of the painter's brush were to be applied. The fire started in the front of the building, where a large amount of paints and oils was stored, an overheated stove, it is believed, causing the combustion.

Stranded on Nix's Mate

Boston, Dec. 14.—The fishing schooner Irene and May, which stranded on Nix's Mate early yesterday during the thick snowstorm, was floated in the afternoon and was towed to T wharf. It is thought that the vessel's bottom is badly damaged as she is leaking badly. She will probably be towed to Gloucester to be hauled out on the railway for repairs.

Long Trial Almost Ended

Boston, Dec. 14.—The final evidence in the alleged custom house frauds trial, in which Samuel Grunberg and C. A. Baitler of the Glasgow Manufacturing company and Custom House Examiners Trafton and Shedd are the defendants, has been put in. The case will be given to the jury tomorrow. The case has been on trial for more than two months.

Quarryman Loses Both Hands

Milford, N. H., Dec. 14.—By an explosion at Kittredge Ledge, three men were injured. They had put a heavy charge of powder in the ground, and upon its failure to explode hauled it up. The blast had hardly reached the surface when it exploded. Harry Bishop's hands were so badly mangled that it was necessary to amputate them.

Got Caught on Shoal

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Dec. 14.—Schooner Rebecca J. Moulton, Georgetown, S. C., for Boston, which was pounding for three hours on Squash Meadow shoal, and came off leaking, was towed here by the revenue cutter Mackinac. The vessel has 17 inches of water in her hold, and will probably have to be towed to her destination.

New Water Tank Burst

Shelton, Conn., Dec. 14.—A new tank, containing 50,000 gallons of water and located beside railroad tracks, burst, overturning two freight cars and causing other damage. The tank was only just completed for filling locomotive boilers, and had been in use only two days. Ice is supposed to have caused the accident.

From Hospital to Suicide

Ellsworth, Me., Dec. 14.—Jesse Macomber of Franklin committed suicide by cutting his throat. He had been ill with nervous prostration for a year, and three weeks ago returned home from a hospital at Bangor. He was 40 years of age and is survived by a widow and two children.

Agreement Carried Out

Panama, Dec. 14.—A decree reducing the import duties, rates of postage, etc., in accordance with the agreement reached between the government of Panama and that of the United States, for the canal zone, has gone into effect.

Big Liner Was Helpless

Philadelphia, Dec. 14.—After a voyage attended almost throughout by gales, steamship Friesland, from Liverpool and Queenstown, arrived in port more than two days late. Off the Newfoundland Banks the steering gear broke, leaving the big liner tossing helplessly in the heavy seas, necessitating the battening down of the hatches and keeping all passengers below. After 36 hours of hard work, temporary repairs were made.

What Thibet Expedition Cost

London, Dec. 14.—The Gazette contains long dispatches from General MacDonald, military chief of the Younghusband mission, describing the operations in Thibet. A summary shows a total of 16 engagements or skirmishes, in which there were 202 British casualties, including 23 officers, of whom five were killed. There were 411 deaths owing to climatic and other causes, and 671 were invalided.

Indictments Against Broker

Chicago, Dec. 14.—Additional indictments have been secured against Frank R. Chandler, former banker, real estate and mortgage broker, on complaint of Mrs. Sallie B. Cole of Bridgewater, Mass. One case of Chandler's was taken from a jury on technicalities last week. Mrs. Cole claims she gave Chandler money to invest for her in first mortgages, but that he failed to make an accounting.

A Gift From Rockefeller

Chicago, Dec. 14.—The University of Chicago is the recipient of another gift from John D. Rockefeller. Between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 is said to be the amount of the endowment. The money is to be used for the creating of a school of engineering. An official announcement, in which the exact amount of the gift will be made public, is expected soon.

No State Aid For Artisans

Berlin, Dec. 14.—In the reichstag, during a discussion on a resolution asking the government to introduce a bill instituting a system of compulsory insurance for artisan workers, the home secretary warned the representatives of the interests of the so-called middle classes against awakening hopes in the minds of artisans for state aid, which can never be realized.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

E. J. Murphy is on a visit to New Hampshire.

A social was held by the Manet club Tuesday evening.

Edward J. Sandberg is mentioned as a candidate for the appointment as Chief of Police.

Today is the anniversary of the death of George Washington, who died Dec. 14, 1799, at Mt. Vernon.

Mrs. Isabelle Davis always pleases her audience. She will give recitations on Thurday evening at the Bazaar of the Nations.

A good attendance is expected tonight at the Quincy Point church. A very tempting supper will be served at 6.30 by the Ladies' Aid Society.

A social was held by the Swedish Lutheran society at Faxon hall Tuesday evening when goods unsold at the recent fair were offered at auction.

There will be no game of basket ball at Hancock hall this week, and next week Thursday the Quincys will play the Dorchesters at the Coliseum.

Santa Claus' headquarters at South Quincy will be at the Quincy Variety store on Water street. They have Christmas goods for old and young.

The young people will probably have some good skating this year at the Point. The meadow off South street is being flooded and it won't be long before the ice will bear.

Prosperity invites trade, and this is one of the reasons why the business of Johnson Bros. is constantly growing. Note the offer of the firm for the next thirty days.

R. R. Bolles of Weymouth, a member of the Quincy Yacht club, has entered the U. S. navy as chief yeoman. He goes first to Mare's island, Cal., then to China.

Edward E. Jameson of Wollaston was on Tuesday appointed district deputy grand high priest of the seventh capitular district, R. A. Masons, by the newly elected Grand High Priest, Harry Hunt of Melrose.

The Old Colony Grocers' and Provision Dealers' Union will meet at Hotel Brunswick, South Braintree, this evening. Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock, after which will come the business.

Manet Council, Royal Arcanum, will hold an Identification night in Clan McGregor hall next Monday evening. District Deputy Grand Regent and several of the grand officers will make an official visitation. Refreshments will be served.

Revival meetings at the United Presbyterian church are advancing with great interest. Rev. Mr. Shaw is much enjoyed and the singing of Mrs. Shaw is charming. Several have decided for Christ already. Services each evening at 7.30; prayer meeting at 7. Mr. Shaw and wife will close their work next Sabbath evening with the holy communion.

The Bazaar of Nations opens this afternoon at Bethany chapel and will close tomorrow night. At the booths representing different nations the costumes of those nations will be worn. About 100 pounds of home-made candy will be offered for sale. There will be many attractions including an entertainment each evening.

P. O. BUILDING.

Quincy's Chances Good If a Bill is Reported.

Postmaster Hammond returned Tuesday night from Washingt on, where he has been in the interest of a postoffice building and other improvements. He says that he had a fine trip. He was treated most courteously by the gentlemen of the committee. It was unfortunate, however, that the only New England member of the committee was not present.

The committee would give no information of what they would report, although they seemed to be favorably impressed with the arguments in favor of the Quincy building.

Mr. Hammond thinks that if a public building bill is reported that Quincy will be included.

A New Chief.

Monday night Clan MacGregor O. S. C., elected its officers for the ensuing year. Alex. Cowe, who has served as press representative and correspondent of the "Fiery Cross" for the past few years, was elected chief by a large majority. Alex. Smith was elected tanist, and about all the incumbents of the other offices were returned. Dr. MacLennan was re-elected clan physician.

TODAY'S COURT.

W. D. Sherman was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued until Dec. 31.

Dolan Martell was sent to the house of correction for thirty days for drunkenness at Quincy.

James Furningham and Paul McDonald were arraigned for the larceny of railroad ticket books from Mary Park at Quincy. They were found guilty and put on probation for thirty days and ordered to pay the costs amounting to $1.10 each.

Mary E. Metcalf and William O. Metcalf were arraigned for violation of the liquor law at Cohasset. Cases continued until Dec. 17.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Bazaar at Wollaston.

The bazaar under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society of the Wollaston M. E. church was successfully opened Tuesday evening in the vestry of the church. Tables for the sale of useful and fancy articles were tastefully arranged about the room.

These were in charge of the following:

Monday,—Miss Helena Earle.

Tuesday,—Mrs. A. B. Cassidy.

Wednesday,—Miss Mabel Lupton and Mrs. Charles Hoxie.

Thursday,—Mrs. C. H. Durgin, Mrs. R. B. Smith, Mrs. W. H. Wood, Mrs. J. A. Sedgwick and Mrs. Ada C. Stone.

Friday,—Mrs. R. C. Sprague.

Saturday,—Mrs. W. A. Lupton and Mrs. D. C. Woodward.

Five o'clock tea,—Mrs. W. J. Heath.

Ladies Home Journal,—Mrs. Nelson Belcher, Miss Lois Metherall, Miss Frances Saunders and Mrs. John Rawson.

Flower,—Miss A. W. Bates and Miss Grace Durgin.

Goose Pen,—Mrs. Samuel Kay, Mrs. Willard Kay and Miss Minnie Smith.

Supper,—Miss A. M. Merrill and Mrs. David Stiles.

During the evening there was music by Howe's orchestra.

Christmas Calendars.

E. P. Dutton & Co., 31 West Twenty-third street, New York, have prepared an almost innumerable assortment of paper gifts for Santa Claus' bag. "The Doll's House Model Book" which they offer is a neat gift for a young one, something which will keep the baby profitably employed for hours without making an unnecessary noise; the "Model Book for Trains" is a like publication. The calendars from this house are handsomely gotten up. For instance, "Stray Leaves from the Poets," "Stray Leaves from Favorite Authors," "House Beautiful," "Strength Sufficient," "Gloria in Excelsis," "My Symphony," appeal to the older folks and those literarily inclined. A "Coon Calendar," and "John Hassell's Comic Calendar" are really funny, and should bring a smile every day in the year.

Two Act Novelty.

"The Blossom Bouquet," a two-act novelty presented by St. Margaret's guild Monday evening at the parish house of Christ church, proved a very enjoyable entertainment. It included songs and specialties. Those to take part were: Helen Rhines, Gertrude Jones, Mary McConnell, Olive Smith, Alice Deacon, Jessie Fowler, Annie Smith and Christine Fowler.

—It is reported that a ship subsidy bill will be reported to Congress by the special committee.

What It Costs

... AND ...

What It Pays

are two values of newspaper advertising that the merchant has to consider. But the most important thing is

WHAT IT PAYS.

The merchant can get space in papers of small circulation and little influence for a little less money than the same size space would cost in the DAILY LEDGER and the QUINCY PATRIOT.

DOES IT PAY

to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to LEDGER and PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in a cheaper paper?

HOLLY DECORATIONS.

How to Trim the House With Greens For Christmas.

These are the most time honored and the most handsome of all Christmas decorations, says the Chicago Tribune. The doorway into the dining room may be transformed with a long rope of evergreens and some holly berries. The rope may be draped about the door and perhaps carried over the framework of a window and brought down to the edge of a mantelpiece. The other end will perhaps be looped back and brought over a brass sconce, then fastened with a bunch of holly tied with a streaming scarlet ribbon.

From another doorway, also draped with hemlock rope, suspend a Christmas bell of holly, with mistletoe for a clapper, which will involve many entertaining complications during the festal day.

A coarse fish net tacked along the side of a stairway and stuck with branches of holly and laurel, branches of laurel and cedar, becomes charming.

Wreaths of laurel and holly tied with scarlet ribbons are beautiful in the windows; one on the front door just below the knocker, when there is a knocker, is delightful.

A row of little pine trees breast high along each side of a wide wall is one woman's effective Christmas treatment of her house.

Anywhere and everywhere belong the rope of hemlock and holly bunches, which are as appropriate to a 2 by 4 flat as to a twenty roomed mansion.

A Nuremburg Christmas tree is a distinct beauty on a Christmas drawing room or at a children's Christmas table. It is made of stiff green wire, covered with green, and comes in a wooden pot and measures three feet or less. It is a blaze of cheerful glory when lighted and can be folded and packed away and rise again for many successive Christmases.

How to Make Imitation Snow.

Decorate your Christmas tree with imitation snow. It looks beautiful. It is best done out of doors or in a cold room. Fasten the tree to stand and, if done in a room, spread paper thickly around the tree to avoid a "muss." Now boil half a gallon of water and dissolve therein four or five pounds of alum. Sprinkle the hot liquid with a sprinkling can or otherwise finely all over the tree. Wait awhile, heat the liquid again and sprinkle once more. While the needles are still wet with alum water sift flour or starch or chalk over the whole. The tree needles will then look as if burdened with snow.

How Yule Dollies Are Made.

These are old Christmas sweets for children: Cream together one-half cup of butter, one cup of sugar, add gradually two well beaten eggs, one tablespoonful of rich cream or milk, one teaspoonful of vanilla and three cups of flour with which has been sifted two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Stand for an hour in a very cold place. Have ready a tin cutter in the shape of a doll about five inches long. Take a portion of the dough out on the board at one time, roll out one-half inch thick and cut into dolls. Brush each over with milk and dredge lightly with powdered sugar. Use currants for eyes and bake in greased pans in a moderate oven. When cold decorate the skirt of each doll with ruffles of frosting. Wrap separately in sheets of waxed paper. In packing place the doll in a long shallow box, pack firmly with tissue paper and before closing the box add a sprig of holly, tying the box with red ribbon.

How to Make Yule Cakes.

Rub to a light, white cream two cups and a half of butter and three cups of sugar. Add ten eggs, two at a time, beating five minutes between each addition. Sift four cups of flour three times over with a teaspoonful of baking powder, and add to the sugar, butter and eggs. When well mixed add four cupfuls of currants, washed and dried, half a cup of shredded citron, a teaspoonful each of nutmeg and cloves and a gill of brandy. Mix and pour into a paper lined tin, also well protected with paper outside, and bake two and a half hours in a moderate oven.

How to Roast a Duck.

Perhaps you are to have roast duck for Christmas instead of the regulation turkey dinner? In that case omit sage from the filling if you are wise, using simply a forcemeat of breadcrumbs seasoned with salt, pepper, onion juice and minced parsley. Fill the bird after rinsing and wiping it well inside and out. Do not moisten the filling, and pack it rather closely. Dredge the bird with salted flour, pour a cupful of boiling water over it and roast in a fairly brisk oven, allowing about fifteen minutes to the pound. Baste with the gravy and, when nearly done, with butter. Then dredge some flour over the duck and put it in to brown. Serve with currant jelly if you will.

How to Serve Grapefruit.

One of the popular fruits for the Christmas holidays as well as for almost any other occasion is the grapefruit. If possible get one that is grown in Florida, see that the skin is smooth and the fruit heavy and solid and also that the size is large. Cut it in half, scoop out a good part of the juice and fill up the vacancy with champagne if you have it, or, if not, use sherry, brandy, fruit salads, brandied cherries or cordial, and there is something that will revive the spirits of anybody not on the verge of the grave.

How to Make a Holiday Dessert Dish.

Cut orange peels into six, then pare down toward stem end, so as to form petals like a lily. Then spread out the orange sections and place on a dish filled with nuts, bananas and grapes.

Safety and Courtesy.

In a talk given to the motormen and conductors of the Boston and Northern and Old Colony Street Railways in Lynn Monday night, Robert H. Derrah, passenger and advertising agent of the two lines, was as unique in his description of street railway development as is his department which has just been created. He told the railway men that they had responsibilities as great as any high official of the road. "The travelling public appreciates the courtesy of the conductor and it appreciates the ability of a motorman who can so guard the front end of the car that their safety is assured," said Mr. Derrah. "Such conduct does much toward making a line popular. It cannot have the confidence of travelers if accidents occur with alarming frequency."

ADVERTISE IN THE QUINCY LEDGER.

MANY NATIONS

Represented at Bazaar of Bethany Ladies.

Entertainment Given by Children.

The Booths and the Ladies Who Were in Charge.

The Bazaar of the Nations, under the auspices of the Bethany Ladies Circle, was opened Wednesday afternoon in the chapel of Bethany church. Mrs. J. F. Welch, president of the circle, was in charge and she was assisted by a large corps of ladies.

The chapel under the skilful hand of W. F. Sidelinger was very prettily decorated. Large American flags covered the walls while streamers of red, white and blue were festooned about the room.

Around the main room and in the side room were the sale booths representing the different nations. Each was decorated with the national colors of the nation which it represented, while the ladies in charge were gowned in the national costumes. The effect was very striking, the mingling of the different colors and costumes giving it the appearance of a massive kaleidoscope.

The large room at the right of the entrance was used as a lunch room and the aroma of hot coffee that came from there was most inviting.

Then came the Danish booth where children's articles were on sale. The ladies in their black gowns, white caps and aprons looked very unique.

Next in order was an American booth devoted to the sale of home-made candies. A large assortment of toothsome sweets were on sale and one must have to use considerable self denial not to purchase.

Then came a Spanish booth where flowers were offered for sale. The booth looked gay in its bright yellow decorations. The ladies were gowned in striking Spanish costumes.

In a corner nearby was a Dutch windmill, where by placing a nickel in the mouth of the protruding goose head a gift was obtainable.

Then came the stock and fancy work table representing France; the domestic table, representing Holland, and a fancy goods table representing Sweden.

The Swedish table was elaborately decorated, thirteen Swedish flags loaned by W. R. Lofgren being used for this purpose.

In the center of the booth was the Ladies' Home Journal room, devoted to the sale of books, pictures etc., while near by was the fortune teller.

The two small side rooms were very attractive spots. One represented Germany and the other Japan. In the former room was a Christmas tree, dolls and articles of a like nature, while in the Japanese room was a display of Japanese articles.

Those in charge of the tables were:

American, confectionery table—Mrs. Albert G. Coffin, Mrs. W. S. Arnold, Mrs. William G. Shaw, Mrs. S. I. Wood, Mrs. A. I. Davis, Mrs. Frank F. Prescott, Miss Bessie Laing.

Dutch windmill—Mrs. Theophilus King, Miss Marjorie Welch, Miss Lottie Kingman, Miss Helen Kingman, Miss Dulah Miller, Miss Edna Wood, Miss Isabel Mitchell.

Spanish flower table—Miss L. A. Taber, Miss Josie Osborne, Miss Julia Little, Miss Gertrude Wrisley, Miss Ida Kingman, Mrs. Ruth McQuinn.

Danish children's table—Mrs. Hugh McPhail, Mrs. Alexander Greer, Mrs. Wm. G. Chubbuck, Mrs. H. H. Hill.

French, stock and fancy work table—Mrs. H. E. Crane, Mrs. A. L. Melcher, Mrs. J. Percy Sears.

Holland, domestic table—Mrs. Geo. H. Hitchcock, Mrs. George Macfarlane.

Swedish, fancy table—Mrs. W. E. Blanchard, Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, Mrs. Charles F. Harper, Mrs. C. W. Guy, Mrs. F. J. Leonard, Mrs. Lucy M. Jillson.

Japanese room—Mrs. J. F. Hunt, Mrs. H. W. Beattie, Mrs. Albert Hayden, Miss Maud Macfarlane.

German room—Miss Addie Parks, Mrs. W. F. Rice, Mrs. John McKnight, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. Gustave B. Bates, Miss Carrie Parker, Miss Nina Bates.

Lunch room—Mrs. A. H. Gilson, Mrs. George F. Hatch, Mrs. Charles Hayden, Mrs. William Field, Mrs. Thomas Dewburst, Mrs. Richard Talbot, Mrs. Herbert Pratt.

Waitresses and waiters—Miss Lois Williams, Miss Avah Gilson, Miss Alice Webb, Miss Augusta Lehman, Miss Elizabeth Lehman, Miss Dulah Miller, Lorenzo Gilson, Harry Drake, George Newcomb, Everett Hayden, Edward Hayden.

Ladies' Home Journal—Mrs. George Badger, Mrs. W. E. Alden, Mrs. V. E. Miller, Miss Hattie Sargent, Mrs. George Vinton.

Fortune teller — Madame Bertha Marvelle.

Pop corn merchants,—Albert Prescott and Albert Coffin.

The entertainment both in the afternoon and evening was given by the children under the direction of Miss Edna Wood, and was much enjoyed. She first introduced as entertainers Misses Nina Bates, Helen Kingman, Mabel Lovejoy, Lillian Pratt, Hazel Mowry and Mildred Rogers. Their galaxy of artists were from all parts of the old world representing in costume. song and recitations the countries of Europe and Asia, as follows:

From England,—Henry Prescott and Hazel French.

From Scotland,—Marjorie Welch and Esther Beckford.

From Ireland,—Ruth Packard and Harriet Glover.

From Holland,—Winthrop Sherman and Margaret Hunt.

From Sweden,—Dorothy Packard and Pearl Hayden.

From Spain,—Corliss Berry and Marion Mitchell.

From Italy,—Isabelle Mitchell.

From Germany,—Howard Pratt and Helen Mitchell.

From Switzerland,—Harold Curtis and Gennevieve Furbish.

From France,—Carl Marsh and Gladys Hunt.

From Norway,—Ralph Marden and Ella Packard.

From Russia,—Paul Blackmur and Anna Jones.

From China,—Alden Blanchard.

From Japan,—Dorothy Lowe.

Identification Meeting.

John Adams Council, No. 1210, Royal Arcanum, held an "Identification Meeting" at Odd Fellows hall, Wollaston, Monday evening. The degree team of Dorchester council exemplified the beautiful Dorchester ritual in the ceremony of initiation, being assisted by an excellent quartet from the same council. Fifty-four members answered the roll call, including eleven charter members and nine past regents. Undoubtedly the storm kept many at home, but nearly one hundred were present, counting members and visitors. Among the latter were Grand Regent, M. S. Foye; Prof. George W. Blish, first supreme orator, and one of the original nine who founded the Royal Arcanum; Grand Warden, R. Sweet, Jr.; Past Grand Regent, D. R. Beckford, Jr.; and District Deputy, Horace G. Williams. The work of the degree team, the singing of the quartet and the speeches of the grand officers were enjoyed by all, and a collation, with hot coffee and cigars, gave the finishing touch to a very pleasant evening.

PROSPERITY FOR ALL.

And we, having had a prosperous business the past year, do hereby PROMISE all of our REGULAR CUSTOMERS that during the month of January, we will sell them our Goods at COST.

This is no cut-price sale, or stamp giving scheme, just simply giving them a cash reduction on all bill of goods bought of us in the next thirty days. We think this is a good, clean, wholesome way to show our appreciation of your trade, past and future.

We have never encouraged stamp or premium business, relying wholly on the quality of our goods to satisfy our trade. And our splendid business the past year shows our good judgment on that question. And now we are prepared to do business with our Regular Customers at Cost. THEY CAN HAVE THE PROFIT OF OUR BUSINESS FOR THE NEXT THIRTY DAYS.

Yours for Quality,

JOHNSON BROS.

ONE SUCCESS.

Scored by Congressman McNary and Postmaster Hammond.

Congressman McNary was notified on Wednesday, by Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, that the additional letter carrier asked for by Postmaster Hammond at Quincy, had been granted to take effect Jan. 1.

If Congressman McNary is as successful in securing an appropriation for a Postoffice building in Quincy, he will make himself solid with his constituents in this city.

The granting of an additional carrier to Quincy is something for which Postmaster Hammond has been striving for some time, and will increase the number of carriers in Quincy to 21 men. When the new man goes on Jan. 1, it will mean quite an improvement to the delivery service, more especially to West Quincy and Ward One.

At the present time there are two carriers at West Quincy, but they have so much to do that the mail does not reach its destination as soon as it should.

The new carrier, who will be used at West Quincy, will relieve the two men now on that district, so that mail will reach its destination in some cases an hour earlier than at present. It also means a relief for the men in Ward One, so that the business houses will get their mail earlier.

James T. O'Neil, who heads the classified list, will receive the appointment. Mr. O'Neil has been serving as substitute for the past two years.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

The Great Exposition at St. Louis Reviewed at Length.

The ladies of the Quincy Point church served another of their excellent suppers on Wednesday evening. The hot escalloped potatoes was a favorite dish, but there were also baked beans, cold meats pies in variety, coffee etc.

Councilman Stone presided at the entertainment. He first introduced Miss Elizabeth Cox who sang her solo so sweetly that she was recalled, and her second number was equally pleasing. She was accompanied by Mrs. Alice Selleck.

A talk on the World's Fair at St. Louis by Frank F. Prescott, editor of the Quincy Daily Ledger, followed. By local comparisons, he gave the audience a good idea of the size of the exposition grounds and of the larger exhibit palaces. He told of the cost of each, and briefly referred to some of the principal exhibits therein. He took his audience through "the Pike," and spoke of a few of the attractions at length. The Philippine exhibit, which included representatives of different tribes as well as their industries, manufactures and products, received considerable attention. The progress of these people in education and music was pleasing.

It was evident that no exhibits from Quincy and New England escaped Mr. Prescott, and all were glad to learn that the State building of Massachusetts compared favorably with the buildings of other states. Some of the State buildings, which were reproductions of historical houses must have been of great interest, also the foreign buildings.

The speaker dwelt upon the fact that the St. Louis exposition emphasized the importance of the West not only in agriculture but in progress, in wealth and in importance. Mr. Prescott is evidently, of the opinion that the equal of the World's Fair of 1904 will not be seen for a great many years.

Twelve Associates.

The Twelve Associates held their first meeting of the season on Tuesday evening, at the home of Mr. Herbert Barker, on Hancock street. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Borst, Mr. and Mrs. George Hinckley, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Harvie, Mrs. F. J. Pierce, and Mr. Gus Kendall.

Whist was played from eight until 10.20, the ladies' first prize being won by Mrs. Pierce. Mrs. Borst captured the ladies' second prize. The gentlemen's first prize was awarded to Mr. Harvie, the second prize to Mr. Kendall.

After the whist playing, the company was very agreeably entertained by Mr. Kendall at the piano, who rendered several very interesting songs. Mr. Barker caused considerable merriment by various imitations of well known stage characters. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Pierce and Mr. Harvie. A light collation was served.

—The Christian Endeavorers now number 65,000, having added 565 new societies in the past quarter.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

John D. Rockafeller told his bible class last Sunday that we are all sinners. Yes, with oil increasing we sometimes get very, very bad.

"Pastor Wagner" returned to Europe with $50,000 in cold cash. If the "Simple Life" is as much a success in other respects as it is financially, it must be great.

A girl in a Kansas town died from too much dancing given for charity purposes. This will give the man a good illustration who wants to talk against dancing, and also for the man who is opposed to charity.

It is a very noticeable fact that when any of the Mayor's departments exceed their appropriations, they have little difficulty in getting an extra appropriation or transfer, but it is different with the School Committee. It is a hard and fast rule for them—you must not exceed your appropriation.

Mayor-elect James Thompson is usually regarded as a young man, yet at 56 there are only five older who have been elected mayors of Massachusetts cities this year. The oldest is 69, Mayor Reade of Woburn, and there are others 67, 63 and 60. The youngest is 27 years, Mayor Casey of Lowell.

Suppose the city should charge the C. C. Johnson fund five per cent. per year as trustees. The gift provides the income shall be used at Thanksgiving time for the purchase of turkeys for worthy Quincy people, but the income is less than five per cent., so that the city would get all the income. It might be argued that it is worth $75 per year to manage a trust fund of $2,000. The City Council is on the right track and should veto the payment of salaries to city officials from the Woodward fund and all other funds.

The romantic farce of Mrs. Chadwick came to the press just in time to head off the tragedy and sin of Nan Patterson, which was deluging the land with unsavory details. "Laugh and the world laughs with you," and Mrs. Chadwick is now having her innings? How long she must have been laughing up her sleeve at the scheme she devised for getting other people's money without committing an indictable offence. Only she knows and she declines to take the public into her confidence. Silence with her is golden—so golden that it is expected she must have settled some two or three millions of dollars upon her husband, who is doing Europe, and telegraphing home that he stands by his wife! What with fashionable gowns, automobiles, costly entertainments, and all the rest of the outside show of wealth and respectability, she cut a wide swarth in her Cleveland circle of society. It was very fine while it lasted. She danced, but others paid the fiddler. There is a hazard in new friends as Ira Reynolds has discovered. "Money talks," and with a plenty of it there is little difficulty in sailing with the 400.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ An official of the United States treasury department said not long ago that he had never known of a case in which a national bank had come to grief where the banking law had been scrupulously observed by the bank's officers. The case of Mrs. Chadwick and the bank wrecked by her operations shows what violation of the law can do. —New Bedford Standard.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

OCCUPANT OF JAIL

Mrs Chadwick Has No Idea of Furnishing Bail

IT WOULD REACH $100,000

Charged With Aiding Bank Officers to Commit Fraud and Conspiring Against United States--People Unsympathetic

Cleveland, Dec. 15.—Five times indicted by the United States government at the exact minute her train rolled into the station, Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick came home to Cleveland. She was greeted with jeers, hoots and hisses by the crowds that gathered in the depot when her train arrived, and howled at by hundreds gathered in front of the federal building.

The last sound that reached her from the outside world, as she passed into the stuffy office of Sheriff Barry in the county jail, was the hoot of derision from the people massed in front of the doorway. She made no attempt to give bail and after a brief stop in the office of the clerk of the United States court, was taken to jail. She is held in cell 14 in the woman's department of the jail and her palatial residence on Euclid avenue, of which the furnishings alone are valued at $200,000, is occupied by her maid.

Her courage held to the last, but her body failed her and when she had mounted the three flights of stairs leading to the tier of cells where she is to remain she collapsed utterly and fainted. Breathless, pale and staggering, she was barely able to reach a chair, as the steel door of the woman's corridor swung open to receive her.

She sank feebly into a chair, her head fell backward, and but for the marshals she would have rolled to the floor. Water was quickly brought to her, and in a few seconds she revived, and was again a woman of business. Her first request was that her lawyer, Sheldon Q. Kerruish, be sent for, and she was soon engaged in a conference with him concerning her defense.

There is small chance that she will be able to leave the jail before her trial. There are now seven indictments against her—five additional charges having been laid against her in the federal court yesterday afternoon. It would require surety to the amount of at least $100 000 to give her freedom. She has herself no idea of giving bail and will remain in jail.

Mrs. Chadwick's train was scheduled to arrive at 11:10 in the morning, but it was three hours later before it reached Cleveland. The delay of the train served but one purpose—that of increasing the crowd of the curious at the depot. Almost with every minute the crowd grew in size until the patience and effectiveness of the police was severely taxed.

When the train finally rolled into the station there was a rush from the further end of the iron fence that kept the crowd of curious from the tracks. This mob had broken through the police, swarmed over the fence and through the gate upon the tracks, so that when the train came to a standstill there was about 1000 persons about the cars.

After the train had been emptied of its passengers, Marshal Chandler stepped aboard the "Aida" and made his way to the drawing room, where he was introduced to Mrs. Chadwick. Preceded by Emil Chadwick and Freda Swenson, the nurse, the party made its way to the platform and thence through the dense crowds to a carriage in waiting.

Mrs. Chadwick was recognized by the crowd and there was a spontaneous outburst of jeers, whistles, and shouts of coarse epithets. Shouts of "Here's the notes," and "Where's the money" greeted Mrs. Chadwick upon her appearance, and as the viciousness of the mob dawned upon her, she seemed to grow faint, and wavered as though about to fall. It seemed that but for the deputy marshals supporting her, she must utterly collapse.

The shouts and cries were taken up and passed along all the way to the federal building, through the busiest part of the city. The carriage with the prisoner was driven into an alley in the rear of the federal building. There was much delay here, the narrow passageway being blocked by coal wagons. After consuming about 20 minutes in going a distance of about twice as many feet, the prisoner was taken to the marshal's office on the fifth floor on the freight elevator.

Repeated attempts on the part of the police to stop the outbursts of the mob were futile. It was apparent that the degree of excitement consequent upon the arrival of Mrs. Chadwick had been under-estimated, and that what police precautions had been taken were entirely inadequate.

The federal grand jury returned the indictments against Mrs. Chadwick, President Beckwith and Cashier Spear of the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin, at the exact minute that Mrs. Chadwick's train rolled into the depot in this city.

The federal indictments against Mrs. Chadwick are five in number, three of them charging her with aiding and abetting officers of a national bank to defraud the institution, and two with conspiring against the United States. Of the four indictments against Beckwith and Spear, two charge misapplication of the funds of a national bank one of conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States and one certifying checks when no funds were on hand.

The home of Mrs. Chadwick was yesterday afternoon surrendered to Receiver Nathan Loeser, and he placed a custodian in charge of the property.

Patti Concert Netted $37,000

St. Petersburg, Dec. 15.—Adelina Patti gave a concert here last night for the benefit of the Red Cross society. The concert netted over $37,000. Seats were sold at fabulous prices. Emperor Nicholas, members of the imperial family and all the wealth and rank of the Russian capital were present. Mme. Patti announced that this was her final farewell to the concert stage, adding that as her first great success was achieved in St. Petersburg, it was fitting that she should close her public career here.

Swayne's Case Before the Senate

Washington, Dec. 15.—The senate, which, under the constitution, is made the trial court in impeachment cases, has received official notice of the determination of the house of representatives to present impeachment charges against Charles Swayne, federal judge in the northern district of Florida. The matter was brought to the senate's attention by a house committee and the senate appointed a committee to prepare the details of the proposed trial.

Insurance Frauds Convicted

Chicago, Dec. 15.—A crusade begun several months ago by government officials against the operation of "wild-cat" insurance companies reached a successful termination when Steven W. Jacobs and Charles J. VanAnden pleaded guilty to charges of operating a scheme to defraud by placing fraudulent insurance policies and using the United States mails to conduct the frauds. They will be sentenced Dec. 27.

Encountered Rough Weather

St. Johns, Dec. 15.—Steamer Louisburg, coal laden, for St. Johns, put in at Trepassey after having been driven 160 miles seaward. She had her boats smashed and gear demolished. Steamer Damara has arrived from Liverpool after an experience similar to that of the Louisburg. Steamer Sicily, from Halifax, has been out six days, and fears are entertained for her safety.

Russia to Grant Reforms

St. Petersburg, Dec. 15.—The Zemstvoist demands for a direct representative body to make the laws of the nation will not be granted, but some medium in the form of a representative consultative body, which can voice the wishes of the people direct to the sovereign, now seems probable. An entirely new law for the liberalization of the press also is apparently certain.

Testimony In Smoot Case

Washington, Dec. 15.—Testimony relating to the alleged polygamous marriage of the late Apostle Abram Cannon and Lillian Hamlin, and additional testimony concerning the obligations taken by persons who pass through the Mormon endowment house, was offered yesterday in the investigation of the protests against Senator Smoot.

Porto Ricans In Need

San Francisco, Dec. 15.—The Bulletin says that 5000 Porto Ricans, whose contract for working in the sugar plantations of Hawaii have expired, are in this city in a destitute condition. It is declared that nearly 5000 men will soon arrive from the islands. They did not find the conditions of labor in Hawaii agreeable.

Lays Blame Upon Father

Newark, N. J., Dec. 15.—Louise Williams, 16 years old, was held in $200 bail here on a charge of having passed forged checks for small amounts on merchants. The girl alleged that her father, George Williams, had compelled her to draw the checks. A warrant has been issued for the man's arrest.

Highwayman Got $2200

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 15.—A lone highwayman held up the bank of Chisholm and secured $2200. He forced Cashier Greiser into the vault at the muzzle of a revolver and locked the door. The robber escaped.

Anxiety Over a Schooner

Halifax, Dec. 15.—Some anxiety is felt here for the safety of schooner Ivanhoe, which sailed from this port on Nov. 5 with a general cargo for the Bahama islands. The Ivanhoe carried a crew of six men.

Many Russian Deserters

Vienna, Dec. 15.—The Nova Reforma of Lemberg says a steady stream of Russian deserters continues to arrive there, of whom the majority are going to America.

Lawyer Died In Court House

Dedham, Mass., Dec. 15.—While in attendance upon the superior court here, where he was engaged as counsel in a case on trial, Francis P. Curran, a lawyer of Cambridge, suffered an attack of acute indigestion from which he died before he could be removed from the courthouse. Curran had figured in many important legal contests in this section of the state.

Mills Handicapped by Drought

Pawtucket, R. I., Dec. 15.—Lack of sufficient rain recently has placed the proprietors of a number of mills along the lower part of the Blackstone river, dependent upon the water for their motive power, under some difficulty in the operation of their plants. About 20 mills, employing 5000 hands, are affected by the drought.

Unique Method of Suicide

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 15.—George Luttinger, Sr., 67 years old, committed suicide in the cellar of his home by placing a charge of powder in his mouth and igniting it. The top of his head was blown off by the explosion. Luttinger had been suffering from a cancer under his tongue and said he could not bear the pain any longer.

Money For Cuban Sanitation

WARSHIP GOT AWAY

Sevastopol the Only One That Escaped Destruction

RUSSIAN FLEET SMASHED

Japanese Can Now Place Their Vessels In Dock--Streets of Port Arthur Deserted--Much Damage Wrought

Headquarters of the Third Japanese Army, via Fusan, Dec. 15.—The battleship Sevastopol, the only Russian warship that escaped destruction, being docked when the other vessels were sunk after the Japanese captured 203-Metre hill, escaped from the dock and harbor last night and is now anchored under a protecting mountain. Some torpedo craft are also outside of the harbor.

The tremendous price in life paid by the Japanese for the capture of 203-Metre hill has been redeemed by the utter destruction of the Russian fleet.

The Japanese fleet will now go into dock.

Tokio, Dec. 15.—The report of Vice Admiral Togo has been received. It is as follows:

"Commander Kasama, commanding the torpedo flotilla, on Monday night at midnight attacked the Russian battleship Sevastopol, lying outside Port Arthur. The result of this attack has not been ascertained. Subsequently two torpedo boats attempted several attacks, facing the enemy's vigorous fire. The shock of the explosion of torpedoes were felt, but the next day the Sevastopol remained in the same position. None of our vessels was damaged.

"On Tuesday morning at 2:30 another torpedo flotilla attacked the Sevastopol, but the result of this attack was not learned. In this attack a shell from the enemy struck the funnel of one of our torpedo boats and another struck the engine room, disabling the vessel, and she lost her freedom of motion and was towed away by her comrades. There were no casualties.

"Again at 6 o'clock in the morning of the same day a torpedo flotilla attempted to attack, but was exposed by the enemy's searchlights, and, being subjected to a heavy fire, was unable to accomplish this purpose. Simultaneously two torpedo boats approached the enemy's ship and discharged torpedoes, which were seen to explode, but with what effect is not known. These attackers were also exposed to a heavy fire and both were hit once and three men injured.

"Every part of the city and harbor of Port Arthur is visible from 203-Metre hill. The streets of the city are deserted and but few soldiers are doing patrol duty. Many buildings have been burned and others shattered. The harbor presents a strange appearance, with the turrets, masts and funnels of warships showing just above the water. There is not a vessel afloat in the harbor. The docks and buildings on the water front are torn and burned. The Japanese shells reach every part of the city and harbor.

The commander of the naval guns overlooking Port Arthur, reporting at 10 o'clock Tuesday night, says: "Today's bombardment was principally directed against the arsenal and torpedo storehouse at Tiger's Tail peninsula and the vessels anchored in that vicinity. The storehouse was set on fire and burned in about an hour. About six shells struck the shops and three vessels used for various purposes were destroyed. One took fire and sank. The bombardment of buildings caused serious damage. The result of the indirect bombardment of the Savastopol has not been ascertained, owing to the inclement weather."

The Japanese are working their advance on the shores of Pigeon bay on comparatively level ground against the Tai Yankow, Idzchan and Antzeshan forts. The approaches to the fortifications are easy, but the forts are enormously strong, and the near approach will be all the more difficult, as the sapping of trenches will have to be done through frozen ground.

The naval guns mounted on 203-Metre hill will be able to cover the advance of infantry against any of the western forts.

Wants Black Sea Fleet Called Out

St. Petersburg, Dec. 15.—The Novoe Vremya again prints a long leader in favor of sending out the Black sea fleet to the far east. The article lays stress on Russia's alleged right to use the Dardanelles purely and simply as a passageway, since there is no other exit from the Black sea.

DISCRIMINATING LADIES.

Enjoy Using Herpicide on Account of Its Distinctiveness.

The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide speak of it in the highest terms, for its quick effect in cleansing the scalp of dandruff and also for its excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it allays that itching which dandruff will cause. Newbro's Herpicide effectively cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it, Herpicide stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing, for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

PUT UP A FIGHT

Stranger Tried to Get a Loan From President of Yale

New Haven, Dec. 15.—After a personal struggle, in which he was assisted by two sturdy students, President Hadley of Yale university caused the arrest of an alleged beggar who had called at the president's office, introducing himself as Charles F. Porter of Denver. The man, who is about 60 years of age and well dressed, represented himself as the son of an old Yale man, and after explaining that he was financially embarrassed, asked for a loan sufficient to carry him to Syracuse, N. Y., where he claimed funds were awaiting him. Upon questioning him President Hadley became suspicious of the story and telephoned the detective bureau.

When Sergeant Dennehy arrived he found President Hadley and two students holding Porter, who is a heavy and powerful man, weighing 250 pounds. The stranger was exhausted from his struggles. He will probably be arraigned in court on a charge of begging.

Several letters addressed to Mrs. Emma F. Porter, Boston, were found on him, and also papers indicating that he is a war veteran and draws a pension of $8 a month, which was last paid in Los Angeles, Cal. Other papers found on him included addresses of a large number of persons throughout the country.

Convicts Gain Their Freedom

Boston, Dec. 15.—The executive council voted the pardon and release from state prison of Edward J. Smith and Charles Devlin. Smith was liberated last night and Devlin was released today. Smith was sentenced on Dec. 18, 1900, to serve a term of eight to 10 years on a charge of robbery, he having previously served a term in the reformatory. The governor and council believed the ends of justice had been satisfied. Devlin was convicted and sentenced in 1898 to eight or 10 years in prison for assault and robbery. The reason for his pardon was similar to that in Smith's case.

Jumped From Ferryboat

Boston, Dec. 15.—Mrs. John W. Parker ended her life by jumping from an East Boston ferryboat last evening. She was alive when taken from the water by the crew of a tugboat, but died before medical aid could reach her. Mrs. Parker was 30 years old and had had considerable sickness within the past three months.

A Peculiar Fatality

Waterville, Me., Dec. 15.—William A. Barry, aged 42, slipped while descending the stairs leading to the office of the Bay View hotel and in his fall to the bottom pushed his head through the glass in the street door in such a way that the jagged pieces of glass severed the jugular vein. He died where he fell.

Christian Endeavorers' Growth

WATCHED FOR A DUEL

Colonel Greene Disappointed an Excited Throng at Boston

Boston, Dec. 15.—An excited throng, numbering several thousand people, crowded State street yesterday afternoon and waited for hours for the expected duel between Thomas W. Lawson of Boston and Colonel Greene of New York.

The duel had been expected for 24 hours. In half page advertisements Greene had announced that he would come to Boston Tuesday to denounce Lawson and do all sorts of things to him.

He did not come Tuesday, and then it was expected he would come yesterday. It looked as if he would really come when the following telegram was received by Lawson:

"Leave for Boston on 10 a. m. train from New York. Will be at your State street office at 3:30 p. m. W. C. Greene."

Promptly Lawson wired the following reply addressed to Greene, "on board 10 a. m. train, New York for Boston:"

"Your wire that you will be at my State street office at 3:30 p. m. today received. As you seem anxious to do your business out in public, and as my office is for other purposes than your loud mouthings, I will meet you at the time named in State street in front of the Old State house, and as I have had sufficient of your loud blattings, I herewith notify you I will do all the denouncing that will be done. Thomas W. Lawson."

In front of the Old State house was the scene of the Crispus massacre, and Lawson's hint was that there would be a second massacre if Greene came. Greene did not come and the thousands were disappointed.

Young's Widow on the Stand

New York, Dec. 15.—Caesar Young's widow was a witness in the supreme court, where Nan Patterson is on trial, charged with Young's murder. Although Mrs. Young was on the stand only long enough to identify a letter to which another witness had referred, her presence there developed one of the most intense situations of the trial. As she took the stand Miss Patterson became deathly pale, but watched intently every movement of the witness.

A Friendly Demonstration

Moscow, Dec. 15.—Professor Timiriazeff, who recently published an article on "Academic Freedom," received a remarkable ovation when he appeared in the lecture hall of the university building. The students cheered and showered him with flowers. In reply to their demonstration Timiriazeff expressed the opinion that they were about to witness the dawn of a new era in Russia.

Taft Party Returns

Washington, Dec. 15.—Secretary Taft returned from his trip to Panama late last night. He was accompanied by Senor Obaldia, the minister of Panama to the United States, President Walker of the isthmian canal commission, C. G. Magoon, the law officer of the commission, and N. W. Cromwell, the attorney who negotiated the sale of the canal to the United States.

Countess Under the Ban

Dresden, Dec. 15.—The divorced wife of the King of Saxony, now known as Countess Montignoze, has sent a request to the king that she be allowed to give Christmas presents to her five children. There is not the slightest probability of acquiescence. The display or sale of Countess Montignoze's picture has been forbidden by the Dresden prefecture.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

William Hill of Faxon road is ill and confined to the house.

Henry P. Kittredge has gone to Florida for the winter months.

The several city departments are busy closing up their work for the year.

Miss Abby Feltis of Chapins news store is confined to her home by illness.

Lieut. A. R. Shedd of Greenleaf street has gone to Washington and Chicago to pass the holidays.

Dr. Merrill of Wollaston mourns the loss of a very dear brother who died recently in Salem.

Now the family man is seen wending his way home with a Christmas tree over his shoulders.

Mr. Cox. of Edison street has severed his connections with the Fore River Ship-building Co.

The mail matter at the post office is increasing rapidly, showing that the Christmas rush is on.

The winter pool and billiard tournament at the Granite City club commenced Wednesday evening.

Miss Ruth Bassett of Walker street was one of the soloists at a concert given in Malden on Tuesday evening.

Harry L. Ford, who has been laid up for several days with a cold, is able to attend to his duties once more at the Consolidated grocery.

Charles McGillvray, who recently went into the drug business in Wakefield, has returned to Quincy to the employ of E. J. Murphy.

T. L. Williams always has a large assortment of Christmas goods, but this year it is more complete than ever, in fact a Boston stock from which to make your selection.

This is a busy week for the Quincy stores. People are finding out that their shopping can be done in Quincy, with Daily Ledger advertisers about as well as in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Whiton of Washington street are about to close their home at the Point, and pass the winter with their son, Dr. Ross K. Whiton of Hancock street.

A party of young people from Quincy enjoyed their first sleigh-ride of the season, Wednesday evening. The ride was taken through Quincy and Braintree and home by the way of the Weymouths.

The bird's nests that were dislodged from the eaves of the Atlantic station Wednesday were evidence of feathered industry during the past months. It seemed almost heartless for the dainty homes to be so ruthlessly torn down, but the results of the continuance of sparrow-habitation are known, by one and all, to be most unpleasant, and in these days of practical habits man does not allow himself to be imposed upon by weaker animals—if he can help it. Hence the destruction of the birds' nests.

NOT A LIFE LOST

Barkentine Crumbled to Pieces Beneath Feet of Crew

STRUCK DIAMOND SHOAL

Castaways Clung to Main Deck After It Had Become Detached and Drifted Helplessly About For Fifteen Hours

Boston, Dec. 15.—A story of hardship and miraculous escape from death was related by the crew of the New York barkentine Emita, who were brought to this port by the steamer New York, which rescued them 15 hours after they had been carried adrift on a fragment of their vessel.

The Emita, which left Fernandina Dec. 7, with a cargo of pine lumber for Fall River, struck on Diamond shoal, off Cape Hatteras, at 10 o'clock last Saturday during a heavy storm and was pounded to pieces by the furious seas within half an hour after she touched bottom. Although the wreck was one of the worst recorded in recent years, and the barkentine literally crumbled to pieces beneath the feet of those on board, not a life was lost. The captain of the vessel was W. S. Reemie of Machias, Me., and besides his crew of seven men he had his wife with him.

The voyage was smooth until last Saturday, when the weather appeared threatening. At noon Captain Reemie decided to reduce sail, and when this was done he ordered the vessel steered on a cours for Diamond shoal lightship. The wind steadily increased and in a short time more sail was taken in, including spanker and jib, and a double reef was taken in the mainsail. A thick vapor came over the water, followed by occasional snow squalls, which made it impossible to see ahead of the bowsprit.

Suddenly the barkentine struck bottom with a terrific shock and was brought up hard and fast on what afterwards proved to be Diamond shoal. In a few minutes the vessel swung around and great waves came tumbling aboard which threatened to sweep all hands from the deck. The deckload was torn from its moorings and hundreds of thousands of feet of lumber was swept overboard.

The entire crew and the captain's wife found shelter in the forward house. Within a quarter of an hour after the vessel struck, the mizzen mast went overboard and at the same time a great sea wrenched off the stern of the after hatch. The main and foremasts, with all rigging attached, then crashed over the sides. Each huge billow lifted the craft entirely clear of the bottom at times and with each receding wave the great gaps in the hull widened. Finally the bow of the vessel began to go to pieces and in a short time was torn from the hull at the fore hatch.

The main deck held until daylight Sunday, due to the cargo amidships, but at that hour the remnant began to go to pieces. The crew attempted to construct a raft, but the storm continued and the task was abandoned. The forward deck house remained attached to the main deck, and when the sea swept it away all hands were able to hold their positions. The waves dashed over the men frequently and they were obliged to stand in a foot of water. The wreckage drifted about 20 miles and in the path of the coast steamers.

At noon Sunday the steward found matches in a tin box, and by tearing off parts of the interior of the house was able to start a fire on a small portion of the deck. Pieces of lumber which still held fast to the wreckage were used as fuel. The fire attracted the attention of the steamer New York, bound for this city. Chief Officer Googins of the New York was sent off in a boat with several members of the crew. Although the sea was still running high, all the castaways were taken off.

Queer Ideas of "Duty"

Budapest, Dec. 15.—The members of the opposition parties have published a manifesto to the nation in justification of their action in removing the gendarmes from the chamber and destroying the president's chair and declaring that they will do their duty in the same way again to save the country and the constitution. The scene in the chamber on Tuesday is almost universally condemned.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. MAHOGANY WOOD.

The Way It Came to Be Used in the Making of Furniture.

Chippendale owes his reputation to the fact that he published a book of designs with over 200 copperplate engravings, so that today any one who wishes may get them and reproduce them exactly or with such changes and improvements as suit his fancy. That they are capable of improvement Chippendale himself was the first to declare. Chippendale was one of the first makers of mahogany furniture. Before his time this precious wood was valued only for the medicinal qualities it was supposed to possess.

The idea of making furniture of mahogany wood appears to have been the result of chance. A certain physician in London had a great many mahogany planks, and, wanting a candle box, he sent for a cabinetmaker and instructed him to use the mahogany for the required article of furniture. The man objected that the wood was too hard for his tools, and the doctor told him to get harder tools. The man did so, and when the doctor saw the box he was amazed at its beauty. Patients and friends talked about it, and at last the Duchess of Buckingham came to see it. She was enraptured and persuaded the doctor to give her wood for a similar box. As a result mahogany got to be the fashion.

At the regular meeting of Paul Revere W. R. Corps, on Tuesday evening, Dec. 13th, the following members were elected to serve as officers for the year 1905:

President—Mrs. Jennie Ewell.
Senior Vice President—Mrs. Annie G. Grignon.
Junior Vice President—Mrs. Edith Wolfe.
Treasurer—Mrs. Mary A. H. Crane.
Chaplain—Mrs. Jennie Holton.
Conductor—Mrs. Agnes Fletcher.
Guard—Mrs. Celia Baxter.
Delegate to Department Convention—Mrs. Eliza A. Penniman.
Alternate—Mrs. Mary A. H. Crane.

—Lazy people are termed easy going but it is a misnomer. It is hard to get 'em started and worse to keep 'em at it.

—Baalis Sanford of Brockton was on Wednesday reelected most worshipful grand master of the Grand lodge of Masons of Massachusetts.

TRIMMING THE TREE.

How to Decorate One In a Novel Fashion at a Small Cost.

Less than $2, properly expended, will decorate the Christmas tree beautifully in a novel fashion and give no end of pleasure, says the Pittsburg Press.

The chief thing to consider is the color and effect. The materials employed are really secondary. There will, of course, be a cobwebby mass of loose silver tinsel coiled in and out and over the tree in a bewildering labyrinth, and strings of popcorn, holly berries and cranberries. Tradition demands their use in connection with the novel ornaments.

Small and inexpensive souvenirs of Japanese lanterns and opened parasols will give a unique touch of oriental color to the Christmas tree. From every available tip tiny bells, hearts, stars, guitars, banjos and paper mache animals, such as rabbits, donkeys and reindeers, should be suspended.

If desired the animals may be of cake, as molds are made especially for this purpose. The stars and hearts may be cut from bristol board and given a coat of glue, then dipped in mica or metallic flock.

Small red and green apples may be used to good advantage for decorative purposes by sticking them with tiny crape paper flags. They should be suspended from the boughs by braids of red, white and blue paper.

Walnuts, hickorynuts, peanuts, pine cones, etc., will help the decorative scheme also if they are gilded. The best thing to accomplish this result is smalt, which is kept by paint dealers and comes in gold and silver and all the metallic shades. First, dissolve a cake of glue in boiling water, place a tack in the end of the nut or object to be immersed, dip in the liquid glue, roll in the smalt and dry. Later, when ready to suspend from the tree, attach bright red ribbon to the gilded tack and hang in some of the places that look bare.

Another novelty which will please the children is to take the shells of the walnut, split so they will be intact, remove the meats, gild or silver the empty shells, then place a tiny doll, candy or motto inside and tie with bright colored baby ribbon.

It is almost impossible to have too many objects for trimmings, as the tree is like a yawning chasm—hard to fill. Little Chinamen dangling by their cues and Japanese lads and lassies peering furtively out from among green boughs will create a great deal of amusement for the occidental boys and girls whose eyes are eagerly fixed on the tree. Milkmaids, Jack Horners, brownies, gnomes and fairies will also be an attraction, and they may serve as bonbon receptacles as well.

How to Mail Christmas Gifts.

In mailing Christmas gifts have the package weighed by some responsible person, place the exact amount of postage needed upon the parcel, and in nine hundred and ninety-nine cases out of a possible thousand your package will reach its destination safely and promptly. In addressing the package write the name of the person who is to receive it in ink, spelling both the city and state, and do not abbreviate. Place your name in small writing in either the upper or lower left hand corner.

How to Make Fig Pudding.

Fig pudding is quite as delicious as the regular Christmas pudding and is often served in its place. It is made of half a cupful of chopped figs, one-half cupful of chopped suet, two cupfuls of white breadcrumbs, one-half cupful of sugar, one cupful of milk, one-fourth cupful of flour, one-half cupful of chopped almonds, four eggs, one teaspoonful of baking powder. It can be flavored with extract. Flour the figs and suet, soak the breadcrumbs in milk, add the sugar, then the egg yolks and beat it well. Then add slowly, stirring all the time, the figs, suet, almonds, flour mixed with the baking powder, flavoring and, lastly, the whites of eggs beaten very stiff. Turn it into a covered pudding mold, filling it three-quarters full. Steam for three hours. Serve with a pudding sauce.

How to Make a Novel Paperweight.

Here is a novel and inexpensive Christmas gift for a business friend: Take five walnuts, make a hole in the end of each and dig out as much meat as possible. With a tape needle push a narrow ribbon through each one of the shells, connecting them together, and fill them with melted lead poured through the holes in the end, and tie the ribbon ends in a bow. It will be appreciated by a business friend who must leave the office or desk with papers lying loosely about.

How to Make a Savory French Dish.

Liver puddings well truffled and plentifully seasoned with garlic, together with the national "poulet," are seen on every Christmas table in France, accompanied, especially in the south, by the celebrated languedoe stew, which is composed, according to M. Colombie, of the following materials: Beef, lean bacon, a clove, garlic, a small onion in which is inserted a clove, the third of a quart of wine, a small glass of cognac and some salt. Cut the beef into square pieces, very small, and put the whole into a small earthen pot, the bottom of which is lined with thin slices of bacon. Cover the pot with thick paper, closed at the edges by a flour paste made of cold water, put a plate over all, and let it simmer for six hours.

How to Frost Holly Leaves.

Pick some nice leaves from the stalks of holly and wipe them free from all moisture, then place them on a dish near the fire to get quite dry, but not too near to shrivel; dip them in oiled butter, sprinkle over them some coarsely powdered sugar and dry them before the fire.

Wollaston Alliance.

The Wollaston Ladies' Alliance held their regular meeting in the Unitarian vestry, Wednesday afternoon. After the usual opening exercises, reports from the different committees for the recent fair were announced and it was found that a goodly sum of money had been raised. The afternoon's program was in charge of Mrs. E. J. Cummings, consisting of piano solos by Miss Eugenia M. Hatch and a very interesting paper by Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, on "Eve."

HORSEPOWER.

The Unit as It Was Originated and Defined by Watt.

When steam engines were employed to drive mills, pumps and other machinery which had been previously driven by horses, it was natural to attempt to express the work done by them in terms of the working power of the horse.

James Watt was the first to define the unit of horsepower, which by experiment he found to be 33,000 foot pounds a minute. In other words, a one horsepower engine would raise 33,000 pounds one foot every minute, and so on proportionally to the number of "horsepowers" indicated by the engine.

He arrived at this conclusion by observing the work done by heavy dray horses in breweries working eight hours daily and found that a horse going at the rate of two miles and a half an hour could raise a weight of 150 pounds by a rope led over a pulley, which is equal to 33,000 pounds raised one foot in one minute.

Watt, for the credit of his engines, selected horses of more than average power.

IN BOILING WATER

Three Men Perished on Battleship Massachusetts

TRAPPED IN FIRE ROOM

Washer on Boiler Which Had Recently Been Thoroughly Tested Gave Way -- Heroic Lieutenant Badly Scalded

Philadelphia, Dec. 16.—Caught in a trap and helpless to save themselves, three men lost their lives and four others, including Lieutenant William Cole, were terribly scalded by a rush of steam and boiling water in the fire room of the battleship Massachusetts, lying at the League Island navy yard. The dead are: Edward Bud, married, boilermaker and civilian; Andrew Hamilton, married, boilermaker and civilian; Charles Ritzel, boilermaker's helper and civilian.

The accident was caused by the giving way of a gasket, or rubber washer, on a boiler on the starboard side of the ship.

The Massachusetts has been at the navy yard for some time undergoing extensive repairs, particularly to the boilers and machinery. Although Captain Taussig and his complement of officers and men are aboard the ship, the Massachusetts is virtually in charge of the authorities of the navy yard. The boiler on which the accident occurred had recently been cleaned and thoroughly tested, and the boilermakers were at work on another boiler.

Without warning the gasket between the boiler plate and the boiler head gave way and a terrific rush of steam and hot water occurred. The doors of the fire room were closed at the time of the accident occurred and the only avenue of escape was a safety ladder. Only one man, Bramlet, a ship's fireman, thought of the ladder and he escaped without a scar.

Few of those on the upper decks knew what had happened until the steam came rushing up from below. The work of rescue was prompt and to this promptness those who escaped death owe their thanks. The first to enter the fire hole was Lieutenant Cole. Without hesitating at becoming scalded by the hot water and steam, he entered quickly and dragged the men from the place to the door, where they were taken in charge by others. Bub and Hamilton were dead when found and Ritzel died a few minutes after being taken on deck.

Whether the gasket was defective or whether it had been carelessly put in place remains for the official court of inquiry to determine. It is said the boiler had been thoroughly overhauled and tested under a tremendous pressure of steam. At the time of the accident the steam pressure was only sufficient to run the ship's heating plant.

The accident will cause little or no delay in preparing the battleship for sea.

Admiral Dickens, commandant of the League Island navy yard, after a preliminary report had been made to him, named a board of inquiry. The board met immediately, but deferred making an inspection of the fire room until the deputy of the coroner of Philadelphia had made his investigation.

TWO OUT OF THREE.

Mt. Wollastons Win in Odd Fellows League.

The Mt. Wollaston bowling team defeated the Wildey lodge team of South Weymouth on Wednesday evening two out of three. The games were rolled on the Granite street alleys and the visitors took the first by 9 pins. The second went to Mt. Wollaston by 6 pins, and then they let themselves out and rolled a string of 455.

QUINCYS AT TOP.

They Win While the Braintrees Were Defeated.

Three straight for the Quincys and two defeats for the Braintrees in the Old Colony bowling league places the Quincys near the top today. They have made a grand rally from last place in the past three weeks.

Thursday evening the Quincys played on the Granite street alleys with the Quincy Point team as rivals. The Quincys won the first game by 23 pins, bowling a string of 409 against 386 for the visitors. Had Quincy Point done as well in the second they would have won, for the Quincys dropped to 384, but they fell 24 behind. The Quincys rolled a big string in the third, a total of 460 and won by 79 pins. Grant who bowled 114 was high man on singles and also on totals. Green proved a Jonah for the visitors.

TWO KINDS OF CHILDREN

Children that grow too fast and those that seem hardly to grow at all, both need Scott's Emulsion.

It gives that rich vital nourishment which is the secret of all healthy growth. It rounds out the long limbs, and helps children to grow without using up all their strength in growing.

Mothers ought to know more about the wonderful help which Scott's Emulsion would give their children.

There is no secret about Scott's Emulsion. Nothing is covered up by obscure references to "active principles" or "alkaloids."

Scott's Emulsion is simply an emulsion of the best Norwegian cod liver oil combined with the hypophosphites and glycerin.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

FIRE AT ATLANTIC.

All the Stores in Sagamore Block Threatened—Loss Over $1,000.

One of the stores in the Sagamore block on Sagamore street at Atlantic was badly damaged by fire Thursday afternoon. When S. A. Needleman, the tailor, was lighting up about 4.30 he accidentally allowed one of the glass lamps to drop, and the flames spread so rapidly that he could not single handed extinguish them.

Box 63 was pulled. When the Atlantic hose wagon arrived a hot fire was in progress and it had burst out through the front show window. One stream soon extinguished the blaze. A little fire worked its way through to the pool room in the corner store, but the Post Office adjoining on the other side escaped. The smoke got into a small blind attic and worked into all the stores, coming out along the front of the building and at both ends.

The Wollaston and Central fire station apparatus made good time, and were on hand had their services been required.

There was a little delay in opening the hydrant and it was with difficulty that it could be closed after the fire. The street nearby was flooded.

Mr. Needleman's loss was $400, and was covered by an insurance of $500. Mr. Geekie of the pool room lost $100, and the block owned by N. G. Nickerson is damaged $600.

MILTON.

A surplice choir of the Mission of Our Saviour church will be heard for the first time at the service on Christmas Sunday.

A pleasing entertainment was given at the meeting of the Thursday Evening club this week.

The first lecture in the Acme course at the East Milton Congregational church was given Wednesday evening by Col. William Olin, whose subject was, "How a secretary of state earns his pay." There was a good attendance and the lecture was thoroughly enjoyed.

Quimby's drug store has been closed this week. It will probably reopen next week.

The fire department was called out by an alarm from Box 67 at 1.28 P. M. last Saturday for a fire in the cellar of an unoccupied blacksmith shop on Willard street, owned by the Gallagher estate. The fire started in a lot of old rubbish and was extinguished without loss.

On Sunday, Box 67 was again sounded at 11.15 A. M. This was for a fire in a double house on Pierce street owned by A. A. Brackett, and occupied by Herbert Boutin and William Cates. The fire started in the attic probably from a defective chimney. It was discovered by some one passing along the street who saw smoke coming through the skylights. He notified the family and gave the alarm. The fire was confined to [illegible] loss was [illegible] insured. Cates loss was very slight and he was uninsured.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Quincy is not the only city where the joint caucus act will continue in force, although it was the only city which voted not to revoke the acceptances of the act. The following cities, which adopted the act last year, will continue under it, not having submitted the revocation to vote this year: Cambridge, Somerville, Newton, Waltham, Medford, Chelsea, Lowell, Gloucester, and Lawrence.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The greatest danger in a democracy is that just criticism may disappear under the frown of power, or by the purchase of newspapers and magazines in the interest of private or public plunder, and that only flattery and libel may take its place. The most pressing danger now is the preponderance of mere wealth, not only in popular elections, which are often purchased, but in courts of so-called justice, where the longest purse often wins in a campaign of delays and ever-increasing lawyers' fees. Justice has ceased to be impartially blind, but has one eye half open to count the dollars of the contestants.—Frank B. Sanborn.

☞ The will of a retired drug merchant of Boston, which was filed in the probate office a few days ago, includes some unusual municipal bequests. The list of general beneficences of from $5,000 to $50,000 is so long as to make the instrument a notable one; but more notable than these, because more unusual in this country, are the bequests to municipalities. The bequests reveal individuality at once in their number and their character, while the will itself is one more indication of the beginning of a movement in this country to leave money to cities and towns. This movement follows naturally the development of civic love and pride, and it has waited upon the growth of a confidence in honest municipal administration. When once it becomes the fashion—and legacies follow fashion as surely as fashion follows often upon legacies—it may be expected to assume great proportions.—New York Tribune.

☞ The scolding of the newspapers for saying anything about the operations of the woman Chadwick was bound to come. It has come in the complaint of a lawyer connected with the case, who remarks sorrowfully that "if the newspaper had kept their hands off," the matter would probably have been settled before this. His client was badly bitten by the adventuress, though there is some reason for supposing that if the circumstances had been kept quiet a little longer he might have escaped with money which had been borrowed on the mythical fortune from somebody else. It appears to have been a part of Mrs. Chadwick's scheme to satisfy a too insistent creditor by raising the money to discharge his claim from a new victim, and this is what she would probably have done in this case if she had sufficient time. So if the newspapers had kept their hands off a little longer, the man might have escaped with his money, though in that case another would have been despoiled. The moral appears to be that the newspapers did not begin soon enough. If they could have picked up the case of Mrs. Chadwick some years ago, her career would have come to an end in season to save a good share of the fortunes which have been lost by means of her wiles and her scampishness.—New Bedford Standard.

Burglars Tried Hard to Get Into Vault of Maine Bank

FIRST TRIED EXPLOSION

Failing In This, They Tore Down Masonry Without Accomplishing Their Object--Nobody Disturbed by the Great Racket

Bar Mills, Me., Dec. 16.—An attempt was made to rob the safe of the Buxton and Hollis Savings bank at West Buxton sometime during the night. The burglars blew off the combination knob and, failing to open the safe by that means, tore down a portion of the walls of the vault. Something frightened them when they were almost within reach of the bank's securities, which, however, were not large, the greater portion being in a bank at Saco.

While the bank is situated in the centre of the business section of the town, the noise of the explosion failed to arouse any one, and it was not until Treasurer Harmon opened the bank door that the attempted robbery was discovered.

Mr. Harmon found the banking room in great confusion, burglars' tools, a pick, bricks from the side of the vault, as well as a bottle containing nitro-glycerine, being scattered among the overturned chairs and banking tables. He realized the situation at once and notified the authorities in this place.

The bank is located in a business block on the main street. As usual in small country banks, the vault was in the rear part of the room and partially hidden from the street by railings and a desk. It is a fairly substantial affair of steel, incased in brick, with the usual combination lock.

It was apparent that the burglars had first attacked the combination. Blowing the nitro-glycerine into the cracks behind the knob with an air-pump, they then packed the front of the safe with rugs and cushions and fired the charge. The stout steel door withstood the explosion, although the knob was blown off.

As far as known no one in town heard the noise of this explosion, which, however, must have been considerable. The burglars then went to a nearby blacksmith shop and, securing a pick and a crowbar, attacked the masonry on the side and rear of the vault. The side walls were torn down until the steel plates of the inner vault were exposed, when the burglars ceased their work. It is believed that they were frightened away.

Although the authorities made a careful investigation about the room, as well as among those living in the neighborhood, they were unable to obtain any clue as to the identity of the robbers.

It was reported that two men were seen early in the morning going in the direction of Saco, but they had disappeared when the police began their investigations. The damage to the interior of the bank and vault will not be large.

Stringent Anti-Boxing Law

Chicago, Dec. 16.—The death blow to boxing in Chicago has been administered by Mayor Harrison. To each club that has been conducting boxing contests of any kind, and to the chief of police, for enforcement, Harrison has sent copies of an opinion by the corporation counsel, who not only maintains that prize fighting anywhere within the state is a felony and that witnesses are guilty of a misdemeanor, but shows that by law friendly contests are illegal, where the public is invited to attend, either by paying a fee or entering free of price.

Pleaded Guilty of Murder

Lebanon, Pa., Dec. 16.—Jacob Walmer, farmer, pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree in the killing of his neighbor and friend, William Mack. He was sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary. Mack and John Bordner, an old man, had been helping Walmer in the harvest field when Mack made an assault on Bordner. Fearful of the outcome of the assault, Walmer struck Mack a blow on the head, from the effects of which he died.

An Unexplained Accident

Norfolk, Dec. 16.—The United States naval tug Mohawk sank at her mooring at the navy yard here. A deckhand, who stuck to the whistle cord, blowing signals of distress, until the vessel went down, was rescued with difficulty. Admiral Harrington has ordered a court of inquiry to investigate the sinking of the Mohawk. The opinion is held in some quarters that the sinking of the tug may be more than an accident.

The Constellation in Commission

New York, Dec. 16.—The frigate Constellation, the oldest ship in the American navy, after having been thoroughly overhauled, has been recommissioned at the Brooklyn navy yard. Launched in 1797, the ship has had a memorable career, and the opinion is expressed that she is good for another hundred years. She will be used as a receiving ship at Newport.

Independent Telephone Lines

Chicago, Dec. 16.—Independent long distance telephone lines to Chicago have been made a practical certainty. The independent lines desire long distance connection with this city so as to better compete with the existing telephone interests.

A RAY OF HOPE

Fall River Operatives Think End of Strike Is Near at Hand

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 16.—There is a persistent rumor among the cotton mill strikers in this city that strong pressure will be brought to bear on the officials of the Civic Federation to interest the federation in and end, if possible, the strike here, which has thrown out of employment 25,000 operatives.

It is known that several officers of the different unions affected by the strike have gone to New York, and while labor leaders here admit their presence in that city they deny that they are about to request that the Civic Federation take up the question.

Among the rank and file of the strikers, however, the hope is quite prevalent that the end of the strike is near at hand. It is pointed out that President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, who is also first vice president of the Civic Federation, has expressed himself as greatly interested in the situation here and has promised to do all in his power to end the strike. It is thought that Gompers will hardly fail to bring the Fall River strike to the attention of the convention.

Greene Looking For Lawson

Boston, Dec. 16.—Colonel Bill Greene has arrived in Boston. He came over from New York last evening and the clash with Boston's copper king, Thomas W. Lawson, is scheduled to take place today. Greene says he has come to make Lawson retract certain statements made about him by the Boston man. Lawson declares that he has nothing to retract about Greene, and that he will repeat all he said with some additional details. As matters stand now each has called the other a liar, and since the long distance warfare between them opened on Tuesday morning last the situation has become acute.

Narrow Escapes In Scant Attire

Bath, Me., Dec. 16.—Many lives were imperilled last night by a fire which started in a store occupied by Narsiss Attaya. The flames spread to a tenement block and also to a building adjoining owned by Frederick N. Kimball. The total loss will exceed $10,000. Several families were compelled to flee to the street in their night clothes and were unable to save even their personal effects. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Injured Worse Than Suspected

Newport, Me., Dec. 16.—Harry Hughes, age 24, umarried, brakeman of a Maine Central freight, was killed by being caught between cars while his train was shifting here. He was apparently not so badly injured at first and boarded the train unassisted. He became rapidly worse, however, and died in the caboose on the way to Bangor before medical aid could be secured.

No Taxes For Ten Years

Woonsocket, R. I., Dec. 16.—Charles Tiberghien and brother of France will erect a $500,000 plant in this city for the manufacture of fine worsteds, exemption from taxation for ten years having been granted by the city council. The exemption from taxation was offered in order to induce the enterprise to locate here.

Douglas Knows He Is Elected

Boston, Dec. 16.—Governor-elect Douglas has been officially notified of his election as chief executive of the state. The certificate of election was signed by Secretary of State Olin, and then transmitted to Governor Bates, whose private secretary was delegated to hand it to Douglas.

To Look Up Porter's Record

New Haven, Dec. 16.—Charles S. Porter, the alleged beggar whose arrest was brought about by President Hadley of Yale after a hand-to-hand struggle, appeared in the city court and his case was continued until next Wednesday, to allow investigation of his record.

An Unwelcome Interruption

North Attleboro, Mass., Dec. 16.—The annual ball of the North Attleboro firemen was interrupted last night by an alarm sounded for a fire in a building occupied by the United Brush company. The fire, the origin of which is unknown, caused a loss of $15,000.

End of Old Globe Church

Woonsocket, R. I., Dec. 16.—Fire last evening destroyed the building which for 50 years was known as the Old Globe Congregational church, causing a loss of about $17,000. For four years past the building has been used for manufacturing purposes.

Hot Stove Caused Heavy Loss

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 16.—Damage estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000 was caused by a fire in the J. W. Hazen candy factory in this city. The blaze was started by an overheated stove. About 125 employes are thrown out of work.

Most Noble Sentiment

Chicago, Dec. 16.—Miss Eva Booth, the new commander of the Salvation Army in the United States, at a ratification meeting here last night, in outlining her future policy in her new field, said: "The ingathering of the people, the uplifting of its downtrodden, the feeding of its hungry and the sheltering of its outcasts, the leading of the guilty and the sinners into the stream of pardon will claim my life."

Our Government's Gain

Washington, Dec. 16.—The existing contract between the Pacific Mail Steamship company and the Panama railroad will be terminated next June. The complete control of the railroad passes into the hands of the government, including the officers of the road, next April. This will save $200,000 in salaries and supervising expenses per annum.

Returns from the three railroad terminals for the month of November show that the total shipments of granite for that month amounted to 13,116,785 pounds. Of this amount 5,862,655 pounds was forwarded from West Quincy, 4,961,506 pounds from South Quincy and 2,292,624 pounds from the Quarry railroad.

Thomas McGunnigle, a well known young man of Rockland died at his home on North avenue Tuesday afternoon of consumption, aged 24 years. His brother died of the same disease only a few weeks ago. The funeral was held Thursday morning and the body taken to West Quincy for burial.—Brockton Enterprise.

Word was received Wednesday of the death in New York of Edward Cain of West Quincy. He was a son of Patrick Cain andwas at one time engaged in the express business. He has been in New York for the past two years. He was about 30 years of age. His death was due to pneumonia. Mr. Cain senior left for New York to bring the body to Quincy.

Roosevelt at Prayer Meeting

Washington, Dec. 16.—President Roosevelt attended the prayer meeting at the Grace Reformed church, of which he is a member, last night, and at the conclusion of the service he made a short address and held an informal reception, shaking hands with all those present. The president had expressed his desire to meet his fellow-members of the church and last night was set for the occasion.

A Millionaire's Troubles

Chicago, Dec. 16.—George F. Harding, millionaire and clubman, has lost his contest over the payment of $300 a month alimony to his wife, Adelaide M. Harding, and Judge Gibbons found Harding not only responsible for future payments, but in contempt of court for arrearages to the amount of $33,301. This amount Harding must pay within 10 days or he will be lodged in jail.

Disturbance Breaks Out Afresh

Zeigler, Ills., Dec. 16.—Night attacks on Zeigler have been resumed with marked activity, giving the 85 soldiers on guard duty plenty of opportunity to use rifles. Thirty non-union miners were imported into the stockade from Chicago, and this probably was responsible for the new outbreak. Striking miners contend that at least 800 men imported to Zeigler have left.

Fasting Proved a Good Cure

Rogers, Ark., Dec. 16.—A physician here is authority for the statement that Mrs. Carrie Sawnee has just completed a self-imposed fast of 48 days. She weighed 240 pounds at the beginning of her fast, and it was for the purpose of reducing her weight that the task was undertaken. She now weighs 200 pounds. She subsistad entirely on water and is in the best of health.

Weinseimer Under $10,000 Bail

New York, Dec. 16.—Philip Weinseimer, former president of the Building Trades alliance, who has been in the Tombs since Oct. 15 last, under sentence to Sing Sing for extortion, has been released in $10,000 cash bail. He was recently granted a certificate of reasonable doubt, which acts as a stay of proceedings pending an appeal.

UNHAPPINESS DISPELLED.

Men and Women Unanimous About It.

Many women weep and wail and refuse to be comforted because their once magnificent tresses have become thin and faded. Many men incline to profanity because the flies bite through the thin thatch on their craniums. It will be good news to the miserable of both sexes, to learn that Newbro's Herpicide has been placed upon the market. This is the new scalp germicide and antiseptic that acts by destroying the germ or microbe that is the underlying cause of all hair destruction. Herpicide is a new preparation, made after a new formula on an entirely new principle. Anyone who has tried it will testify as to its worth. Try it yourself and be convinced. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Mrs Chadwick Has a Talk With Banker She Ruined

ASKS HER TO REVEAL ALL

Comments Upon Woman's Frequent Change of Lawyers and Finds Her In a Mood Which Is Far From Conciliatory

Cleveland, Dec. 16.—Mrs. Chadwick's first day in the county jail was a busy one for her. She received several visits from her attorneys, held long conferences with them, conversed with newspaper men and for 15 minutes stood face to face with President Beckwith of the Oberlin bank, who has come to such great trouble through his financial transactions with her.

The meeting was dramatic. The aged banker, who had been for hours before the county grand jury, went to the jail yesterday afternoon and asked if he might see Mrs. Chadwick. Sheriff Barry consented and Mrs. Chadwick was eager to meet him. Accompanied by Mrs. Beckwith, who, owing to her husband's ill-health, is always by his side, the banker made his way slowly and feebly up the long flight of iron stairs leading to Mrs. Chadwick's cell. She met him at the entrance of the corridor and shook hands with him cordially. After some general conversation Mr. Beckwith referred to their business relations by saying:

"Mrs. Chadwick, you have ruined me, but I'm not so sure yet you are a fraud. I have stood by you to my last dollar and I do think now that the time has come for you to make known everything in relation to this thing."

Beckwith's voice betrayed deep emotion as he spoke and he leaned heavily on the arm of his wife, who was almost compelled to support him, so great was his physical weakness. Mrs. Chadwick did not reply directly to the words of Beckwith, but her manner, and the look on her face, were not conciliatory. Seeing that she would not answer, Beckwith went on:

"I have always told you that I did not like it because you changed your lawyers so often. W..y don't you get a good one and stick to him?"

"Well," said Mrs. Chadwick, in reply, "I have reasons for that."

"Have you heard from Judge Olcott recently?" was Beckwith's next question.

"Not since I left New York,' was Mrs. Chadwick s reply.

"Has he changed his mind?"

"No, he has the same belief that he always held."

To what matter the questions referred was not known. Mr. and Mrs. Beckwith then both said they hoped the matters connected with the Chadwick affair would eventually be straightened out. The interview then closed. Mrs. Chadwick thanked them for calling, shook hands with Mr. and Mrs. Beckwith and said she would be pleased to have them call again.

An application for an additional receiver for the Chadwick estate was made in the common pleas court by the Savings Deposit Banking and Trust company of Elyria, O., which has brought suit against Mrs. Chadwick on two notes of $25,000 and $10,000 respectively.

Mrs. Chadwick has retained the attorney who is to conduct her defense when she is called for trial in the federal court. He is J. J. Dawley, one of the leading criminal lawyers of Cleveland. Sheldon Q. Kerruish will assist Dawley. Mr. Kerruish said last evening:

"It is very difficult to know what is best to do for Mrs. Chadwick. She says one thing and a little later will give a totally different version of the same matter. Until we have succeeded in getting her affairs straightened out it will be difficult to say what we will do."

The present program of the federal authorities is to have Mrs. Chadwick arraigned in the United States district court on Monday next. She will be asked to plead to the indictments and will be given a chance to furnish bail, if she is able to do so. If her health is not such as to render the arraignment advisable, it will be postponed. Beckwith and Spear may be arraigned at the same time, but this has not yet been definitely decided upon.

Suspension Bridge Collapsed

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 16.—Three persons were killed and five others seriously injured by the collapse of the suspension bridge across the Elk river, which connects East and West Charleston. The accident was caused by two cables on the north side slipping from their moorings. When that side dropped another cable snapped and the floor tilted and turned completely over.

Building Fell to Pieces

New York, Dec. 16.—One man received injuries from which he afterward died and another was painfully hurt by the sudden collapse of an old building here. The identity of the dead man has not yet been established. The injured man is Martin Gaulcher, an architect, who was dismantling the structure.

Lumber Prices Remain Unchanged

Norfolk, Dec. 16.—Representatives of 20 mills, controlling practically the output of Virginia and North Carolina pine lumber, have decided not to make any change in the scale of prices which became effective Nov. 16.

WIDOW TESTIFIES

Says That Bookmaker Young Never Carried a Revolver

New York, Dec. 16.—At the conclusion of the examination of Mrs. Young, widow of Caesar Young, who was called to the witness stand twice, Assistant District Attorney Rand practically rested the case of the prosecution against Nan Patterson. Rand announced that he would call only two more witnesses.

Mrs. Young once more took the stand and verified for the records her testimony of Wednesday regarding the intercepted letter written to Young by Miss Patterson's sister, Julia Smith. Again in the afternoon she was recalled and told of the arrangement for her proposed trip to Europe with Young. She said that after her husband had retired early in the morning of June 4, she searched his pockets and was certain that he had no revolver. She said also that he never carried a revolver.

John Mellin, Young's racing partner, was also a witness. He told of efforts Young had made to break off his relations with Miss Patterson while in Los Angeles in March last. He said that he purchased a ticket for her and gave her $800 of Young's money when it was decided that she should leave him. At the conclusion of the session of the court, counsel for Miss Patterson held a conference to decide whether to offer evidence in her defense, but their decision was not announced.

Washington, Dec. 16.—The senate spent practically the entire day discussing the Philippine administrative bill. Under unanimous agreement the vote on the bill will be taken today and the disposal of all amendments will occur at the same time.

In the house, discussion of the bill "to improve currency conditions" was resumed, but throughout the session its advancement was beset with obstructive tactics by the Democrats, and little progress was made on the measure.

Too Active In Politics

Washington, Dec. 16.—As the result of an investigation of their activity during the recent political campaign, Warren F. Tumber, a rural mail carrier at Lockport, N. Y., and H. W. Aldrich, a rural carrier of Concord, N. H., both officials of the National Association of Rural Free Delivery Carriers, have been removed forthwith from the government service. Tumber is secretary of the national association of the carriers and he and Aldrich are members of its executive board.

New Cycling Association

Atlanta, Dec. 16.—"Bobby" Walthour, who, with nine other bicycle riders, has been penalized by the National Cycling association for leaving the track at Madison Square garden during the recent six-day contest, announces that the formation of the American Cyclist association has been agreed upon. This association, he says, is backed by several men of wealth and will include most of the leading professional riders of the country.

Smuggled Goods on Cruiser

Newport News, Va., Dec. 16.—Customs officers at Old Point have seized on board the United States cruiser San Francisco a rich store of smuggled goods, including silks, cigars, china and ostrich feathers. The value of the goods seized cannot be ascertained, the officials declining to discuss the matter further than to admit that the confiscation was made. The seizure was effected just before the San Francisco sailed for Norfolk.

Czar to Grant Reforms

St. Petersburg, Dec. 16.—A special council was held under Emperor Nicholas, at which the czar's ministers discussed the question of reforms. It is understood that the czar advised with them on the subject of a manifesto which will be published on Dec. 19. This document, it is believed, outlines a policy of cautious, conservative reform.

Summerfield Gets His Dues

New York, Dec. 16.—After boasting for years that he would never serve sentence, Lawrence Summerfield, widely known as a confidence man, was taken to Sing Sing prison to begin a sentence of not less than four years nor more than 7½ years. Summerfield was convicted of swindling, in connection with a copper mining company.

Halifax Dockyard to Close

Halifax, Dec. 16.—The British admiralty has ordered the closing of the Halifax dockyard, which was opened in 1770. The dockyard is the principal imperial property in Halifax and 250 skilled mechanics are employed there, many of them for upwards of 30 years.

Taft's Successful Mission

Washington Dec. 16.—Secretary Taft has reported to the president the result of his mission to Panama, going thoroughly over the situation in Panama as he observed it. The secretary said that his mission to Panama was eminently satisfactory in all respects.

Brought Many Sick Soldiers

San Francisco, Dec. 16.—The transport Sheridan, from the Philippines, brought a number of cabin passengers, 356 returning soldiers, 56 being on the sick list, and 15 military prisoners.

No News of the Sicily

St. Johns, Dec. 16.—Steamer Sicily, which sailed from Halifax for St. Johns several days ago, has not yet been reported, and it is feared that she has foundered.

SUICIDE OF SYVETON

Developing Into a Domestic Drama of Startling Magnitude

Paris, Dec. 16.—In investigating the circumstances attending the death of Deputy Gabriel Syveton, who was found dead from asphyxiation in his apartments on Dec. 8, many sensational features have already come to light. It is established that the wife of Syveton was about to apply for a divorce on the grounds of improper relations between Syveton and Mme. Menard, a daughter of Mme. Syveton by a former husband.

Both M. Menard and Mme. Syveton had accused the deputy of these relations and a family council took place shortly before Syveton's death at which violent scenes were enacted, Menard declaring that it was the duty of the deputy to put a bullet through his head and Syveton's wife announcing her purpose to sue for a divorce. This was the eve of Syveton's trial for assaulting War Minister Andre in the chamber of deputies on Nov. 4. The deputy foresaw the public disclosure of his relations with his wife's daughter and thereupon committed suicide for the purpose of averting the disclosure. The foregoing is interwoven with many scandalous details which the police and public are following with absorbing interest.

In the course of the investigation it developed that Syveton had been receiving a salary of $5000 as secretary for Count Boni de Castellane.

Navy Department Bargains

Washington, Dec. 16.—Proposals for the construction of the battleship New Hampshire and the armored cruisers Montana and North Carolina were opened at the navy department yesterday. The contract for the cruisers will probably be awarded to the Newport News Shipbuilding company for $8,575,000 each, and the battleship to the New York Shipbuilding company for $3,748,000, those being the lowest bids offered, as not more than two ships can be awarded to one company. The lowest aggregate bids for these three ships was exactly $1,877,000 less than the aggregate lowest bids for the sister ships a little over a year ago. The navy department is gratified at the great reduction.

Miners' Contention Sustained

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 16.—A decision has been received from Umpire Wright in the matter of the grievance of the employes of the Exeter colliery, at West Pittston. The company paid the sliding scale increase on the net instead of the gross earnings, which the miners alleged was in violation of the terms of the coal strike commission's award. They contended for back pay from April 1, 1903, when the company began to pay on the net earnings. Wright sustains the contention of the men, but says they are entitled to back pay only from the date of the filing of the grievance on Aug. 17, 1904.

Two States From Four Territories

Washington, Dec. 16.—The senate committee on territories, by a vote of six to four, authorized a favorable report on the statehood bill providing for the admission into the union of Oklahoma and Indian Territory, to become the state of Oklahoma, and of Arizona and New Mexico, to become the state of Arizona. The closeness of the vote practically makes it certain that there will be a minority report.

Railroad and Employes Censured

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 16.—In a verdict rendered by a coroner's jury called to place the responsibility for the Pere Marquette wreck at Elmdale, in which five persons were killed, the Pere Marquette railroad company was censured for permitting men in its employ to neglect the rules governing them. The employes were also censured for carelessness.

Notorious Crook Captured

Chicago, Dec. 16.—John Orme, the highwayman, known as the "tall man" in the combination which terrorized Chicago in 1896, is under arrest. He has been identified as one of the two highwaymen who, at the point of revolvers, forced the teller of the Peoria National bank to give them currency amounting to $2000. The other man has also been captured.

Belmont Heads Civic Federation

New York, Dec. 16.—August Belmont was last night elected president of the National Civic Federation to succeed the late Senator Hanna. The election took place at the dinner of the National Civic Federation, which was attended by 270 members of the federation. Samuel Gompers acted as toastmaster.

Pleasure Seeker Runs Amuck

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 16.—Joseph Craug, a veterinary surgeon on the way to California on a pleasure trip, became suddenly insane here, cutting and perhaps fatally wounding W. D. Richards, a railroad man, and Police Captain Greet. Craug was shot and wounded by a policeman.

Record For Overland Wireless

Kansas City, Dec. 16.—Wireless telegraph messages were sent from Kansas City to Cleveland, 725 miles, without relaying. This is said to be the longest distance overland ever covered.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Commissioner of Immigration Sargent has left Washington on a trip of inspection of the immigration stations.

The secretary of war has authorized the navy department to establish a wireless telegraph station on the military reservation at San Juan, P. R.

Attorney General Cunneen of New York has denied the application of William R. Hearst for the institution of actions against three gas light companies for alleged violation of the Donnelly anti-trust law.

VIVIDLY TOLD.

Miss Ellen M. Stone, the Missionary at Wollaston.

A fair sized audience greeted Miss Ellen M. Stone, the Bulgarian Missionary at the Park and Downs chapel Thursday evening.

Every one is familiar with her story, and that of her fellow captive, Madame Tsilka, wife of one of the missionaries, but no written account, however vividly told, can appeal to one, as the spoken words of the woman who had passed through such a terrible ordeal, and had lived to tell her story.

Rev. Mr. Megathlin, in introducing Miss Stone, said "The days of heroes and heroines are not past.

Miss Stone began her lecture with a few words on the topography of the country, where for more than twenty years, she had lived, and labored as a missionary; she told of the terrible persecution of the people of these European provinces by the Turks, and of the uprising, struggle and final success of the little province of Bulgaria in throwing off the cruel yoke of the Moslem.

Bordering Bulgaria is the province of Macedonia and at the time of her capture, Miss Stone, with a little band of missionaries and teachers were on their way to this province to help in the work of a mission school that had been started there. This journey was attended with much risk and danger as Macedonia was still under Turkish rule.

The sudden appearance of a large band of brigands, the capture of their little company, the final release of all except herself and Madame Tsilka, who were borne away into the mountains to be held for ransom, Miss Stone told in a most impressive way.

After months of such physical suffering and mental agony, as hardly seems possible for human endurance, the captives were led to the borders of a little town where they were left at night to make their way at daylight to where help and succor awaited them. It was a wonderful story, very interestingly told.

BIDS FOR WARSHIPS

Other Firms Were Below the Fore River Company.

A Washington dispatch to the Boston Advertiser says, unprecedentedly low bids were offered for the construction of the battleship New Hampshire and the armored cruisers Montana and North Carolina, proposals for which were opened at the navy department.

It is probable that an official announcement will award the contract for the cruisers to the Newport News Shipbuilding Co. for $3,575,000 each, and the battleship to the New York Shipbuilding Co. for $3,748,000, those being the lowest bids offered, as not more than 2 ships can be awarded to one company.

The lowest aggregate bids for these three ships was exactly $1,377,000 less than the aggregate lowest bids for three sister ships a little over a year ago, a reduction of eleven per cent in price. The navy department, while gratified at the reduction, is unable to assign any reason for it except the fact that the shipbuilders are badly in need of work.

The bid of the Fore River Co. of Quincy was: Battleship in 42 months $3,961,000: one armored cruiser, time omitted, $4,231,000; an armored cruiser, according to the company's modified specifications in 42 months, $4,331,000; both armored cruisers, 42 months at $4,244,000 each.

The Closing Night.

At the Bazaar of Nations on Thursday evening the entertainment included readings by Miss Isabelle Davis, which were encored; finely executed violin solos by Miss Alice Johnson, and a pleasing piano selection by Everett Hayden.

In point of attendance the fair was a disappointment, particularly as the ladies had an unusually attractive display.

TODAY'S COURT.

Jeremiah Doran was sent to the State farm for drunkenness at Weymouth.

Wong Tui and One Tui were arraigned for assault on Louis J. Smith at Quincy. Cases continued until next Monday.

The continued case of Loring Bigelow, for creating a disturbance on a street car, was called and he was fined $10.

The continued case of John Dissino, for violation of the liquor law at Quincy, was called, and he was discharged. The defendant was represented by John McKnight.

Oscar Swanson and Ida Johnson were arraigned a statutory offense at Quincy. Swanson was sentenced to the house of correction for three months. The case of the Johnson girl was placed on file.

BRONZE TABLET.

To the Memory of Mrs. Thomas Crane at Public Library.

Albert Crane of Stamford, Conn., has forwarded to the Thomas Crane Public Library a beautiful bronze tablet in memory of his mother, Clarissa Starkey Crane, the wife of Thomas Crane.

The tablet is mounted in a heavy oak frame and will be placed upon the wall in the library.

On the face of the tablet in bas relief is a portrait bust of Mrs. Crane. Beneath this is the following inscription:

CLARISSA STARKEY CRANE
Born at Troy, New Hampshire, March 3, 1813
Died in the city of New York April 22, 1895
With her two sons Benjamin Franklin and Albert she erected this edifice

Canal Approved.

The Herald says, Representative-elect Portus B. Hancock, of Brockton who, since his election to the Legislature, has again been agitating the Brockton canal project, and has secured the co-operation of 156 prominent business men of this section, representing a capital of $20,000,000, has received a letter from Lewis M. Haupt, lately a member of the isthmian canal commission, indorsing the movement started by Mr. Hancock.

Mr. Haupt says: "It seems to me that no 22-mile canal should cost anything like $57,000,000. The work is greatly needed in the interests of commerce and humanity, and I trust your efforts may be crowned with success." Mr. Hancock states further that interest in the project is being aroused in Washinton, and that he has received letters from prominent men there with favorable comments.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Social Realm.

In a dim litten room
I saw a weaver plying at his loom
That ran as swiftly as an iterant rhyme;
And lo! the workman at the loom was Time
Weaving the web of Life.
'Twas parti-colored, wrought of Peace and Strife;
And through the warp thereof
Shot little golden threads of Joy and Love.
And one stood by whose eyes were brimmed with tears,
Poising the mighty shears
Wherewith, when seemed the weaver's will at ebb,
He cut the wondrous.
Time weaves and weaves; and his dark brother, he,
Will one day cut the web for you and me.

Over forty ladies attended the subscription party given by Mrs. T. L. Sturtevant on Thursday afternoon, at her home an Adams street, in aid of the organ fund of First church. It was a most delightful affair, especially the hour in which the company were entertained by readings by Miss Fannie Adams of South Framingham. She was very versatile, being equally good in the light and the pathetic, of the French Canadian, negro, and Irish dialect, as well as in the children's stories. After the recitations refreshments were seved in the dining room, Miss Georgiana Lane serving punch and Miss Putnam cocoa.

COL. KINCAIDE.

Quincy to be Honored by Gov. Douglas.

With Appointment on Staff.

H. L. Kincaide for Assistant Inspector General.

Boston papers report that Gov.-elect Douglas will come to Quincy for one of the responsible positions on his staff. The slate is as follows:

Adjutant General,—Lieut. Gen. Miles.

Assistant Adjutant General,— William C. Capelle of Boston, a reappointment with rank of lieutenant colonel.

Inspector General,—Col. Edmund Rice.

Assistant Inspector General,—Capt. Henry L. Kincaide of Quincy.

Aide-de-camp,—William L. Mitchell of Brookline with rank of major.

Lieut. Gov. Miles has a national reputation for service in the regular army, and his appointment has met with considerable favor.

Col. Rice is a retired Brigadier General of the United States Army and was colonel of the Sixth Massachusetts regiment.

Capt. Kincaide's military record dates back to 1887 when he joined Co. K, of Braintree, Fifth regiment, M. V. M. and has been one of steady advancement. He early displayed great interest and made it a study. He served through all the grades, and in 1897 was commissioned as captain. At the outbreak of the Spanish war he went into camp with Co. K. at great sacrifice to his business, and resigned only when it was certain that the Fifth regiment would not go to the front. In 1900 he was appointed battalion adjutant in the Fifth regiment, and in May, 1901, was appointed by Col. W. H. Oakes as regiment adjutant with rank of captain.

Upon every opportunity he has perfected himself in military training. In 1901 with the field and staff officers he took riding lessons, and in June of this year did a tour of duty at the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., to become familiar with the new drill regulations and later was at Manassas at the "second battle at Bull Run."

COL. KINCAIDE.

Capt. Kincaide is also a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, and has held different offices. He accompanied the Ancients on their trip to London, and was also prominent in entertaining the London company in Boston. In the Masons and Odd Fellows also his services as marshal are often sought.

Major Mitchell has served in the first corps of Cadets as corporal and sergeant and has a record as a crack rifle shot. He is 33 years of age, and a member of the firm of William H. Mitchell & Son.

Panic at Franklin Square Hotel.

There was also a fire panic in the Franklin Square hotel, which is tenanted by women only. A woman who, smelled smoke in the kitchen, rang the fire gongs in the house. This sent the women rushing through the rooms but they were stopped by watchmen at the doors.

MODISH CONCEITS.

A Hint as to Afternoon Gowns—Some Pretty Winter Petticoats.

A very charming afternoon "at home" toilet consists of a little velvet jacket in a pale shade of turquoise blue. It is tight fitting, with elbow sleeves of the leg of mutton variety, which are cut into tabs over frills of lace. The basque of the coat is cut in the same fashion, the fronts being exquisitely embroidered in a Japanese flower design in pale yellow, blue and orange. The skirt worn with it is of white mousseline de soie decorated with ruches of taffeta forming a kind of scroll pattern.

Some of the prettiest petticoats are of black taffeta with accordion plaited flounces of black chiffon adorned with a colored flower design. Others in burnt copper taffeta are toned down with embroidered motifs of black chiffon and lace.

Petticoats in subdued tartans are still to be seen, the brighter plaids being little used for this purpose.

The attractive hat in the picture is of light tan mousseline laid in soft folds and edged about the brim with dark green velvet. A twist of the mousseline encircles the crown, at the top of which is another band of the green velvet. Under the brim is a wood colored rose, a most unnatural though artistic decoration. Through the crown at one side is stuck an exquisite long green plume. JUDIC CHOLLET.

GOT HIS HAIR BACK.

Was Perfectly Bald When He Started to Use Newbro's Herpicide.

Frederick Manuell, Maryland block, Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 6, '99, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 20 days he had hair all over his head. On July 2 he writes, "and today my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroy the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

A NEW CONFERENCE

Fall River Strikers and Mill Owners Are to Meet

AN OPTIMISTIC OUTLOOK

A Feeling That Difficulties of Twenty-Two Weeks' Standing Will Be Overcome--Result of a Consultation With Gompers

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 17.—Renewed hope of a settlement of the prolonged cotton mill strike in this city was given last night by the announcement that another conference has been arranged between the strikers and the mill owners.

This conference will take place today, and it is understood that every possible effort will be made to bring an end to the strike which has thrown 26,000 operatives out of employment and brought suffering and hunger to hundreds of homes, despite the efforts of the local labor leaders and sympathetic unions throughout the country to prevent such misfortune.

The announcement that a conference had been arranged was made at a late hour last night by President Golden of the United Textile council. Golden and Secretary Hibbert returned early in the evening from New York, where they were in conference with President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor. Gompers is also first vice president of the Civic Federation, now in annual session in New York city. The existing conditions in the Fall River mills were explained to Gompers by the labor leaders and the situation was discussed at length by the three men. Whether the matter was placed before the Civic Federation could not be learned here last night.

Soon after Golden and Hibbert returned to this city a meeting of the Textile council was hastily called and the two officers reported to their fellow-officers the result of their trip to New York.

It was but a few moments after the meeting adjourned that Golden made the announcement that the strikers and mill owners would meet in a final effort to end amicably the struggle which has been in progress for 22 weeks. He added that the conference had been arranged by persons not directly interested in the strike and was emphatic in the statement that it was not at the solicitation of either the manufacturers or the strikers. Golden declined to discuss his trip to New York in any way, further than to admit that he had been in consultation with Gompers.

The proposed conference will in no way interfere with the decision of the labor leaders to submit the question of a continuance of the strike to the members of the various organizations. This course was adopted because of the belief, which is said to exist in many quarters, that a vote by the strikers would show a large majority in favor of returning to work, even though they must submit to a reduction of 12½ percent in wages.

Persons who have followed the strike are optimistic and it is the freely expressed opinion that the end of the strike is in sight, perhaps within a week.

Stoessel Sends Dispatches

Chefoo, Dec. 17.—The arrival at Chefoo of seven Russians, who crossed from Port Arthur with dispatches, is unlikely to give any news of conditions inside the fortress, unless, indeed, Stoessel has made up his mind that further resistance is useless. The complete destruction of the Russian fleet, evidenced by the use of a sailboat instead of a destroyer in sending out the dispatches, may have induced a change of mind, but it is not safe to expect a surrender on that account.

Stabbed Son-In-Law and Daughter

Westland, Pa., Dec. 17.—Angelo Giardini and his wife are dying here, the result of an assault with a knife by the woman's father, Guiseppi Varino. The attack was made, it is said, because Mrs. Giardini reproved her father for abusing her mother. Varino took to the hills and escaped.

Clado May Refuse to Testify

St. Petersburg, Dec. 17.—It is rumored that Captain Clado has declined to appear before the international commission at Paris on the North sea affair unless he is first officially vindicated, taking the ground that his credibility as a witness has been impaired by his arrest.

Locomotive Plant to Reopen

Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 17.—The local plant of the American Locomotive company will soon be running with its full force, a rush order for 160 locomotives having been received. It is expected that 4500 men will be employed by Jan. 1.

PROSECUTION RESTS

Counsel For Nan Patterson May Not Put In Any Defense

New York, Dec. 17.—Without hearing argument by the prosecution, which had rested its case, Justice Davis, in the criminal branch of the supreme court denied the motion of Nan Patterson's counsel to acquit her of the charge of murdering Caesar Young, and adjourned the trial until Monday at the request of the defense.

Mr. Levy, representing Miss Patterson said he had not yet decided whether he would make any defense or simply let the case go to the jury as it was. The question of the admissibility of evidence concerning J. Morgan Smith and his wife was again raised and Justice Davis decided to admit the evidence.

John Mellin, Young's racing partner, was recalled and identified several letters written by Young to Miss Patterson. Only two other witnesses were called, the greater part of the session being taken up by argument of counsel.

Debate Was Not Allowed

St. Petersburg, Dec. 17.—An adjourned meeting of the St. Petersburg city council assembled last night to discuss the advisability of endorsing the demand of the Moscow municipality for constitutional reforms. The president of the council announced that owing to unforeseen circumstances which he could not disclose, debate could not proceed. The announcement occasioned a noisy scene. Many councillors angrily protested and quitted the chamber and later held a private meeting, at which the minister of the interior was denounced for prohibiting debate.

Bright Outlook For Business

New York, Dec. 17.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that manufacturing activity steadily increases, testifying to the general confidence in a heavy demand next year, and trading branches of business report seasonable conditions. All classes of merchandise are going into larger consumption, while it is the exception when there is complaint regarding mercantile collections. The proportion of idle machinery is growing smaller and the number of unemployed less.

Gang of Boy Incendiaries

New York, Dec. 17.—The confession of two boys, arrested on suspicion of arson, clears up the mystery surrounding a series of some 40 fires of incendiary origin in Brooklyn within the last two months. William Coders, aged 19, and Richard Samuels, 17, his chum, confessed that they had set the fires, "wanting to see the engines work." Their confession implicates three other lads.

No Split Among Irishmen

London, Dec. 17.—The statement that a new split is impending in the Irish parliamentary party is denied by those in a position to know the situation. Beyond the differences regarding a fair price of land and other matters of detail, it is stated that there is not the smallest chance of a renewal of the "split." Leaders of the party assert that the Irish cause is now nearing a triumph.

Prohibs Without a Chairman

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Practically forced out of the national chairmanship of the Prohibition party, Mr. Stewart finds, after the committee has adjourned and the members scattered, that R. H. Patton, chosen as his successor, refuses to serve. This leaves the committee without a head unless Stewart claims the right to serve until his successor shall have been elected and qualified.

Ratification of Treaties Urged

New York, Dec. 7.—A mass meeting called to urge the prompt ratification of the arbitration treaties recently signed by the state department with several of the leading foreign powers was held here last night at Carnegie hall. There was a very large attendance and the speakers were repeatedly applauded.

Steamer Was Barely Saved

St. Johns, Dec. 17.—Steamer Algerian has arrived, after having been driven off the coast and being four days buffeting the sea and partly waterlogged. Her pumps became choked and only by the efforts of the engineers and stokers, who worked waist-deep in water, clearing the bilges, was she saved.

Investigating Bank Affairs

Buffalo, Dec. 17.—The Commonwealth Trust company has withdrawn its offer to liquidate the German bank, which was closed by Superintendent of Banks Kilburn. District Attorney Coatsworth has written to Kilburn asking him to notify him of any irregularities in the affairs of the bank.

Merger of Brewing Companies

Cleveland, Dec. 17.—The brewery companies of Columbus have been consolidated. The name of the new organization will be the Hoster Columbus Association Breweries company. The capitalization will be $6,000,000, and $6,000,000 of bonds.

Surplus of Over $10,000

Mexico City, Dec. 17.—Finance Minister Limantour's budget for the ensuing fiscal year estimates the revenue at $88,104,000 and expenses at $85,474,000. The previous fiscal year showed the largest surplus on record, over $10,000,000.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Sunday, Dec. 18.

Moon sets—2:40 a. m.
High water—7:45 a. m.; 8 p. m.
Snow is indicated for New England. The temperature will be lower.

CHRISTMAS REMNANTS.

How to Serve Portions of Turkey Left Over From the Feast.

After your Christmas dinner you will probably find that you have a goodly portion of turkey left. This has happened a great many times before, and as a result many ways have been devised for preparing these left over scraps of turkey meat. This does not mean the large white slices of the breast, for this portion of the meat can be simply arranged on a platter and eaten as it is.

A salad of the white meat of turkey is as good as if not better than chicken salad, says the Buffalo Times. Take one cup of turkey meat rather coarsely chopped, one cup of celery, also rather coarsely chopped, and the whites of three hard boiled eggs, also chopped. Put the yolks of the hard boiled eggs into a bowl and mash and then pour over them three tablespoonfuls of melted butter or pure olive oil; into this, one of mustard, with a dash of red pepper; then thin with half a cup of good vinegar.

Another way to use the white meat of turkey is to chop it fine, then put a spoonful of cranberry sauce that has been run through a colander in the bottom of a mold or small bowl, on this a layer of chopped turkey, then a layer of cranberry, and so on till the mold is full. Press hard and put in a cold place till ready for use, then turn out on a platter.

Turkey croquettes are also excellent. Take one cup of turkey meat chopped fine, one cup of breadcrumbs, one spoonful of butter and two of cream, season with salt and pepper, mold into little fancy shaped cakes and fry.

Turkey patties are made exactly as are chicken patties. To one cup of turkey take one cup of turkey gravy or one cup of water made rich by a generous lump of butter, season and thicken with a little flour, pour into pastry shells and bake in a quick oven.

How to Remove Spots From Leather.

Oxalic acid, in weak solution, is the best thing to use when removing spots from leather. Two or three crystals of oxalic acid dissolved in warm water, then applied with a bit of cloth to the spots will do the work. But one must watch closely, and as soon as the spot disappears apply water to overcome the acid, which is a powerful bleacher. Afterward dry the leather with a clean cloth. This process applies as well to ink spots that sometimes disfigure the leather covers of books. For a tan colored sheepskin cover a saturated solution may be used. For any bright colored leather the solution must be much weaker.

How to Make Virginia Plum Pudding

The following is a good recipe for Old Virginia plum pudding: Ten eggs, three-quarters of a pound of beef suet, one and a quarter pounds of raisins, one pound of dried currants or cherries, one pint of milk, one pound of flour and a quarter of a pound of citron cut in thin slices. Mix the flour and suet together and rub the fruit also in a little flour. Beat the eggs very light, leaving out the whites of five, and add all the ingredients together. If thicker than cup cake batter, add a little more milk. Then add a teaspoonful of ground ginger, one of powdered cinnamon, one of powdered cloves, two nutmegs, the grated rind of a lemon, one wineglassful of wine, one of brandy, a little powdered mace and one pint of breadcrumbs. Scald your pudding bag thoroughly, rub well inside with flour, leave plenty of room inside for the pudding to swell and stop the opening with dough. Let the water be boiling and boil steadily for four hours. When ready to serve pour brandy over the whole and send to the table ablaze.

How to Make Cranberry Jelly.

Wash a quart of cranberries, drain them and put them into a double boiler while they are still wet. Cover closely and cook until the berries are broken to pieces. Turn into a jelly bag and as soon as the fruit is cool enough to be touched squeeze hard to extract all the juice. To a pint of this juice add two cups of granulated sugar. Return to the fire, boil up just once, then pour into a mold wet with cold water.

How to Make Mince Meat Without Meat.

Boil six lemons until tender enough to pierce with a straw. Drain and weigh them; take an equal weight each of pared and cored apples, seeded and chopped raisins, cleaned currants and finely shredded beef suet; one-half their weight each in candied orange peel and citron, and one-quarter their weight in sugar. Cut open the lemons and remove the seeds, then chop all together as fine as possible; add to this one small nutmeg, grated, one teaspoonful salt, one scant teaspoonful each of mace and ginger, one-quarter teaspoonful cloves and three ounces crumbled stale macaroons. Add sufficient cider to moisten and pack away in glass jars.

How to Make Candied Pineapple.

Peel the pineapple, take out the "eyes" and slice thin. Weigh and boil until clear in a sirup made of half the weight of the fruit in granulated sugar and just enough water to moisten this slightly. The juice from the fruit will supply any liquid that might be lacking. When clear remove with a fork and lay on platters set in the sun to dry.

How to Heat Water Over a Lamp.

People who are boarding and do not have access to the kitchen, when desiring a pint or more of hot water can easily heat the water over a lamp. Take the cover or top of a tin can, make several slashes in the center and place on the top of the chimney. Water or milk in a tin cup or earthen mug will soon heat when placed on this.

Greene and Lawson Meet In Lobby of a Boston Hotel

THE GREETING WAS QUIET

No Demonstrations Such as Their Personal and Vituperative Advertisements Might Lead One to Expect

Boston, Dec. 17.—Colonel William C. Greene of New York, who recently accused Thomas W. Lawson of this city of being responsible for the recent break in copper shares, came to Boston and was met at Hotel Touraine by Mr. Lawson.

The nature of the statements issued by both Greene and Lawson, but particularly by Greene, who publicly condemned Lawson as responsible for the raid upon the stock of the Greene Consolidated Copper company, together with the recent stock market developments, all had combined to suggest the possibility of a clash between the two operators.

So far as became known, however, nothing of the kind occurred. Greene returned to New York on the 5 o'clock train yesterday afternoon, after having been in conference with Lawson since 9:45 a. m. Added interest was lent to the incident through the presence of police headquarters inspectors, headed by Chief Inspector Watts, and by the rather unexpected manner in which Greene and Lawson met at the hotel.

After Greene had left, a member of a prominent Boston banking firm who was present at the conference, issued a statement, which, he said, had been assented to by both Greene and Lawson.

The substantial part of the statement was that Lawson had called upon Greene at the latter's rooms in Hotel Touraine, after learning that Greene was in Boston; that Greene had maintained at the conference that the recent breaks in the stock market were due to the public utterances of Lawson; that Greene felt keenly the havoc caused to certain stocks in which he was interested, in the general break; that Lawson had maintained, in answer to Greene, that he had done nothing to bring about any decline in stocks in which Greene was interested. The statement concluded with the words: "Each gentleman has a perfect understanding of the other's position. There is nothing further to state of public interest."

Greene and Lawson each refused to discuss in any way the conference, saying that the general statement which was to be issued contained all that they had to express. Greene had publicly advertised that he would call upon Lawson, but Lawson anticipated this by appearing at the Hotel Touraine at an early hour in the forenoon. Greene had not yet completed his breakfast and when Lawson sent in his card he sent out word that he would meet him after breakfast.

The New York promoter emerged from the dining room with a friend walking on either side. At the same moment Lawson, who had been talking freely with a group of newspaper representatives, stepped forward half way to meet Greene. Lawson seemed constrained, but Greene smiled, warmly uttered a cordial, sounding salutation, and, extending his hand, which Lawson seized, invited the Boston operator to go up stairs.

Greene's manner seemed very happy, but Lawson was apparently very much reserved. The men went to Greene's room. For almost seven hours the conference went on, while all outsiders, and all messages of every kind, were barred. Meantime the police had arrived and virtually taken possession of the hotel, three patrolmen in citizens' clothes patrolling the corridor upon which Greene's rooms were located, while Chief Inspector Watts and other detectives remained on guard in the lobby. At the end of the conference Lawson and Greene both made a hurried exit from the hotel, the latter being driven at once to the railroad station.

The only real ripple of excitement of the day came at the very moment that Greene was entering his carriage, and this was caused by a sudden flash of flame from the sidewalk, which in the darkness served to create a general commotion among the spectators, but which proved merely to be the explosion of a chemical used by a photographer in taking a view of the colonel as he was starting for New York.

Last night Lawson issued a statement confirming the mutual statement given out earlier, and adding that the episode was ended.

The final result was summed up by Actor William H. Crane, who gave expression to his opinion that "if the whole business could be dramatized Boston Common could be filled at $2 a head to see the greatest farce comedy ever written."

Cruiser Carried Smuggled Goods

Newport News, Va., Dec. 17.—The local customs collector has been notified from Washington that an investigation will be held here in the case of the United States cruiser San Francisco, aboard which a quantity of dutiable goods was seized as smuggled goods by customs officers here. Three cases of the smuggled goods and 850 boxes of Japanese cigars were consigned to a Baltimore concern.

NOT OF ONE MIND

Committee on Swayne Case May Fail to Reach Agreement

Washington, Dec. 17.—It has been agreed by the special committee appointed to "draw the indictment" against Judge Swayne to take up that work immediately after the holiday recess. Four of its members, Palmer and Powers, Republicans, and Clayton and DeArmond, Democrats, favor the comprehensive bill of particulars, while Gillette, Parker and Littlefield, all Republicans, see no impeachable offense except that involved in the 10-dollar-a-day charge. Unless these two wings of the committee reach a compromise there will be a majority and minority report, between which the house will have to decide after it has heard the arguments, and these will be vigorously presented, it is safe to predict.

The house is more likely to adopt the comprehensive list of specifications, in case such a choice is not offered. The Democrats will all vote for it, and some Republicans. Only a few of the latter would be necessary. An effort will be made to try the case at this session, although it is not regarded as certain that the death of the present house on March 4 would require it to do over again what has already been done. All the present special committee, except Powers of Massachusetts, have been re-elected. These men are not, however, the managers on the part of the house, although it is probable that nearly the same group will be selected for that service.

Change In Primer Was Overlooked

Washington, Dec. 17.—General Crozier, chief of ordnance, has received a report saying the recent premature discharge of a 10-inch disappearing gun at Fort Wetherill, Jamestown, R. I., which seriously endangered the lives of the gun crew, was due to the premature explosion of the primer. A slight change had been made in the primer since it left the factory to permit of its use at another post, and it was used at Fort Wetherill without knowledge of the change.

"Brains Not Needed to Vote"

Washington, Dec. 17.—The house committee on the election of president and vice president and members of congress heard Mrs. C. B. Colby of Portland, Ore., in favor of the bill providing for woman suffrage in the election of members of congress. In her argument Mrs. Colby remarked: "It does not require brains to vote." "The last election demonstrated that," rejoined Representative Hardwick (Dem., Ga.).

In Congress

Washington, Dec. 17.—The senate, by a vote of 44 to 23, passed the Philippine civil government bill. Mr. McCumber was the only Republican who voted with the Democrats against the final passage of the bill.

The session of the house was given over almost exclusively to consideration of bills on the private calendar, a dozen or more being passed.

Davis Throws Up His Job

Washington, Dec. 17.—Mr. Davis, the American consul at Alexandretta, who recently got into trouble with the Turkish authorities because he lowered the flag from the consulate during a celebration in honor of the sultan's birthday, has reported at the state department in person and has indicated his wish to resign from the service. His resignation will be accepted.

To Exploit American Products

Washington, Dec. 17.—A project for the establishment of an American commercial center in the heart of the city of Paris has taken definite shape. On exhibition will be all sorts of the manufactured products of the United States. Secretary Metcalf says that he believes the project will redound to the great benefit of American business enterprise.

New Englanders Confirmed

Washington, Dec. 17.—The senate, in executive session, confirmed the following nominations: C. F Larrabee, Portland, Me., assistant commissioner of Indian affairs; E. O. Crossman, New Hampshire, collector of internal revenue for the district of New Hampshire; R. A. Flanders, assistant appraiser of merchandise in the district of Boston.

Where Warship Contracts Will Go

Washington, Dec. 17.—The naval board on construction has recommended that the contracts for the armored cruisers Montana and North Carolina be awarded to the Newport News Shipbuilding company, and the contract for the battleship New Hampshire to the New York Shipbuilding company. The recommendation is before Secretary Morton.

Cockrell Likes Washington

Washington, Dec. 17.—Senator Cockrell of Missouri tells his friends in congress that he has decided to accept the place on the interstate commerce commission instead of the Panama commissionership, which he might have had. Cockrell's choice is probably based on his preference for Washington as a place of residence.

Cost of Revenue Collection

Washington, Dec. 17.—Secretary Shaw has transmitted to the house a detailed estimate of the cost of collecting the internal revenue for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906. The aggregate amount is $9,235,018.

Manchurian Skirmishes

Mukden, Dec. 17.—There was considerable desultory firing on both sides yesterday. The Japanese made an advance, but it proved to be only a demonstration. Night sorties continue.

HEADLESS BODY FOUND

Two Nashua Men Missing and Murder Is Suspected

Nashua, N. H., Dec. 17.—Without clothing of any sort and with the head nearly blown off, apparently by a gunshot, the body of John Shuta was found in the adjoining town of Hudson, in the woods, and the police believe he was murdered.

Shuta, who was a Pole, went hunting with two fellow-countrymen, Joseph Bertig and Stanislas Bertig, on Tuesday, and no trace of any of them had been found until yesterday.

Inspector Field headed a party which went to Hudson and looked through the woods where the men were known to have gone. After some time they found Shuta's body. An active search is being made for the two other Poles.

Shuta was 30 years old and leaves a widow and several children in his home in this city. All three men were shoemakers, and worked in local factories.

Shuta's wife is authority for the statement that when her husband left home he carried with him $50 in cash and some valuable papers. When the body was found a search of the dead man's clothing failed to reveal either the cash or the papers.

Sailors' Perilous Trip

Hyannis, Mass., Dec. 17.—Schooner Ella and Jennie, from Elizabethport for Bridgetown, N. S., with a cargo of guano, went ashore on the Bishop and Clerks ledge in a thick snowstorm, and it is feared will pound to pieces. The captain and crew of four men had a hard and perilous trip through the heavy sea before they reached land. The ledge is six miles from shore, and the trip took them over six hours. They were tired when they started, having fought a leak for a number of hours before they decided to leave the vessel.

Boy Shot and Killed Hunter

Bangor, Me., Dec. 17.—The mystery surrounding the death of David Libby of Newport, who was found dead at Chester, where he was hunting, has been cleared up. Herbert E. Griffin, aged 17, who was arrested by Sheriff Gilman and Deputy Stevens, confessed that he did the shooting, having mistaken Libby for a deer. The boy was arraigned and bound over to the February criminal term of the supreme court in the sum of $1000. His father and a brother furnished bonds.

$10,000 Fire In Baggage Car

Rochdale, Mass., Dec. 17.—By the explosion of a kerosene lamp in a baggage car while passing through here, the car was destroyed and the Adams Express company, which occupied it with general merchandise and four safes, filled with valuables, will lose not less than $10,000, according to estimates of the company's officials.

Voters Made Poor Showing

Boston, Dec. 17.—The official returns of the total vote cast at the city election on Tuesday last shows that out of a total of 114,592 men entitled to vote, only 71,655, or a fraction over 62 percent, did so. The women voters made even a poorer showing, for only about 50 percent of those entitled to vote for school committee did so.

Slippery Rail Caused Collision

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 17.—In a rear-end collision between two trolley cars on the Boston and Northern road here last night the motorman of the rear car, Patrick McNamara, was considerably cut and bruised and was taken to a hospital for treatment. The passengers escaped injury. The accident was caused by a slippery rail.

Fisherman's Body Found

Provincetown, Mass. Dec. 17.—A body found during the night near Race Point station. On the arm were the initials "J. K." The body is believed to be that of Joseph Kehoe of Gloucester, one of the four fishermen who lost their lives while putting off from the schooner Fish Hawk while she was aground on Peaked Hill bars.

Used Pistol on Employe

Boston, Dec. 17.—Francesco Epifanio, proprietor of a barber shop at 553 Main street, was arrested last night, charged with shooting Umberto Consolo, one of his employes. Consolo was shot in the neck, but the wound is not fatal. Epifanio told the police that Umberto had been drinking and was quarrelsome.

Indicted on Murder Charge

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec. 17.—The grand jury found a true bill of indictment for murder against Henry B. Adams, charging him with causing the death of Joseph Zink, who was burned in a fire at the Salvation Army shelter in Stamford. Adams was alleged to have set the building on fire.

Used Towel to Hang Herself

Northampton, Mass., Dec. 17.—Mrs. Helene Paquin, 50 years old, committed suicide last night by hanging herself by a towel to a towel-rack in the bath room of her home. Mrs. Paquin had recently been taken from an insane hospital. She leaves a husband and five children.

Destruction of High School

Berlin, N. H., Dec. 17.—The high school building here was destroyed by fire last night. The loss is estimated at $20,000. The fire is supposed to have originated from a defective flue.

Peace Conference of Monarchs

Copenhagen, Dec. 17.—It is learned that the Emperor of Austria will visit Copenhagen next spring to take part in an international conference of monarchs on the subject of peace. There is reason to believe that Emperor Nicholas and King Edward have already agreed to attend and Emperor William also is expected.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

A certain newspaper seems to think it is presumption on the part of the Daily Ledger to print as news some of the names which are mentioned in connection with appointments to city offices under Mayor Thompson. It even goes so far as to say Mr. Thompson will not consult his friends in the selection of men he wants for office, and that unsolicited advice comes as an insult.

Newly elected Presidents and Governors appreciate newspaper comment respecting candidates for appointments, that they may learn whether public opinion is with them. The names of cabinet officers, members of Governor's staff and other appointments, both national and state, are pretty well discussed in advance of their appointments, and there is no reason why the people of Quincy should be gagged and forbidden to suggest or talk about prospective candidates.

We do not believe the Mayor-elect would have such an edict issued. We do not believe that he will make his appointments without consulting his friends. We do not believe he will continue with the same policy as the present Mayor. We do not believe he will be vindicative to those who may have voted against him at the caucuses, but after the nomination were among his most hearty supporters.

Mr. Thompson was very handsomely elected, and should be reelected and reelected. We believe he will make the best Mayor the city of Quincy ever had. Much, of course, will depend upon his appointments. We have not heard that anybody presumes to dictate who they shall be. Certainly the Ledger has not. The voters said very plainly that they desired some changes, and they will be expected. They have confidence in Mayor-elect Thompson, and believe he will select successors who will conduct city business on business principles, Then all will be well.

Perhaps the success of Henry L. Kincaide as a business man, was appreciated fully as much by Gov.-elect Douglas as his efficiency as a military man, in selecting Capt. Kincaide as a member of his staff for 1905. It is an honor, too, which Quincy appreciates, as many cannot recall when the city or town was represented on the Governor's staff. We congratulate Col. Kincaide, and feel sure that he will do honor to the city and the state on all occasions. As advancements seem to come frequently to Mr. Kincaide, perhaps it will not be many years before he is inspector general or even adjutant general.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ So long as the great heart of the mass of the people beats true, these evil tendencies of the times can work but little injury, as we count injury in the tablets of the centuries. Sooner or later, when the abuse of power leans too heavily upon the thrift and patience of the people, the drawers of water and the hewers of wood, there will come from their midst the inspired leader, as Lincoln was, to effect their emancipation. That the moral standard was never higher among the masses of the people is reason enough to return thanks, with an additional prayer for the few, who live only for themselves, and who, using men as stepping stones to a baser ambition, are themselves despised, though at the same time feared.—New Haven Register.

FREE DELIVERY

Braintree Included With Quincy

To Have Four Carriers Jan. 1.

Two Collections and Two Deliveries at the Start.

Postmaster Hammond of Quincy has received notice from Washington that the consolidation of the Braintree post-offices with the Quincy office has been approved and that it will go into effect Jan. 1.

The consolidations of the two offices mean the establishment of the carrier system in Braintree.

Postmaster Hammond says that at the start four carriers will be put on and that they will cover the whole town; that there will be at least two collections and two deliveries.

The offices at Braintree and South Braintree will become branch offices of the Quincy office, and the postmasters at these offices will become clerks in charge under Postmaster Hammond. The reducing of these two postmasters to clerks also means a reduction in salary.

The postoffice at East Braintree will be abolished, and in its place will be a sub-station for the issuing of money orders, and registered letters and sale of stamps.

All offices in Braintree will be known as branch offices of Quincy, and all requisitions for stamps, etc., will have to be made to the Quincy office, and all reports to Washington will go from Quincy.

While the consolidation means considerable more work for the Quincy office, the salary of Postmaster Hammond is not increased.

The present postmaster at East Braintree will probably be one of the new carriers and the other three will be appointed from the classified list.

Divorces Granted.

In the Superior civil court at Dedham this week divorces were granted in seventeen uncontested cases, which included the following:

William G. Gassett of Quincy vs Grace N. Gassett of Boston; nisi for adultery.

Anna G. Witham of Quincy vs. Robert B. Witham of Lewiston, Idaho; nisi for desertion, with custody of minor child.

Florence E. Warner vs George K. Warner both of Quincy; nisi for adultery, with custody of minor children.

Clara L. Bryant of Braintree vs Enoch Chase Bryant of Rockland, Me.; nisi for adultery, with custody of minor children.

Etta Bessie Tirrell of Boston vs. Barton E. Tirrell of Weymouth; nisi for cruel and abusive treatment.

Janet A. Nickles vs. Herbert W. Nickles, both of Weymouth; nisi for cruel and abusive treatment with custody of minor child.

William J. Childs of Milton vs. Julia Elizabeth Childs of Boston; nisi for desertion.

Old StOughton Musical Society.

This musical society is the oldest in the country. Many of those who organized it not only wrote much of the sacred music used in Norfolk and Plymouth counties but they and their successors of the society did much to sustain the church choirs of all of the towns from Milton to Plymouth.

At its centennial, in Stoughton, it gave the Oratorio Creation and other high grade music, with 300 voices and leading soloists of the State. The society was invited to give several selections at the Chicago International Exposition and it acceptably gave the Chicagoans specimens of the Old Colony music.

Its membership is not so large as formerly but large enough to give interesting performances and we trust that at its Christmas sing in Braintree Town Hall on Sunday night, Christmas, it will have a large audience, especially as the admission fee is but 15 cents.

Battleship Contracts.

The naval board on construction has recommended that the contracts for the armored cruisers Montana and North Carolina be awarded to the Newport News shipbuilding company, and the contract for the battleship New Hampshire to the New York shipbuilding company. The recommendations are before Secretary Morton.

DEWEY SQ. FIRE.

Four Alarms for $150,000 Blaze in Hecht Building.

There was a disastrous fire in Dewey square, Boston, opposite the South Terminal at an early hour this morning. Several firemen were overcome by smoke and the loss is estimated at $150,000. The fire started in the Hecht building on the third floor occupied by E. Anerbach & Company, from some unknown cause.

Four alarms were rung in, calling out every available piece of apparatus. The fire worked around the corner on to Summer street, where thousands of dollars of damage was done by water.

The tailor shop of Councilman W. G. Gassett of Atlantic is located in the building adjoining, and a telephone was received in Quincy early this morning that the firemen had broken into his rooms to check the fire.

It is probable, however, that no fire reached his rooms as he is not mentioned among the losers.

CITY BREVITIES.

Two weeks from next Monday will be inauguration day.

The City Council Committee on Streets met last evening.

Starrett won the monthly roll off at the Merrymount club last evening.

Quincy owners of fast horses can be seen on the speedway at Milton every afternoon.

The young men of the Merrymount club hold a social dance at Wollaston hall tonight.

Abigail Adams chapter, F. of A. held a whist party and dance in Malnati hall last evening.

The snow storm that was scheduled for last night did not materialize. It may come today however.

The iron frame-work for the new blacksmith shop at the shipyard is rapidly growing.

A new family has moved into the house on Claremont avenue, lately vacated by Mrs. Mary Collie.

The Sunshine Club of the St. Chrysostom's church will meet in the Parish Rooms on Tuesday at 3.45 P. M.

The new house that Dr. Hunting is erecting on Whitney road for Mr. Thompson is progressing rapidly.

The Guild of St. Perpetua of the St. Chrysostom's church will meet with Mrs. Page at 3.30 P. M., Thursday.

C. G. Belden, who constructed several sections of the Metropolitan sewer in Quincy, died at Syracuse, N. Y., yesterday.

Daniel McLane, superintendent of construction for the General Electric Co. at Schenectady, N. Y., is in town on a vacation trip.

The Consolidated is now called the ideal Faneuil Hall market. The meat market has recently been greatly enlarged and improved.

The Boys' Club of the St. Chrysostom's church will hold a candy sale in the Parish Rooms on Tuesday evening of this week at 7.00 o'clock.

Sleighing was never better than it is at present. The snow has fallen level so that there are no humps and gullies, Sleighs slip along very smoothly.

The boys and girls have found an excellent place to coast this winter. They start up in Cleverly court and go down the steep hill, into the meadow.

The store decorations about the city are very beautiful. Tonight when all the stores are open and brilliantly lighted they will be worth going out to see.

J. F. Sheppard & Sons have been awarded the contract to furnish the School department with coal. The contract calls for the delivery of about 650 tons.

The teachers of First church Sunday school meet tonight at the home of Mrs. Emery L. Crane, Whitney road, to string pop corn, etc., for the Christmas tree.

A. L. Baker is now homeward board from Monterey, Mexico. He comes via Mexico City, Vera Cruz, Havana and New York, reaching Quincy about the New Year.

During the past year there has been an average of 811 stone cutters employed every month in the several yards. During the months of April, May, July and August 900 were employed.

The iron arches over the entrances to the old Hancock cemetery are being newly painted, and the letters in the arches are to be reguilded. The work is being done by order of Mayor Bryant.

The Young People's Religious Union of First church will meet in the parlor Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Miss Edna Smith will lead, the subject being "Christmas." All are cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ferrin of Hyde Park are moving into the house on South street owned by John Hayden. This house has been lately renovated and is one of the best looking houses in the neighborhood.

Some of the ladies who attended the "pop concert" last evening are busy today airing their gowns, trying to induce the tobacco smoke to evaporate. It was hazy at times, but then everyone had a good time, the men especially, as they could smoke to their heart's content.

Bless the Little Towheads.

Bless them towheads, swingin'
On the gate!
Some o' these fine days they'll be
Savin' of the State—
It's them that makes the Gove'nor.
An folks that think they're great!

Bless them little towheads—
Ever' one a gem
Twinklin' in the lap o' Life—
Lillies, light o' stem;
Though they know it not, the world
An' heaven air watchin' 'em!
—F. L. Stanton in Atlantic Constitution.

John O. Hall, Jr., formerly of Quincy, evidently would cultivate the social side in education. A Millbury item says: John O. Hall, Jr., principal of the High school, gave a reception to the junior class at his home Thursday evening. Saturday evening he will have the sophomore class as his guests, which will complete the series of receptions planned by Mr. Hall for the classes.

A large number of the friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Fisher Hall assembled at their home, in the beautiful old mansion, known as the Quincy Homestead, Wednesday evening, to extend their congratulations to the happy couple, on their recent marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Hall were not attended, but received their guests quite informally in the east parlor of the mansion. Refreshments were served in the dining room, Mrs. Walter Payson, Mrs. Frank Walker, Mrs. Jordan Keating and Mrs. J. MacArthur Meggett, pouring chocolate and coffee. They were assisted in serving by Misses Eva Sheldon, Grace Bishop, Winifred White, Estelle Rice and Albert Pinkham, Kenneth Albee, Gordon Gannett and Ned Hall.

Mr. Hayward is a lover of the ocean and he has a fondness for traveling. When 21 years old he went to California by water via Panama.

Verdict for Contractor Cashman.

John Cashman of Quincy obtained a verdict of $4,218.85 in the Norfolk Superior court this week in an action of contract to recover for extra work in 1901 in building retaining walk on Carleton street, Boston.

Scrofula

It is commonly inherited.

Few are entirely free from it.

Pale, weak, puny children are afflicted with it in nine cases out of ten, and many adults suffer from it.

Common indications are bunches in the neck, abscesses, cutaneous eruptions, inflamed eyelids, sore ears, rickets, catarrh, wasting, and general debility.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Eradicate it, positively and absolutely. This statement is based on the thousands of permanent cures these medicines have wrought.

BARRE SHUTDOWN

No Work Until Strike is Settled

Will Effect About 3000 Men

Includes Montpelier, Hardwick and Other Towns,

The Barre granite industry has a labor trouble which is extending. A dispatch of Friday says:

At the meeting of the granite manufacturers' association in Barre tonight it was voted to suspend all business until the strike is settled.

The shutdown will include all the sheds in Barre, Montpelier, Hardwick, Berlin, Waterbury and Northfield, and will affect 3,000 cutters and attendants. The E. B. Ellis granite company, where the trouble originated, employs about 300 men.

The trouble, which was at first believed to be because of dissatisfaction of the men laid off and the employing of new men in their places, has been added to by a demand for a new contract with the manufacturers' association, because of the peculiar character of the granite being worked.

THE MYSTIC MISTLETOE.

Once a Feature of Pagan Rites, It Now Belongs to Lovers.

From time immemorial the white berried mistletoe has played a leading part in Yuletide festivities, though it has not always conveyed the osculatory privileges which give it its value in the eyes of the romantic youth of today. Like so many other features of the Christmas celebration, mistletoe has been borrowed from the pagans of antiquity and Christianized by the lapse of centuries. The Persians before the birth of Christ used the mistletoe in their sacred rites, and in parts of India pagan priests still incorporate it in their ritual. It figures largely in Scandinavian mythology. Baldur, the son of Odin, though a demigod, was slain by a spear of mistletoe, a proof of its magic powers.

It is from the Druids of old England, however, that mistletoe has come to us. The Druidical priests, sprung, it is said, from the magi of the east, the wise men who worshiped at the cradle of the infant Saviour, held the mistletoe as their most sacred possession, and the cutting of the pretty parasite from the oak, the tree which the Druids claimed God loved more than any other, was attended with the greatest solemnity. On the Druids' festival day a grand procession, leading two white oxen, moved to the mystic grove. There the oxen were fastened to the oak by their horns, and a white robed priest climbed into the leafless branches and cut the bunches of mistletoe with a golden knife. The oxen were then sacrificed and religious services performed, after which the procession returned to the temple in the forest and the mistletoe was deposited in the Druidical arcanum.

Besides taking its place in the religious observances of the Druids, the mistletoe, which the priests gave a name meaning "all healing," was made into many curious decoctions by processes in which times and seasons and incantations were supposed to add to its mysterious powers. These medicines were regarded as cures for human ills generally, whether of mind or body.

With the advance of civilization and the death of superstition mistletoe has lost its religious character, but not its popularity, and the forests of England and of our own southern states are as eagerly frequented by mistletoe gatherers as ever were the dark woods of the ancient Druids.

CHRISTMAS IN SWEDEN.

One Day When There Are Neither Rich Nor Poor.

If you were in Sweden on Christmas eve you would hear the church bells begin to ring at 5 o'clock, for everybody stops work then and the festivities begin in great earnest everywhere in the kingdom. Class distinctions are forgotten and servants are allowed to sit at table with the family. After supper comes the universal Christmas tree, for Sweden is one of the early homes of this beautiful custom.

On Christmas morning at 6 o'clock, while it is still dark, you would go to church, for everybody goes, unless you stayed at home to mind the lights in the house, for every home in the kingdom is illuminated. There is almost sure to be a deep snow, and you would go to church in a sleigh. Behind every sleigh you would see two boys standing on the runners and holding pine torches—a beautiful spectacle as a long procession of sleighs glides over the snow on a forest road. These torches are stuck up in a circle around the church. A whole week is given to good cheer and hospitality.

Roosevelt and Mellen.

Although President Roosevelt did not name in his message the railroad president whose opinions he quoted with so much approval, concerning the proper attitude of railroad managers toward the public and the quality of the relations which it is desirable should exist between corporations and the people whom they serve, it was easy to recognize the quotation as from the speech by that highly honored former citizen of St. Paul, Mr. Charles S. Mellen. It was delivered shortly after his resignation of the presidency of the Northern Pacific railroad and his acceptance of a similar position at the head of a great New England system.

But the people will applaud. The thousands who hold railway shares as an investment, and who desire nothing so much as stability and safety in railroad management, will also applaud; at least those who are not blinded by illegitimate profits. The people's President and the railroad's president work hand in hand for the establishment of just conditions, whereunder every American citizen shall be able to feel that every railroad he uses is managed as much for his benefit as for that of any other citizens. The two are looking for an era when the railroad management of the country shall, by loyalty to the people, command a popularity like that which attends the operation of the postoffice department; and that with no necessity of "government ownership" Government supervision, such as that toward which the President is pointing the way, means something better. It means the recognition of such a mutuality of interest between the roads and the people as shall practically amount to a beneficent partnership.—St. Paul Pioneer Pree.

Esther P. Smith.

The funeral services of Mrs. Esther P. Smith, widow of the late H. Farnum Smith, who resided for many years at Quincy Point, was held at noon on Friday from her son's residence at the Point.

She was a lady much beloved and respected in this city in years gone by, but of late she has made her home with a son in Lincoln, Nebraska, where she died on Sunday last.

A Friendship Calendar.

A friendship calendar as a Christmas gift was a source of much pleasure to an elderly lady living alone, says Good Housekeeping. At her request each one of fifty-two of her friends, representing the fifty-two weeks of the year, furnished material for every day of the seven in his week. Each one followed out his own idea for the week's calendar, contributing favorite quotations, short poems, anecdotes and reminiscences, some even adding cherished recipes. In many instances the contributions were original. Others were illustrated with small pictures cut from current magazines. The result was a perpetual calendar, each day representing the loving thought of a friend.

A Christmas Game.

"Christmas candles" is a good old time game. A lighted candle is placed upon a table. The player is blindfolded and stationed with his back to the candle, about a foot from it. He's then told to take three steps forward, turn around three times, then to walk four steps toward the candle and blow it out. His attempt to do so will probably be as amusing to the audience as disconcerting to himself.—Country Life In America.

The Line Drawn.

Ethel—What do you intend to give me for Christmas?

Bertie—Would a kiss answer?

Ethel (with sarcasm)—No, indeed! Mamma never allows me to accept valuable presents from gentlemen.

Vacancy.

There's Christmas smiling in the sky,
There's Christmas in the trees,
There's Christmas in the streets near by,
There's Christmas in the breeze.

It's Christmas, Christmas everywhere,
No matter where you look,
Save when you gaze with mild despair
Into your pocketbook.

LAWSON'S ATTACK ON WALL STREET

He Predicts a Day of Reckoning For Frenzied Finance System.

STANDARD OIL METHODS ATTACKED

Boston Financier Tells James Creelman That His Campaign Against "the Whole Rotten Scheme" Will Be Carried on In Deadly Earnest to the End—Publicity His Only Instrument, He Says.

All through the critical business hours of Friday, Dec. 9, when Thomas W. Lawson, master spirit in the present extraordinary war against Standard Oil finance in Wall street, was reported to be locked up with H. H. Rogers, generalissimo of Standard Oil, perfecting the details of a settlement for $6,000,000—all through that anxious time, when the stock tickers and newspapers of the country were trying to guess the meaning of Mr. Lawson's sudden silence and inaccessibility—he was standing in his quiet room in Young's hotel at Boston explaining the situation to the public, says James Creelman in the New York World.

Although I sat in the room with him almost from the time the stock market opened until long after it closed, not once did Mr. Lawson show the slightest sign of excitement over market affairs. Strong as an ox, clear eyed, tranquil, smiling, the man who had moved the financial market downward against the will of the greatest combination of capital the world has ever seen bore himself like one absolutely confident of success. The bunch of blue cornflowers in his buttonhole was not fresher than he, although on the previous day he had fought through one of the greatest battles in the history of speculation, had made an hour and a half speech at a night banquet, had gone to bed at midnight and risen before 5 in the morning.

In that one day he had forced nearly 3,000,000 shares of stock into the market in New York.

"My one instrument is publicity," he said. "It is the most powerful weapon in the world. With it I have been able to strike with some of the power which eighty millions of Americans possess when they are wide awake and in earnest.

"This week's work is only the beginning of a demonstration that the secrecy of the frenzied finance system—under the cover of which the savings of the people gathered into banks, trust institutions and insurance companies have been used by the Standard Oil crowd to rob the people through the stock market—cannot succeed against publicity. The people only need light to save themselves.

"At the beginning of the week I advised the people of the United States to sell Amalgamated Copper and the other pool stocks. It was the first step in the final realization of plans I had been maturing for ten years. Since then, against the whole force of the billions and billions commanded by the Standard Oil system, Amalgamated had dropped from 82 into the sixties. I give the people my word, which I have never yet broken, that not once in that time have I sold a share of Amalgamated stock. Not only that, but I have actually bought large blocks of Amalgamated in order to steady the market and prevent too great and too sudden a panic, so that my friends everywhere might be able to get out without complete ruin. But for that I believe we would have had a panic greater than the Northern Pacific crash.

"The frightened leaders and agents of the 'system' spread reports that I was in league with the leading plungers and manipulators of Wall street; that I was making a mere stock raid; that I was trying to 'shake down' Mr. Rogers. The truth is that I have no partners. Not a soul knew my plans until my first advertisement appeared. I have no price, for there can be no peace now until the whole rotten scheme of frenzied finance is smashed and things are brought back to their natural honest level. I am in deadly earnest. No man knows better than I do how great a service I am rendering to the American people.

"The National City bank put an advertisement in the newspapers in which they offered Amalgamated Copper at $100 a share—75,000,000 shares. That bank and its officers were responsible for the description of the property which I signed. They would have done better to have taken $25,000,000 of the money of their depositors and thrown it in the grate.

"What do I mean? I mean that the City National bank is subject to law executed by the federal government; I mean that Theodore Roosevelt is running this government just now; I mean that the government is bound to take notice of great crimes against the people; I mean that there is a terrible reckoning for the 'system' at hand."

"But if Amalgamated Copper shares were worth $100 when you were market manager for Mr. Rogers and his friends how is it that they are not worth that price now?" I asked.

"I have tried to make that plain to the public," he said quietly.

"The other day Mr. Rogers' lawyer was trying to get me to stop. I told him that I intended to force the Standard Oil crowd to put the price of Amalgamated Copper back to $100, at which I advised my friends to buy it. He said that the stock was not worth $100. I asked him how he knew. He answered that Mr. Rogers, Mr. Stillman, Mr. Rockefeller and the other fellows in control had discovered that they had been deceived when the property was bought. They did not consider it worth more than $45 a share.

"That settled it in my mind. I appealed to the public to test the situation. I advised them to sell Amalgamated at once and keep on selling. If it was worth $100 the men in the 'system,' having billions of dollars behind them, would buy it. If it was worth only $45 a share, then the price must fall to that point in the end. It was simply a question whether the public could unload on the Standard Oil crowd before the 'system' could unload on the public."

"Then you caught the leaders of Standard Oil at the psychological moment?"

Mr. Lawson's smile was beyond words to describe.

"That partly explains the crash," he said. "They were ready to unload on the public, but the public moved too quickly. Publicity destroyed the one great weapon of the Standard Oil men, which is secrecy. I had been tricked and deceived, and those who were responsible had used my name to deceive and trick the public. I got out into the open and laid the plot bare. I had been working up to that point for many years, always waiting, waiting, waiting for the day when I could begin a work of reformation in behalf of eighty millions of people.

"I know my game. I have stood here in Boston for thirty-six years studying man and his ways. I have no false conceptions of my own strength. I know, and I have known all along, that to win against a system backed by billions of dollars, working in the dark and controlling largely the lawmaking powers of the nation, I must have the people with me. My articles in Everybody's Magazine were simply in preparation of the public mind for the practical demonstration which I have made this week that the whispering manipulators of Wall street will not buy at $68 a share stock which they were selling to the public at $100 a share.

"It is the savings of the people which these men use, by means of banks trust institutions and insurance companies, that has enabled them up to this time to sell worthless stocks for good money. That is the secret of their power to maintain high prices for watered securities. But once the truth is made known their power is sure to crumble—that is, when the people arouse themselves and act, as they have done this week. It is only necessary to sell stock to find out that the 'system' which has manufactured the prices will not buy it, for the very good reason that they themselves know the truth. Frenzied finance wants to dump its inflated securities on the public. The public has had a lesson of how quickly the crooked manipulators will run when the stocks are offered back to them.

"Up to the present time the Standard Oil 'system' has been methodically getting control of the people's savings. I have been at the very heart of its operations and know how heartless its purposes and methods are. The men behind it have had more power to bring the American people to the chopping block than Theodore Roosevelt with a proclamation of war and with congress and the army and the militia behind him. They think only of dollars. They stop at nothing. They have no conscience. And the men who are sitting up nights waiting for their wheat to grow so that they may hurry it into the Wall street hopper, the millions slaving in factories and saving money by self denial, have been blind to the fact that the hoardings they gave so freely to the great and little financial institutions of the country were the real source of the strength of the never sleeping, cold blooded Wall street manipulators who are draining the country of its wealth by a deliberate system of robbery.

"Ten years ago I wanted to do the work I have begun to do now. But I would have made a mistake had I started in then. The situation has grown 500 per cent worse in these ten years. Watered stock schemes of $10,000,000 have enlarged themselves to $100,000,000.

"The Standard Oil interests came into my world simply because they entered Boston to control gas affairs. They wanted to run their automobile down a particular road, but they found a fellow standing in the middle of the road. They did not dare to run over that fellow, as little as he was, because he warned them that he had in his pocket a stick of dynamite that would blow the machine up if it passed over him. Mr. Rogers is a really big and brainy man. He saw and understood the situation. He offered to take me inside of his secret lines.

"It is said by my enemies—and they are many, and some of them are crackajacks, I admit—that I am a squealer; that I have peached on my pals. That is absolutely untrue. From my boyhood up I have always insisted on being free and independent. But I have never consciously told a lie or violated a confidence. The newspaper files will show that when I made my deal with the Standard Oil people I publicly announced that I had entered into a secret agreement with them. That brought a hurried call from Mr. Rogers, who wanted to know what I meant. I told him, as I had told him before, that I had to work in my own way, that my methods were open and aboveboard and that I could not work successfully unless I was free to do things as I thought they should be done.

"That was my arrangement with Standard Oil. They had a great chest, and the whole method of the 'system' was to prevent any one from getting a peep at that chest save as one of them and on their own terms. I refused to be bound by their code. I told Mr. Rogers again and again that everything I learned as the market manager of the Standard Oil interests I felt free to use publicly at any time. Mr. Rogers again and again assured me that that was fully understood. He told me that I was the only man who had ever been admitted within the Standard Oil 'system' on such terms To secure my co-operation they violated their fundamental law of secrecy But they were fully warned of my attitude in advance.

"All through that time I had deep down in my heart the plan which I am carrying out now. Each day brought me nearer to the day when I could expose the whole system of fraud to the public. Having that idea always present with me, I was careful to avoid deals or partnerships which involved any loss of independence to act when the day for action came. I have been worth as much as $28,000,000, and I have lost as much as $14,000,000, but never have I altered my purpose to awaken the public to a realization of the great crimes committed against it in the name of finance.

"I have just begun. Before I get through the people themselves will understand how to overthrow the 'system.' They have but to sell back to the manipulators their watered securities and sell and sell and sell, and they will find that the 'system' will not buy until prices have reached a point at which they represent real values. When that time comes, when the American people have compelled the 'system' to buy back the stocks which they have unloaded on the public, then we shall have got back to first principles.

"I know my own size. I know the size of my enemies. But I also know the size and strength of 80,000,000 people. Publicity is the greatest agent of reform that civilization has produced, just as secrecy is the greatest instrumentality of fraud that the world has developed. The 'system' has been trying to save the great reckoning with the people by whispering—for the Wall street manipulator always whispers—that the crash in Amalgamated stock was due to the selling of large blocks by myself and a group of plungers. That pretense will not save them. They are to be laid bare to the bone.

"I have sold no stocks this week save in the ordinary small transactions of a broker's business. The public has offered the pool manipulators the stocks which they have been praising so highly, and the pools refused to buy them. The people and the press are beginning to understand the thing I have been talking about. Let the people play the game of the 'system against the 'system,' and they will soon find out how they have been cheated out of hundreds of millions of dollars by methods that cannot stand daylight.

"If the people will stand by me, and I have always been open and honest with them, America will witness a great transformation. With an honest and courageous president in the White House we shall see whether the 'system' will be able to use the fiduciary institutions of the country for piratical purposes. The fall in the price of Amalgamated and other pool stocks is only a bubble on the surface. The final revelation and the final solution are yet to come into sight."

ARE YOU A MUSICIAN?

If So, Then You're Lazy, Says a Chicago University Professor.

Pianists, violinists, soloists, all musical artists and all who dabble in music are lazy. Every one with a musical temperament is indifferent to work. To be a good musician one must first cultivate a languid, tired don't care at all feeling.

At least that is what Professor Robert A. Millikan of the University of Chicago recently told the sophomore class, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. He backed up his statements by experiments with a series of physics instruments before the students.

"All good music is embodied in that one word 'harmony,'" declared Professor Millikan. "Those who love harmony love it because their ears are, mathematically speaking, lazy. People with lazy ears you will find to be consistently lazy. They do not like discordant sounds and are too indolent to listen to the complicated ratios of discordant sounds. They like the soothing tones, those with a pleasant melody.

"A piercing whistle of a locomotive, the grating sound of a cable car, the rumbling of a heavy truck and all the noises of a great city are offensive to this kind of people. The more active class, including the energetic man of business and the day laborers, does not resent such noises nearly as much as 'lazy' people."

Former Crippled Child's Long Walks

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour and her little daughter Lolita returned to Chicago the other morning after a prolonged stay in Vienna, where the child had undergone an eight months' treatment for congenital dislocation under the care of Dr. Adolf Lorenz, says a Chicago special dispatch.

"It gives me the greatest pleasure to say that Lolita is practically cured and that she may never have to be treated by Dr. Lorenz again," said Mrs. Armour. "She can walk miles at a time, and, in fact, part of her treatment in Vienna was to walk five miles a day."

The World's Largest Playhouse.

The first hippodrome on American soil, which will be the largest playhouse in the world, is nearing completion in New York. Its stage, which will bear the weight of 600 persons and 150 horses during periods of the performances, is 200 feet wide and 110 feet in depth, equaling in size the auditorium floor space of an ordinary theater. There is no hanging scenery. The tremendous scenic pieces move in and out of pockets inside the auditorium. Some of them weigh as much as six tons. An electric crane picks them up and transports them here and there.

PROSPERITY FOR ALL.

And we, having had a prosperous business the past year, do hereby PROMISE all of our REGULAR CUSTOMERS that during the month of January. we will sell them our Goods at COST.

This is no cut-price sale, or stamp giving scheme, just simply giving them a cash reduction on all bill of goods bought of us in the next thirty days. We think this is a good, clean, wholesome way to show our appreciation of your trade, past and future.

We have never encouraged stamp or premium business, relying wholly on the quality of our goods to satisfy our trade. And our splendid business the past year shows our good judgment on that question. And now we are prepared to do business with our Regular Customers at Cost. THEY CAN HAVE THE PROFIT OF OUR BUSINESS FOR THE NEXT THIRTY DAYS.

Sheriff Will Allow No Visitors In Chadwick Quarters

NURSE AND SON BARRED

Can Have No Privileges Not Accorded to Other Prisoners In County Jail--Order of the United States Marshal Ignored

Cleveland, O. Dec. 17.—Mrs. Chadwick will, from now until the time of her trial or arraignment in court, be rigidly excluded from all visitors, and even her son and nurse will be denied permission to see her except on the written order of United States Marshal Chandler.

An order has been received at the jail by Sheriff Barry directing him to deny all persons the privilege of seeing her, and he at once ordered that the nurse, Freda Swanstorm, who was then in the jail with Mrs. Chadwick, be ordered to leave. This action was in direct opposition to an order of United States Marshal Chandler issued Thursday, in which he directed that Emil Hoover, the son of Mrs. Chadwick, and the nurse should be admitted at any time to see Mrs. Chadwick.

"The order applies to them as well as to anybody else," said the sheriff, "and I will ignore the order of Mr. Chandler. This is a county jail and the federal authorities have nothing to say about its administration. If they don't like the way I run it, I guess they can take their prisoners to some other jail."

Sheriff Barry has done everything possible for the comfort of Mrs. Chadwick and the implication carried by Judge Wing's order that he was allowing too many people to see her was not pleasing to him.

"Young Hoover and the nurse have been making trouble ever since Mrs. Chadwick has been here," he added. "They have been saying that too many people were allowed to see Mrs. Chadwick and now I think they will keep out of here themselves."

Turning to a deputy he repeated his order to have the nurse leave the jail at once, and a few minutes later Miss Swanstorm passed through the sheriff's office on her way to the street. Sheriff Barry further declared that no visitors to Mrs. Chadwick would be permitted to see her except in the regular visiting hours at the jail, which are from 1 to 3 o'clock on every day except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

The order of Judge Wing put a period to the episodes at the jail and her attorneys declared that there would be no further developments in the legal end of the case until Mrs. Chadwick was brought into the court either for arraignment or trial.

A. F. Bramley, a wealthy contractor, called on Mrs. Chadwick just prior to the receipt of Judge Wing's order, with Sheldon Kerruish, one of Mrs. Chadwick's attorneys. He was asked if he was going to give bail for her, and he said he was not. When asked if he intended to furnish money for the expenses of her defense, he laughed and would make no reply.

A Pitiful Case

Fairmont, W. Va., Dec. 17.—Margaret Robinson, 18 years old, who had recently become a mother, was found unconscious in a hut near here. The babe at her side, in a rude cot, was frozen to death. On Monday night the child was born and the father left for the woods to cut timber fuel, since which time he has not been seen. Frozen bread and a small piece of meat were found on the floor near the bed. The woman is not expected to recover.

Stoessel In the Thick of the Fight

London, Dec. 17.—General Stoessel, the Russian military commander at Port Arthur, according to a dispatch from Chefoo to The Daily Telegraph, has again been wounded, this time by a rifle bullet. The correspondent adds that the wound is not serious. General Stoessel was previously wounded in the head by a splinter from a shell while he was personally directing the repulse of a Japanese attack.

Family Feud Leads to Murder

New York, Dec. 17.—Michael De Giovanni was shot and killed in Brooklyn last night by Antonio Barbetti. The shooting was the outcome of a family feud of nine years' standing. Six months ago Joseph Barbetti, a brother of the man who did the shooting, met Mrs. Degiovanni on the street and the woman shot him in the shoulder. She was acquitted at the trial that followed.

Salmon Eggs For South America

San Francisco, Dec. 17.—The Mill Creek hatchery is now engaged in preparing a shipment of 1,000,000 salmon eggs for South America. This shipment will leave Tehama by express for New York on Dec. 22, reaching New York about Dec. 30, where it will be transferred to a steamer leaving there for Buenos Ayres.

Cotton Growing In England

Manchester, Dec. 17.—Sir Alfred Jones, presiding at the meeting of the British Cotton Growing association, predicted that the movement would result not only in making Lancaster independent of America, but to some extent in making America dependent upon the cotton growing fields of the British empire.

From one end to the other of First avenue there were many young women who had some claims to attractiveness. But there was none like Miss Sallie Smith. She was the belle among belles. Miss Sallie spent some time one day in deep thought.

"Well, I don't care," she said to herself, "Billy certainly can't think as much of me as Jenks, for if he does why doesn't he show it?"

Outward demonstration and material evidence count for everything in this world. And the situation that perplexed Miss Sallie Smith was a peculiar one. She had two admirers who were strenuous ones. The name of one of these young men was William Burke. The name of the other was Jenkinson. It was a toss up between the two. But the trouble was that while William Burke was the neater dresser and possessed a more attractive bearing, yet Mr. Jenkinson was a man who wooed Miss Smith in the approved manner, by lavishing upon her a considerable amount of coin. Miss Sallie Smith did not care so much about the amount of coin lavished upon her, but it was the only way in which—as things go in First avenue—the only way by which she could measure the quality and quantity of a man's attentions. Burke couldn't be stingy, she felt, but he did not come to time, as one might say. Jenkinson, on the other hand, poured his wealth at her feet.

Now, Miss Smith was such a good manager that up to date Mr. Burke and Mr. Jenkinson had never met. But both gentlemen were becoming so insistent that she determined finally that she would make a choice. She was really fortunate, for there are few girls who have two proposers hanging around every day in the week. She would give each man a fair chance, judge of the devotion of each by the best standards, and then she would decide once and for all.

Mr. Jenkinson was a trolley car conductor. Mr. Jenkinson held before his mental vision this motto: "The greatest good to the greatest number. The greatest number—No. 1." And, being a trolley car conductor, it was up to him to put this motto into everyday practice. He had made up his mind that Miss Sallie Smith was the only girl in the universe, and it was his purpose to make her think more than ever that he was the only man. Fortunately, the season favored him. It was the holiday time and the cars were crowded—overcrowded.

Mr. Jenkinson laid out a little programme to commence a few days before Christmas and to finish up with Christmas itself. The important characters on the programme were himself and Miss Sallie Smith—a night or two at the theater, a dinner and an east side diamond ring to wind up with on the day of all days, expensive luxuries for a man with his salary, but Mr. Jenkinson had a way to fix all that. The holiday crowds helped him out. Mr. Jenkinson propounded to himself a problem in mental arithmetic: If 200 people on a car pay their fare and the indicator bell is rung only 100 times, (1) Who will know the difference? (2) How much is there in it for the conductor? (3) How often must it be done to carry out the Jenkinson programme? It may be said at this juncture that Mr. Jenkinson was an adept at this sort of game and also that he had never been caught.

Now, it was just about this time that Miss Smith, who didn't really know just why, made up her mind to invite Mr. Burke and Mr. Jenkinson to call, both upon the same evening, that evening being the night before Christmas. They both accepted. In the meantime fate was mixing up things just a little bit. Mr. Jenkinson was solving his problem in a highly satisfactory manner. An incident will suffice to show his method. It was the day before Christmas. His route ended at Fifty-ninth street. Four blocks this side of Fifty-ninth street he turned his indicator hand back to zero. This was peculiar, because, as he had four blocks still to go, and in holiday season, too, it is probable that it would be necessary to ring up more fares. And it was necessary. But he rang them up so that they stood credited to the down trip.

So far he had been honest. His next move, however, was profitable. When he reached Fifty-ninth street he had received seven or eight fares which he duly rang up. Leaving those seven or eight credited to the down trip, the first seven or eight fares he collected on the down trip he did not ring up. Why? Because, apparently, they were already rung up. This little scheme netted him 35 or 40 cents. This is only one method. Mr. Jenkinson had not noted, however, that one of his passengers, a well dressed young man, engaged in reading the newspaper, did not alight at the end of the trip and indicated that he had passed his point of departure and had to go back. This young man was a great reader. But he stuck close to Mr. Jenkinson's car all the way down—merely one of the crowd.

That evening Mr. Jenkinson attended at Miss Sallie Smith's. He was received with enthusiasm, for he and Miss Sallie had attended a performance at the theater on the evening previous. Finally Mr. Billy Burke, natty as usual, turned up. As he entered he was introduced to Mr. Jenkinson. He looked, stared, gave a short gasp and then shook hands. He acknowledged to himself that Mr. Jenkinson's face had become familiar to him. Mr. Jenkinson evidently had never seen him.

Now, there was one thing that Mr. Billy Burke could not help noticing and that was that Miss Sallie Smith had a decided leaning toward Jenkinson. He (Billy Burke) seemed pretty well out of it. Miss Smith had meant to be impartial, but Mr. Jenkinson's attentions had really overpowered her. The hour of parting came. Mr. Burke, with a delicacy which he felt to be due to the occasion, left first. He walked slowly down the stairs and out into the street. He shook his head. "That fellow," he exclaimed softly to himself. "But, after all, it's none of my business." He thought about it for a long while. Then, acting under impulse, he thrust his hand into his inside pocket and pulled out a yellow paper. It was a blank form which he had filled up. Upon it appeared a date, the name of John Jenkinson, and some figures in the dollars and cents column. He hesitated an instant, then he suddenly tore it to pieces and threw it into the gutter.

The next morning—Christmas morning it was—he stepped into an office, for no days were holidays to Burke. He passed over some yellow slips. A man looked at them and frowned.

"You were on No. —— yesterday?" he asked.

"I was," Burke answered.

"You got a report against No. —? Jenkinson, his name is."

Burke shook his head. "I have not," he answered.

"Then," said the other man, "we're through with you; that's all. Jenkinson skinned us yesterday more than we've ever been skinned, and, by George, it happened that Barker was spotting you while you were spotting Jenkinson. You can go. We don't want a spotter who's in cahoots with our conductors; that's all."

Burke turned red and white. He started in to explain; then he stopped. He thought of Miss Sallie Smith.

Christmas night Mr. Jenkinson called upon Miss Sallie Smith. He was not quite so brash as usual. But he had a little box in his hand. "Sallie," he said, "I lost my job today. I don't know why, but I brought you a little"—

Miss Sallie stopped him. "I know," she said. She produced a paper. "That's why," she exclaimed, "and I know, because I took the trouble to find out."

It was a clipping headed:

JENKINSON, THE WORST EVER.

The Trolley Company Fires Man Who Holds Holiday Knocked Down Fare Record.

Jenkinson flushed, but he did not dare to lie. "They—they all do it," he remarked. "I was caught; that's all. After all, Sallie," he went on, "I only did it because I wanted to get this for you." He exhibited the box.

Sallie Smith stepped to the mantelpiece. She took down a bundle. It contained all the presents that Jenkinson had ever given her. She handed them over. "You can go," she said. "Any man who would steal for me certainly doesn't have much respect for me." Jenkinson looked stupidly at her. "You may go," she said. Jenkinson went.

Billy Burke came later. He was not so well dressed this time. "Sallie," he said, "I want to tell you something. I've always been ashamed to tell you what I was working at. I—I'm a spotter on the trolley—I had to be—I couldn't get anything else to do. They don't pay us, though, as well as they do the motormen and the conductors. But they—they've fired me. I'll tell you. They fired me because I didn't turn in the name of a—a man who knocked down fares. They were right. I didn't. It doesn't make any difference why. But I'm out, and I've got to get another job, and I'm glad of it."

Miss Sallie Smith gasped. "The man you wouldn't report," she asked—"was it John Jenkinson?" Burke's face gave him away.

"How—how did you know?" he asked.

She paused a moment. "When did you first meet him?" she inquired.

"Last night," said Burke, flushing still, "was the first time. I didn't want to"—

Sallie held out her hand. "Billy—Billy," she exclaimed, "and you did it all for me—for me?" She paused a moment. "Where are your good clothes?" she asked as she looked at him.

"I've got to tell you all about it, Sallie," he answered. "You see, I always had to wear good clothes, and had to buy 'em and keep getting new ones, so that it would look as if I was somebody, and they didn't pay me enough hardly to get 'em. Well, I got sick of 'em. And I tell you, Sallie, what I did. I up and pawned 'em, and—and I—I did a nervy thing. I—I bought you this. I was afraid—and I wasn't sure, but"— He paused, stuck his hand in his pocket and pulled out a ring. "I haven't got a job," he went on, "but"— "I don't care," returned Miss Sallie Smith. "You've lost your job, and you've pawned your clothes, and all for me. I don't believe there's any man would do as much. This is the very nicest Christmas that I've ever had. So there!"

Jenkinson had not pawned his clothes, but he had lost his job somewhat on account of Miss Sallie Smith, but there was a difference with a wide distinction. And so Miss Sallie Smith decided for herself and for Billy Burke.

It Comes High.

He—They may advertise it as a free bazaar, but I'll bet you'll find it expensive before you're through with it. She—Nonsense! How can a thing be expensive if it's free? He—Easy enough. Just get mixed up in a free fight, for instance, and see.—Catholic Standard

The Mistletoe's Story

I AM only a sprig of old mistletoe.
My leaves are quite shriveled and dead
And my sap all dried up such a long time ago
That my berries they never get fed.
But I'll tell you a tale of a trick that I played
That a lovesick young man and a wealthy young maid
Should contrive to get happily wed.

It was Christmas eve, and from where I hung,
Tied up with a piece of string,
I caught many a couple, both old and young,
Kissing like anything.
But fairest of all the young people I saw
Was pretty Miss Eveline Marjory Daw,
Who was fit for the bride of a king.

Now, Marjory Daw, as you'll readily guess,
Was admired by a dozen or more,
Each of whom for a kiss of the hem of her dress
Would have given much treasure galore.
But the only young man she pretended to see
(To whose offer her father would never agree)
Was a penniless fellow named Shaw.

BUT FAIREST OF ALL WAS MARJORY DAW.

Now, Shaw tipped the butler—I saw the coin pass—
To turn down the gas in the hall
(I was hung from a bracket quite close to a glass
Not more than a yard from the wall).
Then he waited beneath me, his senses alert,
Till he heard the "swish swish" of a rustling silk skirt.
They were having a Christmas eve ball.
In a moment his arms were about the fair waist.
What cared he for the wrath of papa?

And he covered her cheek with his kisses in haste
To the strains of the piano afar.
But she, with a cry, reached and turned up the gas,
When he saw, to his horror, alas and alas,
He'd been kissing his sweetheart's mamma!
Then up came the guests in response to her call,
While papa was quite purple with rage.

And that Shaw was a cad they agreed, one and all,
Not to show more respect for old age.
But the dame, with her vanity utterly twisted
And quite unaware of the error, insisted
That the maid should be gallantry's wage.

Ferns and Autumn Leaves.

Ferns and autumn leaves as Christmas decorations add greatly to the effectiveness of the conventional holly, mistletoe and evergreens. Ferns grown in hothouses are easily obtained at the holiday season, but are rather expensive. Autumn leaves are at the command of whoever has the time to gather them in the fall, for they can be preserved in all their pristine glory with little trouble. Autumn leaves pressed in books, while retaining their glorious colors, lose some of their liveliness and their natural shape, but whole branches of them may be kept intact by placing them in dry sand in any cellar where there is no dampness.

Individuality In Gifts.

The personality of the giver expressed in the wrappings about the Christmas gift adds value to the simplest offering. After all, it is the spirit of the giver rather than the gift itself which gives the greatest pleasure. The favorite ribbon, the slip of mistletoe, the color of the tissue paper covering, the card which bears the Christmas greeting, all express love and well-wishing.

Mrs. Torkins' Bright Idea.

"What are you going to give your husband for Christmas?"

"A whole lot of poker chips," said young Mrs. Torkins, "so that he can have all he wants without having to sit up all night trying to win them."—Washington Star.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Rev. Roderick Stebbins of Milton is to preach at First church on Sunday morning in exchange with the pastor, Rev. E. C. Butler.

A collection is to be taken at the Christmas morning service at First church to defray the expenses of the Christmas festival of the Sunday school.

Mr. Benj. F. Curtis is confined by illness to his home in Washington, D. C., and was unable to come to Boston this week to attend the funeral of his brother Noah Curtis.

The Young People's Religious union of First church sent a barrel of clothing and useful articles to the south last week as a Christmas gift to some needy white and colored folks.

The Young People's Religious Union of First church is preparing a unique entertainment, under the direction of Miss Randall, which is to be given after Christmas, during the holidays.

The Alliance of First church is to take a recess during the holidays and will not resume meetings until January ninth. The Christmas meeting on Monday afternoon of this week was a particularly happy affair.

The children of First church Sunday school are busily at work on a play which is to be given at the Christmas festival, preceding the coming of Santa Claus and the distribution of presents and candy.

The pastor of the United Presbyterian church and his family have been confined to the house with the grip this week, greatly interfering with his expectations. He announced that Dr. Manchester of Boston will lecture Dec. 29.

At the annual meeting of the Quincy local of the Amalgamated street railway employes union held this week, William Walsh was reelected president of the union. Other officers elected were: Vice President, George Slavin; Recording Secretary, Alfred La Croix; Financial Secretary, John B. McCormack.

☞ Quincy friends were saddened to learn of the death on Sunday at Lincoln, Nebraska, of Mrs. Farnum Smith, who for many years resided at the Point in the colonial house now occupied by her son, Mr. Frederick H. Smith. Of late years Mrs. Smith has made her home in the west where she has three sons, Arthur, William and Clarence, all of whom resided here as boys, and are well known.

Antietam Camp.

The annual election of officers of Camp 32, Sons of Veterans, took place at their regular meeting Tuesday evening, December 13th, with the following results:

Commander, Paul Monaghan
S. V. C., W. H. Payne
J. V. C., F. L. Chandler
Treasurer, M. C. Gillette
Secretary, A. F. Hollis
Delegate at large, J. E. Hayden
Delegate, A. H. Holbrook
Alt. delegate at large, C. Turple.
Alt. delegate, Hadwin Sawyer

Get the Best.

They are keeping the Quincy photographer busy now days. Citizens not only from Quincy are calling, but from other towns. There is no doubt in many minds that F. A. Skinner is the best photographer in this county, and his pictures are talking all the time. Those thinking of getting photographs for Christmas should not delay, but leave your order at once, or you will be disappointed.

☞ The New England Kennel club will hold its 21st annual dog show at Mechanics' Building Boston, February 21, 22, 23, and 24, 1905. The Dog Show committee is now at work on the prize list. The classification and prizes will be practically the same as those of last year, excepting where prospective entries warrant a change, and realizing that much has happened in the dog world of which they are not cognizant, the committee is inviting all dog fanciers to suggest such changes in the classification as they wish to make for the breed in which they may be particularly interested.

BRAINTREE.

After January first turn over a new leaf. Put your money into two cent stamps for the one cent stamps will not carry sealed envelopes through the local post office.

The entertainment committee of the Penniman School Association have arranged an instructive and pleasing meeting for next Wednesday evening, Dec. 21, at eight o'clock in the school hall. All citizens of the town over fourteen years of age are cordially invited to be present. There is no charge for admission but refreshments will be on sale at the close of the entertainment.

The regular monthly meeting of the Pine Tree State Club of Braintree was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Moody Fountain street, South Braintree Wednesday evening, Dec. 14, and a large number were in attendance.

The Jonas Perkins hall was well filled Wednesday evening to witness the two act drama "Old Acre Folks," given by South Braintree talent under the direction of the J. P. S. A.

The Ladies bowlers' benefit dance of the Cochato Club, Braintree, held last evening was attended by 35 couples. Mrs. G. E. Williams, Mrs. J. A. Barbour and Mrs. L. O. Crocker were the matrons. Mullaly's orchestra furnished the music. Dancing was enjoyed from eight to eleven.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Allen are rejoicing in the birth of a son who came to their home last Wednesday.

Mrs. B. F. Holman, who, with her two little daughters, has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Albert Bradford, for several months, has returned to her home in Muskegon, Michigan.

Arrangements are being made by John Hancock lodge of Wollaston, the Mt. Wollaston of Quincy, Neponset of Neponset and Puritan of South Braintree to have a grand exemplification of Odd Fellowship the first of the new year.

The I. O. O. F. bowling league held its regular meeting at the Kenwood alleys last Monday evening. The John Hancock lodge of Wollaston had a total of 1124 points while Puritan lodge scored 1079 points.

In spite of the storm Monday evening a merry company gathered at the home of Miss Bertha S. Hobart to assist her in celebrating her eighteenth birthday. The evening was pleasantly passed with music and games. Light refreshments were served. Miss Hobart received many dainty remembrances of the day. Friends were present from North Attleboro, Quincy and the Braintrees.

Court Autumna No. 9, L. K. & L., will hold its annual election of officers in I. O. O. F. hall Wednesday evening, Dec. 21. A light collation will be served. A large attendance is desired.

Mrs. Will Mayhew of Spruce street entertained the Thayer S. S. class Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Cora F. Keith who has been in Japan since 1899 is expected home early in the new year. On her return to Japan in the fall she is to marry Rev. Charles M. Warren missionary and Professor of English in the Doshisha at Kyote.

Master Willard F. Bond received seven of his little friends Thursday afternoon on his seventh birthday. After their merry games a lively march was played on the piano and they formed in line for the dining room, which was very prettily decorated with blue crystal crepe paper and Christmas trimmings. A dainty lunch was served and each child was given a piece of the birthday cake to take home with them.

The annual collection for the Christmas festival was taken up at the Union church last Sunday morning.

Miss Anna P. Moore of Boston will give a lecture at the Union church Sunday evening, Dec. 18, at six o'clock. Subject, "New Mexico." Every one is cordially invited.

Tuesday evening a novel entertainment was held in the vestry of the M. E. church, in the form of an "Automatic Restaurant." The bill of fare was fashioned on the conundrum plan and it was with fear and trembling that lunch was ordered. Supper was served from 6 to 8 and was followed by a social evening interspersed with music. The entertainment was both a social and financial success.

The Literary society met Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. John Barrie, Allen street. A large number were present including several guests. Rev. R. H. Cochrane gave a very interesting talk on his travels in Switzerland; his talk being illustrated with numerous photographs of Swiss scenery. Mrs. Alfred Brosseau rendered, with much skill, several piano solos; and Mrs. Barrie's vocal solos were much enjoyed by all. Several new names were added to the membership list.

The first dancing social of Puritan lodge I. O. O. F. was given in their hall last Saturday evening. It was a success in every way and those who like to trip the light fantastic toe are looking forward to the second social tonight.

Christmas Magazines.

The December number of Sunset magazine, San Francisco, California, consists of 208 pages of readable stories, descriptive matter relating to the west, poems, essays, with almost every page illuminated by half-tone engravings. The leading article, "How San Francisco grows," by Rufus M. Steele, Sunday editor of the Chronicle, details the remarkable development of the Pacific coast metropolis, with accompanying photographs of new business blocks, hotels and residences. Other contributors to this number are: Mabel Craft Deering, Will Irwin, William MacLeod Raine, William Greer Harrison, Adeline Knapp, Henry Morse Stephens, and Gelett Burgess. The cover design shows Santa Claus off the range, with a cowboy and Indian as his boon companions.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

The farewell week of the Southern-Marlowe combination at the Hollis Street Theatre, notwithstanding its very great success, will close, owing to engagements elsewhere, with the week beginning Dec. 19th, when the repertoire will be presented in the following order: "Romeo and Juliet," Monday, Tuesday and Friday evenings and Saturday matinee; "Much Ado About Nothing," Wednesday evening: for the special Wednesday matinee and Thursday and Saturday evenings, "Hamlet." The extra matinee, Wednesday, will be given in response to repeated requests from patrons in the city and its environs, this due to so many being disappointed in not getting seats for the Saturday matinees. Charles Frohman is justly entitled to the gratitude of the theatregoing public for his enterprise and liberality in organizing a combination of stars so distinguished and with such excellent support and sumptuous settings to play Shakespearan drama, an undertaking fraught with numberless difficulties and in which many experienced managers have met wreck and disaster. But the unprecedented success which has attended this, his last and greatest venture is a worthy and deserved tribute to his judgment and courage.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Robert Hilliard, the most distinguished "Legitimate" actor who has ever appeared in the varieties, will head the vaudeville show at Keith's for the week of Dec. 19, presenting the great one-act play, "No. 973," in which he will be supported by a competent company, including June Pelton, the talented juvenile actress, whose pictures in character bids patrons of Keith's "Good Night" every evening in closing the biograph exhibit. Other noted entertainers will be Marie Navelle, who was the prima donna of the Irish theatre opera company at the St. Louis fair the Glincerettis, six wonderful acrobats; Fred Niblo, late manager of the Four Cohans, one of the best monologue entertainers in America, and the Smedley Sketch club, in the charming little play, "The Little Mother," which will particularly appeal to the juveniles. A motion picture that will be one of great interest for the patrons of this playhouse and others will be one showing Lillian Lawrence, John Craig and Mary Young, the former Castle Square theatre players, automobiling in one of the parks at San Francisco, Cal., where they are now playing.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

Another interesting revival is announced at the Castle Square theatre next week, plans having been made by the new management of this playhouse to present Sheridan's glittering comedy "The School for Scandal." This play has not been seen in Boston since its production at the Castle Square three years ago and the changes that have occurred in the company will bring forward almost an entirely new cast of the well known characters in the production of next week. Much interest will be felt by the Castle Square patrons in the first appearance here of Lillian Kemble as Lady Teazle and the character of this sweet rural English girl will afford Miss Kemble a splendid opportunity to display her abilities in an impersonation that has tested the dramatic skill of the great artists for generations. "The School for Scandal" is announced for only a single week and the usual distribution of souvenire boxes of bonbons will be made at the Monday matinee.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Americans at Oxford.

The American students at Oxford college, England, find the life at that college quite different from that in America. The first term was spent mostly in accustoming themselves to English ways and conventionalities, but they had been given all possible aid by the British students, who were universally courteous and kind. The Rhodes students have adopted Oxford customs and dress and call each other and are known to their fellow collegians by the names of their respective States. They say much of the time during their first term was taken up with entertainment, both by English and Americans, which they could not decline.

Some of the Rhodes scholarship men are remaining at Oxford during the vacation to make up lost ground, while others will spend the Christmas holidays on the continent, among the number being Paul Nixon of Braintree.

ST. JOHNS DAY.

Celebration at Wollaston Church.

Address by Chaplain E. A. Chase.

Four Masonic Organizations Participate.

St. Johns day was celebrated on Sunday by the Masons of Quincy, the services being held at the Wollaston Congregational church under the auspices of Wollaston lodge, A. F. & A. M., who had as guests Rural lodge of Quincy; Massachusetts lodge of Boston; and St. Stephens R. A. chapter of Quincy.

The lodges assembled at the apartments of Wollaston lodge, and a large representation of the fraternity marched to the church. The principal officers of Wollaston lodge are: Theodore C. Gram, W. M.; Albert W. Fay, S. W.; S. F. Copeland, J. W., I. W. Pinkham, T.; and A. H. Richards, S.

The officers of Rural lodge are: Joseph P. Prout, W. M.; H. L. White, S. W.; Charles Sampson, J. W.; Fred L. Jones, T.; Walter E. Simmons, S.

The officers of Massachusetts lodge are: Charles A. Heney, W. M.; E. E. Reynolds, S. W.; E. N. West, J. W.; J. C. Bates, S.

The officers of St. Stephen's chapter are: Alexander Falconer, H. P.; Eben Hardy, King; B. C. Barlow, Scribe.

Rev. Edward Abbott Chase, the pastor of the church, is chaplain of both Wollaston and Massachusetts lodges, and a valuable member.

Palms and tropical plants were grouped about the pastor's desk, and made a pretty scene.

The order of service was:

Organ Prelude.
Exhortation, Chaplain and Brethren.
Doxology, "Old Hundred."
Chorus and Alto Solo, P. A. Schnecker.
Responsive Lesson, from the first letter of St. John.
Hymn, Number 602.
The Scripture Lesson, the Gospel of John, chapter XIII., vs. 1-17.
Duet for Soprano and Tenor, J. Stainer.
Exhortation, Chaplain and Brethren.
Prayer.
Choir, "Our Father, which art in heaven."
Offering.
Address, "The Message of St. John to Free Masons," The Chaplain.
Hymn, Number 789.
Benediction.
Organ Postlude.

The music was a very pleasing part of the order of service and was by the regular choir of the church, which includes: Miss Marie L. Sundborg, soprano; Miss Bertha A. Putman, alto; Mr. Harry A. Cook, tenor; and Mr. William E. Howard, bass; with Miss Ada F. Hinckley as organist. The chorus and alto solo, and the duet, for soprano and tenor, were particularly well rendered. The brethren united in the singing of hymns.

The address of Chaplain Chase, however, was the main feature of the program, and there were many favorable comments. He said at the outset, that as certain things in the Masonry stand for definite meanings, so in the life of St. John the Evangelist certain words stand for definite things. In both there was development, and like Masonry he would show the development in three stages, as follows:

I. That which we have seen with our eyes and our hands handled concerning the word of life.

II. And this is the message which we have heard from Him and announce unto you—that God is light, and in Him is no darkness at all.

III. A new commandment write I unto you—because the darkness is passing away and the true light already shineth; he that loveth his brother, abideth in the light.

Chaplain Chase made clear the development under each thought, and in conclusion drew a pratical lesson. He said Christmas would be here in a week. Is there not some way in which we individually can send out this light to give encouragement and a helping hand to those who have been unfortunate? Get into the heart of some one who is down at the heel and make it a Christmas of peace.

Wollaston lodge entertained the members of the visiting lodges at its headquarters after the services at the church.

PROSPERITY FOR ALL.

And we, having had a prosperous business the past year, do hereby PROMISE all of our REGULAR CUSTOMERS that during the month of January, we will sell them our Goods at COST.

This is no cut-price sale, or stamp giving scheme, just simply giving them a cash reduction on all bill of goods bought of us in the next thirty days. We think this is a good, clean, wholesome way to show our appreciation of your trade, past and future.

We have never encouraged stamp or premium business, relying wholly on the quality of our goods to satisfy our trade. And our splendid business the past year shows our good judgment on that question. And now we are prepared to do business with our Regular Customers at Cost. THEY CAN HAVE THE PROFIT OF OUR BUSINESS FOR THE NEXT THIRTY DAYS.

Yours for Quality,

The Christmas Tree

How It Originated, How It Is Secured For the Market, and Some Interesting Legends of the Dim Past

By WALTON WILLIAMS

Copyright, 1904, by American Press Association

THE Christmas tree goes so far back into the night of time that it is quite impossible to tell where or by whom it was first introduced. Almost every country has its legend claiming for its own the tree which bears such generous fruit. In Scandinavia it is said to have sprung from the "service tree," which germinated from soil soaked by the blood of two unfortunate lovers, a claim substantiated by the statement that at Christmastide inextinguishable lights gleamed from its green branches. In a French romance of the thirteenth century a great tree is described whose branches are covered with burning candles and on whose top is the vision of a child with a halo round its head, the tree and candles representing mankind and the child the infant Saviour.

A beautiful German story credits St. Winfred with giving the Christmas tree to the world. The story is illustrative of the gospel supplanting paganism. Before a group of converts St. Winfred felled a great oak which had been an object of the worship to the Druids. A fine young fir tree immediately appeared in its place, on seeing which St. Winfred said: "This little tree, a young child of the forest, shall be your holy tree tonight. It is the wood of peace, for your houses are built of fir. It is the sign of an endless life, for its leaves are ever green. See how it points upward to heaven. Let it be called the tree of the Christ Child. Gather about it, not in the wildwood, but in your homes. There it will shelter no deeds of blood, but loving gifts."

Many Germans hold that Martin Luther first conceived the Christmas tree. One of the most popular of German engravings represents him sitting in the bosom of his family, with a lighted Christmas tree on the table before him. Luther was traveling alone one Christmas eve. The snow covered country and the trees gleaming at every point with the reflected light of the winter moon made upon the great reformer the deepest impression. Going home, he went into the garden and, cutting a little fir tree, brought it into the nursery, put some candles on its branches and lighted them to reproduce the effect of the beautiful moonlit trees in the forest.

Antiquarians connect the Christmas [illegible] were wont to decorate their houses at the time of the winter solstice with branches of the date palm, emblems of immortality and of the starlit firmament. In mediaeval times there was a tradition that holiness invested an illuminated tree. Candles were used by the Jews in their Feast of Lights, which was celebrated at this season. The Greeks also call Christmas the Feast of Lights.

The Romans in their saturnalia decorated trees with images of Roman gods as well as with candles and burned Yule logs in honor of these gods. The early Christians, however, frowned upon all such pagan adjuncts to the Christmas celebration. With them the Feast of the Nativity was the extreme of solemnity, and they were as much opposed to Christmas trees and lights, music and laughter, as were the Puritans.

The first authentic account of the Christmas tree is not recorded until the sixteenth century. It appears in a German manuscript, and, as the Germans responded least to Latin influences of all the nations which fell heir to the Roman empire's lands, to them rather than to the Romans must be ascribed the honor of introducing it. It was the marriage of Queen Victoria to a German prince which brought the modern Christmas tree to England, and a German immigrant started the custom in America. The first Christmas tree in France was lighted in the Tuileries in 1840 by the Duchess Helena.

To view the great heaps of Christmas trees which line the market streets of our big cities just before the holidays one would fancy that scarcely a tree could be left standing of the murmuring hemlocks which constituted Longfellow's forest primeval. Every hard timber state in the Union is called upon by Santa Claus for its tribute of redolent balsam that he may have plenty of places on which to hang his presents.

There is only one true Christmas tree—the balsam fir. The hemlock proper has branches too drooping and flexible to hold a great weight of Christmas gifts, and the spruce, while otherwise suitable, lacks the spicy odor of the balsam. This is fortunate, for the tree most prized for Christmas purposes is utterly despised by the lumbermen. Before the Christmas tree industry began the fir lands of Maine were actually exempted from taxation as worthless. Now they are worth from $10 to $15 an acre.

The Christmas tree cutters begin work early, usually about the middle of October. While some of the men are cutting others follow them and drag the trees to the nearest open space, here they are bunched and tied so t they will not come apart in ship- At the nearest depot they are on cars, 2,500 trees to the car. len receive $1.50 a day and It takes seven men working five weeks to get out three carloads.

The Christmas tree output depends a good deal on the weather. With an open fall, when the trees are easy to get at, the crop will be much larger than when the snow falls early and heavily. If the snow melts and then freezes on the branches it makes them brittle, and they break in transit

Japs Gained 203-Metre Hill at a Tremendous Sacrifice

HILLTOP IS NOT OCCUPIED

Plunging Fire From Behind Its Crest Played Havoc With Russian Squadron--Garrison May Hold Out a While Yet

St. Petersburg, Dec. 19.—General Stoessel's latest dispatches from Port Arthur are published, but, as given out, do not carry the story of the garrison's stubborn defense beyond Dec. 10, thus leaving a gap of at least five days between the official word of the military commander and the unofficial story of Commander Mizzeneneoff, which was given out at Chefoo. It is not pretended that the dispatches are published in full. They contain much that is of strategic interest and matter which it is obviously impossible to disclose to the public.

The story of the operations as far as it has been given out shows that there had been an almost uninterrupted assault of the most desperate character from Nov. 20 to Dec. 10, when the Japanese, after losing 22,000 men, captured 203-Metre hill and were able from that position to shell the squadron in the Port Arthur roadstead.

There the official account ends, but it is explained that the Japanese do not occupy the top of the hill, which is still exposed to a deadly fire from the Russian artillery. The Japanese are using a plunging fire from very heavy guns from behind the crest of the hill, but that this fire is efficiently directed is shown by the damage suffered by the Russian squadron. The Japanese are credited with using 11-inch and 16-inch mortars and howitzers.

The public reception of Stoessel's dispatches as a whole is not bad. Everyone is loud in praise of his defense of Port Arthur. The authorities assert that the main line of forts has not yet been broken. The Japanese so far have used every device of engineering skill in making approaches, but, with enormous sacrifices, have been able to take only the outer line of defenses. It is declared the garrison probably will be able to hold out a considerable time yet.

A matter of much speculation is why the orders to take out and sink the squadron in deep water were not carried out. The only explanation offered is that the crews and guns were drafted ashore and that at the last moment it was impossible to move the ships under the heavy Japanese fire.

Naval Officers Rebuked

St. Petersburg, Dec. 19.—Admiral Birileff, who has gone to Libau to superintend the completion and preparation of war vessels still in the Baltic sea, with a view to their dispatch, in case of necessity, to the far east, in a letter to the press has administered a rebuke to those naval officers who have been engaged in a controversy in the newspapers relative to the question whether Rojestvensky's squadron is strong enough to cope with the ships of Togo without reinforcements. Birileff expresses the affirmative opinion on this point, declaring that beyond question the Japanese ships have suf- Nevertheless he considers it to be absolutely vital to prepare a third squadron should it prove necessary to support or replace the second squadron. The admiral says every day's delay is a misdemeanor and every week's delay a crime. "It is the business of the naval officers, therefore," he remarks, "to lay aside their pens till the war is over and attend to business. There is no time now to try to locate the blame for the fact that Russia's navy was no better prepared.

"As a matter of fact," said Birileff, "We are not guilty. If our heads are still on our shoulders it is due to the forbearance of my long suffering emperor."

Japs Fell Into Moat of Fire

London, Dec. 19.—According to The Daily Telegraph's Chefoo messenger from the Japanese lines at Port Arthur, the Russians had prepared around the fort at Panlung a moat 600 yards long and 30 feet wide, which they filled with petrolenm to a depth of several inches, then covering it with wood and straw. In the course of an attack upon the fort the Japanese storming party sank into this moat, which the Russians fired with an electric fuse. The fierce conflagration lasted all night and day and hundreds of Japanese were burned to death, but the second night, the trench having dried up, the Japanese advanced in small detachments, protected by large wooden shields, and engaged in a savage bayonet fight. The Japanese, the report continues, captured the position and made prisoners of 152 Russians.

Japs Lose Two Torpedo Boats

Tokio, Dec. 19.—The Japanese have lost two torpedo boats during all the operations against the battleship Sevastopol, which is reported in advices from Port Arthur to be completely disabled.

Hard Times at the Front

Headquarters of the Japanese Second Army, Dec. 19.—There is a probability that there will be a shortage of fuel and food among the Chinese this winter. Firewood is quoted at $40 a ton and food is selling at three times its normal value, with the end of the supply in sight. The cold weather continues. The military situation is unchanged.

Russians Abandon Six Warships

Tokio, Dec. 19.—Official reports state that the Russians at Port Arthur have abandoned the battleships Peresviet, Poltava, Pobieda and Retvizan and the cruisers Pallada and Bayan.

Kuhn Will See Fortress Fall

Tokio, Dec. 19.—Major Kuhn, U. S. A., who was military attache with the Japanese Second army, has been reassigned to witness the fall of Port Arthur. Kuhn departed for Shinbashi yesterday.

Hay For the Far East

San Francisco, Dec. 19.—A secret order for several thousand tons of hay for export shipment has been placed with one of the leading feed firms of the city during the past few days and circumstances point to the Russian government as the purchaser.

FIFTY CENTS A MONTH

A small bottle of Scott's Emulsion costing fifty cents will last a baby a month—a few drops in its bottle each time it is fed. That's a small outlay for so large a return of health and comfort.

Babies that are given Scott's Emulsion quickly respond to its helpful action. It seems to contain just the elements of nourishment a baby needs most.

Ordinary food frequently lacks this nourishment; Scott's Emulsion always supplies it.

Imitations always cost less than the original, hence the substitutes for Scott's Emulsion can be sold for a few cents less. But you're not saving anything when you buy them. Cod liver oil has a market value and you get the pure oil in Scott's Emulsion. That's the difference.

WEAK AND NERVOUS

Mrs Chadwick's Counsel May Not Allow Her to Testify

Cleveland, Dec. 19.—The examination of Mrs. Chadwick in bankruptcy proceedings is set for today, but it is considered certain she will not testify, if she is present at the hearing. Her attorney, J. P. Dawley, says that he will request a continuance, as he has not yet had time to investigate the bankruptcy or any other phase of the case and that he will decline to allow Mrs. Chadwick to give any testimony.

Dr. Wall, the jail physician, says that Mrs. Chadwick is very weak and nervous, but is improving.

Mrs. Chadwick was arraigned in the United States district court Saturday afternoon, pleaded not guilty to every charge brought against her, declined to give bail, and was remanded to jail to await trial. President Beckwith and Cashier Spear of the Citizens' bank of Oberlin were arraigned at the same time and were allowed to depart after furnishing bonds, each to the amount of $25,000—an increase of $15,000 over the value of the bond they had previously given.

Mafia Leaders In Custody

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 19.—Two arrests have been made of alleged leaders of the Carbondale Mafia. One of them is John Costa of New York, who has been making monthly visits to the Italian colony and who is said to be the go-between for the New York headquarters and the Carbondale branch of the Mafia. He is charged with shooting Pasquale Cerretti, a member of the organization, who made threats to disclose its secrets after he had had a rupture with officers of the body. The other man arrested is Frank Mazurka, who is accused of levying tribute.

Republicans' Fight Against Adams

Denver, Dec. 19.—Alva Adams, Democratic candidate for governor in the last election, has lost 1182 of his plurality of 5275 in this county. His plurality in the state, however, still stands at about 10,000. By the supreme court's orders the Democrats lose three senators who were apparently elected in this city, and the Republicans gain control of both branches of the legislature, with a majority of 30 on joint ballot. They are planning to submit evidence of fraud and ask that body to declare Peabody elected.

Must Keep Pace With England

Seattle, Dec. 19.—As a result of the selection of Port Simpson as the terminal of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, it is stated that the United States government will without doubt construct a fortification opposite Port Simpson, just across the international boundary line. Port Simpson will be, it is said in army circles, a wonderfully strong strategic point for Great Britain and one that cannot be overlooked by this government.

Site Caused Terrible Death

Charlotte, N. C., Dec. 19.—Horace Hoffman died at his home near Morganton last night of hydrophobia. Hoffman and his brother both were bitten Nov. 8. They went to Baltimore and were three weeks at a hospital, returning home a few days ago. Yesterday the symptoms of rabies developed in the younger brother, and death in a violent form ensued. The elder brother as yet has manifested no signs of the disease.

Fire and Flood In Hospital

Middletown, N. Y., Dec. 19.—The Middletown state hospital narrowly escaped destruction by fire. The coolness of the attendants and the excellence of the fire drill averted a panic among the patients and the fire was got under control after three floors had been flooded with water. The damage was large.

Turks' Ready Excuse

Constantinople, Dec. 19.—The porte, in reply to notes from Austria and Prussia, says that it objects to the suggested increase in the number of foreign officers in the Macedonian gendarmerie, on the ground that it would disturb the native population.

Sacrificed Life For Dog

Waterbury, Conn., Dec. 19.—In trying to snatch his setter dog from in front of a passenger train, William Dalton, aged 18, was struck and killed by the locomotive. Dalton was a student in the Waterbury high school.

SCIENCE LECTURE.

Public Meeting at Braintree Addressed by Bliss Knapp, C. S. B.

Nearly five hundred people assembled in the Town hall, Braintree, Tuesday Dec. 13, to a lecture on "Christian Science" by Bliss Knapp, C. S. B. of Boston. The lecture was given under the auspices of First church of Christ, Scientist of Braintree. There were many people present from Quincy, Weymouth, Randolph and Holbrook and a few from Boston and Brockton.

The lecturer was introduced by Willis F. Gross, C. S. B., of Roxbury, Mass.

Mr. Knapp spoke in part as follows:

History records that the birth and final disappearance of Jesus was unique. He proved what Moses and the prophets had foreseen—that the source of life is resident in the one God and saviour of mankind. Moreover he taught his followers to understand the truth of his appearing; and he proved his divine origin through his words and works, to be the way of complete salvation from the false belief that life is mortal and material. To the watchful unprejudiced observer, the signs of healing that Christian Science has wrought, evidence this vital power,—this revelation of God to man—which thereby proves the existence of a sentient Being apart from the physical nature which reforms and eelvates the human sense of manhood.

Christian Scientists have a Bible, but let it be said that our Bible is the same old King James version that you all use, without any changes or additions. This same Bible familiar to you all, is the one that is exclusively used in all the churches of this denomination. The fundamental basis of Christian Science is best expressed in the first of the six tenets governing the Christian Science organization, and which reads as follows: "As adherents of Truth, we take the inspired Word of the Bible as our sufficient guide to eternal Life." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Rev. Mary Baker G. Eddy, page 497.)

It has been said in substance that the Bible is being subjected to a scholastic assault of unparalleled danger; and that a recovery of faith in the Bible, as the Word of God, is imperative to counteract such demoralization. This ground is well taken. But if there is any truth in the Bible sayings, it will stand, whether men stand with it or not. That which concerns us is to bring about this restoration of faith "once delivered to the saints." If there is no Christianity in the Bible, one can preach just as good a sermon from a fable as from the Bible. He who understands best the answer to such a question as, what is life? and can know in a measure the answer to Pilate's question. "What is truth?" has the least fear of a passing of the Bible. Jesus said: "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away." His words explain Life and Truth, but can a fable give life?

If adverse criticisms are mere evidence of a lack of that understanding, the truth of the inspired Scriptures is not lost but merely hid from these worldly "wise and prudent." This lack of spiritual understanding, is but a repetition of the materialism of past ages. When we cease to continue in this, we shall know that true Christianity is not doctrine but the demonstration of Life. What has been demonstrated in Truth, and what is, should be our schoolmaster.

Christians to-day should take a firm hold on the spiritual import of the Scriptures. We should strive in the spirit to feel and know the divine Presence: to get near to God; and to know Him as He is. It is absurd to suppose that we can accomplish this without some efforts on our part toward purification. We can scarcely afford to be so completely veiled by the supposed pleasures of the senses that the Truth irritates us. We believe these proofs of healing lend the only degree of certainty that one does understand God aright. Jesus gave it to John the Baptist as the only convincing proof of his Messiahship, when he said: "The blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached to them." (Matt. 11:5).

All human progress out of error is entirely due to a better sense and understanding of God, and there can be no exception to this rule. The Comforter, which Jesus called the "Spirit of Truth," must lead mankind into all Truth and Life. It is this that must open our minds to the understanding of the New Testament writings. This new dispensation has come, and Christian Science again proclaims the glad cry: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." John 8:32.

MRS. EDDY'S DISCOVERY.

Rev. Mary Baker G. Eddy has established a great religious movement whose growth is remarkable for the short period of its existence. She first discovered Christian Science in 1866. Since then, her single purpose has been to understand the inspired Word, that a return of primitive Christian healing might be established on earth. The results of her extended search of the Scriptures for a scientific explanation of Christian healing she put into writing, and this manuscript she first published in 1875. She gave as a title to this book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures." It is called a Key to the Scriptures, because it unlocks the hidden secrets of primitive Christian healing. The healing power of the Word pervades the pages of Science and Health, and the last chapter in the book contains authentic testimonials from those who have been healed by the mere reading of the book. These may be read and verified by any willing investigator.

To-day the world is flooded with misleading and demoralizing literature, which is debasing because it destroys the morals, and induces sin, disease, torture, crime and suicide. Mrs. Eddy's writings counteract that tide of evil in that they elevate the morals, destroy sin and sickness, and bring a spiritual uplifting that has destroyed in many an individual a suicidal intent, because its truth has renewed hope, and brought peace to the suffering heart.

Mrs. Eddy has shown us there is something in Christian Science that we need, because it is the Truth. Everybody wants the Truth when they know just what it really is, for it teaches us how to be well and happy, and how to do good by overcoming evil. The general wave of materialism that has swept the land, meets a strong rebuke from Christian healing. Only as we gain an understanding of Christian Science that heals the sick, do we challenge the belief in materialism. But not fearing to speak the truth, Mrs. Eddy has not deviated from the line of scientific Truth, to satisfy any popular custom or belief.

It is not in the sense of hero worship that my regard for Mrs. Eddy has intensified with a more intimate knowledge of her Christian life and work. But if we love her, it is in the sense of the Scripture: "For he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?" We should be grateful to anyone who can successfully make the Bible consistent with its promises.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE NOT WILL POWER

I have heard people, ignorant of the real nature of Christian Science, insist that it is through the exercise of the human will that the sick are healed, and that one must necessarily have a strong will to be a Christian Science practitioner. This is not true and it savors of the accusation that Jesus cast out devils through Beelzebub, the prince of the devils. It further indicates a greater misconception of God.

This will, as an unalloyed exhibition of force, is observable in a more marked degree in animals, where the animal instinct is to procure sufficient food for subsistance. It is a blind but stubborn effort to exist by manifesting itself as something, and frequently the only thing, and craving within itself lust after strength and pleasure. If by means of reason, humanity rises above the general level of these animal propensities, can a more refined and educated application of will power become more Christ-like? Good can never proceed from an evil basis for no stream can rise higher than its source. If the premises are evil, the conclusions must be evil; and the use of will power to heal the sick is the prayer of the unrighteous, which can only leave the patient in a worse condition than before, just as mesmerism and hypnotism do. They are the direct opposites of Christian Science.

When Jesus was struggling in Gethsemane, suffering the agony of persecution which depraved will placed upon him, his earthly sense of things sorely tempted him; and there he uttered the key note to the exercise of will. There, in that extreme moment, he cried out to the one Creator and Principle of all being and power, "Not my will, but Thine be done." (Luke 22:42.) Not human will, but God's will relieves suffering and pain. The carnal mind says, "My will be done." Christian Science says, "Not my will but Thine be done in earth as in heaven, for God is supreme." The spiritual sense of the Lord's Prayer is the true standard for healing the sick, and not will power.

Christian Science, therefore, is not supported by human will power. This human will, blind and stubborn, is not susceptible of scientific application, but is at the sport of circumstance. The theology of Christian Science, on the other hand, is the exercise of the divine mind over the human mind and body. In the language of Jesus, "I can of mine own self do nothing; because I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father." (John 5:30) It is the love in the heart that melts the stubborn will. It is the natural love in the little child that melts a father's heart. And it is the mother's affection for her child that points us to a greater Love,—even the goodness of God,—which is the scientific principle of Christian healing.

Christian Science is a return to primitive Christian healing, which reveals the power of the Word made manifest in the regeneration of the mind, which heals the flesh. If that human mind is completely purified of all disease and distress, there can be no expression of disease on the body. God has given to Christian Science that moral force of spiritual teaching and purification that does remove the suppositional mental cause of disease, and makes man free. A large majority of those who come to Christian Science for treatment, have been given up as beyond human aid. The lurking cause that physicians never reach with drugs can be reached by the finger of God; and when touched, its bubble bursts into nothingness, through fulfilling the law of man's relation to God. God becomes a loving Father, no longer a will-o-the-wisp dodging the answers to our prayers, for the beauty of holiness and health is the certain result.

CHRISTIANITY IS SCIENTIFIC

True Science is always a positive rule that lends itself to to no abuse, because its certainty can always be relied upon: and Christianity is the motive power to every good resolve. In mathematics, the rule of science is the mediator between the basic law and one who would come into an understanding of that law. To one whose unsuccessful attempts at the solution of a difficult problem have been suddenly rewarded by a correct analysis of the rule, that rule revealed the science which mediated between his false position, with nothing determinative in sight, and the truth which determines all things. Without the scientific rule of rightness, one can read and re-read statements of truth, just as people have read their Bible, without receiving a single scientific solution of the parables and proverbs.

Our text-book, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, explains the inspired word of the Bible scientifically, drawing the line carefully between Science and supposition or sentiment, so that reason is reconciled with revelation, and the sick and sinning are healed in response to its logic. This scientific consistency can alone guide the footsteps of thought into the Christian demonstration of Truth and Life. Even as Moses was led by a pillar of fire by night and by a cloud by day, so Science is our light to lead us in the "strait and narrow way" of salvation. It is "strait and narrow" only because Science cannot deviate from the scientific rightness or its principle—even God—and must always co-operate with true Christianity.

TRUE SCIENCE IS CHRISTIAN.

Works alone can determine one's Christianity. It is what one can do toward lifting another's burdens. Not to talk about it, but to do it: not to talk about everybody's pains and aches, but to show them the true way of salvation. If there are any sick among us they need our Christian aid. It is truly Christian to offer him a cup of cold water in Christ's name, but infinitely more just is it to teach him the way to health and holiness. If there are any poor amoung you, it is Christian to feed and clothe them and give them shelter; but far greater do you fulfil the law of Christ by healing the disease which compels the poverty. A large percentage of the cruelties of poverty are directly traceable to the crippled condition of the only wage earner for the family. It may be due to depraved appetite, or to a deceased body. Show him that this inhuman condition may be healed by the great Physician, and the necessity for alms is destroyed. New hope is given to the home; life has become worth living, and a new impetus is given to self-support. Christian Science does all this, and by these fruits we know it is Christian.

It is the power of the Spirit that heals the sick, and both Science and Christianity are requisite to keep the path. A ship must have a rudder, else the governor has no guide and yet the rudder alone is nothing without its being a part of the ship. Our ship of Christianity must be guided by a rudder of divine Science, to restrain zeal from outrunning the discretion of spiritual understanding, and to reach the port in safety. Though it may seem a very little thing, it is the secret of being on the right course.

The unfruitful prayer is too often the meaningless repetition of words. It might have a dozen errors of statement, and its effectiveness for good could only be in the ratio of its understanding. Then if it is neither correct nor understood, it is a mere fawning of hypocrisy. But first to know how to pray, and then to understand its meaning, is the mark of a true student of Christianity, whereby the inspired sense of the Scriptures becomes an open book to us as to the disciples of old, because Science and Health has unlocked its healing truth It is to know whereof we speak, and to be certain that we can speak correctly. Then we can speak with the authority of a Daniel, and disease and sin must shrink before us, for we speak not in our own name, but in the name of Jesus Christ and God the father.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Experiments carried on at the California Medical college show that the healthy human stomach is electrical in its action. Perhaps the time is coming when people may throw away pills and simply put in new batteries—Chicago Record-Herald.

☞ Bingham Brothers Company of 406 Pearl street New York City, makers of printers roller etc., are sending out 1905 calendars to the trade, which will be appreciated as the figures are large and plain. This firm was established in 1849 and is one of the oldest in the country.

☞ Colonel Capelle, the only man on the present staff of the Governor who has been there ever since John A. Andrew's day, is to remain under Governor Douglas. He has been chief of the office staff of the Adjutant General for so long a time that it would hardly seem official for another to assume his duties.—Lynn Item.

☞ All the indictments against ex-Mayor Ames of Minneapolis have been dismissed, and he is now a free man, with apparently no prospect of punishment, so far as the law is concerned, for any of his offenses. Yet we presume there is scarce any doubt in the minds of those who have followed the developments in his case from the beginning that he was guilty of gross [illegible] mayor of Min- [illegible] graft [illegible] ies of [illegible] tance [illegible] blunted [illegible] and official honor [illegible] ford Standard.

☞ Now there is a little light thrown upon the "why" of the selection of the railroad man from the interior to preside over the affairs of the navy department. The cabinet officers are something more than the executives of their respective departments, and their official designation does not always define exactly the part expected of them in the government or their defined duties circumscribe the field in which their influence is to be felt. Secretary Morton may be an efficient executive of the navy department, but he is an invaluable counsellor for the president in directing the course of the administration through what is one of the most momentous internal problems of the government, the right solution of which is destined to mark the way for the solution of the whole problem of the trust and monoply. And there is little doubt in the minds of anyone that the President was far-sighted enough to have this in mind when he called this railroad expert to the head of the navy department.—Haverhill Gazette.

Engagement of Woodward Teacher.

An engagement of much interest to Quincy people, especially Woodward graduates, is announced in San Francisco of Miss Ellen Constance Walker and Lieut. Harry Leonard Morse, both formerly of Boston. Lieut. Morse is stationed at the Presidio, and will leave for the Philippines, Feb. 1. Miss Walker was the teacher of French at Woodward Institute a few years ago. She was a very popular teacher and much loved by all her girls.

To the Lowest Bidders.

It is reported that Secretary Morton of the navy has approved the recommendation of the naval board on construction for the award of the contract for the construction of the armored cruisers Montana and North Carolina to the Newport News shipbuilding company at its bid of $3,575,000 for each vessel, and the contract for the construction of the battleship New Hampshire to the New York shipbuilding company at its bid of $3,748,000.

MUCH RED TAPE

In Obtaining a Burial Permit

An Appeal to Mayor Successful.

But it was a Trying Day for the Father.

Bernard Fritz had considerable difficulty on Sunday in obtaining a permit from the Board of Health to bury his infant child and it was only after he had made an appeal to Mayor Bryant that Dr. Dion, clerk of the board, concluded to issue one.

It seems that Mr. Fritz' child died four days ago and he employed the services of a Jewish undertaker from Boston.

Dr. Hunting attended the child during its illness but it was not until Sunday morning that Mr. Fritz obtained the physician's certificate.

Mr. Fritz's wife is quite ill and bordering on nervous prostration and it was desired to bury the body Sunday.

Dr. Dion was visited at his home but refused to issue the necessary permit for burial, because he did not have any blanks at home and as it was Sunday he would not go to City Hall after one.

Mr. Fritz then applied to the police department but they could do nothing.

Mayor Bryant was then appealed to and he quickly cut the red tape and telephoned Dr. Dion in regard to the matter.

This brought the clerk of the Board of Health to a different way of thinking and he informed Mr. Fritz he could have the permit by calling for it at 8 o'clock Sunday night. It is probable that Mr. Fritz will not let the matter drop but will carry it further.

At Grave of John Quincy.

A boulder monument, with a bronze tablet on its face, is being erected in the Hancock cemetery over the grave of John Quincy, by Hon. Charles Francis Adams. The location of the grave of Mr. Quincy was unknown until discovered by the City Engineer while making a survey and plan of the old cemetery. The boulder if from the Field & Wild quarry.

Sunday Snow Storm.

The heaviest snow fall of the season took place early Sunday morning, continuing until about 10 o'clock. About [illegible] inches of snow fell and it drifted [illegible]e. The man of the house found [illegible]siderable shoveling necessary. The [illegible]ctric cars were run on nearly schedule [illegible]e.

Schumann's Youth.

Schumann's father was a bookseller who gave his son all the assistance he could in the musical studies the boy adopted almost from infancy. At five young Schumann began the piano. At twelve he was writing operas.

Bullfighter's Suicide.

Obeying the instinct of self preservation, a toreador named Monterito at Montlucon, Spain, leaped over the barrier of the bull ring to escape a savage bull and at once cut his throat with a razor, as he knew he would be called a coward.

Weed Seeds.

Some weeds produce a surprising number of seeds. A single plant of purslane has been known to produce 388,800, the thistle 95,366 and the plantain 42,200 seeds in a single season.

A Long Distance Battle.

During the civil war a Parisian journal contained the astonishing news that "a decisive engagement is momentarily expected between the northern fleet drawn up on the Mississippi river and the southern fleet drawn up on the Amazon."

King of the Water Moon.

The "King of Water Moon" is the name given the largest gold nugget ever found in Australia. It was found in 1852 and weighed 223 pounds 4 ounces.

Glass Paving.

The Rue de la Republique, Lyons, France, is paved with glass. The blocks are eight inches square and so closely fitted that water cannot pass between the interstices.

A Cure For Ingrowing Nails.

It is easier to prevent than to cure ingrowing nails—cut them straight across instead of oval. When, however, a nail starts to grow in, soak the feet in water as hot as can be endured, loosen the cuticle, cut the nail on the sides and apply a little perchlorate of iron with a camel's hair brush. This hardens the flesh and renders it impenetrable to the new nail.

TRADE NOT WANTED

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

At this time of the year it would be a good thing for all the people who are about to buy Christmas presents, or anything else, for that matter, to make up their minds not to buy at any store where the occupant declines to shovel off the snow from the sidewalk in front of his windows. Let us all patronize the men who show some regard for the rights and convenience of the pedestrians who form our purchasing class.

For one, I refuse to go into a store where the snow is left a foot deep, uneven, icy, with apparently only a desire on the part of the storekeeper to save himself trouble, never mind who falls and breaks his bones. If a man is too stingy to pay some poor fellow for removing the snow, or too lazy to do it himself, he need not expect my custom.

It would be a good idea to form an association of those who have been known to express a like opinion.

One of Many.

Defiance of Rules.

An electric car from the Fore River works was held up for some time about 5 o'clock Saturday evening in front of Hotel Greenleaf because a young fellow about fifteen years of age, backed by a carload of shipyard employes, persisted in riding on the rear fender against the rules of the company. The conductor refused to start the car until the fellow got inside, but this he did not do until a police officer appeared on the scene. The men who uphold a boy in such defiance of rules, made for the safety of travel, are more to blame than the boy. Such boys will, however, sooner or later, bring up in the courts for more serious offences.

Birthday Party.

Master Harold C. Myers entertained a a number of his young school-mates at his home on Franklin street, Saturday. The occasion was his twelfth birthday. The hours were passed all too quickly in playing the various parlor games. Refreshments were served during the evening. Master Harold was the recipient of many pretty tokens.

New Principal.

Walter E. Serverance has resigned as principal of the Braintree High School and will go to New York. Mr. Severance was formerly sub-master at the Quincy High school. The new principal at Braintree will be Ernest Leon Collins for two years principal of the North Brookfield High school. He is a graduate of Bates college.

SALARY ORDERS.

They Will Claim Attention of City Council This Evening.

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held tonight. This is the last regular meeting of the Council of 1904, altbough it is probable that there will be adjournments.

Among the matters that will come up tonight are the orders increasing the number of permanent men of the Fire department; $1000 for Assessors plans; the order relative to salaries of Trustees of the Woodward fund; the orders increasing salaries of City Treasurer, City Clerk, City Auditor and Registrars of Voters.

There will also be a public hearing on the petition of the Electric Light Co. for a location of poles on Marlboro street.

New Type of Cruisers.

Among the bids opened at the navy department last week for new cruisers was an alternate bid, which proposes a new type of cruiser to be equipped with turbine engines, which was submitted by the Fore River shipbuilding company.

The designs were prepared by Admiral Bowles, former chief constructor of the navy.

Mr. Bowles it is understood, will make a strong effort to have the navy department consider the serviceableness of his design.

Christmas the Theme.

The fifth meeting of the Young People's Religious Union of the Wollaston Unitarian church was held in the vestry, Sunday evening. The subject was "Christmas," and the meeting was in charge of Miss Marjorie Fay Christmas carols were sung by Mrs. Page, and the story of the birth of Christ was read by Miss Persis Thompson. Miss Marion Hatch recited Longfellow's Christmas Bells and Mr. Ned Hall gave an interesting paper on the Origin of Christmas. The meeting was concluded with the story of "Tiny Tim" told by Miss Fay.

Sunday Alarm.

An alarm from Box 152 at 11.15 Sunday morning gave the central station apparatus a hard run to Norfolk Downs. The recall however sounded before the apparatus reached the street railway car barn. The fire proved to be a lace curtain in a house on Freeman street and was extinguished with but little loss.

CITY BREVITIES.

City Council this evening.

This is the third week of snow.

W. A. Bradford carries a full line of Welsbach burners and mantles.

The street railway had a large gang of snow shovelers at work all day Sunday.

The granite yards will shut down Saturday noon this week until New Years.

The torpedo boat destroyer Macdonough, built by the Fore River Co. is at Annapolis.

Albert J. Shackley of Barre, Vt., has been visiting relatives in this city the past week.

The Fore River Ship Building Co. have been letting quite a number of men go during the past week.

John Malcolm has purchased the house on Wollaston avenue, built and occupied several years by Henry Smith.

The snow ploughs were out early Sunday morning and the paths were all ploughed out by church time.

The Thayer Academy basket ball team won from the Mechanics Arts High team of Boston on Saturday, 25 to 14.

Thomas C. Hewson of Newcomb place has gone to Rangeley Lake, Maine, on a two weeks' gunning trip.

Albert Coffin, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Coffin of South street, is confined to the house, threatened with rheumatic fever.

The engagement is announced of Miss Helen Sibley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sibley of Wollaston, to Mr. F. H. Wright of Milton.

Miss Isabelle Bills of the treasurer's office at the Fore River Co., who has been confined to her home by illness is able to be out again.

A crowd of boys with their snow balls made it so unpleasant for the Santa Claus in front of the Quincy Fair Saturday that he had to retire.

John Robertson, after a three months business trip through California and other western states, returned to his home on Penn street last week.

T. Walter Good is confined to his home on Beacon street suffering with an injured foot, having been kicked by a horse while shoeing the animal.

Perfumes and candies are the leaders for Christmas at the pharmacy of C. C Hearn, but he has other goods which would be appreciated at Christmas.

There will be no local games in the Old Colony bowling league this week, as the Quincys will play at Weymouth and the Quincy Point team at East Weymouth.

The committee of members Hodenosaunee tribe of Red Men will hold another enjoyable whist party in I. O. O. F. hall, Wollaston, on Thursday evening. Twelve valuable souvenirs will be awarded.

One of the players of the Columbia A. C. team was injured in the basket ball game at West Quincy on Saturday evening and they had no substitute, so the game was forfeited to the St. Marys by the score of 6 to 3. The St. Marys Juniors won from the Oakfield A. C. team of Cambridge, 34 to 7.

Adams for Expansion.

George Alfred Townsend in his weekly letter to the Globe, notes that President John Quincy Adams was for expansion. He says:

Reading over John Quincy Adams' address before congress in 1836, and that before the corporation of Boston in 1831, upon the deaths of Madison and Monroe, I came upon two passages to trouble his anti-expansion descendants. He said:

"There is now nothing in the constitution of the United States to prohibit their extension to the two polar circles, from the straits of Hudson to the straits of Magellan."

Again: "With Jefferson's retirement the principle was definitely settled that in our intercourse with foreign nations reason, justice and commercial restrictions require liveoak hearts and iron or brazen mouths to speak."

TODAY'S COURT.

Eugene Connor was fined $3 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

Lewis M. Sellman, Ansel Kantola and William Knoke were fined $3 each for drunkenness at Quincy.

James Toomey and Daniel McKay were arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Cases continued until Dec. 27.

The continued cases of One Tui and Wong Tui, for assault on L. J. Smith at Quincy was heard. They were fined $10 each. Appealed.

William D. Steer was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued until Dec. 29.

—The agreement in the granite industry at Concord, N. H., will expire on the first of next May.

Quincy Policemen at the Targets.

Shooting for Mayor's Prizes.

Must Wait Until Finish for the Scores.

The members of the permanent police force commenced to shoot Saturday afternoon for the prizes offered by Mayor Bryant. The target was erected in the meadow in the rear of the police station on School street. The officers shot toward the police station so if any of the bullets went astray they would enter the bank or flatten themselves against the stone building.

Officer Cahill was referee, and each officer had a target sheet of his own. Chief Hayden supervised the shooting, but wisely perhaps kept inside the walls of the police station and contented himself with pecking round the corner of the window, so that he could dodge back when the bullets came.

It was impossible for all the officers to shoot Saturday afternoon but two-thirds of them did. The balance will shoot this week. Officer Johnson was the first to try and he managed to hit the target fifteen out of the eighteen times.

He was followed by Inspector Bradley and others so that there was a constant pop, pop, pop, all the afternoon.

Chief Hayden said it would not be fair to say anything about the shoot until it was all over, when he would give out the scores. From some of the officers, however, it was understood that out of the fifteen who shot Saturday that Inspector McKay, Officer Hanson and Officer Goodhue had the best scores.

CHRISTMAS CHILDREN.

Some Famous Men Who Were Born on Christ's Birthday.

Even were it not for its celebration as the birthday of the Saviour, Dec. 25 would rank as quite a notable date in the year for the number of eminent persons whose natal day it is. Curiously enough, however, we seldom think of the day as the beginning of the career of any one on earth other than He to whom custom has assigned it.

We know that historical events of all sorts—battles, sieges, and so forth—have occurred on Christmas, for articles almost without end dealing with this interesting side of the history of the day have been written, but of its biographical side little has been said, the more odd this because the fact that many notables have been born on the day cannot fail to prove of interest.

The biographical index of Christmas is comparatively long and includes such names as Sir Isaac Newton, William Collins, the lyric poet; P. S. Gilmore, the musician and bandmaster; Richard Porson, the greatest classical scholar England ever produced; Johann Jacob Reiske, the celebrated German orientalist; Clara Barton, Admiral S. C. Rohan and a number of others. Unhappy little shavers they must have been in their childhood with their birthday and their Christmas rejoicings all merged in one.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

CHRISTMAS IN WEST INDIES

How the Darkies of the Antilles Celebrate the Holiday.

Christmas in the West Indies is a very jovial, rollicking affair—at least in the estimation of the darkies. The great feature of the season is the series of masquerades or mystery plays enacted by strolling negro performers.

These are of two sorts. Representations of such Biblical stories as that of David and Goliath—when you may see the dramatis personae clad in such historically accurate garments as "bedtick" trousers and cretonne coats of flaming pattern—and those of a purely local character. Of these last is the mongoose play, which is peculiar to St. Kitts, and the object of which is to wage mimic war against the destructive pest which is the curse of the island. These strolling players are the chief feature of Christmas celebrations.

They are quite an imposing lot of men, with a good ear for music, and as you watch their antics you might easily imagine that, instead of being in a civilized British colony, you were back in the heart of Africa, assisting at some savage death dance or other heathen rite.

Christmas In Tibet.

Tibet, the home of the strangest and least known people on the face of the earth, is also the home of the strangest of Christmas customs. The feast of Queen Winter in Tibet corresponds with our own Christmas festival. The figure of this queen, or goddess, is painted blue and mounted on a camel, surrounded by a string of human skulls. The dance celebrated at this feast is called tsam, and the masked figures which take part in it would be comic if they were not so horrible. One represents a horned bull, another a deer, but this deer, peculiarly enough, has a horse's head, an ancient symbol among the Tibetans of the messenger of death. There are evil spirits in hordes, demons and other bad spirits to shock the ignorant people into blind obedience to the lamas. One god curses another, and every town has its local protecting divinity. There are serpent gods representing the spirit of evil, but they are fought by such protecting divinities as Garuda, who is always represented in lamaism with a stout body, human arms, wings and the head of a bird.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Christmas Cards.

The Christmas card as we know it has an origin easily traceable, and it is doubtless at least sixty years since the first was designed. The artist who claimed to be its originator and who was, at any rate, the first to see its possibilities was W. C. T. Dobson, R. A., who, when quite a young man, in 1844, was prompted at Christmas to make a little sketch symbolic of the season's joys and festivities and to send it to a friend. It seemed to give great pleasure, and the next year Mr. Dobson determined to follow up the idea on a larger scale, and by having his card photographed was enabled to send copies to twenty-five or thirty friends. The delight with which they were received was so great that Mr. Dobson was quick to perceive that he had found out a new pleasure for Christmas.—New York Mail and Express.

"Man Wants but Little"—

"Made known your wants for Christmas yet?"

"Sure. Asked the forty-seven friends who sent me suspenders last year to send trousers to match them this."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

The Dawn of Christmas.

Christmas day begins in the middle of the Pacific ocean, and there is where Santa Claus starts and ends his great and only journey of the year.

THE PLAYER'S CHRISTMAS.

[By Wilton Lackaye.]

In happier climes, for luckier men, while carols welcome day
And sleeping folk are roused by "waits" with Christmas roundelay,
For us a pounding porter, at the peaceful hour of three,
Raucous, bawling: "Git ep quick! The bus won't wait on 'troopers!' See?"

Oh, the frost is on the tree tops and the snow is in the dell!
But all the joys that poets sing and poet-asters rhyme
Are lost in wondering if the train will reach Podunk on time!

While children of the older growth their yonker's antics view
And in baby frolics sharing their lost fable faith renew,
While peace of home and mirth of fest are found on every hand,
We've the dank insult called dinner in a western one night stand.

While your Yule log's (or your anthracite's or gas stove's) cheery flame—
(If your local "habitation's" one that's worthy of the "name"),
If in mansion (or in "chambers" or congested flat) you dwell,
Makes all mankind feel the magic of the joyous Christmas spell,
While your table groans (or murmurs) with its (more or less) display,
The mummer's mixing grease paint for the Christmas matinee.

Oh, lords of hearts and dames of homes,
Whose joy of this time speaks,
In the ringing of your laughter, in the holly of your cheeks;
'Twixt the oysters and the coffee let a tearful toast be drunk
To the player's poor penates in the top tray of his trunk!

TEACHING OYAMA TO SHOOT

How an American Gave the Japanese General His First Lessons.

Horace Fletcher, an American expert on rifle shooting, tells as follows in the December World's Work how he gave Marquis Oyama, the Japanese general, his first lessons in snap shooting:

"Twenty-five years ago I was an experienced rifle shot and could hit a moving object every time. The 22 caliber rifle and machine made cartridge, which came into general use in the seventies, made extensive rifle practice possible. I wrote and published at the time a pamphlet on how to shoot with a rifle, entitled 'The A, B, C, of Snap Shooting,' which came to the attention of regular army officers attached to the department of the Pacific at San Francisco and was used for a manual by the regulars. It happened that copies of the pamphlet reached Japan, where I spent some time soon after. Japan had just begun to make a military organization on the most modern lines, and Marquis Oyama was minister of war. He invited me to visit him in his home at Tokyo and showed great interest in the method of learning to shoot at a moving object with a rifle. He had already seen the pamphlet.

"I had a number of American rifles and ample ammunition with me in Japan, and Marquis Oyama and the then Colonel Murata, inventor of the Japanese military rifle, joined me several afternoons at target practice. They entered enthusiastically into the spirit, Oyama in particular, showing the enthusiasm of a boy. I shall never forget his keen joy the first time he hit a moving object with a bullet. It was a teapot thrown in the air, I believe, and when it came down in dust and pieces he capered about and screamed in his delight like an excited schoolboy.

"After several afternoons at practice Marquis Oyama and Colonel Murata became nearly as skillful as I was. They could hit the center of the target 80 per cent of the times tried, and that was only 20 per cent less than my own average at that time. They were full of confidence that they could close the gap of difference between us in a few more afternoons of practice in spite of the fact that I told them 20 per cent of practice readily brought 80 per cent of skill, but that it required 800 per cent of habituation to acquire the last 10 per cent of absolute sureness.

"But the significant features of the practice on this and other occasions was that Marquis Oyama became firmly convinced that a surprisingly high percentage in hits is possible with strict attention to practice in snap shooting."

Miner's Cap His Bank For Years.

Michael Prevako, a well known character of Honey Brook, Pa., has for years worn a gray cap night and day until people grew to call it his lucky cap, says a special dispatch from Wilkesbarre, Pa., to the New York World. He never was without it working in the mines or going to church. The other day one of his fellow boarders, thinking to play a joke upon him, took the cap and went to work, leaving his own in its place. When Michael discovered the cap was missing he was frantic and made such an outcry that some one told him of the joke. Off he set for the colliery, seized the hat from the head of his friend, ripped open the lining and counted out fourteen fifty dollar bills. The money was all there, but now that his secret is out Michael has put it in a bank.

Trades Union of Dancers.

Ballet girls have gained a footing in trades unionism at Paris, says the London Telegraph's correspondent. In the Paris Labor Exchange the offices of the new Syndicate of Choregraphic Artists were solemnly installed a few days ago. A retired dancer, an elderly lady who still has a figure, has been appointed secretary and has entered upon her duties. Over sixty ballet girls have already joined the dancers' trades union. A member of the committee of the Labor Exchange says that arrangements are being made to place at the disposal of the new syndicate a room in the building, "wherein the adherents will be able to practice the graceful exercises of their profession," as the gallant trades unionist daintily puts it.

INDEPENDENT.

The Mails to Go Direct as Now Between Braintree and Boston.

How the Postmaster General Settled a Contest.

Postmaster General Wynne knows how to settle rural postmastership fights. Down in the Braintrees there was a merry tangle, threatening to involve the congressmen for that district, a United States senator, and possibly a governor. At the height of the contest the postmaster general reduces the offices of North Braintree, South Braintree and East Braintree to sub-stations of the Quincy office, and now the candidates will be obliged to take the civil service examination for letter carriers if they wish to work for Uncle Sam.—Boston Advertiser.

The Boston Globe prints a Braintree dispatch which said in part:

"While the people of Quincy are pleased that their office is elevated to the rank of a distributing point for a large area, Braintree citizens are not overpleased, to say the least, although there will be some advantageous return in the matter of free delivery twice a day.

"Heretofore the three offices in the town have given satisfaction and have had more direct communication with Boston than Quincy, as both North and South Braintree are railroad junctions, from which trains are run express to Boston at least once an hour and more often than that in the busy part of the day.

"As the proposed plans are understood here, the mail for Braintree will have to go to Quincy after Jan. 1, and be distributed by carriers. This will be true, undoubtedly, of East Braintree, which office is to be abolished. In its place will be a substation for the issuing of money orders and registered letters and the sale of stamps."

The Globe does not tell of anyone in Braintree who is not pleased. Perhaps it is the one who is expected to become postmaster.

The facts of the case are that the letter carriers will start from the offices at Braintree and South Braintree, and not from the Quincy office. Postmaster Hammond says that the mails between Boston and these two offices will go direct, both ways, as at present, as they do now between Boston and Wollaston and Boston and Atlantic.

In addition, Postmaster Hammond says, there will be direct mails between Quincy and Braintree and South Braintree.

The Braintree offices will be practically independent, and those who prefer to go to the offices for their mail will have the privilege if they wish. Or if they are expecting letters they can call at the office at any time, morning, noon or night.

Beethoven.

Beethoven liked to work either in the fields or in a beer garden. In summer time he always wrote in the open air, when the weather permitted, and generally with a glass of beer at his elbow.

The Flower of England.

In England in the fourteenth century the national flower was the broom, or plantagenista. It was not till the reign of Henry VI. that the national emblem came to be the rose.

Banana Varieties.

The Jamaica banana is the best. At least it is a finer looking fruit, although many people prefer the Canary island product on account of its more delicate flavor. The third variety comes from Costa Rica, for there are three varieties of banana.

Abigail Smith Chapter.

The December meeting of Abigail Smith chapter, D. R., was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. John J. Loud in Weymouth. At the close of the business session an interesting description of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, written by Miss Carrie Lowery, a member of the chapter, now residing in St. Louis, was read by Miss Cummings. Illustrations of the grounds and buildings were also contributed by Miss Lowery. Mr. Loud read an original paper upon food and fuel monopolies and gave a description of the parsonage of the North Church, Weymouth, in which Abigail (Smith) Adams, the wife of the President, was born. The chapter has contributed $25 for the musical tablet in the Boston Public Library and $25 to the Pond home for aged people.

Copper Mines In Ireland.

Copper mining once flourished in Ireland. The Ballymurtagh mine in Wicklow county averaged 6,000 tons of copper pyrite per annum between 1840 and 1843. Desultory prospecting is going on at the present day in several localities.

NEW MATERIALS.

Printed Panne Velvet Very Smart. Blouses of White Flannel.

Printed panne is a material which is often seen in the realm of blouses as well as for trimming purposes. As a matter of fact, panne is increasing in favor as the season advances, one of the newest developments having almost invisible stripes in two shades running through it.

Exquisite printed satins for evening [illegible] included among the new [illegible] consists of a flower pattern in several soft shades on white, cream or light colored ground.

Some of the new shirts and blouses of white cloth or flannel are piped with leather or suede in different colors and adorned with straps of the same. A very effective example is fastened down the front with little tabs piped with bronze leather and bronze buttons. The two small patch pockets on each side of the fronts have the same decoration.

Accordion plaiting is very much used on children's dresses this season. Many of the little party frocks are accordion plaited from the throat to the hem and have short puffed sleeves.

The hat illustrated is suitable for a girl of twelve. It has a plain brim of velvet and a high crown, the top of which is covered with drawn velvet, while soft puffings of glace silk very closely gathered encircle the crown. The silk should be chosen to match exactly the velvet, or the hat could be developed entirely in velvet, but in this case it would be rather heavy.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

IT IS FOR LADIES, TOO.

They Can Stop Their Hair Falling Out With Herpicide.

Ladies who have thin hair and whose hair is falling out, can prevent the hair falling out, and thicken the growth, with Newbro's "Herpicide." Besides, Herpicide is one of the most agreeable hair dressings there is. Herpicide kills the dandruff germ that eats the hair off at the root. After the germ is destroyed, the root will shoot up, and the hair grow long as ever. Even a sample will convince any lady that Newbro's Herpicide is an indispensable toilet requisite. It contains no oil or grease, it will not stain or dye. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Damage on Land and Sea In Southern New England

VINEYARD HAVEN A TRAP

Fifteen Coasters Ashore In Favorite Anchorage--Cape Cod Cut Off From Wire Service--Street Railways Crippled

Boston, Dec. 19.—A storm which nearly reached the proportions of a hurricane swept over southeastern New England yesterday. The snowfall, especially along the coast from New London to Cape Cod, was unusually heavy, while a wind velocity of 60 miles an hour was reported at Block Island. As usual, shipping and telegraph lines suffered severely, but no loss of life has been reported.

For the second time within the past six years Vineyard Haven, the favorite anchorage of coastwise shipping, proved a trap for the northeast gale, which, blowing directly into the harbor, tore 15 schooners from their moorings and sent them careening through a fleet that completely filled the basin and finally drove them ashore, fortunately on soft bottom. Collisions were, of course, frequent, and a number of schooners which managed to hang on to their anchor chains suffered.

Across the sound at Woods Hole a small schooner was driven ashore, but not damaged. Fifty miles further to the westward, at Fishers Island, three light barges were driven ashore, but so far as could be learned no one was lost.

News from Cape Cod, the scene of so many disasters, came by train last night for the first time since 1898. Every wire east and south of Wareham, Mass., was prostrated by the gale. Hundreds of poles were snapped off between Buzzards bay and Harwich. The wires from that point to Provincetown were in somewhat better shape, owing to the fact that the snow on that part of the cape turned to rain before the storm reached its height.

The storm must have been fearful south of Martha's Vineyard and on the route of trans-Atlantic liners between Nantucket lightship and New York.

That some of the larger of the coastwise fleet successfully weathered the gale in that vicinity was shown when the big seven-masted schooner Thomas W. Lawson came up Vineyard sound Sunday afternoon. The Lawson must [illegible] ne through the storm off Gay [illegible] nowfall reached nearly three [illegible] the southern New England [illegible] d street railway lines were badly crippled. Further inland the storm was not as severe, and in this city it was scarcely more than an ordinary winter disturbance.

It will be several days probably before the full ravages of the gale are learned, and then, it is feared, will come the tragedies.

Liners Were Buffetted

New York, Dec. 19.—The snowstorm and gale which struck the coast was the most violent that has occurred for several years. Reports from the New Jersey coast and from incoming steamers tell of furious gales and many disasters. Off the Bay Head (N. J.) lifesaving station the schooner Lizzie H. Brayton, Baltimore for Providence, went ashore. Steamers Umbria and St. Paul reported heavy weather and adverse gales during the whole passage. Steamer Astoria, bound for Glasgow, went ashore in the lower bay, but was later floated without injury and proceeded.

Nine Went Down With Glen Island

New York, Dec. 19.—The Starin transportation line sent tugs out to search for the ill-fated steamer Glen Island. The wreck was found with only the smokestack visible, sunk in 20 feet of water one mile east of Hempstead harbor. It is expected that divers will find the bodies of the seven members of the crew and two passengers who perished in the wreck.

Rockefeller Wins His Suit

Malone, N. Y., Dec. 19.—William Rockefeller was awarded a verdict of 18 cents damages against Oliver La Mora for alleged trespasses on the Rockefeller preserve. The case had been sent back from the appellate division twice for re-trial. The jury was out five minutes.

A Rising Young Politician

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 19.—It is announced that the next governor of the Yukon territory will be W. W. B. McInnes, member of the British Columbia legislature. McInnes will be the youngest governor in Canada. He has done yeoman service for the Liberal cause.

The Benedict Jewelry Theft

New York, Dec. 19.—In the arrest of Robert Baeckelein, clerk in the Hotel Stratford, the police think they have a possible clew to the disappearance from the hotel on Thanksgiving day of $30,000 worth of gems belonging to Mrs. F. H. Benedict.

Killed by Fall From Team

Hardwich, Mass., Dec. 19.—Fred L. Gray, 34, a teamster, fell from a load of grain to the ground, a distance of six feet, and was instantly killed, his neck being broken.

ADVERTISE IN THE QUINCY LEDGER.

THE SHUTA MYSTERY

Cold-Blooded and Deliberate Murder Is Suspected

Nashua, N. H., Dec. 19.—Medical Referee Greely, assisted by Drs. Smith and Shea, last night performed an autopsy on the body of John Shuta, the Pole who was found in Hudson woods with his head nearly blown off, apparently by a charge from a shotgun. The finding was not given out, but a report will be presented to County Solicitor Wason.

From evidence now in his hands the county solicitor is of the opinion that Shuta's death was the result of a cold-blooded and deliberate murder. The police have gleaned the information that Shuta started on the hunting trip with Joseph Bertig and his brother, Stanislas Bertig, at their invitation. The police have succeeded in tracing the two brothers as far as Lowell. It is not known whether the Bertigs went on to Boston, or whether they are at present in hiding in Lowell.

The Conception of God

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 19.—Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott of Brooklyn, in a sermon at Harvaid university last night, severely criticised the present day Christian conception of God. "I no longer believe in the first great cause," he said. "My God is a great and ever present force that is manifest in all the powers of man and in all the activities of nature. He is a creature of energy and is a unitary deity, not the polytheistic conception which has been hold for so many years. People are realizing that God's nature is not sealed within any book. Present day Christianity is a belief in a God that is revolutionary. It believes that God is an ever-existing, undying energy of the universe, that is ever working with a strong and consistent purpose for good."

Brown-Tail Pest Reaches Maine

Portland, Me., Dec. 19.—A bulletin from the Maine agricultural station at Orono states that within the past 10 days the station entomologist has found the nests of the brown-tail moth all the way from Kittery to Portland along the line of the railroad. The poisoning effects of the hairs are worse than ivy poisoning. If the pests become established their presence will tend to diminish the number of summer visitors to the state, destroy hardwood forests and threaten fruit industries.

Failed In His Studies

Boston, Dec. 19.—The body of Maurice L. Burnce, 24 years old, a student at the Boston university law school, was found in a room at the Hotel Rexford late last night. A bullet wound was in the right temple and a revolver was clenched in his right hand. Burnce lived with his parents and sisters in this city. He had expected to be graduated last June, but failed to pass the examinations. He left a note in which he said that he was discouraged and had resolved to end his life.

To Ward Off Tuberculosis

Burlington, Vt., Dec. 19.—A campaign of education for the prevention of tuberculosis will be begun this week by the state tuberculosis commission, which was appointed at the last session of the legislature. The commission will hold meetings in the principal towns in every county in the state, at which special information for the benefit of physicians and addresses explaining methods of preventing the disease will be given for the public.

Loss of $240,000 In Car Fire

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 19.—An investigation shows that the Adams Express company's loss by the burning of an express car at Webster Junction by the explosion of a lamp, totals to $240,000. The loss includes $204,000 in bank bills and coupon bonds in transit from New York to Boston and Worcester; $30,000 in merchandise, and at least $6000 in jewelry and other valuables.

Greeks In Stabbing Affray

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 19.—Three Greeks are in the hospital with serious razor wounds, and three others are badly cut, as the result of a general cutting affray at the rooms of Nicholas and Peter Lenardos last night. The Lenardos brothers are under arrest, charged with assault. Peter Mecus is the most seriously injured, being cut from cheekbone to throat.

Another Building For Fort

Burlington, Vt., Dec. 19.—The newest addition to Fort Ethan Allen in the line of buildings is the construction of a new administration building, for which bids have been advertised. The building will be erected at a cost of about $40,000. During the past two years over $600,000 has been expended for new buildings at this post.

Marine Guard's Fatal Fall

Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 19.—W. F. Bowen, private of the marine guard on the prison ship Southery at the navy yard, fell from the upper to lower deck, a distance of 25 feet, and was instantly killed. Bowen enlisted at Perry, Me., three years ago.

Dead at Age of 101

Westboro, Mass., Dec. 19.—Russell Bowman, in his 101st year, died here last night. He was a native of this town and in his younger days was known as an athlete. He was up about the house within a few hours of his death.

Fall of Six Feet Caused Death

Waterville, Me., Dec. 19.—Jerry Noonan, aged 35, of Boston, who was employed by the contractors for the Kennebec water district, fell a distance of six feet from the porch at the home of Frank Vigue and died from his injuries.

What It Costs

... AND ...

What It Pays

are two values of newspaper advertising that the merchant has to consider. But the most important thing is

WHAT IT PAYS.

The merchant can get space in papers of small circulation and little influence for a little less money than the same size space would cost in the DAILY LEDGER and the QUINCY PATRIOT.

DOES IT PAY

to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to LEDGER and PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in a cheaper paper?

Textile Council Trying to End Fall River Strike

UNIONS TO VOTE UPON IT

Proposition to Accept as Final Any Decision Made by Members of Executive Board of National Civic Federation

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 19.—A definite proposition for the settlement of the strike in the cotton mills which began 22 weeks ago when wages were reduced 12½ percent, and involved nearly 26,000 operatives, will be submitted to the individual unions for their approval tomorrow.

In case the unions act favorably, and the strike leaders anticipate such action, the National Civic Federation will be asked to name a board of arbitration.

Whether the manufacturers will accept the arbitration plan is not known. Mr. Borden, the president of the association, states that he does not know what action will be taken. The arbitration proposition was agreed upon by the Textile council at a three-hour session Sunday afternoon and the following was adopted:

"At a meeting of the Textile council held in Spinners' hall the following resolution was adopted, the same to be submitted to the Textile unions for their approval or otherwise:

"Whereas, believing in the justice of our cause, and always favoring the grand principles of fair arbitration, and; whereas, realizing that a continuance of the long and protracted struggle is detrimental to the best interests of our city; be it

"Resolved, that we submit the whole proposition to the members of our respective unions, it being identical with the one submitted to the executive council of the Cotton Manufacturers' association. All efforts having failed to effect a satisfactory settlement of the strike existing in our city, we agree to submit the whole subject matter in dispute to a board of arbitration to be chosen by the National Civic Federation from its executive board and agree to accept their decision as final."

The proposition will be submitted to the individual unions for a vote tomorrow and the union members alone will vote, they being the ones who declared the strike. A two-thirds vote of the unions is necessary to adopt the resolutions, and the labor leaders say that it is hardly probable that the members will refuse to accept the proposition.

The leaders take the stand that they are satisfied to submit the settlement of the strike to arbitration and that it will hurt the manufacturers materially if they refuse to accept the plan.

Press Muzzle Is Still On

Moscow, Dec. 19.—Chief Censor Sebereff has issued a warning to the editors of the local papers to insert nothing in their papers in connection with the doings of zemstvos and town councils. He has also reminded the editors that all the censorship laws, though recently dormant, are still in force and will be executed rigorously in the event of any infringement of his order.

Habert's Loyal Followers

Paris, Dec. 19.—The Nationalist leader, Marcel Hebert, whose five years' banishment for participation in a plot to overthrow the government expired at midnight Saturday night, was welcomed here yesterday by a crowd of several thousand. The demonstration was enthusiastic, but not disorderly. Habert has formally resumed direction of the league of patriots.

Insanity Plea Didn't Count

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 19.—After being out 16 hours the jury in the case of Frederick L. Mason, who has been on trial for two weeks for killing his father-in-law, David Wilson, at the latter's home near Amber, brought in a verdict of manslaughter in the first degree. Mason's defense was on the grounds of insanity, self-defense and no intent.

New Sergeant Dropped Dead

Ithaca, N. Y., Dec. 19.—John Clapp, former National league baseball player, was a sergeant of the city police department and had just assisted a patrolman in making an arrest when he was stricken with apoplexy and dropped dead. Clapp's predecessor as sergeant committed suicide last Friday night.

Diphtheria In Orphanage

St. John, Dec. 19.—Edna McDermott, aged 2½, died of diphtheria in the St. Vincent's Roman Catholic orphanage last night. It is hoped the spread of the disease among the children has been stopped. Of about 30 cases, a few are reported serious.

Infirmary Fire Killed a Patient

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 19.—The Ingo-Sundurant infirmary was destroyed by fire. Thirty-seven patients were removed before the fire drove the doctors and nurses from the building. One patient died during the removal.

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

The more Magazines there are, the more Indispensable is The Review of Reviews

"Indispensable." "The one magazine I feel I must take." "The world under a field-glass." "An education in public affairs and current literature."—these are some of the phrases one hears from noted people who read the Review of Reviews. The more magazines there are, the more necessary is the Review of Reviews, because it brings together the best that is in all the most important monthlies of the world. Such is the flood of periodical literature that nowadays people say that the only way to keep up with it is to read the Review of Reviews. Entirely over and above this review-section, as more original matter and illustrations than most magazines, and the most useful and important articles printed in any monthly.

The most useful section of all is Dr. Albert Shaw's illustrated "Progress of the World," where public events and issues are authoritatively and lucidly discussed. Every issue. Many a subscriber writes, "This department alone is worth the price of the magazine." The unique cartoon department, depicting current history in caricature, is another favorite. The Review of Reviews covers the five continents, and yet is American, first and foremost. Men in public life, the members of Congress, professional men, and the great captains of business who must keep "up with the times," intelligent men and women all over America, have decided that it is "indispensable."

Fire Quickly Spread In Infant Asylum at Providence

Providence, Dec. 19.—The St. Vincent de St. Paul infant asylum in this city, a four-story brick structure, was damaged by fire to the extent of about $20,000. By a display of the most consummate bravery by the sisters who conduct the asylum and by the firemen, police and volunteer lifesavers, every one of the 150 children in the home was rescued uninjured. Some of the rescuers were severely burned in their efforts. The children, as soon as they were taken out, were conveyed to other hospitals and to neighboring residences.

The fire originated in the kitchen from an unknown cause and rapidly communicated with the upper stories of the building, through a dumb waiter shaft, which extended to the roof. It was discovered by one of the nuns, who noticed smoke pouring from the shaft. The fire shortly afterward broke out into the third story, where a large number of children were lying ill abed. The sisters bent every effort to rescue and were successful.

Because of the peculiar construction of the building, it having a number of wings, the fire could not spread far beyond the portion first affected and did not burn the entire structure. The water damage, however, is considerable.

The asylum, which is a Catholic institution, was valued at about $50,000. Repairs will be started immediately.

Peculiar Attempt at Poisoning

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 19.—William Lutz, a commercial man of this town, received a small package through the mail. On opening it he found it to contain a plug of tobacco with the following note, unsigned: "Friend Will: Accept this little token as a Christmas present. Hoping you will enjoy it. With greetings." As he was about to use the plug Lutz happened to notice a carefully concealed slit in the side. He pried the tobacco open and found it filled with powder. An analysis showed that the plug contained 32 grains of arsenic and paris green.

A Revolutionary Demonstration

Moscow, Dec. 19.—This city was the scene of a revolutionary demonstration from noon yesterday till nearly evening. Probably 5000 persons actually participated. The agitators did not succeed in drawing the workingmen from the factories into the disturbance and, after many collisions, the police firing blank volleys and charging with their sabres, the crowds were finally dispersed. Many were wounded and many were arrested. As far as is known none of the rioters was actually killed. One policeman was fatally injured.

Was a Faithful Odd Fellow

Yonkers, N. Y., Dec. 19.—James P. Sanders, aged 83, was found asphyxiated by gas in his home here. He failed to entirely turn off the gas from a heater in his room before retiring. Sanders was grand sire of the Sovereign grand lodge of Odd Fellows of the United States. For 50 years he had not missed a session of the grand lodge. He was a lawyer by profession.

Senatorship Still In Doubt

New York, Dec. 19.—The New York state senatorship is still under discussion among leaders in New York city. Senator Platt has arrived from Washington and will try to arrange a meeting with Governor Odell, at which the question of the junior senatorship will come up. A number of state leaders will come to the city in the course of the week to meet Platt.

Fireman Scalded to Death

Chicago, Dec. 19.—Arthur Kerr was scalded to death and four fellow-workmen were seriously injured when a defective gasket on the boiler of the steamer Bethlehem blew off, allowing the steam and hot water to flood the engine room when the men were at work. Kerr was a fireman on the steamer.

Terminated In Triple Killing

Luxoria, Ark., Dec. 19.—As a result of an old feud between two farmers and two merchants living at Rosa, J. J. Warren and his son, H. H. Warren, both farmers, and Ed Bickerson, a merchant, lost their lives, and John Bickerson, brother of Ed Bickerson, is held on a charge of murder.

Street Tragedy In Tennessee

Nashville, Dec. 19.—Thomas Potter, a merchant at Woodbury, shot and instantly killed A. J. Smithson, an attorney, on the street last evening. The tragedy grew out of a sensational law suit in which Potter's testimony on the witness stand was adverse to Smithson's interest.

Diphtheria In Bowdoin College

Brunswick, Me., Dec. 19.—Two students who are ill with diphtheria have been quarantined in their room at Bowdoin college. The men are Paul Laidly of St. Louis and Frank K. Ryan of St. John.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Dr. Conrad Wesselhoeft, a homoeopathic physician of national reputation, died at his residence at Newton, Mass. He was born in Germany in 1834, came to the United States when he was a small boy and practised for 47 years.

Mrs. Mary A. Clark, mother of United States Senator Clark, died at her home in Los Angeles, Cal., aged 92.

Marcus D. Grover, general counsel of the Great Northern railway, died at St. Paul, aged 62. He drew up the articles of incorporation of the Northern Securities company which was designed to take over the control of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railways.

FORMIDABLE GUNS.

The Bombards Used by the Turks In the Fifteenth Century.

In 1478 Mohammed II., in forming the siege of Scutari, in Albania, employed fourteen heavy bombards, the lightest of which threw a stone shot of 370 pounds weight, two sent shots of 500 pounds, one of 750 pounds, two of 850 pounds, one of 1,200 pounds, five of 1,500 and one of the enormous weight of 1,640 pounds, enormous even in these days, for our 80 ton guns throw only a 1,700 pound projectile, our 100 ton throws one of 2,000 pounds, and the 110 ton throws an 1,800 pound shot with a high velocity.

The stone shot of Mohammed's guns varied between twenty and thirty-two inches in diameter, about the height of a dining table, 2,534 of them fired on this occasion weighing, according to a calculation of General Lefroy's, about 1,000 tons, and were cut out of the solid rock on the spot. Assuming twenty-four inches as the average diameter of the shot fired at the siege, the total area of the surface dressed was nearly 32,000 square feet. At this siege the weight of the powder fired is estimated by General Lefroy to have been 250 tons. At the siege of Rhodes in 1480 Mohammed caused sixteen basilisks or double cannon to be cast on the spot, throwing balls two to three feet in diameter.—Chambers' Journal.

WHEN A MAN STARVES.

How It Feels to Go Without Food For Seven Days.

For the first two days through which a strong and healthy man is doomed to exist upon nothing his sufferings are perhaps more acute than in the remaining stages; he feels an inordinate, unspeakable craving at the stomach night and day. The mind runs upon beef, bread and other substances, but still in a great measure the body retains its strength. On the third and fourth days, but especially on the fourth, this incessant craving gives place to a sinking and weakness of the stomach, accompanied by nausea.

On the fifth day his cheeks appear hollow and sunken, his body attenuated; his color is ashy pale and his eyes wild, glassy and cannibalistic.

The sixth day brings with it increased suffering, although the pangs of hunger are lost in an overpowering languor and sickness. The head becomes dizzy; the ghosts of well remembered dinners pass in hideous procession through the mind.

The seventh day comes, bringing increasing lassitude and further prostration of strength. The mind wanders.—Chicago Chronicle.

SOUND WAVES

The Method by Which Sound Waves Are Photographed

Sound travels in waves, having advancing motion produced in a tuning fork. Sound travels in waves, each corresponding with an oscillation in the fork, which remains in a state of continuous vibration while the note is sounded.

To photograph these sound waves a small mirror is attached to the end of one of the prongs. On this a powerful beam of light is projected by a lens, so as to strike it at an angle of forty-five degrees. The light is again reflected from its surface, but in a new direction, and a very slight alteration in the position of the mirror makes a large one in the reflected beam.

To take the photograph the light is turned upon the mirror in a darkened room, and the tuning fork is set in vibration, while a sensitive plate is rapidly passed in the path of the reflected pencil of light. On development the plate shows sound waves recorded as a wavy line, and each note has its characteristic curves.

The Mad Ambassador.

There was a tragic little scene immediately preceding the marriage of King Edward VII. when he was the Prince of Wales. With several of his royal relatives he was staying at the Prussian embassy in Rome, where his host was the German ambassador, Baron von Kanitz.

The responsibility of entertaining so many august personages under his roof was too much for the ambassador. He appeared at dinner one night in his dressing gown and slippers and to half the royalties of Europe exclaimed: "Is this to go on much longer? I am heartily sick of it, and it must come to an end at once."

They carried him to his room and the next day removed him to an asylum, a raving lunatic.

Rocking and Sleep.

Dr. Manacoine, the famous Russian authority on sleep phenomena, says that rocking is an artificial method of inducing slumber. The process fatigues consciousness by a series of monotonous sensations and incidentally deprives the brain of its blood supply. Absence of blood from the brain makes sleep. The influence of the lullaby is objectionable, but not equally so. A baby will go to sleep unaided when it needs sleep.

FOR THE BACHELOR.

Advice That May Help His Course of Love to Run Smooth.

Agree with the girl's father in politics and the mother in religion.

If you have a rival, keep an eye on him. If he is a widower, keep two eyes on him.

Don't put too much sweet stuff on paper. If you do you will hear it in after years when your wife has some especial purpose in inflicting upon you the severest punishment known to a married man.

Go home at a reasonable hour in the evening. Don't wait until a girl has to throw her whole soul into a yawn that she can't cover with both hands. A little thing like that might cause a coolness at the very beginning of the game.

If, on the occasion of your first call, the girl upon whom you have set your young affections looks like an iceberg and acts like a cold wave, take your leave early and stay away. Woman [illegible] hour of freeze is uncertain. [illegible] and hard to please.

[illegible] saving good [illegible] the way to the gate and [illegible] for [illegible] chitis, neuralg[illegible] to help you to worry the [illegible] has married. Don't lie about your financial condition. It is very annoying to a bride who has pictured a life of ease in her ancestral halls to learn too late that you expect her to ask a baldheaded old parent who has been uniformly kind to her to take you both in out of the cold.—Chicago Journal.

Woman's Life In Japan.

Advocates of the physical equality of women and men might find argument to support their theory among the Japanese. The girls and boys wrestle on equal terms, and the women are said to be as strong as the men—supple, "bounding with the vim of life and graceful in every line." The Japanese women seek abundance of air, drink pure water and go out in the sunshine the first thing in the morning. Consequently consumption is a rare disease. Instead of living in overheated rooms they merely add extra clothing to what they wear already. Women always have some time for recreation. Even the poorest woman goes to the bath at night and later on meets her friends. But all go to rest early.

Divorce and Occupations.

There has always been a lower percentage of divorces among men engaged in agricultural pursuits than in any other calling, not excepting the clergy. Soldiers, sailors and marines, in the other extreme, show the highest average of marriage infelicity. Next among the high averages come the hostlers, the actors, agricultural laborers, bartenders, servants and waiters, musicians and teachers of music, photographers, paper hangers, barbers, lumbermen, and so on, diminishing in ratio until the lowest average is reached, as before stated, among the farmers.—Baltimore American.

Japanese English.

At a recent exhibition of pictures in Tokyo, Japan, the following notice was posted: "No visitor who is mad or intoxicated is allowed to enter in, if any person found in shall be claimed to retire. No visitor is allowed to carry in with himself any parcel, umbrella, stick and the like kind, except his purse, and is strictly forbidden to take within himself dog or the same kind of beasts. Visitor is requested to take care of himself from thievly."

The Silver Tongued One.

"So that's the silver tongued orator, is it?" said the man in the rear seat. "Wonder why they call him that?"

"Because," replied the weary listener, "silence, which is golden, is so much more valuable than his oratory."—Cincinnati Tribune.

Mr. Bowser's Tonic

An Old Friend Sends Him Some Elderberry Wine—His Wife Is Skeptical and Warns Him Not to Drink It, but He Is Persistent.

[Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure.]

An hour before Mr. Bowser came up to dinner the other evening the expressman brought a gallon jug with his name written on the tag, and Mrs. Bowser took it in without even having the curiosity to smell of the contents. When he arrived he pulled a postal card from his pocket and said:

"My old schoolmate, Tom Barlum, living up the north part of the state, writes me that he has sent me down something for my annual rheumatism. Has anything arrived today?"

"A gallon jug," was the reply.

"That must be the stuff."

"Does he say what it is?"

"No, but I'm sure it's elderberry wine. There's enough so that you can have a glass or two."

"Thanks," she replied, "but I prefer to know what I'm drinking. It doesn't say elderberry wine on the tag, and if I were you I'd go a little slow. Even if it's elderberry wine I don't want any. It's the most sickish stuff I ever tasted."

"Um!" said Mr. Bowser as he lifted the jug to smell of the contents. "It's surely elderberry wine, and if you don't like it you can let it alone. It doesn't say wine on the tag, but Tom knew what I was hinting at and has sent it along. If he had marked it wine the expressman wouldn't have left a pint of it. Hand me a glass until I try it."

"I'd take it to the druggist or somebody and make sure."

"And I wouldn't. When I get to that pass that I can't tell elderberry wine from hard cider I'll call in the neighbors. Um, um! Say, that's the real old quill. It carries me right back to my boyhood days. I'll bet I have gathered a hundred bushels of elderberries for mother to make wine of. Yes, that goes right to the spot."

Mrs. Bowser said no more, and dinner was put on the table and eaten. Mr. Bowser drank a second glass with his dinner, and, though he screwed his mouth around as if the taste was not exactly to his liking, he made no remarks. When the meal had been finished and the sitting room reached he said:

"I must buy Tom a present of some kind and send it up. It was mighty good and thoughtful of him to remember me, and, do you know, I've got the greatest faith in it as a remedy."

"A remedy for what?" absently queried Mrs. Bowser.

"For what? That's a queer question to ask me. You know I've been a sufferer from rheumatism for the last twenty years. I believe if I should once get cured of it you would be mad and jealous."

"Nonsense. In the first place, you have only got neuralgia and very little of that, and in the next you are too ready to pick up with any sort of remedy. Our druggist will tell you that timothy hay boiled in sweet water has just as much virtue as elderberry wine."

"Then he's an infernal fool! If it isn't the best thing out, how is it that I feel better after taking only two glasses? Things have come to a pretty pass when you get jealous and show it in every word because my dear old friend Tom sends me down a little present. Mrs. Bowser, I wouldn't have your disposition for all the money in town. It's nag, nag, nag, and if you had some husbands they wouldn't stand it as I do."

"Well, I hope the wine will make you feel better," she answered as she turned to her book.

"Make me feel better. Of course it will. Those two glasses have driven out more'n forty different aches already. By the time the gallon is gone I shall feel like a four-year-old colt again. I think I'll try another glass."

He went down in the dining room and helped himself, and when he returned he lighted a cigar and took up the evening paper. At the end of ten minutes Mrs. Bowser noticed that he was hitching around as if he had something on his mind, and after two or three minutes he asked:

"You don't think Tom could have made any mistake about that jug, do you?"

"You said it was elderberry wine," [illegible]

"I said so because I believe so, but nevertheless the taste is a little queer. Perhaps he put too much sugar in it. I've had a cramp or two, but they came from the change of the weather, of course. My face doesn't look very red, does it?"

"Not so very, but I should say you were in pain. I can see perspiration on your forehead. I told you not to drink any of that stuff until you were sure what it was. It smelt more like horse liniment to me than elderberry wine."

Mr. Bowser got up and got his hat, and then descending into the basement he picked up the jug and started for the drug store. He was looking pale and perturbed when he entered the store, and the druggist asked if anything was the matter down at the house.

"No, nothing the matter down there," he replied, "but I wish you would tell me if this is elderberry wine? It was sent me by an old friend up the state, and I have begun to take it for my rheumatism."

"Then you have begun to be a fool!" was the blunt answer of the man of drugs. "Elderberry wine would have no more effect on such an ailment than so much coffee. Indeed it isn't half so good as buttermilk. So you have been swigging it down, have you?"

"Only three glasses."

"Well, you have made an ass of yourself, as usual. This stuff is some kind of horse or cow liniment and not elderberry wine at all. Why in the dickens did you begin on it before you were sure?"

"I—I dunno. Is it poisonous?"

"I couldn't say without an analysis, and you'd be dead before I had time to make it. There's sugar of lead here for sure and perhaps laudanum or opium, and your best plan is to get back home as soon as you can and send for"—

He was interrupted by the arrival of a telegraph boy who had called at the house and been sent to the store. Mr. Bowser trembled so that he could not tear open the envelope, and the druggist took the message and read it and said:

"It's from some one who signs himself Tom. He says he sent you the wrong jug by mistake, and this preparation is for external use when one has been poisoned by ivy. Get home, old man, and send for your family doctor and his stomach pump. I'll bet dollars to cents Mrs. Bowser advised you against drinking the stuff without being sure what it was. If your death occurs tonight I'll call around in the morning and offer my services. Have you got a lot up in Greenwood?"

Mr. Bowser didn't wait to answer. He flew home at a gait of twelve miles an hour, and as he burst open the front door and made his way down the hall he called out:

"Get to that telephone and get our doctor here without the loss of a minute or I'm a dead man!"

"Is it that elderberry wine?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"Never mind what it is, but tell the doctor it's a case of life or death!"

The doctor found his patient in a state of collapse. After tasting the contents of the jug he made up his mind that no great harm had been done, but it was an opportunity to point a moral, and he made the most of it. For two long hours Mr. Bowser was pumped and dosed and drugged, and when the doctor let up he was so weak that he would have to remain in bed for a couple of days to get his strength back. He was in humble and contrite mood as long as the danger lasted and he was being dosed, but no sooner had the man of medicine departed and Mrs. Bowser asked if he was feeling a wee bit better than he sat up in bed and pointed an accusing finger at her and exclaimed:

"The ninety-seventh attempt to assassinate me in the last fifteen years! Woman, I see it all! In your rage and jealousy you put rough on rats or some cockroach powder into the jug to end my days! Tomorrow, woman—tomorrow we will telephone our respective lawyers and—and"—

And Mrs. Bowser held the camphor bottle to his nose and smiled.

WEDDED TO A VASE.

Singular Marriage Ceremony That Was Witnessed In China.

One of the most extraordinary of Chinese customs to western minds is the not infrequent practice of marrying celebrated widows to native vases. An American traveler witnessed such a ceremony, which was performed with great pomp. The widow was of high station. When the news of her husband's death reached her she was inconsolable and wished to enter the state of widowhood, but her father demurred. Somebody suggested that another husband might be forthcoming, and, as may readily be surmised, at this stage of the proceedings the woman was in despair. A wise teacher of the Confucian philosophy was consulted, and he recalled to mind the ancient ceremony of marriage to a flower vase. It was a rite of great antiquity, legend attributing its origin to an empress who ruled before the Christian era. It was decided that the woman might "marry the red vase." It was necessary, however, to procure the imperial sanction. This the great wealth of her father obtained, and on May 1 the wedding was solemnized.

In the procession the vase was carried under a silken canopy on a palanquin borne by youths of noble birth, while the bride followed in another palanquin guarded by twelve maidens and twelve matrons. A military guard and a civic escort made up the parade. Her bridegroom, the vase, is a specimen of great value and antiquity; indeed it is said to excel in delicacy of ornamentation anything of its kind in the Flowery Kingdom.

Christmas Magazines.

The Christmas number of the New England Magazine is clothed in an attractive dress of red and green in the design of holly berries and leaves, forming a background for a reproduction of Carlo Dolci's charming painting, "St. Cecilia at the Organ." A cursory glance through its pages shows it to be lavishly illustrated, although its striking pictorial features merely re-enforce its strength of text and its literary excellence. An illustrated feature of much interest is an account of "Town Improvement in Billerica," by Alice F. Spalding. Grace Agnes Thompson contributes an appreciation of Franklin Pierce, our fourteenth and little known President, whose centenary occurred in November of this year, the text being embellished by some rare photographs.

The American Boy for Christmas will delight the boy's heart. It contains 79 illustrations to illustrate 91 different stories. As especially appropriate to the Christmas season are: "Father Lanuite's Prize," by Lillian V. Lambert; "Kersey," by Evelyn M. Wood Lovejoy; "Uncle Sam's Santa Claus" and "Distributing Christmas Presents in the Navy." Other leading articles are "The Pathway to Success," being an interview with ex-Senator T. W. Palmer of Detroit, and "A Message to American Boys," by Governor Montague of Virginia.

The December issue of Everybody's Magazine will certainly attract attention, not only because of the sensational interest of its instalment of Thomas W. Lawson's "Frenzied Finance," but through the distinction and excellence of its general contents and the beauty of its illustrations. Some of the best fiction writers before the public are represented within its covers. There are stories—and good ones too—by Booth Tarkington, O. Henry, Elizabeth Jordan, Lindsay Denison, Inez Haynes Gilmore, and Hall Caine.

The Glenwood Oak Stove
for either Coal or Wood

The Glenwood Oak Stove with triangular revolving grate is acknowledged the most perfect working coal stove ever made. This grate keeps the fire absolutely free from clinkers so that the fire need not be let out the entire winter.

The Mica Covered Openings in the lower feed door show the fire and give a most cheerful and pleasing effect.

The Swing Top may be turned to one side, allowing the large flat top beneath to be used for heating water, or other purposes when desired.

The Wood Grate may be used alone, or resting on the coal grate, which is a great convenience for people using both fuels.

It burns with economy either coal or wood.

City Council Disregards the Wishes of Mayor Bryant.

Will Continue to Pay Salaries to Officers of Woodward Fund.

Mayor's Veto of the Dance Hall License for Coliseum is also Overridden.

It was an off night for recommendations of Mayor Bryant at the meeting of the City Council Monday evening. Against his wishes and entreaties the Council voted to continue to pay salaries to officials of the Woodward fund; they passed over his veto the order relative to E. W. Baker's license at the Coliseum; they also refused to increase the salary of the City Auditor as he recommended. Additional appropriation were found necessary for several items of current expense.

Councilman Holmes was the only member of the City Council absent, although it was 10 o'clock before Councilman Thompson arrived.

CLERK PRO TEM.

Clerk of Council Spear was absent, being ill with a a severe cold. The first business, therefore, was the election of a clerk pro tem, and upon roll call George T. Magee was elected to that office.

JURORS DRAWN.

The Mayor, assisted by the City Clerk and Councilman Stone, drew the following traverse jurors: Dennis Reagan, Virgil W. Fuller, Edward L. Goodridge, Justin K. Hardwick and Jesse C. Hayden.

MORE FOR INTEREST.

The Mayor sent a communication from the City Treasurer stating that the appropriation for interest on city debt, on sewer debt and on water debt was exhausted, and recommended the following transfers: $186.36 from interest on temporary loans to interest of city debt; $567.50, from water receipts to water interest; and $650 from sewer receipts to sewer interest. Laid on the table until later when orders were offered. Referred to Finance Committee.

MORE FOR HORSE SHOEING.

The Mayor sent a communication from the Chief of Fire Department stating that the appropriation for horse shoeing and keeping had been cut in the budget from $3,360 to $2,500. The latter amount was not sufficient and he asked for an appropriation of $860 for that purpose. To Finance Committee.

MORE FOR PRINTING.

The City Clerk in a communication stated that owing to the Luce law the appropriation of $2,200 for advertising and printing would be insufficient. He asked for an additional appropriation of $80. Laid on the table until later when an order was offered transferring that amount from unexpended balances and unappropriated receipts. To Finance Committee.

SHIPYARD CONSTABLES.

The Mayor sent the following appointment of special constables to serve only on property of the Fore River Company: P. H. Holman, W. T. Trevillian, James Pease, T. Landregan, George Kiesweather, A. J. Osborne, Henry McLaughlin, G. T. Burns, Robert Johnson, A. L. Temple and T. J. McCormick. Confirmed.

NEW ASSESSOR.

The Mayor in a communication stated that James Thompson had resigned as assessor and at Mr. Thompson's request Julius Johnson had been appointed Assessor, to take effect Jan. 2. The Mayor also forwarded the communications that had passed between himself and Mayor-elect Thompson of a congratulatory nature. Placed on file.

SEWER TRANSFER.

The Mayor in a communication forwarded the correspondence that had passed between the executive and the Sewer Commissioners, the former requesting the latter to turn over the Sewer Department to the Commissioner of Public Works. These in effect were that the transfer would be made Feb. 6 after assessments were levied. Placed on file.

PUBLIC HEARING.

A public hearing was held on the petition of the Electric Light Co. for location of poles on Marlboro street. No one appeared for or against, and the hearing closed and order was recommitted.

PETITIONS.

Several petitions for minor licenses were received and referred.

The New England Telephone Co. petitioned for permission to attach wires to poles of the Electric Light Co. on Whitney road and North street. To Committee on Streets.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE.

The Committee on Licenses reported an order granting a license to Poland's hall for $15. Adopted.

The same committee reported adversely on several petitions for pool licenses, auctioneer's licenses and common victuallers. Accepted.

MORE FOR POLICE.

The Committee on Finance reported an order transfering $100 from enforcement of liquor law to miscellaneous police. Order adopted.

The Committee on Finance reported on the order refunding tax of $12.45 to J. W. Gillis. Ordered to a second reading.

NO INCREASES.

The Joint Committee on Finance and Ordinances reported ought not to pass, an order increasing salaries of Registrars of Voters. Accepted.

The joint Committee on Finance and Ordinances reported ought not to pass on the order increasing the salary of City Auditor to $1000. Accepted.

GRADE CROSSING.

The Committee on Streets reported favorable on the order granting William Cashman permission to cross Furnace avenue with a private railroad at grade.

The order took its second reading.

The rules were suspended after some discussion, and the order passed, Councilmen Stone, Nickerson and Polk voting in the negative.

The Committee on Streets reported on the order regulating the operating of the railroad of William Cashman. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported on the order concurring with the

WILL NOT STAND ALONE

Japan Would Have China's Aid Should New War Break Out

Boston, Dec. 20.—The American Board of Foreign Missions has made public a report from its oldest missionary in Japan, Rev. D. C. Greene, D. D., of Tokio, in which Dr. Greene states that there are now 1000 Chinese students in Tokio under the auspices of the Chinese government, of whom 500 are military cadets, or preparing to be such, while 1000 more are in Tokio independently of the government.

Dr. Greene further stated that if one should add to this fact that in several provinces of China there are military schools with Japanese instructors, "it is not difficult to see that, when peace is restored, Japan is not to stand alone in her purpose to prevent a new invasion of Manchuria on the part of Russia."

There is no evidence, according to Dr. Greene, that Japan is becoming exhausted. The rice harvest of this year is estimated to be worth 130,000,000 yen more than the average and it is the best for 20 years. Prices range high, but otherwise there is no sign of serious strain. Private enterprises, like electrical railways, are being pushed forward without serious loss of vigor. Government work is being restricted, but railway extension is still to go forward, though more slowly.

Mill Men Won't Arbitrate

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 20.—The unanimous opinion of manufacturers is that so far as they are concerned there will be no arbitration of the strike through the National Civic Federation. The situation here is that the manufacturers say they cannot pay more than they offered, while the unions say they must pay more. The manufacturers say they are paying more than their competitors. The union leaders say they are not. Manufacturers also say that in view of the poor state of trade it is a waste of time now to arbitrate when the mills are half full of help, and when the operatives who are working report regularly and express contentment with the situation.

An Assertion and a Denial

London, Dec. 20.—The American embassy is inquiring at Washington where Lawrence Innes, a bank clerk, is wanted on the charge of embezzlement. Innes, who has given himself up to the London police, says he absconded with money belonging to the National Exchange bank of Springfield, Mo.

Springfield, Mo., Dec. 20.—Cashier Sanford of the Springfield bank positively denies that Innes is short with the bank. Innes is said to be nervous and peculiar.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy Now Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots, need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root; and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

MISSING JEWELRY

Chadwick Receiver Has Not Located It as Yet

IN BANKRUPTCY COURT

Woman's Counsel Says It Would Be Inhuman to Make Her Appear--Doctors to Make Official Report on Her Condition

Cleveland, Dec. 20.—Four witnesses were heard yesterday in the bankruptcy proceedings against Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick, after which the hearing was continued until today, when Receiver Loeser hopes to have the woman present. Mrs. Chadwick's appearance will depend on a report to Referee in Bankruptcy Remington as to her physical condition, her counsel stating in court that she was ill, and it being agreed that several physicians should make an examination.

But little information was secured as to Mrs. Chadwick's jewelry that creditors think she has, or of a missing trunk and valise the receiver wishes to find. The examination of two of the witnesses, Emil Hoover, Mrs. Chadwick's son, and Freda Swanstorm, her maid, centered about these articles. From several admissions made Receiver Loeser will, however, continue his inquiry with the hope of locating the property.

At the afternoon session of court, Benjamin G. Malzimer, manager of a Cleveland fur company, told of furs and rugs valued at $2000, which were held for Mrs. Chadwick. The proprietor of the same concern denied, in answer to a question, that Mrs. Chadwick had purchased a $1600 fur-lined coat.

When Attorney Crossman, counsel for the creditors, was through questioning the witnesses, he and Attorney Dawley had an informal conference concerning Mrs. Chadwick's appearance before the referee. Grossman insisted that Mrs. Chadwick should be brought into court as soon as possible, saying that he understood she was able to be present.

Attorney Dawley, addressing the court, questioned the right to subpoena Mrs. Chadwick and have her testify. "To bring her into court in her present condition would be nothing short of inhumanity," he declared. "Furthermore, Mrs. Chadwick is under no obligations to testify anywhere. Nothing can unseal her lips and if Mrs. Chadwick were to come here and make a statement, she would have to discharge me as her attorney before I would consent."

Mr. Grossman said he did not want to cause Mrs. Chadwick any unnecessary embarrassment, but he had been advised by physicians she was in condition to testify.

Referee Remington then suggested that the physicians visit Mrs. Chadwick today and he will announce his decision concerning her appearance before court. Dr. Wall, the jail physician, said that Mrs. Chadwick was in better condition than she has been for several days.

Chadwick Homeward Bound

New York, Dec. 20.—A special cable dispatch to The World from Paris says that Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick and his daughter, Miss Mary Chadwick, have sailed from Dover, Eng., for New York, as second-class passengers on the steamer Pretoria.

Suicide Followed Sickness

Melrose, Mass., Dec. 19.—Herman Dexter committed suicide last night by cutting his throat. He was operated upon for appendicitis two years ago and has never fully recovered his health. He visited a Boston physician yesterday and it is believed he was despondent over the result of the interview.

Abandoned Schooner at Sea

Philadelphia, Dec. 20.—Steamer Lucia, from Trieste, arrived here last night with Captain Aiery, his wife and the crew of the British schooner Stewiacke, 10 all told, which was abandoned about 300 miles from St. Michaels Dec. 12. The Stewiacke left Cadiz with a cargo of salt for Yarmouth, N. S. The schooner sprung aleak. Signals of distress were hoisted and responded to by the Lucia.

To Furnish Their Own Reports

Dallas, Dec. 20.—Ginners from all of the cotton-growing states west of the Mississippi river met here and organized the National Cotton Ginners' Association of the United States for the purpose of gathering accurate information concerning the amount of cotton produced and the condition of the crop to furnish it to the members in advance of the government report.

Morgan Buys Ancient Piano

Joplin, Mo., Dec. 20.—J. P. Morgan has purchased what is said to be the oldest piano in the world from Rudolf Vivoli of Firensola, Italy, who is now in Joplin, for $6000. The instrument was exhibited at the Louisiana Purchase exposition by Vivoli. It was built in 1708 by Rossini, a famous musician.

Justice Killed by Cousin

Chattanooga, Dec. 20.—Justice of Peace John Ford was shot and killed by his cousin, Samuel Ethridge, on the main street here. The killing was the outcome of an old family feud. Ethridge was captured and turned over to the police.

Kekwan Fort Is Captured After a Fierce Struggle

SHAFTS UNDER PARAPET

Simultaneous Explosion of Two Tons of Dynamite Wrecked Interior of Fort--Parapet Finally Taken Despite Mischance

London, Dec. 20.—According to special correspondents with the Japanese army, the capture of the Kekwan fort on Sunday afternoon was a complete surprise to the Russian garrison, there having been no preparatory bombardment.

Japanese sappers drove shafts 40 feet under the parapet of the fort from the escarpment and moat. In these two tons of dynamite were exploded simultaneously, completely wrecking the interior of the fort, while siege and shrapnel guns shelled Russian troops in the vicinity. This occurred at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

A detachment of Japanese infantry made a headlong, but premature, rush, and 60 of them became buried under a mass of debris, greatly delaying the attack. Despite this mischance, another volunteer force dashed forward and captured the parapet.

In the meantime the Russians had been strongly reinforced, and a fierce hand-to-hand struggle with bayonets and grenades was continued till near midnight, when the few Russian survivors retreated to the city and the fort was captured. Its construction displays the utmost scientific knowledge.

With Nogi's capture of Kekwan fort the fatal breaching of Port Arthur's defenses may have begun. The work is one of a series of semi-enclosed works which are commanded from the rear, or Port Arthur side, by heavy enclosed forts. The breach will, of course, aid in mining work of the Japanese, if the protecting fire does not drive them out of ruined work, and may furnish later a valuable entrance for assault against the nearby works. Possibly the best opening it will give will be for the use of dynamite grenades against the adjoining works.

Russian Demonstrations Continue

St. Petersburg, Dec. 20.—The czar's fete day passed without any untoward demonstration in St. Petersburg. The feature of a Moscow demonstration was the distribution of a violent proclamation, describing the whole country as being in a state of mourning and tears for the sacrifice of life in the far east for the aggrandizement of the Romanoff, picturing the government as driving the people to starvation, and calling upon workingmen to enter ceaselessly upon a war for overthrowing the tyrants. Other demonstrations are reported from various localities.

Russia to Have New Navy

Rome, Dec. 20.—A Russian naval commission is visiting Italian shipyards, studying the best types of ships to be found here and the speediest methods of construction. The members of the commission assert that Russia intends to rebuild her entire navy, beginning with 30 battleships and cruisers and 200 torpedo boats, the total cost being estimated at $200,000,000.

Warships Off Cape Colony

Cape Town, Dec. 20.—Sixteen vessels, presumably of the Russian Baltic squadron, have been sighted 25 miles out, steering south. It is supposed they will call at Dalagoa bay, where colliers have already arrived.

Fraud and Bribery Charged

Boston, Dec. 20.—While Mr. Borden, minister of militia and defense of the Dominion of Canada, was seated at the dining table in the Hotel Victoria, papers were served on him notifying him of a contest for the seats in the Canadian parliament of the 10 Liberal members from Nova Scotia. The papers allege fraud and bribery.

No Bodies In Glen Island Hull

New York, Dec. 20.—Not a single body was found by the divers who searched the sunken hull of steamer Glen Island, which was burned in Long Island sound. The divers believe that the nine bodies have either washed overboard or else were wholly consumed by the flames which destroyed the steamboat.

Lost In Bay of Fundy

Digby, N. S., Dec. 20.—The British schooner Mariner was totally destroyed at Trout Cove, an inlet of the Bay of Fundy. The crew was saved with difficulty. The schooner, which was coal-laden and deep in the water, caught the full blast of the gale just after she entered the bay. She was bound from Sydney for this port.

Fraud Is Alleged

Santa Fe, N. M., Dec. 20.—Judge Mofie has appointed Ernest A. Johnston receiver of the American Consolidated Copper company on the petition of the New York stockholders, who allege mismanagement and fraud. The company owns valuable mining properties in the Lordsburg district.

Not a Very Big Vote

Colon, Dec. 20.—At the municipal elections here, out of a total of 500 registered votes the government (Constitutional party) polled 220 and the opposition (Liberals) 28. The elections were orderly.

THINGS THEATRICAL.

Richard Mansfield lives in his private car while on tour. He thus saves hotel expenses.

Joseph Edmonston, manager of Robert Fitzsimmons, has accepted a new play for his star by a well known playwright. The coming drama will bear the title of "Fighting Bob."

James K. Hackett keeps in constant touch with his company playing "The Secret of Polichinelle" and usually has a daily talk with the business manager over the long distance telephone.

A high class black face minstrel show, with its comical songs, old time darky melodies, its humorous sayings and witty repartee, is what George Primrose and his big minstrel company will present.

William Butler Yeats sent over a member of his own company at the Irish National theater of Dublin to become a member of Miss Margaret Wycherly's company presenting his plays at Chickering hall, Boston.

The report that John Hare is to leave the stage is unfounded. He made a pleasant speech of farewell at the end of an engagement in Birmingham, England, and somehow it was construed as a leave taking of the stage.

One of the clever impersonations in George Ade's quaint comedy, "The County Chairman," is that of the heroine, Lucy Rigby, the daughter of the village autocrat, played by that charming young actress, Frances Ring.

TRADE AND INDUSTRY.

Glass houses of a very substantial kind can be built now. Silesian glassmakers are turning out glass bricks for all sorts of building purposes.

At a recent conference of the trade in Leicester, England, the president of the Institute of Carriage Builders said that practically the whole of the wheel making industry of Europe had been captured by America.

A vast body of pure white clay has been found four miles east of Boulder, Colo., which makes excellent porcelain. A local clay company will utilize the product in the manufacture of white, cream and granite bricks.

Swiss watchmakers have now added a phonograph to some of their wonderful watches. A small rubber disk is put in the watch and arranged in such a way that the record is repeated every hour. Anything can be put on the record that the owner wishes.

CITY AND STATE.

Rutland, Vt., has a population of 15,000 or more and is the only city of any size in the United States without a theater.

Hitherto San Francisco has prohibited the erection of buildings to a height greater than 201 feet. Now an ordinance has been passed permitting a height of 221 feet.

A strong reaction in temperance sentiment in Vermont has taken place. It will manifest itself in the legislature. Forty-four towns which last year voted in favor of license this year voted no license.

A student of the population of the anthracite region of Pennsylvania reports that there are 630,000 people inhabiting that section, of whom 430,000 are foreign born. Of this latter number over 50,000 cannot read or write.

THRONE LIGHTS.

The sultan of Turkey has seventy-one titles.

King Frederick Augustus of Saxony, on his ascension to the throne, proclaimed an amnesty for all minor offenses except that of cruelty to animals.

It is said that the emperor of Austria has had more hard luck during his fifty-six years' reign than any other monarch. He has lost every battle he has fought, his wife was assassinated, and his oldest son committed suicide.

The insignia of the Order of the Garter belonging to the late Duke of Cambridge, which was sold to Mr. Marx, a jeweler of Homburg, for £1,100, has been resold by him to the German emperor for £1,300 and is to be added to the Prussian crown jewels.

GOWN GOSSIP.

White chiffon velvet makes ideal wedding dresses.

A pretty wreath for the hair is made of light green grape leaves, with miniature bunches of white grapes.

Changeable effects are found in every material, from velvet to chiffon, and have even invaded the cloths for tailor made costumes.

New leather belts show the influence of tucks and shirring, for the soft leathers and suedes are puckered in tiny folds in just the appearance of shirring.

A pretty and sensible fashion of the winter will be the trimming of walking suits with fur. Ermine will be used as a lining, and revers and cuffs will be bordered with mink or other short haired skins.—New York Tribune.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

Wesley hospital, Chicago, has expended $11,656 for free work in the last year. Of this amount the Methodist churches contributed $8,562.

Grace Methodist church, New York, is in the midst of an energetic and systematic canvass of its entire parish, the primary object being to secure 1,000 new scholars before Dec. 25.

Rev. Dr. McComb, professor of theology in Queens university, Kingston, Ont., has forsworn Presbyterianism and joined the Anglican church. He will take a charge in the United States. He resigned from the university last May.

THE AMERICAN REVIEW OF REVIEWS MONTHLY

The more Magazines there are, the more Indispensable is The Review of Reviews

"Indispensable." "The one magazine I feel I must take." "The world under a field-glass." "An education in public affairs and current literature."—these are some of the phrases one hears from noted people who read the Review of Reviews. The more magazines there are, the more necessary is the Review of Reviews, because it brings together the best that is in all the most important monthlies of the world. Such is the flood of periodical literature that nowadays people say that the only way to keep up with it is to read the Review of Reviews. Entirely over and above this reviewing section, it has more original matter and illustrations than most magazines, and the most timely and important articles printed in any monthly.

Probably the most useful section of all is Dr. Albert Shaw's illustrated "Progress of the World," where public events and issues are authoritatively and lucidly explained in every issue. Many a subscriber writes, "This department alone is worth more than the price of the magazine." The unique cartoon department, depicting current history in caricature, is another favorite. The Review of Reviews covers five continents, and yet is American, first and foremost.

Men in public life, the members of Congress, professional men, and the great captains of industry who must keep "up with the times," intelligent men and women all over America, have decided that it is "indispensable."

"A FLASH—THE END"

Nan Patterson's Story of Tragedy In a Cab

DENIES SHOOTING YOUNG

Declares That She Never Saw Revolver Which Ended Bookmaker's Life--Relates Conversation on the Fatal Day

New York, Dec. 20.—"Did you or did you not shoot 'Caesar' Young, Nan?" said Lawyer Levy to Miss Nan Patterson yesterday.

"I did not," replied the witness in a firm voice. "I would give my own life to bring him back if it were in my power. I never saw the revolver with which he was shot. There was a flash and then the end."

In a voice quivering with emotion, but filled with dramatic intensity, Miss Patterson, who is on trial charged with the murder of Young, the bookmaker, recited to the jury the scenes in her life which had to do with her dealings with Young. Not only did Miss Patterson swear that she did not kill Young, but she denied every allegation in the case which the state has brought against her. She denied that she was dismayed because Young was about to leave her and go to Europe, after having been told by him, as has been alleged, that all was over between them.

On the other hand, she testified that as a result of her conference with Young, it was agreed that she should join him in England and take apartments in the Hotel Cecil, London, taking care that she keep her whereabouts a complete secret from Mrs. Young and Young's relatives. An important feature brought out was the fact that Young gave the woman a postal card on which he wrote her name and address, saying it was something she might need.

The crowded courtroom became suddenly still when the former show girl took the stand. The first of her testimony, relating to herself, was given in a low, even voice, but as she proceeded her tones became more tense until, in her account of the fatal cab ride, her voice was filled with tragic expression.

Early in her story, Miss Patterson told of her original meeting with Young, of their life together and of their contemplated European trip. She told of her talk with Young the night before his proposed departure for Southampton; of her being awakened by a telephonic message from him to go to the pier to see him off, of the ride down town, of the moments in a saloon and of the ride in the cab before the shooting.

She was asked to describe what happened after leaving the saloon, while driving down West Broadway.

"We talked about his going away and he kept questioning me about my coming to meet him," she said. "I didn't say anything, and finally he said, 'But I don't feel positive that you are going to come over.' He said: 'I believe that you are fooling; are you?'

"Then he said: 'Are you going?' I said: 'Well Caesar, there's no use saying I will, because I've made up my mind not to, but you go over there and get things quieted down until the folks have forgotten about things. I will meet you at the Saratoga meeting.'

"He looked at me awhile, and said: 'Do you mean that?' and then grabbed me by my hand nearest to him and pulled me over toward him. He hurt me so that I tried to pull away, but I could not get away from him. I put my other hand up and he grabbed me—somehow or other I got away from him. I told him that he hurt me.

"He said: 'If you don't come over there and I have to wait until the Saratoga meeting I may never see you again. My horses have gone back on me. I've lost all that money. Now I'm losing my little girl; do you mean that?'

"He grabbed me and hurt me so badly that the tears came to my eyes. I tried to struggle away from him again, and had to bend way over.

"There was a flash—then the end."

"You heard a report?" her lawyer asked.

"Yes."

"Was the pistol in Young's hands?"

"I had not seen the pistol. Mr. Young fell over my lap, got half way up, fell again, and I thought he was having a spasm. He kept twitching and twitching. I called to him and tried to make him answer, but he wouldn't. I believe I put my hand up and told the cabman to drive to the druggist. I don't know whether I did. That was my idea, and it seemed—oh—ages before I could get anyone to pay any attention to me and help me.

"A policeman got into the cab and I felt so relieved. I knew he would take care of Mr. Young. I seemed to be dazed in my memory after that."

"Nan, look at me. Did you shoot Caesar Young?" asked Mr. Levy.

"Mr Levy, I didn't have any pistol to shoot Mr. Young with, and if I had—" said the witness in trembling tones.

Assistant District Attorney Rand objected to further answer and was sustained.

"Did you or did you not shoot Caesar Young, Nan?"

"I did not. I would give my own life to bring him back if it were in my power," she answered.

Miss Patterson, her eyes red with weeping, took her chair on the stand composedly. She was evidently nervous, but her self-control, which has ever characterized her movements, did not desert her at this trying hour. She gave her name as Nan Randolph Patterson, aged 23, and said she was married in 1898 to Leon James Martin, from whom she has since been divorced. She said she first met Young in the summer of 1903, while she was on the way to California, as a member of a theatrical company, and that their friendship soon ripened into love. She told in detail of her many meetings with Young in various parts of the country and of the trips she took with him.

This ended the direct examination and court adjourned until today, when Mr. Rand will commence the cross-examination.

Not Relieved by Bankruptcy

Washington, Dec. 20.—The supreme court of the United States held that an obligation to pay alimony and allowance to a wife and children is not in the nature of an ordinary debt and, therefore, cannot be discharged in bankruptcy. Mrs. A. B. Markoe is the remarried former wife of W. B. Wetmore. The proceeding was instituted by Wetmore to enjoin all proceedings to compel the payment of alimony and allowances amounting to $6000 per annum, growing out of divorce proceedings, on the ground that Wetmore had taken advantage of the bankruptcy law.

Tuberculosis in Prisons

Washington, Dec. 20.—Secretary Hay has transmitted to the house a report on the best means of combatting and treating tuberculosis and of avoiding its propagation in penal institutions of every kind. Nineteen states comprise what might be termed the tuberculosis area of the United States. This area has a prison population of 29,167, of whom 1097 have tuberculosis. The report recommends governmental supervision of penal institutions, sanitary and airy buildings and a revision of punishment and exercise rules.

Testimony In Smoot Case

Washington, Dec. 20.—The senate committee on privileges and elections yesterday developed nothing sensational in the Smoot investigation. Isaac Birdsall, a Mormon, said that his daughter was excommunicated because she would not obey a decision of a bishop's court, which had deprived her of a piece of property to which she held the lawful title, and William Balderson, editor of the Boise (Ida.) Statesman, testified to political affairs in his state.

VAST DOMAIN FOR FARMS

Crow Indian Reservation to Be Opened to Settlers.

OVER A MILLION ACRES IN MONTANA

The Land Will Be Irrigated, and Government Works Will Insure Good Crops, and Homesteaders Will Have No Fear of Dry Seasons--Riches of the Crows.

The Crow Indians are going to lose a large part of their reservation, which is to be taken from them and given to the whites, says a special dispatch from Crow Agency, Mont., to the New York Herald. The high plateau and splendid valleys of the Big Horn and Yellowstone rivers, where the Crows have lived and roamed since before the time of history, have at last been ceded to the government and will probably be opened for settlement next summer.

A larger number of settlers can be placed on the Crow lands than on any Indian reservation in the west, for there are 1,100,000 acres in the great domain which is to be thrown open. Practically this land will be cut up into 14,000 homesteads of eighty acres each, for it is of such character and nature that the regulation homestead of 160 acres will be divided and two homesteaders will live on the same size farm upon which only one is supposed to exist in other parts of the great west.

There will be no crop failures on the Crow reserve. Every acre will be under government "ditch," and if rain falls the farmer will simply open the gates of his sluices and the parched land will be refreshed by the waters from Uncle Sam's big irrigation ditches.

The hill upon which the gallant Custer and his men fought and died is not included in the ceded portions of the reservation, but has been set apart as a national cemetery.

The Crow reservation includes 4,000,000 acres, but only 1,100,000 acres will be given to the white people next summer. The ceded portions lie north of the old Fort Custer military reserve and include more than a hundred miles of the famous valley of the Big Horn river and nearly 250 miles of the great valley of the Yellowstone. Only that portion of the Yellowstone valley lying south of the river, however, belongs to the Crows.

Instead of throwing open the reservation for settlement and permitting private companies to build the necessary irrigation works, the government has determined to construct the irrigating system and to divide the cost pro rata among those to whom the homesteads are given. In this way the settler is protected in the use of his water for all time to come.

The government has had engineers on the reserve for the last year testing and measuring the water supply of the Yellowstone, Big Horn and other rivers and ascertaining if there is sufficient water to irrigate this immense body of land. In charge of this work is Colonel Robert S. Stockton of the United States geological survey, who says:

"The flow of these streams is so rapid and the fall so great that water can be taken to the highest point on the ceded land. Every foot of that land can be irrigated, and we have all the water necessary. My report will show a perfect network of irrigating canals, and, what is still better, it will show where the water to fill these canals can be secured."

The Crows are among the richest people on earth, and their wealth is increasing every day. There are only 1,826 braves, squaws and pappooses in the tribe, and these have 4,000,000 acres of land, to say nothing of cattle, sheep and horses. Under the Big Horn ditch, which irrigates a portion of the Indian lands, are more than 100,000 acres which the Crows are engaged in farming. The head gate of this ditch, built entirely by Indians, is considered the finest in the United States.

As cattle raisers the Crows have few superiors, but it is as breeders of horses that the Indians of this tribe show their greatest genius. Several years ago the chairman of the senate committee on Indian affairs estimated that the Crows owned seventy-two horses for every man, woman and child on the reserve. When the Boer war came on, the Crows sold thousands of their little scrub ponies to the English to be taken to South Africa, and they got good prices.

These Crow Indians have shown more advancement during the last three years than any other in the west. When the Burlington railroad first built through the reservation, the Crows were nomadic hunters and fishers, and the whistle of the locomotive was a never ending source of terror to the braves. But, under the influence of Colonel S. G. Reynolds, the resident Indian agent, hundreds of the Crows are now fairly good farmers.

Queen Margherita's Palace Car.

Queen Margherita, mother of Italy's king, has had a most magnificent railway carriage constructed for herself, which has caused great curiosity among her son's subjects, who, it must be confessed, are not accustomed to royal luxury, says the London Pall Mall Gazette's Rome correspondent. The king is most simple in all his ways and appointments. His carriages and horses, although of the best, are always of the least conspicuous description, and the same may be said of his motors, clothes, private apartments, etc., and the queen of course follows suit.

TEN MEN MISSING

Probably Drowned as Result of Wreck In Nantucket Sound

Woods Hole, Mass., Dec. 20.—Sunday's storm, which blew a hurricane off the southeastern New England coast, left in its wake, according to reports received here, three vessels totally wrecked, 15 damaged and five with lost anchors. All but one of these disasters to the coastwise fleet occurred within a radius of 40 miles of this port.

In addition it is feared that the entire crew of schooner Richard S. Leaming has been lost. The crew probably numbered 10 men. No known fatality has been reported. On land the only serious effect of the storm was the almost complete prostration of telegraph and telephone lines on Cape Cod and Martha's Vineyard.

Last night, for the first time since the storm broke early Sunday morning, telegraphic communication between this port and Boston was established. East and south of here the wires are still down. The known wrecks are as follows: Schooners Richard S. Leaming of Dennisville, N. J., on Long shoal, Nantucket sound; George B. Ferguson of Belfast, Me., ashore on Nantucket island; barge Albertus of New York, ashore on Fisher's island.

Bullet Through His Ribs

Rockland, Me., Dec. 20.—John Merchant, aged 30, was shot at Stonington and the police are looking for an Italian stone-cutter, who is known only by the name "Jimmie." Merchant says that he objected to attention paid to his wife by Jimmie. An altercation followed, and it is alleged that the Italian shot Merchant through the ribs. The bullet was extracted and it is expected Merchant will live unless blood-poisoning sets in.

Non-Union Man Shot Three Men

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 20.—Frank A. Sone, a non-union moulder, shot three men on his way home from work after he got into a quarrel with two young men and was threatened by a mob. Sone says he was called vile names by two young men who had made previous threats against him. He says he shot to save his own life. Sone had an ugly wound in the chin, where he was kicked. None of the wounds are considered serious.

Pilots Suspended For Collision

Bangor, Me., Dec. 20.—The decision of the local steamboat inspectors on the charges preferred against Captain Bennett of the steamer Mineola, in collision with the steamer Merryconeag at Belfast harbor Nov. 19, for violation of government pilot rules, is announced. The charges are sustained, but the inspectors also failed to exonerate Captain Shute of the Merryconeag for the collision. Both pilots are suspended for four months.

Bankrupt Company Sold Out

Laconia, N. H., Dec. 20.—The Laconia Woolen company was sold at public auction to Lewis S. Perley of this city for $15,800 by W. D. Veazey, trustee in bankruptcy. Perley, it is understood, represents a syndicate of local capitalists. The factory is a four-story brick building and, when working at its full capacity, 250 hands are employed.

Wilde Gets His Credentials

Boston, Dec. 20.—Rear Admiral Wilde, U. S. N., commandant of the Charlestown navy yard since June 1, has received from Washington the official papers entitling him to the rank of rear admiral. Admiral Wilde has, by courtesy, held that rank since he took the examination for promotion, soon after he came to be head of the local yard.

Epidemic of Scarlet Fever

Amesbury, Mass., Dec. 20.—There is a scarlet fever epidemic in this town, 40 cases being under treatment, 14 of which developed yesterday. Dr. Morse of the state board of health came here and made a special investigation of the situation, especially in regard to the town's milk supply, but left last night without making any recommendations.

Railroads Breeders of Monopoly

Fitchburg, Mass., Dec. 20.—Speaking from the topic "Some Unsettled Problems of Public Policy" at the annual banquet of the Fitchburg Merchants' association last night, President Schurman of Cornell university declared that the great railroad combinations were the breeders of monopoly among the industrial trusts.

Found Dead In His Home

Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 20.—William J. Chase, of the wholesale fish firm of Chase & Colby, committed suicide by taking carbolic acid. His family is away and his body was found at the home by a police officer. The medical examiner stated that Chase had been dead 24 hours. He was 71 years old.

Big Stay-at-Home Vote

Augusta, Me., Dec. 20.—The special election of a senator for the Seventh senatorial district and a mayor of the city was very quiet. For mayor, Charles S. Hitchborn received 332 of the 339 ballots cast. William M. Ayer of Oakland, the candidate for senator, had no opposing candidate.

Poison For Lovesick Swain

Webster, Mass., Dec. 20.—Anger Ledaux, 30, swallowed paris green because, as his uncle said, a young woman of Dayville, Conn., to whom he had been engaged in marriage, refused to speak to him. He died in a few minutes.

Diphtheria at Bowdoin College

Brunswick, Me., Dec. 10.—A third student of Bowdoin college, Harry M. Mansfield of Jonesport, has diphtheria. The other two patients are doing well. The faculty have taken all precautions.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

It seems very important that there should be a practical builder on the Board of Assessors and in this respect the appointment of Julius Johnson of Ward Three is commendable. It seems to have been the custom to select one Assessor from Wards One and Two, one from Wards Three and Four, and one from Wards Five and Six, and therefore it is proper to select a successor to Mr. Thompson from Ward Three, which stood handsomely by the Mayor-elect. We have already heard a comment that there is "Too Much Johnson," as two members of the board of 1905 bear that name. It is possible, however, that Charles H. may receive an appointment to another department. Whether he does or not, probably there will be no serious difficulties because there are two Johnsons on the board. The facts are there are a great many Johnsons in Quincy.

The appointment of Julius Johnson as Assessor is a compliment to our citizens of Swedish descent, but he has many of the qualifications, and should be able to readjust some of the inequalities which exist in the valuation of houses and land in the city. We congratulate Assessor Johnson.

Drift of Opinion.

☞There was no secrecy as to party affiliation under the old caucus system; there is no secrecy as to party affiliation under the new primary system; nor should there be. A voter who believes in the party system of government and who desires to participate in the nominations of the political parties ought not to be afraid to stand up and be counted. The primary act is a distinct advance. It still needs amendment, however, in few details. So far as Boston is concerned, it has been successful in its workings.—Hon. John M. Minton.

☞Men have been anticipating a new age. It is already here. It is a commercial age, one in which material interests predominate. The only live issue in the modern world is the money issue. Mammon is the first choice of man. Mr. T. W. Lawson is a sympton of the body politic. He seems to be preaching so far as any ultimate purpose appears, any purpose embracing the common good—a gospel of salvation through the stock exchange. How this can become a full and free salvation is not evident. Indeed, it will probably pan out as a kind of financial Calvinism, in which the elect—that is the shrewd, the strong, the unscrupulous—will attain the new salvation, from which the bulk of men as before, will be shut out. Mechanism and money will not always rule. Within this new age is a newer, the world is nigh, but God is nearer.—Rev. W. H. Butler of Weymouth.

The Estimate for P O Building

Congressman McNary is Confident

That Congress Will Make an Appropriation.

A Washington dispatch to the Herald says:

Representative McNary believes that Secretary Shaw's inclusion of Quincy, Mass., in the list of towns where public buildings ought to be provided for upon sites now owned by the government, to the extent of $10,000,000, makes it certain that the Quincy project will be provided for in the omnibus bill that is sure, the Boston man says, to follow the secretary's letter. Even if the letter had not been written, Mr. McNary feels that the worth of the project would have carried it through Congress successfully. He says the present post office at Quincy is crowded, the business having increased 50 per cent, in 10 years.

Mr. McNary's bill to provide for the Quincy building carried $150,000 and Senator Lodge's bill for the same purpose provided for $125,000, but the supervising architect of the treasury estimates that a building of suitable size for the site, and sufficient to accommodate the government business, can be built for $90,000. This is the figure the committee on public buildings and grounds probably will accept.

The building contemplated by the supervising architect, plans for which are in course of preparation, Mr. McNary says, will afford ample room for the business of the Quincy postoffice, which soon will have consolidated with it the Braintree office, also for custom offices in case Mr. McNary is successful in getting Quincy, Weymouth and Braintree made into a customs district, instead of constituting a part of the Boston district, as at present. This plan, Mr. McNary said today, would be more convenient to importers in the smaller towns, and it would pay the government also.

The new customs district that I propose," said Mr. McNary, "would not come within the class where it costs the government more than $1 to collect that much money in duties, and the abolition of which was strongly recommended in Secretary Shaw's annual report. The city of Quincy and towns of Weymouth and Braintree do a big importation business and they deserve facilities for it distinct from those afforded through the Boston Custom House."

Mr. McNary has been conferring with Chairman Payne and other members of the ways and means committee about this matter and said today that he was hopeful of carrying it through successfully this session.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Smith of Quincy Point Celebrate.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Smith of Washington court, Quincy Point, did not intend to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their married life, but their sons and daughter would not let such an event go by unobserved, and therefore gave them a little surprise on Friday, Dec. 16. Only the immediate relatives were present, but it was a happy reunion. There was regret, however, that distance prevented some of the sons from being present.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith have had ten children, and a daughter and six sons are living. The daughter and four sons were present. The family hail from New Hampshire, and for many years were residents of Boston before coming to Quincy about six years ago.

Mr. Smith came of a ship building family, and was a shipwright by trade. In recent years he has made quite a success as a builder of yachts including the cutter Huron, the Thetis, the schooner Alert. For eight years or more with the flyers Murial and TomCat he held the 21-foot championship of Boston and vicinity. The Hostess and Flashlight, the defender and challenger for the Quincy cup were also his productions.

As Mr. Smith is now over seventy-two years of age, he thinks it is about time for him to retire as a yacht builder, but he is still game, and says he would like to build a champion motor boat. His list of yachts number about 150.

Parlor Car Overturned.

There came near being a serious accident Monday afternoon just outside of the South Terminal station, caused by the engine of an inward train striking one end of a parlor car on the outgoing Lake Shore express. The end of the car was smashed into kindling wood and the car overturned. The conductor was slightly injured and the passengers had a narrow escape.

MANY PASTORATES

Death of Rev Henry A Bushnell

A Retired Methodist Clergyman

Also a Civil War Veteran from State of Vermont.

Rev. Henry A. Bushnell, a retired Methodist Episcopal clergyman, died at his home at Quincy Point this morning.

Rev. Mr. Bushnell was born in Georgia, Vt., April 13, 1833. He received his early education in the public schools of his native town. When 13 years of age he was thrown upon his own resources and he learned the carpenter's trade, at which he worked until 1862.

In that year he enlisted in Co. E of the 12th Vermont regiment, and served until March 31, 1865, when he was discharged for disability. He returned to Vermont, where he was ill for two years.

In 1867 he decided to enter the ministry and joined the Vermont Methodist Episcopal conference. He took the conference studies and that year was assigned to a church at Fairfax, Vt., where he remained two years.

From that time until 1898 he served in the following Vermont towns: Richford, Colchester, Milton, Sheldon, Waterbury, Hyde Park, West Enosburg, Cambridge, Groton and Pittsfield.

In 1898 he was transferred to the Southern New England Conference and assigned to the Hatherly M. E. church at Rockland, Mass. At the end of that year, however, he retired from the ministry, and moved to Weymouth, where he resided up to three years ago, when he came to Quincy.

Sept. 1, 1861, he married Ellen Josselyn of Georgia, Vt. Four children were born of whom three are now living: Dr. E. H. Bushnell, Mrs. Nellie E, wife of Lincoln A. Cook, and Charles W. Bushnell, all of Quincy. His widow also survives him.

During his ministry he became noted as a church builder having aided materially in the erection of churches in several places where he was stationed.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at his late residence when Rev. Leon H. Austin will officiate. After which the body will be taken to Georgia Vt., for burial.

NEW ASSESSOR.

Successor to Mayor-Elect Thompson.

Julius Johnson Is Appointed.

Was Selected by Mr. Thompson for the Position.

The appointment of a new Assessor came somewhat unexpectedly at the meeting of the City Council this week, but Principal Assessor Thompson will assume the office of Mayor on January 2 and he thought that it was best that he should at that time relinquish the duties of Assessor.

A change on the board of Assessors is also something new as Quincy has had the same Assessors for several years. Messrs. James Thompson, Charles H. Johnson and William B. Glover served on the board of 1900 when there were seven members, and since then for four years have constituted the board of three, under an amendment to the City Charter.

Julius Johnson, the new appointee to the board, was the choice of the Mayor-elect. He is a member of the present City Council being first elected to the Council of 1903, which was his first public position. Last year he served on the standing committees on Fire Department and Police, and this year on Public Buildings and Grounds, and also on Streets, Bridges and Lights.

For nearly fifteen years he has been a master builder of the city; for three years as a member of the firm of Johnson & Nelson, and since 1894 for himself. Today he is one of the leading builders of the city, and many of the residences which he has erected are a credit to Quincy. These include the residence of J. Henry Emery on Adams street, Emery L. Crane and Nathan Ames Whitney road, E. D. Gourd, Goffe street, residence of William V. Hayward on Chestnut street, of W. E. Blanchard and Albert M. Parker on Presidents hill, of Mrs. Emma Lark on Granite street, and several attractive houses on the Upland road extension. Mr. Johnson was also the architect and builder of the Swedish Baptist church on Granite street.

Mr. Johnson was born in Sweden, May 23, 1860, and received a good education in his native land, where he also served his time at the carpenters trade. He settled in Quincy in 1887, soon after coming to this country and now resides on Centre street. He is a prominent member of the Swedish Baptist church. In politics he has been a staunch Republican.

Mr. Johnson has been a director of the Master Builders' Association since organization, a member of Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows and of the Swedish Court of Foresters.

TWO OUT OF THREE.

John Hancock Odd Fellows Defeat Mt. Wollaston Team.

The John Hancock and Mt. Wollaston lodge teams met Monday evening in the Odd Fellows league, and the former won two out of three. With a grand total of 1260 they should have taken all the games, but Mt. Wollaston found their weak spot in the second game and won by four pins.

In the first game all the John Hancock boys were on their mettle and their total was 444, which was almost a crusher for Mt. Wollaston, they being 74 behind.

In the rubber game McLeod came to the front with a total of 102 and John Hancock won by just 25 pins. McLeod was high man of the evening with 274.

NORFOLK ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of

CATHERINE TALBOT,

late of Quincy, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Nathaniel S. Hunting of Quincy, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, on the eleventh day of January, A. D. 1905, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Greenlanders have no regular mealtime, but eat when they are hungry. They seem able to go without food for a remarkably long time and also to eat at a sitting the most astonishing quantity.

American History In France.

It is always amusing to note the blunders made by European writers in treating of American affairs and interesting to speculate as to how much of the world's history has been based upon similar errors. A French almanac, for instance, has the following entry opposite the date April 11: "In 1861, declaration of war between North and South America."

The Japanese Bean.

The Japanese bean is not the common horticultural bean with which our gardens are acquainted, but a vegetable often a yard in length and large enough to fill a quart measure. A single bean makes a meal for a hungry plowman.

Knife Duels In Spain.

Knife duels are very frequent among the lower classes in southern Spain. Sometimes when two men are about to fight they blow whistles to attract spectators. Their left legs are tied together at the knees, and then at a signal they begin attacking each other with long knives.

MRS. MAYBRICK'S STORY

Incidents of Her Life In an English Prison.

A GRAPHIC PICTURE OF MISERIES

Tragic Scene When She Was Told to Prepare For Death—Agonies of Solitary Confinement and Sufferings She Endured In Woking Prison—Her Cry For Years Lost.

Mrs. Florence Elizabeth Maybrick, under the title of "Mrs. Maybrick's Own Story," recently published by Funk & Wagnalls company, New York and London, tells a straightforward story of her years in English prisons which is bound to draw attention to and finally remedy some of the abuses of prison life not only in England, but wherever the vestiges of ancient barbarities exist, says the New York Evening World.

Of the fifteen last years of her life passed in prison for the alleged murder of her husband, James Maybrick, by arsenical poisoning she closes her story by saying:

"A time will come when the world will acknowledge that the verdict which was passed upon me is absolutely untenable. But what then? Who shall give back the years I have spent within prison walls, the friends by whom I am forgotten, the children to whom I am dead, the sunshine, the winds of heaven, my woman's life and all I have lost by this terrible injustice?"

The story opens in the midst of the tragedy in a style at once interesting and holding:

"Slowly consciousness returned. I opened my eyes. The room was in darkness. Suddenly the silence was broken by the bang of a closing door, which startled me out of my stupor. Where was I? Why was I alone? What awful thing had happened? A flash of memory! My husband was dead. A feeling of pain and distress shot through me. Edwin Maybrick was bending over me as I lay upon my bed. He had my arms tightly gripped and was shaking me violently. 'I want your keys, do you hear? Where are your keys?'"

This was on Sunday morning, May 12, 1889, and she was kept a prisoner until formally arrested. She was not allowed to cable to her American lawyers. Though her American husband was in the same house, dead, she was not allowed to look upon his face and could only see the casket.

In short, pointed sentences she tells the story of those first days of her captivity, the preliminary hearing, the inquest, at which she waited in the anteroom till the coroner had summed up.

"The jury consisted mostly of gentlemen who at one time had been guests at my house," she says.

Of all the years of suffering through which the woman passed perhaps the incident which caused her to bring most to bear the force of her wonderful will was the night upon which she was to be executed and she was told to prepare for death.

"The female warder was weeping silently," begins her description of this remarkable incident, "but I was calm and spent the early part of the night in my usual prayers. About midnight exhausted nature could bear no more, and I fainted. I had barely regained consciousness when I heard the shuffle of feet outside, the click of the key in the lock—that warning catch in the slow machinery of my doom. I sprang up and with one supreme effort of will braced myself for what I believed was the last act of my life. The governor and chaplain entered, followed by a warder. They read my expectation in my face, and the governor, hastening forward, exclaimed in an agitated voice:

"'It is well. It is good news.'

"When I opened my eyes once more I was lying in bed in the hospital, and I remained there until I was taken to Woking convict prison."

Woking prison, where she was taken on Aug. 29, comes in for a rather startling exploitation. From here till her removal to Aylesbury prison the story is a heartrending tale of agonies of solitary confinement, prison discipline, the evils of prison practices, the injustices and tragedies of the soul blighting years that a life convict passes before death or a reprieve ends it. As she was thrust roughly into a seven by four foot cell at Woking prison after her sentence of hanging had been changed to life imprisonment she felt that death, even at the hangman's hands, would have been preferable to this.

"Try to realize," she says, "never to feel the touch of anything soft or warm, never to see anything that is attractive—nothing but stone above, around, beneath. The deadly cold creeps into one's bones the bitter days of winter and the still bitterer nights of torture, for Woking prison was not heated. My hands and feet were covered with chilblains."

Novel Effect of X Ray Treatment.

Dr. Henry K. Pancoast, the University of Pennsylvania X ray specialist and skiographer, has discovered that the continued use of the X rays on negro patients produces a gradual change in the shade of the skin and that in time it becomes white, says a special dispatch from Philadelphia to the New York Herald. The discovery was made while treating a negro for lupus, which had affected the patient's nose and a part of the face. It was found that after treatment had been continued daily for over a month the skin on the affected part had become entirely white.

Korean Women.

In no country is the life of women more pathetic than in Korea, where it might be termed imprisonment with hard labor from the age of seven until death. Little girls are secluded from the time of their betrothal. At an age varying from ten to sixteen years they are married to men they have never seen and go away to take their places as menials.

They Do Without Doctors.

It is said that the island of Pico, in the Azores, has not had a physician for nearly 400 years nor any drug stores and no contagious diseases, though there is now a population of about 3,000.

Vapor From the Sea.

Moist vapor is constantly arising from the sea, and in the course of a year it amounts to a layer of water fourteen feet thick. This mass of moisture is borne to the clouds, and the winds drift a large part of it over the land, on which it descends in rain or snow.

Bird Sight.

The sight of birds is extraordinary, and the simple fact that the eye of a hawk or pigeon is larger than their whole brain gives some idea of what their powers of sight must be and of how easily they can fly hundreds of miles if they have marks to guide them.

Single Eyeglasses Barred.

Single eyeglasses are prohibited in the German army. Even if a soldier has one good eye, yet needs glasses, he must cover both eyes with them.

To Clean Paint Brushes.

First soak the brushes in turpentine and afterward wash in soapy water in which a little soda is dissolved. For brushes that have been used for varnish use spirits of wine or methylated spirit instead of turpentine.

The Temperature of the Blood.

One singular property of all animal bodies is that of maintaining within themselves an equable temperature. The blood of the arctic explorer remains at a normal temperature though he breathes air that will freeze mercury, and in India, where the temperature of the air is 115 to 120 above zero, the temperature of the blood is still 98 degrees F.

Plant Leaves.

The closing of the leaves of plants as the evening comes on was at first supposed by botanists to be due to the difference in temperature, but on transplanting the plants into a hothouse it was found that the same phenomenon occurred, the leaves closing at sunset.

Odd Twins.

In a cemetery adjoining a small town in the state of Vermont there is a tombstone bearing this legend: "Sacred to the memory of three twins."

"Yankee Doodle."

The original of Willard's stirring picture, "Yankee Doodle," which has become familiar through reproductions in all parts of the country, hangs in Abbott hall, Marblehead, Mass. The painting was presented to the town by General J. H. Devereaux of Cleveland, O., years ago.

The Number of Animals.

Four hundred thousand species of animals are now known to exist, according to the latest report of the French Natural History museum. Of spiders alone there are 20,000 different kinds.

The First Free Town Library.

It is a curious fact that the first free town library in this country was not started in any literary center, but in the country village of Peterboro, N. H., when in April, 1833, the town voted to purchase books for a town library and has ever since continued to support it. From the beginning it has been open on Sundays as well as on week days.

A Doll's Christmas

A Quaint Tale of Life In the Nursery When Little Boys and Girls Are All Sound Asleep

.....By LAWTON JOHNSON

Copyright, 1904, by C. N. Lurie

ONE Christmas eve a wax doll sat on a chair in a pretty room in which a number of children were in bed. A fire was burning on the hearth. Stockings were hanging to the mantel to be filled with toys for the children who were sleeping soundly, doubtless dreaming of what they were to receive in the morning. The face of one of them, a delicate, fair haired boy, was turned toward the doll, and she did not tire looking at it, for the face, though pale and thin, was very delicately molded.

On the mantel were two figures in porcelain. One was a boy in an old fashioned coat and knee breeches, with a sash around his waist and a cocked hat and feather. His right hand was thrust into his coat in front, and he looked like a figure of Napoleon. The other was a girl, with a short dress and a sailor hat. Her head was poised one side, and she looked very well satisfied with herself. Indeed, she was very pretty.

"How do you do?" said the girl image to the doll. "Don't you think this a pleasant room?"

"Indeed it is, but I've not see many. I was only born"— She paused to think again when she was born, but couldn't remember, so she said instead, "Isn't it a beautiful world?"

"Do you think so?" said the boy. "My sister and I have had a hard time getting into it. We were baked in a furnace, and it was so hot"—

"Well, don't tell me about it," interrupted the doll. "I'd rather hear about pleasant places."

The figures told her a great many things, but the girl was very vain of her beauty, and the boy was taken up with what he knew about the world, of which the doll knew nothing at all, so she didn't listen long, but fell asleep while they were talking.

Suddenly she awoke with a start. What was that noise in the chimney? She had scarcely time to think about it when out on the hearth popped a little figure in fur. He unstrapped a pack he carried and filled all the stockings with toys. Then he jumped back into the chimney and was gone in a twinkling. This set the doll to wondering more than ever.

Everything was again silent except the clock, which ticked very loud. There were the children asleep in bed, the little pale faced boy with his head resting on his arm, the girl image on the mantel with her head on one side thinking how pretty she was and the boy thinking how much he knew about the world. The doll soon went to sleep again.

In the morning she was awakened by a shouting. The children were running about in their night clothes, taking their toys from their stockings and chattering like monkeys. The fair haired boy sat up in bed and looked on, for he was too delicate to get up like the other children. The doll noticed that he had great blue eyes, which seemed ever so large as he looked wonderingly at all that was going on. Then there came a knocking on the wall, and the children knew that it was a signal for them to get back to bed and not take cold, and back they scrambled, laughing and tumbling over one another, and covered themselves up.

Presently the father and mother came in and distributed the toys. The doll was for one of the girls, but the boy insisted on having it himself. Then when all were loaded with presents they carried them down to the breakfast room.

What a day it was! The children were racing about, playing with their toys, and people were coming in continually to see the presents, and the sun shone brightly on the snow outside, and the fire shone brightly within on the brass andirons and fender, and after dinner stories were told the children till they were all astonished by the number of wonderful things that happen. The boy with the light hair and blue eyes lay in his mother's arms, hugging the doll with her breast pressed against his, so that she could hear his heart beat, and she wondered why there was no such beating in her own heart. This was the happiest moment she had ever known. She was only a day old, but something told her that nothing in the world could ever make her happier.

When the children went upstairs the boy insisted on keeping the doll by him till he got into bed, when his mother persuaded him to part with it till morning. She placed it on a chair before the fire where he could see it till he should go to sleep and the first thing on awakening in the morning.

When the children were all asleep the doll looked up from the chair at the images on the mantel. She was too happy to go to sleep.

"What a lovely day I have had," she said.

"Just wait," replied the boy image, "till you have been knocked about the world awhile and you'll see." He looked as wise as an owl.

"I think it very nice," said the girl image, "so long as you are young and pretty, but I don't like the idea of getting old and cracked, perhaps having my arms or legs broken off."

The wind was rising without, and suddenly the fire blazed with a cheerful warmth. It was very pleasant for awhile, but presently it seemed to be too hot. The doll thought she began to feel a softening in her feet. She didn't know what it meant, but it frightened her. It extended to her legs; then she felt it in her arms and at last in her face and neck. A log of wood fell down on the coals, and the fire blazed higher, hotter than ever. The doll felt herself melting away.

"You're going," said the boy figure on the mantel. "It's just as well; the world isn't all like this household."

"It's just as well," echoed the girl image. "Your beauty will not have to fade."

"I don't want to go," cried the doll mournfully. "I want to stay with my blue eyed boy. The world may be full of sadness, but there must be pleasure as well, for it is here."

There was something so plaintive in her voice that even the images refrained from any further remarks. The fire blazed hotter, and the wax, which had as yet only softened, began to melt. Something spattered on the floor. It was a drop of melted wax.

Oh, that her little boy would get up and move her back from the fire! But he slept on peacefully, and as she had no voice for real children she couldn't call to him.

So the doll felt that she was melting away. Drop by drop she fell on the floor. The room, with its rich hangings, the children sleeping, the firelight flickering, the shadows and, above all, the memory of her brief existence—for, after all, a doll can only exist—seemed to be gradually fading away. She sighed to think that she couldn't have been born with a soul, to be loved and go on loving forever; that she could not grow up like a real child to see the unfolding of all the wonderful things in the world, passing from one existence to another instead of going out altogether. Then she thought that she might never have been born at all, never have had the one glimpse of the happy household, the one Christmas, the blue eyed boy and her single day of love. So she said: "I can't understand it. I will try not to murmur, but trust that it is all for the best."

* * * * * * * *

And then—and then she awoke! The horror of melting had only been a dream. She had fallen asleep before the hot fire, but some kind hand had drawn the chair back, and in a few moments she was again clasped in the fond arms of her blue eyed boy.

CHRISTMAS IN MEXICO.

How the Day Is Celebrated In the Land of Diaz.

In Mexico Christmas eve is observed, as in Spain, with the Noche Buena. The streets and plazas are thronged with people. Of all the shop windows so gay and brilliant in their holiday attire none is so bright as the confectioner's. Nowhere is the confectioner's art carried to a greater perfection. At midnight of the Noche Buena all Mexico forsakes its pleasures and repairs to the Misa del Gallo, or mass of the cock, a high mass of the most imposing character, which, in every one of the magnificent temples reared by the Catholic church in the City of Mexico, is celebrated exactly at midnight on Christmas eve or morning to commemorate the Saviour's birth. All the churches have an augmented choir and a large orchestra specially engaged for the occasion. The mass is celebrated with every concomitant that can heighten its effect and grandeur.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Turner Heating company's factory at Bristol, Conn., was totally destroyed by fire. The loss is $50,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Benjamin H. Adams, 69, the oldest palmleaf hat manufacturer in New England, fell on the ice at Athol, Mass., and died instantly of concussion of the brain. He had been in the hat business in Athol 45 years.

The total receipts of the bureau of American republics for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1904, were $60,654, and the expenditures $10,282 less than this sum.

King Alfonso has signed a decree authorizing the Spanish minister at Washington to sign the arbitration treaty with America.

The Canadian Pacific railway officials have come to an amicable arrangement with the Order of Railway Telegraphers, who desired certain changes in the schedule.

Cannot Have Ball In Capitol

Washington, Dec. 20.—The house of representatives has emphatically disapproved the proposition to hold the inaugural ball in the Capitol building. A storm of protests came from both sides of the chamber. A resolution to use the Capitol building for the purpose was voted down, the result being to delay action until the next District of Columbia day, in January.

Britt Favored In Betting

San Francisco, Dec. 20.—Not until a few hours before the fight tonight will Britt and Nelson leave their camps. Nelson is slightly under weight and Britt a fraction over the mark, so the forfeit money is safe on both sides. In interviews each of the pugilists expressed confidence in the outcome. Britt is the favorite in the betting.

Sixty Seamen Unaccounted For

St. Johns, Dec. 20.—Several schooners belonging on this island and which were driven off by the gale of Sunday, Dec. 11, are still unreported. Their crews number 60 men and it is feared they have been lost. Schooner Klondike, which went ashore on Cape St. Mary's is a total wreck. Her crew is safe.

Creditors Stand Poor Show

New York, Dec. 20.—At a meeting of the creditors of Jacob Berry & Co., Edward S. Thomas, temporary receiver, said that the firm owes about $750,000, while the actual assets are only about $64,000.

Decision In Coupling Case

Washington, Dec. 20.—In a decision handed down by Chief Justice Fuller, in the case of Johnson vs. the Southern Pacific Railway company, the supreme court of the United States practically held that all cars, including locomotives, should be equipped with uniform automatic couplers. The court also held that dining cars cannot be exempt from the requirements of the safety appliance laws when in use, even though empty.

Platt Hustling For Depew

New York, Dec. 20.—Senator T. C. Platt has called a conference of Republicans to meet here on Wednesday to take measures for the re-election of Senator Depew. Governor Odell, Platt says, is mistaken if he believes that Black will have a majority in the legislature. When asked how Governor-elect Higgins stood on the question of the senatorship, Platt replied that he did not know, but that he expected to be able to "smoke him out" before long.

Goodman Will Not Hurt Greene

New York, Dec. 20.—James W. Goodman, who was arrested on complaint of W. C. Greene of the Greene Consolidated Copper company that he intended to harm Greene, has been discharged from custody after a hearing. Goodman declared that he believed Greene's anxiety was to get him out of New York to prevent his appearance in a civil suit which he had brought against him.

Ten Men Killed by Wood Alcohol

Ashland, Ky., Dec. 20.—Ten men are dead and two dying from the effects of drinking wood alcohol at Big Sandy. Three pushboats were en route to Pikeville, when at the mouth of Beaver river two of them sank and the men waded ashore. A jug of alcohol was one of the articles saved. The men were chilled and wet and they drank the stuff.

Roundabout Marriage Ceremony

Tokio, Dec. 20.—Hannah, daughter of Viscount Aoki, formerly Japanese minister to Germany, and Count Alexander Von Hatzfeld-Trachenberg, an attache of the German legation here, were married here yesterday. The Japanese ceremony and the German civil marriage preceded the religious ceremony in the Catholic cathedral.

Will Dispense With Foreigners

Tangier, Dec. 20.—The sultan of Morocco has notified the legations of his intention of dismissing the foreign military attaches. Inquiries show that there was a deep laid plot to capture the French mission and hold them as hostages till the political crisis was over.

Will Provide For the Needy

London, Dec. 20.—The Irish office declares that, while there has been a partial failure of the potato crop in Ireland, the distress, if it occurs, will not be acute before the end of January. Meanwhile the government is taking steps to prevent a famine.

SAILING FOR THE FRONT

Embarkation of a Japanese Regiment at Osaka.

VICIOUS LITTLE PONIES ON DECK

Stanley Washburn Describes Method of Loading Them on a Transport Ship—Accidents Caused by Their Wickedness—Pleasant Quarters For Officers and Men—Rugged Condition of the Troops.

Stanley Washburn, special correspondent of the Chicago News, writing from Moji, Japan, under the date of Oct. 11, describes as follows the sailing of a Japanese transport ship:

The Wakasa Maru was scheduled to sail from Osaka at noon on Monday, Oct. 10. In the company of Marquis Lorenzo d'Adda, correspondent of the Milan Secolo, and Pertev Bey, colonel of the Turkish general staff and now military attache from the sultan to view the Russo-Japanese war, I arrived at Osaka Sunday, as we had been instructed to do by the general staff at Tokyo.

Up to the moment of departure our plans were shrouded in the deepest mystery. The lieutenant of the staff, in giving us our instructions, said: "You will proceed to Osaka and there report to our transport officer. He will assign you to a ship which we cannot yet mention, and you will sail Monday and will proceed to a certain place, which at present is a military secret."

We were so glad to be off that we cared little where the certain place was and signified our consent to go anywhere. Thus it was that our boys and our horses were hustled off that very afternoon on a military train for the certain place. At the eleventh hour we were told in a whisper that we were to join the Third army before Port Arthur, but were earnestly instructed to "keep it dark."

So it was that we three, with a delightful little Japanese captain attached to the general staff to look out for us, arrived at Osaka. Osaka is a wonderfully interesting and beautiful city. Next to Tokyo it is the largest city in Japan, and it is far and away the liveliest and most up to date city of the empire, if not in the entire far east.

Our first duty on landing in this hustling town was to call at the transport office, where dozens of officers and specially detailed soldiers and noncommissioned officers sat behind long wooden desks filling in innumerable books, signing papers and doing many other things. Here we presented our permits from the war office at Tokyo and received in return an extremely comprehensive document—it must have been comprehensive, for it covered a square yard or so and was stamped officially wherever there had been a vacant space. This document we were instructed to present on the following morning to the embarking officer at the dock.

Osaka is about four or five miles from the deep anchorage for the bigger ships, so it took us about an hour and a half to get to the huge wharfs and stone piers which the Japanese government has just completed. In a large square near by provision had been made for the troops before their departure. Booths containing kitchens and long wooden tables with benches down either side, as one sees in a lumber camp, had been knocked together. As we rode up in our rickshaws they were surrounded by swarms of the blue clad, red flannel trimmed soldiers of Japan, who were taking their last meal on their native shores for many a day to come. The officer in charge of the embarkation received us most kindly and at once gave the necessary orders for the transfer of our baggage to the ship.

A few moments later a bugle sounded and the soldiers hurried to the neighboring square, where their rifles were stacked and their knapsacks neatly piled together. For a moment the field seemed filled with an indistinguishable mass of men squirming into equipment and strapping on belts. Then suddenly came order out of confusion. The mass began to take form, and in a few minutes it was moving toward us, a mass no longer, but three columns of troops, marching four abreast with the officers by their sides. Down the long pier they came with their equipment rattling in unison as they stepped together. At the end of the stone wharf lay the big transport, with the smoke rolling out of her thick, short funnel, telling of the stokers firing up in the furnace room below. The columns come to a standstill. Then, forming by twos and with trailing rifles, they march up the gang planks and down the hatches on the main deck to the quarters prepared for them below, while their officers hurry about giving orders and helping to make their men comfortable for the sea voyage.

Meantime a batch of cavalrymen forward is assisting in loading a number of horses. Indeed, it is a task fitted for a soldier, and a strenuous one at that. The vicious little Japanese ponies, with their ears laid back, are pushed alongside the boat. A bellyband about two feet broad is passed beneath their fat little stomachs, and the ends are hooked together. While a little beast is planning, no doubt, how he shall kick that booted cavalryman on the left side or perhaps bite that careless bystander in front of him, the bellyband is hooked on to the end of a rope, and the first thing the animal knows he is being hoisted bodily in the air. The glances of helpless rage and the occasional squeals of disgust that are uttered by the four footed passenger are too amusing for words. The horses are swung over and lowered into the hold with as little ceremony as though they were bales of hay instead of very angry mites of horseflesh.

Already some hundreds of horses have kicked, bitten and been hoisted and carefully deposited in their places, and now it is almost time for the boat to cast off her moorings. On the lower decks the soldiers are crowding together, having left their equipment below in the places assigned them. On the upper decks the officers are clicking their spurred heels together and saluting one another.

We are taken in tow by a captain of cavalry and hustled about and introduced to the commanding officers on the boat. Then we are shown our staterooms, where, with true Japanese courtesy, everything has been done to make us comfortable. We have barely time to straighten out our belongings when the deep roar of the steam whistle tells that we are off.

After we were fairly off we had an opportunity to look about the boat a bit. The Wakasa Maru is a big boat of something more than 6,000 tons burden and can make about fourteen knots. Her lower deck forward had been lined with horses' boxes, and her lower forward hold had been similarly equipped.

With their heads facing the center of the boat, the little horses were swung in their frail wooden stalls by bellybands placed beneath their abdomens and secured to the top of the shed so that in case of heavy weather the animals could not be thrown off their feet, but would swing as in a hammock. Here, separated by thin partitions, the wicked little animals squealed and kicked and vainly tried to reach around and bite their neighbors or an unfortunate passerby. Indeed, I am informed that there have been no end of accidents occasioned in just this way. The first officer of the boat told me that he had seen a vicious stallion tear a man's stomach out, and on another occasion one had bitten off at one snap of his jaws the four fingers of a man's hand.

On the main deck forward as well as aft and on part of the lower deck are placed the soldiers. It doesn't sound very comfortable, but as a matter of fact it looked very pleasant down there. Great rolls of cool straw matting had been spread about on the floors, and here and there bunks had been knocked in. On posts and in racks along the sides were arranged the equipments of the soldiers themselves. At night electric lights were strung about, and very homelike it looked to see the soldiers laughing and playing together on the clean straw matting like so many thoughtless schoolboys. The officers had been given the first class quarters, of course, and, like their humbler fellows in the hold below, managed to keep very cheerful and to enjoy themselves not a little in spite of the fact that they were going to a war from which many of them may never return.

We are carrying to Dalny the last battalion of a regiment which is the last batch of a division which is already in Manchuria. In this battalion there are almost 1,000 soldiers, as healthy and rugged looking a lot of men as one could wish to see. Besides the infantry there is a field hospital corps, with its equipment and what not. This consists of 120 men and officers, besides three field surgeons. In addition there are also about a hundred of the cooly soldiers of the division transport service who are going along to help the regiment in the field.

There are between forty and fifty officers in charge of the men. For the most part they are youngish men, but here and there one sees a grizzled veteran of a major or colonel, with a string of badges across his breast, telling of achievements in the Chino-Japan war or of some creditable performance in the Boxer campaign.

Way down below in the deepest of the deep holds is piled case after case of small arm ammunition. Several thousand tons of supplies are stowed somewhere else below. Besides all this there are the fifty or more evilly disposed ponies on deck and some more of their less favored companions pondering on their wickedness in the depths beneath. Those on the deck are for the most part officers' horses, while those below are the division transport animals which are to carry the baggage of the men on this boat.

So with its freight of human beings, horses and war materials the Wakasa Maru, being the "certain ship specified," sailed from Osaka, Japan, at noon, Oct. 10, just as the general staff said she would do.

Fine Gift From Miss Helen Gould.

"With love and best wishes for dear little Helen Gould Bell from Helen Miller Gould, 1904, Lyndhurst, Irvington-on-Hudson."

A card bearing this inscription from the daughter of the late Jay Gould arrived at the home of General Sherman Bell at Denver the other evening. But that was not all. The card came in a big rosewood box, and in that box was a complete dinner set of solid silver, with gold lined cups and little Helen Gould Bell's initials on each piece. The service consists of more than a hundred pieces from the establishment of one of the foremost silversmiths of the United States and is said by Denver connoisseurs to be the richest and most artistic ever seen in the west.

Cyclones Not So Bad, Says Ware.

Commissioner Eugene Ware of the pension bureau recently paid a farewill visit to the president, says a Washington special to the New York Times. He will not return to Washington, as his resignation becomes operative Jan. 1. "I am a little tired," said Mr. Ware in reply to a question, "and am going back to Kansas among the cyclones to get a rest. I want something easy."

An Identification That Was Satisfactory

"YOU will have to be identified before I can pay you the money on this check," said the paying teller of the bank.

"Ain't the check good?" asked the man on the other side of the window.

"Oh, the check's all right, but I don't know you. You must be identified, that is all."

"What's that?"

"You've got to get some one that knows you and knows me to come here and tell me you're the man this check is made out to."

The man took the check and, with a puzzled expression on his face, left the bank. Half an hour later the unidentified man returned.

"The man what give me the check," he said, "can't come, but he sent this and says for you to give me the money."

He held up a large sheet of paper. On it was a pencil tracing of the outline of a man's hand. The chart showed a first finger cut off below the knuckle and the second finger missing, all except a mere stub.

The paying teller eyed the sketch curiously. Below it was written: "This is the best I can do. I can't come over, and the man can't write, so I cannot O. K. his signature. The man has an anchor tattooed on his right forearm and powder marks on the lobe of his left ear. He smells of whisky and can lick any man in your bank with one hand tied behind him." The note was signed by the writer of the check. The teller was able to recognize the signature.

"Hold up your hand," he said.

The man laid his hand over the tracing on the paper, and it fitted perfectly, mutilations and all.

"Show me the anchor," said the teller.

The blue tinted emblem of hope appeared. The powder marks were in evidence, and the air was burdened with a heavy odor of whisky.

"Here's your money," said the teller. "You needn't try to lick anybody. You're sufficiently identified."—Chicago News.

A Practical Present.

A very practical old lady from the country was visiting her daughter in the city not long ago, and her young granddaughter was taking her through one of the big department stores on a little shopping tour.

"Now," said the old lady to the salesman, "show me some dishes. I want to buy a set."

Up in the china department the clerks had shown a number of dainty, pretty designs, which the old lady admired, but still seemed to be looking for something else.

"This pale green and gold tinted one is pretty, grandma," suggested the young girl. "Why not get it?"

"Well, you see," answered the practical grandmother, "your Aunt Jinnie is a-goin' to be married this winter, and I thought I would get her a good serviceable present while I was up here. A black and white flowered set of china is what I want if I could find it. Black and white is such serviceable colors, you know, dear, it don't show dirt."—Lippincott's Magazine.

WHITE HOUSE GIFTS.

How Santa Claus Comes to the President's Family.

Wagon loads of gifts are received at the White House at Christmas time. They come from all parts of the country, the majority of them from persons unknown to the president and his wife. These miscellaneous articles are the private property of the recipients, and the numerous parcels are placed in one of the family rooms for examination. They generally contain the names of the donors, and to all these notes of thanks are sent.

On Christmas eve all the employees of the house—the clerical staff, the ushers and the domestic servants—are given, through the established munificence of the president, a fine fat turkey. Fifty fowls, selected from the best in the market, are purchased for this event, so that everybody about the famous mansion has reason for rejoicing.

No one expresses his happiness with a more beaming countenance than does Jerry Smith, the old colored man who has been a member of the presidential household since the beginning of Grant's first term. Jerry was President Grant's cook, but in these days he dusts the offices of the White House and keeps things tidy there as the traditional pin.

The presidents and their advisers are usually men of advanced years, and it is to be second generation from them that the White House looks for the frolics of childhood on Christmas day.—Woman's Home Companion.

A Quaint Christmas Custom.

The burning of the ashen fagot is a curious custom observed in Devon and Somerset on Christmas eve. The fagot consists of green ash sticks cut lengthways and neatly fastened into a bundle with withy bands. At 8 o'clock in the evening this is placed on the fire with much ceremony, when the family and invited guests are gathered round the hearth. The flames lick round the bundle, and, when the first green withe holding the fagots bursts, glasses are raised and emptied to "A Merry Christmas!" The breaking of each bond is the signal for a fresh toast. Legend accounts for this custom by the story that a fire of ash wood warmed the stable at Bethlehem, while local tradition tells of a greenwood fire kindled by Alfred the Great during his lonely wanderings in Somerset.

Russia's Belated Christmas.

There are two Christmases at the Russian embassy, but the real celebration comes on Jan. 6. The fact that the joyous festival is, by reason of the use of the Russian calendar, somewhat belated does not, however, affect the enthusiasm with which the celebration is carried out. At a time when most of her American friends are removing the Christmas greens from their homes Countess Marguerite Cassini, the mistress of the Russian embassy, is superintending the decoration of a monster Christmas tree, generously laden with presents, and the distribution of these remembrances is followed by a grand dinner which is thoroughly Russian in its menu and appointments and as protracted as some of the celebrated all night feasts in the land of the czar.—Washington Times.

Holiday Customs.

At the saturnalia, the heathen prototype of Christmas, it was the Roman custom to decorate the house with evergreens. This was done to give the woodland spirits refuge from the cold.

In Atlanta, Ga., it is the Christmas custom to let free all prisoners whose only offense has been against the city ordinances.

The holly and mistletoe that we use for Christmas decorations show the survival of the customs of the Druids. In Russia branches of fir trees are used for decoration. In most parts of southern Europe evergreen trees are used, while in India the English churches are decorated at Christmastide with all kinds of flowers, palms and berries.

Mistletoe.

The eastern mistletoe is parasitic on deciduous trees as far north as New Jersey. It grows in great bunches from one to three feet across and soon disfigures a tree. The people of Atlanta, Ga., have free mistletoe. The city authorities cut it out of the shade trees that line the streets, and any one may take it away by the wagon load. The plant is in no danger of extermination, as we are satisfied with a comparatively small amount, despite its unique associations, which ought to make it in universal demand. The trade is supposed to handle about 10,000 pounds.—Country Life In America.

Christmas Eve In Bugland.

The Little Ladybug (dejectedly)—I do hope Santa Claus will be able to distinguish between hogs and ordinary bugs!

Mamma Ladybug—Why, Gladys! What a strange remark! What is troubling you, dear?

The Little Ladybug—Why, Cissie Centiped told me she was going to hang up one whole set of her stockings!—Town Topics.

A Country Named For Christmas.

South Africa was discovered by the Portuguese, who were searching for an ocean road to India. Bartholomew Diaz was the commander of the two little ships that formed the expedition in 1486. Eleven years later Da Gama took another Portuguese fleet south. He discovered Natal on Christmas day and thus named it in consequence.

Christmas Decorations In Arizona.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

J. E. Quimby, druggist, East Milton, is a petitioner in bankruptcy. Liabilities $4,866; assets $935.

It will be in order now for all the ministers in the city to ask for salaries out of the Woodward fund.

William Hill of Faxon road is critically ill, and has the sincerest wishes of his wide circle of friends for an improved condition of health before the holidays.

Work has begun on the burned store in Sagamore block to reconstruct the the shop of the tailor, Mr. Needleman, whose business had just started to be paying, for it takes time to establish oneself in a strange neighborhood.

The Christmas festival of First Church Sunday school is to be held in the chapel Saturday evening at six o'clock. There is to be a Christmas play, presented by the children of the school, followed by a visit from Santa Claus and the distribution of presents from the Christmas tree.

Read the Ledger ads thoroughly then start out and buy your Christmas presents and order your Christmas dinner and all the fixings. The Quincy storekeepers are outdoing themselves this year and are giving their customers the best there is agoing. Never has the city put on a more festive look. Some of the window displays are beautiful.

The stores report an unusually good trade, showing that money is more plenty than last year. Another indication of better times also is that the jewelry stores are doing a rushing business. One of the old firms, which carries a large stock throughout the year and put in a lot more for the Christmas trade, say they have sold nearly everything in the store but the show cases and have had to stock up again.

TODAY'S COURT.

Richard F. Madden was arraigned for drunkenness and assault at Weymouth. He was fined $10 for drunkenness and sentenced to thirty days in the house of correction for the assault. Appealed.

☞Eyeglasses fitted scientifically. No guess work.—Williams.

DIED.

CITY COUNCIL.

Metropolitan Park Commission in taking land of Adams Real Estate Trust for the boulevard. Order adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported ought not to pass on order granting the Telephone Co. a location for poles on South Central avenue. Accepted.

The Committee on Streets reported reference to the next Council upon the following matters:

Acceptance of Eustis street.

Extending Bigelow street to Glencoe place.

Gravel sidewalk on Beach street.

$500 for extending gutters on Goffe street.

Taking land for slopes near the new bridge on Hancock street, Atlantic.

The order for $1000 for Assessors plans was passed to be ordained.

The order relative to the licensing of junk shops was referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

WOODWARD SALARIES.

The order relative to amending salaries of the Managers of the Woodward Fund was reported upon by the Ordinance Committee.

Councilman Whiton offered an amendment to the order fixing the salary of the treasurer at $350, the clerk at $50, and the auditor $50.

Councilman Adams opposed. He did not think it right nor just that any part of this fund which was a gift to the city should be used for salaries. The city should pay its own officers.

Councilman Bass favored the order. He failed to see the difference between paying the superintendent of schools $300, and paying for handling the fund. If we pay no salaries there is no assurance that these officers will look after the fund as there was nothing to compel them to. He believed the fund should take care of itself.

Councilman Reardon believed the fund should pay its officers and favored the amendment.

Councilman Hardwick opposed. He did not believe any part of the gift should be so used.

Councilman Hughes favored the amendment. It was legal and proper.

Councilman Whiton favored the amendment. He thought the fund must be poorly invested if it could not pay $450. It was just as unfair to tax the Woodward property as to pay salaries.

Councilman Piper believed in salaries to a just and reasonable amount. The fund has been paying for thirty years and is not crippled yet.

Mayor Bryant thought the criticism of paying the superintendent for something that belongs to the managers was just. The city has as much right to say the Overseer of the Poor shall receive $50 for distributing turkeys from the Johnson fund. If the salary of these officers cannot be increased by the city let them serve at the salaries they receive. Why don't you pay salaries to the Mayor, who is chairman of the board, and to the citizen elected on the board. He would like to see the Council rectify an evil that had existed for years.

The substitute order was adopted by a vote of 12 in favor and 8 against.

The order was then passed by the following vote:

Yes,—Adams, Bass, Gassett, Gearwar, Hadlock, Hughes, Johnson, Langelier, Loud, Piper, Polk, Reardon, Spargo, Stone, Walsh and Whiton—16.

Nays, — Hardwick, Macfarland, Nickerson and Stewart—4.

Absent,—Holmes and Thompson.

Not voting,—President Nichols.

MOTIONS, ORDERS, ETC.

Upon motion of Councilman Gassett it was voted when the Council adjourn it be until Tuesday, Dec. 27.

Upon motion of Councilman Polk all matters before the Committee on Public Buildings were referred to the next Council.

Councilman Gassett offered an order granting the Telephone Co. location for 8 poles on Marlboro street. To Street Committee.

The order for moving the pole from in front of the residence of A. A. Dell on Pleasant street was taken from the table and passed.

COLISEUM LICENSE.

The veto of the Mayor of the order removing the 11 o'clock restriction from the license of Elmer W. Baker was taken from the table.

Upon motion of Councilman Stewart the Council resolved itself into a committee of a whole with Councilman Adams as chairman and George T. Magee as clerk.

Elmer W. Baker appeared before the committee and told why he should be permitted to run his dance hall as late as other licensed halls.

Questions were asked by Councilmen, and Mayor Bryant upheld his veto.

The committee then arose. The order was passed over the Mayor's veto by the following vote:

YEAS,—Adams, Bass, Gassett, Gearwar, Hadlock, Hardwick, Hughes, Johnson, Langelier, Loud, Macfarland, Piper, Reardon, Spargo, Stewart, Whiton and Nichols—17.

NAYS,—Nickerson, Polk, Stone, Thompson,—4.

ABSENT,—Holmes.

CALENDAR.

The order paying Edith W. Whiton $15, one-half cost of sidewalk, took its second reading.

The order transferring $525 to state and military aid was passed under suspension of the rules.

The order paying B. J. Langhorn $18.77, one half cost of edgestones took its second reading.

Adjourned at 10.24 to meet Dec. 27.

THE AUXILIARY.

Many Plans for the Success of the Y. M. C. A.

Mrs. John D. Buckingham kindly opened her cosy home for the December meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. on Monday afternoon.

Rev. E. D. Webber, pastor of the Wollaston Baptist church, had charge of the opening exercises. After which Mrs. A. F. Emery, President of the Newton Auxiliary gave a most helpful account of their work for boys, saying they felt no trouble or work should be spared to influence them early in the right ways of thinking and living.

One of our generous hearted merchants sent a quantity of material for the ladies to make up into articles for the "Colonial fair fete" to be held in April.

The Junior Auxiliary are to have a cake and candy sale next week, to which all are cordially invited.

An all day "Thimble party" at the Point will be announced later, to sew for the fair.

Miss Grace M. Isaac sang several selections most acceptably accompanied by Mrs. Jennie Hocking Hunt.

LIFE INSURANCE.

Get Fully Acquainted With the Terms of Your Policy.

"What the average purchaser of life insurance doesn't know about the thing he is purchasing would fill a good sized book printed with very narrow margins," says an insurance expert. "For instance, I talked not long since with a man who fancied he was insured for $10,000 on the fifteen year endowment plan. That is, he thought he had to make payments for fifteen years—which was true—and that at the end of that time he could get $10,000 in cash or take a part in cash and a part in paid up insurance, which, as it turned out, was not true. The rate he was paying was so very low for what he said he was getting that I asked to see his policy, and when I looked at it I found, just as he might have found on a brief examination, that while he was insured for life, with only fifteen yearly payments, he could not get the $10,000 or any part of it for a good many years more. No insurance company in the world will permit the fooling of a patron like this if it can help it, and yet to attribute such a mistaken idea to fraudulent misrepresentation on the part of an unworthy agent would not always be fair. Many men who take insurance, and especially those who do not decide to go in until they have looked at it a long time, go in finally with a rush. They don't give the agent time to tell them what they are getting, and often don't find out for years afterward. Another thing that many insured persons do not know is that a rebate on the first payment, arranged between the insured and the agent, sometimes renders the whole transaction invalid."—Philadelphia Record.

CHRISTMAS DAY.

Why the Festival Is Celebrated on Dec. 25.

There are no definite allusions in the writings of any of the disciples of Christ as to the date of his birth, nor has there ever been produced proof of any character as to the exact period in the year when Christ was born. There are, very true, occasional references to the event in the Scriptures, indicating that the Nativity occurred in the winter season.

The institution of the anniversary dates back to the second century of Christendom, and it has been since uniformly celebrated by nearly all branches of the Christian church with appropriate rejoicings and ceremonies. The frequent and somewhat heated controversies, however, relative to the date of Christ's birth early in the fourth century led Pope Julius I. to order a thorough investigation of the subject by the learned theologians and historians of that period, which resulted in an agreement upon Dec. 25, and that decision seemed to have so settled all disputes that that date was universally accepted except by the Greek church. While this date was never changed, the reckoning of it is made according to the Gregorian calendar, which was adopted in the latter part of the sixteenth century, and upon which computations of time in nearly all civilized nations have since rested.—American Queen.

Cosmic Horror.

The two infinities of Kant did not chill or hurt him, but his fearlessness is shared by few. Only for a short instant, at best, will most persons consent to look open eyed at any clear image of fate or of infinity. Scarcely a friend of mine will look steadily at the clear midnight sky for a minute in silence. The freezing of the heart follows; the appalling shudder at the dread contemplation of infinity, which may be called cosmic horror, is more than can be endured. If those stars are absolutely and positively infinite then there is no up or down, and they knew no beginning, will have no ending. With any such staring gorgon of fatalism the surcharged attention is shaken, and the chemistry of common life seizes upon the liquid crystals with avid hunger.—George M. Gould, M. D., in Atlantic.

A Scotch Parson's Clever Reply.

When musical instruments were first used in the services of the Scottish churches many strict Sabbatarians objected to the iniquitous proceedings. One of these persons, on meeting the minister some time after leaving the "kirk" because of the introduction of a harmonium, said with a sneer, "Well, and how is your fanner getting on?" (A fanner was a winnowing machine resembling the bellows of an organ in its working.) "Oh, splendidly," answered the reverend gentleman. "It's just keeping the good corn and blowing the chaff away."—Spare Moments.

No Judge at All.

"Isn't that young man fond of music?" exclaimed the young woman.

"I don't know," answered Miss Cayenne. "Judging by the way he will stand up and listen to himself sing by the hour, I should say he isn't."—Chicago Journal.

Strong Diet.

Veterinary—So your new bull pup is sick? What seems to be the matter with him? Owner—A little of everything, I guess. While we were away this afternoon he chewed up and swallowed the dictionary.—Detroit Free Press.

The Small Children.

"I wonder what it is," said the family man, "that makes landlords and janitors dislike to have small children in flats." "The small children, I guess," replied the savage bachelor.—Philadelphia Ledger.

If you wish to please people you must begin by understanding them.—Reade.

The Gift I Didn't Get

A Christmas Poem by Peter McArthur

Copyright, 1904, by Peter McArthur

A Girl Who Calls Me Friend

I HAVE presents by the dozen,
Meant to make my Christmas glad.
From each uncle, aunt and cousin—
Best a fellow ever had.
There's a keepsake from my mother,
Father sent a check—and yet
I am thinking of another—
Of the one I didn't get.

THERE are gifts from all the fellows,
Pipes and things a chum will send:
There's a tie, all reds and yellows,
From a girl who calls me friend.
You would think me far from slighted
If you saw them all—and yet,
I confess, I'm most delighted
With the one I didn't get.

SHE told me it was ready,
She'd prepared it long before;
I'd been calling on her steady
For at least a year or more.
She told me all about it,
And her eyes with tears were wet,
And I'm happy, never doubt it,
For that gift I didn't get.

HER attitude was altered
When I called on her last night,
But my tale of love I faltered,
And I guess I did it right.
And this little rhyme is written
'Cause I'm full of joy—you bet!
For a frosty little mitten
Was the gift I didn't get.

HARVARD HONORS.

Quincy High Graduate Takes Highest Second Year Honors.

The winners of prizes at Harvard college were announced Tuesday evening at Sanders Theatre, in the presence of a large audience. These included deturs, final honors, second year honors, Bowdoin prizes, Boylston prizes and others.

Herbert P. Arnold of Quincy, heads the class of 1906 in winners of deturs, and was also awarded the highest second year honors.

Mr. Arnold is the son of Mrs. Annie B. Arnold of Elm street. He was graduated from the Coddington school, and was salutatorian of the class of 1902 of the Quincy High school, the subject of his address at the graduating exercises being "The genius of Vergil." Of late he has been an assistant at the Thomas Crane public library.

Chaplain's Apron Presented.

The officers of Massachusetts lodge, A. F. & A. M., of Boston, were installed on Monday evening. In the list are James C. Bates of Wollaston as secretary and Rev. Edward Chase of Wollaston as chaplain. An incident of the evening was the presentation to Rev. Mr. Chase of a chaplain's apron. It was a very rich one, appropriately inscribed, and was encased in a sheepskin covering. There was also a banquet with music and speeches.

Gov. Hancock.

"The first inauguration of John Hancock" was the subject of a paper delivered by Francis Hurtubis, the Governor's secretary, before John Hancock chapter, D. A. R., in Boston, Tuesday evening. Hancock was the first governor of Massachusetts, serving from 1780 to 1785, and again from 1787 to Oct. 8, 1793. He was born in Quincy in Jan. 12, 1736-7 on the site of Adams Acadeny, and was Governor when Quincy was granted a charter as a town.

Dropped Dead.

Daniel Roach, aged 59 years, employed as a machinist at the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, dropped dead in the machine shop at the works Tuesday afternoon. Medical Examiner Jones, who was called, pronounced the man's death due to heart disease. Mr. Roach resided at 116 Minot street, Neponset. He leaves a widow, two daughters and a son.

Sudden Death.

Walter F. Forbes of West Quincy died suddenly Tuesday night at the residence of his sister Mrs. Patrick Sullivan at 28 Bryant avenue, from the effects of an apopletic shock. He was 48 years of age and unmarried.

DECLARED OFF.

Work in Granite Yards at Barre to Be Resumed.

A dispatch from Barre to the Globe says:

The lockout in the granite industry of Barre and vicinity which was ordered by the Barre granite manufacturers' association last Friday night as a result of the strike of 260 stonecutters at the E. B. Ellis company's plant in Northfield, was declared off at a meeting of the association Tuesday evening, and work resumed in the granite sheds of this city, East Barre, Williamstown, Montpelier, Northfield and Waterbury.

The Ellis plant will be opened with the others. Fully 3,000 men were laid off Saturday, and there has been a loss of $25,000 in wages since that time.

Secretary Duncan of the national committee of granite cutters telegraphed from Quincy this evening that the arrangements were satisfactory to the national union. Committees from the manufacturers and the union will meet soon to form an agreement whereby there shall be no more strikes or lockouts pending the settlement of grievances by arbitration.

Train to be Restored.

The residents of the South Shore towns have been successful in their efforts to have the 6.15 P. M. express train from Boston to Hingham restored, the Railroad Commissioners having issued an order to that effect on Tuesday.

Points of Interest

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest; and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACE OF PRESIDENTS.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams; house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free, although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantum.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monumerts, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple Place, or to the office of L. S. Anderson, treasurer, 9 Savings Bank building, whose office hours are 8 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 to 5 P. M. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Closed for repairs, but soon to be opened to the public by the Society of Colonial Dames, the new owners.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished. Also the plant of the Fore River Ship and Engine Company where warships are being built for the government.

DRAMATIC CLIMAX

Miss Patterson Enacts Cab Death Scene In Court

UNDER A MERCILESS FIRE

Faces Ordeal of Cross Examination by Man Who Has Labored to Have Her Branded as Murderess--Young's Generosity

New York, Dec. 21.—After a day of torment, facing the merciless cross-examination of Prosecutor Rand, Nan Patterson, the former show girl, went to her cell in the Tombs last night, tired but happy. For several hours she sat under the galling cross-fire of the assistant district attorney, who probed the events of her life from the day she met Caesar Young, for the killing of whom she is being tried, until the moment of his tragic death. No detail was too trivial to escape the attention of the state attorney, but, with scarcely an exception, the accused actress proved a marvel of self-control.

Once only did Rand confuse her greatly. In going over the conversation between her and Young at the Gravesend track Miss Patterson testified that Young gave as a reason for sailing to Europe the fact that he was afraid Mrs. Young might harm him or the prisoner. Miss Patterson finally admitted that she recalled only an incident which had happened in San Francisco.

At times she parried the sharp questions of her inquisitor, but when he pinned her down to a definite question, her answer was frankness itself. Miss Patterson talked in a low, clear voice, punctuating her evidence here and there with expressions of much spirit.

For instance, in the course of one of her answers, she exclaimed in a voice ringing with sincerity: "I have always tried to be truthful and honorable."

Miss Patterson was led over the same ground as on Monday, but in a manner manifestly different, for yesterday she was under the rapid-fire questioning of the man who has handled the case against her and legal pitfalls were to be expected.

There were few striking admissions made by the witness, despite the very searching questions asked. Noticeable among these, however, was the story of the money given by the bookmaker to Miss Patterson during their years' acquaintance. At one time the sum was $2800, at another $2500, and at others $1500 or $1800. She did not know the total amount and could not state whether it would total $50,000, but acknowledged that Young was a very generous man and gave her money whenever she asked.

Miss Patterson said that Young was fearful Mrs. Young would kill him and possibly the actress also, and for that reason wished her to flee to Europe with him. Later she modified this under the battery of the prosecutor.

The dramatic climax of the court scene came with the pantomime acted by Miss Patterson and a district attorney's messenger, showing the death scene in the cab. Seated side by side on a platform, facing the court and the jury, the messenger, under the tutelage of the former show girl, grasped her wrists and they swayed back and forth as the prisoner said she and Caesar Young had done just before the shooting. With the calm reserve of one accustomed to play to thousands, Miss Patterson, without a tremor, went over the scene, and by her interpretation tried to make it clear that Young had taken his own life.

Throughout the two hours and forty minutes that Miss Patterson faced cross-examination, few shades of emotion crossed her pale face. She had evidently nerved herself for an ordeal, but when it was over a reaction came and she trembled violently.

Arising from the chair she bowed to Judge Davis and the Earl of Suffolk, who sat beside him, and to the jurors. Then, gathering up her skirts, she ran down to her aged father, who sat by her counsel's table, and buried her face on his shoulder. He kissed her affectionately and said softly: "You did splendidly, little girl."

Mr. Rand a little later called Mrs. Young, the widow of Caesar Young, in rebuttal. In her testimony she said she had purchased the tickets for the trip abroad for herself and husband, and that she had done so at the instigation of Young, and not of her own volition, as intimated by Miss Patterson.

When both sides rested Judge Davis said he wished the case to go to the jury today and after a conference between opposing counsel it was agreed that the closing speeches should be limited to three hours each.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon Judge Davis will deliver his charge and then the fate of the former show girl will rest in the hands of the jury.

THE DAVIS INQUEST

Authorities Believe That the Girl Took Her Own Life

Salem, Mass., Dec. 21.—The inquest into the death of Bessie G. Davis, whose body was found on the rocks at West Beach last September, was concluded yesterday afternoon. The authorities are inclined to maintain their belief the girl committed suicide. This was the generally accepted theory at the conclusion of the examination into the circumstances surrounding the case made after the body was found. The inquest was reopened, however, at the request of relatives of the dead girl, who believed some suspicious matters in connection with the death had not been sufficiently explained.

The 16 witnesses were examined by Judge Stafford. It is not known when he will announce his findings.

Young Chapdelaine Discharged

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 21.—Ovide Chapdelaine, 15 years old, charged with the murder of Mrs. Emma Brigham at Leicester, was brought before Judge Utley in the district court. Captain Proctor of the state police told of the evidence against the defendant and a report of Professor Wood of Harvard to the effect that human blood stains were found upon the clothing of Chapdelaine was presented. Neighbors told also of the boy's movements on the day of the murder. After hearing the evidence Judge Utley ordered the discharge of Chapdelaine, observing that he failed to see upon what evidence the arrest had been made.

Kicked Wife With Wooden Leg

Salem, Mass., Dec. 21.—Among the divorces granted yesterday was one to Annie E. Leavitt, a pretty little woman, married at 16, and who asked for a divorce after five years of suffering. Her husband choked her before they had been married four weeks, kicked her with his wooden leg, swore at her, called her vile names, blackened her eye, made her work for him and took her money. Her mother supported her and her two children, and she lived with her husband for the sake of her children. Judge Stevens granted her prayer and gave her custody of her children.

No Trace of Leaming's Crew

Nantucket, Mass., Dec. 21.—Death in the sea was the probable fate of the seven men who comprised the crew of the schooner Richard S. Leaming, which was driven ashore on Long shoal during the severe blizzard last Sunday morning. Both of the schooner's yawl-boats have been found found aboard her, one of them having been smashed to splinters. It is supposed that the crew took to the rigging and when it was carried away they fell with it into the ocean.

A Western Clergyman's Warning

Boston, Dec. 21.—Rev. Angelo Rauber, a western clergyman, in the course of an address to young women upon social customs, expressed himself in a manner which has aroused much comment in Boston. He said, in part: "Avoid late hours, buggy rides, and walks through lonely places. Members of the family should be present when a young gentleman calls. And I think it would be a good plan to eliminate sofas from the room where the young persons meet."

North Adams' Election

North Adams, Mass., Dec. 21.—The municipal election resulted in the defeat of Mayor Stafford (Rep.), candidate for third term, Mayshall R. Ford (Dem.) being elected by a margin of 30 votes. The Republicans elected five of the seven members for the common council. The city voted for license. The Luce joint caucus act was repealed by an overwhelming vote. The city adopted the fireman's pension act.

Seven Years For Church Robber

Dedham, Mass., Dec. 21.—In the superior court here John McAvoy was sentenced to not less than seven years nor more than 10 years in state prison for breaking and entering St. Catherine's church at Norwood and stealing sacred vessels. McAvoy has a long criminal career. Judge Sherman commended him on his brightness and said it was too bad that he was induced to lead such a life as he has.

Probable Victim of Violence

Pawtucket, R. I., Dec. 21.—Evidence brought out at the inquest held over the body of James G. Wilson of Saylesville only served to deepen the mystery which envelopes the case. Wilson was found in the road in front of his barber shop in an unconscious condition and died six days later. The testimony at the inquest pointed strongly toward foul play.

In Touch With Cape Cod

Boston, Dec. 21.—Telegraphic and telephonic communication between Boston and various points in Cape Cod, which has been cut off since Sunday on account of the storm of that day, was resumed last evening. Over 100 poles were blown over below Buzzards bay and a mass of wires carried down.

Survived a Terrible Fall

Boston, Dec. 21.—Losing his foothold on the coping of the four-story building at 19 Lyman street, Israel Rubben, 20 years of age, who had been shovelling snow from the roof, fell a distance of 45 feet, and besides a few unimportant bruises received a broken wrist and fractured leg.

Yale Statistics

New Haven, Dec. 21.—The Yale university catalogue shows, as compared with last year, an increase of officers and instructors from 384 to 391. Not including the summer forest school and courses for teachers, the total student registration is 2996, an increase of 33.

A GOOD WIDE YAWN.

It is a Splendid Reviver For the Whole Body.

A good, wide, open mouthed yawn is a splendid thing for the whole body. A yawn is nature's demand for rest. Some people think they only yawn because they are sleepy, but this is not so. You yawn because you are tired. You may be sleepy also, but that is not the real cause of your yawning. You are sleepy because you are tired, and you yawn because you are tired.

Whenever you feel like yawning just yawn. Don't try to suppress it because you think it is impolite to yawn. Put your hand over your mouth if you want to, but let the yawn come. And if you are where you can stretch at the same time that you yawn just stretch and yawn. This is nature's way of stretching and relaxing the muscles.

Don't be afraid to open your mouth wide and yawn and stretch whenever you feel like it. Indeed, if you are very tired, but do not feel like yawning, there is nothing that will rest you so quickly as to sit on a straight back chair, and, lifting your feet from the floor, push them out in front of you as far as possible, stretch the arms, put the head back, open the mouth wide and make yourself yawn.

Those tense nerves will relax, the contracted muscles will stretch and the whole body will be rested. Do this two or three times when you are tired and see what it will do for you.

DURER AND LEONARDO.

Explanation of the Differences Between Their Work as Painters.

Durer was born a German, Leonardo an Italian. This sums up much of the difference between their work as painters. The Italian race, under its sunny skies, has an inborn love of beauty. The German, in a sterner climate—"How I shall freeze after this sun!" wrote Durer, during his stay in Italy, to a friend in Nuremberg—retains to this day the energy that carved its way through the vast forests of his country and some of the gloomy romance that haunted their dark shadows. The German spirit is characterized by a "combination of the wild and rugged with the homely and tender, by meditative depth, enigmatic gloom, sincerity and energy, by iron diligence and discipline." Very remarkable qualities these, and to be found in Durer's work, which is the reason that we describe him as being so representative of the Teutonic race.

But it was not only the difference of race that helped to mold the genius of these two men differently. Each was a manifestation of the "new birth" of art and learning that was spreading over Europe—Leonardo of the form of it which appeared in Italy and Durer of that which prevailed in Germany.—St. Nicholas.

SHAVING IS ANCIENT.

The Custom Was Probably Followed In Prehistoric Times.

It is not improbable that prehistoric man shaved, for curiously shaped shells and flint flakes have been discovered which have been supposed to be very ancient razors. In remote parts of China men have their chins scraped, without water or soap, by instruments very similar to these, and the men of the stone age would most likely find out at a very early stage that to leave hair upon their face was to give a useful handle to their enemies.

That, indeed, was the reason why Alexander the Great compelled his soldiers to shave, and his order is among the earliest definite instances of shaving upon record, although there can be no question that the practice existed long before his day.

The oldest Egyptian sculptures show some men clean shaven, and others partially so, with curled beards. It is recorded in Genesis that Joseph, when he went from prison to the presence of Pharaoh, about 1500 B. C., "shaved himself and changed his raiment."

Alexander's Palace.

The palace of Alexander the Great was an imposing structure in its time, and the wonder is that any vestige of it stands today. It was built in a manner much more substantial than that of today, though advocates of steel construction claim that the modern structure will defy time as long as any of those built by the ancients. Time alone will determine how much truth there is in this contention. On the Asiatic plain are the massive remnants of an ancient gateway fringed with weeds, and, vaguely knowing who he was, the natives tell that this is all that is left of the palace of Alexander.

The Patient's Idea.

Dr. Price-Price (diplomatically)—I don't know whether I sent you a statement of what—er—you owe me. Mr. Knox—Neither do I. Dr. Price-Price—Ah, you didn't get it then? I guess I didn't send you a statement. Mr. Knox—Oh, yes, but it looked more like a statement of what you think I possess.—Catholic Standard and Times.

A Burning Mistake.

Bilkins—I never knew Cockshure to acknowledge that he had made a mistake. Pilkins—I did once. Bilkins—How did it happen? Pilkins—He put the lighted end of his cigar in his mouth.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Old Ocean's Joke.

"There's another bunch of bridal couples on that ship," remarked Father Neptune.

"Yes," replied the Atlantic ocean. "I'm being crossed in love pretty regularly these days."—Philadelphia Press.

Of the best society it used to be said its conversation affords instruction, while its silence imparts culture.—Goethe.

MELODY DIVINE

By BELLE MANIATES

Copyright, 1904, by Belle Maniates

Edith Wilmot looked into the open fire, whose soft glow intensified her clear cut features and softened the meditative restraint in her beautiful eyes. It was the night of her return home after an enforced absence abroad of six years, which time had been devoted to the care of an invalid father. Since his death had occurred, two years before, she had aimlessly traveled and visited, until now she had decided to open her old home, so long closed.

On Arnold Graves, organist of St. Paul's and teacher of piano, her young girlish fancy had centered its dreams. The two hours spent weekly under his tutelage before she had gone abroad had been very happy ones to her. She had met her teacher of music socially, and their friendship had been fast merging into a closer relation when fate had intervened in the shape of the family physician, who had ordered Mr. Wilmot to Switzerland, where their sojourn had been prolonged beyond their original plans.

Edith had carried on a spasmodic correspondence with Arnold Graves; but, owing to his sensitiveness, her natural restraint and the lack of propinquity, their relations had not changed.

Constantly on her journey home had come the question to her mind whether he would find in the woman of twenty-six what had seemed to please him in the girl of twenty. She had written to him en route and asked him to call that evening. He had done so, and now, after his departure, she sat before the fire musing on their meeting.

She had in these years sometimes feared lest her girlish inexperience had read him wrong and invested him with qualities that lived only in her own fancy. She thought she would almost prefer not to meet him again than to suffer the loss of her illusions. But now her broadened nature and wider experience found him to be all she had thought him—and more. She knew, too, that her youthful feeling for him had quickly and suddenly become something else—something that was stronger for its long duration. She never had felt quite sure of the place she occupied in his thoughts and feelings, but tonight she had seen a strange light in his eyes when he looked at her. Perchance the expression had been there in the days long ago and she had been too ignorant to translate it.

She had pursued her musical studies while abroad, and Arnold had asked her to come to his studio the next morning and play to him. She went at the appointed hour, and after playing a few selections there suddenly entered a most beautiful young girl.

"Miss Wilmot," introduced Graves, "let me present my ward and pupil, Miss Beth Forbes. I want you to hear her sing," he explained to Edith.

Then, turning to the girl, he asked her to go into the adjoining room and look for a certain aria.

He had written casually of a distant cousin who had been left to his guardianship, but she had supposed his ward to be a mere child. Beth returned with the music. So charmingly did she render the aria that Edith felt her heart going out to her, though with conflicting sensations. Riding home she sank listlessly back in the carriage with a dull throb of pain in her heart. She passed a most wretched day, full of sharpened doubts. It seemed to her that Beth lacked no charm and that no man could withstand such loveliness. Arnold's ruling passion was music, and he must love the girl for her voice alone.

She wondered if Beth cared for him. She had seen nothing in the girl's manner to indicate that she had anything more than an ordinary affection of a pupil for her teacher, but then she was young, and her innocent heart had probably not yet awakened. Edith found herself consumed with an intense curiosity to know more of Arnold's young protegee. Yielding to a sudden impulse, she sent Beth a note asking her to spend the following day with her.

Beth accepted eagerly, and, flattered by having aroused the interest of an older, more accomplished woman, she was responsive in the highest degree to Edith's advances.

In discussing a popular novel Beth naively asserted that the woman did not love the man.

"What do you know about love, Beth?" demanded Edith.

"Nothing; only from looking on. Arnold says that when I sing love songs I tear passion to tatters and that I never can express the song of the heart until I have been in love."

"They say a pupil never learns to sing until she falls in love with her teacher. Mr. Graves has taught you to sing, hasn't he?"

"Yes; he understands voice training. But I'll never learn to sing love songs if I have to fall in love with him first!"

"Do you think him so impossible then?"

"For me, yes! Arnold doesn't think of me as a person with an individuality. To him I am a voice. If I couldn't sing I'd be devoid of interest in his eyes. He regards me as a scientist does his specimens."

She paused for a reply. Receiving none, she continued:

"Did you ever hear any of his musical compositions?"

"Yes. They are exquisite."

"They have all been dainty, simple little numbers, but his last work is far different. It is classical."

"Has it been published?"

"Not yet. He has just finished it. I'll tell you what we'll do. He is coming for me tonight, you know. When we are driving this afternoon we'll stop at the house and get the score. I know where it is."

In the evening when Arnold came Beth told him that she had the manuscript of his music.

"I am not in the mood to play it tonight," he said, hesitating.

"You are not to play it," interposed Beth. "I have heard it in all its different stages of composition, and I have it at my fingers' ends."

She seated herself at the piano and commenced playing. She was not an artist in the rendering of instrumental music, but she had great power of expression and a wonderful faculty of interpreting the composer's thoughts.

There was a power and strength in the opening bars which melted into a brilliant vivacity of execution and then finally glided into soft, reflective minor strains. From this was evoked a phantasmagoria of all the human passions. Dark, fierce, turbid dreams, an impassioned recitative, a thrilling tragedy, a graceful, insinuating subtlety of thought, a song of peace, joy, sorrow—all were expressed in the tenderness of melody refined and subdued. The theme was noble, the composition strong, the emotion genuine and the intensity dramatic.

The grandeur of the work was softened and made human by an exquisitely beautiful strain that from a background of sustained harmony ever occurred.

When the last note died away there was a momentary silence like that which follows a benediction. Edith's face was ablaze with passion.

"The music divine," she said in a low tone.

Arnold rose and crossed the room, his face pale with excitement and agitation.

"Tell me," he said to Edith, and there was something in his voice that made her heart beat quickly, "what you think of it."

"It is hard to dissect such music as that," she replied softly. "There was a color tone in every note. I felt as if I were in a vast garden of flowers, overcome by a thousand scents.

Arnold looked at her curiously.

"I did not know," he said, "that you were poetic or imaginative, nor did I dream," turning to Beth, "that your fingers could be so expressive."

"I have sat in the dark many a time listening to you as you played it," she said. "I could have played it from memory without the notes. It is Arnold himself," she murmured in an aside to Edith, "Arnold as he lets no one see him. He composed it in broken fragments, one day a snatch of gay melody, then a weird little cadenza or a dainty gavot, according to his mood, but always he played a most beautiful little melody that seemed to be ever with him. The 'song of the heart, nicht wahr?' Then he blended all these compositions so skillfully that a beautiful and complete harmony resulted."

"Beth," laughed Arnold, "you are a very precocious child!"

The precocious child gave further evidence of her claim to the appellation by asserting that the music had its charms when heard at a distance in the dark.

"If you and Edith will retire to the little reading room I will play it again and convince you I am right," she said.

They acted upon her suggestion, and Beth again rendered the passionate music, smiling softly to herself.

"I fancy this time," she mused, "that Miss Wilmot will imagine herself in a garden of love instead of a garden of flowers."

When she had finished the composition her hands wandered idly over the keys in fragments of melody.

When they entered the music room Beth looked up quickly, and then, with a mischievous laugh, burst into a grand, triumphant wedding march.

There was a half whimsical, wholly loving expression in Edith's eyes as she kissed the young girl.

"You are a dear girl!" she murmured.

"And a good guesser?" she queried.

"Such a good guesser, Beth, that you shall sing at our wedding!"

The Tramp That Had to Take Water.

A locomotive when taking water from a track tank looks as if it was going through a river. The water is dashed into spray and flies out on either side like the waves before a fast boat. Trainmen tell the story of a tramp who stole a ride on the front or "dead" end platform of the baggage car of a fast train. This car was coupled to the rear end of the engine tender. It was quite a long run, without stops, and the engine took water from a track tank on the way. When the train stopped the tramp was discovered prone on the platform of the baggage car, half drowned from the water thrown back when the engine took its drink on the run.

"Here, get off!" growled the brakeman. "What are you doing there?"

"All right, boss," sputtered the tramp. "Say," he asked after a moment, "what was that river we went through awhile ago?"—From "Stories of Inventors," by Russell Doubleday.

Swords of London.

There are four swords belonging to the city of London—the sword of state borne before the lord mayor as the emblem of his civic authority (this is the sword which used to be surrendered to the sovereign at Temple Bar and when she came within the precincts of the corporation); the pearl sword, from the nature of its ornaments, which is carried before the lord mayor on all occasions of ceremony or festivity; a sword placed at the central criminal court above the lord mayor's chair; a black sword, to be used in Lent, on days of public fast and on the death of any of the royal family.

WORKER OF MIRACLES

Father Ignatius Tells How He Raised the Dead.

LIFE RESTORED TO GIRL'S CORPSE

Anglican Monk Laid Piece of True Cross Upon Young Woman, Who Arose, He Asserts, When Commanded In Christ's Name—Man Killed by Fall of Block of Masonry Restored by Lourdes Water.

Father Ignatius Joseph Leycester Lyne, the famous Anglican monk of Llanthony Abbey, in Wales, who recently stated that he believed the days of miracles are not yet past, even to the healing of the sick and raising of the dead, told in an interview with a representative of the London Express of various occasions upon which as the agent of God he had performed what he called miracles.

One notable occasion was in the year 1862 when he and a fellow worker named Redman were awakened one night by a woman who earnestly besought Father Ignatius that he would come out and save her daughter, who was dying of typhoid.

"Suddenly," said Father Ignatius, "I felt the command of our Lord upon me, and I rose up. All I said to my friend was, 'Do bring your relic with you.' He had a wonderful, beautiful relic, a piece of the wood of the true cross. We had a long walk and went as fast as we could.

"When we reached the house the girl was dead. She had been dead two hours, and the body was already composed for burial. Upon an involuntary impulse, however, which I felt to be inspired, I took the relic of the cross from my friend and laid it upon the dead girl's breast. Then, in the words of the apostolic command, I cried, 'In the name of Jesus Christ, I say unto thee arise!'

"Slowly and stiffly the corpse arose in bed, and Redman, turning to me, cried, 'What have you done?'

"'I have done nothing,' I replied, 'but the Lord hath done great things indeed.'"

After this Father Ignatius harked back to the first time when the word of the Lord came upon him. This was at Plymouth, where a mother declined to allow her children to be baptized. Father Ignatius told her the curse of God would fall upon her, and within an hour the curse fell.

Suddenly, without warning, the woman's fourteen-year-old daughter was stricken with abject idiocy, and her whole body broke out from head to foot with the most loathsome sores. Doctors were entirely at a loss to diagnose the nature of the seizure, but it came home to the mother that through her sin the retributory hand of God had touched her children.

"Then," said Father Ignatius, "I heard a voice saying to me with greater and greater insistency 'to go to this child in my name.'

"I hurriedly obeyed the divine command and went by the bedside of the sick girl. I commended her to the care of the divine physician. The answer to this prayer came almost in a moment, the answer of an overwhelming mercy, the miracle of a complete cure."

Another incident, among many others of which Father Ignatius spoke, is perhaps the most remarkable of all. It occurred when Llanthony abbey was in course of building.

"I was with the brothers in the garden at recreation," explained Father Ignatius, "when news was brought to me of a terrible accident. For some reason great blocks of masonry which were being hoisted up suddenly shifted and fell, crushing to death a man who was working the pulleys.

"When the brothers came running up to me and told me what had happened I said, 'Wait a minute.' Then I ran as hard as I could to my cell and fetched a little flask I had of Lourdes water. When I reached the spot where they had laid the man, who was nothing but a bruised pulp, the brothers were standing around looking sadly on the dead.

"There could be no doubt he was dead. Think what would happen to your hand if a brick fell on it and then how your body would feel if you had been crushed by the weight of masonry that fell upon that man.

"But then it was no time for thinking, for I felt the Divine command upon me. I sprinkled the poor mangled corpse and in the name of the Lord commanded it to arise. Immediately it did so. Nay, more. The man without a word of any kind walked home to his lodgings without so much as a mark upon him."

Tallest of Skyscrapers.

Professor Desire Despradelle of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has completed plans and drawings for a skyscraper of 125 stories, 1,500 feet high, says a Boston special dispatch to the New York Press. Mr. Despradelle is professor of architecture in the institute. The plans provide for a combined city hall, people's palace and a national monument to be called the "Beacon of Progress." The building has the outward appearance of a giant obelisk, but is to have a steel framework built on the principle of present skyscrapers. Professor Despradelle estimates that such a building could be built in five years.

Study of National Eugenics.

Francis Galton recently endowed in London university a fellowship for the promotion of the study of "national eugenics," which is defined as "the study of the agencies under social control that may improve or impair the racial qualities of future generations either physically or mentally."

WIVES ON CHRISTMAS TREES

Strange Christmas Customs That Prevail In Parts of Russia.

Of all Christmas tree customs, one of the strangest prevails in parts of Russia. A gift tree is set up in the village, on the branches of which roost young unmarried women, cloaked and hooded and veiled so that their identity is concealed. The swains are admitted one by one, just as they are in our familiar American game of "spat in, spat out." Each as he enters lifts a veil—of course at random—and the face thus disclosed belongs to his future wife. The act of lifting the veil betroths the couple, the penalty for breaking the engagement being a heavy fine to be paid into the village treasury.

Another Russian custom is a procession of children dressed in fantastic animal costumes. One boy holds aloft a star shaped paper lantern to represent the "star of the east;" another carries on his back a miniature theater, on the stage of which puppet performances like "Punch and Judy" shows are given at every farmhouse where the motley pageant halts.

The modern Christmas tree comes to us from Germany, the Yule log from Scandinavia, Santa Claus from Holland and the Christmas stocking from France, but the Christmas turkey—ah, that is America's contribution to the world's stock of Christmas cheer! But there is one part of the world where the people are afraid to eat turkey. In Armenia it would be too much like treason to their cruel ruler, the Turk. If they do venture to eat the fowl they call it "Egyptian hen." Down in Egypt they name it "Indian hen." Thus both Armenians and Egyptians save themselves from Moslem vengeance.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Christmas Table Decorations.

The dinner table itself should proclaim the season by its decoration. A snowy cloth patterned with holly leaves or mistletoe, a centerpiece of glossy holly leaves and brilliant berries, silver candelabra and silver bonbon dishes are appropriate and dignified. Flat wreaths of holly tied with bows of "berry" red ribbon are very effective on the table, one in the center and one encircling each candelabrum. A silver or a cut glass bowl of holly and meteor roses or holly and mistletoe may be set in the wreath to complete the centerpiece. The outline of the Christmas star may be used instead of the wreaths. In this case the bows of ribbon are omitted. And for the guest cards either bells, stars, plum puddings, holly or ivy leaves, cut out and painted and ornamented with Christmas verse or greetings, are appropriate, and a little silk stocking of bonbons may be laid by each card as a souvenir.

Christ's Birthday.

There is something akin to sadness in the fact that in tracing the origin of many of our church festivals we find it in pagan celebrations antedating the Christian era. There is nothing certain even about the birthday of Christ. Some authorities assert that December was in the dry season, when shepherds were on duty day and night. In the controversy over the date, extending from December to May, Pope Julius (337-352) had an investigation made by St. Cyril and was satisfied that the 25th of December was correct. It was so established in the Roman church, and before the end of the fourth century the dictum was universally accepted.—Boston Herald.

Mrs. Leader's Liberality.

Struggling Pastor—Nearly all the congregation has subscribed liberally for the Christmas tree fund, and I feel sure that I can also have your hearty co-operation. How much will you—

Mrs. Leader—Let me see. Oh, I am the only member who has a carriage and coachman, I think.

"Yes. The rest are poor."

"Well, I will drive around and collect the subscriptions."

Christmas Day.

Oh, blessed day which gives the eternal lie
To self and sense and all the brute within—
Oh, come to us amid this war of life;
To hall and hovel come; to all who toil
In senate, shop or study and to those
Who, sundered by the wastes of half a world,
Ill warned and sorely tempted, ever face
Nature's brute powers and men unmanned to brutes—
Come to them, blest and blessing, Christmas day.
Tell them once more the tale of Bethlehem—
The kneeling shepherds and the Babe divine—
And keep them men indeed, fair Christmas day.

—Charles Kingsley.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

How do you like the eight-page Christmas Ledgers this week? We believe in publishing interesting papers that will go into the homes and thereby benefit advertisers.

The No-License league of Brockton expended considerable more during its campaign than did Quincy, but as they were victorious, they are satisfied. The expenditures were over $1,200.

The Socialists do good work in some places. At Brockton on Tuesday evening, the Socialist members made a point against the payment of compensation of $5,000 to three members of the commission on the new High school-house, and the order was rejected.

Many favorable comments were heard Tuesday upon Mayor-elect Thompson's selection of Julius Johnson as one of the Assessors. Business men look upon Mr. Johnson as a successful business and a practical builder with a large experience. The appointment is universally a satisfactory one.

There is at least one Englishman, Sir Alfred Moseley, who after an exhaustive study of conditions in this country, does not hesitate to say that the prosperity of the United States is wonderful. Her progress, he adds, will be steadily and rapidly upward, and he predicts that during the next generation the commercial and idealistic achievements of America may fairly stagger humanity.

The election in North Adams on Tuesday which completes the Massachusetts municipal elections was very close on the mayoralty contest, Mayor Stafford, the Republican candidate being defeated by 39 votes. The city voted for license 1754 to 1391; accepted the firemen's pension act, and repealed the Luce Act. North Adams elects all its councilmen at large, also assessors, trustees of public library and school committee.

The absence of Clerk Spear from the meeting of the City Council this week again reminds us of the constant and faithful service of this official of the city. Mr. Spear has been clerk of the City Council since the organization of the city government in Quincy in 1889. In the sixteen years just closing about 500 meetings have been held and Clerk Spear has missed but two. On both of these occasions representatives of the Daily Ledger served pro tem—some years ago Frank F. Prescott and at the meeting this week George T. Magee.

In two particulars out of three, Congressman McNary has been successful in his recent effort to secure post office improvements at Quincy—in the matter of an additional carrier, and for the extension of the Quincy free delivery system to cover Braintree. The congressman is also confident on the third matter, an appropriaiion for a federal building for Quincy, and it may be nearer than people generally expect. The Quincy office certainly needs more room and more conveniences, and these demands will increase before a new building can be provided.

Ex-Ambassador Andrew D. White agrees with President Roosevelt in deploring the laws delay, especially in criminal cases. He says crime is crime and it is somebody's duty to make its prosecution more speedy and less intricate. Even the Government, when prosecutor, as in the case of Beavers, Machen, Groff, and many others, finds it impossible to expedite the trial and secure the prompt carrying out of the sentence. Mr. White says that in regard to this matter he prefers evolution to revolution. It is acknowledged that high crime is more frequent in this country than anywhere else in the world, save only Sicily. Since we are in the habit of calling down other peoples who commit crimes, this is a serious indictment for a nation which prides itself upon its intelligence and Christianity.

Drift of Opinion.

☞The beautiful snow has made a clear path for Santa Claus and his reindeer sleigh team. A Christmas without snow on the ground is something to be deplored, and the prospect is fair that we shall have a regulation festival "white" variety. During this week the purchasers will be busy loading the sleigh that the patron saint of the holiday is supposed to pilot over the roofs of the houses of those whose faith in him has not been shaken, and we violate no confidences when we say that the storekeepers will be happy to confer with the buyers.—Lynn Item.

☞The children, God bless their smiling faces and happy hearts, will live in the very atmosphere of delight, now that Christmas is drawing so near to them. They know that they are not to be forgotten, they never have been, and so they conjure up in their vivid imaginations what the stocking and the Christmas tree will bring them. They go around in the stores, they peer into the windows, and notice with the keenest delight those mysterious bundles which are smuggled into the house; but they cannot cheat these bright eyes, and although the most of these bundles may run the gauntlet, there are a sufficent number of them of which a glimpse has been obtained, to cause many happy heart beatings, many bright anticipations of the fund remembrances which the contents of these bundles will make manifest a little later on.—Gloucester Times.

☞We can see no measurable harm in the Santa Claus stories, and we strongly doubt if they ever really deceived a child old enough to see the difference between a true story and a false one. Children are as appreciative as their elders of the part played by intention in making things good or bad. The play of children, particularly if they are bright and intelligent, consists largely of "lying" of exactly this sort; that is, they are forever declaring themselves to be what they are not, and giving to their surroundings qualities which they do not possess. No evil results follow this habitual course of apparent mendacity, and it troubles only the moralists who forget there is such a thing as being absurdly logical and consistent in dealing with human beings. All big children and most little ones are perfectly well aware that there is no Santa Claus, but they are entirely content to play with their parents the Santa Claus game, just as they are to play with a father who pretends to be a bear and growls at them from under the piano. There is "lying" in one case as in the other—and both it is innocuous, if common sense is any judge.—New York Times.

AGAINST THE FIRM.

Judge Avery Finds for Employe of Thomas & Miller.

Judge Avery has rendered his finding as arbitrator in the matter of dispute between an employe of Thomas & Miller, and the firm, as to what wages the man in question was entitled to receive.

In order to fully understand the finding of Judge Avery it is necessary to republish a history of the case.

The man in question applied to the firm for employment, which was given him. During the first few weeks the firm paid the man the average wage, which was 35 cents per hour.

When the firm found that the man was unable to earn that amount he was informed that he would only be paid the minimum wage. Upon which the man left.

When the firm came to settle with him it was on the minimum basis, the amount over that, although some had already paid him, being deducted.

The joint executive committees were unable to agree and the men at the yard went out, but were later ordered to return to work.

Then it was that the question of what pay the man was entitled to receive was referred to Judge Avery.

Judge Avery decided the question according to its legal standing, which was that the man was entitled to receive the average wage of 35 cents per hour.

The clause in the agreement regulating this matter says that men may be employed at an average wage of 35 cents per hour. Judge Avery ruled that the word employed being used it implied a second contract, whereas if it had read may be paid an average wage the firm's position would have been right.

As it was the man was entitled to the 35 cents per hour which he received the first few weeks and the firm therefore was in the wrong in deducting from his wages the difference between that sum and the minimum wage. The total money value involved in the matter was something like $3.

CITY BREVITIES.

But ten more days of leap year.

Mrs. Hunt is moving into her new house on Bigelow street.

George Crowell has resigned his position at the shipyard.

The Daily Ledger will begin to-morrow to print the church programs for Christmas.

An adjourned meeting of the Granite Manufacturers' Association was held Tuesday evening.

The public schools, and also the Woodward Institute have closed for the balance of the year 1904.

C. H. Tower has been appointed substitute watchman at the shipyard, but still carries on his upholstery business.

The several departments of the city are busy winding up their accounts for the year, so as to be able to start in fresh on Jan. 2.

It is time well spent to take a trip through the local stores and see the display of Christmas goods, even if purchases are not made.

Now that the city Council has refused to increase the salary of the City Auditor to $1000 there will not be quite so much of a hustle for the position.

It is rumored that the Pennsylvania railroad has assumed control of the New York, New Haven and Hartford, and has already taken possession.

The new Y. M. C. A. building was opened for the first time Tuesday evening. The apparatus for the gymnasium which was shipped several days ago has not arrived so that the gymnasium is not ready.

The death of Rev. Henry Bushnell of Washington street has cast a gloom over the entire neighborhood. Mr. Bushnell was a man who commanded the respect and love of all his neighbors and friends.

A surprise party was tendered to Miss Clara DeCoste at her home, 66 School street, Tuesday evening. The evening was enjoyably spent in playing games and dancing. During the evening Miss DeCoste was presented with a mahogany music cabinet. Guests were present from Roxbury, Dorchester, Neponset, South Braintree and Quincy. The party was under the auspices of the F. L. F. society.

Quincy Associates.

Tho Quincy Associates held their annual meeting Tuesday evening and elected the following officers.

Vice President,—George Ruxton.
Secretary,—Frank N. Benson.

The stores report an unusually good trade, showing that money is more plenty than last year. Another indication of better times also is that the jewelry stores are doing a rushing business. One of the old firms, which carries a large stock throughout the year and put in a lot more for the Christmas trade, say they have sold nearly everything in the store but the show cases and have had to stock up again.

FARMER'S BALL.

Many Reubens Were There and Also the Winsome Lass.

It lacked but the lowing of the kine Tuesday evening to make the "farmer's ball," given in Music hall, Atlantic, a perfect farm-yard picture. The grand march, forty couples strong, was so ridiculously characteristic that the spectators were provoked to continuous laughter, and the Rubens bore off their parts graphically and with every possible variation.

The young women under their sunbonnets looked winsome enough for any farmer lad to loose his heart to, and the pretty, tempting baskets of eatables were eyed longingly by the masculine contigent until intermission, when leap year choice was made and one and all sat down on the floor to eat and make merry. Even the members of the orchestra joined in the feasting and it was a jolly and common pleasure.

The young farmers became unduly hilarious under the influence of cake and candy and water, and it has been many moons since Atlantic has lost its lethargy to such a wild extent. The order of dances was carfully selected and obliterated all square figures.

At the close of the evening three rousing cheers were given; one for the teacher, Miss Crane; one for the pianist, Miss Ireland; and one for the orchestra. Miss Crane's season has been wonderfully successful, and her popularity does not end in Atlantic, but extends to Ashmont and Dorchester and Milton where she has other dancing classes.

This farmer's ball terminated the lessons of the adults in Atlantic, but a series of socials will follow for the general public with reasonable admission. The first one will be given Wednesday evening, December 28.

The Real Reason.

Owing to the fact that thousands of people now reading "Frenzied Finance" in Everybody's Magazine, did not see the July "foreword," in which Mr. Lawson explains his reasons for writing the articles, the publishers have reprinted in their department, "With the Publishers," in the December issue, the following paragraphs from the July number.

"My motives for writing 'Frenzied Finance' are manifold: I have unwittingly been made the instrument by which thousands upon thousands of investors have been plundered. I wish them to know my position as to the past that they may acquit me of intentional wrong-doing; as to the present that they may know I am using all my powers to right the wrongs that have been committed, and as to the future that they may see how I propose to compel restitution.

"My desire in writing 'Frenzied Finance,' while tinged perhaps with hatred for and revenge against the 'system' as a whole and some of its votaries, is more truly pervaded with a strong conviction that the most effective way to educate the public to realize the evils of which such affairs as the Amalgamated are the direct result, is to expose before them the brutal facts as to the conception, birth, and nursery-breeding of this the foremost of all unsavory offsprings of the 'system.' Thus they may learn that it is within their power to destroy the brood already in existence and render impossible the creation of their like."

An orchestra at the Consolidated market Tuesday afternoon proved quite an attraction.

EVENT IN JAMES C. NEEDHAM'S LIFE

How a Mule Kept the Representative From Being a Native Son of the Golden West—Ketcham Never Wears Bananas—Uncle Joe Cannon's Reply to a Proposition From Some Reformers.

Representative James C. Needham of California, who recently reached the goal of all representatives, the ways and means committee, by appointment by Speaker Cannon, was born in an emigrant wagon in Carson City, Nev., while his father and mother were on their way across the plains to California, says the New York World's Washington correspondent.

When Needham first ran for congress in California he was opposed by the members of that strong California organization, the Native Sons of the Golden West. It is stated that Needham was not a native Californian and thus not entitled to the support of the Native Sons.

"I admit I wasn't born in California," said Needham in making his reply to the charge, "but it wasn't my fault. I wanted to be born in California and would have been if one of my father's mules drawing his emigrant wagon had not taken sick at Carson City and held the family up there for a week or two."

One of the wags in the Republican cloakroom is responsible for this story about Representative J. H. Ketcham of New York, who is quite deaf.

"Ketcham went to a dinner one night," the tale runs, "and sat next to a lady who tried to make him as comfortable as possible. There was some fruit on the table, and she asked him, 'Do you like bananas?'

"'What's that?' returned Ketcham.

"'Do you like bananas?'

"'No,' Ketcham replied; 'I never wear them. I stick to the old fashioned nightshirt.'"

When Uncle Joe Cannon was touring Wisconsin a party of high browed reformers got aboard his special car with a proposition to settle the political differences in the Republican party there. They had a scheme that provided for the resignation of all candidates and the selection of a new set by a bipartisan committee.

The man who made the proposition to Uncle Joe was a tall, gaunt principal of a female seminary.

"Why," said Uncle Joe, "you can't do that. If you tried it they'd throw you so high in the air that the bluebirds would build nests in your hair before you got down."

"We'd like to see Senator W. J. Stone," said two ladies to one of the gallery doorkeepers in the senate.

"There he is," said the doorkeeper, pointing out the senator from Missouri.

The ladies surveyed Stone carefully. Then the older one turned to the younger and said: "Pshaw! I don't believe that's him. He hasn't got on any gum shoes at all."

"When I was campaigning in southern Kansas," said Representative Curtis, "we came to a town where they were holding a street fair. A palmist had a tent on the street, and a friend and myself went in to have our palms read. She told me I would make a good public speaker if I kept at it long enough. Then she took up my friend's hand. She studied it a long time and finally announced, 'You are a barber.'"

"'Wrong,' said my friend. 'I am a lawyer.'

"'Huh!' said the palmist. 'What's the difference between being shaved by a barber and skinned by a lawyer?'"

One of the Republicans swept into the Fifty-ninth congress by the landside in Missouri is William T. Tindall of Sparta. The congressional convention for the Fourteenth district nominated Mr. Tindall without his knowledge or consent. When the notice of his nomination was received he said, "Pshaw, I'd decline it only I hate to waste a two cent stamp on it!"

"FADELESS" FLOWERS.

Features of a Plant Developed by a San Francisco Man.

Luther Burbank of San Francisco has developed a "fadeless" flower, says a dispatch from that city. He calls it the "Australian star flower." He evolved it from a half hardy annual found in west Central Australia. Burbank describes the flower as a "unique and beautiful plant, which grows readily from seed in any ordinary garden soil, preferring sandy loam. It blooms early in the season and continues to bloom for a long time."

The fragrant flowers are of rosy crimson shade sometimes approaching pure white. They are produced in large, graceful clusters which when cut will retain their form and color permanently. The full grown plants are about a foot high. Though the stem of the flower may dry up, the blossoms do not fade. Mr. Burbank has a cluster of these blossoms in his library which have remained there unchanged for a whole year. Neither do they lose their odor.

Spoils of War.

Among the spoils of war taken at Liaoyang was a pet pigeon belonging to General Kuropatkin. It is now in Tokyo.

TAMING A TIGER.

The Way a Showman Got Friendly With a Fierce Beast.

A zoologist thus describes how an attendant brought about friendly relations with a fierce tiger:

"There was a showman I used to know named Melchior. He once bought a magnificent Bengal tiger, which he got at a low price because it had already killed two men.

"At first Melchior would put his foot or his hand into his cage, but from the way the tiger would leap at him he knew that to put himself entirely in its power would be suicide. Nothing he could do would establish a friendly relationship between himself and the tiger.

"Some originality was needed, and Melchior showed it by taking some old clothes, stuffing them with rags and throwing them into the cage. The tiger in a jiffy tore the old clothes to pieces, thinking that the figure was a human being.

"Next day and the next day and the next Melchior continued to throw in to the tiger stuffed figures, and the tiger continued to destroy them. But as time passed the animal ceased to put heart into its work and in the end it gave up altogether these attacks on the scarecrows. It would just play with them or else not notice them at all.

"Now was Melchior's time. He opened the cage door one morning, walked in boldly and slapped the tiger familiarly on the back. It gave him a friendly look and purred. It took him for another manikin not worth bothering about. It lived seven years with Melchior and became as gentle as a kitten."

WORSHIPERS OF BAAL.

Queer Ways of an Extraordinary Sect In Turkey.

The Yezidees, the Baal worshipers or devil worshipers of Turkey, are an extraordinary people, and, although forced by the laws of conscription to serve in the Ottoman army, the seizure of one or more of their young men by a Turkish recruiting party is such a distressing spectacle that once witnessed it can never be forgotten.

Wails and yells of despair are raised. Men, women and girls kiss the recruit's eyes, cheeks, mouth and hands. Throwing themselves on the ground, they even embrace his legs and feet.

The conscript appears quite dazed with sorrow. He folds in his arms and caresses over and over again his weeping kindred, whom he will never see again. He kisses the walls and the hearth of the cabin in which he was born, but which he is about to quit forever, and wets them with his tears, but when, accompanied by his Turkish captors, he leaves the village the lamentations of the villagers cease.

Then, and as though nothing had happened, the latter go about their ordinary occupations. Never again is the conscript's name mentioned, and on joining his regiment the young Yezidee becomes a Mussulman. His kindred, believing him accursed, affect to forget him, and were he to approach the village from which he has been forcibly dragged away every Yezidee, even his dearest friends, his father, mother, brothers, sisters and sweetheart, would drive him from their presence with curses and pelt him with stones.

Gooseberries and a Cat.

Not long ago, says Collier's Weekly, officials of the department of agriculture were much amused by a letter sent the department by an occasional correspondent in Virginia.

Among other things the writer hastened to advise the secretary of the department to this effect:

My wife had a Tame cat that dyd. Being a Torture shell and a Grate faverit, we had the same berred in the Gardin, and for the enrichment of the soil I had the Carkis deposited under the roots of a Gooseberry Bush. (The Frute being up to then of the smooth variety.) But the next Seson's Frute, after the Cat was berred, the Gooseberrys was all Hairy—and more Remarkable, the Catapilers of the Same Bush was All of said Hairy description.

The Government's Music.

A certain congressman who takes an interest in musical matters presented a bill advocating a larger appropriation for the care of the music in the Congressional library. He spoke briefly on the subject, and after the session a fellow congressman approached him confidentially.

"I say," he said in a low voice, "I like that bill of yours. But, tell me, what sort of music does the government have over there in the library? Is it a band or just a hand organ?"—Harper's Weekly.

Her Hand.

"Sir," began the timid youth as he entered the office, "I am in search—er—that is, I came to seek your daughter's hand"—

"Well, it isn't anywhere in this vicinity," interrupted the stern parent. "She's probably using it as a piano thumper about this time of day."

Boston Wires Resent It.

Angry Patron—Hello, central! What did you cut me off for? Boston Telephone Girl—Because you used a plural noun as the subject of a singular verb. You are not allowed to do that on this line, sir.—Chicago Tribune.

Tired.

"Your account has been standing a long time, Mr. Dukey."

"Then give it a seat, my dear Shears."

"Very glad to, sir. Shall we make it a receipt?"

HOSPITAL ORCHESTRA.

An Atlantic City Institute's Plan to Soothe Ills of Patients.

If your patient has a fever,
And his brain is in a whirl,
Just try a simple ditty
Like "My Hot Potato Pearl."

If insomnia has got him,
With waking hours to keep,
Suggest some pleasing ballad
Like "Go 'Way and Let Me Sleep!"

Oh, music is a wondrous thing!
It beats all kinds of pills.
Just try three heaping tune-fuls
And—add it to the bills.
—Modern Medical Musings.

That new idea of a musical materia medica is growing, says the New York American and Journal. The City hospital authorities of Atlantic City have fallen in with the notions of the eminent Brooklyn physician who a few weeks ago broke the news to a world of waiting patients that soothing potions hereafter must give place to soothing tunes.

Quinine in all its bitterness is to be swept away before a gale of sonorous sonatas. Ill tasting tonics are to be battered down by the stirring strains of marches. Annoying anaesthetics must give way to plaintive, droning melodies, which bring drowsiness and forgetfulness to wakeful eyes. Pungent paregoric is to be banished from the nursery for "Mother Goose" tunes in modern vein.

The Brooklyn physician conducted his experiments with a self playing piano. Sprightly tunes, he found, quickened sluggish pulses, while melodies, soft and low, soothed temples throbbing with fever. Atlantic City has gone into the musical cure on a more lavish scale. A hospital orchestra has been formed, and now while the patient listens to the strains of rhythmic waltzes his ills disappear in the dying tones of the melody.

Moving about from room to room the strange medical orchestra fits its tunes to the ailments of the sick, cheering the melancholy and quieting the jumping nerves of the excited. The hospital physicians are delighted with the success of their musical treatment so far and declare the new field one of the most promising opened up in many years. Even in the operating room they believe the effect of the music will be beneficially felt.

FREE LEGAL ADVICE.

Former Cleveland Judge Will Aid Litigants Unable to Hire Counsel.

Judge A. B. Dissette of Cleveland, O., intends to devote the rest of his life to furnishing legal aid to those in need and unable to retain counsel, says a dispatch from Cleveland. The judge's term on the common pleas bench expired a few days ago. He is well past middle life, but his health is excellent, and every indication points to his having many years in which to practice his unique charity.

"Ten years on the bench have shown me the need of just such practical philanthropy," said the judge. "When a rich man goes to court he has the ablest legal counsel to care for his interests. But when a poor man is forced to ask the courts for his rights very often those rights must be forced from the reluctant wealthy. In this case the poor man is at a disadvantage.

"The poor man is often compelled to submit to wrongs because he has not the means to seek redress in the courts. He is unable to hire a lawyer. From now on I am going to help persons in that condition. I know that in a certain class of cases competent legal counsel can be secured by means of contingent fees. But there are many cases involving rights where there is no possibility of the necessary money being earned in the form of a verdict.

"I don't know of any more crying need than that," concluded the judge. "To help the man who is in trouble by giving him the benefit of free legal services—I know of no other better way that a lawyer can do good."

STYLISH VEILS.

Works of Art, but Too Heavy to Enhance My Lady's Charms.

Mme. la Pompadour's influence has reached even the kingdom of veils, and the newest idea is for my lady to cover her face with a dainty tinted mesh worked over with exquisite little bunches of flowers scattered carelessly about its surface.

A modern celebrity, Mme. Melba, has made fashionable a stunning veil which looks like a lace flounce. It is of chantilly and of a circular shape, ornamented with a deep border. Some of these expensive chantilly face coverings have a border also at the top, which makes a pretty finish for the brim of a smart hat or will conceal the ravages of time on an old one.

The craze for floral effects which has invaded the entire world of dress fabrics has not skipped over the veil, and the latest chiffon "beautifiers" have scalloped edges and are appliqued all over with velvet daisies. Double veils are also a novelty. A medium shade with a lighter tone over it sheds a becoming glow over the face.

Changeable effects in veils are very smart, and this artistic scheme is carried out by means of two veils. The inner one is not noticeable except for the fascinating beauty note it gives to the features.

The charming gown in the cut is of soft gray panne. The folded bodice is very new and swagger with its ruched and braided cape effect about the shoulders and the pretty chemisette of lace trimmed with bands of cameo velvet. The wrinkled sleeves have elbow ruches of lace, velvet and tiny quillings. The skirt is gathered and ornamented at the feet with ruffles of panne held in position with braid. The folded belt of panne is set on the bodice.

Negligence In Inspection

New York, Dec. 21.—An investigation into the causes of the Glen Island steamer disaster in Long Island sound last Saturday, which cost nine lives, has begun before the local board of federal steamboat inspection. The board will seek especially to find why the Glen Island was not reinspected during the excitement following the Slocum disaster.

Misunderstanding Caused Disaster

West Falls, N. Y., Dec. 21.—Two freight trains, each drawn by two engines, crashed together on Jewettville curve, killing two trainmen and badly scalding another. The four engines were demolished in the terrific impact of the collision and a score of cars were reduced to splinters. A misunderstanding of orders caused the accident.

Death In Wake of Storm

Lisbon, Dec. 21.—A storm which suddenly burst on the northern coast of Portugal has caused great loss of life. At least 18 fishermen were drowned and 600 others have been rendered destitute. A ferryboat was capsized and 14 persons were drowned. Near Oporto five boats were sunk and five persons drowned.

Platt Says New York Republicans Must Line Up

READY TO FIGHT ODELL

Says Governor Is Out For Black, but Will Find Out Public Sentiment When Platt Conference In Depew's Favor Is Ended

New York, Dec. 21.—Senator Platt has made an open declaration of war against Governor Odell, and declared that he (Platt) had been buncoed long enough by the governor and did not intend to be buncoed any longer. The statement was made in answer to questions about the contest for Depew's place in the United States senate. Platt said:

"I have sent out 100 invitations to my friends throughout the state, to meet me at the Fifth Avenue hotel for the purpose of bringing about Depew's re-election to the United States senate. They are all good Republicans and the convention will show that the party is in favor of Depew. Odell has been groping about and pretending to find out public sentiment. He will know the real sentiment after the convention."

"Have you invited the governor to attend?" was asked.

"Not on your life," Platt replied. "He is for Black first, last and all the time, and I can't be buncoed like some people. I have been buncoed long enough, and I will no be buncoed any longer. I am for a straight out fight.

"Louis F. Payn called on me today to try to get me to support Black. He did not convert me, and I did not convert him, but we had a square, open talk. He is for Black, and everybody knows it. He did not pretend to be finding out public sentiment. I am tired of all this pretense, and am going to show that Depew is the choice of the party.

"There will be a goodly company of militant Republicans on hand. The situation can no longer be obscured or the issue befogged. It is now a fight to a finish. No one can stay in the bushes. Every one must line up. Those who are for honest dealing, fairness and truth will line up with us; those who favor the tactics and policies of Governor Odell will probably line up with him. There can be no middle ground. Win or lose, this fight will go on until honesty is triumphant or I am under the sod."

It was announced that Senator Platt has received 75 acceptances to his invitations to state leaders to attend the conference today.

Mrs Chadwick Did Not Testify

Cleveland, Dec. 21.—Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick was brought into the bankruptcy court here in the bankruptcy proceedings against her, but was excused from testifying because of illness. Should Mrs. Chadwick again be brought into court it is unlikely that she will give any testimony. If she does it will be against the advice of her attorney, who refuses even to allow her to be sworn as a witness.

New Bishop of Cuba

Atlanta, Dec. 21.—Rev. Albion W. Knight was elevated to the position of missionary bishop of Cuba here today. Knight was elected at the recent general convention of the church, held at Boston. The occasion brought to Atlanta many of the leading bishops and clergy from various parts of the country. Bishop Tuttle of Missouri was in charge of the ceremony.

Cannibals Have Many Captives

Mazatlan, Mex., Dec. 21.—Seri Indians, inhabiting Tiburon island, in the Gulf of California, are on the warpath. Mexican fishermen from the island report that several fishermen were captured and taken into the interior of the island by the Indians. It is also reported that two American prospectors were captured by the Indians. Seris are known to be cannibals.

Death of Bishop Phelan

Pittsburg, Dec. 21.—After an illness of three years, due to the infirmities of old age, Rt. Rev. Richard Phelan, bishop of the Pittsburg diocese of the Roman Catholic church, died at St. Paul's orphan asylum, Idlewood, surrounded by his relatives and many church officials. Bishop Phelan was born in Ireland on Jan. 1, 1828.

When Fairbanks Will Resign

Washington, Dec. 21.—Senator Fairbanks announces that his resignation will be forwarded to the governor of Indiana Jan. 9, the date of the meeting of the legislature, to take effect March 4 next, when he will be inaugurated vice president. Until recently it had been his intention to delay the resignation till early in March.

Kuropatkin Will Have 690,000 Men

St. Petersburg, Dec. 21.—The Third and most extensive mobilization of the war has begun, and will add about 200,000 reserves to the army in the far east. It is thought the whole force can be placed in the field by spring. It will bring General Kuropatkin's effective force, roughly estimated, to 680,000.

"Millionaire" a Bankrupt

Pittsburg, Dec. 21.—Charles R. Reed of Erie, supposed to be a millionaire, was declared to be a bankrupt in the United States court here. Reed's liabilities are nearly $1,000,000.

THE MORMON FAITH

Smoot's Counsel Objects to Evidence Gleaned From Books

Washington, Dec. 21.—The Senator Smoot investigation yesterday reached that period where counsel for the protestants have concluded the examination of all persons who could be reached by the subpoenas issued by the senate committee. Attorney Taylor announced that he was ready to rest his case except for the introduction of documentary evidence and possibly to examine later some persons on whom it had been impossible to get service. The case of the respondent will be opened Jan. 10, to which date the hearings have been adjourned.

Just before adjournment of the committee opposing counsel engaged in a controversy over the admissibility of certain reference works as evidence of the doctrines of the Mormon faith. No agreement could be reached and after heated arguments, Mr. Taylor recalled Apostle Penrose to identify certain reference books. In a number of instances Mr. Penrose denied that the works had been accepted by the church as authoritative publications and said many of the matters contained in the documents were subject to dispute.

Chairman Burrows ruled that the utterances of leaders of the church may be offered as tending to prove doctrines of the church organization.

One witness was C. M. Owen, who has been employed in gathering data to be used against the Morman church in this inquiry. He testified in regard to bringing actions against prominent church officials and as to the attitude of courts and prosecuting attorneys in such cases. He declared that such prosecutions are unavailing, as when convictions were obtained small fines were imposed and in most cases these were paid by popular subscription.

Eight Killed In Hotel Wreck

Minneapolis, Dec. 21.—The side wall of the O. B. Peck building, which was left standing by the great fire of last Tuesday night, toppled over in a high gale upon the Crocker hotel, a three-story structure adjoining. The tons of brick and mortar crashed completely through the building, carrying floors and all into a mass of debris in the basement. The 14 persons who were sleeping in the various apartments were caught in the crushed structure. Eight of them were killed. Responsibility for the accident will be the subject of thorough investigation. The loss is $16,000.

Nine Bad Men In Custody

Baltimore, Dec. 21.—Of the 10 alleged "yeggmen" arrested here three of them were turned over to the United States authorities and committed to jail for further hearings, six were held for the action of the authorities of Charles and Carrol counties and one was discharged. Among those held for a further hearing was James Sherwood, charged with robbing the postoffice at Bowdoin, Me.

Waggaman Collection at Auction

Washington, Dec. 21.—In the supreme court of the District of Columbia, Justice Anderson authorized the sale, at public auction in New York city, of the art collection of Thomas E. Waggaman, former treasurer of the Catholic university, against whom proceedings in involuntary bankruptcy were brought several months ago.

Accident Was Unavoidable

Washington, Dec. 21.—Vindication for all the officers and men on the Massachusetts is contained in the report of the board appointed by the commandant of the League Island navy yard to investigate the recent accident on board that vessel in which the death of several men was caused by the blowing off of a gasket.

Double Tragedy In Cafe

New York, Dec. 21.—Mary Olah, a domestic formerly employed in the Cafe Boulevard, entered the cafe early this morning and after shooting Siegmund Bohn, a waiter, in the chin, shot herself in the abdomen. Bohn was not dangerously injured, but it is believed that the woman will die. The cause of the shooting is not known.

Peace In Paraguay

Washington, Dec. 21.—A cablegram has been received at the state department from the acting American consul at Asuncion, Paraguay, stating that the revolution has been successful and that peace has been proclaimed. The Paraguayan revolt broke out early in 1902. The point involved was the presidential succession.

Pardon For a Grafter

St. Paul, Dec. 21.—The state board of pardons has granted a pardon to Colonel Frederick Ames, brother of former Mayor Ames of Minneapolis. Colonel Ames was chief of police and was convicted of "graft" during his brother's administration.

Fire In Chicago Convent

Chicago, Dec. 21.—Thrilling rescues of nine nuns, sisters of the French Order of the Hotel Dieu, marked the progress of a fire that burned the convent. Two of the nuns were injured. The loss on the building was $4000.

Fresh Marines For Panama

Colon, Dec. 21.—The United States auxiliary cruiser Yankee has arrived with 500 marines on board to relieve the battalion which has been stationed at Empire camp.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Orders have been issued by the navy department to put out of commission the cruisers San Francisco, New Orleans and Atlanta and the gunboat Marietta.

Mrs. A. R. Judd, widow of Norman E. Judd, minister to Germany during Lincoln's administration, died at Seneca Falls, N. Y., aged 82.

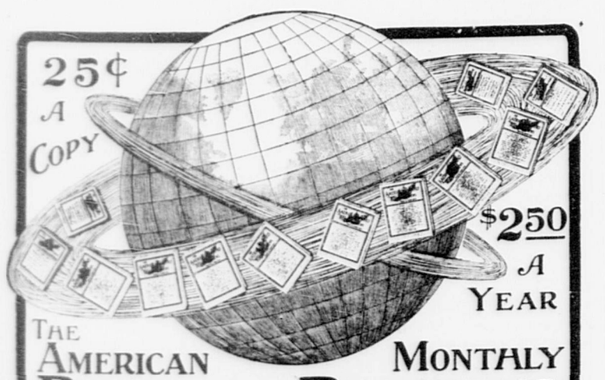
QUINCY DAILY LEDGER?



THE AMERICAN REVIEW OF REVIEWS MONTHLY

The more Magazines there are, the more Indispensable is The Review of Reviews

"Indispensable," "The one magazine I feel I must take," "The world under a field-glass," "An education in public affairs and current literature,"— these are some of the phrases one hears from noted people who read the Review of Reviews. The more magazines there are, the more necessary is the Review of Reviews, because it brings together the best that is in all the most important monthlies of the world. Such is the flood of periodical literature that nowadays people say that the only way to keep up with it is to read the Review of Reviews. Entirely over and above this reviewing section, it has more original matter and illustrations than most magazines, and the most timely and important articles printed in any monthly.

Probably the most useful section of all is Dr. Albert Shaw's illustrated "Progress of the World," where public events and issues are authoritatively and lucidly explained in every issue. Many a subscriber writes, "This department alone is worth more than the price of the magazine." The unique cartoon department, depicting current history in caricature, is another favorite. The Review of Reviews covers five continents, and yet is American, first and foremost. Men in public life, the members of Congress, professional men, and the great captains of industry who must keep "up with the times," intelligent men and women all over America, have decided that it is "indispensable."

Arbitration Voted For by Fall River Operatives

EFFORT TO TEST MILL MEN

Intention Is to Put Manufacturers on Record--Some Will Not Even Vote Now For Local Arbitration

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 21.—The meeting of the Textile council yesterday afternoon was brief, the only action being the appointment of a committee to draft the resolution favoring arbitration, which will be presented to the manufacturers.

The Weavers and Carders' unions voted unanimously to refer the strike to a board of arbitration to be selected by the executive committee of the National Civic Federation. The slasher tenders voted 100 to 5 to accept arbitration, and the mule spinners voted unanimously, save one dissenting voice. The loomfixers held a long meeting and finally voted unanimously to arbitrate.

The Textile council will send a letter to the manufacturers, informing them what has been done by the union. The matter may or may not be referred to the whole body of manufacturers, but the members of the executive committee think that an answer will be sent to the Textile council reiterating the manufacturers' position and declining arbitration on the wage question.

The attendance at the meetings was not large. The secretaries all favored the acceptance of the arbitration proposition. In some of the unions the speeches were of an inflammatory character. After the meeting one of the secretaries said he knew the manufacturers would not accept the proposition for arbitration, but he said the unions wished to put the manufacturers on record at this stage of the strike. He was asked what would be done when the manufacturers had refused the proposition, and he said he supposed the unions would continue to fight.

There is an impression in inside circles that the strike leaders are making their last stand. They are fully convinced that the mill men will not compromise on the wage reduction, but they will not lead any movement looking toward declaring the strike off.

After the decisions at the union meetings became known to the manufacturers, they were asked what would be done by them. Not one of them hesitated in saying that the matter would not be left to arbitration now. Some of them said they would not even vote now for local arbitration under any circumstances, but this was not a common expression.

The members of the executive committee of the Manufacturers' association do not know what they will do with the proposition to come to them from the Textile council. Individual members have said that the whole body of signers will not be called together, but that an answer will be sent to the council, explaining the situation at length, and asking the operatives to accept the reduction until times improve, or at least for the time being. No one can say whether this expression will prevail when the committeemen get together.

Manufacturers say the conference and the agitation for arbitration simply prolongs the trouble without offering any possible remedy for it.

Governor May Take a Hand

Boston, Dec. 21.—The Globe says: Governor Bates has moved toward the settlement of the strike in Fall River, having tendered his good offices and urged a termination of the conflict. It is known that President Borden of the Fall River Manufacturers' association has been in Boston recently and that he has conferred with the governor. From Fall River comes also the intimation that the governor and Borden have been in communication. The governor wants the strike settled and he would like to see this effected before he leaves office. It is suggested further that Bates believes and he has urged that it would be the part of fairness, as well as wisdom, that certain concessions be made to labor in the present controversy.

Owes Failure to a Kiss

Hammond, Ind., Dec. 21.—Louis Breskin, who has gone into involuntary bankruptcy, was a prosperous business man when, a month ago, he kissed a pretty girl in his store and was terribly beaten by her father, arrested and fined. Women then refused to patronize him, and after the trial's sensational developments Breskin's trade was lost to him, and creditors crowded him to the wall.

New Cotton Mill Planned

Atlanta, Dec. 21.—J. W. Templeman of this city is looking for a site in the interest of northern capitalists who propose to establish a $250,000 cotton mill, which they design enlarging to a $500,000 plant later. Just now Leeds, Ala., is the most promising location and the Leeds Land company is negotiating with the parties.

World's Fair Admissions

St. Louis, Dec. 21.—The official report of the director of concessions and admissions of the Louisiana Purchase exposition shows that the total recorded paid admissions for the period of the exposition from April 30 to Dec. 1, inclusive, was 12,804,618.

Britt Gets Decision Over Nelson In a Fierce Contest

San Francisco, Dec. 21.—At the end of the 20th round, after fighting like a pair of bulldogs, Jimmy Britt of San Francisco was given the decision over "Battling" Nelson of Chicago. In the closing round Britt was punching the Chicago boy all over the ring, but his blows lacked sufficient force to put a quietus on his opponent.

The fight was an exemplification of how much punishment a human being can endure and can not succumb. At several stages of the fight Nelson was badly punished, but he always kept gamely coming up to the firing line, and all through the 20 rounds he forced the fighting. In one or two instances he had the local boy in distress, but Britt's excellent generalship and the advice of his seconds saved him from going too close to the danger point.

No Particular Person Blamed

Charleston, W. Va. Dec. 21.—The coroner's jury in the inquest over the victims of the suspension bridge disaster have brought in a verdict declaring that the bridge was in an unsafe condition and that there was gross negligence on the part of all the officers of Charleston in the care and maintenance and repairs of the bridge since Jan. 30, 1896, to the day of the disaster. The jury, however, was unable to fix the responsibility for the disaster on any particular officer or set of officers.

Plan Funeral For Live Man

New York, Dec. 21.—Plans for an elaborate and honorable funeral for a man now living were considered by the board of aldermen. The man is Hiram Cronk, the last surviving veteran of the War of 1812, who is now living at Ava, N. Y., at the age of 104 years. The resolution provided that "in event of the death of the last survivor of the War of 1812, Hiram Cronk, his remains lie in state in the city hall, Manhattan borough, New York city."

Boy With Nerve Like a Man

Boston, Dec. 21.—The crew of the schooner Ella and Jennie, which stranded on the ledges near Bishops and Clark's lighthouse last Friday, passed through Boston yesterday on the way to their homes in Nova Scotia, and the most interesting character among them was the 12-year-old son of Captain Ingalls. The members of the crew say that the boy behaved himself during the gale like a hero, keeping his nerve like a man.

Poverty Results In Tragedy

Jersey City, Dec. 21.—Because she could not buy a Christmas present for her 3-year-old daughter, Mrs. Mary Metzger tried to cut the little girl's throat. The child's screams attracted neighbors, who rescued her after she had been badly injured. The mother tried to commit suicide, but was prevented. Mrs. Metzger was arrested and the child may die. The father had been out of employment for some time.

Sees Monopoly In Labor Unions

New York, Dec. 21.—President Eliot of Harvard university was the guest of honor at the mid-winter banquet of the Quill club here last night. President Eliot said: "The country is now overridden by monopolies, which, under free institutions, have become a menace. Look at the monopoly of the labor union, which is entirely created by the freedom of association."

Resigns Rather Than Sign Bonds

Camden, N. J., Dec. 21.—Mayor Nowrey last night handed his resignation as mayor of Camden to the president of the city councils, to take effect immediately. No reason is given for his stepping out of office, but it is believed he took this action rather than sign the $90,000 bond issue authorized by the city councils for the purchase of land for park purposes.

What Bennett Owned In New York

New York, Dec. 21.—The appraisal of the property in this state of the late Philo S. Bennett of Connecticut, of whose will W. J. Bryan was one of the executors, shows the deceased's interest in the firm of Bennett, Sloan & Co. to have been $286,671. This is said to be the only property he owned in this state. Deductions for debts and expenses amounted to $14,172.

MOTHER AND CHILD

Scott's Emulsion is cod liver oil made almost as palatable as milk. It is easy and soothing to the weak stomach; it checks the tendencies of children toward thinness.

Scott's Emulsion gives strength to weak mothers because it creates healthy flesh and new blood.

Nursing mothers will find a special value in Scott's Emulsion because it insures a flow of rich, nourishing milk for the baby. More and better than a medicine; Scott's Emulsion is a food.

Scott's Emulsion is not a mere extract, containing imaginary "active principles" which do not exist, but is full of actual nourishment which sustains vital force and builds up the body tissues more rapidly than any other known remedy.

CUPID'S GREAT CATCH

How Professor Crook, Once Unkissed, Became Engaged.

MET HIS FIANCEE AT TENNIS GAME

Charming Teacher of Chillicothe, O., Who Fears Not Love Germs, Will Wed Northwestern University Educator Who Said He Had Never Kissed or Hugged a Girl, Smoked or Touched Strong Liquor.

Rogue Cupid and all the marriageable girls in the country are laughing together in one grand, sweet, hilarious chorus, says a special dispatch from Chillicothe, O., to the New York World.

"Ha, ha, ha!" whispers Cupid to the girls, who are holding their plump sides. "Ha, ha, ha! Professor A. B. Crook of Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill., is engaged to be married. He is the truly good man who declared more than three years ago that he had never hugged or kissed a woman or girl. You will remember, he said, 'the scientific atmosphere is inimical to the love germ.' He had stoned to death the kissing bug with the rocks of the geology and minerology he teaches. The learned professor must have been neglecting his studies lately, eh, my children? He has felt the brush of her curls against his cheek; he has looked into her inviting eyes; he has seen her blush; he has thrilled with the thrill of her warm lips; he has kissed; he has been kissed. After forty years of life he has learned a little—a very little—of what Solomon, much wiser, comprehended not at all, 'the way of a man with a maid.' Ha, ha, ha!"

Laughing Cupid is right. Mr. and Mrs. John Purdin of Chillicothe announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Florence Purdin, to Alfa B. Crook, professor of geology and minerology in Northwestern university. Miss Purdin, a charming woman, is a teacher in the public schools of Chillicothe. Her fiance—Dan Cupid loves the word—her fiance is a native of Chillicothe. His father, the Rev. Dr. Isaac Crook, is presiding elder of the Methodist conference.

Miss Perdin first met Professor Crook at a tennis tournament. He is a sturdy athletic man, as should be one who never has touched strong liquor, smoked or chewed tobacco or hugged or kissed a woman or girl. He plays tennis well, just as he shines in all athletic games. Miss Purdin, lithe, graceful, a fine American young woman, plays tennis well too. While they played they could not know that Cupid swung a racquet in the game. Rumor has it that the round, full moon was shining bright; love germs swarmed in the lazy night air, each kissing bug was chirping happily to its mate, when it happened.

The professor kissed and was kissed, this is certain, for he is engaged to be married.

When Professor Crook awoke to find himself famous three years ago, when the whole world wondered at him, he made the supplementary statement that he had never intended to pose as a public example, that he had only advised a wild student to do as he did—never to kiss, hug, swear, and so forth. But the whole world, particularly the women in it, discussed the professor. It is said that the dowager empress of China, old as she is, expressed a strong desire to see him. Women in Seattle and women in Calcutta wrote love letters to him. Now—

He has been kissed. And any woman who wears an engagement ring will tell you that it's a box of marrons glaces against that other candied chestnut, a kiss, that he has hugged.

EDUCATION AGAINST ODDS.

Harvard Student Who Is Not Only Poor, but Also Blind.

Most young men consider poverty an insurmountable obstacle to getting an education, but E. Ray, a North Carolina boy studying in the graduate department of Harvard university, is not only poor, but blind as well, says a special dispatch from Cambridge, Mass., to the New York Times.

He was graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1903, having finished a four years' course in three. For a year he lectured, saving his money for another year of study. When the necessary amount had been earned he started for Cambridge, traveling a thousand miles alone.

Ray writes his lecture notes in the class room on his "point writing machine" and hires a fellow student to read the required books to him, taking notes in the meantime. In this way he keeps up with his fellow students and even outstrips some of them. He is preparing to be a teacher and is specializing in English.

Insect Menagerie In Paris.

A distinguished entomologist in Paris proposes to install a menagerie of insects at the Jardin des Plantes, says the New York Globe. He is very proud of a spider from Brazil, which he has kept in a cheese for eight months, and of a cheerful creature with a triangular head, which will be glad, no doubt, to make the spider's acquaintance, for it is intended that in the menagerie the insects shall all dwell together in a glass case. There will be perpetual war, of course, but the spectacle will console the Parisians for the lack of exciting news from Manchuria. "The slaughter will be great," says a sympathetic observer, "but the well known fecundity of insects will fill up the gaps caused by the pitched battles."

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Mr. Pease of Chubbuck street has left the employ of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co.

Some of our citizens were surprised this week at receiving summons for their 1904 tax bills.

Miss Lilla Tandoin of Providence, R. I., visited her cousin, Mrs. G. K. Carter of Charles street, Tuesday.

A great show called an "Illustrated Magazine," is in course of preparation by the young People's Religious union of First church.

Elmer W. Baker reports that he has been able to book three engagements since the City Council voted to remove the 11 o'clock restriction.

People of Edison street and vicinity are commenting on the remarkable way the roads were ploughed after Saturday night's storm. Much credit is due to the persons who had this work in charge.

The following boys who sold Ledgers election night are requested to call at this office before Christmas; James Duggan, 57 Whitwell street; Frank Swanson, Whitwell street; Walter Sweeney, Whitwell street; Charles Brown, 12 Common street: John Smith, 34 West street; John Lane 51 West street and William Fitzgerad, 25 Copeland street.

THE HAIR COMB.

It Was In Remote Times Used In Religious Ceremonies.

It would be curious to know what mystic meaning our forefathers attached to the simple act of combing the hair. We learn from old church records that the hair of the priest or bishop was combed several times during services by one of the inferior clergy, but what such a queer proceeding signified no one knows. The comb is also mentioned as one of the implements used during high mass, but only when sung by a bishop. Mass combs of the precious metals are still reckoned as the most valuable possessions of some European churches, though they are of no use in modern ceremonies. Besides the gold and silver combs, the poorer churches had them of ivory, iron, horn and even wood. Combs especially known to antiquarians are those of St. Neot, St. Dunstan and St. Malachias. That formerly belonging to St. Thomas, the martyr of Canterbury, is still kept in the church at Thetford; that of St. Cuthbert, "the woman hater," at Durham cathedral.

From sundry references in old legends to the use of the comb in divinations and from its appearance in combinations with pagan emblems on rudely sculptured stones in many of the old countries, it seems probable that it was a widely known pagan device and one that was highly venerated.—London Standard.

The Girdle of Old.

Howell quotes as familiar a French proverb, "Il a quitte sa ceinture" (He has given up his girdle), which intimated as much as if he had become bankrupt or had all his estate forfeited, it being the ancient law of France that when any man upon some offense had the penalty of confiscation inflicted upon him "he used before the tribunal to give up his girdle, implying thereby that the girdle held everything that belonged to a man's estate, as his budget of money and writings, the keys of his house, with his sword, dagger and gloves." The fact that the girdle was used as a purse had much to do with its importance in general appreciation. We have an English proverb confirmatory of this appreciation. It is said, "Ungirt, unblest," and that it was in very common use is clear from the frequency with which the phrase occurs in old out of the way literature.—Chambers' Journal.

Flowers of Good Cheer.

Although Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes never practiced medicine, those who knew him intimately say that he cheered more sinking invalids, cured more sick people and did more good, even from a medical standpoint, than many of his young physician friends. The secret of his power lay in his overflowing cheerfulness and kindness of heart. He scattered "flowers of good cheer" wherever he went. With him optimism was a creed. "Mirth is God's medicine," he declared. "Everybody ought to bathe in it. Grim care, moroseness, anxiety—all the rust of life—ought to be scoured off by the oil of mirth."

Identified.

"What has become," asked the occasional guest, "of the pretty black eyed girl who used to wait at that table over in the corner?"

"What pretty black eyed girl?" frigidly inquired the young woman with the snub nose and prominent chin.

"If I remember rightly, she had a little bit of a mole on one cheek."

"Oh, that girl with the blotch on her face? I think somebody married her."—New York Press.

The Bostonian's Incidental Remark.

He—Will you marry me? She—No, thank you. He—I thought perhaps you wouldn't. How do you like that continued story that is running now in the Atlantic?—Somerville (Mass.) Journal.

However things may seem, no evil thing is a success, and no good thing is a failure.—Longfellow.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. WONDERFUL INSECTS.

The Marvelous Ways of Various Species of Ants.

Lieutenant Colonel Sykes saw at Poonan ants carrying out grain to dry in the sun. Dr. Lincecum in Texas found ants which planted a certain seed bearing grass, reaped it and carried the grain into their cells, where they stripped it of chaff and packed it away. The paper relating this was read by Darwin before the Linnaean society. Another observer has told us of ants which grow mushrooms.

The foraging ants of Brazil and western equatorial Africa are terrible creatures. Elephants and gorillas fly before them; the python takes care not to indulge in a meal till he has satisfied himself that there are none of them about. They have a "leisured class," much larger creatures, which accompany their march, "like subaltern officers in a marching regiment;" they are not fighters, however. One curious conjecture as to their function has been made. They are indigestible, and birds spare the whole army lest they should get hold of one of these tough morsels. This, it must be allowed, looks a little too strange.

Slaves the ants certainly have, but they do not make slave raids; the larvae of the inferior race are carried off and hatched out. The crowning marvel, however, is that the British slave owning ant, and he alone, makes his slaves fight for him.—London Spectator.

CHILDREN IN THE HOME.

They Bring Anxiety, but Very Much More Comfort.

The children of the family—one is apt to look on them as burdens, bothers and expenses.

When the baby comes, be it ever so welcome, the mother has more work to do. As it grows into childhood and on to maturity it is more and more care, worry and expense.

And so the little children, those innocent trespassers, are borne with as patiently as possible until they grow to a successful manhood or womanhood.

Few stop to think deeply about this, or it would be plainly seen how erroneous the impression.

The children of the family, instead of being burdens, are burden bearers; small saviors who are daily means of grace, and who lead the world worn parents once more into the paths of innocence and peace.

A baby's tiny hand clasped around his mother's finger has stilled heart throbs of sorrow and of bitter trouble; a baby's arms around his father's neck have brought to the man's weary brain a renewal of that love which is all that makes life livable.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

BLOWING OUT A CANDLE.

The Effect a Puff of Breath Has on the Flame.

A burning candle is a gas manufactory on a small scale. The wax or tallow is converted by the heat of the flame into gas, and in that form enters into chemical combination with the oxygen of the surrounding air.

This chemical union causes a very high rise in temperature in the elements concerned. In fact, it produces what we know as flame of fire, which is simply the white hot molecules of carbon and oxygen. The gas making process is started by the match in lighting the candle and is afterward continued by the flame itself.

Our breath acts in three way: (1) It carries away the particles of gas bodily. (2) It lowers their temperature at the same time, so that they are no longer capable of entering into chemical union with the oxygen. (3) The breath contains carbonic acid gas, which is incapable of supporting combustion and so helps to extinguish the flame.

Betting For a Friend.

A gentleman was requested by a lady to put her a tenner on a certain horse if he fancied it. Now, he did not fancy the animal nor back it and was greatly surprised to see it win. Of course he was pleased, but his satisfaction was interrupted by the reflection that the lady would doubtless imagine that her tenner had been invested. The trainer inquired the price—20 to 1. Though a poor man, he was—and is, I should say—so kindly and scrupulous that he would not disappoint his friend, and sent her £200, which he could exceedingly ill afford. Doubtless to this day she has no knowledge of the truth.—London Sporting News.

The Passing of Chivalry.

When gallantry prevailed in the south no woman was allowed to carry home a bundle of any kind. If any gentleman caught one in the act of lugging a purchase from some shop to her domicile he felt in duty bound to tip his hat, make low obeisance and beg the privilege of acting as her expressman. This common courtesy was accepted of all men in the spirit in which a queen would allow a vassal to serve her. Nowadays southern women, like their northern sisters, tote their own packages.—New York Press.

CHRISTMAS.

Tree Festivals and Concerts by the Sunday Schools.

There will be Special Services and Music at Churches on Sunday.

Those church programs for Christmas which have been forwarded to the Daily Ledger are published below. Pastors, choristers and superintendents of Sunday schools are requested to forward their programs.

FIRST CHURCH.

The First church Sunday school are planning for a grand good time at its Christmas festival. The exercises will commence Saturday evening in the church at 6.30. They will be under the direction of Charles H. Johnson, and will consist of a short service and singing of Christmas carols. The public is cordially invited to these services.

At 7 o'clock the children will march to the chapel where there will be a Christmas play under the direction of Emery L. Crane. This will be followed by a visit from Santa Claus who will distribute presents to each member of the school.

On Sunday at 12 o'clock noon, in place of the usual Sunday school service, there will be a special Christmas service to consist of reading of Christmas stories and recitations by the school, and the singing of carols. Parents and friends are invited.

At the Sunday morning service of the church there will be given a Christmas cantata.

"The Manger Throne," by C. F. Manney. The principal parts being:

Part I—The Annunciation
- Baritone recitative
- Soprano solo
- Chorus

Part II—The Vision of The Shepherds
- Alto and baritone duet
- Chorus
- Baritone recitative
- Soprano solo and chorus

Part III—The Wise Men
- Baritone Recitative
- Tenor solo
- Soprano solo
- Choral

Part IV—Bethlehem
- Baritone recitative
- Alto solo
- Chorus

The cantata will be repeated at the four o'clock vesper service.

BETHANY CHURCH.

The Christmas festivities will begin at Bethany Congregational church on Saturday afternoon at 5.30, when there will be a Christmas tree and cantata for the Sunday school. The chairman of the entertainment committee is Mrs. S. I. Wood, who has interested many of the children. The cantata of "Robias Specific" will be given by boys and girls. There will be a tree and a visit from Santa Claus is expected.

On Sunday evening at 6.15 there will be a Christmas concert by the Sunday school entitled "Pilgrims of the Star." It will include organ voluntary, processional, hymns, invocation, responsive reading, prayer, exercises, singing, address by pastor. Melville P. Hayward is in charge of the program.

"Shine, oh Star of Christmastide,
Shed thy radiance far and wide,
Shine, oh, shine Star divine,
Where Christ's pilgrims are.
Lead the way to Christ, our King,
Loudly let His praises ring,
Shine, oh shine, Star divine,
Shine Christmas Star."

SACRED HEART CHURCH.

At the Sacred Heart church at Atlantic, Rev. John P. Cuffe, pastor, there will be high mass at 6 A. M. when Rosewig's Mass in F will be sung by members of the senior choir.

At a children's mass at 8 A. M. the mass will be sung by the children's choir of 35 voices.

Solemn high mass will be held at 10 A. M., with the following music:

AT QUINCY HIGH.

Reception by Young Ladies to the Foot Ball Team.

The young ladies of the classes of 1905 and 1906 gave a reception at High School hall Wednesday evening to the foot ball team, who invited as guests the teachers of the school and the young men of the two classes named.

The matrons were wives of three teachers, Mrs. C. F. Harper, Mrs. P. F. Parsons and Mrs. S. D. Thompson.

Suspended in the centre of the hall was the foot ball around which the team rallied so successfully the past season. The orders of dances were handpainted by members of the school and ornamented with a foot ball and the class colors red and blue.

The grand march was led by Eugene Saunders, the captain of the foot ball team, and Miss Mila Bates, the secretary of the Athletic Association. An incident of the evening was the presentation of "Q's" awarded to certain young men.

There was dancing from 7.30 to 10.30, to excellent music by Bigelow's orchestra. Refreshments were served during the evening by four young ladies of the Sophomore class.

AT THE WOODWARD.

Reception to the Seniors by the Sophomores.

The seniors of the Woodward Institute were given a reception at Woodward hall Wednesday evening by the Sophomores. The reception proved a most enjoyable occasion. Aside from the members of the two classes many of the parents of the pupils were present.

From 8 to 8.30 there was a reception, the receiving party being the faculty and the president, vice president secretary and treasure of the class of '07, who are Miss Esther Sidelinger, Miss Maud Reed, Miss Helen Lincoln and Miss Fannie Harding; assisted by Miss Adella W. Bates, and Miss Ruth B. Mears.

The ushers were members of the sophomore class. Following the reception was a dance. Punch was served during the evening.

IN THE SCHOOLS.

Christmas Observed on the Closing Day of the Term.

Wednesday was the closing day for the term at the public schools and was really Christmas day with the pupils.

AT THE ADAMS.

Christmas was observed in a general way at the Adams school, with exercises, songs and recitations. In the lower grades particularly the pupils had a good time.

AT THE CRANCH.

The lowest grades at the Cranch school had Christmas boxes on Wednesday and a jolly time. In all grades Christmas was informally observed.

AT THE CODDINGTON.

Because of the enforced absence of Miss Dearborn, the principal, owing to the serious illness of her sister, it was not as joyful a Christmas as usual at the Coddington, there being no observance in the upper grades. In one of the lower grades Santa Claus made his appearance, and there were short programs in other rooms.

AT THE WILLARD.

Pupils of Willard school devoted Wednesday afternoon to Christmas exercises. In the eighth grade there was a tree, songs, recitations and distribution of Christmas cards and candy. There were also exercises in the lower grades and Christmas cards and candy, and other gifts were distributed.

AT THE WOLLASTON.

As is the custom every year, the pupils of the Wollaston school, brought Christmas contributions on Wednesday consisting of fruit, vegetables, groceries and candy, which were afterwards distributed among six needy families in Wollaston.

AT ATLANTIC SCHOOL.

Christmas was informally observed on Wednesday in all grades at the Quincy school at Atlantic. There were exercises, recitations and songs. Some of the teachers were remembered, the principal, Charles Sampson, being the recipient of books.

Christmas was also observed at the Washington school, the John Hancock school, the Lincoln school, the Gridley Bryant school and the Massachusetts Fields school.

SERIOUS FALL.

Workman at Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium Hurt.

John B. Goff of Providence, R. I., a representative of the Narragansett Machine Co., met with quite a serious accident this noon at the new Y. M. C. A. building. Mr. Goff was on a ladder setting up some of the gymnasium apparatus when the bottom of the ladder slipped. Before he could save himself he fell to the floor a distance of eighteen feet. He landed heavily upon his hands and knees his head also striking heavily against the floor. He sustained a fracture of the left wrist, and he was quite badly bruised about the face and and head.

He was removed to the City Hospital where the fractured bones were set. Secretary Gay telephoned to Providence and notified his friends of the accident.

A tug came up the harbor Wednesday and found it necessary to cut through the ice to Baker's basin to take out a fishing schooner.

Points of Interest

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACE OF PRESIDENTS.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams; house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantum.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple Place, or to the office of L. S. Anderson, treasurer, 9 Savings Bank building, whose office hours are 8 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 to 5 P. M. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Closed for repairs, but soon to be opened to the public by the Society of Colonial Dames, the new owners.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished. Also the plant of the Fore River Ship and Engine Company where warships are being built for the government.

Counsel For Nan Patterson Moves Listeners to Tears

ASKS FOR HER ACQUITTAL

Actress Quails Under Invective of Prosecutor, Who Compares Her Love to That of a "Beast" --Skeleton Again in Court

New York, Dec. 22.—Judge Davis did not deliver his charge to the jury in the trial of Nan Patterson, the former actress, last night, but sent the jurymen home to rest after a day listening to the arguments of counsel. It had been expected that the case would go to the jury before 6 o'clock, but Judge Davis put his charge over until today.

Abraham Levy, chief counsel for the defendant, occupied the time of the morning session with his argument, while Assistant District Attorney Rand took up the afternoon with his speech. Both addresses were impassioned and eloquent.

Mr. Levy swayed his listeners to tears at times by his references to his client and the home-coming in Washington which he anticipated. Placing a Bible on the railing in front of the jurors, Levy read the eighth chapter of the Gospel of St. John. He laid particular emphasis on the sentence "He that is without sin among you let him cast the first stone,' and then he said to the jurors:

"Will you say to her who sits before you here, in the words of Him who spoke at that time, 'Woman, go and sin no more?' With the happiness of your own home before you and with the joy of the Christmas festival in anticipation, are you going to condemn this young woman?

"See, she sits there abandoned by all except that old man, her aged father. I leave her in your hands, confident that you will acquit her and restore her to her devoted old father at a time when everything proclaims 'Peace on earth; good will to men.' I ask that you allow her to take him home to the aged wife and mother who awaits them and give her a chance to live a new life with them in her home."

Mr. Rand's argument was a severe arraignment of Miss Patterson and when the prosecutor pitilessly condemned the woman as the murderess of Caesar Young, she quailed under his invective. "Actress, stony-hearted, cruel-mouthed avenger that she is, the story she told, the manner of her telling it, ought not to be convincing to a child.

"Every action proclaims her guilt. I have never seen a real murderer who has not been distinguished by coolness, calmness and unruffled demeanor and conceit. Never yet was there a murderer who was not anxious to testify, believing that his story would prove convincing to the jury," thundered the prosecutor.

In detail he held up her character to the jury and asked if a woman like her was able to have any love other than that of the "beast." "The beast in the woman called to the man, and the beast in the man answered," he said.

Miss Patterson's counsel were not spared by Rand, who, after saying that the defendant's testimony had been typewritten and learned by heart, added: "There are those among her defenders who are capable of preparing testimony which they know to be false. I name no names, and I stand ready to prove what I say if there is any question raised on that statement." J. Morgan Smith and his wife were denounced by the lawyer.

Most impressive was Mr. Rand's attempt to show the jury that Young could not have shot himself. The skeleton which had already appeared during the trial was brought forward and the attorney went over the details of the entrance of the bullet and the direction it took after entering Young's body. During this recital Miss Patterson covered her face with her gloved hands. Mr. Rand used the revolver with which Young was killed to prove that in no position could it have been held by Young to inflict the wound that caused his death. Facing the jury, with the pistol in his outstretched hand, the prosecutor exclaimed:

"Gentlemen, I will give you this revolver to take into the jury room, and if any man among you can hold it as the defense's theory of suicide would require you to hold it in order to inflict this wound and then pull the trigger. I will consent to your setting this defendant free on the spot."

The remainder of the speech was given over to controverting the testimony of the defense.

After Rand's speech Levy said: "That was the most wonderful advocacy of any cause, the most masterful speech that I have ever heard in a criminal case in an experience in the courts for 24 years. In spite of that, I am confident that Miss Patterson will be acquitted."

"Pay? Pay? Vhy should I pay? Do you pelief I vhas a fool?"

"But don't he want you to cash a check before he goes avhay?"

"Of course not. If he says dot he likes me to cash a check I take him for a fraud. Oh, no! Peter Voglestein vhas no sunflower—not dis time."

"But you lent him money?"

"I—I—vhell, she vhas one hoondred dollar a week on dot paper, und he pays her back mit dot first salary. He don't say right oudt dot I shall lend him twenty dollar, but"—

"But he got it?"

"Vhell, he haf to go back to Cheecago, don't he? If somepody don't pick his pocket he vhas all right. He don't vhant to take dot money, but I put her in his pocket. He vhas so glad dot I see tears in his eyes. It vhas werry lucky for him dot he finds me. If he don't he haf to go back to Cheecago by freight train. Yes, he sheds tears und shakes my hand und says it shall be twenty-five dollar vhen he pays me back."

"Und vhen do you write some shokes for one hoonered dollar a week?"

"Right avhay queek—tonight. I shall go home und write ten shokes und put em in der mail box. He must have 'em next week or his paper vhas busted oop. Hans, I wish you had some jobs like dot. It vhas too bad you don't haf some brains und know somet'ings. I make ten dollar vhen you make ten cents. Dot's vhat she vhas to be Peter Voglestein, you see. One hoonered dollar a week, und der money comes to me eafery Saturday. How vhas dot for high?"

"I pelief he vhas some frauds und you vhas swindled," I says. "I read of some cases like dot in my German paper."

"Swindled!" he yells ash he vhalks around. "How can I be swindled? Don't I write some shokes for one hoonered a week?"

"I don't pelief you do. If you write somet'ing at all it vhas to make peoples weep."

"See here, Hans, I like some understandings mit you. Do you like to pick a fuss mit me?"

"No."

"Do you pelief I vhas some idiots?"

"Not quite."

"Do you say I can't tell some swindlers if I see him?"

"If you can, you didn't tell dis one. I leave it to eaferybody if you don't lose twenty dollar und neffer see dot feller again. I vhas sorry for you, Peter, but don't I tell you more ash twenty times it vhas brains dot count? You may find somepody to laugh over your shokes und borrow twenty dollar, but"—

But he don't stay any longer. He kicks my water pail over und spills all my shoe pegs, und vhen he vhas outt doors he tells a policeman dot I vhas some lunatic und should be locked oop.

It Didn't Work.

"Madam," he said when the woman of the house appeared in answer to his ring, "I have called for the suit of clothes which needs brushing and repairing."

"What suit?" she asked after a moment's thought.

"Why, your husband's Sunday suit. He stopped at my place as he went down this morning and told me to be sure not to forget it."

"He said you were to call, did he?"

"Oh, yes!"

"Did he look and act natural?"

"I didn't notice any change in him. Why do you ask?"

"Because he has been dead these fifteen years, and I have some curiosity on the subject."

"I—I think there may be a mistake here," muttered the man as he began backing away.

"Yes, perhaps there is," she replied, with a smile. "You probably saw a man go out of here an hour or two ago. That was my nephew, and you ought to have got things straighter."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A New Version.

Jennie was telling her parents of her first day's experience in school.

"Were you interested in what your teacher told you?" asked her mother.

"Oh, yes," replied the young scholar.

"Teacher gave us some nice proverbs to learn."

"What were they? Can you remember any?"

Jennie thought a moment. "I'm afraid I can only remember one," she said finally.

"And what was that?"

"Teacher says that God always provides the wind for the shorn lambs."—Harper's Weekly.

Her Ability.

"She is a very able talker."

"Yes. I heard her husband say once that when she had typhoid fever the doctors thought for three days that she could not survive. She couldn't lift a finger or take nourishment of any kind. He swears, however, that she was able to talk right along."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Mighty Difference.

The Stinginess Of Grace

By MARTHA HUMPHREYS

Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure

"Who would ever have dreamed she was so stingy? Of course the more money you have in this world the more you want. She doesn't look like a girl who thought of nothing but money. Miserly people are supposed to have steely gray eyes and sharp chins, and she has the softest brown eyes and a dimple in her chin."

"Who has 'em?" asked Tom Bliss, rolling over languidly in his steamer chair.

"I was talking about Grace Patterson."

"Has she dimples and brown eyes?" asked Tom innocently.

His sister flung him a scornful glance.

"You ought to know. You have been hanging around her ever since you came down."

"Well, a fellow's got to do something when he's on his vacation," said Tom easily. "You can't expect him to turn woman hater when he's the only man to twoscore of pretty women."

"That's just why I'm complaining. With so many pretty girls here I don't see why you should devote yourself to one."

Margaret Bliss would have objected to any woman her brother might have selected as the object of his attentions. Her love for the six footed bachelor, oldest of her brothers, was distinctly selfish, and she was glad the occasion had arisen to prove Miss Patterson far from perfect. Tom lighted a fresh cigarette, and the hand which tossed away the match patted his sister's head in patronizing fashion.

"And how has your ladyship been offended?"

"You know Jim Green, the man who has been on the beach boat for two seasons, died last night. All the boarders knew him, and of course we looked right into the matter and found out that he left his family almost penniless, so we are going to give a fair for their benefit. We asked Miss Patterson to make something for it, and she said she was too busy; then we asked her to preside at one of the tables or to raffle off the embroidered sofa cushion Mrs. Marshall is going to donate, and she said she didn't believe in raffles."

"My opinion of Miss Patterson improves," said the aggravating Tom. "Many a time and oft have I been done at your fairs and raffles."

Margaret rose angrily.

"I might have known she was making some sort of a grand stand play. That sort of girl only cares to please the men."

Tom leaned back in his chair and smoked dreamily. He had rather enjoyed Miss Patterson's society, because she knew enough to steer a boat and not to screech when it shipped water. Now he felt a curious desire to know her better. A girl with tender brown eyes and a dimple in her chin rarely held decided opinions on such grave matters as hotel benefits and raffles. But she was not in sight at the present moment. Then he recalled that his stationery needed replenishing, and he started for the village store. It was a cheap imitation of the city department store, and as he was passing the dress goods counter on his way to the stationery department he heard a familiar voice say:

"Is that the best quality of nun's veiling you have?"

"It's enough better than anything she's been used to having," said the middle aged woman behind the counter.

Tom Bliss stopped short, an amused smile on his lips, for he could see that Miss Patterson was flushing indignantly at the woman's rudeness.

"Mrs. Green may not be able to buy another black dress soon, and I want to select something that will wear well and not turn rusty."

Tom woke up. "Green, Green!" Why, that was the name of the man who had handled the life saving boat. Why was Grace Patterson shopping for his widow? He drew closer.

"I think the henrietta cloth is better. You can give me ten yards of that and three yards of the crape; also four yards of that lusterless black ribbon."

She turned suddenly, almost bumping into Tom.

"Won't you let me help?" he said, with a note in his voice that she did not recognize.

"No, thank you," she said, blushing prettily under his earnest gaze. "I think we have everything." He noticed the "we" and liked it.

"But the children," he urged—"oughtn't they to have something; say, little black frocks?"

"No, there would be no time to make them. The funeral is tomorrow, you know. Besides, they're such babies to wear black."

"It would please the mother," he urged, possessed of a sudden madness to share in this shopping expedition.

Miss Patterson's eyes smiled frankly into his.

"Well, if you are so determined, we might get some ready made white dresses for the children with black ribbons and sashes. It may be a great comfort to Mrs. Green to feel that she and the family are so neatly garbed for the funeral."

"Just so," said Tom, pulling out his wallet.

The next fifteen minutes were busy ones for Grace Patterson. She had considerable difficulty in steering him away from lace trimmed lawn frocks to some simple little piques. Tom picked up the bundles as if he were proud of them.

"Where next?" he said cheerfully

"I must leave this package at the dressmaker's, and then—well, there's really nothing else you can do, thank you."

"You are going to see Mrs. Green? Well, I'm going too."

From the dressmaker's they walked down the beach road to the humble house of mourning. Excited voices welcomed them. Frowzy neighbors were gathered on the front porch. Mrs. Green was bordering on hysteria. Tom watched in interested fashion while Grace brought order out of chaos.

One by one the useless neighbors took their departure. The children were coaxed into the shadow of an upturned boat to play store with real cookies, candies and raisins which Grace produced from the depths of her Boston bag, and Mrs. Green, comforted with a bandage around her aching head and many kind words, was induced to lie down. Then Grace picked up the baby and carried him around to the shady side of the house. Tom followed, dragging a big rocking chair in which he insisted she should sit, while he sprawled in the sand at her feet. In the little room whose shutters were closed just behind them lay the man who had often risked his life that they might make merry in the water. A sorrow that was not personal fell upon them, and the man lay quite still looking out across the dancing water and thinking of many things.

Suddenly above his head sounded the soft, melting "coo" of a baby's voice. Without shifting his position, lest he should break the charm, Tom took in the picture. The laughing eyes of the girl were liquid and tender as she watched the baby on her knees. The dimples had disappeared and the lips were curved in a serious sweetness. This was not the girl who had been such a jolly good comrade on fishing and sailing jaunts. This was the woman he had been looking for all these years. And to think that he had not recognized her at once!

Her slender white hand was so close to his that he could hardly keep from clasping it. He pulled himself together and asked in a voice that sounded rather harsh by reason of his effort at self control:

"If you will do all this, why won't you help with the benefit up at the hotel?"

Grace started. She had been wondering whether the little mite in her lap would some day grow up and fight against the sea for human lives.

"Oh, they're such silly things, you know! Everybody hates you for asking them to pay two or three times what a thing's worth, and by the time you have paid all the expenses the beneficiary doesn't get very much; besides it would be two weeks before the thing came off and Mrs. Green needed the clothes and the money now. I suppose a great many people think it's very queer, but father has always insisted on my keeping inside my allowance, and—well—I couldn't help with the benefit and help Mrs. Green today." She was floundering along almost blindly under the fierce light that glowed in Tom's eyes. "And so—and so"—

Tom had utterly forgotten what she was talking about. Her hand was caressing the baby's face. The man rose on one knee and drew her hand away from the chubby cheek, holding it firmly in his own.

"Grace, dear, I'm not half good enough for you, but do you think you could love me just a little?"

She looked at him tenderly. "I think I could love you a great deal." And the baby "cooed" and dimpled as he looked at the two heads so close together above his own.

Composition In Courses.

Southey was a methodical and rapid literary craftsman. "I am a quiet, patient, easy going hack of the mule breed, regular as clockwork in my pace, sure footed, bearing the burden which is laid on me, and only obstinate in choosing my own path," he wrote to a friend. But his method was by no means simple. He was a poet, a historian, a critic and a miscellaneous writer. He turned out an enormous quantity of matter and succeeded in doing so by working fourteen hours a day and diversifying his labors within his daily round. He had six tables in his library. He wrote poetry at one, history at another, criticism at a third, and so on with the other subjects upon which he was engaged, and when he was tired of spinning his brains into verse he turned to history and criticism. There is a story that he once described to Mme. de Stael the division of his time—two hours before breakfast for history, two hours for reading after, two hours for the composition of poetry, two hours for criticism, and so on through all his working day. "And pray, Mr. Southey," queried the Frenchwoman somewhat unkindly, "when do you think?"—Cornhill Magazine.

Minute Screws.

"The fourth jewel screw of a watch is so small that to the naked eye it will not look like anything more than a bit of dust," says a watchmaker, "and is probably the smallest screw made. It must necessarily be perfect in every respect, and the character of the workmanship required on it is illustrated by looking at it under a powerful microscope, when it is seen that the threads average 260 to the inch. It is exactly four-thousandths of an inch in diameter, and over 50,000 could be packed into a lady's thimble with ease. Counting these screws is never attempted, of course, but 100 are weighed on a delicate steelyard, and the total number of an output is arrived at by comparing the gross weight with the weight of these. Such tiny screws can only be made in large numbers by machinery, and the operation attending their manufacture is one of the most delicate things in watchmaking."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

AS A WOMAN LUNCHES.

Meals That Are Ordered Merely by Force of Suggestion.

Lots of women order their luncheons merely by force of suggestion. If you don't think so, watch the wavering ones sit down, look on the card, glance at their nearest neighbor's plate and then order whatever the latter happens to be eating. In a crowded luncheon room on matinee day one little round table seating four women bore out this statement. Two of the women refreshed themselves on cake and coffee. The third was putting away a savory clam chowder. A fourth came in, observed the cakes, gazed appreciatively on the chowder and requested the latter. The first chowderer finished and departed, and the woman who immediately took her place looked around the table and ordered cakes and coffee.

By this time the first two cake and coffeeites had finished, and an uncertain looking woman sat down on that side of the table. She looked at the two opposite, glanced at the card and said, "Bring me a clam chowder."

This is a fact, and there is every reason to suppose that nothing but coffee and cakes and chowder was served at that table all the afternoon or at least as long as wavering ladies sat down at it.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

FAIRY TALES.

One View of the Lessons This Class of Stories Teaches.

The fairy tales are the only true accounts that man has ever given of his destiny. "Jack the Giant Killer" is the embodiment of the first of the three great paradoxes by which men live. It is the paradox of courage, the paradox which says, "You must defy the thing that is terrifying you; unless you are frightened you are not brave." "Cinderella" is the embodiment of the second of the paradoxes by which men live, the paradox of humility, which says, "Look for the best in the thing ignorant of its merit; he that abases himself shall be exalted." And "Beauty and the Beast" is the embodiment of the third of the paradoxes by which men live, the paradox of faith, the absolutely necessary and wildly unreasonable maxim which says to every mother with a child or to every patriot with a country, "You must love the thing first and make it lovable afterward." These tales are far truer than the rhinoceros at the zoo, for you know what these mean. And you can guess what the rhinoceros means!—G. K. Chesterton.

GARGOYLES.

Origin of These Quaintly Formed Heads or Figures.

Gargoyles are quaintly formed heads, faces or figures used in ancient times for decorative purposes and chiefly applied as the terminals of waterspouts upon roofs or gables. The rain stream was arranged to flow through the mouth, and the word gargoyle itself is an attempt to imitate the "gurgling" sound made by the water in passing through the throat of the grotesque monster.

Gargoyles were the caricatures of mediaeval times. Many were carved by monkish masons, who took the opportunity of handing on to posterity the distorted lineaments of their fellows or even of their superiors, recognizable as likenesses from some prominent characteristic.

The famous gargoyles of Notre Dame in Paris are supposed to have had some such origin, while others of supposedly the same origin are to be seen in churches throughout Brittany and Normandy as well as here and there in England.—London Telegraph.

Moxa Doctors of Tokyo.

A feature of low street life in Tokyo is the "kuisha," or moxa doctor, who applies small pads made of certain dried herbs to the skin, then sets them alight, the ensuing blisters being supposed to be most effective as a cure for various ailments. Among the doctor's remedies, too, are rhinoceros pills, warranted a sure cure for tightness of the chest, gnashing of the teeth and depression of spirits, and "furidashi," a popular remedy for coughs and colds, which is said to expel the devils and promote circulation, while musk pills are prescribed as an infallible cure for every ill, from a red nose to seasickness.

The Coquette.

There are scores of girls who are neither beautiful nor witty, but they are natural born coquettes, and as a consequence are perfection in the average man's eyes. The beautiful girl generally banks on her face being her fortune, but the coquette cultivates the habit of saying pretty, flattering things, studying the trick of amusing half a dozen men at one and the same time and of making each man think he is the one that is being especially favored.—San Francisco Call.

No Reminder.

"What's the matter?" inquired Ascum. "What are you searching your pockets for?" "I tied a knot in my handkerchief this morning," said the absentminded man, "to remind me of something I was to get for my wife, and now I can't find the handkerchief."—Exchange.

Her Hint.

The Maiden—I have a fluttering about my heart, and I have no appetite, doctor. The Doctor—Oh, you're in love; I can't do anything for that. "You can't, doctor?" "Certainly I can't." "Why, doctor, you're not married."

No matter how stupid, uninteresting and tiresome a man may be, there is always some sentimental woman ready to make a hero of him.—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE PECULIAR SNAIL.

This Creature Can Live Without Air, Water and Nourishment.

The common snail has lungs, heart and a general circulation and is in every respect an air breathing creature. This notwithstanding, he can live on indefinitely without inhaling the least atom of air, that which is usually considered the essential to existence in all creatures supplied with lungs.

Leppert says, "To all organized creatures the removal of oxygen, water, nourishment and heat causes death to ensue." When that statement was made he did not appear to consider the snail as one among the great host of "organized beings," for the experiments made by Professor Spallanzani prove that any or all the usual life conditions can be removed in its case without terminating its existence or in any way impairing its functions.

It is a fact well known that the common land snail retreats into his shell on the approach of frosty weather in the fall and that the opening or mouth of the shell is hermetically sealed by a secretion which is of a silky texture and absolutely impervious to air and water. In this condition it is plain that he is deprived of three out of the four elements of life mentioned by Leppert—viz, air, water and nourishment.

AMERICAN WOMEN.

A Phase of Their Housekeeping That Surprises Englishwomen.

A favorite fling of the French at the English has always been that the latter are a nation of shopkeepers. An Englishwoman has called Americans "a nation of housekeepers." During a visit to this country she was struck by the fact that so many American women of means and refinement either "do their own work" or actively superintend the domestic arrangements, taking a pride in this duty.

Our friend was surprised to learn that "an American woman will spend the forenoon in cooking or dusting or cleaning, then dress herself like a duchess and sally forth to the meeting of a fashionable club where she is to read a learned paper, like as not, or else call a carriage and make a round of social calls. And her standing does not seem to be impaired in the least by the fact that during part of the day she has done the work of a menial nor has it affected her own personal attractiveness."

No other woman has done so much as the American to emphasize the dignity of labor.—Housekeeper.

SAILORS' TROUSERS.

The Reason They Are Baggy and Wide From the Knees Down.

A sailor's trousers often give rise to a great deal of ridicule by reason of their bagginess and wideness from the knees down. No one troubles to think that they may have been made in that way for some special purpose or other. Jack tars naturally have so much to do with water that it is almost to be wondered that for working purposes they are not supplied with knee breeches, in which they would be able to paddle about without danger of damaging the leg portion of their nether garments. As this innovation has not taken place, the trousers are made very baggy so that they can be easily turned up well out of the water when work in the water has to be done. Were they provided with trousers of the same width all the way down the leg they would find it difficult to turn them up far enough without at the same time impeding their actions owing to the compression that would be caused.—London Standard.

No Words Wasted.

Nora was a treasure of a servant, whose habit of speech was often indirect, but was frequently picturesque and unexpectedly expressive. One evening "the master" was sitting in the library when the doorbell rang. Nora answered it, and on her return through the hall "the master" inquired who it was.

"It was a young man, sor," replied Nora.

"Well, what did he want?" was the question.

"Oh, he was just lookin' for the wrong number, sor."—Lippincott's Magazine.

A Russian Scare In Australia.

"Russian scares" were at one time common in Sydney and Melbourne. Once, when Australia was not yet connected with the old world by telegraph, a mail steamer from London beat the record in smart passage, and to signalize the event she fired off all her guns as she advanced up the harbor of Melbourne. But the Melbourne authorities misconstrued this demonstration and, feeling sure that the Russians were really coming at last, promptly mobilized all their military and naval resources before they discovered their mistake.

A Changed Woman.

"Well, well," said the returned traveler, "and so you are married now! It seems only yesterday since you left school. How time does fly!"

"Yes," replied Mrs. Youngley, "only a short time ago I never clipped anything from the papers but poems, and now I clip nothing but recipes."—Philadelphia Press.

Not Too Blind.

Angelina—Oh, dear! The diamond in my engagement ring has got a flaw in it. Edwin—Take no notice, darling. Love should be blind, you know. Angelina—Yes, but it hasn't got to be stone blind.

The hardest thing to find is an honest partner for a swindle.—Boston News Bureau.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Not many years ago bank robbing was a successful occupation for crooks and thieves. This is now comparatively rare owing to the improved methods of constructing bank buildings, and the use of burglar-proof safes and vaults. Post offices have taken the place of the old time banks and present a wide and easy field for the burglar. During the last fiscal year no less than 1593 post offices in this country were robbed, or at the rate of over four a day! In addition to these crimes 940 street and rural free delivery boxes were rifled of their contents. Exactly how to account for this increase of crime may be difficult, but it is plain that post offices are not protected as they should be. Since the post office is a government institution, destined to exist as long as the government itself why not begin to make it permanent, safe and secure from burglars?

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Ever remark that a loafer is always glum; that he is always saying disagreeable things? The contented, helpful men are the men who are busy. Most of the mean things said in a town are said by the idle men sitting around the loafing places.—Atchison Globe.

☞ Discussion of Santa Claus is futile piffle. He is here to stay, and all the efforts of the fool cynics and fool moralists will not avail against him. He will stay so long as Christmas is here. The fact that Santa Claus is supposed to come down the chimney on the night before, will always mean more to the people who really have any sense than the fact that December 25 is a bank holiday.—Atlanta Journal.

☞ There are a few broad and safe rules to follow. If the young lady is plain and serious, do not make the mistake of giving her heavy books or a photographic camera. Send her a saucy hat a jeweled butterfly, and you will make a grateful friend; while the prettiest and most empty-headed woman of your acquaintance will be deeply flattered if you bestow on her the novels of Mr. George Meredith or the essays of M. Maurice Maeterlinck.—Lady's Pictorial.

☞ The Chadwicks, the Humberts and others of their class, both on the large and the smaller scales, derive their importance from the fact that they show the great perversion of the real meaning of money and wealth. No one intent upon the accumulation of money for the purpose of securing a helpful, ministering, productive leisure, from the results of which mankind generally would receive a benefit, could possibly have been misled by the temptations which these people held out. They saw only new sums of money, which they hoped to gain for themselves. No one can be sorry legitimately for the disasters which have overtaken these gamblers in human happiness and human labor. They have received their reward.—Rev. Dr. Berle.

☞ Battleships may not cease to be used for battle at once, but they tend to become the world's police patrol. They must be regarded as serving an important and necessary part in promoting the conditions under which the kingdom of the Prince of Peace is advanced in the hearts of men. Battleships must not be exalted to the principal place as the promoters of peace, for they are simply subordinate agencies for emergencies and for dealing with hard cases. They co-operate with the kingdom of God only so far as they are necessary to check the ambitious schemes of unscrupulous men in places of power or to keep order in the slum districts of the world. They are suffered as necessary agents in the divine order on account of the hardness of human hearts, but the real power of peace is in the truth and spirit of the Prince of Peace.—Boston Watchman.

A WAITING GAME

What is Fate of the Fire Department Orders?

Council is Waiting for the Mayor.

The Mayor Waiting for the City Council.

It would not be surprising if Mayor Bryant returned to the City Council without his approval the order which provides that the permanent firemen shall have one day off at the end of every eighth day.

Chief Engineer Williams is not in favor of the order as it was passed, even if the order now before the Finance Committee for two additional permanent men is passed.

Chief Williams says that Boston is the only city which gives its firemen one day off at the end of every eighth day. He believes one day off in fourteen to be enough, that is by ordinance.

His main objection is on account of the expense. Giving the permanent men one day off the end of every eight days and in addition a two weeks vacation means quite a sum. It is almost impossible for him to get a large enough appropriation now to run the department without this additional expense.

As it now stands the men have been given a day off during the summer months and winter when it was possible. But in severe weather, when it is necessary to have extra horses, every man is needed, and to allow the men off at that time would cripple the department.

The order for two additional permanent men is now before the Finance Committee, and its fate depends on the action of the Mayor on the order already passed. It seems to be a kind of waiting game. The Mayor waiting to see what the City Council would do with the additional m n order, and the City Council tosee what the Mayor is to do with the day off order.

In Ninety-fourth Year.

Elihu Thayer one of the oldest residents of Hingham, died Wednesday, aged 93 years. Mr. Thayer was a native of Quincy where he was born Oct. 25, 1811. When a young man he moved to Hingham, where he has since made his home. For more than fifty years he conducted a grocery and provision business. He married Susan Hersey of Hingham, who with a son and daughter survive him.

Fifteen Minute Service.

Councilman Stone is making an effort to secure fifteen minute street car service between Quincy Point and City Square. Half hourly trips are now run on this line and the travel is very heavy, every car being filled. During the summer months when the Nantasket cars are run fifteen minute service is maintained, and according to Councilman Stone there is a demand for similar service during the winter months.

On any of the cars which connect with trains from Boston it is possible for only half the passengers to obtain seats, and those who get into the cars find it a very difficult job to get out, especially between City Square and Chubbuck street.

SILVER MEDALS.

Provided for Good Scholarship in Braintree School.

Braintree will profit further by the will of the late Charles E. French, the drug merchant of Boston. In the codicil of the will is this paragraph:

I give to the town of Braintree bonds such part of the annual income of which as may be necessary to be expended in the purchase of three silver medals in each of the public, high and grammar schools of said town, to be distributed for the best scholarship (military and mechanic arts not to be included) of the class graduating from each school, provided, however, that a sufficient sum shall not (prior to my decease) have been set apart by others for the same purpose. The unexpended income is to be added to and remain a part of the fund."

The town of Lexington receives a similar bequest.

Several articles of silver at first donated to the late Asa French of Braintree, are bequeathed to his son Asa P. French, the district attorney.

Among the bequests are several souvenirs of Rev. John Hancock for 18 years pastor of the First church at Quincy and his illustrious son John Hancock, and in the codicil is this bequest:

"I give to the town of Lexington $2000 in trust to be invested in town of Lexington bonds, the annual income thereof to be devoted to the care of the older part of the cemetery in which reposes the remains of my great-great-great-grandfather, Rev. John Hancock and wife, the vault enclosing their remains to receive due care."

"ROUGH HOUSE."

Quincy Point People Deplore Existing Conditions.

Editors of the Ledger:

There was a "rough house" in one of the boarding houses on South street, Tuesday night. Before midnight the noise began and continued for several hours. Again the same old question is repeated "Where is the officer?" These disturbances occur time and again, and no effort is put forth to stop them.

It does seem a pity that the taxpayers of Quincy Point have to stand back, relinquish all their rights and have a swarm of ignorant foreigners come in and trample over them. And why? Simply because more protection is needed at night in this portion of the city.

This subject has caused considerable comment and it is hoped that someone will step in and investigate the matter. It is certain that this state of affairs cannot exist much longer. Peace.

TWO VALUES OF NEWSPAPER
ADVERTISING.

Does it pay to throw away the certainty of the profitable returns which are sure to PATRIOT advertisers, because it costs less to advertise in a cheaper paper?

EXPLANATION.

John L. Miller Writes on Matter.

Which Caused Trouble at his Yard.

Claims He Lost Money on the Stone the Man Cut.

Editors of the Quincy Daily Ledger:

I noticed an article in your issue of the 21st, headed "Against the Firm," purporting to be an account of a little trouble in the granite works of Thomas & Miller. Said article is so misleading and incorrect that I feel that it should be corrected.

First, all granite cutters work under a bill of prices for piece work as agreed to between the Granite Manufacturers' Association and the Granite Cutters' Union. Each man employed by the day or hour is supposed to earn his pay as computed by the piece bill.

Take for example a stone that would cost $25 to cut by the piece work. If a day man cut that stone in eight days he would be classed at about 37 cents per hour, if he took nine days he would only be worth 34 cents per hour. If he took twelve days to cut it he would only have earned 28 1-2 cents per hour for his employers, yet under said agreement we would have to pay him 33 cents per hour as that is the minimum pay.

Now when a new man comes along, he goes to work and cuts one stone and we set his pay by what it has cost, figuring the stone by the piece bill.

The article in the agreement covering this, reads as follows:—"The pay of a competent workman shall be 36 3-4 cents per hour, but in cases where a workman cannot earn that amount on the basis of this price list he may be employed at his average rate per hour, to be in no case less than 33 cents."

The man in question came to work and I gave him stone that took him some twenty days to cut. In the meantime two pay days came on, and I paid him on account at the rate of 35 cents per hour. But when he got his stone done, he had only earned 24 1-3 cents per hour, so he was at once notified that his pay would only be the minimum. At that I had lost $13 on him.

The granite cutters claimed that as he had been paid 35 cents per hour that he must be paid at that rate, so I told them that if the committee decided I owed him one dollar or twenty they should have it.

There is also another article in the bill of prices that reads "All other disputes shall be referred to the Joint Executive Committee, who shall render a decision within twenty-one days, or upon failure to agree by a two-thirds vote, shall proceed to choose an arbiter as provided for in Section 1 of this article. Pending arbitration it is mutually agreed that there will be no strike, lockout or suspension of work during the term of this bill of prices, except as provided in Article 7 of Miscellaneous."

So the Granite Cutters' committee brought the case before the two executive committees in joint session. They discussed it for some two hours, and then the Manufacturers' committee voted unanimously that there was no more due the man, and the Workman's Committee voted the reverse, so there was no agreement. The next step should have been to choose an arbiter, but, instead, the cutters went off and sent an ultimatum, and when there was no attention paid to that, they ordered a strike in violation of Article 2, Section 3, as above quoted.

They maintained the strike for five days, when the Manufacturers' Association notified them they had broken their agreement and the men must be put to work pending settlement. So they put the men to work and proceeded to decide on an arbiter. Judge Avery was the unanimous choice and he has rendered his decision which is final.

In Article 1 are these words "he may be employed at his average rate," and Judge Avery holds that this word "employed" would infer another bargain, whereas if it read "he may be paid his average rate," it would put a different aspect on it, yet we have worked five years under this agreement and that word never caused any trouble before.

But when this question was left to the committees it was no longer a private case, but a question for the two bodies, not on the amount involved in this case, but on principle.

Hoping this will make the matter clear to you, I am yours truly,

J. L. Miller.

WHEN FORKS WERE NEW.

How Their Use Impressed a Lady the First Time She Saw Them.

A lady who saw forks used for the first time at a dinner of Henry III. of France records her "impressions" of the occasion. Henry had in 1574 been tendered a magnificent reception in Venice. At this entertainment forks were used. The royal guest observed them with much interest and immediately introduced them to the French court.

It seems from the account of the lady, who had never used them before, that some others were in the same predicament. She writes:

"They never touched the meat with their fingers, but with forks, which they carried to their mouths, bending their necks and bodies over their plates.

"There were several salads. These they ate with forks, for it is not considered proper to touch the food with the fingers. However difficult it may be to manage it, it is thought better to put the little forked instrument in the mouth than the fingers.

"The artichokes, asparagus, peas and beans were brought. It was a pleasure to watch them try to eat these with their forks, for some, who were less adroit than the others, dropped as many on their plates and on the way to the mouth as they were able to get to their mouths.

"Afterward a great silver basin and pitcher of water were brought, and the guests washed their hands, though it seems as if there would not be much scent of meat and grease on them, for they had touched their food only with those forked instruments."

THE MISSISSIPPI.

Immense Volume and Varying Moods of Its Yellow Flood.

"The Mississippi river has an irresistible attraction for a person of imaginative mind, but perhaps its most impressive characteristic is the majesty with which its turbid, yellow tide sweeps along between the shores, impressive by its sullen murmur and inspiring awe by its immense volume," said a traveler.

"The river is sublime no matter when or where you view it, and one has only to catch a glimpse of the yellow flood, veiled by rain or glistening in the sunshine, to fall beneath its spell. At times the river moves so smoothly and peacefully that you are almost lulled to sleep by the gentle purring of the water, that constant eddying and washing sound that is distinctive of the Mississippi. Then, again, the water will swirl angrily around a hidden snag or rushing with impetuosity against the yielding bluffs it will eat into the earth, and tons of dirt will rumble down only to be absorbed and swept away. Perhaps for a moment the water will assume a chocolate color, but the influx of yellow tide from above will soon dissipate every trace of what was once an acre of cotton field. Sometimes there are trees growing along the shore that are engulfed. These fall with a crash into the flood, spin about for a moment and then drift slowly down with the current, their half drowned boughs rising at intervals from the water."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Could Not Be Settled Out of Court.

A good story is told concerning a certain magistrate, who always endeavors to smooth over any little differences which may be brought before him.

On the occasion in question the warrant was one for technical assault, and it came out in the course of evidence that the parties were neighbors and had been on the best of terms for some years.

"It is a great pity," said the judge, "that old friends like you seem to have been should appear before me in such a way. Surely this is a case which might be settled out of court."

"It can't be done," answered the plaintiff moodily. "I thought of that myself, but the cur won't fight."

A Cradle of Tortoise Shell.

A curious relic of some historic interest is to be seen at Pau, in the Basses Pyrenees. Visitors are shown the bedroom of Jean d'Abret, wife of Anthony of Bourbon, king of Navarre. Here in the year 1553 her infant son was born, who was in after years King Henry IV. of Navarre, and by the side of an antique bedstead of richly carved walnut stands a most curious cradle of tortoise shell about two feet long and eighteen inches broad, in which the infant prince is said to have been laid at his birth.

Bagged at Last.

Not even the best friends of Mrs. Cobb could claim for her the gift of gracious speech, although they laid great stress on her kind intentions at all times.

"Well, well," said the good lady breathlessly as she grasped an acquaintance by the arm coming out of a crowded concert hall. "Here I've been on a wild goose chase all day long and at last find you where I should never have thought of looking."

The Foolish Fish.

Deacon Good—Don't you think it cruel for you to draw a fish out of his native element by a sharp iron hook? Fisher Boy—It's no fault of mine. When I'm just giving a worm a salt water bath, what does a fish want to hook himself on to my line for? It's no business of his.—Boston Transcript.

Quite a Difference.

"Father, what's the difference between a lunch and a luncheon?"

"About a dollar and a quarter, my boy."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

The Ice Prisoners

[Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure.]

One day, when 480 miles to the south of Cape Horn in the American brig Wanderer, we sighted a derelict and lowered a boat to give her an overhauling. In making our way back we were caught in a squall and carried out of sight to leeward in ten minutes. There wasn't over an hour of daylight left us when the squall came down, and when night fell the gusts had settled down into a steady gale.

At about 6 o'clock each man snugged down to make himself as comfortable as possible, and it was an hour later when the roar of breakers came to our ears. Every one instantly divined that we were drifting down upon an iceberg and that we were also perfectly helpless in the matter. We had lashed the oars together and flung them overboard for a drag to keep the boat's head to the sea. To have pulled in the drag would have been fatal. Before the oars could have been detached we should have been in the trough of the sea. Presently we drew nearer and could see the ghostly glare of the berg through the darkness. We missed the northwest corner of it by not more than a hundred feet, and the spray of a recoiling wave half filled our craft.

We drifted along the great island of ice for twenty minutes before reaching its southern face, and then a current drew us into the lee of it, and we knew that we were temporarily saved. We got in our drag and put out the oars, and after rowing nearly half a mile we found an inlet or bay making into the berg and ran into it. This bay extended back into the berg a quarter of a mile and was about a hundred feet in width. It was like a great river flowing down to the sea between high cliffs. We were p rfectly sheltered here, and by the light of the boat's lantern we made a hearty meal off our ons, and all turned in for a sleep.

The weather was freezingly cold, but all were comfortably clad, and we had the sail of the boat to cover us in. We could hear the wind howling above us and feel the berg tremble as the great waves flung themselves against the face, but every man had a good sleep and woke up stout hearted in the morning. I have called the mass of ice an iceberg. Perhaps ice island would be a better term for it, as when we came to inspect it by daylight we found it to be about two miles long on each face.

The gale was still piping away and a tremendous sea running when we awoke, and of course we had no thought of leaving the shelter we had. The first move was to get to the top of the berg and have a look for the ship. Mr. Davis, the mate, took this upon himself, but he made no discovery to reward his efforts. He, however, got a good idea of the lay of things and selected a place for landing. When he returned we left the bay and pulled to the east and landed upon a sort of shelf. We had blocks of ice at hand to build a hut, and before noon we had a cabin big enough to comfortably hold five of us and the stores from the boat. In the afternoon in searching about we found three or four dwarf pines, planks from a ship's bottom, a cook's galley and chairs and a table, all but the pines from the wreck of some merchant ship. So intense was the cold that night that no man could have lived for five minutes outdoors. At midnight a gale came on.

The gale was the tail end of winter. On the fourth day the weather became so mild that the ice began to melt, and the mate told us that our island was in a current and was being carried south at the rate of two miles an hour. We were in peril now from the breaking up of the mass. On the fifth day it turned completely around, and a great rift appeared right through the center. We watched it for a day, and, seeing it widen, we took up our quarters in what we thought a safer position. We were not an hour too soon. The rift through the center continued to widen and deepen, and by and by there was a great crash, and the berg separated in halves, leaving us upon the larger one. Before night the waves had trimmed the base of our berg of all incumbrances, and we went drifting along so steadily and majestically that we almost forgot our peril.

For three days and nights nothing happened worth relating except that we discovered and managed to kill two seals which crawled upon the berg from the water to sun themselves. As the winds were light, our berg had no motion except from the current. On the morning of the tenth day before daylight had yet come we crashed into another berg which had probably grounded, and our escape from instant destruction was truly marvelous. The south side of our berg was split off by the impact, leaving our hut standing on the very edge of a cliff sixty feet high. We had to cut our way through the back wall to escape.

Our boat went with the piece, and within two hours the berg heeled over on its side. This movement took place very slowly and brought us on the crest of the lump instead of being on a shelf near the water. We soon had another hut up, and next day, the berg being quite still again, we made another find.

For the next eight days we moved steadily southward with the current, our food being gone and each man living on the leather of his belt or shoes. On the morning of the nineteenth day we sighted a sail and raised a smoke and two hours later were safe aboard of the Frost King of St. Johns. We had had a rough and perilous time of it, and had it been midwinter all would have frozen to death, but as it was all came out in good health and without the slightest bodily injury.

HUDSON'S TRIAL BEGUN

Boy Charged Wioh Manslaughter In Killing Teamster

Dedham, Mass., Dec. 22.—Ralph Hudson, 16 years of age, was placed on trial yesterday in the Norfolk criminal superior court, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of J. Orio Harding at Walpole, Sept. 23 last. Hudson pleaded not guilty.

Harding died a few hours after an altercation with some schoolboys who, it is alleged, threw apples at him as he was driving through the street. Whip in hand he left his wagon and, it is alleged, struck Hudson, who returned the blow with his fist.

The prosecution called four witnesses to the stand. Miss Mary Parker, a pupil at the Walpole High school, where Hudson was also a pupil, testified that on the day in question she saw Harding near the school surrounded by a group of schoolboys. She saw Harding strike Hudson and the latter retreated, according to the witness. Harding followed him and struck him with a whip. Hudson then struck Harding with his right hand and Harding fell to the ground. Miss Parker did not see Hudson strike Harding more than once. The other witnesses corroborated the testimony of Miss Parker. The trial is unfinished.

Young Man's Fortune Held Up

New Haven, Dec. 22.—Just as he was about to turn over $30,000 to Frederick H. White, who reached his majority Dec 20 and who inherited nearly $200,000 from the estate of his mother, James K. Blake of this city has been served with papers restraining him from doing so. Blake is administrator of Mrs. White's estate and the restraining action is brought by the father of the young man. The elder White sues for $25,000, alleging various grounds of indebtedness. Heretofore White has figured in several cases as a litigant over the estate of his wife.

To Pardon Wife Murderer

Boston, Dec. 22.—The pardon committee of the governor's council voted to recommend to the full council that James Nicholson of this city, who was convicted of murdering his wife in 1884, be pardoned. Nicholson is serving a life sentence. The committee voted against recommending a pardon for Olan Vaughan, who is serving a life sentence with his brother for assault with intent to kill on Policeman John F. Healey of Lowell.

Harvard Registration Falls Off

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 22.—The Harvard university catalogue for 1904-5 shows Harvard's registration this year, exclusive of the summer school and Radcliffe college, to be 4136, as compared with 4328 last year. The figures, including Radcliffe and the summer school, make the loss for Harvard even greater. This year the total, including these two departments, is 5550, while last year it was 6040, making a loss of 490.

Blames Electric Light Men

Brockton, Mass., Dec. 22.—Judge Chase, who presided at the inquest on the death of Harry B. Masters, who was killed in his office in this city, finds that "death was due to a shock from an electric light wire which had become charged with a death-dealing current through the gross negligence of the Edison Electric Light company, its agents, or its servants."

Big Fleet of Coal Schooners

Boston, Dec. 22.—Helped across the bay by a fair westerly and northwesterly wind, a fleet of 11 schooners arrived in port, bringing a total of 38,000 tons of coal, in round numbers. It was a remarkable fleet in that it comprised five types of schooners, from the only seven-master in the world down to a small three-master which was built almost 30 years ago.

French's Generous Bequests

Boston, Dec. 22.—A council to the will of Charles H. French, the retired drug merchant who was found dead on Dec. 1, has been filed in the probate court. Mr. French, in his will, bequeathed $159,000 to public objects. These are ratified and confirmed by the codicil, which was executed on Oct. 3, 1904, except in a few instances.

To Improve State Militia

Boston, Dec. 22.—Lieutenant General Miles (retired), who will be detailed by the war department as chief of staff of the Massachusetts militia, was in conference with Governor-elect Douglas at the state house, at which plans for the improvement of the state militia were discussed.

TONE DOWN ODELL

Platt's Opinion of Result of Conference Called by Him

SENTIMENT IS FOR DEPEW

Said That Governor Is Committed to No Candidate, but Will Call a Neeting and Openly Accept Platt's War Challenge

New York, Dec. 22.—The conference of Republicans, called by Senator Platt in the interest of the re-election of Senator Depew by the coming state legislature, was held according to program at the Fifth Avenue hotel. It was in session about three hours and adjourned, without day, after appointing a committee of seven, headed by former Lieutenant Governor Woodruff, to wait upon Governor Odell, who was not invited, and inform him of the sentiment as expressed at the conference. No arrangement was made for a future report of the committee to the conference which created it.

The conference was attended by upward of 75 well known Republicans, most of them classed as being in favor of Depew, but there were also not a few who are believed to be opposed to his candidacy.

After the conference, Senator Platt declared himself as greatly pleased with its character and personnel. "I am proud of it," said he. "It was truly representative and clearly showed, as I have all along claimed, that the sentiment of the people of the state is strongly for the re-election of Senator Depew. I amagine its result may be to tone down Mr. Odell."

Senator Platt himself called the conference to order, and at his suggestion William Barnes, Jr., chairman of the executive committee of the Republican state committee, presided.

Nearly all of the speeches definitely deprecated anything in the nature of a fight, and the plea for a harmonious solution of the senatorship problem characterized the conference. Chairman Barnes began by asking for the views of Platt, who evoked laughter by instantly replying: "Perhaps you had better declare your own sentiments first."

Mr. Barnes then spoke in favor of Depew's re-election, declaring that to remove him from the senate "after his long service would be a disturbing factor in the politics of the state."

Senator Raines declared his cordial feelings toward Odell and Black. He held the welfare of the Republican party to be of paramount importance and said that "the interests of the Republican party demand the re-election of Senator Depew."

Mr. Woodruff spoke strongly for Depew's re-election, which, he declared, was demanded by overwhelming sentiment in Kings county. Woodruff referred to what he regarded as the possibility that legislators who pursued a course in opposition to the wishes of those in control of the organization might be "punished" politically, or as legislators. He said that the only thing that makes the 12 Kings county men hesitate "is the fear that the present chairman of the state committee or the governor-elect, either one or the other, or both, combined, may deprive them of their rights if they do." He said that "a declaration upon the part of the governor-elect that he would see to it that no man was injured or punished because he voted for Depew" would mean the re-election of the senator.

Governor Odell will also have a conference at the Fifth Avenue hotel, or the Republican club, and there is little doubt that he will soon declare openly for Black or some other candidate. This authoritative statement is made by one of Odell's lieutenants at state headquarters: "Governor Odell is not, so far, committed to any candidate. When he left town last Saturday, he was favorably disposed towards Depew, but now a fight has been forced on him, and he is a born fighter. Platt has killed off Depew to satisfy his own vanity, by making one more appearance as a state leader."

Insects Destroying Hickory Trees

Chicago, Dec. 22.—Increasing scarcity of hickory wood in the United States has so alarmed the manufacturers of wooden vehicles that at a meeting here of over 200 representatives of these manufacturers, the advisability of taking the matter before congress was discussed. Hickory trees have recently been attacked by an insect which, it is said, is fast destroying that class of timber.

Engineer and Fireman Killed

Menominee, Mich., Dec. 22.—The fast train from Chicago to the copper country, on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, was completely wrecked by a broken rail at Lena, near here. Engineer Martin Gavin and Fireman Louis Miller were killed and 15 persons were injured. The engine and two coaches went into the ditch and the rest of the train was derailed.

But Six Weeks Out of Prison

Boston, Dec. 22.—John J. McAuliffe and Joseph Clougherty have been arrested in connection with a number of robberies committed in apartment houses. A large amount of valuable jewelry was found on McAuliffe at the time of his arrest. He was released six weeks ago from the Massachusetts reformatory, where he had served a sentence for burglary.

A Merry Christmas!

The Children's Holiday.

A Christmas Episode In Slavery

[Original.]

It was December in Louisiana. A light snow rested on the moss hanging from the trees, and there was thin ice on the pools. A young girl driving a pony cart was coming down a road and stopped before a cabin. A negro woman, followed by a pickaninny four years old, came out to where the cart stood.

"Clarisse," said the girl, "has your missis said anything about what she is going to do for you in the way of a Christmas dinner?"

"No, Missie Alice, she hain't said nothin' 'bout dat. But me and my ole man don' keer 'bout no Christmas dinner. We got a heap o' trouble." She drew near the cart and spoke low, while tears filled her eyes. "Mars' goin' to sell Bobby."

"Sell Bobby! Separate you from him? Surely, Clarisse, such a thing hasn't been done about here since"— She stopped. She was about to say "since a slave mother had killed herself after separation from her child."

Miss Alice Sinclair made an effort to comfort the mother, but there was no comfort. She knew that old Dufour, who owned this family, would sacrifice them to his own interest.

"Goodby, Clarisse," she said, touching her pony with the whip. "God help you."

On Christmas morning a servant from the Dufour mansion came to Clarisse's cabin with an order for her and her husband to come up to the house and bring Bobby. As soon as Clarisse heard the message she fell over in a swoon. Jeff, her husband, caught her in his arms.

"Don', honey; don' do dat. We got each udder, and mebbe Bobby won' hab to go out o' de state. Wake up, honey."

Clarisse revived, but only to clasp her boy, vowing that she and he should die rather than be separated. But her good man finally prevailed and she consented to go to their master. At the house, assembled in the great hallway, were a number of the planters and members of their families, including Colonel Sinclair and his daughter Alice. Dufour stood with his back to the fireplace, while apart sat an unattractive man—a trader. Even those who used a dealer in negroes looked down upon him.

"Tomorrow," said Dufour in a surly tone, "I have a note to pay of $400. Mr. Millikin, here from Savannah, offers me the amount of my note for the boy. If any one present can afford to buy the whole family I'll sell them cheaper than I would separate, or to a trader."

There was no response. It would have required between $2,000 and $2,500 to buy the family, and the planters in the parish were all struggling against a slump in the price of sugar.

"Well, my friends," continued Dufour, "since you don't come forward I see no way but to carry out the sale of the child. Mr. Millikin, your offer is"—

"One moment, please."

The words came from Colonel Sinclair, an elderly gentleman of benign countenance, who rose as he spoke.

"My friends," he said, "my daughter informed me of this sale, and I notified you. This is Christmas morning. There are two ways of celebrating the birth of him who brought 'peace on earth and good will to men'—one in our own families, the other in the families of the needy. We have already this morning been occupied with the first. Here is an opportunity to engage in the second. I propose that we buy this child and give him as a Christmas present to his parents. I will head a subscription for the purpose with $50."

"Colonel Sinclair," said a gentleman sitting next to him, "I will subscribe an equal amount."

The slave parents caught the drift of the situation and listened eagerly for every word. There were no more fifty dollar subscriptions, but the smaller ones, including $25 from Alice Sinclair given out of her pin money, finally raised the amount subscribed to $350. Every one present felt that he had subscribed more than he could afford. Dufour, who regarded the whole affair as an interference with his rights, stood grimly waiting; the negro trader was fumbling with his hat; the father and mother of the child, who were unconscious of his and their peril, looked on with an agonized suspense. Then Alice Sinclair spoke:

"Mr. Dufour, will you not give something?"

Dufour scowled. "I must have $400 tomorrow. Less will not serve," he said.

Then the negro trader arose and spoke: "I know nothin' is expected from me, a nigger trader. I'm used to buyin' into families, and I've nothin' to do with other families as long as I must take care of my own. It's my own family that moves me now. Last summer me and my wife had a boy. We hain't got him now. We hain't got any children at all. I come away from home on this trip a-purpose to git rid of Christmas. I wouldn't be there for no money, seein' my boy can't be there too. I tell you what I'm goin' to do. My boy that's gone to heaven gives $50 to make up the amount to buy the boy's freedom."

Alice Sinclair went to the speaker and put out her hand. She was followed by every one present except Dufour. Then the papers passed, and Bobby was a free pickaninny. His mother had him clasped close to her breast, while his father looked on, tears streaming down his black cheeks.

"You see, papa," said Alice Sinclair on their way home, "the influence of the Christ child born more than eighteen centuries ago can effect even a negro trader."

THE AMERICAN REVIEW OF REVIEWS MONTHLY

The more Magazines there are, the more Indispensable is The Review of Reviews

"Indispensable." "The one magazine I feel I must take." "The world under a field-glass." "An education in public affairs and current literature."—these are some of the phrases one hears from noted people who read the Review of Reviews. The more magazines there are, the more necessary is the Review of Reviews, because it brings together the best that is in all the most important monthlies of the world. Such is the flood of periodical literature that nowadays people say that the only way to keep up with it is to read the Review of Reviews. Entirely over and above this reviewing section, it has more original matter and illustrations than most magazines, and the most timely and important articles printed in any monthly.

Probably the most useful section of all is Dr. Albert Shaw's illustrated "Progress of the World," where public events and issues are authoritatively and lucidly explained in every issue. Many a subscriber writes, "This department alone is worth more than the price of the magazine." The unique cartoon department, depicting current history in caricature, is another favorite. The Review of Reviews covers five continents, and yet is American, first and foremost.

Men in public life, the members of Congress, professional men, and the great captains of industry who must keep "up with the times," intelligent men and women all over America, have decided that it is "indispensable."

WEAVING DISPUTE ENDED

Sundry Concessions to Operatives Mark an Important Step In Fall River Situation--No Action by Governor Bates

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 22.—The letter of the Textile council to the manufacturers proposing arbitration has been received. An answer will be sent to the Textile council as soon as it is finished. The letter will decline arbitration of the wage question in the manner suggested. A short statement of why arbitration is declined will be included in the letter. The executive committee held a meeting and approved sending the answer outlined, and it was not deemed necessary to call the signers to the wage agreement together. All the manufacturers are united in declining to leave the wage matter out for settlement to anyone but the operatives and the manufacturers.

It appears that the weaving question has been settled by sending to the manufacturers in the agreement a suggestion that weavers be paid not less per week than they would receive under the 12½ percent reduction running eight looms. For 10 and 12 looms weavers are to receive more than they would be paid under the reduction for running eight looms. It is also suggested that the practice of asking weavers to run more than eight looms where cop filling is supplied be discontinued; and where bobbin filling on long boubins is supplied, that the weavers' wages be fixed so that a living wage may be earned by the ordinary weaver.

No criticism to this suggestion has been offered by any manufacturer, and the executive committee believes the matter is settled. It is also understood among the manufacturers that no mill will be sustained in the practice of cutting weavers' wages below the eight-loom standard wage, whether improvements are added or not. This standard will permit weavers to earn on eight looms not less than $7.75 a week.

A report that Governor Bates had interested himself in the settlement of the strike cannot be confirmed here. President Borden of the Manufacturers' association denied that he has received any communication from the governor, and the labor leaders have heard nothing about steps taken to secure a settlement emanating from the governor.

The labor secretaries say they would welcome the overtures of anyone to secure an adjustment of the difficulties and especially from men in high walks of life. They believe that the matter should have been undertaken long ago and that if public men would interest themselves it would have some effect upon the position taken by the manufacturers.

In asking for arbitration the labor leaders are not emphatic in their choice of the arbitrators, and simply suggested members of the Civic Federation because they thought a better choice of public men could be made from that body. They say that their willingness to make a sacrifice in order to settle the strike must not be construed as a sign of weakness and it is done only to show that they want to be fair. If there is a settlement the sacrifice will have to come from both sides, they say.

Checks to the amount of $1750 were distributed to the relief stations yesterday and provisions will be made by the Textile council for another distribution next week.

Anticipating a Grievance

New Bedford, Mass., Dec. 22.—At a meeting of the Bristol mill weavers last night only 25 attended and no definite action was taken relative to the matter of making a fight against running 12 looms, which, it was stated, the weavers would be asked to operate. It was asserted that no actual attempt had been made to make the weavers run the extra number as yet.

Railroad Collision In Connecticut

Middletown, Conn., Dec. 22.—In a collision between a freight train and a train composed of an engine and four empty passenger cars here last night, the passenger cars were telescoped and Brakeman Harry May, who was on the rear end of the passenger train, was badly hurt.

Africans Are Good Marksmen

Berlin, Dec. 22.—The casualties to date among the German troops operating in German Southwest Africa is as follows: Officers, 49; men, 510. These figures represent deaths from all causes and include the missing. The heavy percentage of officers killed is attributed to the good marksmanship of the natives.

Bright Prospects For Labor

Pittsburg, Dec. 22.—Officials of many industrial concerns in and about Pittsburg are searching for men to work in their plants. The bright prospects for an increased amount of business after the first of the year are responsible for this move and thousands of unemployed will be given steady work after Jan. 1.

Sports Were Out In Force

San Francisco, Dec. 22.—The total gate receipts of the Britt-Nelson fight were $26,900, of which Britt received $8877, Nelson $5918, and the Yosemite club $12,105.

LAWSON'S PROCLAMATION

Said to Be Ready to Shoot Standard Oil Emissaries

Boston, Dec. 22.—The Post says: The war between Thomas W. Lawson and the Standard Oil trust culminated in several sensational developments last evening. First came Lawson's "war proclamation" to H. H. Rogers, active head of the Standard Oil trust, warning him that he would shoot on sight any and all emissaries or agents sent in quest of him by the Standard Oil people.

Next came Lawson's statement that Jim Keene, king of Wall street operators, had been buncoed out of $7,000,000 which the trust had promised him as a reward for making "wash" sales of Amalgamated Copper.

The next development was Lawson's statement that he would go in quest of J. E. Addicks, the Delaware gas magnate, as soon as he arrives in Boston and that he will be prepared for any kind of warfare the Delaware man wants.

Statements given out late last night by Senator Higgins of Delaware and Receiver Pepper of Philadelphia tended to confirm Lawson's story, in his latest chapter on "Frenzied Finance," to the effect that the receivership in Bay State gas a few years ago had been bought out with money furnished by Henry H. Rogers.

Late this morning Jim Keene gave out a copy of his letter to Lawson, which the latter has claimed contained proof of his statement that Keene had made "washed" sales of Amalgamated Copper.

Day Turned Into Night

London, Dec. 22.—London was enveloped yesterday afternoon in a black fog more dense than anything witnessed during the last two years. As early as 2 p. m. the city was lighted up everywhere the same as at night but even electricity and gas failed to dispel the gloom. In many places the traffic was almost stopped and the greatest care was necessary to avoid accidents. In the most crowded section of the centre of London vehicle traffic was completely stopped, pedestrians lost their way and policemen their sense of direction. Torchboys did a roaring trade.

Columbia Students' Lively Time

New York, Dec. 22.—The Columbia sophomores had a merry gathering last night at one of the uptown hotels. In a hard fight, in which about 100 of the second-year men were pitted against the same number of freshmen, the sophomores captured H. B. McCutcheon, vice president of the class, and his brother. This battle took place in front of a subway station on Broadway. The fancy work of the subway entrance was wrecked and not a few of the students were severely injured.

Flipped Coin to Reach Verdict

New York, Dec. 22.—Twelve jurymen have been summoned to appear before Judge Higgins in Jersey City. It is charged that, in discussing the case of a man named Eckoff, against whom a serious complaint had been made by a young woman, the jurymen tossed a coin. If it fell "heads up" Eckoff was to be convicted. It did fall "heads up" and a verdict of guilty was returned. Eckoff's attorney asked for a reversal of the verdict and the story of the coin tossing was told in court.

Loved Woman Nearly Twice His Age

Lockport, N. Y., Dec. 22.—Fred Jones, a clerk in a grocery store at Charlotteville, shot and killed Constable W. C. Gray and Mrs. Abbie Goodrich, a widow. He then fired a bullet into his own brain. Jones was a suitor for Mrs. Goodrich's hand and the shooting was the result of her refusal to accept his attentions. Jones was 28 years old and Mrs. Goodrich was 54 and the mother of several grown children.

Miraculous Escape From Death

New York, Dec. 22.—After falling 135 feet from the central span of the Williamsburg bridge into the East river, Charles Summerfield, a workman employed on the structure, was picked up by a tug and is still alive. The surgeons say no bones were broken, but the man was injured internally. Summerfield held to a plank which fell with him and still had hold of it when he came to the surface.

Big Derrick Struck Battleship

New York, Dec. 22.—Breaking five great cables as if they had been threads, the 100-ton floating derrick Hercules, moored to the side of the new battleship Connecticut, broke adrift in the navy yard basin in Wallabout bay and crashed into the stern of the battleship Texas, smashing several plates and so injuring the war vessel that she will have to go into drydock.

Elder Syveton Charges Murder

Paris, Dec. 22.—M. Syveton, father of the late Deputy Syveton, has made a formal complaint to the criminal court that his son had been the victim of an assassination. The accused person was not specifically named, as the examining magistrate is to make a charge after an investigation of the complaint.

Panama Shaken Up

Panama, Dec. 22.—There were 19 slight earthquakes, followed by one strong shock at David. Numerous houses were damaged and the people, who were thrown into a panic, are now camping in the streets. Earthquake shocks were also felt within a radius of 150 miles of Panama and Colon.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Friday, Dec. 23.
Sun rises—7:11; sets—4:15.
Moon rises—5:38 p. m.
High water—11:30 a. m.; 12 p. m.

It will be fair and the weather will moderate in New England.

BATTLE AGAINST DEATH

Unequal Fight Finally Won by Crew of the Clara Goodwin

New York, Dec. 22.—A story of eight days and nights of ceaseless labor under the most disheartening conditions, with death constantly staring them in the face, is told by the 10 shipwrecked sailors of the crew of the Portland, Me., schooner Clara Goodwin, who were brought here on schooner Martha Wallace. The men were in a terribly exhausted condition and still showed the effects of their experience when they arrived here.

The Clara Goodwin sailed from Tampa, Fla., Dec. 1 and for the first week had a fair trip. On Dec. 8, while between Capes Hatteras and Lookout, the schooner ran into a northeast hurricane, which continued for many hours, and before it had spent its force the schooner had sprung aleak and began to fill rapidly.

Then began the real struggle for life. The steam pumps were worked to their full capacity, but still the water in the hold increased in depth and the schooner became unmanageable and wallowed in the trough of the sea. With all hands at the hand pumps a slight lead on the water was gained and finally the schooner was worked in to the southwest of Diamond shoals, where temporary shelter from the pounding seas was found.

On the next afternoon, however, the wind shifted and she was again at the mercy of the waves. Then followed a week of unremitting toil, the conditions growing more unbearable every day. Hope had almost been abandoned when the Wallace, beating up the coast, observed their signal of distress and went to their assistance. The hold of the Goodwin was practically full of water and she was settling rapidly.

Want Cotton Transactions Expunged

New York, Dec. 22.—Application has been made by small creditors, reinforced by Edward Hawley and F. H. Ray, to have nearly $3,000,000 worth of claims against Daniel J. Sully & Co. set aside. This would permit Sully to pay nearly 100 cents on the dollar. The petitioners ask Magrane Cox, referee in bankruptcy, to direct that the Cotton Exchange claims be expunged and dissolved. These represent sums due to various firms as a result in transactions in cotton. The total amount is $2,953,365.52.

Carrier Pigeon's Long Flight

Dolgeville, N. Y., Dec. 22.—There has arrived here an exhausted carrier pigeon which had on its leg a tag bearing this inscription: "A. C. H., 396." Adolf C. Harn, a pigeon fancier, lived in Dolgeville until a year ago, when he migrated to Southern California, taking his pigeons with him. It is supposed that the exhausted bird is one of his flock which returned to its old home. Such a flight is, however, unparalleled, the record being 1072 miles, from Little Rock to New York.

Drug Store Employes Burned

Boston, Dec. 22.—Georgia Ramsdell, employed in a drug store on Hanover street, was severely burned by the breaking of a bottle of perfumery which became ignited from a gas jet and set her clothing and hair on fire. Timothy D. Raymond, a clerk, was badly burned about the hands while extinguishing the flames and rescuing the girl. Both were taken to a hospital. Miss Ramsdell will recover.

Memorial Tablets Unveiled

Boston, Dec. 22.—The "Forefather's day" observance at the First church (Unitarian) was marked by the unveiling of six tablets erected there in memory of some of the founders of the commonwealth and early members of the church. The tablets are erected to the memory of Sir Henry Vane, Anne Hutchinson, Sir John Leverett, Simon Bradstreet, Anne Bradstreet and John Endicott.

The Kroonland's Rough Passage

New York, Dec. 22.—After a tempestous voyage during which she was struck by a tidal wave, steamship Kroonland arrived from Antwerp. When the tidal wave struck the ship one of her passengers was thrown across the deck and had a leg broken and a sailor fell from the crow's nest, but suffered no serious injury. On the second day out a stewardess went insane.

Fishermen Had Poor Luck

Canso, N. S., Dec. 22.—The American schooner Massachusetts has arrived after five weeks' battering with storms in search of halibut. Captain Carroll reports having cruised over all the fishing grounds where halibut are usually found at this time of the year, but with poor success. The Massachusetts lost cable and anchors and came here to refit for another trip.

Employment For Tin Workers

Sharon, Pa., Dec. 22.—Notices have been posted by the American Sheet and Tin Plate company that the remaining five mills of the plant will be placed in operation next Monday. The starting of these mills will afford work for 1300 men.

NEWS IN BRIEF

George L. Shoup, former United States senator from Idaho, died at his home at Boise, Ida. He was in his 68th year. He had been ill several weeks.

The office of the United States geological survey, which has been maintained at Bangor, Me., for the past two years, will be removed to Boston. The change of location is said to be due to the shifting of the center of operations.

A trade deal was closed in New York by which the E. M. Rush estate of Pittsburg secures three large hotel properties in New York city. The aggregate value of the properties involved is about $5,000,000.

Undesirable Immigrants Sent Back

Boston, Dec. 22.—Twenty-four undesirable immigrants were deported on board steamer Cymric, which sailed for Liverpool. Thirteen were excluded from the country on the ground that they were likely to become public charges, nine were afflicted with trachoma, one was found to be a contract laborer and the other was sent for physical reasons.

Burglars Active at Boston

Boston, Dec. 22.—Three bold daylight burglaries in the Back Bay section were reported to the police last night. Two suites in the apartment house at 25 Hemenway street were entered and jewelry and silverware valued at $125 stolen. The other break was at 5 Haviland street, where $100 worth of silverware was taken.

Railroad Company Must Settle

Boston, Dec. 22.—Judge Gaskill, in the superior court, found for the defendant in the action brought by the Old Colony Railroad company against the city of New Bedford to recover $2724 wages paid by the company for a gateman at a grade crossing. It was contended that the contract was against public policy and void.

A Merry Party.

Many good times are enjoyed by young people in the country at the holiday season. It was the pleasure of Quincy young ladies to participate in a party in Maine this week. The Bangor Commercial says:

A merry party of young people chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Waldo P. Lowell went to Green lake Monday morning to spend the day at the Lowell cottage as the guests of Miss Gladys Lowell. At the lake skating and other sports were enjoyed as well as indoor games and the day was passed in a pleasant manner.

Those in the party were Miss Gladys Lowell, Miss Ruth Lowell, Miss Sawyer, Miss Bernice Brann, Miss Britomarte Emerson, Miss Helen Sweet, Miss Jessie Lord, Miss Brownie Andrews, Miss Lottie Ryder, Miss Helen Miller, Miss Beatrice Graham, Miss Julia Robinson, Miss Lucie Newcomb of Quincy, Mass., Miss Robina Waterman, Miss Grace Waterman, Ralph Crowell, Karl Goodwin, Lawrence Jones, Maurice Ricker, Clarence Mayo, Harry Robinson and J. Leland Crosby.

—"Ten Nights in a Bar Room" and Vaudeville will be the attraction, at Hancock hall for Christmas afternoon and evening. C. J. Gorman's company of Boston will present it to the Quincy people. They come well recommended from larger cities. "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" is one of the oldest plays before the public and never fails to win the hearts of all lovers of good comedy and sensational drama. The Vaudeville that Mr. Gorman will put between the acts will be clean and first class.

HALLER WAS POLITE.

A Story of the Famous Swiss Scientist and His Election.

Haller, a famous Swiss scientist of the eighteenth century, was once well rewarded for his politeness to a fellow traveler. Some scientists find it hard to take an interest in anything except their own specialties. It was not so with Haller. His fellow traveler was a good woman from Berne. The conversation fell naturally upon the commodity for which Berne is noted—cakes.

The Berne dame said with pride that she could make fourteen kinds of cakes.

What was her surprise and delight when Haller asked her how she made them! She eagerly began a recital, with copious explanations, of those fourteen recipes, and she had a good listener.

Perhaps Haller regretted his rash question, but he did not show it. He listened patiently and smilingly to the end, and he and the Bernese woman parted very good friends, though he had hardly spoken a word. It is safe to say that in all his scientific researches he had not learned so much about the combination of butter and sugar and eggs.

Some time afterward he was elected to an important political office. From some quarters he received an unexpected number of votes. Then he found out that his Bernese cakemaking friend had been so impressed with the intelligence and ability of her fellow traveler that when she heard he was running for office she gave her relatives, friends and acquaintances no peace of mind until she had secured their promise to vote for him.

CABS IN RUSSIA.

Fares Are Low if You Are Up to the Tricks of the Drivers.

In no European country are cab fares so cheap as in Russia, for there is no tariff at all. On the rank are half a dozen drivers on the boxes of their droskies—tiny victorias, hung low and with just room for two if the two clasp waists after the Russian mode.

If you know just about how far you want to drive you take the first driver and tell him where you want to go and what is the price offered. The etiquette is followed invariably. The driver throws up his eyes in horror. He calls upon the saints to witness that so ridiculous a price must be doubled before he could look at it.

You are not deceived. You walk on. And before you have gone ten paces the cabman is after you, pointing politely to the seat in the drosky and, with a grin, repeating frequently the Russian equivalent for "please."

But if you are driving to a destination at an unknown distance it is necessary to ask the opinion of the first bellied, belted, bearded brigand on the box of a drosky. Then it is your turn to throw your eyes to heaven and call on the saints. A quick problem in division works itself out in your head. Threes into a ruble? And you put yourself up to a Dutch auction along the rank. "Hotel So-and-so, sorok kopeck!" you cry, with a leaning toward generosity. There is a race for you. You drive a long way in Moscow for a dime.

When Vigo Was Famous.

Vigo, the Spanish seaport, is an old time scene of war. It was to Vigo that Drake and Norris sailed in 1588 to place Don Antonio on the throne of Portugal. They burned Vigo, but failed to capture Lisbon and went away cursing each other. So little plunder was there that the common sailors received but 5 shillings a man in wages and took to robbery, for which many of them were hanged in and near London. When the English under Rooke put into Vigo harbor again there was treasure in sight. A fleet of Spanish galleons, of which Benbow had been in pursuit, was in the bay, protected by a French fleet. Several galleons were captured by the English, but more went to the bottom and there remain to this day. Nowadays Vigo is a commonplace little town.

Great Men.

It is a matter of common observation that at the passing of the great men of each generation there is a pessimistic feeling prevalent that "there were giants in those days." But the feeling has never had any warrant in the actual deficiencies of the oncoming generations. Orators have come and gone and statesmen have come and gone, and sometimes their immediate successors have not been discernible. But in time the men have emerged who have taken their places and who have improved upon the patterns they left. —Des Moines Register.

Never Touched Him.

The old man paused at the parlor door on his way upstairs.

"Don't forget, young man," he said, "that the lights in this house are all out at 10 o'clock."

"Thanks," rejoined the young man, who was helping the fair maid to hold the sofa down, "but—er—couldn't you make an exception tonight and put 'em out an hour earlier?"—Chicago News.

Lucky Stars.

"I've had a very successful season," said the prosperous looking theatrical manager.

"Well, you can thank your stars for that," replied the seedy looking manager.—Yonkers Statesman.

Inciting to Perjury.

Lawyer—Did the defendant to your knowledge ever incite another to perjury? Witness—Yes. Once I heard him ask a woman her age.

A love of justice is simply in a majority of men the fear of suffering injustice.—La Rochefoucauld.

ODD CHINESE CUSTOM.

It Is Etiquette to Belittle Oneself and One's Services.

In China, as in Japan, custom requires that one who has performed a meritorious service should belittle it, and one who has been selected for honors should declare himself unworthy. Who can imagine an American officeholder writing such a letter of acceptance as this, which the biographer of Li Hung Chang quotes from Tseng Kwo Fan, appointed viceroy of Nankin:

"Being of no ability and having notwithstanding been intrusted with the most important duties, I have, as I tottered along, failed to do anything meritorious.

"When some years ago I went to Shangtung I did not succeed in subduing the Nienfei, but returned to Nankin and was ever after ashamed of myself. Last year I was graciously nominated viceroy of Chili, but I made unsuitable appointments, mismanaged the army and failed to do any good for the Yellow river. I tremble as I think of my blunders, and in consequence I am overwhelmed by the gracious order which directs me to resume my former important post and thus displays your majesty's confidence in me instead, as would be just, of reprobating me for my worthlessness and dismissing me."

As it happened, this was from one of the most honest and best beloved Chinese who ever governed Nankin and was almost worshiped by the people of the province.

THE WET TABLECLOTH.

It Puzzled the Ship's Passenger Until It Was Explained.

The understeward in setting the table poured a half glass of water on the clean white cloth and placed a dish of fruit on the puddle he had made. He made another puddle and placed on it the carafe. On a third puddle he placed the butter dish, and so on.

"Why do you spoil the cloth with all that water?" asked a passenger.

"Because the weather's rough, sir," said the steward, and then, making another puddle, he went on:

"We stewards on ocean liners must not be merely good waiters—we must be good wet weather waiters. And we have a number of tricks.

"One of our tricks is to set the heavy dishes upon wet spots. If we were to set them on dry spots in the ordinary way they would slide to and fro with every lurch of the ship. But if the cloth is wetted they don't slide. They adhere to the wet place as though glued to it.

"One of the first things a steward learns is to set a stormy weather table—to spill water on the cloth at each place where a heavy dish is to stand. This water serves its purpose thoroughly, and it doesn't look bad, either, for the dish covers it. No one knows of the wet spot underneath."—New York Press.

Beggars In England.

Beggars who feign diseases are no new thing in the streets of London. They existed in Charles II.'s time, only then the beggar was called a "ruffler," a "huff" or a "shabbaroon." If he was deaf and dumb he was called a "dummerer." The woman who sung hymns and led borrowed children by the hand was called a "clapperdozen." Vagrancy is no new thing, though it practically did not exist in mediaeval times. It was when the cities ceased to be confined within their own walls and long before the days of policemen that the people got beyond the control of the aldermen and their officers and vagrancy became a regular profession. The first English law against beggars was made by Henry VIII., who gave licenses to beg to the old and impotent and ordered that all other beggars should be whipped and sent back to their parishes.

More Than Skin Tight.

Senator Joe Blackburn, who was quite a dandy in his younger days, once ordered a pair of trousers from his tailor, and as the fashion then was to wear tight nether habilaments he emphatically demanded that this particular pair be skin tight. In due time the trousers were sent home and tried on, whereupon the senator sent for the tailor and proceeded to open fire. "What in the blankety blank blank have you done with these trousers?" he demanded. "You told me to make them skin tight, sir," faltered the tailor. "Yes; but, by the great horn spoon, you overdid it," roared the senator. "I can sit down in my skin, but I can't in these trousers."

How Chicago Is Spelled.

In sorting over the letters for Chicago a man in the general Chicago office has kept an account of the number of different ways the word Chicago is spelled. Recently the record showed 197 different ways. Some ripe scholar in Finland sent a letter to his brother and spelled the name of the Garden City, Zizzazo. Still another foreigner, possibly with a sinister motive, spelled the word Jagjago. Hipaho, Jajijo, Scheechacho, Hizage and Chachicho are also prime favorites.

He Found It.

"I meant to have told you of that hole," said the kindly host to his friend, who had suddenly disappeared, in the course of a stroll through the grounds, into a pit full of water. The friend climbed out and shook himself. "It doesn't matter," he said cheerily. "I found it."—London Globe.

Proved Himself.

"That Hustly seems like a plucky chap."

"Guess he is all right. He has plucked everybody in this neighborhood."—Detroit Free Press.

TO TALK WITH LAWSON

Gas Magnate Addicks Makes His Appearance at the Hub

Boston, Dec. 23.—The Boston Journal says that J. E. Addicks, who has been prominently identified with gas companies in this city, arrived in this city last night, and The Journal understands that he came here for the purpose of having an interview with Thomas W. Lawson. Upon his arrival here Addicks immediately left for Newton, refusing himself to interviewers.

The Journal says that Alexander Cowan, a Boston newsdealer, was last night served with a summons to appear in court to answer to a charge of selling and spreading an alleged libellous article appearing in a current magazine.

Lawson's denunciation of Addicks is ten-fold what has been dealt out to Henry H. Rogers, and Addicks has been verbally pilloried in each of Mr. Lawson's magazine articles. Lawson has not seen Addicks in some time, but he says he is ready for the meeting.

An Unusual Court Episode

New York, Dec. 23.—Spectators in court cheered when the jury returned a verdict of acquittal for Clara Adler, aged 18, who was accused of killing her baby. The members of the jury took up a subscription and gave $100 to the defendant whom they had just set free. Miss Adler admitted that the child had died of benzine asphyxiation, but asserted that the poison fell into the child's mouth by accident when the mother attempted to commit suicide by drinking it. A friend knocked the bottle from her lips as she was about to drink.

Postoffice Checking Frauds

Washington, Dec. 23.—R. P. Goodwin, assistant attorney general for the postoffice department, reports that the number of fraudulent concerns has been greatly reduced in consequence of the vigorous enforcement of the postal laws. There were 144 fraud orders issued during the year and 23 orders were issued against foreign lottery companies and their agents. Much has been done in the direction of excluding from the mails matter considered unfit for circulation.

Bridge Workers' New Scale

Chicago, Dec. 23.—A new wage agreement for 12,000 bridge and structural iron workers throughout the United States has been decided upon by the executive committee of its union, which has been in session in Chicago for the last 10 days. The scale provides for 35 and 45 cents an hour, according to locality. All employers will be asked to sign the agreement and strikes will be called wherever the request is refused.

Fire on Blackwell's Island

New York, Dec. 23.—The four-story laundry building on Blackwell's island was destroyed by fire this morning. Sixty-five laundresses who were on the top floor of the building escaped without injury. The laundry was situated between the city hospital, in which were 700 patients, and the female nurses' training school, to which it was feared that the flames would spread. The loss is estimated at $40,000.

Grain Blockade at Chicago

Chicago, Dec. 23.—Chicago is experiencing a deluge of grain and dealers are anxiously urging the railroads to come to their relief. Nearly 6,000,000 bushels of grain from the west is now awaiting transportation to points east of Chicago. The railroads were yesterday compelled to refuse 5000 cars of grain offered for transportation. The inability of the roads to handle the stuff is laid to lack of equipment.

Moscow Students For Reform

Moscow, Dec. 23.—Students of the University of Moscow yesterday adopted resolutions denouncing the rector for prohibiting their meetings, declaring their determination to unceasingly strive for the liberation of the oppressed of the fatherland and threatening that if they are punished for assembling they will organize manifestations in conjunction with the workmen.

Accidents to Fruit Steamers

Kingston, Ja., Dec. 23.—The United Fruit company's steamer Admiral Dewey has gone ashore at Port Morant harbor. A wrecking steamer has gone to her assistance. The same company's steamer Buckman lost her propeller by grounding at Ocho Dios. It is feared the damage cannot be repaired here.

THE PEOPLE ALL

In Chorus Cried, Give Us Newbro's Herpicide.

This word of late has been in everyone's mouth, and many are wondering what the word signifies, though no one has yet been found, who will deny that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE does the work. Well, for the information of thousands of people who like to know all about a good thing, we would say that HERPICIDE means, a destroyer or killer of "Herpes," Now "Herpes" is the family name of a disease caused by various vegetable parasites. A similar microbe causes dandruff, itching scalp, and falling hair; this is the microbe that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE promptly destroys; after which the hair grows. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

MONROE DOCTRINE

Our Adherence to It Carries a Possibility of War

THE CONFLICT OF RIGHTS

We Must See That Southern and Central American Republics Fulfill Their Obligations to Powers of Europe

New York, Dec. 23.—Four hundred and fifty sons of New England attended the 99th dinner of the New England Society of the City of New York here last night. The menu depicted several notable historic scenes. The souvenir was an exact fac-simile of the New England primer in color and type.

At the guests' table with President Hubbard sat former Secretary of War Elihu Root, who responded to the principal toast of the evening: "A corollary of the Monroe doctrine." Mr Root said in part:

"We have had within a few days here a meeting of the advocates of peace, a meeting designed to promote the principles of arbitration among nations and with the purpose of that meeting, with the things said and the results which it so sought to accomplish, I heartily agree and I believe all of you agree.

"But after all, the true way to accomplish peace among men is to promote justice among men, good understanding—for all wars come of misunderstanding or injustice, from a failure of some one to do his duty to his fellowmen.

"The only relation that carries the possibility of war for this country is that declaration and adherence of the American people to the so-called Monroe doctrine.

"There will be no frontal attack on the Monroe doctrine. The way in which the cause of war may arise will be, if at all, by the conflict of rights, the existence of rights on the part of foreign powers against the American republics and the result of the enforcement of these rights of foreign powers against the American republics coming into conflict with this doctrine which we assert for our own safety and preservation.

"We do not undertake to say that the republics of South and Central America are to be relieved of their international obligations. We do not undertake to say that the powers of Europe shall not undertake to enforce their rights against these members of the sisterhood of nations. It is only when the enforcement of these rights comes to the point of taking possession of the territory that we say that is inconsistent with the peace and safety of the United States. We cannot say that with justice unless we also say that the American republics are themselves to be just.

"It is always possible that redress of injury, that punishment for wrong may lead to the occupation of territory. And if we are to maintain this doctrine, which is vital to our national life and its safety, at the same time that we say to the powers of the world, 'you shall not push your remedies for wrong against these republics to the point of occupying their territory,' we are bound to say that whenever that wrong cannot be otherwise redressed, we ourselves will see that it is redressed.

"Above all things let us be just. Let us do equity when we come in the great court of civilization. Let us see that we ourselves and those whom we protect for our own safety are just and then our cause will be just."

Countess After Slaughter Fees

New York, Dec. 23.—A complaint brought by Countess Carara, who seeks to recover $250,000 from Major General Brooke, formerly governor general of Cuba, was heard in the United States district court here. The countess alleges that Brooke abolished the office of high sheriff of Havana, which she claimed by inheritance and from which she derived fees for supervising the slaughter of cattle.

"If" Turkey Keeps Promises

London, Dec. 23.—Among the diplomatists in London connected with the Balkans the suggestions of the possibility of a Turko-Bulgarian war are discredited. One of the Balkan ministers says that if Turkey fulfills her engagements peace in the Balkans will be established on a permanent basis for some years to come.

Red Cloud Gets In Line

Washington, Dec. 23.—The Indian bureau has been notified that Chief Red Cloud of Pine Ridge agency has agreed to accept an allotment of lands. He heretofore has held out persistently in opposition to allotment and his position has had a marked influence on other Indians who have followed him for the last half century.

Union Gives Up the Ghost

Detroit, Dec. 23.—Detroit Harbor No. 47, American Association of Masters and Pilots, voted to surrender its charter and go out of existence. Before the masters and pilots' strike last spring the harbor had 368 members in good standing, but only 32 attended last night's session.

Ready For Guilemette's Trial

Crookston, Minn., Dec. 23.—The jury which is to try Joseph Guillemette, who was arrested in Woonsocket, R. I., charged with the murder of his partner, Mongeon, has been completed.

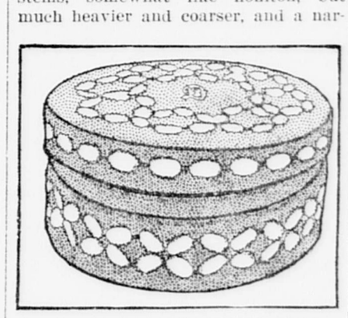
HOLIDAY FANCIES.

RAPID AND PLEASING NEEDLEWORK ANSWERS A POPULAR DEMAND.

Ingenious Use of Novelty Braids. Decorative Articles For Gifts Are Easily Made—A Useful Workbox and Photograph Frame.

Something new, easy to do, effective—this is the perennial demand in the world of fancy work at the holiday season, and it seems to be met by the method of using the heavy novelty braid, which is called novelty applique. Designs and instructions for this work occur as follows in the Designer: There are a number of braids suitable for use in this manner, but in the accompanying illustrations only two have been employed, one composed of lozenge shaped forms connected by slender stems, somewhat like honiton, but much heavier and coarser, and a narrow zigzag braid. Both of these have loop edges and are made in various sizes, ranging from those almost as small and fine as lace braids to some that are very large and heavy.



WORKBOX WITH BRAID DECORATIONS.

The braid is first basted over the outlines with close stitches, care being taken to follow the lines exactly and to keep the curves smooth and flowing. Then twisted embroidery silk, or, in case of a heavy design, rope silk, is used, and a stitch is put into each of the loops on the edge of the braids, while three stitches are taken from side to side across the stems which join the lozenge forms together. These silk stitches sprinkled over the entire design add very much to the richness of effect, give a touch of color and character to the braid and hold it firmly in place without further sewing, so that the work is rapid and easy of execution.

Linens of fine or heavy weave in different colors have been used for making the articles in the accompanying illustrations, but other materials could be employed to quite as good advantage. Duck, pique and canvas would form suitable backgrounds for the heavy braids and sheer white linen and silk for those of lighter quality. As for the embroidery silk, in some instances it may match the braid or the background, and in others may form a striking contrast to them. Sometimes the background is matched, or its color in a lighter or darker shade is used. The round workbox of carnelian red linen is stitched with silk of a deeper red, and the square cornered photo frame in dull green is worked with silk which is very little darker than the background.

For the photograph frame two pieces of thin cardboard are required, also a piece of linen or silk for the backing. The cardboard should be cut the same shape as the covering, but about an eighth of an inch smaller all around. A thin layer of sheet wadding placed between the front and the card will give the frame a softer, richer look, and on this may be sprinkled sachet powder of some delicate perfume.

BRAIDED PHOTOGRAPH FRAME.

A wooden salt box makes the firmest foundation for the workbox and should be well sandpapered to make it perfectly smooth before the covering is put in place. The inside should be lined with quilted or rucked silk over sheet wadding and should be fitted to the box, then the bottom and the side pieces overhanded together on the wrong side. The outside portions should be fitted and adjusted in a similar manner, then the outside and the inside pieces joined by overhanding along the top.

Notes From Good Housekeeping.

A friend told me several years ago that rice should be cooked in cold water and in a double boiler. After trying it once I have never been satisfied with any other method.

In making popcorn balls I have a pan of dry corn which I add to the corn as I form them. They look better and form much easier, as they are not so sticky.

Furs that are matted and worn can be much improved by brushing and combing carefully with a perfectly clean brush and comb. Then shake the furs till no dust comes out.

Delicate griddlecakes are made by mixing the flour and sour milk thoroughly together the night before. In the morning add salt, shortening and soda, but no flour.

No Dessert More Attractive

Why use gelatine and spend hours soaking, sweetening, flavoring and coloring when produces better results in two minutes? Everything in the package. Simply add hot water and set to cool. It's perfection. A surprise to the housewife. No trouble, less expense. Try it to-day. Flavors: Lemon, Orange, Strawberry, Raspberry, Chocolate and Cherry. At grocers. 10c.

When you make Ice Cream use Jell-O ICE CREAM Powder. All ingredients in the package. At all grocers. 2 pkgs. for 25c.

Chadwick and Wife Charged With Having Forged It

JURY'S UNEXPECTED ACT

Joint Indictment In Connection With Note Signed Andrew Carnegie--Chadwick to Be Arrested Upon Arrival Here

Cleveland, Dec. 23.—Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick and his wife, Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick, were jointly indicted by the county grand jury yesterday afternoon on the charge of having forged and uttered a $5,000,000 note signed Andrew Carnegie.

Dr. Chadwick is now on his way to New York from Paris and is expected to land next Wednesday. As soon as the indictment was returned Sheriff Barry of this county made arrangements to secure Chadwick's extradition. Barry will meet the steamer on its arrival.

This is the third time that Mrs. Chadwick has been indicted by the county grand jury, but it is the first instance of her husband's name appearing in legal proceedings in the case. The indictments already returned against Mrs. Chadwick are similar to the one voted yesterday, except that they cover notes of $250,000 and $500,000 signed Andrew Carnegie.

Mrs. Chadwick, when informed of the action of the grand jury, appeared not the least concerned, and only asked if any one else had been indicted, mentioning the name of a person who has figured in the case to some extent. She declined to make any comment, saying:

"It will do me no good to discuss my affairs in the newspapers. There has been so much misrepresentation that I have decided to do no further talking and I am also acting on the advice of my attorney in this respect."

The grand jury's action was somewhat unexpected. It was thought at first that its report would be made Saturday. Prosecutor Keeler counted on a delay in securing the necessary papers for Dr. Chadwick's return and feared that the steamship on which he is a passenger possibly might arrive before they were secured. The vote was then taken and the indictment returned. Sheriff Barry then arranged to obtain the requisition from Governor Herrick and will leave Sunday night for Albany to obtain extradition papers from Governor Odell. Dr. Chadwick, it is expected, will not resist returning to Cleveland.

"There are many things which Dr. Chadwick will have to explain and I hope he will do so," said Prosecutor Keeler. "Dr. and Mrs. Chadwick may be tried on the indictment separately or together. Each has a right to trial singly if it is desired. The jurors will finish their work Saturday. The Chadwick investigation, so far as this jury is concerned, is ended. But I cannot say that this concludes our inquiry into this matter. It is possible that there may be other developments."

The grand jury has spent more than two weeks in its investigation of the Chadwick affair. It is understood that it was mainly on the testimony of President Beckwith of the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin, which failed recently, that the jurors voted to indict Dr. Chadwick. A number of persons whose names have frequently appeared in connection with the case went before the jury at various times to give testimony.

Nathan Loeser, receiver for the Chadwick property, who is trying to locate assets for the benefit of creditors, says that he has obtained information concerning the whereabouts of the trunk and satchel belonging to Mrs. Chadwick, which were taken from the Holland house in New York during her stay there. He expects to recover them, but does not know if they contain valuables.

Newton on Chadwick's Trail

Boston, Dec. 23.—On behalf of Herbert D. Newton it is authoritatively stated that civil proceedings in his interests will be instituted against Dr. Chadwick upon the latter's return to this country. The action will be brought for the recovery of paper given by Chadwick to Newton and having a face value of $90,000. Newton has cabled to Southampton and satisfied himself that Chadwick is a passenger on the steamer Pretoria.

To Rake Over Police Department

New York, Dec. 23.—At the request of District Attorney Jerome, Judge Cowing has decided to hold the grand jury in session during part of next week, in order that Jerome may present matters in connection with the police department. The matter is regarded by Jerome as of such importance that he will not take any Christmas vacation.

Open Shop Leads to Strike

New York, Dec. 23.—A strike against the "open shop" was begun here by the United Cloth, Hat and Cap Makers' union. In 19 factories notices were posted announcing that the shops would hereafter be "open." The employes at once quit work. The union claims to have 1500 cap makers out.

HAS PUBLIC SYMPATHY

Does Not Aid Princess Louise In Effort to See Her Children

Berlin, Dec. 23.—Princess Louise former wife of the King of Saxony has left Leipsiz for Florence to rejoin her youngest daughter. There were popular demonstrations at the station Leipsiz and during the princess' drive to the villa of Advocate Zehme, her attorney, which showed the existence of many sympathizers with the princess in Leipsiz as well as in Dresden.

Dresden, Dec. 23.—Princess Louise who had written to the king that unless he granted her oft-repeated request to see her children she would attempt to see them without his permission, arrived here unexpectedly from Vienna Wednesday night with a woman companion and went to the Hotel Bellevue where she was immediately recognized. The police were informed and then the ministry sent a telegram to the king at Pillnitz, who directed that she should on no account be admitted to the palace.

The princess, dressed in mourning, went alone to one of the entrances of the palace on the Theatre square. A lieutenant of police saluted her and told her quietly that it would be impossible for her to enter the palace. The former crown princess stood on the steps trembling and the few guards and policemen surrounding her thought she was about to fall. The princess recovered herself somewhat and said three or four times: "Please let me see my children." The lieutenant replied that his orders were peremptory.

She returned to her hotel, received no one and lunched in her rooms. Later she left for Leipsig.

Public sympathy runs strongly in favor of allowing the princess to see her children once a year, as the German law provides in the case of mothers divorced from the most flagrant offenses.

Twelve Sent to Hospital

Philadelphia, Dec. 23.—Twenty-seven persons were overcome by coal gas in a crowded tenement house at 315 Monroe street, in the foreign settlement of this city, early this morning. Twelve of them were in such a serious condition that they had to be taken to a hospital, but it is believed they will recover. The lower part of the tenement was occupied by a Turkish bath establishment and the gas escaped from a large furnace used in the baths. There were more than 100 persons in the upper part of the building, most of whom were Russian Jews.

Eagles Lost Their Feathers

Elizabeth, N. J., Dec. 23.—Fire broke out last night in a four-story building here while 400 members of the local lodge of Eagles were in session on the top floor and a meeting of the Daughters of Liberty was in session on the floor below. Many of the members of the two lodges were almost overcome by smoke before they reached the street. No one was injured, but the men lost their hats and overcoats and many of the women lost their wraps. The property loss amounted to $60,000.

Youngster Used Knife on Teacher

New York, Dec. 23.—Herbert Garson, 12 years old, is under arrest charged with assault on his teacher Michael B. Sharlitt, who has a stab wound three quarters of an inch deep in his neck. When the boy was arrested he said: "Mr. Sharlitt has been nagging me and saying that I laughed at him. He hit me and I decided to get even and stabbed him in the neck." The wound is not dangerous. Sharlitt says he will prosecute.

Fortune Goes to Miss Warren

San Francisco, Dec. 23.—The will of Miss Bertha M. Dolbeer, who was killed by falling from an upper floor of a hotel in New York, was sustained by a jury in the superior court. In the will, which was contested by relatives, Miss Dolbeer gave the greater part of her $1,000,000 to her friend and traveling companion, Miss Etta M. Warren.

A Possible Odell Candidate

Albany, Dec. 23.—Rumors connecting the name of former State Senator Hendricks of Syracuse with the United States senatorship question were revived last night by the fact that soon after Governor Odell's arrival from New York he and Hendricks had a long conference. Hendricks will not discuss the subject.

Alaskans at a Standstill

Washington, Dec. 23.—The annual report of Governor Brady of Alaska estimates the total white population of that district as 26,550, with possibly a very small increase in the native population since the 1900 census, which made the total number of natives 29,536.

Attell's Third Over Regan

St. Louis, Dec. 23.—After fighting Monte Attell to a standstill during the first nine rounds of what was to have been a 20-round go, Johnny Regan was knocked out in the 17th round here last night. This was Attell's third consecutive victory over Regan.

Demand of Moroccan Bandits

Tangier, Dec. 23.—A courier from Alcazar, about 16 miles northeast of Tangier, states that tribesmen have surrounded Alcazar and threaten to sack the town unless the French consul and one British subject are handed over to them.

The Value Of Experience

[Original.]

Captain Jacob Tarr, bound from Marthas Vineyard to the south Pacific ocean on a whaling voyage, having recently lost his wife, resolved to take their only child, a daughter barely seventeen years old, with him in his ship Harpoon. Irene Tarr was a lovely girl in face, figure and disposition, and her father adored her. He had not yet begun to trouble himself, lest any young man should take her away from him.

Captain Tarr had spent all his sailor life whaling on the Atlantic ocean, but now that the stock of whales was running low there he was obliged to turn his attention to a field with which he was not familiar. In looking about for a man who had had experience there he hit upon Frank Bristol, a young fellow who had gone out before the mast six years before and made two voyages on the Pacific. Since he was but twenty, the captain gave him no higher berth than third mate, but he was the only officer aboard the Harpoon that had had any considerable experience in the Pacific ocean.

There is love that comes from long association and love that comes with a single glance of eyes. The latter was the case with Frank Bristol and Irene Tarr. She saw a young fellow in sailor trousers and pea jacket, with a light step, a head of curly hair, a fearless blue eye, and succumbed. He saw a girl with that shade of auburn hair that is called Titian, or golden, with contrasting dark brown eyes, and he bent the knee. During the voyage the two met occasionally, but Bristol saw no more of her than did his brother officers. Nevertheless the sputtering flame that had been kindled grew to a consuming fire.

Meanwhile Captain Tarr walked the quarter deck oblivious to the fact that a sailor without a cent and with only a common school education had won his daughter, on whom every advantage had been lavished and who would inherit $100,000 he had accumulated in whale grease.

The Harpoon had sailed as far as the Hawaiian Islands, then turned southward, touching at the Marquesas, from which she bent her course eastward. Captain Tarr was thus far well pleased with his voyage. He had on board a goodly supply of whale oil, and one feature he had somewhat dreaded—his inexperience as to wind and weather in the Pacific—had not troubled him at all.

"Talk about winds in particular waters," he said after being out a couple of months. "My opinion is that a man who has learned to sail a ship in one ocean should know how to sail her in any ocean. I find no difficulty here."

That same evening Frank Bristol had the watch while Captain Tarr was pacing the deck. Suddenly the captain was surprised to hear Bristol give the order:

"Man the weather braces."

"What do you mean by giving such an order as that, Mr. Bristol? Have you lost your senses?"

"Wind coming," was the laconic reply.

The captain walked to leeward and, leaning over the rail, scanned the sea and the sky from east to west.

"There's no change coming that I can see. Drop the braces, men."

"Hold the braces, I say," said Bristol, with all the firmness of an admiral of the navy.

"Is this mutiny?" roared the captain. "You young rascal, I'll teach you that I haven't been a sailor for twenty years for nothing, and I command this ship. Men, drop the braces."

The men, overawed by the superior authority of the captain, let go the braces, or, rather, they were about to do so when Bristol cried out defiantly: "Don't a man of you drop a rope for an instant as you value your lives!"

He had scarcely spoken the words when there was a sudden drop in the wind. The sails hung listless, only flapping as the vessel rolled. At the moment Irene came on deck. Her coming was fortunate, for her father was flustered with the insubordination of his mate and puzzled at the dropping of the wind.

"Haul! Haul taut! Every man haul!" cried Bristol.

The yards swung round to meet a wind that must come out of the opposite quarter to the one from which it had been blowing. They were no sooner in position than the water darkened, the disturbance coming with lightning speed, and a mighty wind struck the ship. The Harpoon shuddered, bent over to the leeward till the tip ends of the yards almost touched the water, then with a bound leaped forward.

Irene Tarr was blown into her father's arms, and he took her down into the cabin. When he returned the worst was over, and the ship was scudding along safe and sound. The captain stood on the quarter deck and called for Bristol to come aft. The men watched the mate, wondering what reception he would receive. They could not hear what was said, but they saw the captain grasp the mate's hand with evident satisfaction and gratitude. This was what was said:

"Young man, if that wind had struck us without the sails being shifted she would have gone over and never righted. I owe our lives to you, including my daughter's, whom I value more than ship, cargo and crew. Now, my boy, what can I do for you?"

"I want what you value most—your daughter."

The captain was struck flat aback and staggered for a moment under the blow. He neither granted nor denied the request then, but the time came when Bristol, aided by Irene, secured the coveted reward.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

There is an earnest movement in many cities notably Chicago, New York and Philadelphia, to provide recreation grounds for the common people—small parks with baths, swimming pools, picnic stands, rooms for dancing, and play grounds for the children. Chicago alone has 7,000 liquor shops and in one year had 17,000 boy prisoners. If public parks for amusement will attract the boys and keep them out of crime, the money invested will have been well spent. It is this idea that Rev. W. E. Gardner and others are trying to carry out in Quincy, especially in Ward Two.

The Government has made arrangements to send the noon time signals from the observatory at the Capital to ships at sea by means of the wireless telegraph. This will enable sea captains to correct their chronometers if they happen to be slow or fast. It is daily growing more evident that the wireless telegraph can be put to practical uses. A message has been sent from Kansas city to Cleveland Ohio, a distance of 725 miles; while in Europe one has been sent from Cornwall, England to Ancona, Italy a distance of 1000 miles. Not even the Alps interfered. One advantage of the wireless is that it doesn't require poles or the right of way. Every man may have a station on his own farm if he wishes.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ If half the voters in Boston stayed away from the polls on the day of the municipal election it is reasonable to suppose that almost half the voters of that city were indifferent to their duty. No such number could possibly have stayed away because of the deliberate conviction that such was the better course. That they thus neglected their obligations is as much a sign of menace of free government as is the fact that a majority of those who did vote cast their ballots for a man under sentence for violation of a law of the United States.—New Bedford Standard.

☞ The issue that is nearest the President's heart, asserts Collier's for December 24, is large naval appropriation. Collier's reluctantly says, "Probably he is right," and then adds: "It is one of those questions on which the best minds disagree. But it is a dismal topic for most sensitive people, these days. Whether necessary or not, the smashing of ironclads and men is distressing. Sharp, close and true accounts have taken away war's exhilaration. It is now much like the slaughter-houses at Chicago. General Nogi's second son was killed the other day at 203 Metre Hill. His only other son had been killed in another desperate assault in May. We realize the deaths of Makaroff and Verestchagin, and the possibility of Kuroki's death, but the other thousands are jammed into an anonymous mess like as many worms. 'Life,' observed one of our largest thinkers the other day in one of his darker moods—'Life is an infernal swindle.' Thousands have said it before, and thousands will say it hereafter. Nothing creates this black, ironic view more than the wholesale method of extinguishing human breath, of crushiug human bones. Man looks so little now, in conflict with enormous bursting shells, with explosions of the earth beneath him, with great fires burning in his path, with mines and countermines, and bullets traveling accurately for miles in silence, that the whole game has lost its glory and become gory reckoning of cost. Increased naval appropriations—yes, no doubt; but without excitement, and with a heavy heart."

COL. QUINCY.

His Grave in Hancock Cemetery Marked.

Town of Quincy Named for Him.

Boulder Erected by Quincy Historical Society.

The grave of Colonel John Quincy, for whom the town of Quincy was named, is now fittingly marked, a handsome granite boulder having been placed Thursday afternoon over his grave in Old Hancock cemetery.

Col. John Quincy died in 1767 and was buried in the old cemetery. Few, if any, of the present generation knew the location of the grave, as the inscription on the small slate marker had almost been obliterated by time.

Last year when City Engineer Flood made a survey and plan of the old cemetery, under a special order of the City Council, a copy of the inscriptions on the headstones was made, and in this way the grave of Col. Quincy was found.

It was not until Thursday, however, that the Quincy Historical society through Hon. Charles Francis Adams, placed a memorial over the grave.

The boulder was taken from the quarry of Field & Wild. While not very large it can be seen plainly from the street. On the street face of the boulder is a bronze tablet, upon which is the following inscription:

Here Was Buried
Colonel John Quincy
of
Mount Wollaston
1689—1767
From whom Quincy was named
1792
The Quincy Historical Society
Places this Memorial
904

Pattee's History of Old Braintree and Quincy says: "The person selected to give a name to the town was Rev. Anthony Wibird, then the minister of the First church, but Mr. Wibird declined and the Hon. Richard Cranch was then requested to furnish a name for the place, who recommended its being called "Quincy," in honor of Col. John Quincy, which was accepted.

"This was not fully satisfactory to the people as the inhabitants called a public meeting on May 14, 1792, to see if the town would petition the General Court to have the name altered or changed to some other. After a candid and somewhat exciting discussion whether "Hancock" or "Quincy" should be the name, it was by a close vote decided that it should continue to be called by the name of "Quincy."

Again in the historical sketch of the First church of Quincy, Mr. Pattee says:

The Quinseys, from the earliest time, have lent their influence to support, and their virtues to adorn, the institution of religion here, as well as the institutions of government and learning on a wider theatre. Judge Edmund Quinsey, who died abroad in the service of his country, is affectionately mentioned in a sermon preached by Mr. Hancock, after the intelligence was received of his death. John Quinsey was for forty years Representative of this town in the General Court, and for many years in succession Speaker of the House of Representatives. His name, which appears in the town and precinct records in connection with all public meetings, was given to the North Precinct of Braintree when in 1792 it was set off and incorporated as a distinct town."

Among the sacred vessels belonging to the First church is a tankard marked —"The gift of the Hon'ble John Quincy, Esq., to the First church of Christ in Braintree, 1767."

President John Adams wrote of Col. Quincy at the time he was dismissed from his regiment because of the intrigue of Colonel Gooch:

Colonel John Quincy has been in public life from his early youth. He had been near twenty years Speaker of the House of Representatives and many years a member of His Majesty's Council, and was as much esteemed and respected as any man in the province. He was not only an experienced and venerated statesman, but a man of letters, taste and sense.

"Shirley was with great difficulty, prevailed on to perform the operation of dismissing so faithful a servant of the public, and adopting one of so equivocal character; and he said some time afterwards, that nothing he had ever done in his administration had given him so much pain, as removing so venerable a magistrate and officer as Colonel Quincy. But the church party had insisted upon it so peremptorily, that he could not avoid it. Probably he dreaded their remonstrances to the Archbishop of Canterbury."

President John Quincy Adams was also named for John Quincy.

Pattee's history contains this brief sketch of Col. Quincy:

"John Quincy was born in the North Precinct of Braintree (now Quincy) in 1689. After receiving his preparatory education he entered Harvard college from which he was graduated in 1708.

Nine years after he was called into public service, where he was actively engaged for the greater part of his life. He was first chosen to represent the town in the General court in 1717, which honorable position he filled for 28 years, and out of the number of years that he held the office 22 of them were consecutive. From 1729 to 1741, about 12 years, he was speaker of the House.

"This record," says Mr. Pattee, "was taken from the House Journal, and does not agree with other printed statements that he represented the town for 40 consecutive years. Mr. Quincy died in 1767, aged 78."

EVERY TEN DAYS.

Chief Engineer Williams Recommendation for Firemen.

Chief Engineer Williams says that the Daily Ledger was slightly in error on Thursday, in regard to what he recommended in regard to days off for the permanent firemen. He says that in Cambridge, Newton, Brockton, Melrose and other cities the ordinance provides one day off at the expiration of every ten days, and that is what he recommended for Quincy instead of one day in fourteen as stated.

He further says that Boston is the only city which gives its permanent firemen one day off in eight, and Quincy is not able to compete with that city. If Quincy does as well as the other cities, which is one day off at the end of every ten days it will be doing well he says.

Warmest December Day.

The noon temperature of 42 this noon is the highest this month, but Quincy has had higher in every December for at least eight years, the maximum having ranged between 50 and 67.

SCAVENGER WORK.

Why Was Not the Lowest Bid Accepted by City?

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

A few facts by Peter McConarty & Son, scavengers for the city from April 15, 1903, to July 6, 1904. The Mayor in his inaugural address recommended that the city appropriate $4,000 and do its own scavenger work. Nothing was decided on till the 15th of May when the City Council rejected the order.

I suppose a great many thought I was to blame for the work being behind, but I did not consider it business to invest a lot of money in buying extra horses to do the work when it was uncertain whether I would get the contract. After the council rejected the order I immediately bought three horses to rush the work along.

The Board of Health advertised for bids and my figures were: Double vault $2.50; single vault, $1.50; tank load $2.00. These figures were the lowest. The bids were called for about June 12, and I inquired several times what the result was but the secretary said nothing had been done about the matter. The last reply given was that it did not concern me. I consider this an insult since I was solicited to put in a bid.

No fault was found with me by the Board of Health as to the way the work was done and being the lowest bidder the contract should have been awarded to me. What do the citizens of Quincy say to being compelled to pay a higher price than the work can be done for. I have delayed stating these facts, so that no one could say, they were given, to be used for political purposes.

Very respectfully,
Peter McConarty & Son.

THE AMERICAN REVIEW OF REVIEWS MONTHLY

The more Magazines there are, the more Indispensable is The Review of Reviews

"Indispensable." "The one magazine I feel I must take." "The world under a field-glass." "An education in public affairs and current literature."—these are some of the phrases one hears from noted people who read the Review of Reviews. The more magazines there are, the more necessary is the Review of Reviews, because it brings together the best that is in all the most important monthlies of the world. Such is the flood of periodical literature that nowadays people say that the only way to keep up with it is to read the Review of Reviews. Entirely over and above this reviewing section, it has more original matter and illustrations than most magazines, and the most timely and important articles printed in any monthly.

Probably the most useful section of all is Dr. Albert Shaw's illustrated "Progress of the World," where public events and issues are authoritatively and lucidly explained in every issue. Many a subscriber writes, "This department alone is worth more than the price of the magazine." The unique cartoon department, depicting current history in caricature, is another favorite. The Review of Reviews covers five continents, and yet is American, first and foremost.

Men in public life, the members of Congress, professional men, and the great captains of industry who must keep "up with the times," intelligent men and women all over America, have decided that it is "indispensable."

Presidential Vote.

The official canvass of the votes for President shows that Republicans made gains over their vote of 1900 in 32 states, and losses in 13. The total gains of the Republicans were 732,048, and the total losses 312,249; net gain, 419,799. The Democrats polled more votes in eight states than in 1900, but less in 37. Their total gains were 30,792, and the total losses 1,291,491; net loss 1,260,699.

BOWLING LEAGUE.

Good Scores in All the Games Last Evening.

Unusually high scores prevailed in the Old Colony league games Thursday evening, 456 being the highest and 394 the lowest. Only two of the eight scores were below 400. Quincy won two out of three with Weymouth, and Quincy Point lost two to East Weymouth. Holbrook won all three from South Braintree.

JURY DISCHARGED.

Were Unable to Agree at Trial of Nan Patterson.

[Special to the Daily Ledger.]

New York, Dec. 23.—The jury in the celebrated Nan Patterson murder case were unable to agree and the actress has been again remanded to the tombs.

The jury came in at 10.45 this morning, and reported that they were unable to agree. They were, however, sent back to the jury room, where they remained until 12.45, when they again came in and reported that they were still unable to agree.

Upon hearing the report of the jury, the Patterson woman collapsed completely, and fell over into the arms of her father.

The court dismissed the jury, and upon motion of District Attorney Rand she was again remanded to jail without bail.

It is reported the jury stood 10 to 2 for acquittal.

IS SHE A PIRATE?

The Seven-Master Thomas W. Lawson Under Fire.

Eugene P. Carver of Carver & Blodgett, the maritime lawyers, demands that the name Thomas W. Lawson be taken off the seven masted schooner built by the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., says a morning paper.

In the reasons set forth for this demand, Mr. Carver says that "either wilfully or through your neglect as the president of the Coastwise Transportation Company, the schooner is not a vessel of the United States, and as she flies our flag at her peak she is sailing under false colors, and must therefore be termed a pirate under the decision of the general tribunal as to the Confederate steamer Shenandoah."

Red Men's Whist Party.

Hodenosaunee tribe of Red Men closed its fall series of whist parties Thursday evening very successfully. Souvenirs were awarded as follows:—Ladies,—M. L. McComic, Bessie Smith, Mrs. B. F. McLeod, Mrs. J. B. Geddes, Mrs. W. H. Bennett and Mrs. E. H. Sears. Men—G. F. Spooner, B. F. Thomas, E. H. Sears, V. R. Morgan, N. A. McDonald and Wm. Hobart.

St. Mary's Win.

At West Quincy Thursday evening the St. Mary's defeated the East Boston A. A. at basket ball 20 to 12. The St. Mary's juniors also won 24 to 6.

BIG GAME PRESERVE.

Louisiana Society Would Buy Islands For Enjoyment of Wild Birds.

The Louisiana society is arranging a great plan for the preservation and propagation of game and other birds of the state of Louisiana and of those of other parts of the United States which come to the south for the winter, says a New Orleans special dispatch to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

In the plan the main idea is to acquire by purchase or otherwise about sixty marsh islands off the St. Bernard coast in the gulf of Mexico. These islands will make the greatest game preserve in the world, and the society thinks that no better way can be devised to perpetuate the memory of the great naturalist, John James Audubon.

Audubon was a native of Louisiana, and his two books on the birds and animals of America brought him fame as the greatest naturalist that ever lived and made him one of the most distinguished of Louisiana's sons.

The total area of the land wanted for the game preserve by the society amounts to nearly sixty square miles. This will make it one of the largest in the United States if not in the world. The Audobon society has been actively engaged since its organization in preventing the destruction of many of the wild game, plumage and song birds, which have become extinct almost everywhere in the world excepting in Louisiana.

The gulls, terns and several other native wild birds which have become extinct are now protected at all times by law, and these are being propagated on the Breton island preserve.

SEA TRIP FOR LONDON VANS

How a Philadelphian Solved Problem of Moving to America.

Moving from London to Philadelphia proved a simple problem to John M. McFadden, millionaire cotton merchant, and by one happy idea he was able to move his household furniture from the other side to his home in Philadelphia with as much ease as if he had moved simply to the next street, says the New York Press.

Mr. McFadden had made the British metropolis his home for twenty years. Recently he decided to return to the United States, but he was confronted with the problem of having to move china, bric-a-brac and other household goods valued at $300,000 across the ocean. The complexities of the usual methods were such that he was afraid some of his valuable china would be broken on the way over, and he looked around to find some simpler way of sending his things over to Philadelphia.

The idea finally struck him, and he carried it out at once. He packed all the more valuable and breakable articles into three big moving vans, which were hauled to Liverpool. Then they were drawn to the docks and lifted bodily into the hold of the steamship Haverford. Until the vans drew up at his home in Philadelphia nothing within them was touched. When the things were unpacked it was found that not a single article had been broken.

Mexico's New Vice President.

Ramon Corral, Mexico's new vice president, is a civilian, says Austin C. Brady in Harper's Weekly. He saw his only military service during a revolution in the frontier state of Sonora, of which he is a native, and as the revolution was of short duration he came out of the conflict with but little practical knowledge of warfare. He knows more about public lighting, street traction and municipal drainage than the does about military tactics and modern armament, for he has studied the former subjects in the great cities of the United States and Europe, and up to this time he has not felt called upon to give the latter much attention. He believes that the greatest need of the Mexican people is education and that the future of the country depends to a large extent on the building up of a substantial middle class. He holds that too many of the young men of Mexico are entering the priesthood and the legal profession, and in the hope of inducing Mexican youths to devote their lives to useful arts and trades he is promoting the establishment of a Mexican institute of technology that will rival similar institutions of other countries.

Fads of the Nursery.

Clever rich American women are running a fad, however, which probably is original with a few of the bright minds of Newport or Lenox, for the scheme has not attracted notice anywhere except in New York city, where it recently began to be known. More attention is being paid to the nurseries in new American homes than to the drawing rooms, says the New York Press. Many women are earning large sums of money by designs which turn nurseries into veritable fairy lands. One society young woman in New York who moves in the Gould set has finished several designs in nursery frieze of charming originality. Her wall papers tell the real story of childhood, with all the romances of Little Bo Peep and the fairies who use mushrooms for their round tables at midnight feasts. Flocks of sheep and hedges of clover, blue butterflies and square rose trees are thrown into the adornment, so that the nurses may in their fund of anecdotes have constant illustrations on the wall. Nursery trick furniture and wild animals woven in the carpets are a bit of this new nursery fad.

Ships For English Navy.

Great Britain has in course of construction: Battleships, 8; armored cruisers, 13; second class cruisers, 1; third class cruisers, 4; scouts, 8; destroyers, 23; submarines, 11; river gunboats, 6. The new battleships, to be known as the Lord Nelson class, will cost $8,000,000 each.

Points of Interest

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACE OF PRESIDENTS.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams; house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free, although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantum.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple Place, or to the office of L. S. Anderson, treasurer, 9 Savings Bank building, whose office hours are 8 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 to 5 P. M. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Closed for repairs, but soon to be opened to the public by the Society of Colonial Dames, the new owners.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished. Also the plant of the Fore River Ship and Engine Company where warships are being built for the government.

GUILTY OF SMUGGLING

Importers and Custom House Officers Cheated Government

Boston, Dec. 23.—All four defendants in the customs conspiracy case are found guilty. They are Samuel Grunberg and Charles A. Baitler, members of the Glasgow Manufacturing company; John W. Trafton and James A. Shedd, who were examiners at the Boston custom house.

Immediately upon the announcement of the verdict the defendants gave notice of their intention to carry the case to the United States circuit court of appeals, upon exceptions which have been filed during the trial. Whether they will take it to the United States supreme court depends, it is understood, upon the law bearing upon the case.

This trial began Oct. 4 and holds the record for length in the United States district court. It probably also is one of the most expensive cases for the government that has been tried here for some time. The men were indicted on the charge of conspiracy to defraud the United States out of customs duties. Grunberg and Baitler being in it to import the merchandise, and Trafton and Shedd to aid them in getting it through the custom house. The government claims that the goods which were smuggled in by these defendants cost about $108,000, and passed at the custom house for less than $9000, so that the government lost about $60,000 in duties, this amount being based upon a duty of 60 percent upon the cost.

Hudson Placed on Probation

Dedham, Mass., Dec. 23.—The manslaughter charge against Ralph Hudson of Walpole, aged 16, was dropped in the district court. The accused pleaded guilty to a charge of simple assault and was put on probation. It was stated in court that the widow of the deceased assented, and that the family of Harding cherish no vindictiveness. Harding, the driver of a laundry team, was pelted with apples by boys on Sept. 23. He left this wagon and, it is alleged, struck Hudson with his whip. Hudson, it is charged, struck Harding in the face with his fist. Harding was knocked down, fractured his skull by striking the concrete side walk, and died in a few hours.

Historic Mansion In Ruins

Bristol, R. I., Dec. 23.—The old Dewolfe mansion, known as "The Mount," on the east side of the city, and one of the finest types of colonial architecture in Rhode Island, was destroyed by fire last night. Mrs. W. D. Dewolfe, who occupied the mansion, escaped with her maid, and an oil portrait of United States Senator Dewolfe, who built the house a century ago, a Gilbert Stuart portrait of Washington and considerable furniture were saved. The loss is estimated at $35,000. The estate covers nearly 40 acres and has always been occupied by some member of the family.

Boles Admits Murders

Dedham, Mass., Dec. 23.—Henry F. Boles, indicted on the charge of the murder of his wife, Annie M. Boles, and policeman Joseph McMurray at Brookline, Oct. 17, pleaded guilty to both charges in the district court. Judge Sherman refused to accept his plea with regard to McMurray, and ordered a plea of not guilty entered. The plea of guilty of the murder of Mrs. Boles was allowed to stand. Boles was remanded to jail to await trial.

Tech Riot Testimony All In

Boston, Dec. 23.—The last of the testimony for the defense in the cases of the 11 police officers who were given a hearing before the police commissioners on charges of neglect of duty in connection with the torchlight parade of students of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has been introduced. The police commissioners have the matter under consideration. Their verdict is not expected for several days

Struck Fulminating Cap

Waterville, Me., Dec. 23.—James Grant, aged 46, employed on the Kennebec water district, was refilling a ditch when his pick struck a fulminating cap. There was a heavy explosion and his face and neck were literally peppered with dirt and bits of rock. The cap had been lost in the dirt while blasting was in progress. Grant will recover.

Woman Burned to Death

New Britain, Conn., Dec. 23.—Mrs. Frank A. Stockwell had been reading last evening in her dining room and about 9 o'clock left that room to go to the kitchen. It is presumed that she upset an oil lamp, igniting her clothing. When the firemen burst into the house the dead body of Mrs. Stockwell was found.

Love, Despondency and Suicide

Providence, Dec. 23.—James F. McCushing, a clerk in the Crown hotel, committed suicide in his room by swallowing 20 or more tablets of bichloride of mercury. McCushing became despondent and friends discovered that he had a love trouble.

McLaughlin a Triple Millionaire

New York, Dec. 23.—Announcement is made that the late Hugh McLaughlin left an estate valued at $3,000,000. McLaughlin left no will. It was his wish that his wife and two daughters should share his fortune equally. The division will be made by mutual agreement.

Gulf Weed.

In China and other parts of the east gulf weed is often pickled and used in salads. It is found floating in vast quantities in some parts of the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian oceans. Although a tropical plant, it is occasionally carried by winds and currents to the British coasts. The fronds are long, with distinct stalked leaves and air vessels which resemble berries. The presence of this weed on the Atlantic is regarded as a sure indication of the gulf stream, from which it takes its name.—Pearson's.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

DEFENDANT WEAKENING

Becomes Almost Nervous Wreck While Jurors Are Deliberating --General Opinion That They Will Disagree

New York, Dec. 23.—The jury in the Nan Patterson case was locked up at 11:26 last night, not having reached a verdict. At 11 o'clock the announcement came from the jury room that no decision had been arrived at and immediately following came a statement that Judge Davis would give the jury another half hour before locking them up. The hope of a verdict was dispelled, however, when a few minutes before 11:30 Captain Lynch of the court squad said that "it was all off" and the jury would be locked up for the night. Miss Patterson heard the news in the "pen" and it was so unexpected to her that she nearly collapsed.

It was understood that the jury would continue consideration of the case in the small jury room containing only a few small tables and chairs, and the jurors will have no opportunity to sleep unless they can nap in the small wooden chairs.

As soon as the jury was locked up for the night Miss Patterson bade her father a tearful farewell and was escorted from the "pen" in the court building to her cell in the Tombs. The girl, who showed such courage through the long trial, is almost a nervous wreck. The great strength she formerly evidenced has failed and she repeatedly exclaimed: "Oh, how can those men doubt my word?"

Immediately after the announcement that the jury was locked up for the night the officers cleared the corridors of the court building of scores of newspaper men and attorneys who had anxiously awaited news from the jury. Murmurs of disappointment were heard from the crowd, which seemed convinced that the jury would never reach a decision.

The latest rumor from the jury room was that three men were holding out against nine who desired to acquit the defendant. It was reported that the three jurors were at odds as to the seriousness of the crime. One juror is said to be holding out for conviction for murder in the second degree and two others are reported to favor manslaughter in the second degree.

One rumor was so definite that it named a juror who had asked if he might fire the revolver as the man who is holding out for the conviction of Miss Patterson of murder in the second degree.

Disappointed crowds in the street heard of the locking up of the jury for the night and joined in the wail of the persons who had been privileged to stand in the court building during the deliberations of the jurors. A few women were in the crowd which stood in White street and watched the windows of the jury room until the announcement came that the 12 men must spend the night in deliberation.

"That jury will never agree," was the verdict of scores of men who followed the jury from the court building to a neighboring cafe at 7:30 o'clock for dinner. As they filed back in the jury room after dinner there was silence throughout the great building.

As the hours dragged on and no report came from the jury room, the crowd in the building and in the street became impatient. At one time a small company of men in the corridors broke into song. Miss Patterson heard the sign of merriment and her nerves it is said to have rebelled at the indication that anyone could be gay when a question of such moment was under consideration.

Two Deaths After Quarrel

Akron, O., Dec. 23.—George Billings 47 years old, last night sent a bullet into the brain of Mrs. H. G. Squires 37 years old, at her home, killing her instantly. When neighbors attempted to arrest Billings he backed into a room and shot himself to death. The couple had quarreled over the arrest and imprisonment of Mrs. Squires husband, who is serving a sentence in the Ohio penitentiary. Billings boarded at the Squires home for some time.

JAPAN'S HOSPITAL SHIPS

How the Navy's Medical Service Is Equipped.

WORKING CONDITION DEEMED FINE

All Rooms in the Four Vessels Are Well Ventilated—They Are Heated by Steam and Lighted by Electricity—Special Course For Surgeons and Nurses.

As is the case in other departments of activity, the medical service of the Japanese navy is in excellent working condition, says the London Globe. On the outbreak of war Japan owned two hospital ships, and two others were added at once, so that there is now one hospital ship available for each of the naval stations. These four vessels are the Hakuimaru, Kosaimaru, Lachyomaru and Kobemaru, and all of them saw service in the war with China in 1894-95. According to a correspondent of the Herold of St. Petersburg, there is in Tokyo a naval medical academy for training and completing the training of surgeons and nurses. During 1903 there were enrolled in this academy fourteen candidates to undergo a complete course of instruction and nine staff surgeons for post graduate courses. Those young surgeons who wish to enter the military service and who have passed only the public examination without attaining the degree of physician must attend the course in the Naval Medical academy for one full year before they can be admitted to active service in the navy. The instruction in the academy consists of pathology, hygiene, military medicine, field surgery and the transport of the wounded. Clinical instruction is given in the charite, or hospital, which will be referred to later. The academy possesses a special library of manuals and journals in Japanese, English, French and German, a Roentgen ray room, a collection of surgical instruments, projectiles and portions of projectiles, with departments under surgeons major. The pathological department receives corpses from the charite, and it contains a good collection of pathologico-anatomical specimens. The chemical department is used also as an experimental station for food, and it trains specialists in that important branch. The bacteriological department is especially good. It is is fitted out excellently and is provided with ample room for students.

The charite, or hospital, supplies clinical instruction and also trains nurses. It is under the protection of the empress of Japan, who visits it frequently, and it consists of several buildings, which are in gardens and which are mostly connected by means of covered ways. It possesses every equipment known to modern surgical science, with separate rooms for those sick people who desire them and large wards holding thirty beds. The male department is on the ground floor, and the females are on the upper story. Infectious cases are dealt with in a special ward, and eighty-five nurses are employed in the charite.

The Hakuimaru and the Kosaimaru were built by the Japanese Red Cross specially for service as hospital ships in time of war. Before the war these ships were used as passenger vessels between Yokohama and Shanghai. When the war came they were adapted again to their proper use. They are single screw steamers, built in England, and of about 2,300 tons capacity. They are painted white, with a broad red band, and a red cross on their funnels. Besides a steam pinnace they carry several large rowing boats.

These ships have many erections on their upper decks, main decks and between decks. Fore and aft on the upper decks is a steam crane for taking in or disembarking wounded men through the spacious hatchway openings, while fore and aft at the height of the main deck a wide doorway is cut in the side of the vessel so that wounded men can be embarked direct from the boats. On the upper deck are the captain's quarters, the smoking room and ladies' saloons, all of which can be used by day by such invalids as can leave their beds. The promenade deck is broad and comfortable. On the upper deck are also a room for receiving the wounded, some quarters for the officers and in two contiguous rooms a large box shaped steam disinfecting apparatus with a separate entrance. Forward on the main deck is the laundry, driven by electricity. Behind the laundry are two wide and airy rooms containing iron bedsteads in two rows, one above the other and in blocks of sixteen each.

The first room contains 32 beds, and the second room has 128 beds. Farther aft is a small room for use by day, fitted with suitable tables and benches. The second class saloon, which is still farther aft, is the operating room. It is painted with white washable paint and has the electric light. The approach is a narrow corridor at a right angle, and this makes it rather inconvenient to carry in the patient. The equipment of this room consists of an iron operating table, apparatus for sterilizing bandages, antiseptic solutions and an iron washing table, with hot and cold water. The instruments are in the next room. Next to the operating room is a roomy second class cabin fitted up as a Roentgen ray room. It is painted black and is light proof. The accumulators are fed by the ship's engines. The first class cabins aft on the main deck are fitted up so as to take each two wounded men. These cabins lie on either side of the chief saloon. Each cabin has a door fore and aft. Thus a continuous passage can be made through all the cabins on one side. Then there is a room fitted up for receiving persons who have lost their reason.

The hinder part of the chief saloon is cut off by a curtain. Here there are some swinging iron beds. The rest of the chief saloon contains the usual comfortably fixed tables and chairs of a passenger saloon. There is a supply of handy iron stretchers for carrying the wounded on board ship, and also of iron framed couches covered with canvas and on small wheels, so that they can be moved easily. There is a plentiful supply of baths and lavatory arrangements between the rooms for the sick and wounded. The rooms which are set apart for the nursing staff are below and correspond with the rooms for the wounded in the fore part. Two larger rooms contain each twenty male nurses and twenty female nurses, and two smaller contain two chief assistants and two head nurses. All the rooms are airy, with numerous ventilators. They are heated by steam, are lighted by electricity and have various electrical appliances. An iron room, situated below the water line and air tight and water tight, is used as a mortuary and can be kept cool by the machine used for making ice. Altogether these hospital ships can accommodate 250 sick and wounded.

ZOO BUFFALO A JUNK SHOP

Assortment of Queer Articles Found In Bison's Stomach After Death.

Let the ostrich take a back seat as a collector of hardware and other indigestible food. Philadelphia has a buffalo beside whose record that of the ostrich fades into insignificance, says the Philadelphia Press.

It took an autopsy to establish the fact. The buffalo, which was one of the herd at the zoological gardens, died recently under mysterious circumstances, and it was decided to hold a post mortem examination.

Dr. Courtland Y. White of Philadelphia conducted the examination. In the buffalo's stomach he found the cause of death. It was as follows:

One pair of gold rimmed spectacles.
A clock spring.
Three safety pins.
Thirty-eight inches of wire in assorted lengths.
Half a pint of pebbles of various sizes.
Two cigar butts.
A peach stone.
A small medicine bottle.
Assorted lots of broken glass, sticks and newspapers.
One champagne cork.

It is presumed that the articles found in the buffalo's stomach were thrown at the animal or lost by visitors to the zoo.

"Cases of abnormal appetites among animals are not uncommon," said Dr. White. "There have even been instances where an entire herd of cows seems to have been seized with a mania for swallowing stones, which resulted in a series of deaths."

ROUGH RIDERS AS ESCORT.

The President's Guard of Honor Selected For Inaugural Parade.

President Roosevelt's guard of honor in the inaugural parade on the 4th of next March will be a squadron of picked men from his old regiment of rough riders, the First United States Volunteer cavalry, says the Washington Post. This was decided upon at a recent conference between the president and Colonel A. C. Brodie, governor of Arizona, and Major W. H. H. Llewellyn, formerly of the rough riders.

Governor Brodie and Major Llewellyn took luncheon with the president, and arrangements for the guard of honor were made at that time. It is the wish of the president that Colonel Brodie select from the members of the regiment a squadron of thirty to fifty men to act as his special escort on inauguration day. He also particularly expressed the wish that no other members of the rough riders than those selected by Colonel Brodie take part in the parade. While others may come to Washington to attend the inauguration, the president has made it clear that it will be impossible for him at that time to see them.

Colonel Brodie will select the best men in the regiment for the guard of honor. They will be handsomely mounted and well equipped, and it is expected they will make an impressive appearance. Colonel Brodie says the guard will not exceed fifty men.

THE IDEAL HOUSE.

A Philadelphia Physician Predicts Wonderful Improvements.

Lecturing in Philadelphia, Dr. Robert Ellis Thompson recently described the city home of the future, says the New York World. He said it would contain no stoves. Cooking will be done by power, the building will be heated from a central plant, elevators will run from cellar to garret, and breakfast, lunch and dinner will be supplied from a co-operative center. The era of scientific cooking on the co-operative plan has been inaugurated in Bergen, Norway, where for nearly a generation cooking has been banished from the home, and all receive their meals from co-operative centers.

Not only will the house of the future be cleaned by power, but the dust will be removed by a pneumatic exhaust system. Streets will be cleaned in like manner, and the dust and dirt will be carried away into the country, so that country people may yet visit the cities for a breath of fresh air.

A Train to Stop For One Teacher.

In response to a letter received from Miss Blanche Hart, a pretty school ma'am residing at Caledonia, President Ingalls of the Big Four railway has ordered train No. 3 stopped at Logan, Ind., a switching station, on Monday mornings in order that Miss Hart can reach her charge, says the Toledo News-Bee. Miss Hart in the past has walked to her school, a distance of five miles, every Monday morning.

Long Afore I Knowed

JES' a little bit o' feller—I remember still—
Ust to almost cry for Christmas, like a youngster will.
Fourth o' July's nothin' to it!—New Year's ain't a smell;
Easter Sunday, circus day—jes' all dead in the shell.
I ust, though—at night, you know—to set around and hear
The old folks work the story off about the sledge and deer
And Santy shootin' round the roof, all wrapped in fur and fuzz—
Long afore
I knowed who
Santy Claus wuz.

UST to wait and set up late a week or two ahead;
Couldn't hardly keep awake ner wouldn't go to bed;
Kittle stewin' on the fire and mother sittin' here
Darnin' socks and rockin' in the skreeky rockin' cheer;
Pap'd gap' and wunder where it wuz the money went
And quar'l with his frost heels and spilt his liniment,
And me a-dreamin' sleighbells when the clock 'd whir and buzz,
Long afore
I knowed who
Santy Claus wuz.

SIZE the fireplace up and figure how Old Santy could Manage to come down the chimbly like they said he would;
Wisht that I could hide and see him—wundered what he'd say
If he ketched a feller layin' fer him that a-way.
But I bet on him and 'lieved him, same as if he had Turned to pat me on the back and say, "Look here, my lad, Here's my pack: jes' he'p yourself, like all good boys does,"
Long afore
I knowed who
Santy Claus wuz.

WISHT that yarn wuz true about him, as it 'peared to be—
Truth made out o' lies, that un's good enough for me!
Wisht I still was so confidin'—I could jes' go wild
Over hangin' up my stockin's, like the little child
Climbin' in my lap tonight and beggin' me to tell
'Bout them reindeers and Old Santy that she loves so well.
I'm half sorry fer this little girl sweetheart of his—
Long afore
She knows who Santy Claus is.

Plum Pudding.

One pound of grated bread, one and a quarter pounds of grated suet, one pound of raisins, one pound of brown sugar, twelve eggs, well beaten; two wineglassfuls of brandy, one-quarter pound of citron, cut fine. Mix all these the night before. In the morning before putting it in the cloth stir two tablespoonfuls of wheat flour, beat the cloth and sprinkle with flour. Tie tightly and boil four hours. Put a plate turned on the under part in the pot under the pudding, add cinnamon and nutmeg if liked.

CHRISTMASTIDE SWEETS.

The Art of Making Fondant and All Sorts of Fine Bonbons.

Fondant is the basis of all French cream candies. It also makes the best frosting for eclairs and small cakes. The variety in candies made from fondant is almost limitless. This is produced, first of all, by the kind of sugar used in the fondant itself, as white or maple. Then the white may be varied by tinting and flavoring to correspond. The flavors in general use are vanilla, almond, rose, lemon, orange, peppermint and wine. The centers may be of fondant or of nuts or French fruit, either alone or in combination. Marshmallows, gumdrops, pieces of fruit jelly or whole candied cherries may be dipped in fondant.

To make fondant a beginner might start out with a pound of sugar (two cups) and half a cup of water. Set it over the fire and stir until boiling begins, then remove the spoon and in a few moments, with the hand or a brush dipped in cold water, wash down the sides of the saucepan to remove any grains of sugar that have been thrown up in boiling. Cover again and let it cook about five minutes. This process will tend to decrease, if not to obviate entirely, the accumulation of sugar on the sides of the saucepan. Now add one-fourth teaspoonful of cream of tartar, and let the sirup cook to the soft ball stage.

To determine when this stage is reached have ready a wire skewer, standing in a dish of cold water. Remove this from the water and plunge it into the sirup and then back again into the water. Let it remain in the water about ten seconds, then push off the sugar between the thumb and forefinger, and if it can be worked beneath the water into a soft ball that will not stick to the fingers it is boiled enough.

When the sugar is done, turn it on to a large platter or on a marble or slate slab lightly dampened with water or rubbed over with the best grade of olive oil. Let it stand undisturbed until a dent can be made in the surface; then work the candy back and forth with a wooden spatula to a white, smooth, soft, creamy paste. While the paste is still soft and warm gather it together and knead with the hands as bread is kneaded; then press into an earthen bowl or a glass fruit jar and cover closely with confectioner's paper, then again with a double fold of heavier paper. Store in a cool place. After twenty-four hours the fondant is ready for use.

If the sirup be jarred while boiling, or if due care be not exercised in washing down the particles of sugar from the sides of the saucepan, or the mixture be not cooled enough before working with the spatula is begun, or if it be cooked too long, the fondant will not be smooth and creamy, but granular. To remedy this water may be added and the whole process repeated.

In dipping centers melt a portion of the fondant over hot water (double boiler), adding a few drops of hot water and such flavor as is desired. Stir constantly while the fondant is melting, also while the centers are being dipped. The fondant may be tinted at this time very delicately with color paste. Drop in the centers one at a time and when well covered remove with candy tongs to a sheet of confectioner's paper.—Boston Cooking School Magazine.

Broiled Codfish.

Select a piece cut from the thick part of a codfish and soak overnight in cold water. Wipe it dry, and broil it over clear coals for about ten minutes. Place it on a hot dish, score or gash it lightly with a very sharp knife and spread it generously with butter. It makes a nice relish for supper if placed to soak at noon.

Bright Cranberry Sauce.

Take equal measure of berries and sugar. To a quart of berries allow nearly a pint of boiling water. Cook the berries slowly till tender, then stir in the sugar and cook a few moments longer. Prepared in this manner the berries retain their bright color.

Fashion's Echoes.

The leather toilet roll is twin sister to the fitted bag. There is always a place for it in the trunk or bureau drawer.

In Paris this year the long skirt is very long, and the short skirt is very short, escaping the ground by about three inches.

Elaborate and superb in fur fashioning is a beautiful shawl in mink, ermine and hand embroidered cloth.

Men's frock coats are cut long in the skirts; but, though full, there is no flare.

A striking feature of the best winter fashions is the richness of fabrics now used in velvets, brocades and satin embossed silks.

The new velvets and velveteens are delightfully soft. Many of the dressy gowns will be fashioned from chiffon velvet.

Peau de soie promises to be very popular. For afternoon and evening it is made with velvet trimmings.

Large hats are worn with evening dresses.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

The West Quincy depot has been brightened up with a coat of paint.

Good progress is being made on the boulevard that runs parallel with Crescent street.

This year the juniors and adults of the Bethany Sunday school will unite in the Christmas tree festival at 5.30 Saturday evening.

Good progress is now being made on the new Hancock street bridge, but it is evident work was commenced too late in the season.

The last regular meeting of the School Committee for the year, 1904, will be held in their rooms Tuesday evening, December 27 at eight o'clock.

Unity club tonight at the Wollaston Unitarian vestry with an unusually fine program on American Arts under the direction of Mr. Robert E. Park.

The clerks at the Ledger office were on the jump all day Thursday selling white wrapping paper. Evidently Christmas packages are being done up.

Samuel M. King, the tenor, has been engaged to sing with the choir of the Arlington street church, Boston, on Christmas Sunday.

The following boys who sold Ledgers election night are requested to call at this office before Christmas; James Duggan, 57 Whitwell street; Frank Swanson, Whitwell street; Walter Sweeney, Whitwell street; Charles Brown, 12 Common street: John Smith, 34 West street; John Lane 51 West street and William Fitzgerad, 25 Copeland street.

Read the Ledger ads thoroughly then start out and buy your Christmas presents and order your Christmas dinner and all the fixings. The Quincy storekeepers are outdoing themselves this year and are giving their customers the best there is agoing. Never has the city put on a more festive look. Some of the window displays are beautiful.

ST. SWITHIN'S DAY.

The Old Superstition About July 15 and the Weather.

The old superstition about St. Swithin and the rain has very generally died out. There are still, however, a good many who incline to the belief that such a notion must have had a basis of scientific fact or it could not have obtained as it has done for centuries. Some years ago the records of Greenwich observatory were examined for twenty years with a view to ascertaining whether as a matter of fact a rainy July 15 is usually followed by a rainy period approximating to forty days.

It was found that the years in which St. Swithin's day had given no rain were rather wetter during the following forty days than other years. It was concluded that the tradition had no meteorological facts whatever to support it. Everybody has heard the old story about the removal of St. Swithin's bones on July 15 and of the manner in which the saint resented it by deluging the district. It is a curious fact, but well authenticated, that the good man's bones were shifted from their original resting place in circumstances of considerable pomp and splendor and without a drop of rain falling. The origin of the superstition was probably a terrible flood which in 1313 devastated crops.

DIED.

REILEY—In Quincy, Dec. 23, Mr. Charles J. Reiley, of 55 Hall place.

MILTON.

Special Christmas services will be held at the East Milton Congregational church Sunday morning, and there will be a Sunday school concert in the evening.

Communion service will be held Sunday morning at the Mission of Our Saviour church, and special services in the evening when the newly formed surpliec choir will sing.

The Sunday school of the Mission of Our Saviour church will unite with the Sunday school of St. Michaels church Saturday evening at a Christmas festival and tree.

The department was called out Thursday noon by an alarm from Box 43 for a slight fire at the lower mills.

A pool table has been added to the equipment of the rooms of the Thursday Evening club.

A grand vaudeville show and dance, under the direction of Maurice O'Neill, will be held in Ellsworth hall next week.

Mrs. Burbank of Washington street is quite ill with pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hennigan have gone to Derby Lane, Vt., to spend the holidays with their daughter.

The fourteenth annual ball of the Milton Firemen's Relief Association will be held at the Town Hall, Jan. 18.

The whist club meets with Mrs. J. E. Quimby next Wednesday evening.

☞There is no play that pleases the people as well as that old favorite comedy drama "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." It will be the attraction at Hancock hall, Quincy, for Christmas day, afternoon and evening, Monday, Dec. 26. There will be pleasing specialties introduced and one of Quincy's humorists will be seen at his best, he is Daniel McCarthy, who is employed at the Fore River works, and no doubt all his friends will be there to greet him as this is his first appearance in the east. The reserved seats are now on sale at the Weeks-Hill pharmacy.

DEAN SWIFT.

He Never Flattered, and He Was Rude, Yet Fascinating.

Dean Swift never flatters. When told that the Duke of Buckingham desires his acquaintance he answers that the duke has not made sufficient advances to him yet. When asked to a dinner party by a secretary of state he insists upon drawing up a list of the company. Even ladies have to bow beneath the yoke. However beautiful, wealthy or high born, they must always appear as suppliants for Dr. Swift's acquaintance. Even then his rule is far from easy.

"Lady Burlington," says he, "I hear you can sing. Sing me a song." Her ladyship resents such an unceremonious address and refuses. "Why, madam," says Swift, "I suppose you take me for one of your poor English hedge parsons. Sing when I bid you." As Lord Burlington only laughs, the lady bursts into tears and leaves the room. This does not soften Swift. He meets her a few days after. "Pray, madam, are you so proud and ill natured now as when I last saw you?" is his greeting. The man's fascination is so strong that all yield to him.—"Dean Swift and His Writings."

TODAY'S COURT.

Edward E. Sullivan was sent to the State farm for drunkenness at Braintree.

Thomas J. Holt was arraigned for neglect to support his family at Quincy. Case continued until Jan. 7.

Charles Keegan was arraigned for violation of the liquor law at Weymouth. Case continued until Dec. 28.

☞ Main Spring while you wait. Watch cleaned $1.—Williams.

A little thaw today, but not enough to carry off the sleighing.

EMERGENCY RATION

A man has lived forty days without other food than his own fat.

Fat is man's emergency ration. The fat is stored in convenient hollows all over the body against the day of necessity.

Consumption makes heavy demand on the storage of fat. Nature uses fat to fight the disease. The crying need of the consumptive is fat.

Scott's Emulsion contains the best fat to be had, next to human fat itself. Scott's Emulsion is a natural substitute for human fat. It prevents waste. It furnishes the consumptive with nature's own weapon for fighting the disease.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

NORFOLK SS. PROBATE COURT.

TO all persons interested in the estate of ELIAS A. PERKINS,
late of Quincy, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, Fred A. Perkins, executor of the will of said deceased, has presented for allowance, the first account of his administration upon the estate of said deceased.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy, in said County, on the eleventh day of January, A. D., 1905, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be allowed.

And said executor is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to all persons interested in the estate fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT Esquire Judge of said Court, this sixteenth day of December, in the year one thousand nine hundred and four.

Bank President Missing

Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 23.—The Dedham Savings bank of Dedham has been closed and the president, J. G. Caton, who left ostensibly for funds, cannot be found. He is said to be short about $20,000, and the bank has commenced suit against him for the amount.

Duchess Cecilia's Present

Berlin, Dec. 23.—Crown Prince Frederick William has sent his betrothed, Duchess Cecelia of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, at Cannes, where she is spending Christmas, a pearl necklace costing $9250. The empress selected the present.

Korean Ministers Not Recalled

Seoul, Dec. 23.—The report that the Korean government, influenced by Japanese advice, will recall its ministers from abroad, is denied by the Korean officials, who say that the emperor has no desire to adopt such a measure.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Friday, Dec. 24.
Sun rises—7:12; sets—4:16.
Moon rises—6:42 p. m.
High water—12 a. m.; 12:15 p. m.
There will be rain in the south and snow in north portions of New England. It will be warmer.

FIRE AND THE SKIN.

Why the Action of Heat Causes the Cuticle to Turn Red.

Blushing is the effect of the action of radiated heat on the nerves controlling the small blood vessels of the skin. These tiny vessels are normally in a state of moderate contraction; under exposure to heat they relax and become distended with blood.

In regard to exposure to direct heat, the reddening of the skin, together with the uncomfortably warm feeling accompanying it, may be looked upon as one of the useful little "danger signals" with which we are surrounded.

Persons who from any cause have lost their susceptibility, as is the case in some forms of paralysis, may expose a limb to heat until serious injury results.

The reason that the face chiefly flushes is that, in the ordinary position near a fire, it is most directly exposed to the rays of heat, while most of the body is shielded by clothing. Moreover, the nerves of the face are particularly sensitive in this respect, and the skin there is more abundantly furnished with blood vessels.

A Graduate's Story

[Original.]

"Father," said Frank Notkins one evening when the family were sitting before a cheerful fire, "you promised me when I became of age you would tell me that story of your student life. I'm twenty-one today."

"Well, Frank, I'll keep my promise. When I was in college I made the acquaintance of a girl we will call Nancy. You see, your mother might be jealous, and I wouldn't like her to know the girl's real name. Nancy and I kept getting spoonier and spoonier, and, her father getting on situation, forbade me the house. It wasn't that he had any objection to me except that I was only a college boy with two years of study before me, besides a course in agriculture, to be taken after graduation. As for Nancy, he proposed that she should spend three or four years more on her education. Perhaps if he had let us alone we might have got over it in time without making ninnies of ourselves. As it was, he drove us into one of the silliest performances on record—an elopement.

"The time we chose for this absurdity was in midwinter, just after one of the heaviest snowstorms we had had in years. Our plan was for me to pick up Nancy on the road, take her in my sleigh to the junction, get spliced there, drive her back and say nothing about the matter till we had finished our education. Nancy was at the place of rendezvous all done up in furs and with a pair of cheeks which the frost tinged with the hue of red apples. She jumped into the sleigh, I pulled up the robe, and we started.

"Nancy told me that her father was suspicious of her, and she thought he had been watching her, so I had better drive pretty fast. This I did so far as I could, but the road between our college town and the junction is hilly, and the snow was deep and untrodden with occasional bad drifts. So our progress was necessarily slow. Nancy kept looking back uneasily, and when we reached the top of a rise about a mile from the town Nancy, upon glancing to the rear, gave my arm a grip, exclaiming:

"'Oh, my goodness gracious!'

"Turning my head, I saw a sleigh descending the next slope behind us drawn by two horses, who were galloping through the snow, scattering it like spray. Of course I knew we were followed, and, giving the horse a cut, we started down our decline, scattering snow in the same fashion. But I knew that one horse was no match for two horses with an equal load, and it occurred to me that our plan would be nipped unless I could hit upon a stratagem.

"'Nancy,' I said, 'I'm going to drop you in a drift.'

"'What for?' she asked.

"'I'll do it when your father is on the other side of the rise and can't see us.'

"'But what will I do there?'

"'Lie low till he has passed, then walk home. He hasn't seen who is in this sleigh; the back is too high, and the robe behind is above our heads.'

"'All right,' said Nancy. 'This looks like a good place we're coming to.'

"I pulled up beside a drift more than ten feet deep and, that I should not show any tracks, took Nancy up and tossed her feet foremost into it. The snow was light. She went down three-quarters of her length and wriggled down the rest of the way. I drove on and when I got to the top of the next hill looked back. In a few minutes the pursuing sleigh appeared, and I knew I had not been seen dropping Nancy. I kept up a good pace, hoping to draw her father on so far that he wouldn't run against her on the way back. I led him as far as the bridge, when I slowed up and let him overtake me. When he saw no one in the sleigh he looked somewhat mystified for a moment, then said savagely:

"'You young rascal, what have you got under that robe?'

"'Nothing.'

"'Yes, you have. You students think you're a match for Satan in deviltry, but you can't fool me. Pull up the robe.'

"I drew up the robe so that he could see the bottom of the sleigh. He was thunderstruck. But, too disgruntled to apologize for his mistake, he turned about without a word and drove back to town. It's four miles between the town and the junction, and since I had dropped Nancy a mile from the town I knew she would have plenty of time to get back home.

"When I saw her again she told me that when her father came in he said nothing to her about her ride, but later asked her where she had been.

"'To Aunt Sarah's,' she answered."

"The little liar!" put in Eleanor Notkins.

"Liar?" exclaimed the mother indignantly. "Not at all. She stopped at Aunt Sarah's on her way home so that Aunt Sarah would confirm what she intended to tell her father."

"Why, mother," asked Eleanor, "what do you know about it?"

The mother, with a vexed smile, bent again over her work.

"She ought to know," said the father, with a twinkle in his eye. "She's Nancy."

The daughter laughingly embraced her mother.

"But when were you married?" asked Frank.

"Oh, we tried it again in a week and succeeded," said the father.

"You were a pair of sillies," said Eleanor.

"Of course we were," said the father, "but I fancy you and Frank are now too old and venerable to follow our example, so I don't mind your knowing the facts."

Miss Ethel Parker was accompaniest at the musical given by the pupils of Mme. Ducheana, at the opening of the Y. M. C. A. fair, at Chelsea, Saturday evening, under the direction of Mrs. George H. Carter, sister of Governor Bates.

The dance which Mrs. Rupert F. Claflin gave at Colonial hall last evening for her daughter, Miss Helen Claflin, was a very pretty affair and enjoyed by Quincy young people and out of town friends. Mrs. Claflin and daughter were assisted in receiving by Mrs. John D. Buckingham. Punch was served throughout the dance and ices at intermission. Several remarkably pretty gowns were noticed, white predominating. Miss Claflin wore a beautiful white gown and Mrs. Claflin was in black.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Thorndike of Braintree who are spending the winter on Commonwealth avenue, Boston, were in Braintree Wednesday.

* * *

The closing meeting of the year of the New England Woman's Press club, at the Vendome, Boston, on Wednesday afternoon was a very happy affair although owing to the rush incidental to Christmas, less than seventy-five ladies were present. Mrs. John L. Bates, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gilman Page and several presidents of various women's clubs were among the guests. The tea table was decorated with holly and a Christmas bell. The entertainment was quite the best of the year being a lecture-recital by Katherine Noone Ball assisted by the New England Instrumental Quartet club, the artists being William Howard, Edward Franklin, Carl Behr and R. B. Stevens.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sibley of Grand View avenue, Wollaston, announced on Sunday the engagement of their daughter, Helen, to Mr. Frank Herbert Wright of Milton. Miss Sibley has been the recipient of flowers and congratulations all the week from her host of young friends.

The Cochato club of Braintree is to give a Leap Year party at the club house next Friday evening, the thirtieth, which they announce as the last chance for the ladies.

* * *

Miss Edith Randall entertained the Junior Friday club at her home on Wibird street, on Monday afternoon. Miss Alice Keith Prescott was chairman of the afternoon's literary program. During the social hour the hostess served refreshments.

* * *

Mr. Harold Davenport is home for the holidays from Williston seminary.

* * *

A dancing party is to be held next Friday evening at Faxon hall, by the Social club, the third in its course of entertainments, after which there will be a break of a few weeks whem an entertainment will be given on January twentieth

* * *

Mrs. Otho Hayward of Coddington boulevard entertains the Friday club at her home next week. It will be an Alfred Tennyson afternoon in charge of Mrs. George W. Morton.

Judging by the subscriptions, the assembly at Quincy Music hall on January thirteenth, will be the most successful one yet held, and is looked forward to by the society people of Quincy and neighboring towns.

E. Landis Snyder, the instructor of music in the public schools is in Philadelphia for the holidays.

* * *

Miss Mary Chase of Wollaston has returned from college for the vacation.

* * *

Dec. 20th the Philergians met with Mrs. W. H. Doble of Quincy. The president, Mrs. O. W. Allen, was in the chair. Mrs. Alice Hilliard Manchester of Lynn gave a number of readings—"The Jewelled Christ," by C. Edwards; "The Story of a Rat," from the German; "Summer Atoms," with piano accompaniment, James Russell Lowell; "A Water-Logged Town," F. Hopkinson Smith; "Speech of Sergeant Buzfuz in Pickwick," Dickens, and "Drifting," making in all a varied and full entertainment for the afternoon. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

* * *

Thorpe Babcock is spending the holiday recess of the Yale Law school at his home on Whalley road.

Points of Interest

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACE OF PRESIDENTS.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams; house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free, although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.

Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquantum.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.

Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town hearse, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple Place, or to the office of L. S. Anderson, treasurer, 9 Savings Bank building, whose office hours are 8 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 to 5 P. M. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy. Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Closed for repairs, but soon to be opened to the public by the Society of Colonial Dames, the new owners.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

SQUAW ROCK.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished. Also the plant of the Fore River Ship and Engine Company where warships are being built for the government.

A NEW PEACE NOTE

President Has Gone as Far as He Can Appropriately

NOW UP TO THE POWERS

Affair Must Henceforth Follow Its Normal Channels--Further and Necessary Interchange of Views Is Suggested

Washington, Dec. 24.—That the further interchange of views preparatory to the formulating of a program for another peace conference at The Hague be effected through the international bureau under the control of the permanent administrative council of The Hague, is the suggestion offered by Secretary Hay in a second circular note to the powers made public at the state department.

The note is addressed "to the representatives of the United States accredited to the government's signatories to the acts of The Hague conference, 1899," and says:

"By the circular instructions dated Oct. 21, 1904, the representatives of the United States accredited to the several governments which took part in the peace conference held at The Hague in 1899, and which joined in signing the act thereof, were instructed to bring to the notice of those governments certain resolutions adopted by the interparliamentary union at its annual conference held at St. Louis in September last, advocating the assembling of a second peace conference to continue the work of the first, and were directed to ascertain to what extent those governments were disposed to act in the matter.

"The replies so far received indicate that the proposition has been received with general favor. No dissent has found expression. The governments of Austria-Hungary, Denmark, France, Great Britain, Italy, Luxemberg, Mexico, The Netherlands, Portugal, Spain, Sweden and Norway, and Switzerland exhibit sympathy with the purposes of the proposal, and generally accept it in principle, with a reservation in most cases of future consideration of the date of the conference and the program of subjects for discussion. The replies of Japan and Russia conveyed in like terms a friendly recognition of the spirit and purposes of the invitation, but on the part of Russia the reply was accompanied by the statement that, in the existing condition of things in the Far East, it would not be practicable for the imperial government, at this moment, to take part in such a conference. While this reply, tending as it does to cause some postponement of the proposed second conference, is deeply regretted, the weight of the motive which induces it is recognized by this government and, probably, by others. Japan made the reservation only that no action should be taken by the conference relative to the present war.

"Pending a definite agreement for a meeting when circumstances shall permit, it seems desirable that a comparison of views should be had among the participants as to the scope and matter of the subjects to be brought before the second conference.

"In the present state of the project, this government is still indisposed to formulate a program. In view of the virtual certainty that the president's suggestion of The Hague as the place of meeting of a second peace conference will be accepted by all the interested powers, and in view also of the fact that an organized representation of the signatories of the acts of 1899 now exists at that capital, this government feels that it should not assume the initiative in drawing up a program nor preside over the deliberations of the signatories in that regard. It seems to the president that the high task he undertook in seeking to bring about an agreement of the powers to meet in a second peace conference is virtually accomplished so far as it is appropriate for him to act, and that, with the general acceptance of his invitation in principle, the future conduct of the affair may fitly follow its normal channels.

"To this end it is suggested that the further and necessary interchange of views between the signatories of the acts of 1899 be effected through the international bureau under the control of the permanent administrative council of The Hague. It is believed that in this way, by utilizing the central representative agency established and maintained by the powers themselves, an orderly treatment of the preliminary consultations may be insured and the way left clear for the eventual action of the government of The Netherlands in calling a renewed conference to assemble at The Hague, should that course be adopted.

"You will bring this communication to the knowledge of the minister for foreign affairs and invite consideration of the suggestions herein made."

Nelson Charges Embezzlement

San Francisco, Dec. 24.—"Battling" Nelson, the pugilist, swore out complaints against his manager, Ted Murphy, and Eddie Santry, formerly his sparring partner, accusing them of embezzling $7271. Bail in each case was fixed at $25,000 bonds, or $10,000 cash. Both Murphy and Santry were arrested at Stockton on their arrival from this city, eastward bound. They will be brought to this city to answer to the charges.

ARSON IS SUSPECTED

Church Over Which There Has Been Controversy Is Burned

North Brookfield, Mass., Dec. 24.—St. Ann's French Catholic church was destroyed this morning by a fire which the members of the society claim to have been of incendiary origin. The loss is about $7000 and is partially covered by insurance. None of the contents was saved. There had been no fire in the edifice during yesterday or last night. The flames were not discovered until 1:30 this morning, when they had gained such headway that they could not be checked.

The society which occupied the edifice is unique in that it is not recognized by the Catholic church. Its pastor, Fr. Jean Berger, who has been in charge since the church was built several years ago, was not recognized as a priest by Bishop Beaven of the Springfield diocese, and as a result the society has since been denied recognition. The members of the church are chiefly French-Canadians.

Good Fishing Off Cape Cod

Provincetown, Mass., Dec. 24.—Frozen squid that cost 92 cents lured cod and pollock that sold for $50 to the hook of one of several local fishermen who are using the handline off the Long Point outer shore. Ninety-nine percent of the "ground" fishermen working local waters employ the trawl with good success, a number of the dories having taken cod worth more than $100 the past week.

To Employ a Thousand Men

New Haven, Dec. 24.—In connection with an order issued by Judge Wheeler, it is announced that Sears, Roebuck & Co., a Chicago firm engaged in the manufacture of firearms, will occupy the disused plant of the Meriden Malleable Iron company and will employ about 1000 hands. The court's order was the granting of a motion for foreclosure on a mortgage of $200,000.

McCushing's Death Was Natural

Providence, Dec. 24.—An autopsy was performed on the body of James F. McCushing, who died under doubtful circumstances. It was learned by the autopsy that McCushing died from natural causes, having suffered a cerebral hemorrhage. No traces were found of poison, which it was believed had been taken. McCushing was a clerk in a local hotel.

Unwilling to Be Extradited

Boston, Dec. 24.—Samuel Cohen, wanted by the New Hampshire authorities on a charge of breaking and entering a factory at Nashua, appeared in the supreme court here on a habeas corpus proceeding. Cohen, who is held by the local police, has been fighting extradition. The court continued the case until Dec. 27, placing the petitioner under bonds of $1500.

Strike Situation at Fall River

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 24.—Labor leaders here say that they expect to receive a proposition of some sort from the manufacturers within a few days. The union men declare they will continue the strike unless concessions are made. A new plan is said to be under consideration by the strikers, but as yet it has not assumed tangible form.

Boston to Have Greek Daily

Boston, Dec. 24.—The Parthenon, the first Greek paper to be published in this city, and said to be the first Greek daily in the United States, will make its appearance Feb. 1. Fonts of Hellenic type are on the way here and the compositors, who are to come from Athens, are expected soon. The editors are experienced journalists.

Signed Forty-Three Pardons

Boston, Dec. 24.—With the signing of the pardon of James Nicholson, Governor Bates brought the total of prisoners released in this manner during the year to 43, of which 11 were from state prison. This is the largest number of pardons granted by any governor in 10 years.

Woman Battered to Death

Armada, Mich., Dec. 24.—Mrs. Abel Brown, aged 36, was murdered on her husband's farm, five miles from here, during her husband's absence. The woman's head was terribly crushed and hair and blood found on a whiffletree lying nearby showed what the murderer's weapon had been. There is no clue either to the murderer or his motive.

Jabbed In Eye With Hatpin

Bloomington, Ills., Dec. 24.—Miss Jennie Fairbanks of Mansfield was brought to a hospital here for treatment. While putting on her hat, with a hatpin in one hand, a friend accidentally jostled Miss Fairbanks' arm, and as a result the pin was buried in Miss Fairbanks' eye. An effort will be made to save her sight.

A Georgia Murder

Sandersville, Ga., Dec. 24.—Boss Garrett shot and killed Officer Gideon Matthews while resisting arrest for refusing to submit to compulsory vaccination. Garrett escaped, but was pursued by a posse of citizens, and after being shot twice was lodged in jail.

Castro's Arbitrary Action

Caracas, Dec. 24.—President Castro has deposed the entire personnel of the superior court of Venezuela on the alleged ground that the court had acquitted a prisoner of the charge of murder whom the president believed should have been convicted.

The Dewey Off the Reef

Kingston, Ja., Dec. 24.—The United Fruit company's steamer Admiral Dewey, which stranded at the entrance of Port Morant, was pulled off the reef by a wrecking tug. The extent of the damage to the steamer is not known.

The Mistletoe Bough

[The following poem was written by Thomas Haynes Bayly, an English poet, novelist and dramatist of considerable note; born 1797; died 1839.]

The mistletoe hung in the castle hall,
The holly branch shone on the old oak wall,
And the baron's retainers were blithe and gay
And keeping their Christmas holiday.
The baron beheld, with a father's pride,
His beautiful child, young Lovell's bride,
While she with her bright eyes seemed to be
The star of the goodly company.

"I'M weary of dancing now," she cried.
"Here tarry a moment—I'll hide; I'll hide!
And, Lovell, be sure thou'rt first to trace
The clew to my secret lurking place."
Away she ran, and her friends began
Each tower to search and each nook to scan,
And young Lovell cried: "Oh, where dost thou hide?
I'm lonesome without thee, my own dear bride."

THE OLD MAN WEEPS FOR HIS FAIRY BRIDE

They sought her that night, and they sought her next day,
And they sought her in vain when a week passed away.
In the highest, the lowest, the loneliest spot
Young Lovell sought wildly, but found her not.
And years flew by, and their grief at last
Was told as a sorrowful tale long past,
And when Lovell appeared the children cried,
"See, the old man weeps for his fairy bride!"

At length an old chest that had long lain hid
Was found in the castle. They raised the lid,
And a skeleton form lay moldering there,
In the bridal wreath of that lady fair.
Oh, sad was her fate! In sportive jest
She hid from her lord in the old oak chest.
It closed with a spring—and, dreadful doom,
The bride lay clasped in her living tomb!

FANTASTIC CELEBRATIONS.

Mysteries and Moralities at Christmas In Middle Ages.

During the middle ages Christmas was celebrated by the gay fastastic spectacle of dramatic mysteries and moralities given by personages in grotesque masks and singular costumes. The scenery usually represented an infant in a cradle surrounded by the Virgin Mary and St. Joseph, bulls' heads, cherubs, eastern magi and many ornaments.

Then there were the Christmas carols or some which recalled the songs of the shepherds at the Nativity. These songs were attended by dances to the rhythm of the various musical instruments. Everybody joined this merry-making, and the wild music and singing were kept up the livelong night. Of these ancient Christmas carols but few have been preserved to us. The foregoing seemed to be the custom of all Christian nations during the middle ages.

In Italy it was the custom of the Calabrian minstrels to descend from the mountains and discourse their wild music before the shrine of the Virgin Mary. In England and on the continent the bells are still rung at midnight. Among other revels of the Christmas season were the so called feasts of fools and asses, in which everything serious was burlesqued, inferiors dressed up as their superiors and great men becoming playful, the whole showing the proneness of man to reverse the order of society and to ridicule its decencies.

In England Christmas is a term at once for a religious and merrymaking festival for every rank and age, the festivities commencing on Christmas eve and lasting till Candlemas, and every day being a holiday till Twelfth Night (Jan. 6). In the houses of nobles a "lord of misrule" formerly was appointed, whose duty it was to provide the rarest amusement and whose rule lasted from All Hallow eve till Candlemas. They lived on the fat of the land, and all of the tenants were invited in to share the general fun and merrymaking.—Houston Post.

Burgundy's Christmas Carols.

In Burgundy carols are exceedingly popular. Indeed not more cherished is the German's Christmas tree, with its glittering ornaments and the Christ Child, or the Englishman's red holly berries, mystic mistletoe, blazing hearth fire and smoking plum pudding than are the ditties sung all through advent until Christmas eve by the good folk of that province.

STOOD SIX TO SIX

Jurors on Patterson Trial Took but One Ballot.

SHOW GIRL COLLAPSES

Said to Be In Bad Mental Condition, Having Expected Acquittal--Counsel Will Plead For a Reduction of Her Bail

New York, Dec. 24.—Following a day of intense nervous strain, Nan Patterson is in the Tombs, ill and perhaps on the verge of a breakdown, but with constant attendance.

The former show girl, expecting acquittal at the hands of the jury which has listened to the evidence during her trial for the murder of Caesar Young, went into court to learn that the men chosen to decide as to her innocence or guilt had been unable to reach an agreement—in fact had divided evenly over the question as to whether or not she held the revolver which ended Young's life.

The jury stood six to six—half for acquittal, the other half for conviction. Courthouse talk had it that of the six deciding against Miss Patterson none was for conviction of murder in the first degree; that one held out for murder in the second degree, two for manslaughter in the first degree and three for manslaughter in the second degree.

Immediately the announcement of the verdict was made Miss Patterson broke into a fit of weeping, which continued even after she was led from the courtroom to a retiring chamber, where physicians were called and restoratives administered.

Then she was taken to the Tombs, but she again wept and moaned and became hysterical, and the efforts to quiet her of her aged father, the prison matron and attendants, were futile.

The demonstration in the court after the announcement of the disagreement was somewhat remarkable, many pressing forward to express sympathy for the young woman.

Abraham Levy, chief counsel for Miss Patterson, called on his client in the Tombs last evening and remained with her an hour. He was ill in bed when the court convened, but when he learned of the action of the jury he went to the jail to cheer his client.

"The girl is in a very bad mental condition," he said, after he left her. "I, of course, cannot tell what we will do for her yet. The counsel for the defense will have a consultation and will then do the best we can for her. If the retrial is not right away, I am going to make a desperate effort to get bail for her. I will plead with Mr. Jerome to reduce the bail to $15,000 and I will be able, I think, to arrange for that amount and thus let her have her freedom while again awaiting the long nerve-wrecking ordeal she will have to face."

Interest centers in what District Attorney Jerome will do in the case. He has not said what he will do, but it is intimated that the way the jury stood will influence him in favor of a new trial.

The jury took but one ballot, according to the foreman, and devoted the remainder of the time to discussion. From first to last the division was even. One juror is quoted as saying that one of those who stood for acquittal tried on the coat which Young wore at the time of his death and with a revolver attempted to demonstrate that suicide was possible.

The interest in the case was so intense that the crowds which had stood outside the court building pursued Foreman Harmer of the jury when he left the court after the final adjournment. He boarded a car, but then chased this to his business office and mounted policemen were called upon to disperse the throng.

Perhaps the most remarkable criminal case of the year in this part of the country was the trial of Miss Nan Patterson, a former show girl, on the charge of murdering "Caesar" Young, a bookmaker at the racetracks, in New York city on the morning of June 4, 1904. Young was shot while in a cab on his way to board a steamer for Europe, and Miss Patterson was with him at the time of the shooting. She protested that Young had killed himself; nevertheless she was arrested and on June 13 the grand jury indicted her for murder in the first degree.

Her case was not called in the criminal branch of the supreme court until Nov. 21. Five days later one of the jurors fell sick and the jury was consequently discharged. On Dec. 8 the new trial began. The principal witness for the defense was a retired merchant of Oneonta, N. Y., who testified that he saw Young and Miss Patterson struggling in the cab; that the pistol was in one of Young's hands, which was held high above his head.

The defendant testified that Young was excited by her expressed determination not to follow him abroad; that he treated her roughly and that then, while her head was partly turned away from him, she heard the shot. Previous to the fatal moment, she said, she had not seen any pistol.

The main efforts of the prosecution were devoted to an attempt to prove that Young could not possibly have inflicted upon himself the mortal wound; that, in the words of one of the medical experts, he was neither an ape nor a contortionist. The testimony ended on Dec. 20.

BRUIN ON THE RAMPAGE

Newly Captured Specimen Tears About Cincinnati Streets

Cincinnati, Dec. 24.—Three men were bitten and several thousand shoppers were thrown into a wild panic here when a recently captured bear broke away from its captors and ran amuck in the heart of the shopping district. The beast was caught three times, but broke away and resumed its attempt to escape, finally being overcome by weight of numbers and being led away with a sack over it head.

Two bears were caught at Morgantown, Pa., and brought here for sale. One was sold, and when the purchasers undertook to remove it from its cage the bear slipped its head from the noose, jumped from the wagon and started towards a big department store where Christmas shoppers were collected. Men and woman scattered in every direction.

The animal finally sought refuge in an alley after a run of nearly five blocks. Here the bear was caught by a colored wrestler, who threw a bag over its head and several men quickly overpowered the animal.

To Have Much-Needed Rest

Washington, Dec. 24.—President Roosevelt, so far as the exigencies of public business will permit, will rest thoroughly during the Chirstmas holidays. He will devote a large part of his time to out-of-door recreation. Since congress convened on Dec. 5 the president has been under a heavy strain, mental and physical. He has endured it with scarcely an outward evidence of fatigue, but he feels the need of a respite from so constant a demand on his time and strength and proposes to take it.

Confidential Adviser Gets $200,000

New York, Dec. 24.—The will of Baroness de Vaugrigneuse, who died in this city, leaving an estate of over $300,000, has been admitted to probate after a contest by relatives of the testarix. The share of J. H. Carpenter, who was confidential adviser to the baroness for many years, will amount to $200,000. Grace church is left $30,000, the American Geographical society a like sum, and Mrs. Annie M. Ramsay of Newport, R. I., a cousin, $25,000.

Ready to Meet Baltic Fleet

London, Dec. 24.—Telegraphing from Tokio, the correspondent of The Daily Express says he learns that in the event of Admiral Kamimura (who is reported to have gone south with a squadron of powerful cruisers) notifying it of the approach of the Russian second Pacific squadron, the whole Japanese fleet, which has been operating at Port Arthur, will be ready to proceed south on a day's notice to give battle.

Well Acquainted With the Ocean

New York, Dec. 24.—Captain C. H. Kaempff, in command of the Hamburg-American line steamer Deutschland, on the arrival of the steamer here, completed his 150th voyage across the Atlantic. The proceedings of the concert on board were voted to be used for the purchase of a token of esteem from the passengers to the captain.

Trains Collided In Fog

Paris, Dec. 24.—During a dense fog which completely disorganized traffic, the London-Boulogne express ran into the Lille express outside the north station, smashing the last carriage of the Lille express. Six corpses have been recovered. A score of wounded have been taken to hospitals.

Van Sant Wants Clapp's Seat

St. Paul, Dec. 24.—Governor Van Sant announces his formal entry into the senatorial campaign of Minnesota, as a successor to Senator Clapp. He is quoted as saying that he had been abused and villified by certain parties and is going into the campaign to fight it out to the finish.

Palma With Moderate Party

Havana, Dec. 24.—President Palma's responses to local committees of the Moderate party which have called on him to enlist his sympathy and support indicate that he has decided to abandon his neutral attitude in politics and ally himself definitely with the Moderates.

Kishineff Rioters Sentenced

Kishineff, Dec. 24.—Sentences were pronounced yesterday upon the persons found guilty of participation in the anti-Jewish riots here in May, 1903. Seventeen of them were sentenced to 170 days' imprisonment, two to 80 days and eleven were acquitted.

To Aid Austrian Emigrants

Vienna, Dec. 24.—The Austrian ministry of the interior has decided to send the chief of the emigration department to America for the purpose of investigating the condition of emigrants and organizing societies to aid them after their arrival.

PUSHING OUT COWBOYS

Transformation of a Cattle Country In Oklahoma.

RANCHES TURNED INTO FARMS.

Furrows and Cotton Gins Paramount In Roger Mills County—Cattle Trail Now Filled With Sand and Overgrown With Weeds—Cheyenne's Gaming Tables Deserted, on Them Are Ragged Magazines.

When a traveler in Oklahoma gets as far west as Roger Mills county he finds himself in a new country and among a new people, says a Cheyenne, Okla., correspondent of the Kansas City Star. The landscape has begun to pitch upward toward the great plains and the Rocky mountains. The atmosphere is drier and more invigorating, and the tan comes more quickly to the cheek than it does in eastern Oklahoma. Instead of first blistering red it begins by smoking the cheek brown, and the shade grows deeper and deeper the longer one stays in the country. "Uncle Bill" Miller, who used to live in Wheeler county, in the Panhandle, said that if he did not actually know that he was the father of his boy "Smoky Joe" Miller, who once owned the local hotel, he would be willing to swear that he was a "darky." He could remember the day, however, when "Smoky Joe" was white.

The first settlers at Cheyenne were mostly Texans, big brown men who had lived all their lives in the open air and had grown bone and sinew from the nutritious "chuck" of the cow camp. They came in from the Panhandle and the southwestern counties. They were men of independence, years of adventure on the plains having made them resourceful and self reliant. As late as four or five years ago a topic that never failed to arise in the talk of a group of these Texans was Indians. They hated the Indian with all their heart and felt that it was hardly a crime to kill one at sight. The Comanches and Kiowas had murdered and pillaged the settlements in the Texas counties for so many years that the sight of a red man in moccasins was sufficient to make these Texans finger their six shooters. Living in close proximity to these tribes there had never been a gap of time to dim the memories of the earlier days, and the first settlers of Roger Mills county at heart were still fighting the battles of the border when the Choctaw railroad pushed westward from Weatherford and opened the country to Amarillo four years ago.

When the Cheyenne and Arapahoe country was opened to settlement the town of Cheyenne was made the county seat of Roger Mills county, then a cattle country, where it was believed a crop farmer would starve to death in six months and whose coming was looked upon with less favor than the advent of a prairie dog. Cheyenne grew to be the distributing point of supplies which were freighted overland from Weatherford. Cheyenne grew to be a redhot town. Cowboys galloped up and down the streets, leaving a streak of smoke behind them; saloons did a rushing business, and gambling houses kept open night and day. It was not an uncommon sight to see $5,000 or $6,000 in bets piled on a monte table.

The surrounding country was without fences, and the great herds of cattle had free range for miles and miles. It was not a country where men were moved to laughter and much talking. The silence and isolation pressed upon men's lips. Miles could be traveled without the sight of a house. The few settlers who lived on claims cultivated Kaffir corn and sorghum for the bunch of cattle which they hoped would make them rich.

Things have changed, both at Cheyenne and in Roger Mills. The stage driver at Sayre jammed seven wayfarers into the two seats of his vehicle and said that if nothing "busted" he believed he could make it to Cheyenne, a distance of about twenty-six miles, in two and a half hours. One of the wayfarers had not been in Roger Mills county for nearly five years, but he knew the topography of the country, and the prospect of a ten mile gait in that portion of Oklahoma carried with it no assurance of safety.

The two broncbos that pulled the stage sprang into the air together as the driver uncoiled his whip, and when they struck the ground the stage was under good headway in the direction of Cheyenne. An old gray haired farmer from Iowa, who was on his way to an interior ranch to find his son who had been absent from home several years, swore vehemently at the wrenching his bones received and was disgusted with the appearance of the country, wholly unlike the black soil of Iowa. He grew less demonstrative, however, when he saw a field of cotton which whisked by like the unfolding of a bolt of white cloth. The stage driver was making time and touching only the high places. The road often led down into canyons, but there was no slackening of speed. The driver knew every dent in the road, though he could not see them, and reached the bottom in safety, with the steam gauge blowing off for a swift run up the next hill. This race on a twenty-six mile natural "shoot the chute" continued until the halfway place was reached, where a fresh team was secured. Then the gait was faster.

One traveler was disappointed at what he saw along the way. Years before he had seen Roger Mills county as a remnant of the old frontier and had hoped secretly that it would never change. There was plenty of room elsewhere for grand pianos and kid gloves and women's clubs and daily newspapers and patent leather shoes. Where once was the waste of the wilderness were houses and children and women and cultivated fields. Wire fences had conquered the old time freedom of travel and stood ready to lacerate and draw blood from the rebellious opponent of too much civilization. Everywhere the tawny landscape was checkered with whitening fields of cotton as good as could be found in central Oklahoma. There was no escaping proof that a change had come upon the land. The stage driver said: "She's gettin' that way all over the Panhandle, and she reaches clean up to the Kansas line. The 'punkin rollers' are doin' the same thing in Beaver county, where we used to believe that only wind and buffalo grass and wild hosses and cattle could grow."

Many of these new farmers had planted orchards, and nearly all of them had windmills. Side by side with Kaffir and sorghum were fields of Indian corn, the old Missouri and Kansas kind, and the man from Iowa gasped in astonishment when he saw an upland field that would yield twenty bushels to the acre and was told that there were forty bushel fields on the lower land.

The stage driver was interested in seeing that his passengers were surprised at the change and brought his bronchos down to a trot and abandoned the idea of his two and a half hour schedule. "See them prairie chickens?" queried the driver. A quarter of a mile away a big bunch was sailing from a Kaffir field to a high point. Farther along another bunch, with stiffly distended wings, invited trouble, but escaped in safety. The stage driver carried the United States mail and couldn't stop for hunting. Enormous covies of quail were everywhere. Farmers in the neighborhood of Cheyenne had little time to hunt this year, with so much cotton in their fields, and the quail grew bold and imprudent. The red glow of the sun was still in the west, the east was silvered with the full moon, and both Jupiter and Venus were blazing in the sky when the stage rolled down the hill into Cheyenne.

Alas for Cheyenne! It is no longer what it was. The cowpuncher soon will be a rare bird unless some taxidermist stuffs one for the local museum. The cattle trail is filled with sand and overgrown with weeds. The American farmer, persistent as death, has caused all the trouble. The wheezing of a cotton gin had taken the place of the sound of merriment that came from the dance house fandango in other days. Imagine a cotton gin at Cheyenne, you who believed that it would be forever a cattle country. And this cotton gin is running night and day, as are others scattered all over the county. Passing a place where a goblet overflowing with some kind of foaming liquid was painted on the window caused a distinct shock. The proprietor was preparing to close. "Why so early, friend?" he was asked.

"Sunday business don't go here any more. I've got to close, or they will put the fixin's on me."

This was some other town, not Cheyenne. It seems that an organization known rather extensively as the Women's Christian Temperance union had found its way to Cheyenne and was in control not only of the local government, but of public sentiment.

The rear room of this "parlor of refreshment" once was a lively place. Here it was that gentlemen with money to bet and spurs clinking on their heels sat at green covered tables, played their cards, pocketed their winnings, paid their losses and ordered drinks. The games ran all night. The tables now are littered with old newspapers and ragged edged magazines, and not a card is in sight. The play is over at Cheyenne. Local characters who threw color into the background of Cheyenne's picture are missing.

As Cheyenne has changed so all the west country of Oklahoma is changing. The farmer is wrinkling the earth with furrows.

A Light That Will Never Go Out.

A thirty-six candlepower light which will never go out has been discovered by an inventor in London, says the New York World. While experimenting with photographic chemicals some years ago Magrady's attention was attracted by a glow in a small globe caused by a chemical compound. Magrady enlarged the glow and perfected the light by placing it in an airtight glass. He says there is no reason why the light will not remain brilliant forever if the glass is not broken. A company has been formed to manufacture the light.

The Path of Progress.

[Luther Burbank of San Francisco, Cal., has perfected a fadeless flower.]

The horseless carriage whizzes by,
With puff and dash and slam;
Through every breath of ours may fly
A wireless telegram;
The seedless raisin on the plate
We joyfully devour.
Things are perfected while we wait—
Here comes the fadeless flower.

The coreless apple is announced;
The whipless school is here—
No scholar any more is trounced
By teacher kind and dear;
The scentless onion now is grown.
Improvement every hour
Into the scheme of things is thrown—
Behold the fadeless flower!

The jokeless comedy we see;
The tailless horse we drive;
The honey served to you and me
Comes from a beeless hive;
Buckwheatless buckwheat cakes we eat
And gather strengthless power.
Some new thing every day we greet—
Observe the fadeless flower!

Oh, would they freeze some meltless ice,
Or make some footless gas,
Or furnish coal without a price—
Fate is unkind, alas!
Henceforth the maiden fair to see
Will grow reserved and sour
And say, "Bring withered blooms to me—
No cheap old fadeless flower!"

Drift of Opinion.

☞The very fact that a group of prominent men in and around Boston are talking of raising $60,000 to introduce a parasite for the suppression or restriction of the gypsy and brown-tailed moths shows how seriously the best posted men take the pest. Yet in Prussia, where the gypsy moth is very well known and rather common, it does not do anything like the damage it has done around here. The explanation, scientific men say, is precisely that in Germany the parasite keeps the moth down, while the moth was introduced into this country without its old enemy. Whatever is done in Massachusetts anyway, it is encouraging that there is little talk about any more state appropriations. Some state legislation is wanted, but it is rather of the kind suggested by Mott Hallowell—an act that will hold the owner of land responsible if he does not try to keep his trees clear of the pest.—Boston Advertiser.

☞There is need of the Christ spirit in the earth today. It is the crying need of the hour and the only hope for the world. Say what we will of our prosperity, say what we will of our progression in the arts and sciences, in wealth and power, there underlies it all a spirit of greed and selfishness which is the bane of the Republic, and threatens its very existence. A spirit of monopoly has gained ascendancy in many minds. They want the entire earth and will spare no efforts to obtain their purpose. Already possessed with more money than they know what to do with, the spirit of greed and selfishness fills their minds and prompts them to all sorts of schemes in order to attain their ends, which is to get the lion's share, without regard to how they accomplish the purposes, or who sinks, so long as they can float! This is the spirit which must be subdued.—Gloucester Times.

NEW CANDIDATES

For City Appointments Next Year.

Slate from Present City Council.

May Not Be as Many Changes as Expected.

Do not believe anything people tell you about appointments or anything published about appointments unless you see my name signed to it, is what Mayor-elect Thompson says about the many rumors as to who his official family will be.

Since the election, however, he has received many applications for positions and it is said that applicants have nearly worn out the door bell at his home. He has also doubtless been given much unsolicited advice on the matter. No one knows for certain who he will appoint, but if his selection of an Assessor can be taken as an example he will not make many mistakes.

There are bound to be certain rumors on the street corners as to who will be appointed, and the latest is that there will be but few changes. All reports and rumors agree that City Treasurer Fay and City Clerk Keith are to be retained, also Chief Engineer Williams and probably City Engineer Flood. Pressure is also being brought to bear to secure the reappointment of Commissioner Knowlton and City Solicitor Blackmur.

Nevertheless the people generally expect changes in Commissioner, City Solicitor, Tax Collector, Overseer of the Poor, Board of Health and Park Commissioners.

Mayor-elect Thompson is probably experiencing the same trouble as the slate makers in selecting a Commissioner who has the qualifications. It is said that John Cashman does not aspire to the office. City Engineer Flood and Engineer Branch of the sewer department have been advocated, and other names heard are: Ex-Commissioner W. Walter Ewell; Fred E Tupper, the civil engineer, Arthur W. Newcomb recently chairman of the Street Committee of the City Council, and others.

That it requires a man of wide experience is generally admitted, as is also the fact that Mr. Knowlton, the present commissioner, has the desired qualifications. There have been criticisms of that office, but they are not always just as regards the official who fills the office. He is under the Mayor and many things are done by him by the direct order of the Mayor who should receive the criticism.

The candidacy of William R. Thomas for City Solicitor, at first regarded as a joke, has developed into quite a boom, and others have also been mentioned besides Messrs. Pinkham, Blackmur and McAnarney. It is said ex-Representative McKnight would like the position, and also Councilman Adams. Probably the last mentioned has the best backing of all. His long service in the City Council, his increasing law business, his service as clerk pro tem of the District court, and the fact that he volunteered in the Spanish war, all count in his favor.

Officer Burrell and Special Officer Sandberg seem to have the inside if a change is made in Chief of Police. The chances of the latter are not considered as good since Julius Johnson was appointed as Assessor, while Mr. Burrell has a very strong backing.

The name of ex-Collector A. L. Baker is prominently mentioned in connection with the office of Tax Collector, but much depends on whether Charles H. Johnson is appointed Principal Assessor.

Perhaps more selections may be made from the retiring Councilmen. Why not Commisssoner Whiton, or Commissioner Nickerson, Overseer Hadlock or Overseer Hardwick, Park Commissioners Langelier and Walsh, and McFarland and Thompson on the Board of Health.

In Which House Did Father of Charles E. French Live.

By a codicil to the will of the late Charles E. French of Boston an old beam from John Hancock house, Boston, (now torn down) is bequeathed to the society in charge of the Adams house at Quincy "in which my father used to live."

Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, have been notified of the bequest through their regent, Mrs. Nelson V. Titus, as has also the Quincy Historical Society.

Hon. Charles Frances Adams thinks the bequest is to John Adams house in the care of the Daughters, but we have been unable to look the matter up and see which Adams house is intended.

CUT BY A FALL.

Accident to Henry H. Faxon at His House.

Henry H. Faxon had quite a serious fall yesterday at his home. He was moving about the house, when a dizziness came over him, and before he could recover himself, he fell over against the partition cutting quite a gash in his head. Mr. Faxon says he is feeling all right today, although he was pretty well shaken up.

Contests in City Council.

The contest for City Auditor has narrowed down to ex-mayor Fairbanks and ex-mayor Hall. The new City Council will say which.

Report says that Councilman Gassett has not developed much strength in his candidacy for President of the City Council of 1905 and that President Nichols will probably succeed himself.

It has never been given in Quincy and is a great novelty. All the features of a first class magazine will be illustrated by living characters.

THE RAILROAD FIREMAN.

Building a Fire In a Locomotive Is Not an Easy Job.

The average citizen manages to set the house in an uproar every time he has to make a fire in the heater, but his job is a trifle in comparison with what a railroad fireman faces when a new fire has to be built in a locomotive. As a starter about 200 pounds of wood are necessary to fire up the ordinary engine. The wood used is old railroad ties cut into convenient blocks. When the fire box has been lined with wood it is drenched with oil, and the match is applied.

As soon as the fire gains headway forced draft is applied, the operation necessary being performed in the roundhouse, where all apparatus for quickly producing high temperature is at hand. When a good bed of blazing wood has been produced the fireman gets busy with his shovel, placing coal in even layers over the flames. This part of the work is hard on the back, and the aggrieved individual whose woes are evident to the whole block when he labors with the heater would go down and out in the first minute at it. Under the forced draft it is only a few minutes before the coal has been reduced to a sheet of embers at white heat, and by this time there is enough steam pressure generated to permit of the locomotive being moved under its own power.

Continuous resort to the shovel on the part of the fireman does the rest. It is only about once a month that a new fire is built in a locomotive while in service. The balance of the time the fire is kept alight by being banked when the iron horse is not on the road.—Philadelphia Record.

PROSPERITY FOR ALL.

And we, having had a prosperous business the past year, do hereby PROMISE all of our REGULAR CUSTOMERS that during the month of January, we will sell them our Goods at COST.

This is no cut-price sale, or stamp giving scheme, just simply giving them a cash reduction on all bill of goods bought of us in the next thirty days. We think this is a good, clean, wholesome way to show our appreciation of your trade, past and future.

We have never encouraged stamp or premium business, relying wholly on the quality of our goods to satisfy our trade. And our splendid business the past year shows our good judgment on that question. And now we are prepared to do business with our Regular Customers at Cost. THEY CAN HAVE THE PROFIT OF OUR BUSINESS FOR THE NEXT THIRTY DAYS.

BEGIN TODAY

Christmas Festivals This Evening.

Special Sermons and Music Sunday.

Sunday School Concerts on Sunday Evening.

The third instalment of church programs for Christmas is given below:

CHRIST CHURCH.

The Christmas festival at Christ church will begin this evening when there will be the Sunday School carol service and tree in the church. The service will consist of hymns by the Sunday School and recitations by the members of the Junior Auxiliary.

On Sunday, Christmas Day, in order that all may receive the Holy Communion, there will be two celebrations: one at 8.30 A. M. and the other at 10.30. The Christmas offering this year will be devoted to the current expenses of the Church.

QUINCY POINT CHURCH.

There will be a Christmas service at the usual hour Sunday morning to include anthems by Dudley Buck and Danks, sung by the choir, and solos by Mrs. Carter and Miss Gage. The director of music is Mr. T .B. Pollard, and the organist Miss Sara M. Kelley. The theme of the pastor will be appropriate to Christmas.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Rev. N. J. Sproul, pastor of the Water Street Presbyterian church, will preach at both the morning and evening services. Special Christmas music will be rendered at both of these services.

On Monday evening a children's Christmas tree and festival will be held in the Sunday school room. There will be songs and recitations by the children and distribution of candy and fruit.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN.

At the Sunday evening service at the at the United Presbyterian church, the pastor, Rev. W. B. Barr, will preach a Christmas sermon and Christmas anthems will be sung by the choir.

The Christmas service and treat for the Sabbath school will occur on Monday evening at 7 o'clock, when a good time is expected.

WEST QUINCY M. E.

Special Christmas services will be held at the West Quincy Methodist church Sunday morning with special Christmas music by the church quartette. The Sunday school will hold a Christmas tree and festival Monday evening.

St. MARY'S, WEST QUINCY.

Music will be a feature of the Christmas celebration at St. Mary's church at West Quincy, Rev. A. F. Roche, pastor.

First mass, a low one, at 5.15 A.M.

At 8.45 there will be a low mass, at which the junior choir will sing some new Christmas anthems.

Solemn high mass will be sung by Rev. Fr. Roche and assistants at 10.15. The choir will be assisted by an orchestra of six pieces from Boston, the musical selections being:

Processional,	Orchestra and Organ
Haydn's third mass.
Offertory,	Venite Adoremus
Venite Creator by Chorus.
Communion,	Organ
Recessional,	Orchestra

Musical vespers at 7.45 with orchestra music, to include:

Magnificat	Emmerig
O Salutaris	Gounod
Tantum Ergo	Yerman

The soloists will be: Messrs. James Ogle, Joseph Daly, John McGowan and Robert Teasdale, Misses Ecker, Delia Burke, Cassie McDonaid, May McGillvray, Elizabeth Farrell and Mrs. Fennsey.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The Sunday school festival will be held this evening at 7 o'clock, with a tree and entertainment. Members of the Sunday school will make presents to the children of Morgan chapel, Boston.

At the Sunday morning service there will be a Christmas sermon by the pastor and Christmas music by the quartette. The church will be decorated by the young ladies of the Dennison Home auxiliary. The musical numbers will be:

Come Near Ye Nation,	Watson
The Hush of Night Hath Fallen,	Spence
Recitative,—Comfort Ye My People,	From Handel's Messiah
Aria,—Every Valley Shall be Exhaulted,	From Handel's Messiah

"The Christ Child," will be the subject of the Sunday evening service, and a stereopticon will be used.

WOLLASTON M. E.

Sunday morning at the Wollaston M. E. church the pastor will preach a Christmas sermon, his subject being, "When Jesus was Born."

The choir will sing the anthems, "Arise, Shine," and "Sing unto the Lord."

Sunday evening there will be a Sunday school concert.

ST. CHRYSOSTOMS.

The music at the Sunday morning service at St. Chrysostom's church will be:

Choir Collect and "Holy Night"	Tyrolese Carol
Processional, "Adeste Fideles."
Venite and Benedictus,	Anglican Chants
Te Dem in D,	Arthur Sullivan
Introit, "Hark The Herald Angels Sing,"	Mendelssohn
Holy Communion Service in C with Benedictus qui veuit and Agnus Dei	by Monk
Sermon Hymn, "O Little Town of Bethlehem!"
Offertoire, "It came upon the midnight clear,"	Arthur A. Sullivan
Presentation,
"All Things come of Thee O Lord."	Anon
Munc Dimitis, Anglican Chant.
Recessional, "Sing, O Sing this blessed morn,"	Smart

At the afternoon service there will be Christmas carols by the choir and Sunday school.

The soloist of this church is Master John Thomas Smith; the organist, Miss Helen Sibley; and the choirmaster, E. Landis Snyder.

The Sunday school and parish party of the St. Chrysostom's church will be held in Knights of Honor hall, Wollaston, on Thursday, Dec. 29, at seven o'clock.

PARK AND DOWNS.

The Christmas festival at the Park and Downs Congregational church will take place this evening with interesting exercises. The pupils will make gifts to Fall River children.

Christmas music will be a feature of the Sunday morning service, the selections including:

"Bethlehem's Guiding Star,"	Marzo.
"O be Joyful,"	Fairbanks.
"Angels from the Realms of Glory,"	Neidlinger.

ATLANTIC M. E.

At the Sunday morning service at the Atlantic M. E. church the pastor, Rev. J. G. Miller, will take for his subject, "The Six Signs of the Dawn." There will be a special musical program by the choir.

In the evening at 6 o'clock there will be a Christmas Sunday school concert with recitations and singing by the children.

In the Vacant Lot.

THE vacant lot is not a thing of beauty or a joy
To any sense aesthetic, but it seems to suit the boy.
It's overgrown with burdock where it isn't trampled bare;
It's littered up with rubbish—but the boy, he doesn't care.
He doesn't mind the heaping of discarded can and crock;
The refuse from the alleys doesn't give his nose a shock.
He sees a heap of uses in that disregarded plot,
So there's nothing suits him better than the awful vacant lot.

He finds that it's a bully place for marbles in the spring;
Its cater cornered path has just the surface for a ring.
It yields him "wums fer fishin'" when the perch begin to bite;
Affords him sweet seclusion for the purpose of a fight.
There's space within its limits for the summer game of ball;
It's where he lights his bonfires when the leaves begin to fall.
In winter when's it's freezing it's a mighty lively spot;
There's always dandy skating on the flooded vacant lot.

And sometimes there's a whirligig that goes around by steam,
With music and with mirrors, a kaleidoscopic dream.
And now and then a circus in the lot will pitch its tent,
And boys can wriggle under—if the copper don't prevent.
A park is mighty pretty, but it's in another class;
They're apt to pinch a feller if he don't keep off the grass.
You dassent climb a tree there. Yes, it's pretty, but it's not
A place of joy and freedom like the good old vacant lot.

—A notable authority, commenting on the increase of crime in the United States in recent years, attributes much of the cause to the fact that the judges in America lack the standing and prestige of the judges of England. This is an indictment of serious moment if facts are in its favor. It will be widely questioned.—Universalist Leader.

AMERICAN ART.

Interesting Papers at Meeting of the Unity Club.

The regular meeting of the Wollaston Unity Club was held in the vestry of the Unitarian church last evening. Few members were present, but those who were there, were delightfully entertained by a program on "American Art" which was in charge of Mr. Robert E. Park, of Wollaston.

Rev Frank W. Pratt presided, in the absence of Mr. Crocker, and Miss Elizabeth Thayer was elected secretary pro tem in the absence of Miss Thomas.

The first paper was given by Miss Elizabeth Thayer, the subject "painting." Miss Thayer took as a model of an American painter, James A. Whistler. She told in a very interesting way how he struggled against poverty, opposition and ridicule, but finally obtained success through the simpleness and personality of his work.

The subject of sculpture was well taken up by Miss Georgiana Lane of Quincy. Miss Lane spoke of several American sculptors, and pointed out the excellence of their work, in a very interesting and entertaining manner.

After a short intermission the program was concluded with a paper by Mr. Park on Walt Whitman. Mr. Park considered Whitman a true American poet, being individualistic and democratic. Whitman sometimes wrote apparently without rhyme or meaning, but with expressions which could not be surpassed, In all his writing he was the autobiographical hero, and he asserted, translated and transmitted the national spirit by which he himself was moved.

The music of the evening consisted of excellent solos by Mr. Hayden, of Quincy, accompanied by Mrs. Moulton of Wollaston.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

GETTING A RECORD.

Arthur Dunn Stops Another Runaway Horse.

Arthur Dunn had added another mark to the list of runaway horses he has captured. Yesterday Mrs. Morse, of East Braintree, was driving from Hingham in a sleigh. When near the Hingham bridge, a dog bit her horse in the leg, frightening the animal which runaway.

The ladies were thrown out and the horse ran through North Weymouth and was coming up Washington street, Quincy Point, when Dunn ran out to stop him. He succeeded in climbing over the back of the sleigh only to find the reins dangling about the horse's feet. Dunn by reaching over the dasher managed to get hold of them and brought the animal to a stop.

He then drove back toward Hingham, and picked up the ladies, and the robes and cushions of the sleigh. Afterward he drove the ladies home.

This is the third or fourth runaway, Dunn has captured, and he is getting quite a reputation in this line.

Babbie's Plea.

Although Babbie had done his share toward demolishing the dinner, the dessert did not leave him too full for utterance.

"Mr. Fumbler," he broke the ice of silence, "you haven't done your trick yet. Will you do it after dinner?"

"I don't believe I know any parlor tricks, Babbie," replied the victim, casting sheep's eyes at Sister Jennie.

"Sis says every other time you open your mouth you put your foot in it, and won't you please do it, 'cause I just love contortion stunts?"

For the rest of the evening Mr. Fumbler's mouth was not open wide enough for the insertion of a pin, to say nothing of a No. 11.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Changed His Mind.

A tramp, dirty and ragged to the last degree, called at a house on the door of which was a doctor's sign. A large, rather masculine looking woman opened the door.

"Scuse me, lady," said the tramp, "but I jist called to ask if the doctor had any old clothes he'd let me have. You see, I'm kind o' bad off fer all kind o' clothes, an' I'd be much obleeged fer anything the doctor could let me have, an' I ain't perticklar as to the fit."

The woman smiled and made reply: "I am the doctor!"

"Sufferin' Moses!" ejaculated the tramp as he made a bee line for the gate.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Declined to Interfere.

"Sir," began the nervous young man as he entered the presence of the dear girl's father, "I want to marry your daughter, and"—

"Oh, don't come to me with your troubles," interrupted the old man. "She told me six months ago that she intended to marry you, so you will have to fight it out between yourselves."—Chicago Chronicle.

Those Girls.

Bessie—I suppose you have heard that Fred Simpson and I are going to be married?

Florence—Yes, but of course I shouldn't have mentioned it if you hadn't. I hope I have more regard for your feelings than that.—Boston Transcript.

Turned Down.

"Pardon me," said the masher, "but you look like a young lady I know."

"Pardon me," interrupted Miss Bright, "but you look like a man I don't know."

A FACT PROVEN.

Should Convince Even the Most Skeptical of Its Truth.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit innoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time.

It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ—which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent. of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.

Dandruff is caused by the same germ which causes baldness and can be prevented with the same remedy—Newbro's Herpicide.

Accept no substitute. "Destroy the cause you remove the effect."

NATIVES OF SAMAR

Stubborn Opponents of Our Control In the Philippines

ARE NOT YET CIVILIZED

Mountaineers Descend Upon Lowland Towns and Murder, Pillage and Burn--Massacre of Scouts Their Latest Feat

Manila, Dec. 24.—The Pulajanes have ambushed and killed at Dolores, on the Island of Samar, a lieutenant and 37 enlisted men of the Thirty-Eighth company of native scouts. Two thousand Pulajanes, it is reported, threaten the town of Dolores, and the situation is said to be critical. Lieutenant Abbott, in command of the scouts, has requested that aid be sent him.

The massacre reported above is the third important stroke against the United States by the Samar natives. General Smith's "fire and sword" order, which raised such indignation in the United States, applied to Samar, and it was Samar that furnished the "water cure" court martials.

Washington, Dec. 24.—Up to the time of the closing of the war department yesterday nothing had been received from General Corbin, commanding the Philippine division, regarding the affair at Dolores.

Secretary Taft made public a mail report just received from Governor Wright in regard to the condition of affairs in Samar and other islands of the Philippine group. It is in part as follows:

"The great bulk of the civilized Filipinos live on, or not remote, from the coast line, but there are scattered communities living in the mountains who are little removed from savagery. It frequently happens that some enterprising man among them will obtain a considerable following and will perpetrate all sorts of outrages upon peaceful and inoffensive inhabitants. This cannot be changed at once. It therefore may be inferred that for several years to come there will be eruptions from this source and that they will make raids upon the civilized Filipinos living in the lowlands as heretofore.

"A striking instance of the tendencies of these mountaineers is furnished by recent occurrences in the Island of Samar, the third in point of size in the archipelago. Two months ago several hundred of these hill men, under the leadership of one of their number who styles himself Papa (Pope) Bulan, and who, as is usually the case, claims to be divinely inspired, suddenly descended upon the native towns along the coast line, plundered and burned the outlying barrios and began killing men, women and children indiscriminately.

"The constabulary promptly took the field against them and they were broken up into small bands and are being pursued and killed or captured. Captured members of the band state that the immediate cause of the outbreak was that certain of their countrymen, who were prominent in the insurrection and who have been employed by mercantile houses as agents for the purchase of hemp, had oppressed them by paying them only a nominal price for their hemp, thereafter turning it into their principals at a much larger price.

"The Spaniards impressed themselves less, perhaps, upon the people of Samar than upon the inhabitants of the other islands, and except Mindanao, the home of the Moros, there is, therefore, more combustible material there than in the other islands. Doubtless many of the inhabitants of these mountain regions never have seen a white man. The civilized Filipinos are in great terror of them and eagerly cooperate, so far as their fears will permit, with the constabulary and scouts in their elimination."

Negro Will Steal No More Chickens

Camden, N. J., Dec. 24.—Howard Brown, who had suffered losses by chicken thieves, placed his old army musket in a corner of his hennery and attached a wire to the trigger and to the door of the chicken house in such a manner that when the door was opened the gun would be discharged. Robert Dorsey, a negro, tried to rob the coop last night and was killed by the contrivance. Brown was arrested.

After Douglas Is Governor

Washington, Dec. 24.—Governor-elect Douglas of Massachusetts has been advised that the secretary of war cannot make the detail of General Miles to duty with the Massachusetts militia until the request comes from Douglas in his capacity as governor. This was in reply to a letter from Douglas announcing it to be his desire that the general be detailed.

To Contest Adams' Election

Denver, Dec. 24.—According to The Times, it has been definitely decided by the Republican leaders to contest the election of Alva Adams as governor before the legislature, by which the vote is canvassed. They purpose, it is said, to submit evidence of frauds committed in 99 Denver Democratic precincts.

Swam Eight Miles In Rough Sea

Papeete, Tahita, Dec. 24.—The Pitcairn island cruising cutter has been wrecked. Three young men managed to make their escape by swimming eight miles in a rough sea.

LIGHTSHIP WIRELESS

System May Be Installed Along Massachusetts Coast

Boston, Dec. 24.—Plans are being considered looking to the installation of wireless telegraph outfits on all of the lightships along the New England coast. The Nantucket lightship has so successfully demonstrated the worth of wireless communication that the officers on the other ships are very desirous of enjoying the same privileges.

The only means of communicating with the shore at present is by boats, and this is a slow and often dangerous method. Recent heavy storms, when several of the lightships slipped their cables and became a menace to shipping and endangered their own safety, have caused a renewal of the requests for the installation of wireless outfits. Had the lightships been fitted out at the time of the storm, they would have been able to secure immediate aid from shore.

On the recommendation of the keeper of the Nantucket lightship and others familiar with the situation, the lighthouse board at Washington has the matter under favorable consideration. On the coast of Massachusetts alone there are 12 lightships. The wireless apparatus will be furnished, set up and operated under the supervision of naval officials.

Arranging For Chadwick Bail

Cleveland, Dec. 24.—Arrangements are being made to secure bail, on his arrival here, for Dr. Chadwick, who, with his wife, was indicted by the county grand jury, charged with forging and uttering a $5,000,000 note signed Andrew Carnegie. Dr. Chadwick is now on his way to New York from Paris and extradition papers are to be requested. County Prosecutor Keeler says that the bond will probably be $10,000 or $15,000.

Bank Was Loosely Run

Buffalo, Dec. 24.—I. D. Kilburn, state superintendent of banks, has given out a further statement of the condition of the German bank, which suspended recently. It shows that the surplus and capital stock of the bank were wiped out, the deficit being $781,646.42. The amount of paper thrown out by the bank examiner for various causes was $1,465,936.75.

Japs' Ammunition Augmented

London, Dec. 24.—The Times' correspondent at Pekin reports that the Chinese have seized at the Fengtai station, near Pekin, 3,000,000 rounds of Russian rifle ammunition consigned to a Russian firm at Tientsin and evidently designed for Port Arthur. The ammunition was concealed in bales of wool brought from Kalgan on camels.

Dishonest Army Officer

Washington, Dec. 24.—On the recommendation of Secretary Taft the president has approved the sentence of dismissal imposed by court martial on Captain Phillips of the Twenty-Seventh infantry at Fort Sheridan, Ills., convicted of duplication of pay accounts, financial irregularities and other violations of the army regulations.

Satisfactory Business Conditions

New York, Dec. 24.—R. G. Dun's weekly review of trade says that demand for holiday goods has exceeded expectations, but trade in staple merchandise is seasonably quiet. Business conditions are satisfactory, however, manufacturing plants producing freely, except where insufficient water supply restricts operations.

Police Charge Arson

Portland, Me., Dec. 24.—Benjamin Mack was arrested last night, the allegation in the warrant being arson. Last Saturday night a fire which broke out in Mack's store destroyed his stock. The police claim to have proof that the blaze was incendiary. Late last night Mack was released on $5000 bail.

Conference Planned on Senatorship

Albany, Dec. 24.—Governor Odell and Governor-elect Higgins are silent on the senatorship controversy. Governor Odell intends to play his final card as governor in this controversy at a conference to be held with the leaders of the legislature immediately after Christmas.

Africans Defeat Frenchmen

Paris, Dec. 24.—Private reports received here say that the French military force of occupation in Central Africa has suffered a serious reverse, accompanied by heavy losses, near Timbuctoo.

Acceded to Bandits' Demands

Tangier, Dec. 24.—The tribesmen who surrounded Alcazar, demanding that the French consul and an English resident be given up to them, have withdrawn for a consideration of $300.

FRICK'S SUMMER HOME

Features of Millionaire's Mansion at Beverly Farms, Mass.

WILL COST FULLY HALF A MILLION

Steel Manufacturer's Residence Is to Be the Finest on Massachusetts Coast—Grand Staircase the Most Imposing Feature—Elaborate Scheme of Landscape Gardening Planned.

The most magnificent summer residence on the Massachusetts coast will be that of Henry C. Frick, the millionaire steel manufacturer of Pittsburg, at Prides Crossing, Beverly Farms, work on which has already been commenced and will be rapidly pushed, says a Boston special dispatch to the Pittsburg Dispatch.

Summer homes of millionaires and multimillionaires are plenty in Beverly, but that of Mr. Frick will outshine them all. It will cost fully $500,000. Mr. Frick's new abode for the summer months is on the estate he recently purchased from Mrs. A. O. Tyson. There are five acres of land in the tract, which is on Hale street, a most exclusive thoroughfare and which has a magnificent ocean view. An elaborate scheme of landscape gardening is to be carried out in conjunction with the building operations, and the grounds will be among the most handsome along the north shore.

The plans provide for the mansion proper, with conservatory, the stables, the automobile garage, outbuildings for the servants, the power and lighting plants for the house and the gate keeper's lodge.

The mansion itself will be of gray stone, with steel frame, fireproof construction, Mr. Frick securing the steel in Pittsburg. It will face Hale street, and a wide avenue, starting at the gate keeper's lodge, will sweep from that thoroughfare up to the house. The entrance to the mansion will be imposing, and the covered piazza, with its vaulted ceiling and handsome mural decorations, will be a notable feature. The entrance hall, high and vaulted and richly decorated, will give a foretaste of the general color and decorative scheme for the entire building. The floor of the hall will be of marble mosaic in a very rich pattern.

The grand staircase will be a most imposing feature. Its columns, architraves, railings and steps will be of the finest imported Italian marble, and all the iron grill work will be beautifully finished in gold, giving a decidedly rich effect.

The first landing is broad and will contain a $6,000 pipe organ, richly adorned in keeping with the general color scheme of the staircase.

The dining room will be a delight to an artistic temperament, for it will be furnished entirely in mahogany, richly carved, and the carved marble mantels will afford an effective contrast.

The drawing room, reception room and music room and library are all large and high ceilinged. The billiard room will be done in quartered oak with cabinet work seats.

All through the house the finish will be of the most elaborate nature, and an idea of its richness may be gained by the fact that $12,000 is set aside for the item of decorative painting alone.

Even the kitchen will be completed in white enameled brick, insuring perfect cleanliness and giving an aspect of lightness and coolness.

The house will be provided with an automatic passenger elevator and will have an independent lighting plant. Complete filtering arrangements at the intake purify all water used for all purposes.

The contract price for the erection of the buildings alone is $400,000, and fully another $100,000 will be expended upon grounds and other features. There will be $20,000 used for the marble mosaic floors in the entrance hall, and everything else throughout the mansion and its dependent buildings will be provided for on the same lavish scale. French and German plate glass will be used.

The gardener's lodge will be a handsome little structure of stone, and the large stables will be built of the same material. The automobile garage will be of brick. It is doubtful if the building will be completed in season for occupancy next summer.

Cheaper Furs.

One of the results of the Russian-Japanese war is that raw furs are cheaper this season, says the New York World. It will take some time for the drop in the price of raw furs to affect the retail sale of the manufactured product, but the public is already beginning to get the benefit in reductions made in anticipation. Russia is one of the largest fur buying countries. Canada and British North America send abroad their surplus of raw furs beyond what the American market will take. The United States, except for some production in Alaska, imports almost all of the expensive furs which are used here. Smaller furs, like muskrats, raccoons, skunks and opossums, are produced in large numbers in the United States, and a great part of them is exported.

The Coreless Apple.

The coreless apple has at last arrived, says the Chicago Tribune. In color it is red, dotted with yellow. It is without seeds and resembles the seedless orange in that a "slightly hardened substance makes its appearance at the navel end." But this can be obliterated by culture. It is estimated that by 1906 there will be 2,500,000 of these trees bearing fruit in the orchards of the world.

What the Robin Told The Holly Sprig

By MARY BAIN BILTON

ON a mountain side grew a sprig of holly. Beneath, in the valley, nestled a village, and the holly could see the people moving about, the cattle going to and from the brook for water; indeed, there was constant motion, while the holly sprig was always still except when the wind set it in motion. One morning a robin lit on the holly sprig, clutching it with its tiny claws.

"How I wish I were you!" said the sprig to the bird. "You can fly anywhere and see what is going on, while I am doomed to hang here, passing my life in one spot."

"Yes," said the robin, "I can go about and see the world, and I have opportunities of learning. The other day—it was Sunday—I perched on a limb near a church and heard the clergyman say that one of the greatest blessings was contentment."

Then the robin flew away.

One winter morning when the snow had fallen the holly sprig heard merry voices, sounding very loud in the moist air, coming up the mountain side, and presently a number of children approached. They were gathering holly, and one of them took hold of the little holly twig and twisted it off its parent bush. Then it was thrown into a bag with other sprigs and taken down to the village. For a time it lay perfectly still, but suddenly the mouth of the bag was opened, a hand thrust in and the holly taken out.

Then for the first time the holly sprig saw a new sight. It was in a lighted room where boys and girls were at work. The girls were tying evergreens together and making ropes of them, while the boys were standing on tables and stepladders arranging the ropes on the walls in festoons. Some of the girls were making evergreen wreaths and hanging them in the windows. One little girl took the holly sprig and hung it to a chandelier.

The holly sprig was supremely happy. How much more delightful was this than the bleak mountain side, with no change from day to day! It was somewhat disappointed when the boys and girls put out the lights and went out, leaving the room in darkness. It could see nothing, whereas in its mountain home on clear nights it could see the stars, and often the moon lighted up the trees about it and the valley below. However, in the morning the children came back to view their work, and people were coming and going all day, so that the holly sprig was not lonely. Indeed, it was charmed with its altered condition, which, it supposed, would last forever.

That day a young evergreen tree was brought into the room and stood before the chimney piece. The children brought in boxes, from which they took little wax candles and fixed them all over the tree. From other boxes they took iridescent and gilt globes, spangles and tinsel chains, which they scattered in profusion among the branches. But the climax of delight to the holly was in the evening, when the children all came in together. The candles were lighted, and all stood about admiring the beautiful tree.

"What a happy change for me!" exclaimed the holly sprig. "Had not the children come and brought me down here I should now be a part of my parent bush, out in the cold wind, with nothing above me but a murky sky, nothing beneath but the cold snow."

Then some of the elder people who were present went to the evergreen tree and took off boxes and packages they had hung there in the night when the children were in bed and distributed them among the little ones. Each package was marked with the name of the child for whom it was intended and was opened eagerly. The holly sprig, hanging high in the center of the room, could see everything and as each child opened its package watched eagerly to see what was being unwrapped. There was frequent clapping of hands, shouts of laughter, everything expressive of happiness.

"This is delightful," said the holly spring to itself. "I wonder if they are going to do this often."

By and by, when the merrymaking had lasted a long while, the candles on the tree were extinguished and the children were sent to bed. Then their parents put out the lights, and the room was dark. But the holly sprig had so much to remember that it did not feel lonely during the night, expecting that it would again have plenty of company on the morrow.

In the morning before the sun was up servants came into the room and took out the evergreen tree, then tore down the evergreen from the wall. The holly sprig looked on, terrified. One of the servants said to another: "It's a pity master doesn't like to see these things about after Christmas. They would look pretty for weeks." With that the holly was pulled down and thrown into the general heap, all of which was taken down into the cellar.

Then the holly sprig wished itself back on the mountain side, where it could see the sun sparkling on the snow and icicles by day and the stars and the moon by night, but as the juice of life dried out of it it gradually lost sensation.

One spring morning a servant came down into the cellar and looked about for some kindling. Seeing the holly sprig, she took it upstairs, put it on the hearth in the room where the tree had been, laid wood on it and touched a match to its dry leaves. As it burst into a flame it thought of its home on the mountain side, where the buds were sprouting, the soft south wind was stealing up the valley and the sweet summer time was at hand. Its last remembrance was what the robin had heard the clergyman say:

"One of the greatest blessings is contentment."

CHRISTMAS TREES.

Where They Come From and How They Are Sold.

Where do all the Christmas trees come from? You would think there were not enough to supply the huge demand, but in almost all parts of the country there are big pine, fir and cedar tree forests that remained undisturbed for centuries until Mark Carr gave Americans the idea of cutting them for Christmas.

It used to be that Maine furnished 90 per cent of them, and for two months before the holiday the woodmen were busy chopping and the farmers were busy carting them to the stations, where they were loaded into cars and sent west and south to be sold to the dealers. Today Maine has rivals, and all the northern border states deal regularly in Christmas trees. Christmas tree selling is a paying business nowadays, and it is entered into with all the formality and shrewd business methods that you might use in disposing of acres of land.

The woods that furnish spruce and fir are sold on contract, and the jobber visits them in October to "size them up." He offers so much apiece for each tree as the trees run—usually about $3 a hundred—and makes the money payable on receipt of the package of trees at the nearest railroad station. On their arrival in the city the jobber sells them to the wholesaler, getting about $7 a hundred for the trees, after which the wholesaler sells them to the retailer at a good profit, and the retailer does his best to get big prices from the housewife and the head of the family.

The boughs of fir bring the highest price because of their symmetry and grace. After them come the stiffer pine and cedar, but when they are covered with gorgeous tinsel and brilliant baubles and strung with popcorn, candy, toys and presents you really do not see much of the form of the tree.

One of the most remarkable facts about the Christmas greens lies in connection with the people who handle them. Christmas tree merchants do a rushing business and work steadily from October to the 1st of January, after which they take a vacation and are the laziest of all idlers from January to the next October. Their season is only three months long, but they have to "step lively" during that time or it will pass them by unremunerated. —Washington Star.

Christmas In Bethlehem.

Christmas in the Holy Land is an interesting experience. Indeed it is one never to be forgotten, and every Christmas thousands of persons from all over the world make a journey to Palestine in order to witness the various ceremonies held there during the festive season. Every one almost puts up at Jerusalem and on Christmas morning makes his way to Bethlehem, which lies almost due south, about six miles away as the crow flies, over a range of hills. No highway the world over presents such a motley crowd as may be seen streaming along this thoroughfare early on Christmas morning.

Where the Heavens Open.

In Poland it is believed that on Christmas night the heavens are opened and the scene of Jacob's ladder is re-enacted, but only the saints are permitted to see it. In Holland the people enter thoroughly into the spirit of the Nativity. In nearly every Dutch town at 2 o'clock Christmas morning the young men assemble at the market place, singing the "Gloria" and other hymns. One of them carries a large star on a pole. This is supposed to represent the star that guided the steps of the three kings to the stable at Bethlehem.

WOMAN'S STRENUOUSNESS.

Too Busy With the Crowded Hour to Fear to Live or Die.—Emerson.

In Carlyle's "Past and Present" we have mention of "the strenuous life," a phrase which has been brought into current use by our president, and lately, through the same source, we have the phrase "the crowded hour." But long before these phrases came into common use there were women who lived lives so strenuous that some of them were not sorry when the time came to lie down and rest forever.

To many, many women, living only with the hope that some day things will be different, it seems as if life were all one "crowded hour," to be got through with somehow from day to day. Even when night comes and the tired body lies down to rest the busy brain is still at work, planning the duties of the next day or the next week or month, as the case may be, until sleep mercifully puts an end to its reaching out into the future to days that may never come.

For most women the first year after marriage is generally the most strenuous in all their existence. All that went to make life delightful during girlhood is being crowded out—must be put aside in this crowded hour—and the little bride wonders sadly why she is not as happy as she expected to be. There seems to be no time for piano practice, for the golf or tennis that she once enjoyed so much; the late books are literally closed books to her, and all the old favorites are left lying upon the shelf save when they need dusting. After a few years have passed she begins to realize that she has fallen far behind the rest of the world and is only competent to take her place with the rest of the matrons and discuss the three D's—dress, domestics and disease. She determines to "catch up" again and in the endeavor joins a club or two herself, and then life, strenuous as it may have been before, becomes far more so. She has not removed the first cause, but has added to it.

Then there is the woman who is always getting ready to be happy. It may be she is working hard to educate her children, pay for the home or furnish it in a "grand" manner, expecting some day to enjoy it all. That time will probably never come, for when she has accomplished her purpose other things to work for will open before her or she will have forgotten how to rest.

The only salvation for such lives is to pause right in the midst of "the crowded hour" and then decide what is most worth while. The true bohemian is one who knows how to wring pleasure from every passing moment. Whatever may be the enjoyment of the present moment—whether it is the pleasure he or she planned or wished for or some other bit of enjoyment—it is grasped and enjoyed to the utmost, and it would be a bit of wisdom on the part of all womankind if this same spirit of the true bohemian were cultivated for its worth.—Mary Taylor-Ross in New Idea Magazine.

Cabbage Salad Dressing.

Beat the yolks of three eggs, half a teaspoonful of mustard, mixed for the table, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt. Add two tablespoonfuls of butter, then gradually five tablespoonfuls of hot vinegar. Stir and cook over hot water until the mixture is thick and smooth. Just before using mix with crisp, finshredded cabbage.

The Fatal Spare Room.

How many a cold is contracted in the spare bed. Look out for it during the cold weather. Open the windows and air it on a good windy day and let the sun shine upon it if possible. If company is expected thoroughly air and dry the bed and warm the room with an oil stove if there is no other means of heating.

Baked Sweetbreads.

Soak three large sweetbreads one hour in warm water, then simmer in boiling water ten minutes, drain and carefully remove the skin. Brush over with beaten egg, dredge with breadcrumbs, dip in melted butter, place in a dripping pan and bake forty-five minutes. Serve on squares of toast with brown gravy.

A Plain but Tasteful Shirt Waist.

An eminently useful shirt is shown in the design. It is of dark brown delaine, pin spotted with white, its severity tastefully tempered by an inset line of lace down the center front, narrowly strapped with the delaine, and the whole completed by a cravat of brown silk and white lawn turnover collar.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Julius Johnson, the contractor, has issued calendars adorned with pictures of houses which he has built.

The insurance companies for which James F. Burke is agents have issued calendars which business men appreciate.

The City Council will hold forth again next Tuesday evening, and the chances are that it will be the last meeting of the Council of 1904.

Up to date Inspector McKay, and and Officer Hanson and Officer Goodhue are high liners for the prizes of $15, $10, and $5, offered by Mayor Bryant for the best shots.

Local store keepers who depend on electric lights were hot under the collar last evening, their busiest night of the year, when the lights went back on them for nearly an hour.

The Chromatic club concert is to be given at the Tuilleries, Boston, next Friday morni g, from eleven to twelve, and promises to be a particularly interesting one to music lovers.

Roderick McDonald of Garfield street, who has been in poor health for a year or more, passed away last night. He was in his 57th year. Clan McGregor will attend the funeral services on Monday afternoon.

T. L. Williams has recently enlarged his salesroom, and rearranged his testing room and work shop so as to make a great improvement. He reports a large Christmas sale of watches, rings, silver ware and souvenirs.

There was quite a sudden change in the temperature this morning. The weather was mild all night but after 7 o'clock this morning the wind changed to the north-east and the mercury fell rapidly, and at 8.30 had reached a freezing point.

Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock the W. C. T. U. will be held with Mrs. S. F. Barker, Farrington street. The programe for the afternoon will be a sketch of the life of Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Union Signal and Our Message, by Mrs. E. A. Sprague.

Some Braintree ladies had a queer experience in Quincy last Tuesday afternoon. They attended a club meeting and after it was over stood on the corner of Hancock and School streets waiting for a Braintree car. It become so cold they went into a nearby drug store to wait. Much to their surprise they were orderded out and told that it was not a public waiting room. Rather discourteous treatment and hardly conducive to trade getting.

The First church people seem to be having a busy season just now, with the poor children's Christmas festival yesterday afternoon, the Sunday school festival tonight, and special Christmas vesper service tomorrow besides the regular church services. Next week Wednesday night the Young People's Religious union give an entertainment in the chapel; Thursday night the organ committee has a recital in the chapel and on Friday night occurs the regular Social club entertainment.

BRAINTREE.

The South Braintree Fire Department met in their hall last Monday evening. The gentlemen received their yearly renumeration at this time.

The members of the South M. E. church are arranging to have the Christmas tree for the children in the church tonight, and will give the usual Christmas concert Sunday afternoon at five o'clock.

Next Tuesday evening the annual election of officers of Puritan lodge will take place. Brothers will please bear this in mind.

Mr. W. C. Fitton, foreman of the shipping department of the D. B. Closson factory, seriously sprained his ankle last Tuesday and has since been confined to his home in North Easton.

The bowling tournament between Puritan lodge and Wildey lodge of South Weymouth was held on the alleys of the Norfolk club with the following score: Wildey lodge, 1196; Puritan lodge, 1137. The boys returned in good spirits having enjoyed a very pleasant evening. A special feature of the game was three spares by brother Arthur David, a new member of the team. Next week the Mt. Wollaston lodge will play Puritan odge in the Kenwood alleys.

The concert given by the Methodist Sunday school will be held at five o'clock, for the benefit of the youngest children, and also to enable all who wish to attend the Stoughton Musical in Town hall later in the evening.

Mr. M. W. Wilkins of California, national organizer of the socialist party is to speak in Grand Army hall, Thursday evening, Dec. 29. Mr. Wilkins has a distinctively clear view of the socialist philosophy and is a powerful and lucid speaker. Both men and women should not fail to hear him.

Services at the St. Francis church Christmas day are as follows: Masses will be celebrated at 7, 8:20 and high mass at 10:20 A. M. Rosewig's Mass in F will be sung by the choir under the direction of Mary F. Shay. The soloists are Gertrude A. Berry, Winfred G. Shay, Charlotte Packard, J. Edwin Dee and Lucian Gaudreau.

Carlton Beal, who is attending school at Ashburnham, is spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Beal of Tremont street.

The Christmas tree and entertainment of the Baptist church will be held Saturday evening at 7.30. Everybody is welcome. Santa Claus is expected with his whiskers, fun, toys, good cheer and presents for all. A good time expected.

Tuesday evening there was a meeting held in Pythian hall for those interested in the old Burial ground. It was voted that all desecration of the trees therein should be stopped until a plan should be drawn up and presented to the people for their action.

The annual Christmas concert of the Union Church Sabbath school will be given next Sunday, Dec. 25th, at 4 P. M.

The remains of Caleb Henry Hayden were brought to his home on West street on Wednesday last from the Massachusetts General hospital where he was taken eight weeks ago for an operation for appendicitis. He recovered from the operation and was about to be taken home when he was suddenly taken worse and finally died of blood poisoning on Tuesday, Dec. 20. Mr. Hayden was 65 years of age and was twice married. He leaves a widow and five children, one a daughter by his first wife and two daughters and two sons by his second wife. Four brothers and two sisters also survive him. The funeral was held from his late home on Thursday, Rev. Albert E. Legg officiating. Interment was at Randolph.

Christmas exercises were held in the Jonas Perkins hall Friday morning; with a tree for the small grades. Grades five and six enjoyed a Christmas grab box in their room.

The annual Christmas festivities of the Union church were held in the church vestry Friday evening, when a Christmas supper was served. This afternoon the kindergarten and small grades will be entertained by games and a dainty lunch which has been provided.

The Jonas Perkins School Association held its regular meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Charles O. Miller, Liberty street. At the close of the business meeting, a half hour was devoted to reading. The company was then invited to the dining room where a dainty lunch was served. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. B. L. Baker, Jan. 4th.

The St. Francis Sunday school will hold their Christmas tree exercises in the basement of the church on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

An informal reception was tendered Mr. Severance, the retiring principal, and Miss Dearborn, the retiring assistant teacher, of the High school at the school hall on Thursday evening.

The increasing demands for work room at South Braintree post office, caused by more patrons and increase of mail service, has reached a climax on account of free delivery. As soon as better accommodations can be obtained the office will be relocated. Who will build a substantial and attractive two story block?

At the monthly meeting of the Penniman School association Wednesday evening Selectman Richard Cunningham of Wellesley, president of the Wellesley club, gave an informal address on "Town Affairs." Having served the town twelve years he has acquired considerable knowledge of town affairs and through his personal efforts Wellesley has constantly improved its highways playgrounds for the children, the conditions of the town poor and has made, many changes which have met the approval of the voters. Mr. Cunningham says Wellesley is fortunate in being honored as the home of Wellesley college and several noted private schools but is unfortunate in their being exempt from taxes

Not only the people of the Methodist church, but the whole community, will deeply regret the removal of Rev. A. E. Legg from South Braintree to St. Paul's church, Providence, R. I.

TODAY'S COURT.

John E. Orcutt was sent to the State farm for drunkenness at Weymouth.

Charles Shaughenessy was arraigned for drunkenness and for creating a disturbance on the 10.50 train from Boston. He was fined $15 for creating a disturbance on the cars. The complaint for drunkenness was placed on file.

Frank W. Brown was arraigned upon three complaints for violation of the liquor law a Cohasset. He pleaded guilty on one of the complaints, which was placed on file, and the others were dismissed.

RULES FOR SPARKING.

Cincinnati Priest Advises Couples to Shun Dark Corners.

The Rev. Father Angelo Rauber of Cincinnati, who recently delivered at St. Xavier's academy in Latrobe, Pa., a lecture on courtship, said:

"Courtship is a serious preparation for the responsibilities of marriage. It should not continue longer than seven or eight months. It is the duty of mothers to ascertain the intentions of young men.

"The girl of today has so much freedom that there is constant danger. The family should not desert the parlor when the young man calls nor permit of dark corners or dim parlors. The hours should be from half past 8 o'clock to half past 10 o'clock, no longer, and with no additional half hours in which to say goodby.

"Neither should young admirers sit close on the sofas, so engrossed in their happiness that they forget the flight of time or hold hands. The parents should be present during the young man's call.

"Avoid late hours and buggy rides. Courtship is for the purpose of learning the disposition and qualities of the one you intend to marry. The young woman should find out if her suitor drinks or gambles and whether he is a gentleman. And as the young man seeks to learn her temper and conduct he should see her at her home."

A $10,000 Device In a Dream.

Andrew Sable, an employee of the Keystone Flour mill at Nanticoke, Pa., had a dream recently which outlined to him a contrivance for separating foreign substances from grain just before it was ground, says the New York Globe. He went to work on the invention, completed it and some weeks ago received a patent for it. He has received a letter from a Massachusetts firm offering him $10,000 for his machine.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Monday, Dec. 26, the doors of Keith's theatre will open at 11 A. M., two hours earlier than usual, as is customary on holidays. Special preparations have been made for the entertainment of all patrons, particularly the Juveniles. The latter will find in the "red room," in the rear of the orchestra floor, and in the balcony lobbies, handsomely decorated Christmas trees, from which presents are to be distributed to the little folks, a doll to the girls and a mechanical toy to the boys. Included in the stage entertainment will be Woodford's trained animals, among them a funny monkey and the smallest horse in the world. The diminutive equine will be placed on a table in the lobby for the children to admire at their leisure, before and after his performance on the stage. A pantomimic comedy, "High Jinks," will be one of the principal offerings of the program. It will be taken part in by Bedini and Arthur, Ferguson and Mack, Coture and Gillett, and other noted variety entertainers. Juan Caicedo, the noted slack wire artist; Howard and Bland, in a new comedy sketch; Cooper and Robinson, "real coon" comedians and singers; Paul Barnes, monologue comedian and parody singer, and Walveno Brothers, acrobats and equilibrists, will also contribute pleasing specialties. New pictures will be shown in the biograph.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

In compliance with the large number of votes cast, in the recent Castle Square Theatre contest regarding plays to be produced there, for a revival of "Under Two Flags" this dramatization of Ouida's famous novel will make next week's attraction at this play house It is designed to make this revival a notable one in the matters of scenic and costume effects and to present the series of brilliant stage pictures called for by the story with even more beauty and elaboration than characterized either of the earlier presentations of the play at this theatre. "Under Two Flags" is announced for only a single week and the usual free distribution of souvenir boxes of choice chocolate bonbons will be made at the Monday matinee.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

N. C. Goodwin, to whom the American stage is indebted for many character creations, is to give us another and one that promises to link his name with a conception that will live as long as the American stage shall exist. This creation is that of an up-to-the-minute man of affairs who is alert, keen witted, quick to act, yet withal kind, charitable and forgiving and to whom the "Golden Ruse" is no stranger. The play in which this conception is to be enacted is termed "The Usurper" and was written for Mr. Goodwin by I. N. Morris. Its story is concise, its comedy perfect and said to be replete with the usual Goodwinesque flashes of genius its pathos touching yet not overdrawn and its dialogue brisk, crisp, bright and to the point. Its theme is love; its motive the desire of an American business man to win the hand of a woman whom he had met when both were young and fancy free. The locale is laid in England, yet the various parts are evenly divided between American and English roles. The players who will support Mr Goodwin are competent artists and the production will be on a scale of lavish refinement that is seldom equalled. As the engagement is only for two weeks it behooves all those who desire to see Mr. Goodwin in his new play to make their reservations and holdings at once. The Colonial Theatre will be the place of its presentation and the date set is Monday, Dec. 26, commencing with a Christmas matinee.

—Congress adjourned on Wednesday over the holidays to Jan. 4.

XMAS FESTIVALS.

Originality Displayed in Many Churches.

And the Children Were Delighted.

Christmas Music and Concerts on Sunday.

That it is possible to arrange something new in the line of Christmas festivals was shown in several of the Quincy churches this year. The programs were unique and there were many good times.

Advance notices of many of the festivals were given. Others are reported below:

UNITARIAN CHURCH.

The Sunday school of the First church had a grand time Saturday night. The children gathered in the church at 6.30, and for half an hour there was carol singing under the direction of Charles H. Johnson until 7 o'clock. At this hour the children marched into the chapel and there were many shouts of delight as their eyes beheld a Christmas tree in one corner, brilliantly illuminated with colored electric lights.

It was a little early however for Santa Claus to appear, and the curtain on the platform was rung up and a short play was given under the direction of Emery L. Crane.

The play was entitled "Santa Claus Home."

First their appeared the Fairy Queen who in turn introduced Mrs. Santa and little Santa. Following came the introduction of the various toys with which Santa's home is supposed to abound. The play was a pretty affair and was greatly enjoyed. Those to [illegible] were:

Mrs. Santa Claus,	Lela Smith
Little Santa Claus,	Albert Parker
Fairy Queen,	Gertrude Lovejoy
Rose,	Roberta Smith
Lily,	Marjorie Taylor
King Pin,	Donald Crane
Ninepins,	Kenneth Edwards, Philip Vollmer, Allen Miller, Eddie Stuart, Richard Crane, Chester Bennett, Livingstone Wright, Herbert Johnson, and William Edwards.
Billy Ball,	Herbert Dewhurst
Baby's Blocks,	Alice Arnold, Sybil Marsh, Dorothy Edwards, Dorothy Packard, Marion Edwards, and Ruth Packard.
Coon Doll,	Hazel Dewhurst
Sailor Doll,	Bruce Saville
French Doll,	Harriet Waldron
Jumping Jack,	Winslow Sears
Mechanical Toys,	Elliot Johnson Abbott Johnson
Jack in Box,	Jack Pfaffmann
Attendants,	Paul Blackmur Maurice Blackmur

No sooner had the play ended than there was jingling of bells and Saint Nick himself appeared.

There were presents for all including one for the pastor, Rev. E. C. Butler, and a purse of gold from the teachers and friends of the school for Superintendent Charles H. Johnson and a gift to Mr. Emery L. Crane in appreciation of his services in the Sunday school.

Many of the parents of the children were present to enjoy the festivities.

BETHANY CHURCH.

The cantata of "Robin's Specific" which was presented at the Christmas festival of the Bethany Sunday school on Saturday evening, proved cute and entertaining, much credit being due to Mrs. S. I. Wood, the chairman. In the cast were:

Santa Claus,	Mr. Archibald Parsons
Robin,	Dr. C. T. Sherman
Pretti Winks,	Miss Mila Bates
Titania (Queen of Fairies)	Little Dorothy Green
Gretchen,	Miss Margery Taber
Marie,	Miss B. Morrison
Alexander,	Henry Prescott
Lee Young,	Edgerton Parker
Tommy,	John Souter

AT WOLLASTON.

Christmas was observed at the Wollaston Unitarian church with a tree and short entertainment, Saturday evening. Presents for the Sunday School were distributed by Jack Simmons as Santa Claus.

At the Wollaston Congregational church there was a tree Monday afternoon. An entertainment consisting of whistling, impersonation, and piano solos, was given by a company including Miss Fish, Mr. Eaton and Miss Fenton.

There was a concert Saturday afternoon at the Park and Downs church. Ice cream and cake were served to the Sunday school, and a generous contribution of food and supplies, etc., was collected for the Fall River families.

A Christmas vesper service was held at the Wollaston Baptist church Sunday afternoon at four. The regular choir was augumented by Miss Thomas as violinist, and Dr. Florence Olney as pianist. Rev. Mr. Webber gave an interesting talk on the lessons of the day. After the regular service a baptismal service was held and Miss Bessie Drew and Mr. Kenneth Albee were received into the church.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

The Sunday school of the Swedish Lutheran church held its Christmas festival Sunday evening and had a grand time. There was singing of Christmas carols following which each child was presented with a gift from one of the two heavily laden trees.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN.

The United Presbyterian Sabbath School of Fort Square, had their treat and entertainment Monday evening. It was largely attended by the parents and friends of the school. The large tree looked fine. The program was of a fine order and the children all did well. Miss Gunns class, who performed the "Morning Joy" in beautiful gowns, and the rendering of the dialogue by a number of others, entitled "The Christmas Pudding," are entitled to special mention.

The Junior choir illicited applause for the rendering of several selections.

The pastor was not forgotten either for at the close he was handed a pocketbook lined with greenbacks, a gift from the congregation.

The evening's entertainment was one of the best the school has ever given.

Carols Sung at Hospital.

Saturday afternoon shortly before sunset the boys of the surpliced choir of St. Chrysostoms church, accompanied by the rector, Rev. Carleton P. Mills, and Miss Helen Sibley, visited the City Hospital and sang a number of Christmas carols. The singing was greatly appreciated by the unfortunates who were unable by illness to spend the holiday at their home. Sunday many remembrances for the patients were received and distributed.

Christmas Sing.

The annual Christmas sing of the Old Stoughton Musical society at Town Hall, Braintree, on Christmas night was largely attended and much enjoyed. Daniel H. Huxford, the editor of the Randolph Register, presided. Hon. James T. Stevens of Braintree was elected president for the year 1905. The old and familiar tunes were sung with enthusiam and interest.

West Quincy Cars.

On and after Wednesday through cars to Neponset will be discontinued on the East Milton and West Quincy line, City Square being the terminus as formerly. The company say that owing to the construction of the new bridge over the railroad track near the Atlantic depot, there has been much confusion of cars and many unavoidable delays. It has therefore been determined to discontinue this through line of cars to Neponset until such time as uninterrupted traffic can be resumed.

New Organ.

Through the efforts of Rev. Emory L. Bradford, the pastor, $3500 have been quietly raised for a new organ for the Congregational church at East Weymouth. Half the sum was given by Andrew Carnegie, and generous sums by Edwin Clapp of Weymouth and Mr. Hackett of New York.

TOYS FOR CLUB MEN

The Granite City Club Have a Christmas Tree.

A Christmas tree and distribution of presents was one of the features provided by the entertainment committee of the Granite City club Saturday evening for the club members.

When the members arrived at the club rooms they saw a mysterious looking draped object in one corner of the card room.

From beneath the folds of the drapery toys could be seen, and the members were not long in guessing that a Christmas tree was on tap.

Shortly after 10 o'clock long English clay pipes were passed, and as the smoke from the burning tobacco began to roll upward, Chairman McConnell pulled aside the drapery and disclosed to view a handsomely decorated tree.

From the branches of the tree there were suspended tin horns, jumping jacks, baby go-carts, rubber and china dolls, jack in the box and other like toys.

J. C. Morse officiated as master of ceremonies, and Walter McConnell as Santa. Some of the gifts were timely hits and caused much laughter and good natured bantering. A few made speeches at receiving their gifts.

Aside from the tree there was a lunch. A general good time was enjoyed by all and the committee were assured of their reelection next April.

BRUTAL ASSAULT.

Lone Young Woman Attacked by Man on Garfield Street.

Miss Frederica Sallen of Parker street was brutally assaulted by some person unknown about 10 o'clock Sunday evening. Miss Sallen was returning home through Garfield street. When near the stone sheds of Joss Brothers a man came up behind her and kicked her heel. She turned to see who it was when the fellow struck her a savage blow in the face, knocking her down.

Her cries for help were heard by Mr. Joss who ran out to her assistance. As he appeared the fellow ran away.

Miss Sallen was taken into the residence of Mr. Joss where she was attended by Dr. McLennan.

The girl could give the police but little description of the fellow, other than that he was of medium height and wore a black derby hat and a gray overcoat.

ANOTHER VETO.

City Council Will Try to Clear Docket of 1904.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held this evening. The chances are that it will be the last meeting of the City Council of 1904.

Mayor Bryant will return without his approval the order giving the firemen a day off at the end of every eight days.

The Finance committee will report upon a number of orders now before them, and reports may also be expected from the Committee on Streets and Ordinances.

HIS FIRST MASS.

Fr. William T. Walsh Now a Paulist Missionary.

Christmas day was an occasion of more than ordinary interest and joy for the parishioners of St. John's church, says the Quincy correspondent of the Globe, for at the last mass of the day they saw Rev. Fr. William T. Walsh CSP, a well-known and highly esteemed young man of the parish, celebrate his first public mass in the church in which he was baptised and which he has served since his youth.

The main body of the church as well as the altar, was decked with a profusion of greenery, while the main and side altars were adorned with cut flowers and candles. The choir was augmented by an orchestra, and Guilmants grand mass was sung under the direction of Miss Anastasia A. Hughes.

Rev. Fr. Walsh was assisted by Rev. Fr. Julian E. Johnstone deacon, Rev. Fr. John J. Casey subdeacon and Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, pastor of the church, master of ceremonies. The sermon was preached by Rev. Fr. Johnstone, who spoke of the young priest and the pleasure it gave the clergy of St. John's to welcome him home on such an occasion.

Rev. Fr. Coan also spoke a few words of welcome to Fr. Walsh. After the mass the altar railing was crowded for nearly an hour with those who sought the young priest's blessing. Rev. Fr. Walsh also celebrated the solemn high vesper service at night.

Rev. Fr. Walsh is the third priest that St. John's parish had given to the Paulist order within a period of five years. The others are Rev. William L. Sullivan, C. S. P., teacher of dogmatic theology at the Paulist house in Washington, and Rev. Michael J. Carey, C. S. P, now stationed in San Francisco. A brother of Rev. Fr. Carey, Daniel Charles Carey, is now studying for the order at the novitiate in Washington. All of these young men grew up together and from their boyhood were a credit to their families and their parish.

Rev. Fr. Walsh was born in Quincy 24 years ago and was educated in the Adams grammar school and the High school. At the High school he was noted as an athlete and stood at the top of the list in the estimation of the pupils of the school. Quiet and gentlemanly in bearing, he earned the respect of all with whom he came in contact and was easily the most popular student with other pupils and the faculty.

From the High school Rev. Fr. Walsh went to Alleghany college in Alleghany, Penn., and after completing his philosophical studies there entered St. John's seminary at Brighton for his theological studies. After being elevated to the rank of deacon there he went to the house of the Paulist order in Washington, where he studied a year, returning to Boston a week ago Friday to be ordained a priest in the cathedral of the Holy Cross, Boston.

Rev. Fr. Walsh and members of his family were the recipients of many felicitations during the day and he was showered with well wishes for a successful career in the missionary field he has chosen for his life work.

Christmas Wedding.

George J. Francis, selectman and business man of Durham, Conn., was married on the afternoon of Christmas day, to Miss Emma J. Fuller of West Quincy. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mayo Fuller, 66 Crescent street, in the presence of relatives and friends by the Rev. Mr. Martin, a former pastor of the Methodist church. The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of pearl gray lansdown, and was attended by her nieces, Miss Mildred and little Dorothy Fuller of East Milton, as maid of honor and flower-girl, and Master Theodore Marsters of Brookline as page. Mr. and Mrs. Francis will reside in Durham.

Christmas Fire.

The alarm from Box 62 at 12.45 this morning was for a slight fire in the building at 72 Hancock street, owned by Eliab Ramsdell. The building is occupied on the first floor by Mrs. Gardner as a variety store, and on the second floor by Capt. John F. McKenna of the Atlantic Combination company as a tenement.

The fire was in the parlor of McKenna's tenement. It was caused by the breaking of a grate in an open stove letting the hot coals into the ash pan. This became overheated and set fire to the woodwork beneath the stove. Quite a hole was burned in the floor. The fire was extinguished by a chemical stream.

Rev. and Mrs. Leon H. Austin were presented with a very substantial purse on Christmas eve, by their parishioners Mr. Austin is carrying on a great work at the point and his people are grateful for the effort being put forth.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ If a girl should happen to give a man a Christmas present that was both useful and ornamental, it is a sign that he should grab her before she is taken, as she is the only one of her kind in the world.—Rockland Star.

☞ With the Christmas idea everywhere is interwoven that of family, especially that of childhood. Christmas is a day devoted to home festivities in which the children have first place, and, by the Christ-spirited, to bringing somewhat of home cheer into the lives of the homeless.—The Union Signal.

☞ President Roosevelt is letting it be understood that he will veto an extravagant river and harbor bill. There are a good many minds about what is extravagant. Expenditures in the critic's own locality, for example, are usually wise and judicious.—New Bedford Standard.

ONE DAY'S PLEASURE

Many Even Missed That In Homes at Fall River

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 27.—Every effort was made by the Salvation Army, the Associated Charities and benevolent people from outside the city to give the families of the striking cotton mill employes of this city a joyous Christmas. Tons of food, warm clothing and goodies were distributed, yet the Salvation Army leaders say that there was much actual suffering in the city which they could not relieve.

The city was divided into districts and a systematic effort made to visit every family. Soup kitchens were open all day yesterday and bread and steaming broth were given in generous quantities. Numerous families received presents of fuel, while others were supplied with needed clothing. Three carloads came from Boston and materially assisted in the work of relief.

A large meeting was held in Salvation Army hall and addresses of encouragement were made by President Golden of the Textile Workers and Charles T. Sherer of Worcester, who has established many soup kitchens.

Dropped Dead While Pleading

Milford, Conn., Dec. 27.—Giovanni Lombardi of New Haven, editor of an Italian paper, fell dead of heart disease while calling at the home of Frank Partigliani in this town. Some years ago Partigliani, whose wife just died, allowed Lombardi the custody of his young daughter. The child remained with Lombardi until the Milford man married again and it was while Lombardi was pleading for the custody of the child again that he was stricken.

Young Bride a Suicide

Hartford, Dec. 27.—After three previous attempts to take her life, Mrs. Fred B. Baker, the wife of a teamster, died from the effects of arsenic, taken with suicidal intent. Friends of the dead woman say that she has been almost insane from despondency for the past few years and that her attempts at self-destruction were caused by her continued unhappiness. She was 22 years old and had been married about three weeks.

SHERIFF HELD UP

Chadwick Extradition Papers Were Defective

NOT HONORED BY ODELL

Ohio Officer Goes on to New York After Unsuccessful Mission at Albany--Says He Expects to Arrest the Doctor

Albany, Dec. 27.—Sheriff Barry of Cuyhoga county, O., who expects to arrest Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick, husband of Mrs. Chadwick, when he lands in New York, on the charge of forging the name of Andrew Carnegie, met a setback in his plans when he failed to obtain from Governor Odell the requisition papers necessary to permit the transportation of Chadwick to Ohio for trial.

Barry called at the executive chamber in the capitol, but was informed by Judge Joyce, the governor's pardon and requisition clerk, that his papers were defective in that they failed to prove that Chadwick was in the state of Ohio on March 5, 1903, when the alleged forgery was committed. Sheriff Barry decided not to try to correct his papers now, but to go on to New York and arrest Chadwick and arrange for his requisition afterwards.

Before leaving for New York Sunday Barry telegraphed to the executive department here asking that his papers be prepared so that there might be no delay upon his arrival on Monday. When the telegram was received Governor Odell was at his home in Newburgh and the message was given to his pardon clerk. Judge Joyce immediately telephoned the governor and received authority from him to deliver the desired warrant in case the applicant's papers were properly drawn up.

When the sheriff learned that his papers were defective there was at first some talk of his returning in person to Ohio for the purpose of getting the corrections. After further consultation with Joyce he concluded to telegraph to have the necessary affidavits prepared and sent to him in New York. He said that this was a purely formal matter, and that affidavits could be promptly obtained showing that Dr. Chadwick was in Ohio on or about March 5, 1903.

The Ohio sheriff left immediately afterward for New York, where he will wait for Dr. Chadwick's steamer. Before leaving, Sheriff Barry said that while he was disappointed at not obtaining the requisition warrant at this time the failure would not delay him to any appreciable extent.

Barry Not Disconcerted

New York, Dec. 27.—Sheriff Barry of Cleveland has reached New York from Albany and is at the Hoffman house, where he will remain until the arrival of the steamship Pretoria, which is bringing to this country Dr. Chadwick and his daughter, Miss Mary Chadwick. Barry was not disconcerted over his inability to obtain the requisition papers which would permit him to take Chadwick to Ohio. He said:

"I do not find any fault with Judge Joyce for declining to issue the requisition papers. I realize that it was necessary for him to act absolutely in accordance with his interpretation of the law. I decided that it would be better to have the matter straightened out in Cleveland, so I wired Prosecutor Keeler the facts in the case and came on to New York.

"Mr. Keeler has already forwarded to me an affidavit, giving the testimony before the grand jury tending to show that Dr. Chadwick was in Cuyhoga county, O., on March 5, 1903, upon which date the alleged crime was committed, and this affidavit will be in my hands tomorrow morning. With that in my possession, I anticipate no difficulty in getting the necessary papers."

Surprise to Keeler

Cleveland, Dec. 27.—County Prosecutor Keeler, when shown a dispatch stating that Sheriff Barry had been refused an extradition warrant for Dr. Chadwick, said:

"The papers which Sheriff Barry carried to Albany were in regular form and I cannot understand why the warrant requested has been refused. It is probably a mere technicality. However, owing to the differences in the laws of New York and Ohio." Mr. Keeler expressed the belief that the extradition warrant would be eventually granted by the New York authorities.

Snug Harbor Loses Its Chapel

New York, Dec. 27.—The beautiful chapel at Sailors' Snug Harbor, a home for indigent seamen at New Brighton, S. I., was gutted by fire yesterday, causing a loss of $75,000. The stone walls were left standing and the chapel will be rebuilt. The chapel was a replica of St. Paul's, London, and it contained one of the finest and most expensive organs in the United States. The chapel was noted also for the beauty of its stained glass windows.

Bulgaria Disavows Blame

Sofia, Dec. 27.—Reports from Adrianople indicate a recrudescence of persecution excesses by the Turks against the Bulgarians. The Bulgarian government has requested that the foreign representatives communicate with their respective governments, calling attention to the possible consequences, and notifying them that Bulgaria declines to accept the responsibility.

THE REAL TEST

Of Herpicide Is In Giving It a Thorough Trial.

There is only one test by which to judge of the efficiency of any article and that is by its ability to do that which it is intended to do. Many hair vigors may look nice and smell nice, but the point is—do they eradicate Dandruff and stop falling hair?

No, they do not, but Herpicide does, because it goes to the root of the evil and kills the germ that attacks the papilla from whence the hair gets its life.

Letters from prominent people everywhere are daily proving that Newbro's Herpicide stands the "test of use."

It is a delightful dressing, clear, pure and free from oil or grease.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

A New England Story.

The Pierces all seem to have the knack of writing stories and poetry and the Patriot has published articles from the pens of T. Dexter Pierce and his daughter, Mrs. James H. Bell. With the Christmas season has come a new book written by another member of the family, Dexter Vinton Pierce who now resides at Wilton, N. H. [illegible] Mr. Pierce says in the preface to offering this story I wish to impress on the minds of the readers that this is a simple country story—a story of rural New England. The characters are taken from life—the auction scene, country hotel, general store and town meeting are not overdrawn." Dr. Abbott in a letter to the author says it "is clean and sweet, mirthful and pathetic, fresh and savory and as wholesome as the New Hampshire hills amidst which the scenes are cast.

Quietus Put on Englishman

Salem, Mass., Dec. 27.—Jimmy Walsh of Boston knocked out Harry Brodigan of London in the first round yesterday before the Apollo Athletic club. The pair seemed on even terms for a couple of minutes, when Walsh broke loose and swung a terrific right-hander to Brodigan's jaw. The Englishman went down like a piece of wood after two minutes and 30 seconds of actual fighting.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

THE CZAR'S UKASE

Deals With Reforms Proposed by Zemstvo Congress

NO SPECIFIC PLEDGES

Promises That Each Subject Shall Be Referred to Council of Ministers With Orders to Report on Measures of Relief

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—An imperial ukase issued last night makes liberal promises under a number of heads. It promises a full and equal enforcement of existing laws; assures the zemstvo of the fullest possible measures of self-government and the enforcement of the laws now existing in their behalf; promises workingmen insurance; extends the liberty of the press and promises a full legal trial of all persons accused.

The imperial decree, which is entitled, "A Scheme for the Improvement of the Administration of the State," is addressed to the senate and says:

"Placing in the forefront of our care, thought for the best ordering of the life of the most numerous of our estates, the peasant population, we may remark that this matter is already under examination.

"Surveying the wide domain of the people's uttermost needs, we regard as urgent in the interest of the legal strengthening of civic and public life:

"First. The adoption of effective measures for safeguarding the law in its full force as the most important pillar of the throne of the autocratic empire in order that its inviolable fulfillment for all alike shall be regarded as the first duty by all the authorities; and in all places subject to us, that its non-fulfillment shall inevitably bring with it legal responsibility for every arbitrary act, and that persons who have suffered wrong by such acts shall be enabled to secure legal redress.

"Second. That local and municipal institutions should be given as wide scope as possible in the administration of various matters affecting local welfare, and that they should have conferred upon them the necessary independence, within legal limitations, and that representatives of all sections of the population interested in local matters should be called upon, under equable conditions, to take part in these institutions, with a view to the completest satisfaction possible of their requests; district institutions hitherto existing, there should also be established in close connection with them public institutions for the administration of local affairs in localities of smaller extent.

"Third. That in order to secure equality of persons before the law, steps should be taken to bring about the necessary unification of judicial procedure through the empire, and to assure independence of the courts.

"Fourth. That for the further development of the measures introduced by us for the protection of workmen in factories, workshops and commercial establishments, attention is to be given to the question of the introduction of state insurance for workmen."

"Fifth. That there should be a revision of the exceptional laws decreed at the time of an unparalleled outbreak of criminal activity on the part of enemies of public order and the application of which was attended with a grave extension of the discretionary power of the administrative authorities; and that at the same time steps should be taken for circumscribing their application within the narrowest possible limits and for assuring that limitation of the rights of private persons involved in that application shall only be permitted in cases where the actual safety of the state is threatened.

"Sixth. That in confirmation of my desire for the protection by the fundamental laws of the empire of tolerance in matters of faith, the laws dealing with the rights of communities and persons belonging to heretodox and non-Christian confessions should be submitted to revision; and that, independently of this, measures should be taken for the removal of all limitations on the exercise of their religions not directly mentioned in the law.

"Seventh. That there should be such revision of existing ordinances limiting the rights of foreigners and measures in certain territories of the empire that in future there shall remain only such of them as are required by the present interests of the empire and the manifest needs of the Russian people.

"Eighth. That all unnecessary restrictions should be removed from the existing press laws, and that printed speech should be placed within clearly defined legal limits; that the native press, in accordance with the progress of education and the importance thereby accruing to it, should be left to the possibility of worthily fulfilling its high calling, namely, to be the true interpreters of reasonable strivings for Russia's advantage.

"With reference to all the above-mentioned subjects the council of ministers has to examine the best way of giving effect to our views and to submit to us at the earliest possible date its decisions as to the farther shape of the above-mentioned measures in their prescribed order. The committee has also to report to us as to the subsequent progress of the elaboration of the matters mentioned."

CONFIRMED BY WRIGHT

Pulajanes Attacked and Massacred Scouts In Philippines

Washington, Dec. 27.—Secretary Taft has received a cable message from Governor Wright at Manila in response to his inquiry in regard to the recent uprising of the Pulajanes at Dolores, Samar. Wright's message says:

"I regret to say that General Corbin's report of attack on and loss of detachments of scouts at Oras and Dolores is correct. Pulajanes have of late left west and north sides of Samar and become active on east coast, which is practically without harbor and very difficult of access during prevalence of the existing monsoon.

"Orders were given some time since to strengthen all detachments on the east coast, but unfortunately this was delayed by wreck and loss of coast guard boat carrying 100 or more of the constabulary. The men were saved, but the delay in sending another coast guard boat to the rescue resulted in leaving these small detachments at Oras and Dolores [illegible] and the consequent loss.

"All east coast stations have been heavily reinforced and we are still sending men in by my direction. General Allen (chief of constabulary) left here (Manila) two weeks since to take personal charge of affairs in Samar. I am still further reinforcing him with constabulary and am consulting with General Corbin, who, if necessary, will aid us with troops."

Bullets Whizzed Into Church

Nanceville, Ala., Dec. 27.—While a negro congregation was holding a Christmas celebration in a church at Stouts Mountain, a mining camp near here, a volley of shots was fired into the church from the outside. Rev. Clay, the pastor, was shot through the hip and will die. Two other men were probably fatally wounded. The other negroes hurried out of the building and ran in every direction. Later the dead body of Henry Brett, a white miner, was found near the church with a revolver lying nearby. It is supposed he was a member of the shooting party and was accidentally killed by one of his companions. John Brett, a brother of the dead man, and Ten Blackwell, both white miners, have been arrested in connection with the affair.

Excited Crowd After Negroes

New York, Dec. 27.—Four negroes who were arrested in North Plainfield, N. J., after stabbing one officer and injuring others, were marched from the police station to the depot through the streets, followed by a crowd of nearly 1000 people, who menaced the prisoners. Police reserves were called out and the negroes were safely escorted to the train and taken to Plainfield jail.

Suicide Follows Business Reverses

New York, Dec. 27.—Made desperate by the failure of the American Fuel corporation of which he was the secretary, George S. Evans, a broker and promoter, ended his life in a hotel in Jersey City by shooting in the head. When the company of which he was secretary went out of business, it is said to have suffered heavy financial losses, and since then had been despondent.

Dreyfus Trial Far Off

Paris, Dec. 27.—The attorney general's statement of the Dreyfus case, which, it is believed, will demand the cancellation of the Rennes judgment, without indicating further steps, will not be ready before the end of January. This means that a retrial of Dreyfus before the full supreme court of appeals cannot occur before May.

Hurt Regicides' Feelings

Belgrade, Dec. 27.—The newspaper Oppositia came out yesterday with an editorial vigorously demanding that the regicides of King Alexander and Queen Draga be executed, as were the murderers of Prince Michael in 1868. The paper was promptly confiscated. Its editor writes articles from the safe vantage point of Zemlin, Hungary.

New System of Telegraphy

Rome, Dec. 27.—Experiments with the Artons system of radio-telegraphy have been made between Rome and Sardinia, resulting in a successful demonstration of the inventor's claim that an electro-magnetic wave message transmitted by this system cannot be diverted from the point for which it is intended.

Political Strife In Colombia

Washington, Dec. 27.—Mr. Russell, the American minister at Bogota, Colombia, reports the arrest in Bogota of three opposition members of the lower house of the last congress for circulating publications against the government.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Much colder tomorrow afternoon.

Miss Sadie Thomas is confined to her home on Granite street by sickness.

Mrs. Poland will hold a whist party at Norfolk Downs on Friday evening.

Miss Julia E. Underwood is the guest of her sister at West Lynn during the holidays.

Mrs. Kate A. Hayden is confined to her home at Brewer's corner with rheumatism.

Mrs. Jennie Holton of Edwards street will entertain the Brownie Whist club tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Beatrice Porterfield will give a matinee whist at her home on Granite street on Thursday afternoon.

On Christmas day this year there was good sleighing. It was the fifth "white" Christmas in twenty years.

Mrs. Pauline Bates, after several weeks illness at the City Hospital has been removed to her home on Water street.

The engagement is announced of Miss Gertrude Barnicoat of South Quincy and Mr. L. Thurlow Torrey of South Braintree

Thomas C. Hewson has returned to his home on Newcomb place, after a two weeks' pleasant gunning trip at La Grange, Maine.

The Congregational club of Wollaston will meet Tuesday evening at 7.45 o'clock Rev. A. C. White of Haverhill willgive a reading.

The Ladies' Benevolent society of the Wollaston Congregational church will meet with Mrs. Tobey, Lincoln avenue, Wednesday at 2.30.

Mrs. C. E. Snow of Sargents' lane, Quincy Neck, who underwent an operation at the City Hospital last week is reported comfortable.

The Brownie Whist Club will attend the Castle Square Theatre on Saturday afternoon, after which they will enjoy a dinner at the Adams house.

Mrs. Emma E. Marnock has been confined to her home on Bennington street the past two weeks, suffering from injuries caused by falling down stairs.

Several men from one of the boarding houses on East Howard street were obliged to pass Christmas eve, at the police station. They had spent most of the day in disturbing other occupants of the house, as well as the neighbors.

Frederic Allison Tupper, formerly master of the Quincy High school, contributed to the Sunday Globe symposium on the subject—"What is the moral influence on the child mind of the idea of Santa Claus?" He says it is an aid to imagination.

"Our illustrated magazine," is the title of a rather unique entertainment to be given tomorrow night at First Church chapel by the Young People's Religious union for the benefit of their treasury. The tickets are at a reasonable price and a large audience is expected.

Mr. J. W. Hill, a well known resident of Norfolk Downs, died Monday at the Homoeopathic Hospital, Boston. Mr. Hill was a carriage builder and carried on business in Boston. He was a member of the Squantum Yacht club, and was chairman of the House Committee. He leaves a widow and three children.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

B. F. Sturtevant of Washington street spent Christmas at his home in Halifax.

The engagement is announced of Miss Amanda Carlson and Mr. Carl Ragnar Wallin.

People who were obliged to be out today needed to have spikes to keep from falling.

"Our Illustrated Magazine" will be the attraction at the Unitarian chapel tomorrow evening.

Many of the men from the shipyard spent Christmas at their homes in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and other distant places.

The reading club of the Wollaston Congregational church will meet at the parsonage, Friday at 2.30 to begin the study of Japan.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Sherburne of South street entertained Miss Anna Starbuck and Mrs. Burgess of Bourne, Mass., over the holidays.

If everybody in Quincy had his pound of turkey at Christmas it took over fifteen tons to go around. The City Square markets sold over a ton each.

Supt. Sherburne of the Washington Street Congregational Sunday school was greatly surprised Saturday evening when he was presented with a Morris chair, as a Christmas gift from his teachers and scholars.

There were an unusual large number of Christmas trees in the homes throughout the city, very prettily decorated, gifts but with ornamen... also decorated their windows.

A Christm... Mr. and Mr... Federal ave... friends. Th... the recipients of several beautiful presents, and the afternoon and evening were spent pleasantly in the playing of whist and other games. The first prize in whist was awarded to Miss Arabella Macdougall and the second to Alexander Phillips. "Consolation prizes" were given Miss Emma Bertram and John McLennan.

TODAY'S COURT.

Thirteen drunks, twelve men and one woman, were lined up before Judge Cook in the district court this morning the product of the Christmas festivities in the last twenty hours. Of the number eleven were arrested in Quincy. Judge Cook having in mind that Monday was a holiday released most of the drunks without arraignment. The other cases were disposed of as follows:

Annie Arthurs was arraigned for drunkenness at Braintree, Case continued until Dec. 30.

John E. Devine was arraigned for assault on William G. Dore at Randolph. He was fined $15 and put under $500 bonds to keep the peace for six months.

Martin Frazier was arraigned for felonious assault on Nellie DeYoung at Quincy. He was held in $2000 for the grand jury.

James Murphy, who was arrested at Milton for drunkenness, and was admitted to bail, failed to answer when his name was called and he was defaulted.

Driven Ashore In Storm

Glace Bay, N. S., Dec. 27.—As the result of a storm on the Cape Breton coast, the British schooner Bobs was driven ashore near here and will in all likelihood become a total wreck. The vessel left Halifax 10 days ago with 700 bags of feed for North Sydney.

EFFECTUAL MASKING

Port Arthur the Strongest Fortress Ever Attacked

FALL MAY BE FAR AWAY

Japanese Attack on Northern Defenses Repulsed With Heavy Loss In] Men and Guns--Russian Artillery Worked Havoc

London, Dec. 27.—Foreign correspondents from Port Arthur declare that the fortress is the strongest that ever was attacked and compare it to six Sevastopols, all situated on hills arranged in mutually supporting groups, connected by tramways and telephones and backed by a mass of wall masking the movements of the troops from one another. They consider that no other army in the world could have done what the Japanese have accomplish, but deprecate as over-sanguine the idea of its immediate capture.

The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Chefoo, in a dispatch dated Dec. 26, says:

"A messenger from Port Arthur describes a Japanese attack on the evening of Dec. 22, with a light column of 5000 and many machine guns on the northern defenses. They dashed along the railway, carried trench after trench, and succeeded in reaching the water course beneath Payuisean mountain, whence the Russian artillery worked terrible execution.

"A fierce bayonet fight occurred at midnight. A strong Russian force advancing eastward of Payuisean mountain threatened the retreat of the Japanese, who, after a desperate struggle, retired to the north, leaving several machine guns, 300 rifles and 50 prisoners. It is estimated that they lost 600, killed. The Japanese halted near the cemetery and, finding that both their flanks had carried all the works forming the outlying range of the main forts, they entrenched on small hills near Este mountain under a severe enfilading fire, which caused them heavy losses."

The Daily Mail's correspondent at Tokio cables as follows:

"On Dec. 19 the Japanese signalled the Russian hospital ships protecting the destroyers in the roadstead of Port Arthur to change their berth, and the Russians requested a respite of six hours, which meant giving the destroyers the benefit of ... The sequel is not known.

... which have cut off the Russian supply bases from the main force."

Mobilization Disorders

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—While the new mobilization is proceeding quietly in most places, disorders are reported to have occurred in Poland. One colonel was killed and a gendarme wounded at Razon. There has also been considerable rioting at Bakhout, where 6000 conscripts pillaged houses and fruit stalls. No one, however, was killed.

Moscow University Closed

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—The authorities have closed Moscow university until Feb. 1, owing to the recent student disturbances. During the riots at Razon two railway bridges were blown up and at Chenstohovo an attempt was made to dynamite the statue of Alexander II., but only the steps were injured.

Have Been on Fighting Line

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—Lieutenant Colonel Schuyler and Captain Reichmann, United States military attaches with General Kuropatkin's army, have arrived here from Mukden. They will leave immediately for Washington. Both officers have seen much fighting.

Steamer In Dangerous Position

New York, Dec. 27.—The British steamship Drumelzier, which went ashore on the point of Fire Island bar Sunday night in a snowstorm, is still hard aground. The vessel left New York Sunday, bound for Swansea and Havre, and when she struck was many miles out of her course. Wreckers are prepared to take off the steamer's crew if necessary.

Slaughter Followed Dance

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 27.—As a result of a man dancing with another man's girl at a Christmas celebration without asking his permission, four men were killed and two were seriously injured at Grangers. The sheriff and a number of deputies arrived on the scene a few minutes after the cessation of hostilities, but so far no arrests have been made.

Five Perished In Flames

Oldtown, Md., Dec. 27.—Mack Nimarick, his wife and child and Anna and Massaun Cole, Namarick's sisters-in law, all Slavs, were burned to death in a shanty in which 50 laborers employed on the Wabash railroad were housed. Foul play is suspected by the police, as Nimarick is said to have had a considerable sum of money on his person.

Was Infatuated With Aunt

Port Huron, Mich., Dec. 27.—George Bearss was arrested at Flint and confessed, Sheriff Davidson says, to the murder of his aunt, Mrs. Abel Brown, on her farm last Friday. Mrs. Brown's head was crushed and she was stabbed several times. The officers say that Bearss said he was infatuated with his aunt.

STRUCK A HOG TRAIN

Engine of Passenger Train Went Down an Embankment

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 27.—The Boston and Albany passenger train, known as the "Governor's train," was wrecked near Smith's crossing by colliding with the rear end of a hog train which was running ahead of it and which had stopped to remedy a breakdown to the engine. The engine of the passenger train went down a steep embankment, overturned and was demolished, carrying Engineer Merritt and Fireman Wheeler with it, the former crawling from the wrecked cab badly injured. His legs were scalded and he received bad scalp wounds and internal injuries are feared. Fireman Wheeler was not much hurt, although buried by the coal of the tender. None of the passengers was seriously injured, though some were badly shaken up and many received bruises.

The caboose and two cars of the hog train were demolished and many hogs were killed, some being roasted in the wreckage, which took fire. Many others were liberated by the crash and took to the woods. Some injured animals dragged themselves about until killed by nearby farmers.

Explosion In Powder Works

Halifax, Dec. 27.—Part of the plant of the Acadia Powder company, located in Waverly, 10 miles from this city, was wrecked by an explosion of powder, which caused such a concussion that the shock was felt within a radius of 20 miles of the town and which struck Halifax with such force that many windows were broken and the residents became mildly panic-stricken. No one was injured or killed at the powder works. Many persons, however, were knocked down by the force of the explosion and either stunned or rendered unconscious. The property loss at the Acadia works is estimated at $25,000.

Bears In Inhabited Regions

San Francisco, Dec. 27.—Captain Thwing of the steamer Harold Dowar, which has returned from the eastern coast of Siberia, tells of an invasion of the cities and villages of Kamschatka by hundreds of starving Siberian bears. The ferocious animals driven from the mountains by hunger, for days kept the natives in a state of semi-siege. In one town 150 of the brutes were shot in a single day as they roamed among the houses in search of food.

Nan Patterson's Christmas

New York, Dec. 27.—Nan Patterson passed a gloomy Christmas in the Tombs. She had anticipated celebrating her release from imprisonment with her family in Washington and the fact that she will probably have to undergo ... this Christmas the ... dinner by one of her ... but she ate little and wept ... copiously.

Braved Ice Water For Baptism

Hanover, Pa., Dec. 27.—Twenty-one persons braved the freezing waters of Beaver creek, near East Berlin, and were baptized in the German Baptist faith by Rev. Orville V. Long and Rev. C. W. Baker. It was necessary to cut through nine inches of ice to perform the ceremony, which was witnessed by a sympathetic congregation.

Consul Won't Give Up Murderer

Shanghai, Dec. 27.—The Russian consul has made no reply to the demand of the taotai for the surrender of the sailor belonging to the Russian cruiser Askold, who murdered a Chinaman as the result of a dispute of payment for the hire of a jinricksha. The sailor is still on board the cruiser, where he was sent by the consul.

Alleged Slayer of Wife and Son

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 27.—James Linkous of Radford was taken to Roanoke last night to prevent lynching at the hands of infuriated citizens after a coroner's inquest had returned a verdict that he murdered his wife and adopted son and burned his home to remove evidence of the crime.

It was the coldest Christmas day for several years, the temperature on Sunday being below 20 for the 24 hours.

NOTICE TO PARENTS.

City Clerk's Office, Dec. 30, 1904.

THE Record of Births in any city or town is always more or less unsatisfactory, owing to the fact that the canvasser finds difficulty in getting the necessary information. Names and dates are frequently given incorrectly. The importance of accuracy is shown in many cases where there is a question of descent, or inheritance of property, or collection of life insurance or pensions. The City Clerk's copy of the record is accepted as conclusive evidence in a court of law. While great pains are taken by his office to have the records correct, experience shows that it is necessary that parents themselves should lend their assistance. In fact the law requires that parents shall give notice to the City Clerk of the birth of their children, and provides a penalty for neglect to give such notice for the space of 40 days.

It often happens that only children or servants are at home when the canvasser makes his call, and the answers to his questions are open to doubt. I therefore request all parents in whose household a birth has occurred in the year 1904, to place upon a paper or card the required information, and keep it in a convenient place until the canvasser appears.

The canvasser will begin on Jan. 2, 1905

HARRISON A. KEITH, City Clerk.

Prices the Lowest for Quality Offered.

Our bargains are made by marking down our own stock to a low price, not by purchasing inferior goods to make an attractive price.

It is a mistake to infer that we carry only high-priced fabrics. We have medium grades as well, and our prices are low because our expenses are proportioned over a volume of business exceeded by few in our specialty in the United States, and equaled by none in New England.

Quality In Carpetings.

It's odd, but true nevertheless, that many people in buying carpets today think almost wholly about price and completely ignore the quality of the carpet being purchased. At our store our carpet department is stocked with up-to-date carpets that possess quality, durability and years of service. If you wish to buy real carpet comfort we have it here ready for immediate delivery. We are proud of our carpets, because we know they please our customers. We are proud of our prices, for low rents enable us to undersell Boston's largest stores.

NEW LEGISLATION

Wynne Asks For It For the Postoffice Department

BONDING OF EMPLOYES

Some Cases Where Companies Have Practically a Life Lease --Complications In Methods of Resisting Claims

Washington, Dec. 28.—It has leaked out that the paragraph in the postmaster general's annual report recommending that legislation be enacted to give him authority to terminate bonds of postoffice clerks is an effort toward undoing some of the work of the old postoffice gang. A large share of the bonding is now done by a Maryland company.

An opinion was rendered by the attorney general of the postoffice department, really the work of Harrison J. Barrett, that a postal official once bonded could not change his surety, unless he was transferred to a different position. It was held that he could not go over to another company without continuing to pay premiums to the old one. This virtually gave a bonding company which once secured the business a life life lease on it, and the rates varied so greatly that the employers often desired to make a change. No evidence was brought out in the investigation to show that Beavers had received any compensation from this company for steering business to it, and it is surmised that if he did so, it was for the purpose of "standing in" with influential political interests.

The bonding companies have resisted meeting their liabilities at times in a way that, had their resistance been sustained, would have made it difficult for the department to do business with them. In the case of a registered letter, this company asserted that it was liable only to the carrier if the carrier lost a registered letter going from Smith to Jones, it was not liable to Jones. The controversy ran through some months until it was finally agreed to submit to the attorney general. His opinion was that the bonding company had made itself responsible for the faithful performance of the carrier's duty, with which stealing Jones' letter was not consistent, and therefore that it was liable for the loss.

The postoffice department is paying no attention to W. W. Valentine, who was dismissed from the New York postoffice yesterday for refusing to work overtime, in order to make a test case. There is no provision for the payment of postal clerks for overtime; their duties in the summer often consume less than the regular day.

The Ferguson Hard Aground

Nantucket, Mass., Dec. 28.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to float the schooner George B. Ferguson, which went ashore in the outer harbor during the gale which raged along the coast Dec. 17. About 150 tons of coal was lightered and the steamer Waquoit, with a powerful steam pump, stood by for six hours and worked steadily in an effort to lighten the vessel. The garboards had started, however, and with the rise of the tide the schooner leaked nearly 1500 gallons a minute.

Shortage of Minor Silver Coins

Philadelphia, Dec. 28.—Superintendent Landis of the mint in this city announces that the available silver bullion of the country has been exhausted. Unless congress makes the purchase of more silver bullion for coining purposes or by accepting a suggested temporary remedy, he said, commerce will be greatly hampered next year as a result of a $10,000,000 shortage in small silver coins.

The New York Senatorship

New York, Dec. 28.—The announcement is made that Governor Odell will make a declaration on the United States senatorship before he leaves New York for his home in Newburg. He has had a final conference with T. L. Woodruff, who is said to represent Senator Depew. No announcement was made as to the result of the conference.

Action Against Plumbers' Trust

Indianapolis, Dec. 28.—Judge Carter has granted a restraining order against the further operation of what is called a plumbers' trust, composed of the plumbers' supply houses of the city. Joseph Miller complained that the supply houses would sell goods only to members and he was refused the privilege of purchasing.

Fairbanks Initiated Into Masonry

Melbourne, Dec. 28.—Great Britain has assumed control of the legal and financial administration of the Tonga islands, the native chiefs consenting.

Revolutionists at a Banquet

St. Petersburg, Dec. 28.—The 79th anniversary of the Decambrist revolt was celebrated by about 1000 revolutionaries at a banquet here last night. A strong force of police was stationed outside the hall. The banquet continued until a late hour with revolutionary songs and speeches between the courses.

The death of Alexander I. and the accession of Nicholas I. at the end of 1825 was marked by an unsuccessful military insurrection in St. Petersburg.

Nelson Gets His Money

San Francisco, Dec. 28.—The charge of embezzlement preferred by "Battling" Nelson against Theodore Murphy, his manager, and Eddie Santry, his sparring partner, was dismissed in the police court. The money in the property clerk's hands was produced, Nelson receiving $6901 and Murphy $2100, this division being according to the manager's accounts. The cases were then dismissed.

LAST MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL

Death Removes One of the Members on the Last Day.

Veto of Mayor Bryant Sustained, and Vote of Thanks Extended for Service of Three Years.

The City Council of 1904 wound up its business Tuesday night. While it did not adjourn sine die there will be no more meetings unless some emergency arises that would make it necessary for the Mayor to call them together.

Councilman Hadlock, Hardwick, Hughes, Loud, Nickerson and Walsh were absent.

In the spectators seats were Councilmen-elect Burgess, Crane, Flaherty and McLane. Mayor-elect Thompson was also present.

A VETO.

The Mayor returned without his approval the amendment to the Ordinance giving the permanent firemen one day off at the end of every eight days.

In giving his reasons the Mayor said, to carry out this ordinance would require two additional men at a cost of $1,666 per year. Under the present rules the men have one day off in twelve days. The trouble is that they [illegible] large and while he wished to give the men all the privileges possible it was not wise to incur the additional expense. It would be impossible next year to increase the expense of this department. It was necessary to curtail in all departments.

Councilman Bass said he understood the chief cause of complaint was that it was not known in advance when the day off was to come. Would it not be possible to arrange so that they could be notified in advance?

Mayor Bryant, replying, said he thought it would. The best thing is to let the ordinance remain as it is. Things will work themselves out right.

The veto was sustained, Councilman Piper and Thompson, however, voting to pass over the veto.

PETITIONS.

The Electric Light Co. petitioned for a location for one pole on Clive street, and four poles on Field street. To Committee on Streets.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Finance reported reference to the next Council on the following matters:

$2,800 for fire apparatus for Houghs Neck.

Communication from Mayor relative to appropriation for horse shoeing in the Fire department.

Communication from Overseer of the Poor relative to additional appropriation for 1904.

OTHER REPORTS.

The same committee reported on the following matters:

Refunding $19.87 tax title to Willard Walsh. Rules suspended and order passed.

Transferring $650 from receipts from sewer to sewer interest. Rules suspended and order passed.

Transferring $567.50 from water receipts to water interest. Rules suspended and order passed.

Transferring $186.32 from interest of temporary loans to interest of city debt. Rules suspended and order passed.

Transferring $200 from Miscellaneous of Board of Health to garbage. Adopted.

The joint Committee on Finance and Water Supply reported reference to next council on matter of water assessments. Accepted.

The Committee on Finance reported no legislation necessary on the communication relative to bill of Taunton Asylum.

The joint committee on Finance and State Aid reported an order transferring the soldiers relief paid Samuel Beal to Emma L. Beal. Adopted.

The Committee on Ordinances reported on the following orders which were passed to be ordained:

Paying B. J. Langhorne $18.77, one-half cost of sidewalk.

Paying Edith W. Whiton $15.00, one-half cost of sidewalk.

Upon motion of Councilman Adams all matters not acted upon were referred to the next Council.

DEATH OF COUNCILMAN.

Councilman Stone read a letter announcing the death of Councilman Holmes, and the time of his funeral as Bethany chapel.

Councilman Stone offered resolutions on the death of Councilman Holmes which were adopted by a rising vote.

Upon motion of Councilman Stone the president appointed the whole council as a committee to attend the funeral.

THANKS VOTED.

Councilman Bass offered an order expressing the appreciation of the City Council for the faithful and valuable services rendered the city by Hon. Charles M. Bryant as Mayor for the past three years. Adopted.

Councilman Bass also offered orders thanking City Auditor Sidelinger for his valuable services; to President Nichols for the impartial manner in which he had presided at the meetings; to Clerk Spear and City Messenger Tirrell and to the members of the press for the valuable services rendered by their impartial reports of the meetings during the past year. Adopted.

CALENDARS.

The order refunding J. W. Gillis $12.45 tax was passed to be ordained.

Adjourned at 8.24.

After adjournment Councilman Johnson celebrated his appointment as Assessor by passing a box of cigars.

An informal meeting of the Council was also held at which Councilmen Langelier, Bass and Gassett were appointed to arrange for a dinner of the Council of 1904.

Any Rags! Any Bottles!

Last Saturday, a rag-man called at several houses in Atlantic; a good natured old chap who had a sharp eye for business. He happened to land at the door of a family which had had an invalid in the house for some time and had collected a wonderful array of whiskey, ale and porter bottles. The rag-man was ushered into the cellar and began eagerly to thrust the bottles into his bag, the "lady of the house" keeping an audible count meanwhile.

At the twenty-fifth bottle, he looked up with a grin and remarked pointedly "What a treat it would be if Henry Faxon would cast his eye in this cellar."

The woman, in telling the incident afterward to a circle of amused friends, announced her vow of never allowing another rag-man to enter her house. She thought them extremely impudent. The rag-man as a crowning thrust waited until he got out on the steps and then threw back: "And I am Irish, too!"

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Perhaps there is a possibility that an institution closely resembling Cooper Union might not go at all in Boston. For men out of work here who have to find some place to sleep we find the public library quite sufficient for present needs.—Boston Transcript.

☞ If gratitude is due from man to man, how much more from man to his Maker! The supreme being does not only confer upon us those bounties which proceed more immediately from his hand, but even those benefits which are conveyed to us by others. Every blessing we enjoy, by what means soever it may be derived upon us, is the gift of him who is the great author of good and father of mercies.—Joseph Addison.

☞ There has been "glorious" killing in Maine the past season, no less than 4,295 deer, 221 moose and 45 bears having been legally slaughtered by sportmen. The bear and moose records are unsurpassed, while in only two years since 1891 have more deer been killed. In the past five years over 20,000 deer [illegible] being mistaken for deer, and 15 fatalities among sportsmen have occurred. Nearly 1,200 persons from outside the state, 64 being women, engaged in the sport this year. Mr. Roosevelt need not fear for his country. The killing instinct, just for the fun of the thing, survives.—Springfield Republican.

☞ A theologian clamorous for denunciation as a heretic, as one of the Harvard preachers appeared to be yesterday, ought not to be gratified. His desire is to be like that morbid longing for martyrdom which wrought such evil in the early church, and which had to be rebuked and put down. It shows that his thought is more about the echo of the gun than of the flight of the bullet to its mark. The true theological reformer does not so strive nor cry, nor lift up his voice in the street. Besides a pining to be branded as a heretic, if sincere, is a sheer anachronism today. When a conscientious clergyman recently confessed to his brethern that he held certain heretical views, there was an awkward pause, which was at last broken by a grave old gentleman rising to move that they burn Brother B——at four o'clock. Some such jocose view is sure to be taken nowadays of a too ostentatious heretic. Instead of encountering stake and faggots he is much more apt to be, as Thackeray complained that he was, "dinner-eed to death."—New York Evening Post.

BLIZZARD IN WEST

Railroad and Telegraph Service Seriously Crippled

STORM EXTENDS TO SOUTH

Heavy Rainfall Will Prove Beneficial to Boatmen--Befogged New England Awaits Coming of Predicted Cold Wave

Chicago, Dec. 28.—One of the most severe storms of recent years has raged between the Rocky mountains and the Great Lakes, causing much trouble to street car, railroad and telegraph companies.

The latter were the greatest sufferers, for the blizzard was preceded by a heavy fog and drizzling rain which made the wires almost unworkable. The intense cold and terrific gale that followed close upon the fog coated the wires with ice and later threw poles to the ground. Railroad trains are badly delayed all through the west, some of them being 24 hours late. Street car traffic is practically at a standstill.

In its extent the storm is the most widespread of any in 15 years. Counting the fog as a component part, the storm stretches from the Rocky mountains to New York and from Winnipeg to New Orleans.

The storm is reported as subsiding at Kansas City, but it will be several days before normal conditions are restored throughout the entire section.

The storm was accompanied by high winds and snow which, on the level, would have been about one foot in depth. It was drifted so badly by the gale, however, that in nearly all the cities of Nebraska, Kansas and western Missouri street car traffic was at a standstill by noon yesterday. The telegraph wires are down in all directions and it is with great difficulty that communication between the west and northwest is kept up.

At Omaha and Des Moines conditions similar to those in Kansas City are reported. All through western Iowa the storm rages with great fury. From one to six hours' storm is even more violent than throughout Missouri and Iowa. The heavy snow and the gale worked havoc with railroads and some passenger trains from the Pacific are reported as over 24 hours late at St. Paul.

In the south the conditions are somewhat better, the snow in many places being changed to a heavy rainfall, preceded by thunder and lightning and followed by high winds. Nashville, Louisville, New Orleans, Montgomery and Memphis all report exceedingly heavy rains, a rapidly falling thermometer and terrific winds.

In the Ohio river valley the first heavy rain in five months is appreciated by boatmen along the Ohio and its tributaries, for the stage of water in those streams has of late been low.

The storm struck Chicago shortly after noon yesterday and increased until at 5:30 o'clock the wind had a velocity of 72 miles an hour. By 7 o'clock it had dropped to 50 miles an hour, where it remained through the night, with occasional destructive gusts which in many sections hurled pedestrians from their feet and overturned light delivery wagons. Trees were blown down, chimneys toppled over and several frame shacks were levelled with the ground. There were numerous instances of persons being bruised by being blown from their feet while passing some of the high buildings.

The late reports from Wisconsin are that the storm is the most severe ever known in that section of the country. Damage in the city of Madison is estimated at $100,000.

In Indiana the damage done by the storm is especially heavy in the oil fields, where fully 500 derricks were blown down and all operations suspended. The loss on derricks alone around Muncie is placed at $200,000 and at $50,000 around Portland.

Cold Wave Promised

Boston, Dec. 28.—Wrapped in a dense fog, New England waits for the westerly gale and cold wave which the weather bureau predicts will clear the atmosphere. Being in the extreme southeast quadrant of the western storm, the effect of the disturbance was a warm, drizzling rain, which, however, melted the snow and gave the drought-suffering farmers more than twice as much water than in an ordinary rainfall in summer. The warm weather stopped for a while the ice cutting which had begun nearly a fortnight ahead of the usual time.

In the interior of Maine there was the heaviest snowstorm of the season, which proved of great benefit to the lumbermen, as up to this time the snow in the woods had been very light.

Vermont reports a light rain that freezes as it falls, and telegraph and telephone companies are beginning to have trouble with broken wires.

There is very little movement of the coastwise shipping, owing to the fog.

Harbor Enveloped in Fog

New York, Dec. 28.—So dense was the blanket of fog which hung over the harbor all day that the business at the quarantine station was almost entirely suspended. Not a single steamer arrived and the officials put in the day waiting for the fog to lift. A little puff of wind from the west in the afternoon tore a hole in the fog bank, revealing four steamers which had come in during the night and found anchorage off the station. A tug with health officers on board immediately put out and after a time located the steamers and gave them permission to communicate with the shore.

"GREEN SICKNESS"

The unhealthy complexion of green sickness is changed to the rosy blush of good health by Scott's Emulsion.

Green sickness is one of the forms of blood disease found in young women. The change from girlhood to womanhood often upsets the nervous system, weakens digestion and throws the blood-making organs out of gear.

Scott's Emulsion puts new heart into pale girls. It tones up the nervous and digestive system, and feeds the blood. It is a natural tonic.

Remember that 30 per cent. of these cases go on into consumption unless prevented. Scott's Emulsion prevents consumption.

PERHAPS BEYOND RESCUE

Captain and Crew of Thirty-Two Men May Be on Drumelzier

New York, Dec. 28.—Efforts to learn whether Captain Nicholson and the crew of the British tramp steamer Drumelzier are still aboard the vessel, which is aground on the bar at Fire Island, have been unsuccessful, and last night the lifesavers were still watching from the beach in the hope of communicating with the ship.

Hidden in the black fog and pounded by fierce seas rolling from the southeast, the steamer was in imminent danger of going to pieces. If her captain they face an [illegible] still in the ship the heavy surf breaking over the sandy beach. The captain would not let the lifesavers take off his crew Monday when the seas were not running so high, and yesterday it was too late to help them. No lifeboat in the world could be launched in the teeth of the southeast gale that was blowing great waves and crashing them down on the shore.

The fog was so thick that the stranded vessel could not be seen from the shore, 200 yards away. Out on the sand bar, where the big vessel was seen rocking in the waves Monday night, there was nothing to be seen but a black haze, so dense that not even signal rockets could be seen from the shore.

Two rescuing tugs were by the vessel Monday night, but no report was received from them yesterday and it is thought they may have fled to escape the rising storm. The crews of both the Fire Island and Oak Island lifesaving stations were on the beach opposite the Drumelzier last night, but were helpless. They could barely see one another's faces as they stood huddled over the fire they had built on the beach for warmth and as a beacon light to the shipwrecked sailors.

About noon the lifesavers gave up all attempts to launch a boat. Should the weather clear an effort will be made to shoot a line to the Drumelzier, but it is feared that the ship will go to pieces before that is possible.

IMPRISONMENT FOR LIFE

Sentence Awaiting Ex-President Sam If He Returns to Hayti

Port Au Prince, Hayti, Dec. 28.—The court has rendered a judgment in default condemning former President Sam to imprisonment for life at hard labor for the alleged issue of fraudulent bonds. Mme. Sam is sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment and several members of Sam's ministry and other high functionaries have been condemned to terms of imprisonment ranging from five to 15 years.

The judgment in default is the form usual under the legal procedure in some countries where the person convicted is out of the jurisdiction of the court. President Sam, members of his ministry, officers of the bank of Hayti and relatives of the former president of the republic were accused by the government of President Nord, which succeeded the Sam administration in 1902, of having conspired for the fraudulent issue of from $200,000 to $850,000 of bonds. These bonds, it was claimed by the accused, were issued by authority of the Haytien congress, in pursuance of a plan to consolidate the public debt of $6,000,000, an additional $213,282 being authorized to be paid to the bank for financing the issue. Thirty-three persons were accused, but of these only 13 were arrested, the others having left the country. At latest advices President Sam was living in the island of St. Thomas.

CITY BREVITIES.

Dark this morning.

Next Monday will be inauguration day of the city government of 1905.

Whist will be the attraction at the Quincy Point club this evening, and cribbage tomorrow evening.

All the regular clerks in the employ of Henry L. Kincaide & Co., were remembered Christmas with a substantial sum of money.

The "illustrated magazine," by the Young People's Religious union of First church in the chapel tonight, is sure to attract a large audience as it is something new and has never been given in Quincy before.

Tickets are being delivered to the patronesses and subscribers to Mr. Charles William's recital of "The Crisis," to be given on Thursday evening in the chapel of First church in aid of the organ fund. A most entertaining evening is anticipated.

Liabilities of Over $150,000

Calais, Me., Dec. 28.—The St. Croix Shoe company has assigned to R. C. King, G. H. Eaton and G. A. Curran. The liabilities slightly exceed $150,000, while the actual assets will not be known until an inventory has been made. The reasons given for the assignment are losses and an unsatisfactory condition of business. The company employed 400 people in its factory.

Suicide In Railroad Station

Boston, Dec. 28.—While the Boston station of the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn railroad was crowded with people last night William P. Winn of East Boston shot himself through the head in the lavatory. He died in the ambulance on the way to a hospital. Winn was 45 years old and leaves a family.

Good Ice Harvest Promised

Gardiner, Me., Dec. 28.—Ice harvesting has begun on the Kennebec river, about 500 men reporting on the river, but owing to the fall of eight inches of snow work is confined to scraping. The houses of five companies, with a capacity of 500,000 tons, will be filled.

Strike Threatened at Boston

Boston, Dec. 28.—At a meeting of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' local union last night it was voted to [illegible] a strike on Monday unless the wages 5 cents an hour. No advance time the men are paid 45 cents an hour.

Worcester Bank's Centennial

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 28.—The 100th anniversary of the founding of the Worcester National bank was celebrated last night by a dinner given by the officers of the bank to the presidents and cashiers of the other national and savings banks of Worcester.

Struck and Killed by Engine

Hartford, Dec. 28.—George E. Caldwell, an engineer on the New Haven road, was found nearly dead late last night near a railroad crossing here and died a few moments later. It is presumed that he was struck by an engine as he was on his way to the depot.

Exploding Lamp Caused Death

Boston, Dec. 28.—Firemen who entered the house at 1 Fruit street court last night found the body of Jennie Fountain, a negro woman, 58 years old. The explosion of an oil lamp set fire to her clothing and burned her alive. The property damage was slight.

Foul Play Theory Dispelled

New Haven, Dec. 28.—After investigating the death of Anton Mayer, aged 40, a baker who lived at East River, Coroner Mix decided that there was not sufficient evidence to indicate foul play. It is now believed that Mayer committed suicide.

False Pretences Charged

New Haven, Dec. 28.—Mrs. Thomas J. Bergen, wife of a physician of this city, was placed under arrest last night by a detective of the Jersey City police on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. She consented to go with the New Jersey official.

TRUST WAR BEGUN

Operations to Smash Combination of Paper Makers

"COMPLAINT JUSTIFIED"

Alleged That Price of Paper Has Increased Fifty Percent--No Increase In Cost of Production --Many Companies Involved

Washington, Dec. 28.—The first public stroke in President Roosevelt's promised war against those trusts alleged to be operating in restraint of trade came when Attorney General Moody announced that, at complaint of newspaper publishers, action had been begun in St. Paul to stop the operations of the General Paper company of Wisconsin, generally known as the "paper trust," composed of 24 constituent companies, which he claims is absolutely in control of the paper business and has raised prices 50 percent without good reason. The attorney general gave out the following statement:

"On the complaint of many newspaper publishers last spring that a combination in restraint of commerce existed among manufacturers of paper to control the distribution and sale of their products among the states of the Union, the department of justice began an investigation of that subject, and to further aid the department in that respect, the attorney general appointed Frank B. Kellogg of the St. Paul bar and James M. Beck of the New York bar as special attorneys to collect the evidence and make a report thereon.

"These gentlemen, after an exhaustive examination of the matter, simultaneously with that conducted by the department of justice, have reported to the attorney general that in their opinion the facts ascertained support the complaint and justify, in the public interests, the filing of a petition to enjoin the operations of the General Paper company, a corporation of Wisconsin, which is the instrumentality through which the alleged combination to control the prices and distribution of those products in the western states is conducted.

"In this opinion the department of justice concurs. The attorney general has directed that a petition be filed against the General Paper company and the 24 paper manufacturing companies located in the states of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, which it represents, to have such combination declared to be an unlawful restraint upon interstate commerce and a monopoly."

Twenty-Four Companies In It

St. Paul, Dec. 28.—Attorney General Moody for the United States, through District Attorney Haupt and Special Assistant Attorneys Kellogg and Beck has filed a petition in the United States district court, in which he makes the General Paper company principal defendant and a large number of paper companies party defendants in a suit to enjoin them from doing business through the General Paper company as the sales agent, in violation of the act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies.

The General Paper company is composed of 24 big paper companies. It was organized in 1900, capitalized at $100,000, or 1000 shares of $100 each. It speedily obtained control of all the paper west of the Mississippi river and in Michigan. It was formed in Wisconsin, and still has its charter office there.

Gradually the alleged trust forced up prices, until today, while cost of production has not increased, it is alleged, the price of paper has been advanced 50 percent.

Not only that, but newspapers could not buy from any other source. Thereupon publishers got together, compiled evidence, took it to Attorney General Moody with complaint, and his action in filing a suit to dissolve the alleged trust is the direct outcome of the revolt of newspaper publishers against what they felt a restriction of trade.

Tom Watson's Magazine

Albany, Dec. 28.—Thomas E. Watson, candidate of the People's party for president at the last election, has incorporated a stock company called Tom Watson's Magazine, for the purpose of publishing and circulating a monthly literary periodical of that name. The corporation is capitalized at $125,000. It begins business with $3000 capital.

Want Porto Ricans Employed

Washington, Dec. 28.—President Gompers and Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor called on Secretary Taft and urged the employment of Porto Ricans as far as possible in the construction of the Panama canal. Gompers will confer on the subject with Governor Winthrop of Porto Rico in New York city.

Indicted For Land Frauds

Portland, Ore., Dec. 28.—The federal grand jury has indicted S. P. Ormsby, W. H. Davis, C. E. Loomis, H. L. Young, George Sorenson and John Doe and Richard Roe, in connection with the land fraud cases now before the United States court here.

Austrian Premier to Resign

Vienna, Dec. 28.—It is reported that Premier Von Koerber finds his position so difficult that he has decided to resign.

TO CORRECT WARRANT

Sheriff Expects No Trouble In Getting Chadwick to Ohio

Albany, Dec. 28.—Sheriff Barry of Cuyhoga county, O., has arrived here with the affidavit necessary to correct the requisition of Governor Herrick of Ohio for a warrant authorizing him to take Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick out of this state to Cleveland to answer the charge of complicity in forging the name of Andrew Carnegie to the note for $5,000,000 alleged to have been used as security by his wife, Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick. He will present the affidavit to Judge Joyce, the governor's pardon and requisition clerk, from whom he expects to obtain the warrant which he failed to secure upon his first visit Monday.

Sheriff Barry received the missing affidavit in New York and immediately came to Albany. Arriving shortly after 9 o'clock last night, he met, by appointment, Judge McDonough, former secretary of state, whom he has engaged as local counsel in the Chadwick matter.

Sheriff Barry asked whether any application for a requisition had been received from the Boston authorities and seemed relieved when he learned that his was the only request. "I do not expect any difficulty now in taking Dr. Chadwick to Cleveland," he continued. "We shall start as soon as he reaches this side of the Atlantic."

The affidavit received from Cleveland and required by the governor's requisition clerk before he would grant the warrant is signed by the district attorney of Cuyhoga county and is a sworn transcript from the minutes of the grand jury that indicted Dr. Chadwick for complicity in forgery.

Alleged Bogus Insurance

Philadelphia, Dec. 28.—Charges of conspiracy, false pretense and forgery, involving $150,000, are made against John Bough, who was committed in the police court to await a requisition from the New York authorities. It is alleged that Bough organized a concern which wrote $4,000,000 worth of fire insurance and collected $150,000 in premiums, the insured having been led, it is charged, to believe that Bough was the American agent of Lloyds of London. Six months ago a collapse occurred.

Bell's Third Pardon In a Week

Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 28.—E. A. Morse of Calais, aged 20, who is serving a sentence in state prison for forgery, has been pardoned by Governor Bell. The imprisonment of the son left the father dependent upon the town for support, and this, with the fact that it did not seem to the governor that the boy realized the gravity of the offense, were the reasons for the executive clemency. The pardon is the third granted by Governor Bell within a week.

Won't Tell Where Money Went

New York, Dec. 28.—Quincy W. Bosee, a lawyer, and secretary and treasurer of the Montreal and Boston Mining and Smelting company, refused to answer questions at the Munroe & Munroe hearing, and Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the receiver, asked that he be committed. Bosee pleaded an attorney's privilege in refusing to tell how he had disbursed $2700 in connection with the affairs of Munroe & Munroe.

Charges Against Talbot

New York, Dec. 28.—"Criminal libel," "immorality," to wit: false "statements," "the circulation of a false, malicious and defamatory report"; "falsifying," "breach of ordination and consecration vows," and "conduct unbecoming a bishop"—these are the charges preferred against Bishop Ethelbert Talbot of central Pennsylvania, says Herbert Noble, a lawyer of this city.

For Industrial Peace

Pittsburg, Dec. 28.—With the adoption of a constitution, the Pittsburg Peace society has been formed. Andrew Carnegie will be honorary president and Senators Penrose and Knox will be honorary vice presidents. There will be a special arbitration committee, to whom all parties connected with future labor disputes will be invited to bring their grievances.

Says He Is German Baron

Chicago, Dec. 28.—C. E. VonWeiner, who declares that he is Baron Von Weiner of the German army, was arrested here last night on a warrant sworn out by a hotel proprietor, who alleges that VonWeiner obtained money from him by a worthless check.

A Shocking Murder

Pensacola, Fla., Dec. 28.—Travis Johnson was murdered in rooms at the Arlington club, his head being nearly severed from the body. John Griffith, a marine engineer, is charged with the crime. The motive for the crime was probably robbery.

YOUR HAT

May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.

A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of Dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

MYSTERY IN LYNN FIRE

Police Are Looking For Tailor In Whose Shop It Started

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 28.—Five persons were rescued from a burning building at 97 Willow street last night. Jacob Goodman, a tailor, in whose shop the fire started, has not been seen since the alarm was rung in, and the police are looking for him. The total loss will not exceed $2000.

The building is a 2½-story wooden structure, and was occupied by Goodman, Edward Emory, a cobbler; Mrs. Edward Taylor, and Mrs. George H. Newburger. The last named was ill when the smoke began to pour into her apartments, which are directly over Goodman's shop. Mrs. Newburger's three small children became panic-stricken and were in danger of being suffocated by the smoke when an unknown man rushed into the room and carried them into the street.

Mrs. Newburger left her bed and attempted to get out, but, overcome by smoke and weakness, she fell to the floor and was rescued a few moments later by the firemen. Mrs. Taylor was also assisted to the street by the firemen.

Passenger Trains In Collision

Stamford, Conn., Dec. 28.—A westbound Boston express crashed into a west-bound accommodation train in front of the depot here last night and George Howland, an instructing conductor on the accommodation train, was crushed to death between the two rear cars. A heavy fog hid from view the signals warning the engineer of the express. The force of the collision was not great enough to injure any of the passengers seriously.

Investigators Get to Work

Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 28.—The special legislative committee recently appointed for the purpose of making a thorough investigation into the affairs of the various institutions met here last night and organized. The committee will visit the Waterbury insane asylum at once and will hold its first hearing Jan. 10, when the formal investigation into the conditions existing at the insane institution will be begun.

NOTICE TO PARENTS.
City Clerk's Office, Dec. 30, 1904.
THE Record of Births in any city or town is always more or less unsatisfactory, owing to the fact that the canvasser finds difficulty in getting the necessary information. Names and dates are frequently given incorrectly. The importance of accuracy is shown in many cases where there is a question of descent, or inheritance of property, or collection of life insurance or pensions. The City Clerk's copy of the record is accepted as conclusive evidence in a court of law. While great pains are taken by his office to have the records correct, experience shows that it is necessary that parents themselves should lend their assistance. In fact, the law requires that parents shall give notice to the City Clerk of the birth of their children and provides a penalty for neglect to give such notice for the space of 40 days.
It often happens that only children or servants are at home when the canvasser makes his call, and the answers to his questions are open to doubt. I therefore request all parents in whose household a birth has occurred in the year 1904, to place upon a paper or card the required information, and keep it in a convenient place until the canvasser appears.
The canvasser will begin on Jan. 2, 1905
HARRISON A. KEITH, City Clerk.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Mrs. Effie L. Rhines is confined to her home by sickness.

There will be a social dance in Music Hall, Atlantic, this evening.

Clearing weather was indicated at noon, and it will be colder tonight.

The Hospital Aid Association will meet tomorrow with Mrs. G. S. Keyes.

Prof. Brainard Mears of Williams college is the guest of Horace S. Taylor.

The young men of the Merrymount club will hold another dance at Wollaston hall Saturday evening.

Mr. C. Frank Randall will move this week from the Hancock house to his new barber's shop on Saville avenue.

Mr. L. Breaton and Mr. L. J. Colgan of Augusta, Maine, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Carlin over Christmas.

The children's fancy dress ball Thursday afternoon, in Music Hall, Atlantic, should attract a large number of spectators.

Alex S. MacNeill, manager of the Steel plant at Sydney, C. B., is visiting his cousin, Mrs. Stephen R. Gurney of Cranch street.

John E. Hunt of Weymouth is the newly appointed deputy grand master for the 24th Masonic district which includes Rural lodge of Quincy.

City Clerk Keith has appointed the following to take the census of births for the year 1904: Henry W. French, Gilbert R. Kent, Edward J. Sheldon.

The Christmas party of St. Chrysostoms church will be held tomorrow evening and the play of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" will be presented.

The Whist party to have been given by the committee of the Red Men in I. O. O. F. hall, Wollaston, tomorrow night has been indefinitely postponed.

Miss Emma King, who lives with her aunt, Mrs. Charles Safford of Clive street, during the school year, has gone to her home in Worcester, for the holidays.

Commissioner Knowlton has been appointed by the New England Water Association as one of the committee on meter rates, to endeavor to establish uniform rates for water service in New England.

At the Merrymount club Monday Fred White and Horace Kirkwood secured the railroad books for the highest bowling scores for the day, and Charles Hall the book for the largest run at pool.

R. E. Foy & Co., the well-known South Quincy grocers, showed their appreciation of the faithful services of their clerks, by giving them one per cent. of their total sales for the three days preceding Christmas.

The sleighing which commenced Tuesday, Dec. 13, disappeared Tuesday Dec. 27, but snow remains; in fact snow has been with us since Dec. 5, the day before the City election. Last year the first snow came Dec. 26.

Representative R. R. Freeman was one of the fifteen names signed to the call for a caucus of the Republican members elect of the Massachusetts House of 1905, to be held next Wednesday at 10 A. M. The Democrats will also meet the same morning.

—Miss Margaret Long, daughter of ex-Gov. Long, presented St. John's Episcopal church at Hingham as a Christmas gift, a church organ, in memory of her sister, Miss Helen Long.

ON LAST DAY.

The City Council Loses a Member.

Melville C. Holmes of Ward Two.

Has Been Active in Republican Party.

Councilman Melville C. Holmes passed away Tuesday at the residence of his brother on Newcomb street, after an illness of a year's duration.

Councilman Holmes was elected to the City Council of 1904 from Ward Two. He attended but two meetings of the Council, however, when he was taken ill with consumption. It was planned that he should go south for his health, but his disease developed so rapidly that he was unable to go, and since that time he has been confined to his bed the greater part of the time.

He was appointed by President Nichols a member of the standing committee on Sewers and Drains and Water Supply, also on the committee on Ordinances and Licenses.

Councilman Holmes was born in Charlestown, July 3, 1870. He came to Quincy when a young man and was educated in the Quincy public schools. He was a printer by trade, at which business he was employed up to the time of his illness, being foreman for J. C. Clark & Co., of Boston.

He was a faithful worker for the principles of the Republican party. For two years he was treasurer of the Ward Two Committee, and for the past two years has been secretary of the Republican City Committee.

He was one of the organizers of Francis L. Souther camp, Sons of Veterans, and served as its commander. He was also affiliated with the Good Templars, New England Order of Protection, the Young Men's club of Quincy Point, the Quincy Point Improvement Committee and People's Union.

In 1900 he served as one of the government census enumerators.

He leaves a widow and three children.

The funeral will be held from the Bethany church chapel on Thursday at 2.30 o'clock. The City Council will attend.

It took 48 clerks to handle the business in Kincaide's annex during the Christmas rush. Low prices the cause.

THE MANY LIVED GOD

[Copyright, 1904, by K. M. Whitehead.]

Two paths wound their tortuous ways about the hill and came out finally on a small rocky shelf. The place commanded an excellent view of the level valley and the river twisting and turning a shimmering course many feet below. Far across the valley on the other side of the river the pine covered slopes made a cool, green vista in the July sunshine.

The man toiled slowly up one of these paths, pausing occasionally to mop his perspiring brow and to curse dejectedly the blackberry vines which now and again clutched his trousers. The girl came up the other path, holding a fluffy parasol in so spiritless a fashion that the sun streamed full upon her brown head.

The man reached the rocky shelf first and seated himself on the very edge, with his legs dangling over the brink. A few moments later the girl arrived on the scene, surveyed the man's broad back a moment and then said, half in annoyance, half in embarrassment, "Oh!"

The man turned about, beheld the intruder and with a cough—the masculine haven of refuge at such a time—resumed his study of the green tints in the valley below. The girl looked irresolutely at the man and with equal irresolution at the path she had just traveled. Then she sat down, with no irresolution whatever, beneath one of the scraggy firs. The tension of the silence became oppressive. It was the girl who broke it.

"I desire to be alone," she said, with imperious coolness.

The man turned slowly.

"You seem to voice my own ideas," he said.

"Why don't you leave, then?" she asked.

He smiled with calm insolence.

"Because," said he, "I wish to be here. Besides, this is my puddle. I found it first."

The girl's eyes narrowed and she pursed her lips.

"This particular nook is of my discovering, kindly remember," said she.

"Possession is nine points of the law," he returned.

The girl's eyes looked across the valley to the ragged line of hills, over which fleecy bits of white clouds drifted lazily. Her parasol was tapping nervously an exposed root of the fir.

"Do you mind telling me why you came up here this afternoon?" she asked.

"For the same reason a murderer is drawn to the scene of his crime, by some horrible fascination, I suppose," he explained.

The girl smiled grimly.

"You admit it was a crime, then?"

"Mea culpa, mea culpa," he said; "mea most heinous culpa!"

She frowned. "It's scarcely humorous," she chided.

"It is tragic," he declared. He turned to her suddenly and his face was grave. "Why did you come?" he asked.

"I wanted to be—to be alone with my dead," she said, almost wistfully.

He straightened up. His tone was eager.

"You're sure it's dead?" he asked.

"Quite so," said she. "As a murderer you're decidedly effective."

"Are you sure," said he, "it isn't stunned or shamming? Are you certain it won't come to life again?"

The girl sighed.

"It is dead—stone dead," she said, with a touch of sadness in her voice.

"I thought," he remarked, "that love had as many lives as a cat—that one might cruelly maltreat it and yet it would survive."

"There is a limit to all things—even the forbearance of love," she said.

The man swung his legs over the brink, and his brow was drawn into a puzzled frown.

"I'm terribly afraid there's a spark of life yet," said he. "It would be frightful to bury the poor chap alive. It seems to me we should try resuscitation first."

"I'm afraid it's too late," she said coldly. "It is far easier to destroy than to resurrect."

"Quite so, quite so," said he uneasily. "Oh, I say," he burst out contritely, "you don't really mean it's all off. You don't mean you'll let that miserable tiff of yesterday morning end everything, do you?"

The girl arose.

"I came up here to be alone," she said. "It is evident I must seek solitude somewhere else."

He jumped to his feet.

"I'll go," he said. "You may have the cliff to yourself. But before I leave I want to ask a favor. When you bury the dead, you'll not forget it entirely, will you? You'll remember that for a day—for a day"—

He stopped and looked at her.

"Oh, well," he said contritely, "it was all my fault anyway. I have no right to ask favors. Goodby."

He moved down the winding path. The blackberry vines caught at his clothes, but he forgot to curse them. Halfway down the path he heard rapid footsteps behind him. He turned and beheld the girl hurrying after him. Her face was crimson, and her eyes refused to meet his.

"What's up?" he asked her cheerfully.

"Oh," she said, "I—I tried to bury him, and he wasn't—oh, can't you understand?"

* * * * * * * *

They wended their way back to the little rocky cliff and sat down together. They were chattering happily.

"I did really think I had done it that time," he confessed.

"You are a dear old stupid," she averred as she smoothed his hair.

STATE CENSUS.

Will Be Taken in May Next.

Six Enumerators for Quincy.

Applications to Be Made to the Mayor.

Arrangements are already well underway for taking the Massachusetts census for 1905, the decennial census. The Legislature of 1904 passed an act (Chap. 423) relative to the appointment of census enumerators and their work.

Section 7 provides that "the whole number of enumerators shall not exceed one for every 3,000 persons in each city and town, according to the returns of the preceding decennial census, and shall be so many less as the chief may decide to be adequate for the duty."

The census of 1895 showed Quincy to have a population of 20,712, so the number of enumerators cannot exceed six, and it is probable that one will be appointed for each of the six wards.

Section 8 provides—"The mayor and aldermen of cities and the selectmen of towns may nominate twice as many persons as there are enumerators to be appointed in each city and town, and of the persons thus nominated there shall be appointed as enumerators, under the provisions of this act, those found best qualified for the work, as determined by such rules and tests as the said chief may fix, subject to the approval of the civil service commissioners of the Commonwealth. In case the mayor and aldermen or selectmen do not nominate a sufficient number of persons thus found to be properly qualified, within thirty days after being requested to do so, then the said chief may appoint, subject to such tests as to qualifications as are herein provided for, the additional number required."

Chief Pidgin informs the Ledger that the request for the local officials to send in the names of nominees will be mailed to them on January 10, 1905. This allows ample time in which to file applications with the nominating officers, who will have until February 8, 1905, in which to make their returns. The compensation will be $3 for each day of nine hours actually employed in said service.

Chief Pidgin further says: "Men or women of intelligence and good character are desired, who are in good health and are not physically defective, who are acquainted with the locality in which they are to act, and who can write plainly. They should not be addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors nor connected with its sale."

The work of enumeration will be begun May 1, 1905, and be constantly prosecuted until completed.

The information sought by the census shall relate to population and social statistics, manufactures, trade, mining and quarrying, agricultural products and property, the fisheries, commerce, libraries, and to schools and school property.

The chief of the Census bureau is required to request suggestions from the mayors of cities and the selectmen of towns, and the inquiries suggested by them within sixty days shall form part of the schedules, if approved.

Section 14 of the Act provides that enumeration of cities may upon request of the mayor and aldermen be made by streets, blocks, etc. That does not seem necessary in Quincy but census by wards is desirable, and perhaps there are some other facts that might be gathered that would be of value. It might be well to learn the number employed in each branch of the granite industry for future comparisons; also in the shipyards. It would be of interest to learn the number of inhabitants who are employed, and what part are employed in Quincy.

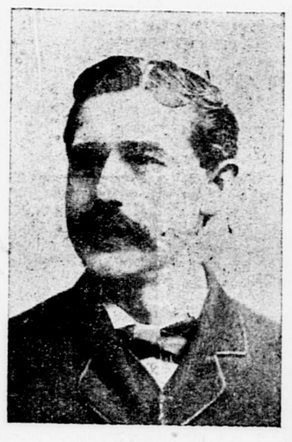
NEW CHIEF RANGER.

Ex-Councilman Elcock at Head of St. Francis Court.

St. Francis Court No. 25, M. C. O. F., elected the following officers for the ensuing year on Tuesday evening:

Chief Ranger,—James H. Elcock.
Vice Chief Ranger,—William J. Doyle.
Recording Secretary,—William P. Hughes.
Financial Secretary,—John F. Walsh.
Treasurer,—James A. White.
Senior Conductor,—Philip Garrity.
Junior Conductor,—Joseph A. Dillon.
Inside Sentinel,—Joseph P. Scully.
Outside Sentinel,—Richard T. Callahan.
Court Physician,—Dr. J. M. Sheahan.
Trustees,—William T. Shea, Adam S. Vogel, and James H. Doyle.
Delegates to Convention,—Dr. J. M. Sheahan, William T. Shea, James H. Elcock and William P. Hughes.



James H. Elcock, the chief ranger elect, is the well known granite quarryman. He was born in Quincy 58 years ago and has always made Quincy his home. For the past twenty-five years he has been engaged in the granite monumental business. During his younger days he served on the volunteer fire department, starting as lantern boy and filling all positions up to foreman, and later was one of the town's fire engineers. He was also for three years a constable under the town form of government. He was a member of the City Council during the years 1899, 1900 and 1901 and at the recent state election was a candidate for Representative to the General Court.

Court Erickson Officers.

Court John Erickson, No. 155, F. of A., held a meeting Wednesday night in Wilson hall and elected these officers:

Chief Ranger,—Theodore Hermanson.
Sub Chief Ranger,—John Johnson.

Abbott—Murray.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Murray, Pleasant street, Wednesday evening, at 7.30 o'clock, when Mr. Samuel Abbott and Miss Edith Murray were united in marriage by Rev. William B. Barr.

The wedding march was played by Miss Mamie Kennedy of Quincy.

The bride was dressed in white point d'esprit over white organdie, and carried white carnations.

The best man was Mr. Murdock Gillis. The bridesmaid was Miss Harriet Murray, sister of the bride, dressed in white organdie.

After an informal reception a wedding supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Abbott will reside in Quincy, and have the congratulations and best wishes of their many friends. They received numerous presents as well as checks from friends at a distance.

A Short Cut.

The heavy teams still continue to cross the Atlantic playground in spite of the wire which has been placed between a couple of the trees. They simply drive around. Officer Halloran was on guard for a short time and tried to prevent them. An officer should be on guard there throughout the day as no heed is taken of the wire or signs.

Quincy Man's Feat of 35 Years Ago.

Geo. L. Phillips Won First Prize

In Submarine Race from Boston to East Boston.

In connection with the opening of the new tunnel to East Boston the Boston Journal claims for George L. Phillips of Quincy the honor of being the first man to pass below the waters of the harbor from Boston to the Noddle island, and he did it too without getting wet.

On the Fourth of July in 1869 Mr. Phillips walked from T wharf to Cunard wharf, clothed in a diver's suit, and came out victor in the first and only contest of the kind that was ever known.

The city fathers in 1869 were looking for some sort of a novelty for the celebration of the nation's birthday. Submarine diving was then in its infancy. Some bright mind conceived the idea that a race by submarine divers would be an unusual attraction. A committee having in charge the arrangements was appointed and the details were fixed.

The story of Mr. Phillips, relative to the race, as printed by the Journal, is as follows:

"It was something new then for any one to walk below the water. I had been out of the war only a few years, where I served in the Twelfth Massachusetts, and had only been below a few times. Three prizes were offered, $75, $50 and $25. I happened to be the lucky man to win the first prize.

"It seemed as if every sort of a craft that would carry any one was brought into service to carry spectators. United States war vessels were used and the Portland, Augusta and Bangor boats pulled out of their docks with hundreds of passengers. They loaded them on just as long as the police would allow them to do so. Fifty cents a head was price. I had been married only a short time and my wife 'watched' the race from a schooner along with the wife and the relatives of the other two men in.

"'Bill' Lloyd and 'Jake' Palmer were the other two men who raced. Several others entered but did not come around to get in the race. We had a float on each side of the harbor. Each man had a boat with a crew of four men, one to steer, two at the pump and one forward with the life line. Something was the matter my pumps, so I had to change to larger ones that would not go in the boat. I borrowed another boat from a vessel near T wharf that was much heavier than the first one. Every one thought that because the boat was heavier I would have a harder time to win.

"You see each of us at a given signal was to climb down the ladder and then draw our boats across the harbor. It was near noon on a high tide at the full of the moon. I found a great deal of soft mud but some hard footing. I had told the men who were taking care of my boat to stop pumping just as soon as we arrived on the other side. They did not understand, so it took me at least a minute longer to get up to the raft. There were three flags and as soon as one of us waved his flag a gun was fired and that marked the time.

"I was so exhausted when I got on the East Boston side that everything looked all blue to me. I climbed up the ladder and thought that the other two men had won out. Some one cried to me to wave the flag. I had just sense enough to do so. I won the race in 17 1-2 minutes, which was quicker than some of the boats could do it in the fog yesterday.

"Lloyd's time was 22 minutes and Palmer did not get across. He was exhausted and had to be pulled up to his boat. He, however, got $25, the third prize.

"It was kind of queer about those other two men. Lloyd was drowned down in North Carolina. Palmer went out west and became a stage driver. He was shot by a road agent years ago."

"Our illustrated magazine" was the title of a rather unique entertainment given Wednesday evening in the chapel of First church by the Young People's Religious Union. The programs from the press of Geo. W. Prescott & Son were clever, taking the form of a page of contents of a magazine as above illustrated.

The illustrations were by tableaux as follows:

The cover representing a minuet by Gerna Saville and Alan Arnold; the advertisements: Chocolate girl, Carlena Walker; collar, Gordon Adams; soap, Grace Spear; wheat, Clark Saville; pearline, Ella Packard; shoes, Gordon Adams; rubifoam, Minnie Packard; soap, Edna Smith and Clark Saville. These were all fine representations, well done.

The war article was acted by Herbert Arnold and Ralph Winslow.

Miss Edna Smith read the short story which was illustrated by a series of tableaux done by Mildred Huston, Louie Lane, Carlena Walker, Will Howe, Alan Arnold and Avard Sproul.

A Christmas carol was to have been read by Hazel Carlin dressed as a Christmas girl, but owing to illness the poem was read by Edna Smith.

The art section of the magazine was very well done in tableau, the five well-known pictures being represented by Katherine Saville and Jack Arnold; Stella Barker; Olive Huston and Gordon Adams; Minnie Packard and Alan Arnold; Miriam Marsh, Herbert Arnold, Brewster Walker and Jack Arnold.

A chapter of the serial story was read by Houghton Schumacher, with tableau illustrations by Marie Base, Irma Tilton, Leila Smith, Ralph Winslow, Will Howe and Avard Sproul.

The hit of the evening was the "face to face talks" by Minnie Packard. The questions and answers contained many local hits a few of which we quote.

"I have just received an addition of 1200 pupils for the freshman class of the Q. H. S. Where shall I put them?"—P. D. Gogg.

"We would advice putting them in cold storage until April or May, or if that seems inexpedient, ask the mock council for twenty portable schoolhouses to be moved from ward to ward until all are unanimous, etc."

Where shall the City Scales be located?"—Civis.

"We would suggest any unoccupied corner of the old burying ground preferably near the railroad track; 7.12 would be a good time for freight. All theatre goers are so used to this train being late that they will never kick."

The cartoons were well done in tableau by Will Howe and Elliot Johnson; Gordon Adams and Harold Marsh; Florence Faxon; Jack Arnold. Uncle Sam and Panama and "Our Teddy" were particularly good and were heartily applauded.

Among the poems you ought to know Lowell's "The Courting" was read by Jack Arnold and humorously carried out in tableau by Edna Smith, Marie Bass and Houghton Schumacher.

Miss Florence Steel and Miss Minnie Packard at the piano entertained the audience between the numbers.

The magazine was arranged by Miss Edith Randall, ably assisted by the young people, who certainly well sustained and carried out all the parts of their unique magazine.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

There does not appear to be the same precipitation in building the Panama Canal that there was in establishing the Panama Republic.

It is said there were more gifted people in the United States on the 25th of December, 1904, than at any time in the history of the country.

The White House Christmas turkey shipped as usual in cold storage seems to have escaped the attention of the Boston correspondent this time.

The suggestion of Mr. Garfield, that the trusts shall take out a license appears to be quite superfluous. The general opinion is that the trusts already have unlimited license.

It is important that competent enumerators should be employed in taking the census next May. There has always been a feeling that full justice was not done to Quincy by the last census which was taken by the United States in 1900, but it came at the close of a strike in the granite industry when many Quincy men were temporarily out of town.

The census of 1900 did not show as large an increase in Quincy from 1895 to 1900, as did the previous census from 1890 to 1895, or the census of 1890. The census of 1890 showed an increase of 4,581, the census of 1895 an increase of 3,986, and the census of 1900 an increase of 3,187.

Many will, doubtless, in face of these figures dispute the claim of the Daily Ledger, that the increase from 1900 to 1905 will be over 6000, but the increase in school children, in births, in poll tax payers, in voters, in new houses, in number employed at the shipyard, all indicate that the growth of Quincy has been exceedingly rapid. Perhaps the doubters may be the ones who will be surprised.

The figures below show the population at each census, and the gain since the last census. Quincy was incorporated in 1792 and at first the census was taken every ten years, but beginning in 1855 a State census alternates with the United States census, so that of late the census has been taken every five years.

Crew of Steamer Drumelzier In Perilous Plight

POUNDING ON THE BEACH

Would-Be Rescuers Unable to Get Near Stranded Vessel--Seas Washing Over Unknown Steamer on Diamond Shoals

New York, Dec. 29.—Still pounding on the bar off Oak island, where she struck on Christmas morning, the steamer Drumelzier lies in practically the same position as when she first went ashore. A picked crew of eight men will set out from Sandy Hook life saving station. They will use the longest lifeboat at the hook and it will be towed to the scene of the wreck by a powerful tug.

The Drumelzier lies about three-quarters of a mile off the extreme end of Fire Island beach and is almost in the channel leading from the ocean into Great South bay. All communication between Oak island and the mainland is cut off by the ice that fills this bay with drifting floes which are driven hither and thither by the winds and in some places piled in huge hummocks. The steamer is lying bow-on toward the shore, with her stern resting on the bar, showing about two feet above her normal draft.

During the day the steamer hoisted no signals of distress, nor did she even use her whistle, although smoke and steam from her funnels indicated that the fires were still going. The revenue cutter Mohawk anchored near the steamer for several hours. She signalled the wreck steamer asking if assistance was desired and received an affirmative answer. The cutter's boats, however, were unable to reach the wreck.

Throughout the day the crews of the two life saving stations were unable to render the least assistance and could only gaze helplessly across the mile or more of raging surf that separated them from the helpless crew. Now and then between the clouds of spray that crowned the breakers forms could be distinguished on the Drumelzier.

Should the vessel go to pieces, as appears possible from the terrific manner in which she is pounding, the only possible salvation for Captain Nicholson and his crew lies in rescue by the boats of the wrecking steamer, which is anchored about a mile from the stranded steamer. If the Drumelzier holds together great hope is placed in the efforts which the Sandy Hook lifesavers will make.

A Victim of "Hell's Hole"

Norfolk, Dec. 29.—Battered by heavy seas, an unknown steamer lies helpless on the inner Diamond shoals, eight miles off Cape Hatteras, and faint lights seen now and then carry a message to the life saving corps on shore that there are human lives aboard the wrecked craft that cannot be saved until wind and seas have calmed sufficiently to allow the surfboats to be launched.

The steamer grounded on the inner shoal, known to mariners as "Hell's Hole," in the graveyard of shipping. Heavy seas careen the vessel on her beams and she is lying on her port side with seas washing all over her. The smoke that her funnel emitted is no longer discernible and it is supposed that her fires have been extinguished by water filling the hull.

The steamer has three masts and one funnel. Her engines and boilers are aft and the funnel is between the mainmast and mizzenmast. From her description it is thought she may be one of the fruit liners that ply between West Indian ports and Baltimore or New York.

Rescued by Lifesavers

New York, Dec. 29.—The Fire Island lifesaving crew rescued three men from a sloop that went ashore about a mile and a half east of the Fire Island light. The men had come from Bay Shore to see the stranded Drumelzier, and their boat was caught in the ice and forced ashore.

Hungarians Cannot Cool Down

Budapest, Dec. 29.—There was a disorderly sitting of the chamber of deputies yesterday and Premier Tisza was compelled to abandon his attempt to induce the house to vote an indemnity for the government's expenditure without the sanction of parliament. The premier then, amid a great uproar, announced the adjournment of the chamber until Jan. 3. Former Premier Andrassy predicts that a bloody electoral struggle will follow.

Mrs Chadwick May Get Bail

Cleveland, Dec. 29.—A syndicate, for which Attorney Quigley of this city is spokesman, is said to be ready and willing to furnish bail up to the sum of $40,000 to procure the release of Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick, held in jail here awaiting trial on the charge of forgery. The federal officials will, it is understood, discourage such a proceeding, without, however, infringing on the prisoner's constitutional rights.

Testimony Kept From Public

Portland, Ore., Dec. 29.—United States Senator Mitchell and Congressman Hermann of Oregon appeared yesterday before the federal grand jury which has the land fraud cases under investigation. The proceedings were secret

IN SORRY CONDITION

Miss Patterson Said to Be Close to Border of Insanity

New York, Dec. 29.—J. Randolph Patterson of Washington, who spent the greater part of yesterday with his daughter, Nan Patterson, in the Tombs, said, after leaving her, that he feared she was going insane. "She is broken down completely," he said. "My little girl is a physical and mental wreck and I am afraid that her mind is giving away under this dreadful strain. She is worse that she was when she collapsed after hearing of the jury's disagreement. I have sent for our family physician."

Dr. Maguire was sent for later and after examining Miss Patterson, said: "Miss Patterson is in a highly nervous and even a hysterical condition, but in my judgment there need be no fear of insanity from present indications. She laughs a good deal, but the laughter is more of a hysterical character than from any impulse that would appear like insanity. She needs good care and constant watchfulness and companionship. The latter, as we all know, cannot be very well supplied in a prison."

Adams Wants Investigation

Denver, Dec. 29.—A petition has been filed in the supreme court on behalf of Alva Adams, Democratic governor-elect, asking that all of the 214 ballot boxes used in Denver at the late election be opened and their contents examined. "I have no question of my election by substantially the majority reported on the face of the returns," said Adams. "I believe if the frauds in outside counties could be unearthed my honest majority would amount to 20,000. But I want no tainted seat."

Runaway Boys Surrender

New York, Dec. 29.—Two 15-year-old boys who said they ran away from their homes in Lawrence, Mass., on Christmas eve, expecting to better themselves financially by securing employment in this city, walked into a police station here and asked to be sent home. The boys said they were John McHenry and Frank Leahy.

Lawrence, Mass., Dec. 29.—John McHenry and Frank Leahy left this city, their parents and chums say, because they were tired of factory life.

Critical Period In Morocco

Washington, Dec. 29.—Conditions in Morocco apparently have entered on a critical stage, according to cable advices received at the state department from Hoffman Philip, the acting American consul at Tangier, who says that the foreign ministers, including himself, are awaiting instructions. Philip was promptly directed, in the event that serious trouble should appear imminent, to advise American citizens in Morocco to come into Tangier.

Army Officer Killed Himself

Washington, Dec. 29.—A telegram from the superintendent of construction at Chattanooga says that Captain Howard W. French, quartermaster in charge of construction at Chickamauga, was found dead near the border of the army post reservation. A subsequent telegram said that French accidentally killed himself. The accounts of French are said to be in first-class shape.

Centurian Saw Sights of Gotham

Ridgebury, N. Y., Dec. 29.—Israel Burt, who, up to the time he was 100 years old, had never ridden on a railroad, died here last night, aged 104. His death occurred in a house near where he was born. Three years ago Burt was taken to New York at the expense of a New York newspaper and for a week was shown the sights of the city.

Requisition Papers Corrected

Albany, Dec. 29.—Governor Odell's warrant for the extradition of Dr. Chadwick from New York to Ohio has been mailed to Sheriff Barry at New York city. Judge Joyce, the governor's requisition clerk, got the governor on the telephone in New York and obtained his approval of the corrected requisition papers.

Accidentally Killed Sister

Buffalo, Dec. 29.—Grace Sullivan, aged 8, was accidentally shot and killed by her brother Daniel, aged 12. He was about to show her how an air-rifle worked, and, not knowing that it was loaded, pointed it at her and pulled the trigger. The bullet entered her left eye and lodged in the brain.

Addicks Still In the Field

Dover, Del., Dec. 29.—J. E. Addicks announced at a caucus of the Union Republicans last night that he is still in the contest for United States senator. After the conference it was said that all but four of the Union Republicans had voted to support Addicks as a candidate indefinitely.

Says Trick Ballots Were Used

Baltimore, Dec. 29.—Congressman Jackson (Rep.) has served formal notice upon Thomas A. Smith (Dem.) that he will contest the seat in the 59th congress for the First district of Maryland. Jackson denies that Smith was legally elected, alleging that trick ballots were used.

No Fighting Until Spring

Huanshan, Dec. 29.—Everything continues quiet along the front of the hostile armies. There is little expectation of a decisive movement till spring, when it will be possible for both sides to throw in strong reinforcements and re-commence the campaign in earnest.

CITY BREVITIES.

Mrs. E. A. Penniman returned Tuesday from Brockton where she spent Christmas with her son George.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Lincoln, Jr., and family spent the holidays with relatives in Marshfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Merritt and family of Elm place, spent the holidays with relatives in Scituate.

It is said that the Council of 1905 will be invited to be present at the dinner of the Council of 1904.

The barge Shenandoah brought a big cargo of coal which C. Patch & Son can recommend. It is in stove and nut sizes.

Choice flowers from the Monatiquot greenhouses at Quincy Neck cheered a great many homes at the Christmas season.

The rain Tuesday and Wednesday cleared the snow from the ponds and there should be good skating if the present cold snap holds.

It will be several weeks yet before the west side of the new bridge near the Atlantic station will be so that carriages can pass over it.

A baby girl was born to Mr and Mrs. H. F. Bates of Wollaston, now at Berwick, Me., Monday morning, Dec. 26. Mother and child are doing well.

Arthur W. Newcomb is doing quite a business in the sale of photographs taken at the shipyard. Many are pleased to show out of town friends what is being done in Quincy.

Panama is attracting considerable attention now and the illustrated lecture by Rev. Peter McQueen at Quincy Point next Wednesday should be entertaining and instructive.

A Watch night service will be held at the West Quincy Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. A. W. L. Nelson, D. D., of Cochituate, will preach the sermon. Service will begin at 10 o'clock.

Several of the City departments desired to asked the City Council for more money early in November, but Mayor Bryant said no, and they had to get along with their appropriation.

It is again necessary to complain of the dangerous condition of the fence on South street, near the Fore River house. After some serious accident happens at this place, probably repairs will be made.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

PROSPERITY FOR ALL.

And we, having had a prosperous business the past year, do hereby PROMISE all of our REGULAR CUSTOMERS that during the month of January, we will sell them our Goods at COST.

This is no cut-price sale, or stamp giving scheme, just simply giving them a cash reduction on all bill of goods bought of us in the next thirty days. We think this is a good, clean, wholesome way to show our appreciation of your trade, past and future.

We have never encouraged stamp or premium business, relying wholly on the quality of our goods to satisfy our trade. And our splendid business the past year shows our good judgment on that question. And now we are prepared to do business with our Regular Customers at Cost. THEY CAN HAVE THE PROFIT OF OUR BUSINESS FOR THE NEXT THIRTY DAYS.

DOSE OF MORPHINE

Despondent Chums Agreed to End Their Lives Together

TALE OF THE SURVIVOR

Talked Over Their Troubles In Boston, Went to New York, Went to Theatres and Drank Heavily and Then Took Poison

New York, Dec. 29.—Benjamin J. Riley of Springfield, Mass., declares that he and Orestes A. Weed of Boston came to this city with the intention of committing suicide together. The two men were taken from the Grand Union hotel here suffering from morphine poisoning, and Weed died at the hospital after the physicians had tried for hours to save him. Riley was revived and was transferred to the prison ward of Bellevue hospital, where he is held on a charge of attempted suicide. It is thought that he will recover.

According to Coroner Scholer, Riley, who gave his home as Brookline, a suburb of Boston, made the following statement:

"Weed and I have been chums since boyhood. We knew each other well and when we became older we separated and met only occasionally. We saw each other at least three or four times a year and last Sunday we happened to meet in Boston. We chatted for some time and told each other of the trials we had encountered during the past six months. Both of us had met with poor success and we were both what you may term as down and out.

"Neither of us had anything that gave any promise and we were downhearted. In some manner, how I do not know, our talk drifted to suicide, and one of us proposed, I can't tell which one, that we should commit suicide together. Both of us agreed and then we made preparations to die."

Riley then told the coroner of how they left Boston and came to this city. They went immediately to the Grand Union hotel, where they registered and were assigned to a room. Riley said that in their room he and Wood discussed the best methods of ending their lives and it was finally decided to take morphine. They left the hotel late Tuesday afternoon together, he said, and went to a drug store, where they purchased the poison.

"We were to die that night," the man continued, "but one of us proposed to put it off for a few hours. We had some money and we decided to spend that before we died. Then, too, we were very nervous. We went around the city and visited several of the theatres and also drank heavily."

Riley then stated that they went to their room on Tuesday night shortly before midnight and that each took a dose of morphine. When he had finished his story he was told by the coroner that Weed had died. Riley then said:

"I am now awfully sorry that I tried to die. I want to live and in the future will do my best to earn my living. I am awfully sorry to hear that Weed is dead. He was a fine fellow and was married and had two children."

Mrs. Weed was notified and came on from Boston at once. She called at the hospital and later visited the morgue, where she was shown the body of her husband. She was told that she could not have the body removed until an autopsy was performed. Mrs. Wood stated that she would secure a permit for the removal of the body after the autopsy and that it would be taken to Boston for burial.

Riley Once Under Surveillance

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 29.—The police here believe that Benjamin J. Riley, who is detained in Bellevue hospital on the charge of attempting suicide, is the son of Mrs. Lizzie N. Riley of 32 Cypress street, and Mrs. Riley is convinced that he is her son. Young Riley, who is 19 years old has been in the habit of spending his vacations in New York, and left for there last week. How he became acquainted with Weed is not known here. According to City Marshal Stebbins, Riley has been in the habit of taking morphine. The family deny this. He was at one time under the surveillance of the police. He is well known in Springfield and has a wide acquaintance outside.

Cotton Farmers Burn Product

Fort Gaines, Ga., Dec. 29.—The farmers and merchants of Clay county met here and decided to burn their share of 2,000,000 bales of surplus cotton. A starter was made when a fire was made of cotton on the streets of Fort Gaines. The object is to show that the farmers are ready to sacrifice a few bales for the benefit of the masses. The fire is still burning and excitement is increasing.

Coal Barge Turned Turtle

Portland, Ore., Dec. 29.—The barge Monarch, with 500 tons of coal on board, turned turtle in the Willamette river and six men on board were thrown into the river. Five of the men were rescued, but one was carried down with the coal and drowned.

Beef For the Far East

Seattle, Dec. 29.—The steamship Tacoma, which is now loading cargo here for the Orient, will take 2000 tons of salt beef. It is reported that the beef is consigned to the Russians at Vladivostok.

MURDER AT BOSTON

Police Say That Jealousy Was Motive For Wife Killing

Boston, Dec. 29.—John Ricker, a teamster, is under arrest, charged with the murder of his wife in a room occupied by the couple at a Sullivan street lodging house in the Charlestown district.

The body of Mrs. Ricker was found by the police, who were called to the house by other inmates. Two women told the police that Ricker had called their attention to the body of his wife lying upon the floor of the room, and exclaimed: "There is her body. I have just killed her." Ricker then left the house, but was arrested an hour later.

Mrs. Ricker received two bullet wounds in the mouth and must have been instantly killed. The police say that Ricker was jealous of his wife, and that the shooting followed a quarrel. The man had been drinking, and when brought to the station nothing definite regarding the tragedy could be learned from him.

Ricker is about 40 years old, while his wife is 10 years his junior. They have one child, a boy, 9 years old, who is now with his grandmother in Brockton.

Citizenship Is Questioned

Boston, Dec. 29.—Mayor Mildon of Marlboro, who alleges that Mayor-elect Parsons was not a native American or a naturalized citizen, has taken official action by filing a petition in the supreme court for a writ of mandamus to prevent his successor from taking office. Parsons denies the allegations and maintains that he was naturalized Oct. 12, 1865. The petition will be heard before Judge Braley.

Charged With Stealing Metal

Nashua, N. H., Dec. 29.—Samuel Cohen of Chelsea, Mass., was arraigned here, charged with breaking and entering the Nashua Machine company's works and the larceny of $865 worth of metal. He pleaded not guilty, but was held under bonds of $1500. Cohen was arrested at his home in Chelsea several weeks ago and vigorously fought the extradition proceedings.

Dry Times For Saco

Saco, Me., Dec. 29.—City Marshal Dennett personally vesited a number of places yesterday and notified the proprieters that he would vigorously prosecute any infraction of the liquor law. Every drug store in the city was visited today for the purpose of informing the proprietors that he will cause the arrest of any druggist selling liquor without a bonafide prescription.

To Abandon Branch Railroad

Boston, Dec. 29.—Announcement is made by the Boston and Maine Railroad company of its intention to abandon East Boston at the close of the year. This means a discontinuance of both its freight and passenger business over this branch. The passenger traffic is hardly worth considering, as only one train a day has been run.

Woman An Alleged Embezzler

New Haven, Dec. 29.—Mrs. Margaret A. Toomey, who has been postmistress at Leete's Island, in the town of Guilford, was brought before Commisioner Wright, charged with embezzling $850 of the funds of the postoffice. Ex-Judge Harrison furnished the bond of $1000 for Mrs. Toomey, pending a hearing of her case.

Quarrel Wound Up With Shooting

Norwich, Vt., Dec. 29.—Will Eastman is being held by the local authorities at West Norwich on a charge of shooting Frank Broughton. Broughton's wound, which is in the leg, is not considered serious. The officers understand that the shooting, which occurred late yesterday afternoon, followed a quarrel over a woman.

Police Find Kidnapped Boy

Boston, Dec. 29.—Willie Doran, 6 years old, who three weeks ago was abducted from the Home for Destitute Children, a Catholic charitable institution, was located by the police last night and returned to the home. Kate Scott, 30 years old, who claimed to be the mother of the child, was held as a suspicious person.

Goodman Gives Himself Up

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 29.—Jacob Goodman, in whose tailoring shop a fire started Tuesday night and for whom the police have been searching, walked into police headquarters last night and was placed under arrest, charged with being a suspicious person.

No Hope For the Ferguson

Nantucket, Mass., Dec. 29.—It is now believed that schooner George B. Ferguson, which went aground in the outer harbor during the storm of Dec. 17, will be a total loss. A powerful pump has been kept constantly at work, but with little effect.

Princess Radziwill to Sue Executors of Rhodes Estate

London, Dec. 29.—The Daily Chronicle states that Princess Radziwill has decided to bring action against the executors of the estate of Cecil Rhodes with the object of vindicating her character from accusations in connection with her personal relations with Rhodes.

Princess Radziwill was sentenced to two years' imprisonment by the supreme court of Cape Colony, April 30, 1902, for forgery in connection with notes purporting to have been endorsed by Rhodes. She was liberated from prison in August, 1903. The princess is the daughter of the Austrian Count Dymski, formerly one of the great landed proprietors of Galicia. She eloped with Prince Radziwill on the eve of the day set for her marriage to a wealthy manufacturer. About four years ago she appeared in London, where she lived in luxurious style. Subsequently she moved to South Africa, where she attempted to float evidence of credit purporting to have been signed by Cecil Rhodes, but which were repudiated by him. Several suits tried at Cape Town finally culminated in her conviction.

It was alleged by the London papers that Rhodes' death was due to the worry which she caused him and to the fact that he was obliged to return to South Africa in the hottest weather to prosecute the case against her.

The Case of Mrs Bergin

New York, Dec. 29.—Mrs. Ivernia G. Bergin, who was arrested in her home in New Haven, is said to have confessed to a charge of passing worthless checks when brought before Chief of Police Murphy in Jersey City. The checks aggregated about $1500. On threat of prosecution, Murphy said, she paid cash to cover the checks, but raised the cash on a $1500 check given to A. L. Cushing. It is Cushing who is the present complainant against Mrs. Bergin. Mrs. Bergin was arraigned before Judge Blair and bail was fixed at $2000, which was furnished.

Dix Declines to Preside

Philadelphia, Dec. 29.—Rev. Dr. W. B. Bodine of this city, who will preside at the inquiry into the charges of Rev. Ingram N. W. Irvine against Bishop Ethelbert Talbot of the central Pennsylvania diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church, announces that he has received the presentment and that it will not be made public. He has received a letter from Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix of New York, who declined to preside at the inquiry.

Ambassador Choate to Resign

London, Dec. 29.—While numerous semi-official statements have been published here that Ambassador Choate is about to retire from diplomatic life, it can be stated that Choate has not sent any communication on the subject to President Roosevelt or the state department. It can be safely asserted, however, that it is Choate's intention to tender his resignation soon after the inauguration of President Roosevelt.

Whipped For Insulting Women

Natchez, Miss., Dec. 29.—A. T. Lewis of Chicago, a white man, was being taken to the county convict farm to serve a sentence for insulting women on the streets here, when a crowd of six white men took him from the guard, carried him to the woods three miles from town, stripped him and gave him 60 lashes across the back, then placed him on a train and ordered him to leave the state.

Shortage In Bank Accounts

Dedham, Ia., Dec. 29.—The state bank of Dedham has been placed in the hands of a receiver and an effort will be made to liquidate its affairs, which are involved through an alleged $15,000 shortage of Cashier Caton. Caton has admitted his shortage and efforts are being made to secure settlement.

Japs to Instruct Chinese

London, Dec. 29.—The Morning Post's Shanghai correspondent says the Chinese government is discharging the German military instructors throughout the Yangste region and replacing them with Japanese.

New Guns For British Army

London, Dec. 29.—The war office yesterday placed orders with ordnance manufacturers for sufficient 18½-pounder field guns to practically rearm the whole of the British army.

NOTICE TO PARENTS.

City Clerk's Office, Dec. 30, 1904.

THE Record of Births in any city or town is always more or less unsatisfactory, owing to the fact that the canvasser finds difficulty in getting the necessary information. Names and dates are frequently given incorrectly. The importance of accuracy is shown in many cases where there is a question of descent, or inheritance of property, or collection of life insurance or pensions. The City Clerk's copy of the record is accepted as conclusive evidence in a court of law. While great pains are taken by his office to have the records correct, experience shows that it is necessary that parents themselves should lend their assistance. In fact, the law requires that parents shall give notice to the City Clerk of the birth of their children and provides a penalty for neglect to give such notice for the space of 10 days.

It often happens that only children or servants are at home when the canvasser makes his call, and the answers to his questions are open to doubt. I therefore request all parents in whose household a birth has occurred in the year 1904, to place upon a paper or card the required information, and keep it in a convenient place until the canvasser appears.

The canvasser will begin on Jan. 2, 1905

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Gotham Policeman Unexpectedly Faces Murder Charge

SHOT DOWN A WATCHMAN

Coroner's Jury Had Discharged Him, but District Attorney Was Not Satisfied and Conducted a Rigid Investigation

New York, Dec. 29.—When Frank McLaughlin, a patrolman, appeared in the criminal court to plead to an indictment charging assault upon James P. Robbins, a newspaper reporter, he was ordered committed to the Tombs without bail on a charge of murder in the first degree. The new charge was based upon an indictment which District Attorney Jerome said would be returned by the grand jury.

McLaughlin was once before arrested in connection with this case, which charges the killing of John W. Patterson, a watchman. The coroner's jury found that he shot Patterson in self-defense and he was discharged. The district attorney was not satisfied with that disposition of the case, however, and began an investigation which, he says, has resulted in an indictment charging murder in the first degree.

The assault charge upon which McLaughlin was brought into court has attracted considerable attention in police circles. When McLaughlin's counsel asked for a postponement of the case District Attorney Jerome said:

"Your honor, I have absolutely no objection to a postponement of the assault case, but that is not the charge now before the court. This man has been arrested on a warrant charging him with murder in the first degree, the brutal and unwarranted killing of a negro last May. The grand jury has been examining witnesses in the matter for several days and I was informed by the foreman today that an indictment for murder in the first degree will be returned against the prisoner tomorrow afternoon."

The policeman turned pale, shook from head to foot, and grasped the railing for support. His lawyer looked in amazement at Jerome, who went on:

"On the night of May 27 this prisoner, without the slightest provocation, stepped up behind a respectable colored man, J. W. Patterson, who was employed as a watchman, and struck him over the head with his club. In falling, the negro grappled with his assailant, and during a struggle this man drew his revolver and fired two shots, both inflicting slight injuries. The victim managed to get to his feet and run. As he ran this man fired again and shot him down, the bullet entering his back.

"The negro died from his wound on June 6, and a short time afterwards a coroner's jury exonerated the prisoner. I was not satisfied and began a rigid investigation. That investigation convinced me a deliberate murder had been committed, and the grand jury reached the same conclusion."

McLaughlin was taken to the Tombs.

Guilmette Guilty of Murder

Crookston, Minn., Dec. 29.—Joseph Guilmette of Woonsocket, R. I., was found guilty of murder in the first degree for killing Mathias Mongeon. The men, who had just returned from the harvest fields, were thought to have quarrelled over the earnings of the past summer. The verdict carries with it life imprisonment or hanging. Guilmette was brought here from Woonsocket for trial.

HUB'S NEW TUNNEL

Great Jollification Attends Its Formal Opening

IS BUILT UNDER HARBOR

Unites Boston Proper With Section Formerly Kown as Noddle Island--Facts Regarding Great Engineering Feat

Boston, Dec. 30.—All the residents of Noddle Island, as East Boston was known in colonial days, united last night in celebrating the official opening of the new tunnel under Boston harbor, uniting East Boston with the city proper. Although the tunnel was not opened for public traffic until this morning, yesterday was given over to final trips of inspection by state and city officials and to a grand jollification arranged by the East Boston Citizens' committee.

During yesterday the tunnel was inspected by state and city officials, while last night more than 500 members of the East Boston Citizens' committee made the trip under the harbor. Following this there was a street parade in East Boston, followed by a banquet in Masonic hall. Bands were stationed in all the sections of Noddle Island, and the district was ablaze with fireworks throughout the evening. At the banquet in Masonic hall speeches were made by many prominent citizens.

The East Boston tunnel which extends underneath Boston harbor, from the mainland to East Boston, on Noddle island, is one of the longest subwater tunnels in the world. Its total length is 1 1-4 miles, although only 2700 feet of this is under water. This length is exceeded by the Mersey tunnel at Liverpool, which has 3960 feet, but it is greater than the Blackwall tunnel at London, and the Port Huron and the Glasgow tunnels.

The East Boston tunnel was constructed at a cost of $3,000,000 by the city of Boston, which has leased it for a term of 25 years, dating from 1897, to the Boston Elevated Railway company, which will use the tunnel exclusively for the passage of its electric cars between Boston and East Boston. About 4½ years have been consumed in constructing the tunnel, in the accomplishment of which many difficult engineering problems had to be solved, chiefly on account of the maze of underground pipes, sewers and wires located on the Boston side of the harbor, and also because of the at all times perilous nature of the work of digging the large passage-way underneath the bed of Boston harbor.

The tunnel is built entirely of concrete and is the only tunnel of that kind in the world. It has a maximum width of 23 feet, 8 inches, and an average height under the harbor of 20 feet, 6 inches. There is a depth of earth between the top of the tunnel and the bed of the harbor of about 20 feet, the lowest point of the tunnel being about 90 feet below mean high water. When Boston harbor is dredged, however, to the anticipated depth of 40 feet, the depth of earth covering the tunnel will not exceed five feet.

The interior diameter of the tunnel is 20 percent greater than that of the St. Clair tunnel and 30 percent greater than the Hudson river tunnel. The tube is declared by experts to be absolutely fireproof and practically safe against leakage. The system of ventilation includes the employment of a duct running through the upper part of the tunnel, with an air-exhaust by the use of electric fans.

The actual beginning of the tunnel on the Boston side is at Sccllay square, and from this point the average time of a trip through the tunnel to the terminal at Maverick square, East Boston, is expected to be 4½ minutes, although a trolley car has covered the distance in 1:56.

The construction of the tunnel was marked by four fatalities to workmen, while many others suffered from "caisson" or air pressure disease

The Boston Elevated Railway company will pay as annual rent for the use of the tunnel 3-8 of 1 percent of the company's gross receipts, or $45,000 on the basis of last year's earnings. All persons using the tunnel must pay a toll of 1 cent in addition to the regular car fare, which passes to the city to pay interest on bonds issued and eventually to bring about their redemption.

Midshipmen In Disgrace

Washington, Dec. 30.—Three midshipmen detected in an attempt to smuggle liquor into the naval academy during the holidays have been ordered to the prison ship Santee for the remainder of the academic year and will lose their September vacation. In addition the offenders have been given 100 demerits each. Their names are not obtainable.

Georgia Negro Lynched

Neal, Ga., Dec. 30.—Herbert Simmons, a negro, was lynched here for killing J. A. Park. The negro was taken from the officers while being carried to jail and after being strung up on a tree his body was riddled with bullets.

UNWELCOME VISITOR

Shipyard Man While Drunk Enters A House.

William Shinnick, an employe at the Fore River works was found Thursday afternoon under a bed in the house of Capt. Snow on Chestnut street. Shinnick was under the influence of liquor and had been refused passage on an electric car.

He started to walk but got mixed, and in some way found himself in the rear of Capt. Snow's house. He opened the door and walked in. Shortly after he was discovered in one of the sleeping rooms by Capt. Snow's sister. Shinnick discovered her at the same time, and made a dive under the bed.

Officer Crooker was called and he pulled Shinnick out by the leg from his hiding place and placed him under arrest.

He was arraigned in court for drunkenness and fined $3.

Chattanooga on Trial Trip

Newport, R. I., Dec. 30.—The new protected cruiser Chattanooga, commenced by the Crescent Shipyard company at Elizabethport, N. J., and completed by the government at the Brooklyn navy yard, is having her official speed trial today in Narragansett bay. She is expected to develop a speed of at least 16.5 knots an hour, the speed called for in the original contract.

The Chadwick Bail Question

Cleveland, Dec. 30.—The Plain Dealer says that Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick will be released on bail within a few days. At least an effort will be made in that direction. Mrs. Chadwick herself has expressed her desire to terminate her residence in the county bastile and, according to her attorney, Jay P. Dawley, she alone has the deciding vote in the bail question.

Colorado's Political Muddle

Denver, Dec. 30.—Very few members of the legislature have arrived in the city and whether the plans of some of the Republican leaders to reseat Governor Peabody will be adopted by a majority of the Republican members is still undecided. Some Republican members will oppose any plan for keeping Adams out of the governorship.

Insurance Companies Hard Hit

Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 30.—From careful figures, compiled by 21 fire insurance agencies in Sioux City, it is shown that insurance companies will have to pay out a total of $1,160,350 as a result of the fire here on Dec. 23.

POLICE PRIZES.

Inspector McKay Heads List as the Best Shot.

Inspector Daniel R. McKay, Captain Mark E. Hanson and Patrolman Edward Johnson are the three officers who will receive the prizes of $15, $10, and $5 in gold offered by Mayor Bryant for the three best revolver shots.

The shooting has been going on for the past two weeks and was completed this week. Each officer had eighteen shots and the best possible score was 180. Inspector McKay scored 99, Capt. Hanson 64 and patrolman Johnson 55. Officer Goodhue gave Officer Johnson a close call for third place, his score being 53. Mayor Bryant will probably present the prizes this week.

A Convict's Revenge.

The great play a Convict's Revenge will be the attraction at Hancock hall, Quincy, on Saturday night.

The C. J. Gorman big company will give the presentation and will also include the great Illustrated songs and Moving pictures by Ed McDermott. This is Mr. McDermott's third appearance with his moving pictures in Quincy and at every appearance he gives a new series of pictures.

The Convict's Revenge play tells the story of a man sent to prison to shield a guilty brother and is a very fine play.

LAID AT REST

Funeral of Councilman Melville C. Holmes.

Attended by the City Council.

Eulogy by the Rev. Leon H. Austin.

The funeral of Councilman Melville C. Holmes was held Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the chapel of Bethany church. The services were conducted by Rev. Edwin N. Hardy, pastor of Bethany church, assisted by Rev. Leon H. Austin, pastor of the Washington Street Congregational church at Quincy Point.

The services were largely attended. Besides many personal friends of the deceased, Quincy lodge, N. E. O. P., was present in a body. A number of City Council and City Officials were also present. These included President Nichols, Councilman Adams, Bass, Johnson, Spargo, Langelier, Stone, Hardwick, Whiton and Piper, Clerk of Council C. A. Spear, Assessor Johnson, City Auditor Sidelinger, City Messenger Tirrell, ex-Mayor John O. Hall, Councilman-elect Burgess, Representative-elect H. S. Nicoll and A. G. Dolliver, chairman of the Republican City Committee.

Rev. Mr. Hardy offered prayer and read the scriptures, and Rev. Mr. Austin pronounced the eulogy. He briefly outlined the life of Mr. Holmes, speaking particularly of his work in the Sons of Veterans and for the success of the Republican party. His illness coming so soon after his election was a bitter disappointment to him and to those who elected him.

He was a clean moral man, who abhored sham. He placed a high standard for himself and desired it of others, and was never unfair either consciously or unconsciously. He trusted God, and so peacefully without a struggle, he passed on.

During the services a quartette composed of Mrs. E. C. Page, Mrs. Edith C. Fitts, T. B. Pollard and H. B. Seller sang "Lead Kindly Light," "My Jesus as Thou Wilt," and "Abide with Me."

The remains were encased in a black covered casket and were surrounded by a wealth of beautiful flowers. These included a huge bank from the City Council, a star from New England Order of Protection, a broken column, wreaths, pillows and many bouquets from the family and friends. There were also pieces from the Woman's Relief corps and Ladies' Aid Auxillary.

After the services an opportunity was afforded to view the remains. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston.

The bearers were from the City Council and were President Nichols and Councilmen Stone, Langelier, Hardwick, Whiton and Piper.

Free Delivery for Braintree Postponed Two Months.

The date for the consolidation of the Braintree and Quincy post offices has been changed from Jan. 1 to March 1.

The change was made necessary as it was found that the offices, especially at South Braintree, were indequate for free delivery service, and it was impossible to fit up new quarters before Jan. 1.

The change in the date for consolidation will also allow the selectmen to complete the house numbering which has already been commenced.

Fancy Dress Ball.

A children's fancy dress ball was given Thursday afternoon in Music Hall, Atlantic, by the pupils of Miss Lena Crane of Ashmont. There were about twenty couples in the grand march and the little fairies and flower-girls, Indians and sailors, Puritan maids and brownies, were as fair a picture as the eye of an artist could behold anywhere. The dances were mostly fancy, showing the skilful training of the little ones in difficult figures, the western schottische and the minuet. The unmasking took place in the Portland fancy and the smiling face of each as partner faced partner amused the spectators. Miss Crane is greatly admired by her small pupils and greatly to be praised for her success with them. Miss Florence Ireland was at the piano.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

In casting about for the secret of Mrs. Chadwick's success with usually cautious financiers, someone has found it in the psychology of her clothes.

It is said that some manufacturer has been improving cigarettes with Paris Green. Now, if some inventor will improve the Paris Green of commerce with cigarettes we may hope for the extermination of the boll weevil.

This is the season and weather for gum shoes which have greatly deteriorated in quality. They are not as durable as they used to be. An extensive buyer says there are only two kinds the bad and the very bad and that the first kind are very hard to find.

A ballet girl has sued a theatrical manager for saying she was not beautiful enough. She is entitled to damages for any woman with rats, false hair, paint, powder, belladonna teeth and other suspected accessories is beautiful enough for the stage.

The annual financial report of the city will probably show a reduction in the municipal debt on Jan 1. While this is a move in the right direction, it was possible only because of the deadlock over the High school enlargement, and the failure to provide accommodations has been a handicap to the pupils and an injury to the city. May the City Council of 1905 get together promptly and meet the exigency.

The proposed increase of salaries, which threatened to embarrass the administration of Mayor-elect Thompson, by increasing the current expenses of the city, have been happily disposed of. Those referred to the Council of 1905 cannot become operative until 1906. Few outside the City Council realize the workings of the law limiting the amount which can be raised annually for current expenses. The amount which can be raised by taxation in 1905 is already fixed, and will not be affected by any increase or decrease in valuation made by the Assessors of 1905. Changes in valuation will affect only the tax rate of 1905, and that only to a limited extent.

Drift of Opinion.

Ought men and women to be fed at the expense of the charitable, to have their rent paid and things made easy for them in the cities where they can find no work, when they will not accept honorable work, well paid, in the country? One reason for the abandonment of farms is not the high cost of production nor the price of labor, but the impossibility of getting labor of any kind. The good aspect of this state of things is the proof it offers that the people who a few years ago were glad to take any wages that offered, are now so prosperous that they can dictate terms. But, if a healthy young woman refuses with scorn an offer of $5 a week and her board because the woman who employs her lives in the country, is it wise and philanthropic to support her in idleness while she is getting a place? Is it well to give a robust man a meal or a lodging when he is out of work because he is out of work on account of his refusal to accept $30 a month and his board on a farm?—The Christian Register.

REDUCED IN RANK

Police Officers Responsible For Tech Riot at Boston

EXCESSIVE FORCE USED

No Evidence to Identify Any Patrolman Who Used His Club --A Stigma Upon Conduct of Students at Celebrations

Boston, Dec. 30.—The Boston board of police commissioners, which investigated the riot at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology two months ago, which followed a political parade of students, find that the leading officers in charge of the patrolmen sent to preserve order were guilty of neglect of duty in not properly restraining the patrolmen under them. The board orders Captain G. A. Hall, who was in charge of the squad, reduced to the rank of lieutenant, and Lieutenant H. J. Watkins, Captain Hall's assistant, reduced to the rank of sergeant.

Sergeants Fitzgerald, Hayden, Ringer and Sanford will hereafter be ordinary patrolmen, and Sergeants Sheehan, Arnold, Taylor and Good will lose 30 days' pay. Sergeants Eagan and Guard, in command of the mounted police at the technology grounds, were exonerated from all blame.

Regarding the patrolmen the report says:

"None of the evidence identifies any patrolman who used his club. If such patrolmen could have been identified we should have proceeded against them also.

"It is the duty of the police to enforce the laws and to preserve the peace and to protect the public from lawless assemblies. It is also their duty to do this with coolness and good judgment. They should not lose their heads because others do so. They should be patient and forbearing in times of excitement and resort to force only when more peaceable means have been tried without success."

In commenting on the report, the commissioners say: "We find that excessive force was used nd that the police in performing their duty did not use that prudent and careful forbearance, intelligence, tact and coolness which should be required of a well disciplined and highly efficient police force.

"It is greatly to be regretted that the custom has grown up of having trouble at all gatherings of students from the various institutions of learning. The example set to other gatherings of the people to emulate these acts of lawlessness and defiance of lawful restraint is productive of much mischief and trouble for the police in the arduous and difficult duties which they are constantly called upon to perform.

"The annoyance to which the public are frequently subjected by the conduct of the students ought to make them ashamed of it, and the fact that heavy details of police are always necessary whenever the students choose to assemble for any celebration is a stigma upon their conduct, which is greatly to be regretted, to say the least."

On the night of the riot about half a hundred Technology students were injured by clubs in the hands of the police. The institute officials had ordered the police to keep the stone steps leading to the Rogers building of the institute clear, but the students, not being aware of the order, attempted to climb the steps and give their customary cheer. A hand-to-hand encounter with the police followed. The Harvard students who were in the parade earlier in the evening did not go to the Technology grounds as had been expected, and they were not involved in the trouble.

The hearings of the case lasted about three weeks.

Santiago, Chile, Dec. 30.—The American charge of affairs here had a conference with the government, at which it was agreed that American sailors shall not be granted further shore leave, so as to prevent the recurrence of disorders.

More Trouble For Germany

Berlin, Dec. 30.—The continued shipment of troops to German Southwest Africa finds an explanation in colonial circles that the government intends to begin a campaign against the Ovambos so soon as the rest of the colony is pacified. It is believed that the operations against the Ovambos will prove to be a more serious matter than the recently ended campaigns against the Hereros and Witbois.

Three-Year Mining Contract

Sydney, N. S., Dec. 30.—Representatives of the Provincial Workmen's association last night signed the three-year contract proposed by the Dominion Coal company for mining of coal at present prices. The contract in question will only affect the miners in the employ of the Dominion Coal company.

CREW SAFELY LANDED

Steamer Drumelzier Abandoned as a Total Wreck

New York, Dec. 30.—With her signals of distress and her half-masted ensign still flying, the steamer Drumelzier was abandoned last night as a total wreck by her captain and a dozen officers and members of the crew, who were taken off the craft and landed on Oak island by the crew of the Fire Island life saving station.

Early in the day 18 men of the crew were taken off the stranded steamer by the surfboat of the Sandy Hook station, which was towed down to the scene. The men were brought here later on a tug. Captain Nicholson, Chief Engineer Wood and the remainder of the officers and crew decided to remain aboard until officially notified that the vessel had been placed in the hands of the wrecking company, in order to obviate any claim for salvage on the derelict.

At 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon the captain decided that it was unwise to remain longer on the ship, which was being terribly buffeted by the heavy seas, and asked immediate rescue. The crews of the nearby stations responded to his signals and after a hard struggle the men were taken off and landed at Oak island.

The rescue of the men on the Drumelzier was hazardous in the extreme and was attended by many thrilling incidents.

During the four days of peril the crew behaved splendidly. The engine room force toiled unceasingly until the conditions of the boiler compelled the shutting off of steam. However, a fire was kept up in the galley so that rations could be served to the crew, who sheltered themselves as best they could between decks. The officers and men landed on the beach with nothing save the slothes they stood in and a few effects.

Rescue of Northeastern's Crew

Norfolk, Dec. 30.—After being imprisoned on the wrecked oil steamer Northeastern, nine miles off Cape Hatteras, for 36 hours, Captain Wilder and his crew of 21 men were taken ashore by the crews of three life saving stations. The big steamer is pounding Diamond shoals under a terrific sea and the crew say she will be a total loss. In a bewildering fog, the Northeastern, on her way from Port Arthur, Tex., to New York, with a cargo of crude petroleum, shoved her prow into the sands off Hatteras and was fast before her crew realized what had happened. The force of the wind and tide threw her on her port beam and the flood of water extinguished her fires before her inflammable cargo could become ignited.

One Less Convict

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 30.—While a train carrying 130 convicts in the employ of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Railroad company was going from mine No. 3 to the prison, Will Filler, a negro convict, exploded a stick of dynamite in one of the coaches with a view to effecting a wholesale release. G. J. Dawkins, a convict, was killed, guard Pickett lost a leg and an arm, George Delaney, one of the trainmen was hurt and several convicts were slightly injured. During the stampede, guards from the cars rushed forward and prevented the escape of any of the convicts.

Hawaiians Not Inclined to Work

Washington, Dec. 30.—Governor Carter of Hawaii reports that the natives will not work in the fields and that the Americans cannot; hence the preservation of the sugar and rice industries is seriously threatened by the prohibition of the immigration of Chinese and the inability to grant aid to the Portuguese. He asks for a modification of the laws.

Attempted General Slaughter

Thomasville, Ga., Dec. 30.—After killing his mother-in-law, Mrs. W. H. Parrish, making a desperate attempt to kill his 18-year-old wife and shooting himself twice, J. B. Barrow is in a precarious condition. He is a railroad engineer and had been married only two years. Domestic infelicity is given as the cause of the tragedy.

Absconder Kept Under Cover

Lancaster, Pa., Dec. 30.—The county commissioners have accepted $46,000 from the sureties of Emanuel H. Hershey, the defaulting county treasurer, in full settlement of all claims against them. Hershey absconded five years ago, leaving a defalcation of $65,037.94. No clue to his whereabouts has ever been secured.

Handling of Torpedo Boats

Kiel, Germany, Dec. 30.—Emperor William has ordered that more attention be given hereafter to the education of naval officers to teaching them how to maneuver torpedo boats. Two torpedo boats have been designated to serve as training ships for this purpose. The training exercises will begin in January.

STORM MOUNTAIN

Japs Reach Parapets of Rihlung With Dynamite

FORT IS THEN OCCUPIED

Result of Months of Fighting, Sapping and Mining--Leaves Small Hopes For Other Forts Unless Help Soon Arrives

London, Dec. 30.—As a culmination of months of sapping and mining, and after many bloody actions involving the sacrifice of many lives, the Japanese have at last succeeded in capturing Rihlung mountain. The parapets of the fortifications first were blown up with dynamite, and the besiegers, rushing in through the breaches, managed to intrench themselves within in spite of a fierce fire, and finally carried the entire works. The besiegers lost 1000 men in the action, while the Russian garrison of 500 escaped.

The Tokio dispatch telling of this victory does not make it quite clear what the phrase "entire works" means. According to the military maps Rihlung fort is an advance work, and not a permanent fort. In other words, the main line of the defense may still be intact. If, on the other hand, the term "entire works" means Rihlung, East Rihlung, North Rihlung and West Rihlung, then the main chain of forts has been broken.

Whichever is the case, the Japanese have taken another step toward the accomplishment of their task of reducing the fortress. The fate suffered by Rihlung will eventually be that of most of the other forts, unless relief comes in some form. The garrison is too small, even if it has the full 16,000 men credited to it in recent dispatches, to be able to counter-mine against the Japanese mining, and at the same time defend the works against an enemy with a numerical superiority of at least five to one.

But an engineering siege of this kind is slow work. The difficulty in trying to follow accurately the different moves in this war is illustrated by the attempt of the press association to locate the position taken. It says (1) that it is situated on Rihlung mountain; (2) Rihlung is one of the "inner" chain of defenses; (3) that it is northeast of Port Arthur; (4) that it is southeast of Keekwan fort, recently captured; (5) that it is opposite 203-Meter hill.

According to Japanese military maps of the Port Arthur fortress the press association is right in only one particular, and that is the first proposition that Rihlung fort is situated on Rihlung mountain. As for the other counts it is an advance fort, according to the military maps; is north of Port Arthur and northwest of "North" Keekwan (not Keekwan) fort, recently captured, and is not opposite 203-Meter hill, unless by this is meant that it is on the other side of the railroad.

Where Japs Got a Bargain

St. Petersburg, Dec. 30.—The Russ, in the course of a sensational article attacking the policy of building Russian warships abroad and the marine administration generally, refers as an example to the case of the American-built Russian cruiser Variag, the plans of which, the paper says, when the Japanese wanted to raise her, the Cramps sold to Japan for $3000.

May Never Reach Destination

Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 30.—The last of a shipment of 1,000,000 pounds of barrelled beef has been started from a packing plant here to the besieged Russians at Port Arthur. The problem of getting the meat to the besieged army is left to the Russians to solve.

Escaped Russian Army Duty

Philadelphia, Dec. 30.—Of the 705 passengers brought here on the steamer Merion, more than 550 were Russians. Most of these were liable for duty in the army.

Double Suicide at New York

New York, Dec. 30.—The bodies of two men who had registered as George Weber and George Brown, and who, the police say, had evidently committed suicide together, were found last evening in a room in a Bowery lodging house. Both men were about 82 years old. Beside Weber was a vial containing cyanide of potassium.

Verdict of "Accidental Killing"

Chattanooga, Dec. 30.—An investigating board appointed by Colonel Pearson has concluded the inquiry into the cause of death of Captain Howard W. French, who was found dead with a bullet through his heart. While the board refused to give out its findings, it is understood that accidental killing was the verdict.

Cheated In Insurance

Chicago, Dec. 30.—S. W. Jacobs and C. W. VanAnden were sentenced to imprisonment on charges of using the mails to promote "wildcat" insurance deals. Jacobs was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary and fined $1000 and VanAnden to the house of correction for one year and fined $500.

Over a Hundred Bequests

Chicago, Dec. 30.—The will of the late George E. P. Dodge, a retired shoe manufacturer, has been admitted to probate. Dodge left an estate aggregating $2,000,000 and outside of the members of his immediate family he made 103 separate gifts, amounting in all to over $600,000.

Public Opinion Calls For Re-election of Senator Depew

New York, Dec. 30.—The following statement was given out last night at Republican state headquarters by Governor Odell in regard to the United States senatorship:

"As chairman of the Republican state committee of New York, after a long series of inquiries extending all over the state, I have reached the conclusion that party harmony will be best subserved by the re-election of Senator Depew. In the position which I occupy I am frequently called upon to pass upon the claims of friends and, while my sympathy may be, as was the case in the present senatorial contest, with one stronger than the other, yet one must recognize the fact that personal interests must always be subservient to party success.

"A month ago my knowledge of the situation in the state was not as complete as it is at present and those of my friends who thought that a change might be desirable for party reasons must now recognize the sentiment which has manifested itself all over the state so strongly for the return of Senator Depew. Such being the case, it would have been the worst kind of a party generalship to have run counter to this expressed public opinion."

A Sensational Arrest

New York, Dec. 30.—Charged with grand larceny, Miss Emma Page, daughter of William C. Page, of the firm of Page, Dennis & Co., scale manufacturers, was arrested at the home of her parents in Central park, and after being held a prisoner at a police station until late last night, was released on $1000 bail. It is charged that she obtained goods to the value of $265 in the names of other persons from a Sixth avenue department store. She had nearly $900 in her possession when arrested and, it is alleged, offered to settle the case, but the offer was refused. Miss Page is 33 years of age.

Legislature Fails to Organize

Dover, Del., Dec. 30.—After spending an entire day in fruitless balloting, the new legislature, which convened in extra session, adjourned without having effected a permanent organization. The deadlock was the result of differences between the Union (Addicks) Republicans and the regular Republicans over the division of the legislative offices. The Unions, who are in the majority, insist upon having two-thirds of the offices, while the regulars demand that they be equally divided.

Convicts Peppered With Bullets

Folsom, Cal., Dec. 30.—Seven of nine convicts at the state prison, who made a break for liberty, were almost riddled with bullets, three being dead and three in a critical condition. R. J. Murphy, a prison official, was shot in the leg and suffered two slight knife wounds. The convicts were all employed in the rock crusher, where 325 of the most desperate prisoners were at work. Murphy was acting as general overseer.

Politics and the Philippines

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Professor Reinich of the University of Wisconsin made a plea for better government of the Philippine islands before the American Political Science association. Political considerations, he asserted, were at the bottom of our taking over the islands, and have played too great a part in the methods of administration.

To Augment British Navy

London, Dec. 30.—According to The Daily Mail, the admiralty is preparing designs for new battleships of 17,000 to 18,000 tons and carrying 10 12-inch guns. These battleships will be the most powerful in existence, as the biggest in the American navy carry four 12-inch and 10 10-inch guns.

Not Liable For Iroquois Disaster

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Judge Walker has decided that the city of Chicago is not liable for damages growing out of the loss of life in connection with the Iroquois theatre fire and declares the city's position in opposing the litigation in 60 suits in which it is party defendant is well taken.

The Better Way

Union Teamsters at Boston Will Agree With Employes

Boston, Dec. 30.—"There will be no strike of the 6000 members of the Boston Team Drivers' union 25 for the establishment of its proposed agreement to run from Jan. 10, 1905, to Jan. 10, 1906," is the sentiment expressed both by the leaders of the union and the officials of the Master Teamsters' association.

The proposed agreement of the union to the masters provides for no changes in the present working conditions. The contract that the union wants the master teamsters to sign has been in force since January, 1903, in all particulars, with the one exception of the wages of drivers for one-horse light wagons, whose pay was raised by the 1904 agreement from $11 a week to $12.

The proposed agreement is in substance as follows: Eleven hours in 12, from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m., shall constitute a working day. One hour, on or as near the usual hour, 12 to 1, as possible, shall be allowed for dinner.

All time over and above said time shall be paid for at the rate of 25 cents an hour, or fractional part thereof, except Sundays and legal holidays, which shall be paid for at the rate of double time. If a man is called upon to work on a holiday he shall be paid 25 cents an hour additional.

Seizure of Contraband Game

Boston, Dec. 30.—A freight car in the freight yards at Charlestown was searched by members of the fish and game commisston and 12 deer, four halves of deer, two hindquarters of moose and 280 partridges were seized. The cargo was consigned to "Mrs. Clara Wilson" and marked "household goods." The game was taken to a cold storage warehouse, where it will be kept until the court directs its disposal. Neither Mrs. Clara Wilson nor the shipper of the game have been identified.

Good News For Union Men

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec. 30.—Union men of the building trades received a surprise when the announcement was made that the master carpenters' section of the local assembly of the Inter-State Contractors, Builders and Dealers' association, has voted down a proposition to declare for the "open shop" on Jan. 1, among all the contractors. It was expected that the "open shop" plan would be adopted.

Parsons a Full-Fledged Citizen

Boston, Dec. 30.—Mayor Mildon of Marlboro has withdrawn his petition to the supreme judicial court for a writ of mandamus to prevent Henry Parsons, the mayor-elect, from assuming office. He had learned definitely that Parsons was naturalized at Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 12, 1865; and that Parsons was prepared to produce in court the records of that naturalization.

Harvard's President Sick

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 30.—The unexpected cancellation at a late hour of an engagement by President Eliot of Harvard university on account of illness last night caused some uneasiness among the faculty and students of the university. Jerome D. Greene, private secretary to the president, announced, however, that Dr. Eliot's illness is not alarming.

Employer Forgives Embezzler

Boston, Dec. 30.—Harry H. Buxbaum of this city, a representative in the last legislature, convicted of embezzlement, was placed on probation by Judge Harris. Mr. McLellan, who employed Buxbaum as a bookkeeper, told the court that the prisoner had made restitution and that if he were not sent to prison McLellan would again employ him in a position of trust.

Killed on Railroad Crossing

Plymouth, N. H., Dec. 30.—Edward Harris, 38 years old, unmarried and employed as a barber at the Pemigewasset house, was driving home from a neighboring village when, in crossing railroad tracks, his sleigh was struck by a train and he was hurled some distance. He died without regaining consciousness.

Schooner Captain Drowned

Beverly, Mass., Dec. 30.—Schooner Henrietta Simmons of Portland, Me., bound home, had scarcely passed Salem harbor when her skipper, Captain Snowdon of Portland, aged 60, was struck by a swinging block and knocked overboard. Nothing was seen of the captain after he disappeared over the side.

For Municipal Lighting Plant

Boston, Dec. 30.—At its final session the common council of 1904, by a vote of 51 to 0, passed an order authorizing the city to own a municipal gas and electric light plant. The council then adjourned without day.

Want Sunday Liquor Selling

Hartford, Dec. 30.—A bill will be presented in the coming session of the general assembly by the Hotelkeepers' association of Connecticut to permit of the sale of liquors on Sunday in reputable hotels.

Was Juror In Famous Trial

Chicago, Dec. 30.—George Adams, one of the 12 jurors who decided the fate of the Haymarket anarchists, sending four to the gallows and two to the penitentiary, was yesterday declared insane. It is said Adams had received a number of threatening letters.

Michigan's Serious Blizzard

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 30.—The blizzard which has been sweeping northern Michigan for the past three days, the worst in years, has caused one death, numerous accidents and paralyzed business generally, causing heavy financial loss.

NOTICE TO PARENTS.

City Clerk's Office, Dec. 30, 1904.

THE Record of Births in any city or town is always more or less unsatisfactory, owing to the fact that the canvasser finds difficulty in getting the necessary information. Names and dates are frequently given incorrectly. The importance of accuracy is shown in many cases where there is a question of descent, or inheritance of property, or collection of life insurance or pensions. The City Clerk's copy of the record is accepted as conclusive evidence in a court of law. While great pains are taken by his office to have the records correct, experience shows that it is necessary that parents themselves should lend their assistance. In fact, the law requires that parents shall give notice to the City Clerk of the birth of their children and provides a penalty for neglect to give such notice for the space of 10 days.

It often happens that only children or servants are at home when the canvasser makes his call, and the answers to his questions are open to doubt. I therefore request all parents in whose household a birth has occurred in the year 1904, to place upon a paper or card the required information, and keep it in a convenient place until the canvasser appears.

The canvasser will begin on Jan. 2, 1905

CHILDREN'S STORIES.

Do Not Have the Moral In Them Too Painfully Visible.

"If there is anything a normal child dislikes," says a writer in the Woman's Home Companion, "it is a story with a self conscious, egotistical moral screaming for attention. I believe as firmly in the story with the moral as I do in the foundation of my hat, but do not want it any more painfully visible than I would want the wire hat frame showing, however useful it may be. Through experience I have learned that it is best to let the moral sink quietly and unconsciously into the child's mind, hoping that it may become diffused into his character. The plainly visible moral, I have found, is effective in bringing about immediate and amusing results, one child perhaps shaking his fist in the face of the moral and deliberately doing the opposite of its teaching, another child forcing an occasion to show that he means to follow its teaching or die.

"And this might bring up the subject of certain emotional books that older children read and enjoy in an abnormal way and which are harmful not only because they are emotional, but because the very children who are fond of such books are the ones who are led to actions prompted not by the sweetness of their own character, but through a sentimental attitude toward some canonized and unnatural little hero or heroine. Instead of developing character, such reading has a harmful influence in creating a surface character, forced and sentimental."

GIRLS' NAMES.

Let Them Be Dignified, Unaffected and In Good Taste.

If your name is "Grace" do not spell it "Grayce." If it is "Mary" do not spell it "Maymie." If it is "Katharine" do not spell it "Kathryn." The time may come when these "y" forms, as one might call them, may cease to seem silly and affected, but it has not yet arrived. If you were christened with a name of this description perhaps your parents will allow you to change it into the more dignified and sensible form. If you have been named "Nellie" or "Lutie" or "Myrtie" you may properly, with your parents' permission, call yourselves respectively "Helen" or "Ellen," "Lucy" or "Mercy" or even "Myrtle." Almost anything is better than "Myrtle" and the long list of enfeebled and languishing names of the same sort.

It is true that the names in the catalogues of our colleges for women are, as a rule, suitable and dignified, but in a certain large school for girls the "Maymies" and the "Lulies" flourish and abound. Such violations of good taste are not crimes against good morals, and yet we wish that some punishment might be devised which might help to banish them faster than the exasperatingly slow process of "universal education."—Harper's Bazar.

IMPORTANT DON'TS.

Don't sit facing a strong light.

Don't stoop or bend over while writing or reading.

Don't go too long without food. Hunger gives a strained look to the face.

Don't worry; but, if worry you must, keep the forehead smooth—don't wrinkle it.

Don't wear tight shoes. In time they bring a permanent agonized expression that is not beautiful to behold to even a young face.

Don't speak with all the muscles of the face. It is very charming and captivating to be deeply, deadly in earnest, but facial grimaces form creases, which in time become wrinkles.

Don't neglect ten minutes' rest during the day, if you can anyhow manage it, with the feet raised. It gives the whole body a great sense of repose and works wonders in smoothing out the lines of the face.

Odors In the House.

Food odors are not the only odors one has to fight against. Many furnishings and floor coverings have odors more or less unpleasant. This is an important objection to cheap materials; they are rarely odorless. You should select your furnishings with your nose. Even if the odor is not actually disagreeable the presence of any odors that are not a distinct pleasure gives a second rate atmosphere to a house. I wonder if the sense of smell is not deficient or lacking in a great many people; this seems sometimes the only possible solution of their indifference to the abominable odors in their houses. How people can, except under compulsion, endure houses pervaded with the smell of moth balls and gasoline. I cannot otherwise understand.—Good Housekeeping.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

The last Friday of the month and the last Friday of the year.

Leap year parties have not been as numerous this week as expected.

Special prices today and tomorrow for beef, lamb and potatoes at L. M. Pratt & Son's.

Members of the Norfolk bar had a banquet Thursday evening at Hotel Brunswick, Boston.

There will be a watch night service at the Atlantic M. E. church beginning at 9 o'clock Saturday evening.

The Granite Railway Co. has declared its regular semi-annual dividend of two per cent., payable Jan. 2. 1905.

"Look for a day or two of extreme cold weather" during the first week of January is the greeting of the Old Farmer's Almanac for 1905.

Three college men will address the Sunday evening meeting at Bethany church on "The college man's view of a christian life."

The mornings are now at their shortest, and the sun will rise a minute earlier Sunday Jan. 8. The afternoons are nine minutes longer.

Read the menu for a nice turkey dinner at Hotel Greenleaf on New Year's day. Price fifty cents. Parties can be accommodated by giving notice on Saturday.

G. A. Sandberg, of the United States Marines, who has been stationed at the World's Fair all summer, has been mustered out of service and has returned to Quincy.

Both the Quincy basket ball teams won at the Coliseum Thursday evening, the seniors defeating the Hinghams 16 to 3, and the juniors defeating the Hingham juniors 15 to 12.

Galen M. Fisher of Japan will address a union meeting at the Wollaston Baptist church Sunday evening at 7.30 in the interests of mission work for young men of Japan. The music will be by St. Chrysostom's choir.

Miss Mary Marden, for many years a teacher in Quincy, is in the Quincy Hospital where she underwent a very serious surgical operation on Monday last. Her many friends await the result with much anxiety.

One of the most enjoyable matinee whist parties of the season, was that held at the home of Mrs. B. Porterfield, Granite steeet, yesterday afternoon. Refreshments were served. The highest scores were 62 and 54 and souvenirs were awarded Mrs. Bessie R. Hobart, Miss Annie L. Hobart, Mrs. Jennie Langhorne, Mrs. G. F. Spooner and Mrs. Mary Thomas.

Recital.

One of the best entertainments given this season for the benefit of the organ fund of First church, was a recital at the chapel on Thursday evening by Mr. Charles Williams of Boston. Winston Churchill's much read novel, "The Crisis," was recited in four parts,—the slave auction and party; the Freeport debate; Virginia's lovers, and the man of sorrows.

From the first Mr. Williams had his audience with him, receiving the closest attention and hearty encores. The characters as interpreted by him, gained new interest. For a closing piece, by request, Mr. Williams gave two chapters from a "Real Diary of a Real Boy," which were exceedingly humorous, and brought to a happy ending a very pleasant evening.

EXTREMES MET.

In the Quincy--East Weymouth League Game.

Although the Quincys won one of their games with the East Weymouths on Thursday evening by 96 pins, they won only two games out of three.

It happened that the Quincys outdid themselves in the second game and rolled up a total of 436, while the best the visitors could do in that game was 340. None of the visitors scored over 82 while three were below 70.

In the first game Quincy won by 18 pins, and in the last game lost by 3 pins.

Loring of the East Weymouth team was high man of the evening in singles, while Grant of the Quincys had the best three-string total.

Christmas Party.

A Christmas party for the Sunday school, the choir, and the people of the parish of the St. Chrysostom's church, was held Thursday evening at seven o'clock, in Wollaston hall. An interesting entertainment was given, the program of which included a play by the Boys' Club entitled "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," in three acts. Act I—The Cabbage Patch Sunday School—Billy Wiggs finds a "boss." Act II—Mrs. Wiggs' morning call on Miss Hazy—Chris Hazy breaks his leg. Act III—The Benefit Dance. There were also readings by Mrs. H. T. P. Bates and music by members of the Boys' club; John Hamilton, piano; Charles Kolstad, violin; and Frank Snyder, violin. After the entertainment refreshments were served, and those who wished remained and spent the rest of the evening in dancing.

☞Eyeglasses fitted scientifically. No guess work.—Williams.

City Council Banquet.

The dinner of the City Council of 1904 will be held next Thursday evening, probably at Hotel Essex, Boston. The City Council of 1905 will be invited to attend.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

THE LITTLE NEW YEAR.

Welcome, Feasting and Bright Prophecies For the Future.

In the month of January the would be hostess has much to aid her. The holly and evergreen that belong to Christmastide are quite as much a part of New Year's belongings. Then there are the graceful southern mosses; in our own northern woods the season cannot hide Mother Earth's secrets! Moss, ferns yet green, lie under the snow, and many berries that make a scarlet touch of beauty. So a hostess cannot go far wrong in planning a New Year's dinner, says a writer in Table Talk.

With holly decorations perhaps the most charming effect is obtained by using a highly polished dining table without a cloth. A long table scarf of cream colored fishnet over pale green may cross the table on a slant. Two of the plates will rest on the two ends of this scarf, the others having under them round doilies of like design, and these and the scarf are edged with a most delicate cope of southern moss. The centerpiece is unique—a round log, lichen stained if possible, is placed there. It should be about eighteen inches long and as round in circumference as desired. A deep V is cut in the top the whole length of the eighteen inches, and this is filled to overflowing with holly.

The Yule log fancy is carried still further in the decoration, hollowed pieces of wood, the bark left on, serving as bonbon dishes. Name cards are small slabs of wood, the bark left on the under side. Little calendars are mounted on the top, and the name of the guest is painted in red letters beneath.

A suitable menu would be:

Oysters on Half Shell. Crackers.
Cream of Asparagus Soup.
Roast Turkey. Cranberry Sauce.
Potatoes au Gratin. Finger Rolls.
Celery Salad. Mayonnaise.
New Year's Pudding.
Fruit. Bonbons.
Coffee.

Almost any rich pudding—plum or other—will answer for the menu.

A charming after dinner feature is to have some friend (or the host himself perhaps) enter dressed as Father Time, come back "for just a moment from the old year." He can sit in the center of the group and prophesy in fortune telling language the gifts the "little New Year just arrived" will bring to them all. In many ways his wisdom can be gathered, by the popping of corn, the cracking of nuts and palmistry itself.

FURS OF THE SEASON.

Stylish and Becoming Are the Short Neck Scarfs and Long Boas.

The short fur scarfs and cravats will be welcomed cordially by the many women who have tired of the longer and heavier stoles, the form of which, to tell the truth, was really rather a calamity to the impecunious. These cravats, too, are younger looking, less heavy in effect.

The old fashioned boa is another pleasant revival. There is a certain grace and becoming quality in a boa which the flat stole, especially in a stiff or short haired fur, never possessed. With the return of the boa to favor will come some of the wiry haired furs which were unsuitable for stoles.

The stoles, however, remain the most imposing style in furs. An effective set in marten is here sketched, on which a fringe of tails occurs below the throat on either side of the stole and a similar fringe finishes the ends. Tails and paws ornament the lower edge of the big muff.

Chinchilla composes the second model, a cape stole formed of lines of the fur, divided by a decorative gray passementerie, the whole outlined by a soft double frill of gray chiffon. As a fur fitment to meet the requirements of both day and evening this deserves consideration.

Cottage Pudding.

Butter slices of bread, have ready stewed blackberries, strawberries or other fruit that is juicy, place a layer of bread in your pudding dish, then the fruit; then bread, and so on, until the pan is filled, having the top layer of bread. Bake in a rather moderate oven.

The Stuffing In the Turkey.

Modern cookery will not even let us stuff our turkey with bread, saying scientifically and in the most idol breaking way that bread acts like a sponge to draw out from the bird the juices and flavors and, while it may retain them, is most unwholesome eating.

PRETTY DANCE.

Party of the Terpsichorean Club Largely Attended.

One of the prettiest dances of the season was that of the Terpsichorean club Thursday evening at Music hall. The dance was very largely attended. The gowns of the ladies were exquisite, and as the couples glanced over the floor to the inspiring music of Lyons' orchestra it was a picture beautiful to look upon.

The dance was matronized by Mrs. John T. Cavanagh, Mrs. Edward J. Murphy and Mrs. Edward D. Barrett. They received in a cosy corner beneath a canopy of colored lights. The guests of the evening were presented by Walter E. Elcock, Edward D. Larkin, Richard H. McGrath and Joseph H. Elcock.

The dance was from 8 to 12 o'clock and opened with a twostep, and the program was made of the popular modern dances.

Frappe was served during the entire evening by Miss Gertrude Larkin, Miss Alice Dinegan and Miss Bessie Elcock.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER

Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water?

If you did what would you say of him?

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of Dandruff and to prevent Baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Canthrarides, Vaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots.

It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER.

Vol. 16. No. 305. QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1904. PRICE TWO CENTS.

NEW MAYOR WILL BE INAUGURATED MONDAY.

Elected by the Largest Plurality Ever Given in the City of Quincy.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETE

For the Ceremonies at City Hall at 12 o'clock Noon.

Considerable Interest in the Address of Mayor Elect Thompson.

HON. JAMES THOMPSON,
The Mayor-Elect for the Year 1905.

The sixteenth year of the city government will be inaugurated at 12 o'clock noon, on Monday. While the exercises will not differ materially from other years there will be an added interest this year from the fact that there will be a new Mayor, and also contests for the Presidency of the City Council and for City Auditor.

Walter F. Nichols, president of the City Council of 1904 is a candidate for re-election, and William G. Gassett is also announced as a candidate for the office.

George A. Sidelinger, City Auditor, voluntarily retires this year, and two ex-Mayors are seeking the election as Auditor. They are Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks and Hon. John O. Hall.

That the inauguration exercises will be largely attended there is no question more especially as people will want to learn the views of Mayor-elect Thompson.

Shortly before the hour of noon, City Messenger Tirrell, followed by Mayor Pennant, Mayor-elect Thompson, City Clerk Keith and Rev. Edward Norton will enter the Council chamber by the rear entrance.

Rev. Edward Norton will open the exercises with prayer.

This will be followed by administering the oath of office to Mayor Thompson and the councilmen by City Clerk Keith, who will preside at the exercises until the City Council organizes.

Mayor Thompson will then deliver his inaugural address.

Immediately following the address the City Council will organize by the election of a president. This must be done by roll call, and requires a majority. No other business will be in order until a choice is made.

Then come the election of Clerk [illegible] Clerk of Committees, a [illegible] City Auditor, and two [illegible] City Hospital, the latter [illegible] the Council.

So far as known there is no opposition to Christopher A. Spear and Harry W. Tirrell as clerk and messenger. There is however as noted elsewhere, a contest for the position of City Auditor.

Any new business will be in order but about the only thing done is to offer an order for a loan in anticipation of taxes which will be referred to a special committee, and an order for printing the annual reports.

It is probable that orders will also be introduced for the printing of the calendars and copies of the inaugural address. It has also been the custom some years to adopt the rules of the preceding council.

The only business routine remaining is the drawing of seats. The old members are usually permitted to retain the same seats as in 1904.

It is probable that Mayor Thompson will forward a list of appointments of constable for confirmation.

As the regular meeting of the City Council would be Monday evening the rules will be suspended and vote to adjourn to some date, probably to the next regular meeting night.

The Mayors of Quincy each year with their politics, and the purality by which they were elected, are given below:

Year.		Plurality.

The Daily Ledger makes a few interesting comparisons between the new Council and the old Council below. Where the Council of 1904 had only 3 new members and the second-year men were the most numerous, nearly a majority of the new Council are new men, 11 out of 23.

YEARS OF SERVICE.

	1905.	1904.
First Year,	11	3
Second Year,	2	8
Third Year,	3	3
Fourth Year,	2	6
Fifth Year,	3	2
Sixth Year,	2	1

Relative to ages, one's first impression is that the new Council is younger in years, but the aggregate ages according to the 1905 birthdays is 886 years, while the aggregate for the Council of 1304 was surprisingly close—885 yoars. The average age of both Councils is about 38 years, being below 38 at the beginning of the year and above 38 near the end of the year.

City Councils have had younger and older members than the body of 1905. James M. Flaherty at 23 is the youngest, and William T. Spargo is again the oldest.

AGES OF COUNCILMEN.

	1905.	1904.
Under 30 Years,	3	5
30 to 40 Years,	11	7
40 to 50 Years,	7	8
50 to 60 Years,	1	2
Over 60 Years,	1	1

The number of Councilmen born in Quincy will be the same in 1905 as in 1904, but only 6 out of 23. A majority in both years were born in Massachusetts, and only 3 of 1905 are foreign born, where in 1904 there were 4.

PLACES OF BIRTH.

	1905.	1904.
Born in Quincy,	6	6
In other Massachusetts Towns,	8	7
In other New England States,	5	4
Outside New England in U. S.,	1	2
Foreign Born,	3	4

Another summary will be of interest, showing the new Council to be more largely employed in Quincy:

PLACES OF EMPLOYMENT.

	1905.	1904.
In Quincy,	11	7
Quincy and Boston,	2	4
Outside Quincy,	10	12

The granite industry will be well represented in the new city government, with a manufacturer as Mayor, and a manufacturer, two cuttors and two polishers in the City Council. There will be three lawyers in the Council as last year.

FRED C. CHAMBERLIN

The new member from the Wollaston ward is a lawyer of well known repute, a good debater and should prove a valuable member of the Council of 1905. He was born in North Abington, 35 years ago. His early education he obtained in the public schools of his native town where he spent his earlier years. His subsequent education was at Phillips Exeter Academy, Harvard college and at the College de France, Paris.

His law work has been almost entirely of a commercial and investment character. For years he had charge of heavy interests in the South and West. For three years he was constantly in Washington as one of the counsel in a contest which involved over $100,000,000.

As a result of the acquaintances which were then formed among public men, he was unanimously endorsed by the entire Massachusetts delegation in both Houses of Congress for the position of Assistant Solicitor of the Treasury of the United States.

His training has been such that he ought to be an expert in all financial affairs that intimately concern our city. He has never held any political office, but is always an active campaigner.

In the national campaign that has just closed he spoke at a number of the more prominent rallies in this State, notably that at Fall River upon Oct. 4, at which he was one of the two speakers. The Republican State Committee considered this the most important meeting of the entire local campaign.

He has done much literary work, but probably is best known as the author of a book upon the Philippine question.

He promises to attend faithfully to the duties of councilman, as though receiving a fee for that service. In other words, he will make these duties a part of his business.

Councilman Chamberlin came to Wollaston about five years ago, his residence being at 33 Park street.

PETER HYNES.

Because of the active campaign conducted for Peter Hynes of Ward Two he became pretty well known throughout the city. Though nominated as a Democrat for the City Council, he says he has always been a Republican. Mr. Hynes is the first man connected with

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE.

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is donig wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality; causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

COSTLY FIGHTING

Japs Lost Twelve Thousand Men In Taking Rihlung

SIX DAYS' ENGAGEMENT

Besiegers' Balked by Moats and Sweeping Volleys--Perceptible Advance Against Line of Port Arthur's Strongest Defenses

London, Dec. 31.—It still is uncertain whether the entire group of the Rihlung forts has been taken or just the advanced fort. During a terrific bombardment from their siege guns and naval ordnance, the Japanese demolished the parapet of Rihlung fort and destroyed several portions of the cover. A portion of the centre wing of General Nogi's force then charged against the trenches on Rihlung mountain and occupied them, but a severe fire was immediately concentrated upon them, a mine was exploded and during the night the Russians undertook several counter attacks, while they worked energetically repairing the damage in the fort itself, placing a row of sandbags in the place of the banquette which had been destroyed.

A small force of 100 Russians assaulted the line extending toward Rihlung fort, but were repulsed, losing most of their men, and on the next day the Japanese succeeded in mining right up to the outer limit of the fort, a part of which was blown up. The converging fire of the other forts, however, proved too strong for the Japanese, and the regiment which advanced against East Rihlung was balked by a moat 45 feet deep and 50 feet wide, while the regiment assailing the fort on the west was checked before a moat 25 feet deep and 30 feet wide. While the troops were pausing they were swept by volleys from the loopholed parapets and were forced to retire for scaling ladders.

The strength of the Russian position was found unassailable, and the simultaneous attacks on the Keekwan forts also failing the Japanese relinquished the attempt after losing more than 2000 men in one day's fighting. There were many fights in underground passages, but the Japanese withdrew in order to continue the work of sinking shafts. This made slow progress owing to the nature of the ground, a combination of quartz and limestone. Altogether the Japanese were reported to have lost 12,000 killed and wounded in the six days' fighting.

The sapping against the Rihlung, Sunshu and East Keekwan mountains reached the base of the centre ditches on Nov. 25. When 203-Metre hill was captured on the west side of Port Arthur the principal attack was made on the outlying Keekwan forts, the North Keekwan fort and advance position being taken. By the capture of the Rihlung fort the Japanese have now made a perceptible advance against the line of Port Arthur's strongest defenses on the north and northeast.

Will Fight to a Finish

Tokio, Dec. 31.—The navy department published last night a letter written by a man on the battleship Sevastopol, which had fallen into the hands of the Japanese. The writer despairs of relief of the fortress and tells of the destruction wrought by Japanese shells. He says the Russians are resigned to their fate and are determined to fight to a finish rather than suffer the shame of surrender owing to starvation.

The Retirement of Kaznakoff

St. Petersburg, Dec. 31.—The rumors that Admiral Kaznakoff's retirement from the international commission of inquiry into the North sea incident is due to Captain Clado's ioquacity in Paris are denied. The foreign office says that the admiral's recall is due entirely to the condition of his health. The appointment of Vice Admiral Doubassoff to succeed Kaznakoff on the commission is regarded as certain.

British Officer on Jap Warship

San Francisco, Dec. 31.—Press correspondence from Honolulu says that word has been received there by relatives that Captain Glass of the British navy was aboard the Japanese battleship Hatsuse, when she was sunk some months ago, and was drowned. The presence of the British officer on the ship had not been made public before, but the news now is said to be official.

Decrease In Treasury Receipts

Washington, Dec. 31.—The treasury receipts for the calendar year 1904 were $540,000,000 and the expenditures (including the Panama payment) $562,000,000—a deficit for the year of $22,000,000. As compared with the previous calendar year, the receipts show a falling off of $8,000,000 and the expenditures an increase of $50,000,000.

Fishermen In Grip of Ice

St. Johns, Dec. 31.—Several American, Canadian and Newfoundland fishing vessels procuring cargoes of frozen herring in Bay of Islands are frozen fast in an ice floe there. It is hoped that a steamer will be able to cut them out, failing which they will have to remain there until next spring.

Bishop Blenk Expels Priests

San Juan, P. R., Dec. 31.—The Catholic priests of Paradise and Zuniga have been expelled from the church by Bishop Blenk and ordered to leave Porto Rico.

OFFERED $1000 EACH

Bribes Said to Have Been Tendered Four Boston Aldermen

Boston, Dec. 31.—In an address before a meeting of the central gas committee, an organization composed of citizens who are in favor of cheaper gas in this city, Alderman-elect Linehan charged that four members of the board of aldermen had been approached by parties interested and offered $1000 each to vote against a bill for establishing a municipal gas plant, which comes before the board today. Alderman Linehan said:

"At this very moment four members of the board of aldermen are in conference with a man who is offering them $1000 apiece for their votes against the municipal gas plant. Further than that, I can prove my statement, if necessary. If the order for a municipal gas plant is killed in the board the matter cannot come up again for two years."

Mr. Linehan would give the meeting nothing but his word in support of the statement. After the meeting had adjourned he reiterated his charges.

Another Lumber Fire at Providence

Providence, Dec. 31.—The fourth big lumber fire, apparently of incendiary origin, which has occurred during the past four months, broke out last night and occasioned the sounding of a general alarm, bringing out all the available apparatus in the city, and caused an estimates loss of $100,000, covered by insurance. A noteworthy circumstance of the fire was that the special watchman employed by the company since the series of similar fires in September was discharged on last Saturday night, the yard being left without this extra precaution against fire. A man was seen running from the scene a short time before the fire started.

Decisive Action by Strikers

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 31.—The five Textile unions, composed of operatives formerly employed at the cotton mills, all voted yesterday to continue the strike. The total vote was 1401 for continuance and 420 against. The weavers, who constitute the most important union, voted for continuance 817 to 150. The vote of the carders stood 218 for and 80 against. The spinners voted to continue the strike 162 to 84; the loomfixers 140 to 83, and the slashers 64 to 23.

Aged, Insane and Unknown

Boston, Dec. 31.—When the steamer Bay State arrived here from Portland an aged insane man was removed from the boat and given into the custody of the police. The man was violently insane during the trip. He told the police that his name is Augustus Brown, and that he is 81 years old, but he does not know where his home is. Last evening Brown was removed to the penal institutions hospital on Deer island, by order of the city authorities.

Jumped From Train Into River

Boston, Dec. 31.—John Malia of Portland, Me., thought he was returning to Portland last night, but boarded the wrong train. When he learned his mistake the train was crossing the Charles river bridge and Malia, not knowing that there was water beside the track, jumped from the car platform into the river. He was rescued by workmen nearby, and beyond experiencing a shock due to exposure suffered no injury.

Contract Cancelled by Death

Boston, Dec. 31.—On account of the death of John Dunfee, of the contracting firm of Charles H. Taylor & Co., the firm yesterday withdrew its bid of $800,000 for the construction of a dam and lock across the Charles River here. The contract has been awarded to the next lowest bidder, the Holbrook, Cabot and Rollins corporation of this city, which offered to construct the dam and lock for $801,607.

Held For Postoffice Robbery

Boston, Dec. 31.—Fred Renny of Springfield was brought here last night by federal officers. Renny was arrested in Stroudsburg, Pa. It is alleged that he is one of a band of four burglars who broke into the Hampden postoffice several months ago. Two of the other men are at present serving prison sentences, while the fourth member of the alleged band is awaiting trial.

Missing Man Found Drowned

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 31.—The body of George W. Nichols, 65 years old was found in the Charles river last night. Nichols conducted a jewelry business in Reading and had been missing since Nov. 4. The body had been in the water a long time, but there was no indication of foul play, as three watches and a small sum of money were found in the pockets.

New Industry For Amesbury

Amesbury, Mass., Dec. 31.—Foster Easterbrook & Co. of Belfast, Me., have completed arrangements for the removal of their factory from that city to this town. A factory building here has been secured and as soon as the machinery has been set up 250 employes will be put to work. The firm manufactures men's garments.

Infant Got Morphine Pills

Thomaston, Me., Dec. 31.—Arthur, the 20-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. John Kirkpatrick, swallowed several morphine pills and died from the effects. Mr. Kirkpatrick is ill and the pills were prescribed for him, the little one finding the box while at play.

Want Mrs Rogers Reprieved

Windsor, Vt., Dec. 31.—A petition is being circulated by several clergymen of the state asking Governor Bell to grant a reprieve to Mrs. Mary Rogers, condemned to be executed here Feb. 3 for the murder of her husband.

SYLVESTER EVENING.

How the Germans Celebrate the Conversion of Constantine.

The evening of Dec. 31 is known in Germany as Sylvester evening. In European calendars, excepting that of England, the days of the year have names, and Dec. 31 bears the name of Sylvester, who was bishop of Rome in the time of the Emperor Constantine and was obliged to hide himself in the mountains to escape persecution. Then it happened that Constantine was smitten with leprosy, for which horrible disease the physicians could propose no other remedy than a bath in the blood of young children. For this purpose 3,000 children were gathered, but Constantine, moved to pity by the despair of the mothers, refused to avail himself of such a sacrifice. In the night he was advised in a dream to recall Sylvester and to accept the Christian religion, which he did.

This evening is everywhere in Germany a time of great rejoicing. Parties and balls are given, and friends gather to spend the last hours of the old year in merriment—games and dancing and, most important of all, auguries and divinations. Though these tricks are as old as the hills, they never lose their charm. Hot lead is poured into cold water contained in a basin, and in solidifying it forms itself into all kinds of shapes and figures, in which many meanings can be read by the initiated.

Empty walnut shells, in each of which burns a tiny wax taper, are put together in a basin of water to swim in opposite directions. If they meet two loving hearts will be united in that year, but if they separate the love affair of those represented by the shells will come to naught. Young girls throw slippers over their heads. If the points of the slippers face the door the owners will be married that year; if the slippers miss the wished for direction the girls have to remain at home. Sealed cards on which words of good omen, of good advice or wishes have been written are passed around, read aloud and considered as indications of the future.—New York Tribune.

NEW YEAR'S BREAKFAST.

In Japan It Is a Religious Rite and a Serious Matter.

To a devout Japanese breakfast on New Year's day is a religious rite rather than a vulgar satisfaction of the appetite. No ordinary dishes are consumed at this meal. The tea must be made with water drawn from the well when the first ray of sun strikes it, a potpourri of materials specified by law forms the staple dish, while at the finish a measure of special sake from a red lacquer cup must be drained by whosoever desires happiness during the coming year.

In the room is placed an "elysian stand," or red lacquer tray, covered with evergreen leaves and bearing a rice dumpling, a lobster, oranges, persimmons, chestnuts, dried sardines and herring roe. All these dishes have a special signification. The names of some are homonymous with words of happy omen; the others have an allegorical meaning. The lobster's curved back and long claws typify life prolonged till the frame is bent and the beard is long; the sardines, which always swim in pairs, express conjugal bliss; the herring is symbolical of a fruitful progeny.

These dishes are not intended for consumption, although in most cases the appetite is fairly keen. The orthodox Japanese not only sees the old year out; he rises at 4 to welcome the newcomer and performs many ceremonies before he breaks his fast.—London Chronicle.

An Improved Diary.

"This," explained the bookseller, "is our latest patent diary. We think it is the cleverest thing in that line ever devised."

The shopper turns the leaves idly.

"But I can't see where it is different from any other," she observes.

"No? Well, if you will look at all the dates after Jan. 23 you will see that in each space has been printed, 'Got up, ate breakfast, lunch and dinner and went to bed.' That insures a complete diary for the year."—Judge.

New Year's In France.

New Year's in France is a greater day for exchanging gifts than Christmas. The custom of New Year's calls, once so popular in this country, but now fallen almost into disuse, is still supreme in Paris. Great family dinners, in which the orange figures most prominently, add to the gayety of the day. So crowded are the pavements on the boulevards that pedestrians sometimes have to take the middle of the street.

New Year's Day In Canada.

With the French-Canadian, New Year's day, or le jour de l'an, as he calls it, is very much like what Thanksgiving day is to his New England brother. It is par excellence the feast of the home, essentially a domestic holiday.

A Song For the New Year.

A song for the new year, its hopes and its fears,
And never a song that is saddened by tears;
A song that shall ring and shall sing to the years—
A song of a brighter tomorrow!

A song for the new year, forgetting the old,
Whose story in sunshine and shadow was told;
A song of the joys that love's dear arms shall hold—
A song of a brighter tomorrow!

A song of a green world and bluest of skies,
A song of a sun that in splendor shall rise;
The joy's in love's heart and the light's in love's eyes,
And the world sees a brighter tomorrow!

Choate, Porter, Conger and Clayton Are to Retire

SUCCESSORS PICKED OUT

Minister to China Will Serve Short Time In Mexico and Will Then Return to Run For Governor of Iowa

Washington, Dec. 31.—President Roosevelt is devoting some time to consideration of important appointments in the diplomatic and consular service of the government which are to be made formally by him at the beginning of the new administration next March. Secretary Hay had a conference with the president yesterday afternoon and it is understood that the matter of appointments in the diplomatic service was one of the subjects discussed.

It is known that the president has decided upon several changes. Joseph Choate, ambassador to the court of St. James, has indicated that he does not desire longer to continue as the representative of this government in Great Britain, and he expects, when relieved, to return to America to look after his personal interests here. He will be succeeded by Whitelaw Reid, proprietor of the New York Tribune, who was one time minister to France.

General Horace Porter, ambassador to France, will retire from that post soon after March 4. He was appointed by President McKinley and with the expiration of his present term will have served the United States at Paris eight years. The president has decided on Porter's successor, but at this time no announcement of his decision can be made.

Charlemagne Tower, ambassador to Germany, and Robert S. McCormick, ambassador to Russia, will continue at their respective posts. Strong influences have been brought to bear in behalf of both Tower and McCormick. In addition, their services have been satisfactory to the government.

Bellamy Storer, ambassador to Austria-Hungary, will continue as the American representative to the court of Vienna unless the president should decide to transfer him to another post in the diplomatic service.

As to the ambassadorship to Italy, nothing of a definite nature can be said now. It has been rumored that Ambassador Meyer is to succeed Porter at Paris, but it can be said that such a change is not certain. The probabilities are that Meyer will remain at Rome.

General Powell Clayton, having decided to relinquish his post as ambassador to Mexico at the end of the present administration, will be succeeded by Edwin H. Conger, now minister to China. It is not expected that Conger will continue long at the Mexican capital, as he is understood to intend to return to his home state of Iowa to be a candidate for governor in succession to Governor Cummins. When he leaves the city of Mexico he will be succeeded by David E. Thompson of Nebraska, at present minister to Brazil. Mr. Thompson accepted the appointment to Brazil with the understanding that he would be appointed to a higher place in the diplomatic service as soon as opportunity offered.

Minister Conger will be succeeded at the court of Pekin by W. W. Rockhill, at present director of the bureau of American republics, who is recognized as an authority on all subjects pertaining to China and the Chinese.

John K. Gowdy, who was appointed by President McKinley as American consul general at Paris, will be succeeded by Frank H. Mason, now consul general to Berlin. In succession to Mason, John L. Griffiths of Indianapolis will be named.

It is expected that some changes will be made in the corps of American ministers, but at this time they are not obtainable for publication.

Nothing Saved From Northeastern

Norfolk, Dec. 31.—Captain Lynch of the steamship Northeastern, which was wrecked Tuesday night on inner Diamond shoals and whose crew of 22 men was brought safely ashore through nine miles of rough sea by life savers, has given up his ship as a total loss. Everything belonging to the ship and crew is lost, including the ship's papers and log book.

Passenger Coach Overturned

Granby, Que., Dec. 31.—A Central Vermont mixed train was wrecked near here by the breaking of a truck on the last passenger coach. The coach was overturned and dragged several rods. Twenty passengers were injured, but the only serious case is that of a 7-year-old child, who has a fractured skull.

Part of London Flooded

London, Dec. 31.—Yesterday's gale resulted in an abnormally high tide on the eastern coast of England and in the Thames estuary, producing serious floods in the low lying parts of London, where hundreds of warehouses and residences were inundated and serious damage was done.

Decision Goes Against Parker

Albany, Dec. 31.—Alton B. Parker received an adverse decision in the first case he argued before the court of appeals since his retirement from the bench as chief judge. The litigation grew out of a transaction concerning real estate. The court dismissed the appeal with costs.

BANKERS ARRESTED

Alleged Falsification by Cashier, Aided by President

Cleveland, Dec. 31.—Cashier Lillie and President Traver of the First National bank of Conneaut were arrested at Conneaut upon a warrant charging a violation of the national banking laws, the specific charge in Lillie's case being the making of a false entry in the books of the bank, changing the sum of $233,605, to read $223,605. Traver is charged in the warrant with being an accomplice of the cashier in the alleged falsification.

The First National bank of Conneaut closed its doors nearly two weeks ago, after a run upon it the preceding day. The bank has a capital stock of $50,000. The cause of the run, the bankers said at the time, was that the report had gained currency that Mrs. Chadwick had succeeded in securing large loans from it. The bank officials deny holding any Chadwick papers.

Miraculous Escape From Death

Sandy Hill, N. Y., Dec. 31.—John Stockton, aged 19, a press feeder in a paper mill here, was cleaning a big pulp press when his hands were caught between a six-inch roll and the felt-covered bed. Before the machine was stopped his entire body, with the exception of his feet, had passed under the roll. Under normal conditions the space between the roll and the bed is scarcely more than a quarter of an inch, yet the physicians who examined Stockton found that not a single bone had been broken and they think that he will recover.

Old Judge Meets President

Washington, Dec. 31.—Senator Elkins presented to the president John J. Jackson, 80 years old, who presides over the United States district court for the northern district of West Virginia. He was a member of the old Virginia legislature in war times and delivered a notable speech in opposition to secession. President Lincoln sent for him, congratulated him on the stand he had taken for the union, and subsequently appointed him to the federal bench. This was 44 years ago.

Defended Himself With Pistol

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Four men were shot and slightly injured in a fight at Indiana Harbor by Frederick Kroner, an employe of the American Steel and Wire company. Kroner, who is an expert workman, has been of late doing extra work and his fellow-workmen demanded that he perform no more than the rest of them. He refused to do as they wished and last night some of them attacked Kroner, who drew a revolver and commenced to shoot.

Chinese Demand on Russia

Shanghai, Dec. 31.—The taotai has been instructed by the foreign board at Pekin to insist upon a reply from the Russian consul to his demand for the surrender of the sailor belonging to the Russian cruiser Askold who murdered a Chinaman here. Should the consul decline to comply with this demand, the Chinese authorities here say that henceforth China cannot undertake to protect Russians in Chinese harbors against actions of the Japanese.

The Singleton Palmer Safe

New York, Dec. 31.—The big, new five-masted schooner Singleton Palmer, which sailed from Boston for Newport News Dec. 6, and concerning whose safety much fear has been felt, is riding at anchor safe and apparently uninjured off the Maryland coast. This report is made by the captain of schooner John B. Coyle, which arrived here with a cargo of asphalt, after a regular winter passage up the coast.

Sailors Will Appreciate It

New York, Dec. 31.—Plans for the erection of the largest and most completely equipped sailors' home in the world, to be erected in this city, are being prepared for the American Seamen's Friend society. The society has on hand $750,000. The projectors of the undertaking expect to deal the obnoxious "crimping" system a death blow.

Empress' Life Endangered

Berlin, Dec. 31.—A reckless driver of a heavy truck came near running down the carriage of Empress Augusta Victoria last night. He drove toward the station at full speed, through the police line and directly toward the carriage of the empress. Officers barely succeeded in averting a collision. The driver vigorously resisted arrest.

A Descent Upon Gamblers

Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 31.—The entire police force of the city engaged in a general cleaning up last night and after repeated raids brought 59 men to police headquarters and four patrol wagonloads of gaming paraphernalia. Four places were visited and in each crowds were found. All were admitted to bail.

Battered by a Train

Canton, Me., Dec. 31.—Isaiah Lord, aged 81, was struck and instantly killed by a train while driving over the station crossing here. Lord evidently neither saw nor heard the train, and was struck squarely, his body being hurled nearly 100 feet. The horse was killed and the sleigh wrecked.

Lower Wages For Steel Workers

Chicago, Dec. 31.—The rail and steel mill employes of the Illinois Steel company have decided to accept lower wages and a 12-hour working day proposed by the company, to go into effect Jan. 1 in the plant at South Chicago.

A... New Year Proposal

"What resolutions have I vowed to keep the coming year?
Come, sit beside me, maiden fair, and straightway you shall hear.
I've pledged myself to choose one girl from out the throng so gay,
And love her with an honest love forever and for aye.

"I'VE MADE NO PLEDGE."

"I'll work for her with brain and brawn, with all my might and main
Until I've won her everything that honesty can gain.
I'll fill her life with all that's good till life itself is done—
And while we train our minds and hearts we'll not neglect the fun.

"Now tell me, won't you, maiden fair, what you have vowed to do,
For I've laid bare my inmost soul to no one but to you?"
"I've made no pledges," she replied in so demure a tone,
"But, if you don't object, I'll try to help you keep your own!"

—Wallace Dunbar Vincent in Leslie's Magazine.

Nothing to Keep Him Happy.

"Wish you a happy new year!" says the visitor, riding up to the home of the Kentucky mountaineer.

"Thanks fo' yo' kind wishes, suh, but hit looks almighty bad fo' me this comin' yeah."

"Now, I'm sorry to hear that. What seems to be the trouble?"

"Well, suh, 'long last spring me an' Lije Bingo happened to have a fallin' out ovah a couple o' hawgs, so we done had a time all sence then, shootin' at each otheh f'um time to time."

"Oh, I shouldn't be cast down over that. Even if you have a feud it can be ended. There's no reason why"—

"That's jest it, podneh; that's jest it. Lije fell offen the side o' the mountain yestiddy, an' now I've got no feud at all."—Judge.

New Year's Calls.

The custom of visiting and sending presents and cards on New Year's day is recorded almost as far back as history goes. The practice of using visiting cards can be traced back for thousands of years by the Chinese. Their New Year's visiting cards are curiosities. Each one sets forth not only the name, but all the titles, of its owner, and, as all Chinamen who have any social position at all have about a dozen, it makes the list quite appalling. These cards are made of silk or else of fine paper backed with silk and are so large that they have to be rolled up to be carried conveniently. They are, indeed, so valuable that they are returned to their owners.

A Polish Kissing Bee.

In Poland New Year's eve is observed in a dance called St. Sylvester's ball. The dancing proceeds decorously until the clock strikes 12. Exactly at that moment the men fall to kissing their own and their neighbor's partners, each taking particular pains to thus salute the one he loves best before the one with whom she chances to be dancing can perform that duty. Those not in the mood for dancing gather in another room or remain at home to entertain one another with stories about the departing year.

New Year's Day In Russia.

At every country house in Russia there are a feast and a procession in honor of New Year's day. Horses, sheep, cows and hogs are dressed with garlands and led to the landlord's house. The idea is that the animals shall be taken into the dining room, but when the landlord has a handsomely furnished apartment and does not care to have it ruined he sets aside some other room and allows the mob to take possession of it.

An Old English Custom.

The old country Englishman never fails to unbar his door at 12 o'clock New Year's eve to let the old year out and the new year in.

New Year's Violets.

I sighed to give you flowers bright,
Though vanished sweet the summer's glow.
The violets heard my longings deep,
Oh, way down 'neath the turf and snow.
They were not due till April fair,
Yet, in December's wilderness,
They felt the warmth of friendship's spring
And robed themselves in royal dress.

Reed—Chambers.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents in East Braintree, on Saturday evening last when Miss Eva Chambers was married to Clarence W. Reed of Brockton, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Reed, by Rev. William Hyde rector of Trinity church, Weymouth.

The groom is a well known and popular young man an employe of the W. L. Douglas factory. A wedding reception followed which was attended by friends from Brockton, Boston, Quincy, Arlington, Hingham, Weymouth and East Braintree.

The rooms were prettily trimmed in green and white. The couple were united under a bell of white carnations, the bride carrying a bunch of bride roses. Her wedding gown was white satin, trimmed with lace. The best man was Albert E. Reed a brother of the groom and the bridesmaid a sister of the bride, Miss Mae Chambers, dressed in light blue silk. There was a long list of pretty and useful presents received by the happy couple.

NorfolK Bar Dinner.

The eighteenth annual dinner of the Norfolk Bar was held Thursday evening at Hotel Brunswick, Boston, and those who attended, had not only the wherewithal to satisfy the wants of the inner man, but a flow of soul and a feast of reason as well. All the towns of the county were well represented, and there were several judges present. Judge Everett C. Bumpus and Clerk. John P. S. Churchill were among the speakers, Thomas E. Grover, of Canton also spoke. The other members from Quincy, who were prsent, were George W. Abele, George H. Brown, Judge Albert E. Avery, John D. MacKay, and William R. Thomas.

Doll House.

Mr. H. W. Borden carpenter and Charles A. Hobart painter, of Braintree have recently completed a doll house that is worthy of description.

The house is about two and one-half feet long and two feet wide, and is two stories high. Two miniature chimneys rise from the roof. The front is in two sections so as to allow its owner to get at the inside with perfect ease. A veranda runs across the front on which dolly can take her airing.

Upon opening the tiny front door you find yourself in a little square room neatly finished and upon investigation discouver a perfect little winding staircase with railing and posts complete. This takes you into a chamber the size of the room below. Opening a door in one corner you enter a room the counterpart of this one. When you return downstairs another tiny door opens and admits you to a little parlor.

It is painted green with white trimmings and contains eighteen glazed windows each with tiny panes of glass. The doors have knobs on either side.

This little house is now the property of the little daughter of Dr. Wales of Lowell street.

HEADACHES FROM COLDS.

Laxative Bromine Quinine removes the cause. To get the genuine call for the full name and look for signature of E. W. GROVE. 25c.

☞ Miss Spear's classes open the new year in the new home on Granite street. The rooms are especially designed for the work and are bright and sunny. Wednesday morning Miss Wainwright will receive the children in the kindergarten at nine o'clock. They have had a two weeks' recess since the Christmas tree festival held on Goffe street. Dr. Brackett has kindly allowed the continued use of the large drawing room for a gymnasium. It is heated, has a piano and makes an excellent gymnasium for young women. A class is held there on Tuesday evenings. All other classes are accommodated at 118 Granite street.

TWENTY-FOURTH

Annual Entertainment of Clan McGregor.

Grand March Led by Chief Clark.

Music for Scotch Reels, Etc., by a Piper.

Clan McGregor's twenty-fourth annual entertainment and dance was held in Quincy Music hall last night. The event was one of the most successful ever given by the clan.

The entertainment was signalized by talent of the highest order. Mr. John A. Robertson of Boston, a noted singer and story teller, led the program; his performance was vociferously received. Miss Beatrice R. Walker of Quincy, a reader of marked ability and charming personality, won favor by her excellent interpretation of "The Bashful Man," and other selections.

A most notable number on the program was Miss Mary C. Ogilvie of Boston, a soprano of wonderful sweetness and power. Her rendering of "Afton Water" and "The Auld Scotch Sangs" won her storms of applause. She was encored many times.

The Sherriff sisters, of Quincy Point, in conjunction with Helen Kennedy, of Pleasant street, in fancy character dances, meet with redoubled favor and ingratiated themslves more than ever into the hearts of their Quincy friends.

Chief Alexander Clark conducted the program in an efficient manner. He was supported on the platform by Royal Secretary Peter Kerr, and also by officers of Clan McDonald of Brockton, and officers of Clan McGregor.

Mrs. Thomas F. Milne, of Pleasant street, played the piano accompaniments. Thompson's orchestra was in attendance and furnished the music for the grand march and dancing.

The grand march was a magnificent feature, led by Chief Alexander Clark and Miss May. Floor Director Angus D. Martin led the second wing. The assistant floor director was Norman E. Ross and the aids: John M. Troupe, George Mavers, Newton MacLeod, Alexander Michael, Alexander M. Smith and William Pratt.

Piper Alexander Ellis played for the Scotch reels, etc. Dancing was kept up until 4 o'clock when a most brilliant gathering was brought to a close.

Chief Clark was ably assisted on the reception committee by Tanist Angus G. McDonnell and John M. Troupe.

The Magazines.

Real life is the keynote of the National Magazine and especially of the first number for 1905. It rings true to American experiences in all parts of our vast republic-empire, from the noisy jungles of New York City to the silent sandy spaces of Midway Island, our new cable station in mid-Pacific; from British Columbia to Porto Rico. Mr. Chapple's Washington letter carries a score of new and striking portraits of interesting men and women in public life. Two strong serial stories begin in this number and with several short stories well sustain the fiction standard of the National.

The author of "Dead Selves" is not forgotten by readers who like a novel that clings close to the drama of domestic life, and they will be rewarded for waiting for "The Thousandth Woman," which Miss Julia Magruder has contributed to the January number of Lippincott's Magazine. It is a tale of a household whose love has departed, but with the singular feature that the wife's cure is the tempting domestication of her rival in her own home. What happens, the reader will find his pleasure in unravelling; but he will be reassured to know that it all turns out right in the end.

A Convict's Revenge.

The Convict's Revenge will be the attraction at Hancock Hall this evening. New scenery is being painted and this company is said to be one of the strongest shows C. J. Gorman has. There will be many pleasing specialties as well as the great bioscope moving pictures. Seats now on sale at the Weeks-Hill pharmacy.

At the Pond Home.

Christmas was observed at the Pond Home for the Aged at Pondville, on Tuesday by a party which was enjoyed by twenty-five. There are now eight inmates all of whom received a gift from various friends in the county. Mrs. C. W. Guy represented Quincy.

SECRETARY MORTON

Contracts for Building Submarines at Cuincy.

A Washington dispatch to the Herald says:—"Two Holland submarine torpedo boats have been contracted for by Secretary Morton and at least two more will be contracted for within six months. The $750,000 appropriated by Congress for experiment in submarine warfare will be spent in the purchase of the most improved craft of this character.

The general characteristics of the new boats are kept secret, beyond the fact that they cost $200,000 and $250,000 and are 81 and 105 feet in length, respectively. The will be constructed by the Fore River Shipbuilding Company at Quincy, Mass. The president of this company, Francis T. Bowles, former chief constructor of the navy, has a five-year contract to build all the boats required by the Holland company."

"Cy." Young in Training.

Alexander Young—better known locally as "Cy", is as enthusiastic as ever in base ball matters. "Cy" will be in the game next season, and will be in condition to play the greatest game of his career.

In a letter to a former director of the Braintree Base ball club, "Cy" writes from Philadelphia as follows:

"I have been spending the Christmas holidays in the city of Brotherly Love, but will return to New York in a few days, and after a stay of about four weeks in that city will return to Boston in February and take light gynasium work as a preliminary training for next spring. I shall be glad to return home again after a prolonged absence, and relaxation from business cares and anxiety. I suppose that nothing has transpired in Braintree during my absence, of any great consequence. I have kept pretty well posted on the current events of the day by a careful perusal of the papers. New York is very much of a Cosmopolitan city but I prefer dear old Boston with her narrow and winding streets to all this hustle and confusion,

I suppose that about this time baseball prospects for 1905 are being discussed at full length in the cosy rooms of the club, on evenings when the inclemency of the weather forbids enthusiasts from promenading out of doors. Before long Governor-elect Douglas will be installed in the gubernatorial chair. It has been a great triumph for the Democracy, and especially for Brockton, that such a keen and level headed business man has been chosen to add more lustre and fame to old Massachusetts, whose long line of distinguished statesmen and orators has made famous the old Bay State. Wishing all my friends a happy New Year and with kind remembrances to Bailey and the rest of the boys, I am,

Very cordially yours,
(Signed) Alexander Young.

LOST HIS LEG.

Little Coaster Run Over by Stone Team.

Was Sliding Out of His Yard.

No Blame Attached to Driver of the Team.

Percy Lubarsky, the 7 year old son of David Lubarsky of 307 Water street, had his right leg cut off below the knee yesterday afternoon, by being run over by a stone team. The team was from the quarry of C. H. Hardwick & Co. It was drawn by four horses and had a load of granite weighing from 12 to 15 tons.

The little fellow was coasting down a mound in front of his home across Water street. He did not see the approaching team, and Dennis Connors the driver of the team did not see the coaster until to late to stop his horses.

The sled struck the rear wheel of the wagon, throwing the boy beneath the wheels which passed over his leg.

The little fellow was in terrible agony while waiting for the ambulance to take him to the hospital.

When the boy was placed on the operating table the surgeons found that the wheels of the wagon had practically severed the leg.

The shock to the boy was a serious one, and he is in a precarious condition.

The police investigated the accident, and found that Dennis Connors, the driver of the team, was using due care, and was in no way responsible for the accident.

THUMB AND FINGER

Blown Off by Explosion of a Dynamite Cap.

Michael Sheyne, aged 16 years, a son of Eugene Sheyne of 28 Barry street, had the thumb and fore finger of his right hand blown off, Thursday, by the premature explosion of a dynamite percussion cap. The cap was one of several that were taken from the contractor building the West Quincy boulevard. The caps, which are highly explosive, were kept in a nail keg. The contractor supposed that the caps had all be removed. They were not, however, and several fell into the hands of boys.

The Sheyne boy had one of them in his coat pocket with a snap match. He took these out in his hand, when the cap exploded, blowing off the thumb and fore finger.

Friday afternoon Inspector Bradley recovered the remaining caps. He found them in a tin box hid in a stone wall.

Repainting the Bath.

To repaint a bath begin by removing the old paint by filling the bath with boiling water in which a quantity of soda has been dissolved. Leave the bath for twelve hours, then empty it and scrub it well with a stiff brush and soft soap. If necessary, repeat the process. Then dry and afterward rub well with pumice stone till quite smooth. Before beginning to paint see that all traces of dust are removed. Now procure a tin of good bath enamel, stir it well so that it is of the right consistency and apply as many coats of it to the bath as are necessary. Put on the enamel very thinly and let each coat dry before the next is applied. When finished, leave the bath for ten days or more for the enamel to harden. The longer it is left to dry the better it will last.

Covering Schoolbooks.

Mothers are often called on to cover schoolbooks as a protection from little fingers not always above reproach. Paper, silesia or calico soon soils or wears out. Table oilcloth, or enamel cloth, as it is often called, wears well, does not show the dirt and whenever soiled can be cleansed with a wet cloth or sponge, coming out as good as new. This serviceable cloth comes not only in white, but in many pretty patterns in blue, brown, green, etc.

Women In Counting Rooms.

Women are coming to the front rapidly as bookkeepers and accountants. In 1890 over 28,000 filled these responsible positions in commercial houses of the United States, and in 1900 their number had increased to nearly 74,000, or over 160 per cent. The number of men in the same business in 1890 was 131,000, and in 1900 it was 180,000, an increase of only about 50 per cent.—Chicago Journal.

—If any of your friends are in serious dread of the disgrace of dying rich, lose no time in recommending Mrs. Chadwick of Cleveland, Ohio, to them.

CITY BREVITIES.

A Happy New Year.

It will be ex-Mayor Bryant after Monday noon.

Charlotte Perry of South street is seriously ill.

The additional letter carrier granted Quincy goes on duty tomorrow.

Watch meeting services will be held in some of the churches tonight.

Some of our stores are distributing some unusually pretty calendars this year.

The young men of the Merrymount club will hold a social dance tonight at Wollaston hall.

The Board of Assessors will meet Monday immediately after the inauguration for organization.

The indications are that there will be considerable building next spring, particularly in the Quincy Point district.

Mr. Woodward has resigned his position at the shipyard to accept one with the General Electric Light Co., at Lynn.

Mayor Bryant began yesterday to pack up his personal effects in his office at City Hall, preparatory to moving out.

If the saying that the last Friday in the month governs the following month it will be pretty good weather in January.

There is a movement on foot among the Quincy lawyers for an agreement to close their offices three evenings a week.

Rev. E. C. Butler was called to Woodstock, Vermont, the first of the week to attend the funeral of Mrs. F. N. Billings.

Howard Cook has resigned his position at the Fore River Ship and Engine Company and is to leave soon for California.

Julius Johnson has completed the foundations for two $4,000 houses on Upland road. The houses will be built in the early spring.

Dr. Manchester's lecture was postponed from Thursday evening to Tuesday evening of next week, Tickets sold will be good that evening.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ferris have just arrived in Quincy from Richmond, Virginia, and will make their home on River street, Quincy Point.

The monthly meeting of the Quincy Day Nursery association will be held on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 3d, at three o'clock in the Council chamber at City Hall.

William Walsh, president of the Street Railway employees union, is among those who have received invitations to the inauguration of Gov. Douglass.

Watch meeting services will be held tonight at the Swedish Lutheran church. The services will commence about 10 o'clock and continue until after midnight.

The Treasurer's office at City Hall is a busy place today. It is the last day of the month and the last day of the year and so far as possible every bill is being paid, and accounts closed.

How to Amuse the Children.

Some one wanted to know how to amuse little ones. Perhaps this may help. I have three, and some days I am at my wits' end to know how to amuse them. Rainy days are a source of regret among most children, and no wonder they get mischievous. I take some pieces of brown paper, such as comes from the store, and cut it into a convenient size and sew it in the middle, making a book. Then I give them each an old magazine and let them cut the pictures out and paste them in. I make a dish of flour paste, and they use toothpicks for brushes. I let them sit at the kitchen table, and this keeps them busy.—Boston Globe.

A Child's Meals.

A child's meal hours should be rigidly fixed and under no circumstances, save illness, ought food to be given at other times. The contrary practice will lead to capricious appetite, now absent, now voracious. During the second year of life there should be five meals each day. Commencing in the morning, the hours may be 7, 10, 1, 4 and 7.

Scrofula

It is commonly inherited.

Few are entirely free from it.

Pale, weak, puny children are afflicted with it in nine cases out of ten, and many adults suffer from it.

Common indications are bunches in the neck, abscesses, cutaneous eruptions, inflamed eyelids, sore ears, rickets, catarrh, wasting, and general debility.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

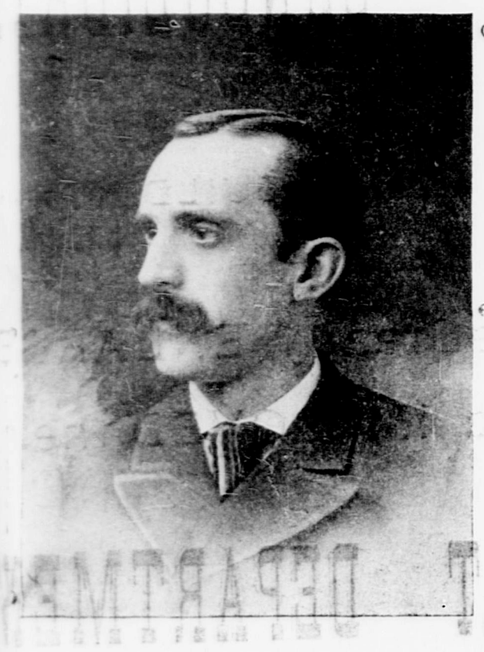
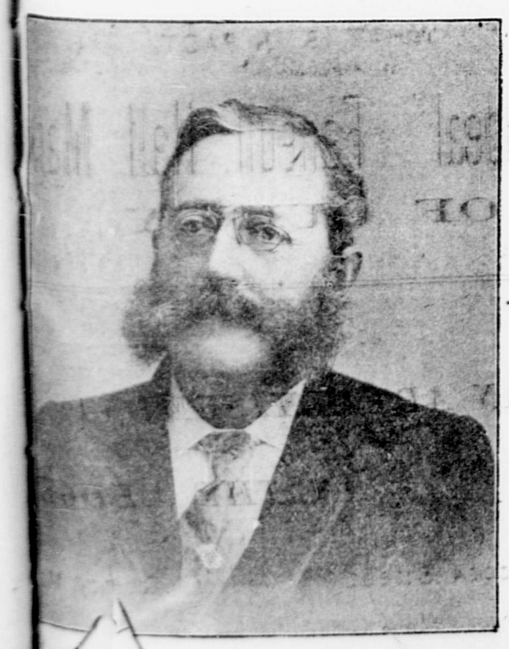
GEORGE F. SAWYER, JR.

One of the new members from Atlantic is George F. Sawyer, Jr., was born in Boston Sept. 9, 1875, but moved to Chelsea with his parents when but two years of age. He resided in Chelsea for twenty-one years receiving his education in the public schools of that city. He was married in 1899 and took up his residence in Braintree coming from that town to Quincy in 1901.

His business is that of a traveling salesman for J. F. Clark & Co. wholesale commission merchants of Boston



EX-MAYOR HENRY O. FAIRBANKS,
A Candidate for City Auditor.



MAYOR JOHN O. HALL,
...didate for City Auditor.

CHARLES H. BURGESS

The new member from Ward One, was born in Weymouth Sept. 1, 1865. He was educated in the public schools of that town and at Comer's Commercial college. After completing his education he entered the employ of C. F. Hovey in Boston, where he remained 23 years. In September, 1903, he opened a real estate office in Quincy. He has been a resident of the city since 1891. He is a member of the Quincy Yacht club and Granite City club. Mr. and Mrs. Burgess occupy an attractive residence on Whitney road.

COUNCILMAN STONE.

WILLIAM P. BARRY

The Republican member of the City Council of 1904 from West Quincy was born in Quincy, April 29, 1870. He was educated in the public schools of Quincy. He then served an apprenticeship as a granite cutter, at which business he has since been employed.

COUNCILMAN ADAMS.

WILLIAM M. CHASE.

Councilman-at-large from Ward Five was born at North Bridgewater (now Brockton) in 1856. At age of seven he went to the western part of the state and received a common school education in the Northampton public schools.

At the age of 14 he entered the employ of the Western Union Telegraph Company remaining with that company for several years as operator at Florence and Lowell, Mass., and as press report receiver at Montpelier and Burlington, Vermont.

In 1875 entered the railroad service at New Haven, Conn., where until 1897 he served successively as clerk, train dispatcher, local agent, dock master and division freight agent.

In 1896 he left the employ of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. to become the New England representative of the Central States Despatch, an organization of western railroads for the rapid and safe carriage of merchandise.

Mr. Chase came to Quincy from Medford in 1898, purchasing a home on Beach street, and now resides at the foot of Davis, street directly on the water front.

He is perhaps best known among the granite manufacturers with whom his business brings him in constant contact, and among the yachtsmen who believe it was principally through his interest and untiring efforts that the Wollaston Yacht club has risen to its present standing.

Mr. Chase says he does not expect to create any great commotion in the political frog pond of Quincy, but if faithful attendance and careful attention to duties will satisfy his constituents they may safely expect that of him.

COUNCILMAN BASS.

BARTHOLEMEW A. McLANE

The Democratic member of the new City Council from the Atlantic ward, was born in that part of the city known as Atlantic, Nov. 16, 1872. He received his education in the public schools of Quincy, being graduated from the Quincy High in the class of '88. He later entered the employ of the Tubular Rivet & Stud Co. where he has remained since, and is now in charge of one of the rooms.

Some few years ago he took up the study of elocution, and since that time has won an enviable reputation as a public reader. The City Council has need of good debaters and Councilman McLane's voice will doubtless be frequently heard at meetings of that body during the coming year. It was not until 1903 that he first aspired to political office; while he failed of election that year he ran 73 votes ahead of Wilson, the candidate for Mayor. This year he was more successful, running 117 votes ahead of Mr. Fallon, the Democratic candidate for Mayor, securing an election in a Republican ward.

He is at present and has been for several years, secretary of Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, and is also president of Division 17, A. O. H.

COUNCILMAN LOUD.

H. EVERETT CRANE

Who enters public life as a Councilman at-large, is well known and is looked upon as one of the city's rising young business men. He was born in Braintree, June 28, 1870. He obtained his early education in the public schools of his native town. He then entered the Kimbal Union academy in New Hampshire, and from there he entered the Massachusetts Agricultural college, graduating in the class of 1892. That same year he came to Quincy and entered the hay and grain business with his father and brother, under the firm name of F. H. Crane & Sons. Councilman Crane has his office at the grain elevator at South Quincy. At the time of his marriage he erected a pretty residence on Elm street.

COUNCILMAN NICHOLS.

JAMES M. FLAHERTY

One of the new members from West Quincy, will be one of the youngest members of the City Council of 1905. He was born in Rockport, June 14, 1882. He came to Quincy with his parents when two years of age and was educated in the public schools and at Comers Commercial college. He then entered the employ of E. H. Doble & Co., where his faithful services are appreciated.

NOTICE TO PARENTS.

City Clerk's Office, Dec. 30, 1904.

THE Record of Births in any city or town is always more or less unsatisfactory, owing to the fact that the canvasser finds difficulty in getting the necessary information. Names and dates are frequently given incorrectly. The importance of accuracy is shown in many cases where there is a question of descent, or inheritance of property, or collection of life insurance or pensions. The City Clerk's copy of the record is accepted as conclusive evidence in a court of law. While great pains are taken by his office to have the records correct, experience shows that it is necessary that parents themselves should lend their assistance. In fact, the law requires that parents shall give notice to the City Clerk of the birth of their children, and provides a penalty for neglect to give such notice for the space of 10 days.

It often happens that only children or servants are at home when the canvasser makes his call, and the answers to his questions are open to doubt. I therefore request all parents in whose household a birth has occurred in the year 1904, to place upon a paper or card the required information, and keep it in a convenient place until the canvasser appears.

The canvasser will begin on Jan. 2, 1905

Quality In Carpetings.

It's odd, but true nevertheless, that many people in buying carpets today think almost wholly about price and completely ignore the quality of the carpet being purchased. At this store our carpet department is stocked with up-to-date carpets that possess quality, durability and years of service. If you wish to buy real carpet comfort we have it here ready for immediate delivery. We are proud of our carpets, because we know they please our customers. We are proud of our prices, for low rents enable us to undersell Boston's largest stores.

WILLIAM F. SIDLINGER.

One of the new Councilmen from Ward Two is William Frank Sidelinger, who lives on Washington street near the Ward One boundary. For the past nine years he has been connected with the business house of the John W. Sanborn Company, opticians, Boston. He was born at Quincy Point, Feb. 12, 1869 and educated in the public schools of the city. His wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Drake and they have one son. Mr. Sidelinger is a member of Bethany Congregational church, holding the office of auditor. He is also president of the Bethany Brotherhood. It is his first public office.

COUNCILMAN SIDELINGER.

NEWMAN A. SAVAGE.

Who will be one of the representatives of the South Quincy ward in the new City Council, has been a resident of Quincy for 24 years. He was born in Thomaston, Me., March 9, 1854. At the age of 15 years he learned the trade of a granite cutter, at which he has since been employed. He is affiliated with the Odd Fellows, the order of Golden Star and Granite Cutters union.

COUNCILMAN POLK.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

A weak solution of alum or soda will revive the colors in a dusty carpet.

Lubricate a "noisy" hinge with glycerin instead of oil, and it will silence the squeak very effectively.

To remove stains made by candle grease place blotting paper over the spot and press with a hot iron.

To clean all kinds of lacquer ware first rub with fresh lemon juice, then with clean cloths till completely dry and polished.

The paper bags in which flour comes may be cleaned by dropping a damp towel inside and shaking it until all the flour adheres to it. The bags may be used for many things.

To remove iron stains on marble apply to them a mixture of oxalic acid and methylated spirits, leave it on a short time and then rub dry with a soft cloth. Lemon juice will sometimes remove the stains.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

The opening week of the New Year will bring to Keith's one of the strongest and most comprehensive lists of vaudeville entertainers that has been scheduled from that favorite amusement resort this season. The Four Mortons (Sam, Kitty, Paul and Clara) will make their final appearance prior to their debut in musical comedy. They need no introduction, as they are known as the cleverest quartet of comedians, dancers and singers at present appearing in the varieties. Some of the others on the long bill are Mary Dupont and company, in a new comedy sketch, "A Leap Year Leap;" Carter and Bluford, lively "real coon" singers and dancers; Jules and Ella Garrison, the noted burelesquers, in an entirely new vehicle, "An Ancient Roman," which will be given with special and appropriate scenery; Elmer Tenley, Irish dialect comedian and singer; Luigi Dell 'Oro, European novelty musician, this being his first appearance in America, and the Orpheus Comedy Four, one of the best organizations of comedians and vocalists in the business. The children will be especially entertained by Doherty's Poodles, a troupe of wonderful little dogs, and the latest comedy picture in the biograph, "The Chicken Thief," will be exhibited for the first times. It should be noted that the foregoing list of entertainers will not be seen elsewhere in Boston.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The strong drama "Saints and Sinners," by Henry Arthur Jones, is the attraction at the Castle Square Theatre next week. The plot deals with the experiences of the daughter of an aged minister who has been deceived by the flattery of a city man who becomes the successful rival of a worthy young farmer whom the daughter has promised to marry. The old minister loses his position from devotion to his daughter but, after many sufferings the parishioners of the minister recall him to his old church work and the young farmer returns from his voluntary exile and marries the object of his affection. "Saints and Sinners" will be played only a single week and the usual free distribution of souvenir boxes of chocolate bonbons will be made at the Monday matinee.

TREMONT THEATRE.

George Ade's brilliant comedy, "The County Chairman," continues to be the biggest hit of the season, and the Tremont Theatre is nightly filled with applauding audiences. This admirable transcript of life in the Middle West, with its portrayal of quaint characters, its homely philosophy and wit, represent the best efforts of Mr. Ade, who is beyond all preadventure the greatest living humorist. So many are the happy features in "The County Chairman," it is unnecessary to dilate upon them. There is romance, sentiment, and great big stirring spectacular features which never fail to please the eye as well as the ear. Every lover of comedy should not fail to see this excellent example of light comedy, portrayed as it is by one of the most capable organizations ever assembled in a play of this type. Concerning the principal actors of "The County Chairman," nothing but praise has been accorded them, and Maclyn Arbucle, Willis Sweatnam, Frances Ring, Grace Fisher and others divide honors in this brilliant ensemble.

IMPROVING THE HAIR.

How to Treat the Scalp to Produce the Best Results.

The first movement in massaging the scalp is "pinching the scalp." Take the scalp between the thumb and the four fingers, covering a comfortable space, then bring them together without letting them quite touch. The hair should never be pulled or dragged in doing this. The object of this pinching is to arouse activity in the pores and glands. It should not last more than ten minutes.

Another important one consists in tapping the scalp. This should be done with the ends of the four fingers, which should fall methodically, but not violently, all over the scalp for not more than five minutes. This movement should invigorate the scalp, bring the blood to the surface and promote circulation. After this should come the movement called "pressure." This pressure should be done with the palm of the hand lightly, moving from place to place for about ten minutes and always with a lingering movement, as though you wished to detach something. All this massage should be done without the aid of any grease or lotion.

THE REDINGOTE AGAIN.

The Separate Coat a Fad of the Season—Peacock a Smart Color.

The return of the old fashioned redingote is the sartorial novelty of the season for out of door wraps. The old lines are preserved in most instances, with a few modified touches. The new redingote fits close to the figure in the back and at the sides, and a full basque is sewed on where the waist terminates instead of over the hips.

Velvet redingotes are exceedingly smart worn with a cloth skirt that exactly matches. They usually have a fancy silk waistcoat of silk embroidered in elaborate sprays of flowers in shaded silks and wools or conventional designs of all descriptions.

The old superstition against peacock feathers is a thing of the past, and the evil omen which accompanied the plumage of the royal bird has had its day. Peacock blue cloth is being made into the most stunning costumes, and evening gowns of green and blue tulle are laid one over the other with charming effect.

The stunning redingote illustrated is carried out in fine black face cloth, with thrown back revers of white cloth stitched with black braid each side of a fine line of pale blue. The same trimming is repeated on the cuffs. The skirt is just a little train and bears a series of narrow raw edged folds, a particularly good touch on a toilet of this kind. JUDIC CHOLLET.

COLORADO FRAUDS

Supreme Court Orders Sweeping Investigation

GOVERNORSHIP IN DOUBT

Opening of Over Two Hundred Ballot Boxes In Denver and Examination of Votes Will Show Who Is Elected

Denver, Dec. 31.—The supreme court has ordered an investigation of the election frauds in this city so sweeping in its scope that every phase of the election will be scrutinized.

Alva Adams, Democratic candidate for governor, who appeared from the returns to have been elected, but who has declared that he does not want the office tainted with fraud, asked the court to open every Denver ballot box, but the order of the court goes beyond the mere examination of the ballots and provides for an investigation of the registration lists, the campaign expenditures and, in brief, all election matters.

Attorney Bedford for Adams, and Attorney Hersey for the Republicans, asked the court to make its order of such breadth that the court need not stop at anything in its investigation. The court said that was what it meant to do and instructed the lawyers to agree upon the wording of the order and present it to the court for approval next Tuesday.

As there are 204 ballot boxes, it is evident that several months will be consumed in the examination of their contents by the two handwriting experts to be appointed for this work.

F. A. Williams, chairman of the Republican committee, published the following statement: "Our investigation into the conduct of the recent election in Denver has developed the fact that approximately 20,000 fraudulent votes were cast or counted for Alva Adams in this city. There is now no reasonable doubt that Governor Peabody and the entire Republican state ticket was fairly elected on Nov. 8 by the votes of a large majority of the legal voters of this state."

What effect, if any, the court's action will have upon the course of the legislature in respect to canvassing the vote for governor and determining whether Peabody or Adams is entitled to the seat, has not become apparent. Chief Justice Gabbert particularly stated the court's investigation will not be permitted in any way to interfere with any investigation that may be set on foot by the general assembly.

Republicans as well as Democrats admit that the opening of all the Denver boxes complicates the political situation in Colorado, but believe that it means that there will be no serious trouble, as predicted.

Governor Peabody said: "When the highest tribunal in the state is through counting the votes in Denver, it will settle beyond question who is elected. I consider the decision of the court an eminently wise and just one."

It is reported that on the advice of influential Republicans the proposition to memorialize the United States senate to unseat Senator Teller will be abandoned.

The four members of the state canvassing board, other than Governor Peabody, last night issued a signed statement in which they deny that there is a conspiracy to seat Peabody and express a desire to see seated as governor the man who has been legally elected. The statement says:

"We desire to say that there is no conspiracy on the part of this board or any of its members to overthrow the will of the people or attempt to do so, but, on the contrary, we hold and advise that whoever the recount of the ballots under such rules as the supreme court may prescribe in the city and county of Denver shows to be elected, is entitled to the office of governor, and we believe that all good citizens will acquiesce in the result. Whoever may be seated as governor, we desire that the result may be accomplished by honest methods and that the will of the people may be supreme."

Count Cassini Honored

St. Petersburg, Dec. 31.—An exceedingly complimentary letter is officially published, addressed by Emperor Nicholas to Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador to Washington. The letter concludes with the emperor's thanks for Count Cassini's public service, especially in maintaining friendly relations with the United States, and confers upon him the order of Alexander Nevsky, with diamonds, one of the highest decorations of the Russian empire.

Bright Busines Prospects

New York, Dec. 31.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that holiday week brought customary quiet conditions in the business world. Annual reviews indicate that the year has made a much better showing than seemed possible at the outset and the amount of business on the books in the leading industries promises still further improvement in 1905.

Wife Got Best of Battle

Columbus, Ga., Dec. 31.—William H. Schley, a planter and late representative to the legislature, was shot at his home by his wife. He is said to have attacked her with a chair. Mrs. Schley is prostrated. Schley is one of the wealthiest men in the county. He may recover.

POISONED THE FAMILY

Vermont Woman Is Dead and Her Husband Critically Ill

Morrisville, Vt., Dec. 31.—Mrs. Newell Ellsworth is dead, her husband critically ill, and their 10-year-old son, George, seriously sick as the result, it is alleged, of eating food in which poison had been placed by the mother during a temporary fit of insanity.

The doctors learned that Mrs. Ellsworth had been in a weak mental condition for some time past. On the night of Dec. 14, shortly after the evening meal, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth and their son were taken violently ill. It was at first believed that the illness had been induced by insufficiently cooked food, but Dr. Bates, who was summoned to attend the cases, found that the family was suffering from poison which appeared to have been put in the food. His investigation yesterday proved to the satisfaction of both himself and Health Officer Rublee that Mrs. Ellsworth, while suffering from homicidal mania, mixed the poison with the food served for supper.

Young Ellsworth responded readily to the treatment administered, but the condition of his father and mother grew rapidly worse. Mrs. Ellsworth succumbed yesterday and Dr. Bates says the condition of Mr. Ellsworth is critical.

It is not probable that further official action will be taken by the authorities, the report submitted by Drs. Bates and Rublee showing satisfactorily that the woman was mentally irresponsible.

Insanity Plea In Chadwick Case

Cleveland, Dec. 31.—Bertillion measurements have been taken of Mrs. Chadwick by a government secret service expert. When Mme. Devere was arrested in Lucas county 15 years ago she was subjected to the measurements and those records are on file. The present measurements of Mrs. Chadwick will be compared with the Devere record. Several matters have developed in the Chadwick case that seem to indicate insanity as her almost certain line of defense.

Delaware Fight Patched Up

Dover, Del., Dec. 31.—The legislature last night, in extra session, after disputing nearly all day over a division of officers, effected an organization, passed the bill extending to Jan. 1, 1906, the time the new judgment lien law shall go into effect, also an appropriation bill covering the expense of the extra session, and then adjourned sine die. The Union (Addicks) Republicans conceded to the Regulars one-half the offices of the legislature.

Talbot Has Nothing to Say

Bethlehem, Pa. Dec. 31.—Bishop Talbot, against whom Rev. Ingram N. W. Irvine is about to make a presentment, is absent from the city. According to his friends, he is on a regular tour of visitations among the parishes of his diocese. To the few newspaper men who have been able to find him he has declined to answer any of the charges to be lodged against him or to enter into the controversy now going on

New Street Car Experiment

Cleveland, Dec. 31.—The Cleveland Electric Railway company will experiment in 3-cent fare for a distance of two miles from the centre of the city on the lines of that road. The 3-cent cars will run only the 3-cent fare distance. The regular 5-cent fare cars will go the regular distance. The experiment is the first of its kind in the country. No transfer will be given for a 3-cent fare.

Whipping Post For Wife Beaters

Washington, Dec. 31.—The local grand jury, in making its final report for the present term of the supreme court for the District of Columbia, recommended the establishment of the whipping post in the district. The president in his last annual message recommended corporal punishment for wife beaters in the District of Columbia.

Handicapped by Snowstorm

Newport, R. I., Dec. 31.—The speed trial of the protected cruiser Chattanooga was abandoned yesterday because of a snowstorm which prevailed, the marks on the shore being invisible from the measured course. President Dayton of the trial board hopes to start tomorrow on the 48-hour speed and endurance run.

Boston Schooner Abandoned

Genoa, Dec. 31.—Steamer Mongibello, from Galveston and Norfolk, had on board the crew of the American schooner Viator, Captain Wright, from Turks island for Baltimore, which was abandoned in a sinking condition on Dec. 21. The Viator hailed from Boston.

$150,000 Fire In Car Shops

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Fire last night completely destroyed the repair barns of the Chicago Union Traction company, entailing a loss of $150,000. The flames were confined to the carshops after a hard struggle.

WOMAN'S WORLD

MISS MARY E. ELLIOTT.

An Able and Active Official of the Woman's Relief Corps.

Miss Mary E. Elliott, a well known Massachusetts woman, has been department secretary of the Woman's Relief corps in Massachusetts for nearly twenty years. As this grand work develops and enlarges Miss Elliott proves equal to any emergency. She is a concise, correct and ready writer, and as chairman of the press committee her work for the national encampment has been as valuable as extensive. In all her activities Miss Elliott is tactfulness personified. Always ready to give any necessary information regarding the work of the order, her willingness has charmed all the newspaper folks whose duties have brought them within the sphere of her activities. Miss Elliott was the first president of the Somerville Woman's Relief corps. She is a member of the Somerville Historic society and also of Bunker Hill chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and the New England Historic and Genealogical society.—Boston Traveler.

MISS MARY E. ELLIOTT.

Different Ways of Resting.

"I hold, in theory, that every woman should lie down every afternoon and relax, taking an hour's interval of entire repose, not even thinking of anything that taxes her, and thus repairing the waste places of her life after a busy morning. This is my theory, firmly held and warmly recommended to you. Let me whisper, in strict confidence, that this is not a thing I ever do myself. To take a nap in the daytime would be for me one of the impossibilities, and the mere suggestion is enough to keep me wide awake. My preference," says Margaret E. Sangster in the Woman's Home Companion, "are a rocking chair and footstool and a bright story in the half hour after the midday meal. A neighbor of mine has always a white shawl on hand and knits when she wants to relax. I could not tell you how many white shawls this lady has made and given away, but she is so proficient in their manufacture that she knits like an automaton. This pastime is her sedative, and she would not forego it on any account."

The Hanging of Pictures.

In hanging pictures the guiding principle as to height is the level of the eye, but combined with that are equally important considerations of size, shape and color, in relation both to wall spaces and to each other. The inclination seems to be to hang pictures too high, giving an impression of being skied.

Too high, too far apart, poorly balanced and forming steps or gables are pitfalls to be avoided. When one's pictures are large and can be hung one in a place, with a thought only for the proper height and lighting, the problem is a comparatively simple one. The eye must rest directly upon it; it must not give the impression of weighing heavily upon the piece of furniture beneath, nor must it float off into space above. The shapes must harmonize with the shape of the piece of furniture beneath, as well as with the space. That the dark places must be lighted up with the light pictures and the dark photographs hang in the high lights can easily be seen.—Harper's Bazar.

The Woman In White.

Vagaries of taste, the errors of the color blind, are rendered nil by the choice of white or black. It was Mr. Gladstone who used to say that a woman, however old, always looked her best in white satin, and, though the Grand Old Man was the last one to be a judge of the chic, he had a great eye for the beautiful and a decided weakness for the fair sex. Ouida also maintains that women should wear white and has always gowned her heroines in white and gray velvets without regard to cost; but, then, Ouida is the most extravagant clotheshorse novelist of her day. Court ladies of St. Petersburg are said to buy white satin as other women buy white cotton, by the piece, and rarely appear in any other color or material at the dazzling functions of the czar's court. As a foundation for rare laces and magnificent jewels white satin has the pas. It is a fabric with royal associations.—Boston Herald.

Wrinkles and Lines.

The best way to have a smooth, unwrinkled skin is to keep the wrinkles out. Unpleasant wrinkles can be kept out of the face by avoiding those expressions which tend to make deep lines.

The woman who is the victim of the smelling salts bottle is said to wrinkle years before her time.

Frowning brings lines, as do all worry and fretting.

Going bareheaded in a burning sun brings wrinkles about the eyes and forehead. The eyes naturally try to protect themselves from the injustice done them.

And worse than some other wrinkle producing expressions is the rush expression which so many women of the present day are wearing daily. These wrinkles can be avoided by remembering that another day is coming and that a mad pace wastes time and never makes more minutes in the day.

Chintz Lined China Closets.

A collector of old and rare china originated a most attractive way of showing off her treasures. She had made for her dining room two quartered golden oak china closets of colonial design, with four shelves. She covered the walls of the closets and the shelves with glazed flowered chintz of rather showy pattern. She tried to pick out plates and other pieces of china with a flower design. China closets could also be lined with brocade or even denim, but the ones lined with pretty flowered chintz seem to be the most attractive. China shelves bordered with chintz and hung on the wall are also new and very effective.—New Idea Magazine.

Drying the Hair.

"I never have the least bit of trouble drying my hair after a shampoo," said a clever woman. "In the first place I finish the shampoo by dipping it in the hottest of water, into which I have previously dropped a little alcohol. You have no idea how much more quickly it dries after this kind of rinsing than when it is rinsed in cold water. Then I rub it well with alcohol and wring it out as dry as possible. After that I take two or three towels and wipe each strand, just as I would wipe any article of furniture. I sit in the sun and fan it for a few minutes and it is as dry as a bone."

Soap Jelly.

For lace or delicate bits of laundry work where soap cannot be directly rubbed on the piece you are washing soap jelly is the most satisfactory way of getting them properly soaped.

Take all the odd bits of soap you have, cover them with water and stand back of the range, heating and adding, little by little, more water, until the whole cooks into a jelly. Cover the piece to be washed with this and let it stand awhile before rubbing. It will loosen the dirt and make the actual cleaning easy.

Substitute For Castor Oil.

Castor oil and other drugs should be taken as seldom as possible, and generally both children and adults will find an excellent substitute for them in figs stewed in olive oil. Take a quarter or half a pound of figs and stew them slowly in olive oil in a double boiler. When the figs are done add honey and lemon juice to taste. When cold they are ready for use. One fig or more may be taken, according to requirements.

Oiled Floors.

Half a gallon of boiled linseed oil heated in an old iron saucepan until almost at the boiling point when applied to an oiled hardwood floor with a clean brush will prove to be an excellent cleanser. Three coats should be put on the first time and then one coat every six months to keep the floor in good condition. Such a floor is excellent in a kitchen, as it only requires wiping with a damp cloth once a week.

Kitchen Comforts.

There should be comfortable chairs in the kitchen, a table with drawers—a settle table, which may be so adjusted as to provide an ironing table or a comfortable seat, and the box seat may be used as a receptacle for kitchen lore, magazines of domestic science. There should also be a good clock, a calendar, a slate for memoranda and a thermometer.

Crow's Feet.

Massaging the corners of the eyes will remove crow's feet. Use a good cream and work by putting the middle and first finger beside the corner of the eye; then separate the fingers, which will smooth the wrinkles out. Make each motion smooth the wrinkles. No stroke must go with them, all being against.

Make Your Own Lard.

A fastidious housewife will always make her own lard. The best is from what is called the leaf of small pigs. It should be cut into pieces so small that it melts quickly. Draw the fat out over a slow fire and in a clean saucepan. Drain as it melts and put away in earthen jars.

In France the woman bank clerk has come to stay. The Credit Lyonnais was, a French correspondent points out, the first bank to employ women. There are now in that great institution 1,000 women clerks.

Turkish towels may be cut into squares and finished round the edge with buttonhole stitch in bright colored cotton, the result being cheap but useful mats for the washstand.

Sunlight and air are the very best sanitary agents; therefore they should be freely invited to enter every room of the house.

Before disinfecting make the room as nearly air tight as possible and don't disinfect books; burn them.

Shooting In the New Year

RACING, whirling, nerve wrecking as has become the recognized spirit of our times, yet in the remote districts lingers a serenity so unshaken we can but marvel over the dual nature of this thing we call American. Customs of the fatherland have become so grafted upon the newer land one feels the richness of the past ever mellowing the crudeness of the present.

One of the most lovable of these old customs, redolent with the air of feudalism, is that of shooting in the new year. We first hear of it among the early German settlers of Pennsylvania, where it has long since become obsolete, but about 1750 there was a general migration from Pennsylvania down to the hill country of the Carolinas. In rumbly old wagons these pioneers journeyed, laden with feather beds and delftware, sprigs of fruit trees and sturdy babies.

As the life history is but a repetition of the race history, there came with their first strange new year a burst of heimweh. Getting themselves together, they celebrated as best they could in memory of older days, and not once through all the years that have followed have these greetings been omitted.

Then tenantry and poorer people of the neighborhood gather at some appointed place about 9 o'clock in the evening, and the march begins. From one "big house" to another they tramp, dolorously intoning their doggerel, firing fierce salutes and feasting at the hands of the gentry.

Though North Carolina could never boast as many stately mansions as could some of her sister states, yet for homely comfort and lavish old time hospitality she has never been surpassed. Each of the dear old places has its own name, still lingering there—Swan Ponds, Pleasant Gardens, Mount Welcome, Ingleside. The sentiment of all was voiced on one stone gatepost, which proudly bore the inscription:

Welcome all
To Buncombe Hall.

Tradition tells us that the owner of this estate, Colonel Buncombe (of course he was a colonel), lived in the "low" country, and when he was entertaining guests whom he particularly enjoyed he had the bridge, the only means of escape, taken up and hidden in the swamps. Most of these jovial hosts are sleeping now, each in his narrow bed forever laid, but the new year has a way of returning, and the shooters return with it.

On the last night of the year, as you sit over the hickory fire, there comes a tramping in the front yard, and a deep voice outside begins the so called New Year's sermon with a forcing of the rhyme worthy of Walt Whitman.

A loud report being the thing desired, heavy wads are put on the powder and the gun muzzle held close to the ground. After the shooting comes the hint:

If you are a man of grace,
Come to the door and show your face.

The door is then thrown wide, and the company enter, awkward, grinning and shivering with cold. Some of them have come from a distance of eight or ten miles, as the country is sparsely settled, and must necessarily be tired, but they consider it more deferential to stand, or if one is finally persuaded to take a chair he sits on the edge uneasily.

The ruddy, Santa Claus-like old men exchange laconic remarks on the price of cotton; the youngsters refer to the possum hunt of the previous night. Some one goes to the piano and strums away in a frantic attempt to furnish amusement. They are stolid until she strikes up "Dixie." The effect is magical. The callers mark time with muddy boots and remark slyly:

"That's the stuff!"

Apples and oranges, cakes and coffee, are now brought out. At some places the black bottle is passed around. Then the shooters with a relieved sigh pile out of the door. The society manner is a fearful strain.—New York Post.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

The days will increase fifty minutes between sunrise and sunset during January.

A bouncing boy entered the family of Mr. and Mrs. John Kingdon of 84 Granite street on Wednesday.

The young people at the Point are enjoying the skating on the meadow off South street.

Several Quincy people took their first trip through the East Boston tunnel Thursday night.

There will be a meeting of the Fragment society in the Unitarian chapel next Wednesday afternoon at 2 oclock.

The officers elect of Wollaston lodge of Masons will be installed on Tuesday evening. The new master is H. G. Fay, the City Treasurer.

It is quite the fad now to dine at some hotel on holidays and Sundays and The Greenleaf always awake to the needs of the city announce a New Year's dinner for tomorrow.

Shop meetings under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. are being held every Thursday noon in the machine shop at the Fore River works. The meetings thus far have been attended by upwards of 200 workmen and are full of interest.

Mr. David Bill, for many years a resident at the Point, passed away on Thursday at his home on North street. He was in his eightieth year and of late had been in failing health. Much sympathy is expressed for the widow, sons and daughters.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Social Realm.

This day is yours; your work is yours;
The odds are not who pays your hire.
The thing accomplished—that endures,
If it be what the days require.
He who takes up his daily round,
As one new armored for the fray,
Tomorrow steps on solid ground.
Make this a day.
